Q What did you think would happen to the Jews? known, that Security Police tasks would be carried out ruthlessly against Communist functionaries, and he said on that occasion that it was expressed in this Fuehrer Order that Jews were to be considered the bearers of Bolshevism. Therefore, at the time when I heard this, I tried to distanciate myself, but I never realized the consequences of this order, in particular as it was said at the time that this was done for the sake of security of the troop. information of Blobel's, that there was a ruthless - they were to take ruthless measures against the Communists and that the Jews were to be considered the bearers of Communism. You must have understood something by that. What did you think would happen on the basis of this order? particular. At the moment I realized the ruthlessness and the unambiguousness not fully, although it struck me. I had received the information in Schmiedeberg that it would be a war assignment, that is a military assignment, and police tasks were also mentioned here.

Q I do not think that you answered my question. I asked you, what did you presume would happen now on the basis of these orders to the people named? In this order to the Jews and to the Communists; did you think that they were to be arrested or did you think that they were to be killed, or did you think that they were to be left alone, or what did you think?

Somebody gives me such an order, which certainly is an unusual one. I must have some impression what the order means. That is my question, what did you think was to happen to these people? but I fully realized that when the expression "ruthless" was used, that they would not treat them sparingly; they would arrest them all, but not eliminate them. At the time I did not quite realize its full extent. Blobel what this order means, as you objected against the order and did not want to have anything to do with it? Before I can object to something, I must know what I am objecting to. Why didn't you ask Blobel what it is all about?

A I don't know Mr. Prosecutor, I don't want to give you a reply now which I might have constructed. All I know is that I did not want to have anything to do with police tasks, because I saw before myself an activity which merely contained the seizing of these elements and I did not like this kind of work. in which Hitler provided for the killing of all Jews, Communists, gypsies, and undesirables?

Q When did you learn first about this order? Lublin to Lutsk.

Q And when was that?

it was never said that "all" Jews were concerned. It merely said "Jews". At the time I did not know that possibly women and children might be included.

Q Who told, you about this order? who said that Jeckeln, who also lived in the Army billet, that he had expressed this.

Q And when you heard the expression "the Jews" you did not know that they were all Jews?

Q Isn't that clear if somebody says "the Jews", without making any differentiation, that it must mean all Jews? If somebody says, "the Jews are to be killed," what does that mean? Does it mean that only a part of the Jews are to be killed, or all Jews are to be killed?

A Mr. Prosecutor, at the time I did not think of that. It did not occur to me that all Jews would include women and children. were to be shot, is that correct? would only concern the men.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, it isn't clear now whether he did or did not protest to Blobel. We were of the impression yesterday he said he did protest to Blobel. Now, I don't know.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I just wanted to -

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Q (By Mr. Horlick-Hochwald) What did you tell to Blobel in Sokal after he had announced this order about the ruthless measures against the Communists and Jews, what did you tell him? do with these tasks.

Q Why did you want to evade this task?

of people, no matter what people they were, because I did not want to have anything to do with the police tasks connected with it - because it said ruthless Security Police procedure would be required.

Q But you wanted to stay in the East; you did not want to be released from your assignment with the Sonderkommando?

A Mr. Prosecutor, at that moment I did not yet realize this and only did ten days later.

Q Let's go a little further. You have told us that in July, in Lutsk, you learned that all male Jews were to be killed, When did you learn that all Jews, male, female and children, were to be killed?

A I did not hear that. I realized this in practice.

Q When did you realize this?

Q At what time was that, Witness? of October, 1941. at that time approximately forty to fifty thousand people already had been killed, to find out that also women and children were killed by this unit in which you were one of the highest ranking officers, is that what you want the tribunal to believe?

A Well, I cannot say anything else, Mr. Prosecutor. It was like that. chief interpreter of Sonderkommando 4a. Do you remember having made a statement in your affidavit to the effect that you were actually chief interpreter of Sonderkommando 4a? I am referring to Document Book III-C, -Page 20.

This is NO-4438, Prosecution's Exhibit 132, That is the last sentence of the first paragraph, your Honors. "I held the position of chief interpreter with the task of screening documents which were seized during the activities in individual towns and compiling those documents in cooperation with the counter-intelligence, for evaluation in Berlin." Is that your statement, Mr. Radetzky?

A Yes. May I say something about this? my direct examination, at the suggestion of my defense counsel I talked about this question, and I said that I don't want to talk about it at all because I consider it of no importance. This is not an expression by me, but this expression originated in an interrogation which CIC carried out. They said "Who was the senior interpreter, or the interpreter who held the highest rank?" and we could not quite find a title which would be the simplest to express this, because I repeatedly had difficulties in explaining my rank, and, therefore, the expression, chief interpreter, was started then, and, therefore, it was put into this affidavit. I even believe, but I am not certain, that Mr. Wartenberg first brought up this expression again, perhaps based on a former interrogation. Wartenberg on this subject? chief interpreter?

A It is possible. I do not remember the entire interrogation. In the same sentence it is said that you worked in cooperation with the counter-intelligence. Was that correct? of your reports and of your tasks by saying, and I quote, "There were questions of economical nature, cultural matters, education, theater, religion, etc." Will you tell the Tribunal in what the counter-intelligence would have to collaborate with you on these things? on those subjects. counter-intelligence collaborated with you? with the counter-intelligence because they were looking for their military documents, and I chose those documents which interested me, and I thought of Lutsk in particular here, where we looked through the material together and the counter-intelligence took that part of the documents important for them. existed. Will you tell the Tribunal what your actual collaboration with the counter-intelligence was, was it in the way that you have been carrying out interrogations and investigations for the counter-intelligence, wasn't that your task?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, that was not my task.

Q So you have only been looking into the theaters. Can you tell the Tribunal how many theaters there were at that time in the area where you were active?

A Mr. Prosecutor, may I come back to the document? It says here, to screen the documents and in collaboration with the counter-intelligence to make reports for Berlin. there was no collaboration. In your affidavit you state there was a collaboration. I have been trying to find out how you reconcile your statement on direct examination with your statement in the affidavit, and I have quoted your statement in direct examination where you say that you were that your tasks were only cultural matters, theaters, religion, etc., and I asked you, and I ask you again - possibly you can give an information now - how was this collaboration with the counter-intelligence carried out in these matters? kind of cooperation existed there with the counter-intelligence, and I said no to that question. Concerning the screening of documents I did cooperate with the counter-intelligence in the sense as expressed in the affidavit.

intelligence? than the evaluation of these documents existed between the Abwehr and you? the screening of documents was done by us together, that is, each one took what interested him, that was the collaboration with the counter-intelligence. was no collaboration, that everyone took his part, you did not collaborate, is that correct? one room one takes the documents, from one file cabinet, and the other takes the documents from the other file cabinet, one does not know what the other does, but they are only collaborating for the simple reason that they are in the same room, is that what you want the Tribunal to believe?

A No, just the opposite. Everybody seizes documents and everybody puts them at the disposal of the other, that is, if they had documents which might interest me, they gave them to me, and if I had documents which interested them, I gave them to the counterintelligence; the military documents went to the counter-intelligence.

Q Witness, isn't it patently clear that if these documents were of interest to the counter-intelligence, you had to evaluate them first? August you changed jobs, you ceased to be an interpreter and became a liaison officer to the army, is that right?

interpreter--highest ranking interpreter, and carried out only the liaison job?

A No. I continued to make reports.

Q You stayed an interpreter then, did you not?

Q You were in charge of Office 3?

Q Who was leader in 3? and for the commando the responsible man was Hauptsturmfuehrer Kalson. Kalson himself hardly worked on this because he in practice did not have time.

Q How many interpreters were with Sonderkommando 4A? in time there were 10 to 12. Those were interpreters which had been gotten in the country.

Q But how many were there who were German officers? third interpreter who was not an officer but had the rank of an NCO.

Q What was the rank of Mueller?

Q And you?

Q You were the higher officer, weren't you? time when you were iwth this commando?

A I cannot answer that, Mr. Prosecutor, because I don't know all about it.

Q You should have. Witness, you have told the Tribunal yesterday that when you were liaison officer with AOK 6 from August 1941 on you reported these executions to the army authorities, therefore, you should know how many executions were carried out.

A I don't think so. Mr. Prosecutor, that I said that.

Q I do think that you are mistaken. I do think that when the Tribunal questioned you, you admitted that you had reported killings to the army authorities. You even have said that in your economical reports you deplored these things, don't you remember?

A Yes, I do remember that, Mr. Prosecutor, but I did not mean executions. What I was trying to refer to, as I said yesterday, was the economic potential because in my opinion this was the only form at all to discuss that question. were carried out by Sonderkommando 4A when you were with this commando.

A Mr. Prosecutor, I answered to you to that question. I said I don't know because I cannot overlook this.

Q Do you have an approximate estimate?

Q You were liaison officer with the army, were you not? were carried out by Sonderkommando 4A were ordered by AOK 6 or respectively by the chief of AOK 6, Field Marshal Reichenau. Did you hand down these orders for executions to Sonderkommando 4A, Witness?

A No. I said so already during the direct examination. The department to which I was attached did not have any such orders massed through them. I also said that Blobel personally often negotiated with Reichenau and I also said that in my opinion, not the army, what I mean to say is that it was not the operational department, which looked after the carrying out of these operations, but there were the army commanders in the various territories, that is, the division commanders who induced this or caused this because the sub commander on his own could not carry out or cause an collective measure to be carried out.

He was not able to do this. in connection with orders issued by the army, and you have never seen reports about it-is that correct, is that what you want the Tribunal to believe?

A I cannot say that, I never saw report?. I can only say that it was not my task, it was not customary to inform the army through these channels about executions which had been carried out or to receive orders for executions through these channels. reach the Einsatzgruppe directly, that the reports from the subcommandos of 4A and from 4A itself went through the liaison officer to the army headquarters and to the Einsatzgruppe C. You were the liaison officer, were you not?

A Yes. I was liaison officer. It is possible that mail from the subcommandos passed through, I recall top secret matters or secret commando matters which passed through in that manner, but these were not informations meant for me, this was information which was sent to these officers, but utilizing these channels.

Q How many reports did you receive here, Herr Radetzky?

A I cannot say. I cannot recall. can remember from these reports?

Q You refuse to answer?

A No. but I may be mistaken, and I do not want to give a false reply.

Q You have no estimate? were were so much a matter of course for you in 1941 and 1942 that you have no recollection about them?

Is that right?

A No Mr. Prosecutor, on the contrary, they were not a matter of course at all, and I think I explained this during my direct examination, what my attitude was. If you were so much distressed about the things, you certainly must have a very good memory about these facts. commandos to the army authorities? and sometimes from the subcommandos.

Q You had nothing to do with that? I believe only in one case.

Q.- In all the time you were with the liaison with the army, you gave only one report to the army authorities, is that what you want the Tribunal to believe?

A.- No, Mr. Prosecutor, Please differentiate here between what I said yesterday, the so-called situation report. The situation report was made in the commando and did not contain any details.

Q.- I asked the defendant Blobel several times whether the subcommandos and Sonderkommando 4A reported about executions to the army authorities, and he answered by saying, "Of course," This is on page 1692 of the record, Your Honor, Will you tell the Tribunal that you, having been the liaison officer to the same army have not seen these reports about the executions?

A.- No, Mr. Prosecutor, I did not see them because they were sent through different channels. If the subcommando was attached to some division at the front, they handed these matters immediately to the division of the army and not through me.

Q.- So the only activity you had as liaison officer was to get fuel and other supplies, of course, with the exception of ammunition, for Sonderkommando 4A, is that correct?

A.- No, That was not the only activity, but there were a number of other activities which I mentioned yesterday already, among them the handing on of reports on the military situation and also the reporting, Q.- Why were you not active as a commander of a subcommando or advance commando?

A.- Because that was not my task.

Q.- Why not?

A.- Because I did not have the required qualification.

Q.- What kind of military training did you have?

A.- Military training was done in the Latvian army where I was released as a NCO.

Q.- Did you learn there higher strategy?

A.- No.

Q.- Will you tell then the Tribunal how it was possible for you, without any military preparation, to be a liaison officer to the army -you were not fit for both services, you were not fit for the police service, you were not fit for liaison service?

A.- Mr. Prosecutor, in order to act as a liaison officer one did not need much military knowledge. I would like to say one had to find one's way about.

Q.- You have said that you had to contact the G-2 for the situation map in order to make your situation reports. You have stressed the point here again that you had to make situation reports, for this there was a certain knowledge necessary, was it not?

A.- Yes.

Q.- Coming back to the reports, did you learn how many people were killed in Kiev?

A.- Yes. I learned about this. At the time reports were issued and sent out where the figure named here was mentioned. It was doubted at the time or questioned. I heard more about this later on, why it was questioned.

Q.- Will you be a little more specific, did you see the army report on this number, or did you see the report of Einsatzgruppe C on this number on this 33,000?

A.- The report from Einsatzgruppe C, I saw here in the reports of events; the report from Einsatzgruppe C sent to Berlin, I did not see. In Kiev I saw a report dictatec by Blobel. As far as I know, it was sent to the Einsatzgruppe and also to army agencies.

Q.- And how is it that you did just see this one report and all other reports you do not remember and did not see?

A.- Mr. Prosecutor, in that time when I was in Kiev I had been taken out of my work as liaison officer in order to go to Kiev, in order to seize documents and then to go back to the army.

I explained yesterday what I did in Kiev and how long this took me.

Q.- Were you at the 29th and 30th of September 1941 in Kiev?

A.- I cannot say that exactly.

Q.- How many executions either in Kiev or somewhere else did you witness?

A.- Mr. Prosecutor, I never witnessed any executions.

Q.- Never?

A.- No.

Q.- Mr. Radetzky, there is overwhelming evidence that 60,000 people were killed in a very short time by Sonderkommando 4A, by a commando which has all in all seven officers. The second highest ranking officer was you, and you have never witnessed one of these executions, is that what you want to tell the Tribunal?

A.- Mr. Prosecutor, may I mention here that I wasn't the second highest officer, but according to ranks there was a higher ranking officer than myself apart from the commander, and as far as police or as far as position in the police or the civil service is concerned, several officers were superior to me.

Q.- There was, with the exception of Blobel, nobody in the commando with a higher rank than you?

A.- Well, the senior officer in the commandos was a Hauptsturmfuehrer Kelson.

Q.- What was your rank?

A.- My rank was also Hauptsturmfuehrer.

Q.- Yes. So, will you go back now to my original question, how do you explain to the Tribunal that in spite of the fact that in a few months approximately 60,000 people were killed by a unit which was quite small, possibly not as small as Mr. Blobel now wants us to believe, but quite small, only seven officers. How can you explain to the Tribunal that you have never witnessed one of these executions?

A.- Mr. Prosecutor, already yesterday I expressed that I tried again and again to be released or rather to keep away from that work and I had no reason to try and do this.

Q.- Did you never act as an interpreter when the victims were read the sentence before execution?

A.- No.

Q.- Did you ever supervise other interpreters, for instance, the Ukranian interpreters, the indigenous personnel which you hired in Russia itself?

A.- Supervised - No. Originally I had been given this mission, but Q.- No, I was now speaking now about executions you never looked into the matter how these Ukrainians acted before or during an execution in order to supervise these interpreters?

A.- No.

Q.- The defendant, Blobel has testified here at great length, and you certainly will remember that all people who were killed by Sonderkommando 4A were duly interrogated, the case was investigated, and when they were found guilty of a crime against the German forces, were legally condemned and executed, Who carried out the interrogations of these people?

A.- The interrogators who were officials from the army.

Q.- Did they speak Russian and Ukranian?

A.- No. We had interpreters at our disposal;

Q.- And you never acted in this capacity?

A.- No, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q.- There were only two German officers, interrogators in this unit. If the testimony of Blobel is to be believed, they must have carried out approximately 150,000 or 200,000 interrogations during 6 months, and you want to tell the Tribunal that you never had anything to do with this ac tivity, is that correct?

A.- Mr. Prosecutor, I described to you what kind of tasks I had and it wasn't my task to interpret during interrogations.

Q.- So you don't know anything about the activities of the interpreters with the Sonderkommando 4A, that was not your task?

A.- No. I only know that the other interpreters were always present during interrogations. They were interpreters who had been recruited during the advance.

Q.- About the Jewish question, you have testified that everything which was in connection with this question, especially also executions, was only the task of the Leader 4, is that right?

A.- No. I don't think that I said that. I said that it was the task of the Chief 4 of the Einsatzgruppe -

Q.- And whose task was that in Sonderkommando 4A?

A.- In Sonderkommando 4A it was the task of the executive officials who mostly in practice carried out these tasks.

Q.- Will you tell the Tribunal the names of those officers?

A.- Officers from the security police who were active in the commando.

Q.- Will you tell the Tribunal the names of these people, please?

A.- Yes. There was Jantzen, Hanns, whether Funck took part, I don't know, he tried to get away from the commando.

Q.- Do you remember having been interrogated by Mr. Wartenberg on this subject?

A.- Yes.

Q.- Do you remember what you told Mr. Wartenberg about that, did you tell these three names, or did you tell another name?

A.- I don't know exactly how this discussion went. I said at the time that I personally gained the impression that Blobel himself had the supervision over this sphere of work.

Q Did you not further tell Mr. Wartenberg, I mean, that Blobel was doing practically nothing else but that; that he was only concerned with executions and with nothing else? Did you tell that to Mr. Wartenberg?

A I cannot recall, Mr. Prosecutor, but I hardly think so. I would have to correct this now, if I said so at the time, since Blobel probably had to do a number of other tasks as well. I only know that the so-called secret box - that was a box which was taken along throughout the entire war with all secret orders and all dates and was always in Blobel's room, and Blobel handled those matters or directed them. charge of the executions of Einsatzkommando 4A, is that correct?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I would only like to change it insofar as I said that Blobel exclusively and alone was active on this.

Q But he was primarily active in these executions, is that correct? at the end of June, 1941?

A I think two. I am not quite sure.

Q Who was the second one? You were one. Who was the second one? preter in the kommando.

Q Will you the Tribunal the name of this man? page 84 of the German. This is Document 2938, Prosecution Exhibit 44. I am quoting from the top of page 81, under the heading "Page 13 of the original, continued." There it is said that 300 Jews and 20 looters who had been arrested were shot on the 30th of June. Who interrogated these people?

A I do not know, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q You were in Lucsk, were you not?

Q You do not know that?

A No, I don't know that? Sonderkommando 4A was which was in Lucsk by then?

Q Nevertheless you do not know anything about these things?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I already said yesterday that Jantzen, who was commissioned to deal with the executive tasks said that the town commander ordered a reprisal action, but I cannot say whether and when and in what manner this was carried out.

Q What was the rank of Jantzen?

Q You were a Hauptsturmfuehrer?

Q Who had the higher rank? is another entry in the report. That's the next paragraph and that says that 1,160 Jews were shot, but these 300 and the 20 looters had obviously nothing to do with the reprisal measure. Were they killed without investigation?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I don't know. I described yesterday what I thought I could do about the order issued by Reichenau according to which in effect an equal number of persons in the Ukrainian intelligentsia were to be killed, and I know that Jeckel and his deputy, Sturmbannfuehrer Meyer at the time insisted that this order would be carried out. intelligentsia were killed? Was that before the Germans came to Lucsk?

intelligentsia were Soviet citizens?

A I don't know what their status was, their legal status. The territory concerned was occupied by the Soviets after the Polish campaign and I cannot say whether therefore they became legal Soviet citizens or whether they were Polish citizens.

Q You should know, Witness. You have given us a very interesting lecture about the Ukraine yesterday. You should know that, but, anyhow, they were either Polish or Soviet citizens, is that correct? or Soviet citizens? out a reprisal for the killing of Poles or Soviet citizens on Polish or Soviet citizens? Will you tell that to the Tribunal? What kind of reprisal would that be? the time, the Commander in Chief of the Army gave it and carried it out. sible that the father was killed in reprisal for the killing of the son or the son in reprisal for the killing of the father? Do you understand that, Mr. Radetzky? Do you call that a reprisal?

Q All right. The victims and the people on whom the reprisal was carried out were both citizens of the same country. The reprisal was carried out for an act which happened before the German forces came in. As it was a reprisal, it was carried out without investigation. Is it not possible that the father would have been killed by the Russians and the son in reprisal of these killings, by the Germans, is that right, and you call that a reprisal, Mr. Radetsky? Do you understand what I mean?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I did not say that I called this a reprisal. I merely said that the order at the time was made known as a reprisal measure. My personal attitude I described yesterday and I have nothing to add. a reprisal? on which measures the German army command considered necessary in the Eastern campaign. I personally tried to object to this manner and I think that I expressed my view within the narrow scope which I had at my disposal. agents and spies were liquidated. Can you tell the Tribunal how it was found out that these 50 persons were agents and spies?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I cannot tell you anything about that. I had nothing to do with the execution tasks.

Q No one told you anything about it? A. No.

Q Nobody ever requested your services as an interpreter? they may have had in their possession papers which were of interest for the military authorities?

A I don't know that, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q You have never seen such documents? You have never evaluated such documents in writing your reports about the theatres in Luck?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, I did not make any report about the theatres in Lutsk.

Q Are you sure, Mr. Radetsky that you did not say that?

A That I made reports?

Q You made reports about the theatre? yes, I said that.

Q Good. In another document, in Document Bock II-A, your Honors, it is on page 34 of the English, I do not know the German page, Document NO-2940, Prosecution Exhibit 35, it says this in the middle of the page under the heading, "Einsatzkommando 4A, Location. Luck." "Operating also always with the forward units of the advancing troops in Lutsk region. 2,000 executions as counter measures for the assassination of the Ukrainians. Material seized. In Brody between 50 and 60 safes with GPU material seized." You know about these 2,000 killed, do you? These are the same as mentioned in the other report.

A Mr. Prosecutor I knew that a large scale execution was carried out in Luck, yes.

Q Do you remember a number from your own recollection?

Q What do you know about the safes with the GPU material in Brody?

A I know nothing about that. I was never in Brody. at great length that you were in charge of a safe blasting unit? Was he mistaken in this respect?

A I was only active in Lutsk, Mr. Prosecutor, not in Brody.

Q Were you in charge of a safe blasting unit?

Q How long?

Q Will you tell the Tribunal when that was? 1941. This must have been up to the time when I was given the job as liaison officer at the front. At the time there was a standstill and no new buildings were being seized.

Q How many safe blasting units were attached to Sonderkommando 4A?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I had been given the special mission not to blast safes just for blasting's sake, but to seize documents, and I had people with a welding outfit for that purpose. In how far any more groups existed I cannot say and I do not think that any further groups existed, except in one sub-kommando which was not in Lutsk at the time. then, is that correct?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I don't know whether a kommando of 4A was ever in Brody then, is that correct?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I don't know whether a kommando of 4A was ever in Brody, because Brody was utside the territory, or, rather, outside the route which, Sonderkommando 4A took. It is further to the south and it is on the route where all the kommandos passed.

Q Let us return to the reprisal measure here. According to your own information, 1,500 people were killed; who selected these 1,500 people for the executions?

A I cannot tell you that, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q You have no idea? You were only told that 1,500 people were shot in reprisal, nothing else, no other details is known to you? I would have to give a false report if I wanted to testify to anything more explicit.

killing of 1,500 people, defenseless people, and guiltless people, and you must have know that they committed no crimes, as you yourself said it was a reprisal measure. You did not care to know why, how, by whom, for what reason, for justified or for unjustified reasons, you did not care for that?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I already told you that this order was considered a reprisal measure and had been issued as such. yourself as to who was killed, by whom, the people were killed, and how they were selected and why this reprisal was carried out. You only know there was a reprisal and the only name connected with this reprisal you can remember is the name of Jeckel, nothing in connection with Sonderkommando 4A?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I already told you that Jantzen told me at the time that the town commander - I cannot recall his name - told him that a retaliation measure had been ordered or that he had ordered one and he also said that Meyer took over the kommando at the time and that Jeckel somehow insisted on having this actually carried out.

Q Will you tell the Tribunal only one thing: Were these people killed by Sonderkommando 4A?

A Sonderkommando 4A participated in it. How far, I cannot say.

Q Which part of Sonderkommando 4A?

A I don't know, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q Isn't it true that it was the sub-kommando or the Advance Kommando in which you were the highest ranking officer at that time?

A I don't think so, because Blobel came to Luck with the rest of the kommando and only then brought the order along from Reichenau which said that the same numbers of Jews were to be shot.

Q Just a minute ago you told the Tribunal it was Meyer. Now you again say it was Blobel.

same number of Jews were to be shot as retaliation for the Ukrainians who had been shot. report itself it says expressly that it was an advance kommando?

A May I ask on which page it is? in the second to the last paragraph. "An advance squad dispatched to Lutsk on 27 June." Jantszen had stayed two days, he told me that the town command er had ordered a retaliation measure. advance kommando in which you were the highest ranking officer?

A I cannot say that, Mr. Prosecutor, in as far as the highest ranking officer is concerned, I don't think that we shall be able to clear this matter up in this procedure.

Q You don't know whether it was your advance kommando?

A No. I am not certain. you turn to Document Book II-C, Your Honors, I am quoting from page 48. This is 54 in the German. That is the last paragraph on page 48 under the heading, "Page 5 of the original," Your Honors, "Einsatzgruppe C, Lacation, Rowne". This report says that "Einsatzkommando 4A still in Rowne where executions took place of 240 Bolshevist, predominantly Jewish, officials, agents, etc." Were these people interrogated, Herr Radetzky?

A I don't know, I cannot say, Mr. Prosecutor. Rowne?

A I don't know that either. They were being recruited continuously until they had gotten as many as the kommando thought they needed. In any case, it must have been in Shitomir when the number was complete. Haw many there were in at the time, I do not know.

Q What do you know about the executions of these 240 people?

A I cannot say anything about this, Mr. Prosecutor. I said already yesterday that I was in Rowne only for a short period of time and that I had to go back to Luck and that I moved along with the advance kommando mentioned in this report. In this same report it can be seen that the advance kommando had already started moving towards Shitomir. in Rowno?

Q. You were in Shitomir for a certain time, were you?

A. Yes.

Q. The documents show three different operations against Jews, which were carried out in Shitomir. - - - If, Your Honors please, I think I am coming to a new subject, and it would be the right time to recess.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, the Tribunal will be in recess fifteen minutes.

(recess)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, before I go over to the activity of the witness in Shitomir, I want to follow up the line of questioning according to the Emergency Service Decree of which I started last night, as the interpreter has in the meantime received that part of the translation of the document.
BY MR. HOCHWALD:

Q. HerrRadetzky, you have told this Tribunal that you could not join the Wehrmacht, as you were deferred for this emigration agency of Baltic Germans, but in spite of the fact, you were later called up for emergency service according to the Decree on 15 December 1930, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You have told the Tribunal that you made eleven attempts to leave this service, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. May I assume these were serious offenses?

A. Mr. Prosevuyor, I found out what I could do against this emergency status. At that time I didn't know any thing of the form, how the assignment would take place. I was told at the time....

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, he only asked you were these serious attempts?

BY MR HOCHWALD;

Q. Were these eleven attempts serious attempts, nothing else?

A. Yes, Your Honor.

Q. Did you when making these attempts look once into the Decree on the basis of which you were drafted into this emergency service?

A. No, I relied on the information which I received from the Hauptstrufuehrer who informed me about it.

Q. So you didn't know anytnign about the Decree then?

A. No, I merely knew of the fact of the emergency status.

Q. Was it not known to you that service in the Wehrmacht, or in the Waffen-SS, had preference to this Decree?

A. No, I didn't know that.

Q. Was it known to you that you had the right to object against the draft?

A. At that time, no.

Q. Was it known to you that you could have been punished with approximately a fine of 1500 marks, if you would not have obeyed this order?

A. No, I didn't know that.

Q. So you didn't know anything about the contents of the Decree?

A. About the contents of the decree, I didn't know any details when I was informed about the Emergency War Status, outside of the answer which I received, and which I have repeatedly expressed.

Q. When did you learn first about the details of this Decree?

A. I heard details about it in January 1942, shen I was in the Labor Office in Posen, whore I had asked what I could do in order to get out of this emergency status.

Q. Did you read the Decree then?

A. No,.

Q. So in spite of the fact that you claim to have made eleven Court 2, case 9 serious attempts to get released from this service, you didn't read once the Decree in order to find out what rights you eventually would have to object against the draft, as that correct?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I relied on the information of the officials whom I thought I could rely upon.

Q. You didn't read the Decree?

A. In the Labor Office in Posen an official read to me parts of it, but today I don't remember what these were.

Q. Am I correct in assuming that you told the Tribunal that you were drafted into this emergency service as an interpreter, is that right?

A. As an interpreter and a man who knows the terrain, the country.

Q. Is it not true then that there was no possibility to use you for another purpose, as for the purpose of an interpreter, is it not true?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I was used for other purposes.

Q. If that is true, witness, is it not further proved that at the moment in which you would not have been used as an interpreter any more, your draft would have ceased?

A. No, it didn't cease in any case. I amde enough attempts to have it revoked and it was not revoked.

Q. You never made an official objection by saying, I was drafted as an interpreter but I am used as a SD-man, I am used for writing reports, I am not used as an interpreter, and, therefore, my draft has no meaning, and it is not valid, did you?

A. In the conversation with Sturmbannfuehrer, Major Trautmann, in Office I in Berlin, I went into great details, in describing this question of my emergency war status. I told him at the time that if one drafts me as an interpreter one should not use me as a Hauptsturmfuehrer, and when I made this remark he asked me to leave the Court 2, case 9 room and to come back in three days.

That is how the conversation proceeded.

Q. How do you explain to the Tribunal this fact, that in spite of the fact that you were drafted as an interpreter, you were never in all the time when you were with Sondercommando IV-A used as such?

A. I explain this by the fact that right from the beginning I was used for writing out the reports and that the assignment such as seizing documents also was part of the field of activity as an interpreter. Later on my employment as liaison officer came about.

Q. That still does not seem to explain to me the fact that you were never used for the service for which you were hired.

A. Mr. Prosecutor, the expression was "interpreter and expert familiar with the country". I was put into this job conditioned by knowledge of the country and my knowledge of the language and for my part, therefore, I could not protest against it in any way.

Q. Can you tell the Tribunal how your knowledge of the country helped you as liaison officer to the Army, why it was necessary to have a knowledge of the country to be liaison officer to the Army?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I have already said in my direct examination that I personally attached value to the job of liaison officer.

Q. You could arrange that, could you not, but you could not arrange to be released from a War emergency service which undoubtedly in your personal case was not valid? Is that what you want the Tribunal to believe?

A. Twice at the beginning of the Eastern campaign, my attention was called to the fact that I should not attempt, in any manner, to be released from this emergency status. Nevertheless I did so later on, anyway. However, I had exhausted the matter in another way and thus I did make the attempt this way.

Q. Will you then turn to Document Book II-A, Your Honors, I am quoting from page 65. This is NO-3405, Prosecution Exhibit 42, the last paragraph on this page, Your Honors, under the heading "Activity of Teilkommando SK 4A at Lubny", It says, and I quote: "On the 18 October 1941 the Teilkommando of SK 4a at Lubny took over the evaluation of the NKWD files left behind by the Vorkommando and the handling of current correspondence."

"Together with the Ukrainian militia set up in Lubny it was possible, with the aid of the files acquired, to arrest a considerable number of NKWD agents and several leading communists. 34 agents and communists and 73 Jews were shot." the record that the aid and evaluation of the files bad something to do with the executions? That you, between the time you executed your affidavit and you testified here on the stand changed your testimony about your activities, isn't that correct? document. When you made your statement on the witness stand you knew it. Am I correct in assuming that for this simple reason you changed your testimony?

THE PRESIDENT: The affidavit, you mean. His statement in the affidavit.

MR. HOCHWALD: The statement in the affidavit to his testimony, I am sorry, Your Honor.

A. Mr. Prosecutor, this is not so. BY MR. HOCHWALD:

Q. Let's go over now to the documents which show the activity of Sonderkommando 4a in Shitomir. I am turning to Document Book II-C, page 16, page 18 in the German. There it is said that "Gruppenstab and Vorauskommando 4a in cooperation have up to date shot, all in all, approximately 400 Jews, Communists, and informants for the NKWD." What do you know about the killing of these 400 people, Herr Radetsky?

A. Mr. Prosecutro, I cannot testify anything about it.

Q. Why not?

A. Because I know nothing about the killing of these people and had nothing to do with it.

Q. You were in this Advance Kommando, were you not?

A. Yes, but I did not command the Advance Kommando.

Q. Who was the commander of the Advance Kommando?

A. Hauptsturmfuehrer Kalsten.

Q. He had the same rank as you?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was the deputy to Kalsten?

A. I don't know that Kalsten had a deputy.

Q. Who acted for him when he was absent?

A. Kalsten was never absent.

Q. Who would have acted for him if he would have been absent?

A. As the next official for the executive measures, I would probably have had to take this over.

Q. Will you repeat that? I didn't hear it.

A. I said for the executive activity, the Senior officer after him.

Q. That would have been you?

A. No, Mr. Prosecutor, my other official I mean a member of the Security Police or the Gestapo.

Q. How many officers were in this Advance Kommando?

A. Two officers.

Q. That was Kalsten and you?

A. Yes.

Q. And you want to tell the Tribunal that in spite of the fact that there were only Kalsten and you, the only officers, that you were not his deputy and that you never learned about the killing of those 400 people? Is that what you want the Tribunal to believe?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I don't want to tell stories at all. I merely want to explain to them how these matters were taken care of, that I had my clear assignment what to do and I completed this assignment.

Q. And you did not see left, you did not see right. The only thing you did see was documents about economics, and cultural matters.

Is that right? You were just going your way, left and right people were killed, hundred, a thousand, ten thousand, but you were only looking at the documents. Is that what you are testifying to?

A. That is only partly correct, but partly it is correct.

Q. Is it known to you whether these 400 people were interrogated by somebody?

A. No, I do not know.

Q. Is it known to you who selected these 400 people?

A. No, I do not know.

Q. Is it known to you who ordered those executions?

A. No, I assume that if the group staff participated as the superior agency the group staff probably ordered it.

Q. In the same report it is said that political commissars wearing civilian clothes were apprehended and later admitted their identity. Did you investigate this case?

A. No.

Q. Who did that?

A. I cannot tell you, Mr. Prosecutor. I had nothing to do with the executive activity of this Advance Kommando. I do not know whether this took place.

Q. And Kalsten, the only fellow officer of yours there, never told you a word about it?

A. No. Kalsten did his work and discussed his work with his officials.

Q. I would like to turn now to page 70 of the same Document Book, Your Honors, That is 77 in the German, the last paragraph of that page. This report says the same - that 400 Jews, called here "mostly saboteurs and political functionaries", were liquidated. about just now?

A. I cannot tell you, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q. And now I want you to turn in the same Document Book, Your Honors, to page 28. This is document NO-3151, Prosecution Exhibit 73, where another execution of Jews in Shitomir is reported. 266 were liquidated in this case as a further reprisal measure for the sabotage of the black out regulation. What do you know about that, Herr Radetsky?

A. About this I know that in Shitomir there were several air attacks which can be said in explanation of the sabotage of black out regulations.

Q. What do you know about the killing of these 266 people?

A. I cannot tell you anything about it to. Prosecutor,

Q. You know that these people sabotaged the black out regulation but you do not know what happened to them, is that what you want to say?

A. No. I meant to say that I know that at that time there were severe air attacks in Shitomir. That is what I know about this. How far the black out regulations were sabotaged I do not know.

Q Who interrogated these 266 Jews?

Q Who selected them for killing?

A I cannot tell you. 1 assume that it was officials and the executive people?

Q Who were the officials and who were the executive people? This is 157 of the German, Document 3140, Prosecution Exhibit 30. 126, Your Honors.

I am quoting from the last paragraph on this page. Is it known to you, witness, that the defendant Blobel was ill from the 13 August to the 13 September? that he was sick during the time in Shitomir that I know.

Q Will you look at the document. There it is stated that 10 September 1941 a conference took place with the Feldkommandatur in which it was decided to liquidate Jews of Shitomir completely and radically. Did you represent -

A You said on 10 September?

Q That is right. We found out during the examination of Blobel that the date 18 September is an error. It is in the record, It is 10 September.

Q 10 September. Can you tell the Tribunal whether you represented Blobel in this conference.

A I can say the following thing about this incident. At the time I was ordered to negotiate with the field command about the furnishing of vehicles. At the time they discussed the transportation of the Jews to the West in the area of Rowno. The field command did not approve of this at that time and Blobel later negotiated with the command himself.

I had the order at the time from a member of Einsatzgruppe C. I think it may have been an Obersturmfuehrer by the name of Krieger.

Q I do not think you have answered my question, witness. Did you represent Blobel in this meeting on 10 September 1941?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, I told you....

Q Were you present there?

A No. I cannot remember such a conference. Rowno?

Q Who was that?

A I do not know exactly who it was. I assume it was Obersturmfuehrer Krieger.

Q What happened to these Jews in Rowno? they would be resettled there.

Q Were they to be killed there, Mr. Radetzky?

Q Is it not a little Illogical? We have just discussed a document a few minutes ago which shows that the Jews in Rowno were killed and now you tell the Tribunal that in order to get new Jews in Rowno they were to be sent from Shitomir and don't you think that this is a little bit illogical?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I on my part always hoped that this problem would be regulated differently than it was regulated in other cases.

Q When did you lose this hope?

Q Not earlier?

on 19 September you still believed that the people would be only resettled in Rowno and not killed, is that right? another place when just a few days before that the Jews of the place had been killed?

A I don't think so. I occupied myself with this problem very much and I don'1 remember what I thought about it at the moment. I had the hope that these matters would some day find a different solution than the one which the Fuehrer Order had ordered,

Q How long were you on leave? From when to when? of March 1942.

Q Are you sure about the dates?

Q Do you remember having been interrogated by Mr. Wartenberg about these dates?

Q What did you tell Mr. Wartenberg about the dates? Did you tell him the same thing which you told me or did you change the dates?

A No. I think if he asked me about it - I don't remember that he did - I told him the same thing. I only would like to remark one thing here, I told Mr. Wartenberg that I cannot give any exact guarantee for dates and localities after six years. I cannot remember any exact date lines, I cannot say that on 27 September I was there or 14 November I was there - that would be senseless. are in no position to make any guarantee for the correctness of the dates you have given us for the same reason you have given us. Will you answer this question with yes or no.

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, I have had time to think about this matter and these investigations must serve me in correcting and clarifying those matters which I might have put incorrectly.

Q How did you check up the date?

A By various questioning of witnesses. I tried to check my own memory and either found it confirmed or not. the very special date of the arrival of Weinmann in Charkow in the middle of March 1942. Is it true that you have checked this date according to the testimony of the defendant Haensch.

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, I did not check it in this reference and I didn't speak to him about it. The question yesterday came completely as a surprise and I tried to check it through outsiders. your memory with other witnesses here. How you say with people outside. How did you get incontact with these people and why was this date so very much of interest to you. It makes no difference in your case. It makes a lot of difference in the case of the defendant Haensch. the witnesses about activities in the East.

Q Are these affidavits in your document book, Mr. Radetzky? document book that you were on leave until 15 March. Dr. Ratz certainly has his German copy of the document book. I have only the English, Your Honors, I am sorry.

Do you find it, Mr. Radetzky?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, not yet. it is.

DR. RATZ: I haven't submitted the document as yet, but I am not worried about the witness using the document to support his testimony. Perhaps it is Page 43 of the document book, the testimony of Lulei.

THE WITNESS: There it says March or April.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: There is no possibility, in my opinion, to check the date according to this thing.

Q (By Mr. Horlick-Hochwald) Won't you admit that you checked the date according to the testimony of the Witness Haensch? Will you answer yes or no?

A Mr. Prosecutor no.

Q There is no further explanation necessary? the English, Page 53 of the German, I am quoting from the second part of the first paragraph on Page 34, your Honors, Document 3237. Prosecution's Exhibit 138. He said here that 236 persons could be arrested and interrogated, 193 were shot as agitators in dangerous elements. Did you carry out these interrogations?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q What can you say about the killing of these people?

A Mr. Prosecutor. I cannot tell you anything about it. When I came to Charkov, as I said yesterday, I had a number of conversations with the new commander, Dr. Weinmann. There were several heated disputes at the beginning, between us. Then I went to the Army in Poltava and to the Army group, and then I went back to Charkov.

Q So you don't know anything about this 193? Charkov there was another kommando active at the same time. I don't want to list this as an excuse for myself, because I had nothing to do with business. This was the kommando of the commander of the Security Police and SD, under Dr. Kranebitter.

had falsified passports?

Q Did you see these passports?

Q Did you have any passports?

Q You just spoke now about Weinmann. Do you remember his first name? tasks, as liaison officer, to evaluate interrogations of prisoners of war for the RSHA, is that correct?

Q Will you turn to Document Book II-A? Your Honors, I want to quote from Page 45 of the English. I think it is 43 of the German, but I am not sure. The second paragrpah under the heading "Page 5 of the original", your Honors, Document NO_3155, Prosecution's Exhibit 38. It is stated here that, "On 26 September, the Secuirty Police took up its activities in Kiev. That day 7 Interrogation Kommandos of Einsatzkommando 4a started their work in the Civilian Prisoner Camp, in the Prisoner-of-War Camp, in the Jewish Camp, and in the city itself. Thus, among other things, in the camp for civilian prisoners and prisoners of war 10 political commissars were found and interrogated in detail. Conforming to the old Communist tactics these guys denied all political activity. Only when confronted with trustworthy witnesses, five commissars yielded and confessed, that is, they admitted the position they had held, but did not make any statements beyond this. They were shot on 27 September." Were you, at that time, in Kiev? Sonderkommando 4a?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor. their testimony?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, as far as I can see from this, they were investigated for their activity, not for their testimony about the Russian Hinterland.

Q And, therefore, you had nothing to do with that? the Army Staff, about the prisoners of war for Office 6, but not within the kommando. this evaluation? interrogations for the RSHA?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I had to evaluate the interrogation reports in the Army. There were often hundreds of records daily from which we would take the various data about the Russian Hinterland, but beyond that I did not evaluate or investigate the interrogation reports of the kommando because this kommando did not carry out the interrogation in such a way as to find out anything about the foreign activity, but only about political activities. Army, the files and interrogations on the basis of which the Army ordered executions which then were carried out by Sonderkommando 4a, did you see this file?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, these are records of interrogations of of prisoners of war who were immediately interrogated on the front line by the counter-intelligence people in order to gather information about the enemy. These were

Q So you did not see these files either. Will you turn now to Document Book II-C? Your Honors, that is on Page 16, the second to the last paragraph, Document NO-2952, Prosecution's Exhibit 72.

It is said in this document that, "In Shitomir, a large prison camp has been set up which also contains civilian prisoners. It is highly probable that there are, particularly among these civilian prisoners, former political commissars who, apparently on instructions, left the troop in good time and somehow procured civilian clothes for themselves. Thus, three political commissars in civilian clothes were apprehended, who eventually admitted their identity. Attempts to obtain the truth on their assignments and activities failed in each case." Did you participate in the investigation of these cases?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, this was a job of the executive people. Shitomir?

A It can be assumed. I don't know exactly. between the 10th of July and 3rd of August, between the 13th of August and the 13th of September, between the 24th of September and the 27th or 28th November, and later at the time when you were on leave. How often during the time of Blobel's absence did you act as his deputy, Herr Radetzky?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I was not his deputy during his absence. He was absent from Lutsk and Shitomir he was present.

Q Not on the 10th September. He came there the 13th according to his testimony.

A I do not know; I cannot say. I don't remember the dates. but Hauptsturmfuehrer Karlsten who was my superior, or if he was not there, it was an officer of the Security Police or of the SD. Blobel, is that correct?

Q How do you explain his statement to this effect in his affidavit?

A I cannot explain it, Mr. Prosecutor, apart from the fact that in some form he was persuaded to this testimony or brought to make it in some manner,

Q No was tricked into this answer, is that what you want to say?

A I don't remember his testimony where he said that, but I believe that Herr Blobel testified in detail about this.

Q You, yourself, have no explanation? about it, because I do not know what persuaded Blobel to say that. a Sonderkommando, a Teilkommando or of an advance kommendo, I am sorry?

A In the year 1942?

Q '41.

A Mr. Prosecutor, I was not an officer in a Teilkommando or advance kommando, I was always attached to these kommandos.

Q You never were commander of a Vorkommando or Teilkommando in 1941?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor. in 1942?

A I wasn't either.

Q Never? During the second half of the year I was liaison officer with the Army, and Army Group in the first half of the year. rank, never commander of a subkommando or an advance kommando? I was - I had to participate in the activity of the kommando as an outsider, and, therefore, these jobs were not given to me.

It would be absurd if one were to give me police assignments which could be performed much better by someone else. That is the explanation. Teilkommando?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, I did not command a subkommando.

Q I would like to refresh your memory on that point. I would like to introduce, your Honors, Document NO_4771_X and I think it is Prosecution's Exhibit 190. I only want to refer to one sentence. It is the third paragraph of the document. "During the advance, in the summer of 1942, SS_Hauptsturmfuehrer von Radetzky was put in command of a 'Teilkommando'", etc. What do you have to say to that?

Objection, Dr. Ratz?

THE WITNESS: May I just read through this?

DR. RATZ: Your Honor, this is evidnetly the passage that was taken from the document, NO_4771. At the time already I explained that in the photostat it is evident that one part is missing.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If your Honor please, I have to answer the objection, by defense counsel and have informed the Tribunal the Prosecution intends to use this very document either in cross examination or in rebuttal, as this document was unnecessary for prosecution's case in chief. The Tribunal has ruled that that would be a satisfactory answer to Dr. Ratz's objection, and I do think that what Dr. Ratz has just told the Tribunal is not a reason for an objection against the admissibility of this document.

DR. RATZ: I am not quite through wet. I would like to explain that this document is, without a doubt, a part of the Document NO-4771, because all of its pages bear that number, and therefore, it is not possible to take out one letter, because then a part of the document would be denied to the defendant. Secondly, the Prosecutor, in answer to my objection, on the 20th of October, 1947, stated that he wanted to submit the document in order to show that the Defendant Radetzky was a member of the SS and SD, If the Defendant Radetzky denied this, the Prosecutor said, "Well then, I think then this document is enough proof that he was a member of the SS and the SD," and on that basis the Tribunal decided at that time.....

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I do think that Dr. Ratz is mistaken. Ivvery well remember having told the Tribunal that Document NO-4771, which is Prosecution's Exhibit 139, was put in evidence in order to prove Radetzky's membership in the SS. What I am introducing now is a completely independent letter which has the document number, NO-771-X. This letter is not a part of a document. It is a complete letter. It is true that this letter was found in the same personnel file, in the same personnel folder that the other SS personnel documents of Radetzky were found but the fact that they were in the same folder does not take anything from the document itself, being a complete document.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ratz, do you question the authenticity of this document?

DR. RATZ: No, I don't doubt it. It is a photostat, and I have no cause to doubt it.

THE PRESIDENT: Then your objection is that it was a part of a document which was submitted in the case in chief, and, therefore, should have been included when the case in chief was presented; is that your objection?

DR. RATZ: Yes. The prosecution at that time assured us that the complete photostat of the documents will be at our disposal, and even at that time I said that this assurance was not being kept if now this one document is being torn out of this file.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any physical evidence of mutilation? You have used the phrase "torn out". Is there something to show or suggest to you that it was violently withdrawn from another document?

DR. RATZ: The tearing out can only be determined by looking at this photostat. This page is torn out of the photostat.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If your Honor please, if certain photostatic copies were stapled together by a staple and one letter was removed from the document, being a complete by independent document, this is not an actual mutilation of the document itself. It is just a mutilation of the photostatic copy, but the document is complete. It is a contention of the

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Ratz, you do not contest the validity of this document. Now has your case in any way been prejudiced because this document has been introduced now rather than before? If this represents an actual, official document, wherein are you prejudiced by its submission now rather than before?

DR. RATZ: I am prejudiced because I was not in a position to discuss this document with the defendant when I prepared his case and to secure further evidence.

THE PRESIDENT: Let us suppose that in the cross-examination Mr. Hochwald had put the series of questions which he did, and they were answered in the way that they were, and then to contest the veracity of the defendant's answers he brings in a witness who testifies to what is in this document. How would that be any different from what the situation at present is?

DR. RATZ: Your example, your Honor, is different, because as I must emphasize once more, according to my opinion, this document is a part of his personnel file, and his entire personnel file bears one exhibit number, and during the preparation of my defense I relied on the fact that the personnel file is complete.

THE PRESIDENT: But, Dr. Ratz, let's got to the facts, The witness, the present witness, or the Defendant von Radetzky, was in command of a Teilkommando or he was not. That is obvious. In preparing: your case you would naturally inquire into whether he ever had or had not led a Teilkommand. That is obvious. Whether you possess this document or not couldn't alter the fact, couldn't alter history. What has happened has happened. You may have been in some way embarrassed by the production of this document now, rather than knowing it before, but from the standpoint of justice no harm has been done. You still have the opportunity to question the witness at length about this document; you still have the opportunity to bring in witnesses to show that this document is spurious or does not represent the facts; you still can produce further documents to attack this document.

DR. RATZ: Your Honor, I don't want to make any difficulties, but I just want to maintain my point of view, that I don't consider this document admissible, but I do not want to maintain my objection because I believe that one defendant will be able to discuss the document without my having discussed it with him previously.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: So it will be then, Prosecution's Exhibit 191.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

Q. (By Dr. Horlick-Hochwald) How do you reconcile the contents of this document with your testimony?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I don't know who signed this document. I would be grateful if I could see it.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Could you please hand to the witness the photosat copy which is the exhibit.

A. I do not know the signature and I don't know the name of the man -

Q. (By Mr. Horlick-Hochwald) All right.

A. Who gives this judgment about himself. About the question of the Teilkommando, however, and this is what is important, I have the following to say, that in the area of the Second Army there were a great number of Kommandos, and these kommandos were often amalgamated under one designation because they had an independent APO number. I know then that I must have been brought into connection with these kommandos in the Second Army.

Q. It is then your contention that this letter requesting your promotion is a mistake?

A. It says here as the highest decoration the handing over of an independent Teilkommando in the year 1942. I know that Weinmann in the spring of 1942, when we were not yet on the advance, had tried to get me promoted. Therefore, I think that the various statements made here were made later by offices who did not know about the matter, but, Mr, Procecutor, I shall look into this question in detail and will try to clarify it.

Q. May I show up in reference to your testimony to this letter, that this letter is a mistake?

A. No, I cannot say it is a mistake, but it is an erroenous representation of the situation as it existed then.

Q. So this letter is in this point incorrect?

A. No, it is not correct. It is not correct in the interpretation, which is important for me, that a Teilkommando is equivalent to an executive kommando.

Q. I have no further questions. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Well, were you put in command of a Teilkommando ever?

A. Your Honor, no. I was given the order of the assignment of a liaison officer to the Second Army.

Q. Please answer the question, were you ever put in command of a Teilkommando?

A. No, your Honor.

Q. Were you promoted to Sturmbannfuehrer as of 9 November, 1942?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, this letter recommends you for just that promotion, and as achieved as of that date, doesn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. How can you explain, that it could be so accurate and so prophetic to bring about your promotion as of 9 September, and the letter is dated 15 October, and yet it be incorrect insofar as the statement about your commanding a Teilkommando?

A. Your Honor, I do not say that it is a mistake; I say it is an error, and I must try to clarify this error.

Q. Now, we went into that before. The hairbreadth destination between a mistake and an error is one which requires stronger glasses than I use. How, tell me, what is the difference between a mistake and an error?

my opinion, an involuntary incorrectness, that is, a mistaken representation.

Q You say a mistake and an error is a bigger mistake? matter of clarifying this entire matter.

Q Well, let's see how many errors and mistakes there are in this letter. The letter is dated 16 October, addressed to the Personnel Main Office of the SS. The subject is Hauptsturmfuehrer Waldemar von Radetzky. That is your name, isn't it?

A SS-NO. 351254, is that correct?

A I assume so. I do not know the number by heart. All right. Member of the General SS-Administrative District Warthe, is that correct?

Q All right. The first sentence recommends your promotion. The second sentence says that you were on duty with the Einsatzkommando of the SD since 19 May 1941. Is that correct?

A Since the 29th of May?

Q What is the date? you first called into this service? the 20th or 21st of June, 1941. which you were participating, prior to that?

Q Is that when you were first notified to report?

A No. The order to report I received it on this earlier date here.

Q On May 19th, very well. Now, the following sentence says that while you were serving with the kommando you participated in the advance toward Charkov in the summer of 1941 and that there you were distinguish yourself in action and because of that were awarded the Iren Gross, Second Class, is that correct? lity to group things quickly you have a good general education, haven't you? quickly, aren't you? Now then next, "It was therefore possible to entrust him frequently with the execution of extensive and independent tasks." Now, what is entensive and what is independent is up to the writer of this letter, and you might not agree with him as to the extensiveness and independence so we won't ask you to comment on that. Then the following sentence says, "As a liaison officer with the Army he acted skillfully and always know how to achieve his purpose." Now, you do not deny that you did your job as a liaison officer rather well, do you?

Q Well, all right. Very well. That falls into the category of the opinion of the writer. Now, Witness, so far as the physician facts referred to in this letter are concerned, they are correct, aren't they, up to the sentence which I have not yet read?

which it was stated in every application for promotion. I personally have nothing to object against these facts.

Q All right. Now then, we come to the crucial sentence. "During the advance, in the summer of 1942, SS-Hauptfuehrer von Radetzky was put in command of a 'Teilkommando'. Radetzky's general behavior is a soldierly one; he has purpose of mind and is sure of himself." Does this paragraph represent facts or not? I can only clarify this paragraph if I find someone who conforms this for me. If I now say it, that I did not command a Teilkommando, but that I was a liaison officer with the Second Army and with the Second Hungarian Army during the period covered, then it is testimony against testimony, and the document is in any case the one to be believed, Therefore, I ask for permission to be able to clarify this thoroughly. not authentic, or in any way not worthy, falsified, or in any way not worthy of belief. A piece of paper means nothing to the Tribunal just because it is a piece of paper, but if the contents of that of paper appeal to one's common sense and logic, coincide with other facts and dovetail into into a general picture of credibility and authenticity, then the documents naturally is accepted at its face value.

Now, to sum it up, what do you say this paragraph represents a mistake, an error, or deliberate falsification? error with a member of Einsatzgruppe C who knows about my activity exactly.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I have no further questions at this time.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will now be in recess until two o'clock.

(A recess was taken until 1400hours.)

(The hearing reconvened at 1405 hours, 17 December 1947.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. KRAUSE: Your Honor, I am speaking for the defendant, Haensch, and I ask that the defendant, Haensch, be excused tomorrow all day from attendance in court so that the final work on the document books may be concluded with him.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant, Haensch, will be excused from attendance in court all day tomorrow so that he may work on his document book. Dr. Ratz, do you have any further questioning of your client?

DR. RATZ: Your Honor, I have no further questions, but I have a witness. This witness arrived only yesterday afternoon, and I could not inform the prosecution of it in time, but as far as I know from a discussion with Mr. Hochwald, he has no objection to this.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, there is no objection to the calling of the witness. I might ask that I may be permitted to send for the document book into which the affidavit of the witness is inserted.

CROSS EXAMINATION (Continued) BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Witness, we have just one question which doesn't have much to do with the issue at all, but which really arises out of a curiosity. You have indicated that during your service in Russia that you had certain tasks to perform, and one of them was to investigate into, examine, and make reports on the culture, the religion, and the theaters in Russia. Were you spending time in the theaters, seeing operas, watching melodrama on the stage --- what do you mean "investigating the theater"?

A. Your Honor, the word "theather", I only used in order to explain my expression, "cultural questions". I remembered subconsciously an action by the Sixth Army, a performance which they had permitted for the troops, where soldiers should visit good theaters and where old Russian or Ukranian plays, which were not allowed to be performed during the Soviet government, were now performed again.

Q. Well, were the theaters operating in this active zone for the civilian population?

A. Yes, of course.

Q. And did you make reports on the different performances?

A. No, Your Honor, I did not do that.

Q. You don't want to convey the impression that you were a dramatic critic during the war in Russia, do you?

A. No, I don't want to give that impression at all, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENTS: Very well, The defendant may be returned to the defendant's box and the witness who is now in waiting will be brought in.

JUDGE SPEIGHT: Witness, raise your right hand and repeat after me: I swear by God, the Almighty and Omniscient, that I will speak the pure truth and will withhold and add nothing.

(The witness repeated the oath.)

JUDGE SPEIGHT: You may be seated. BY DR. RATZ:

Q. Witness, you name is what?

A. Gustav Kraege.

Q. Where were you born?

A. On 17 May 1907.

Q. Where do you reside?

A. In Goslar.

Q. Have you ever been a member of the NSDAP or the SS?

A. No.

Q. Where were you in May 1941 -- where were you active?

A. In May 1941 I was with the Gestapo in Hildesheim.

Q. Were you recalled from there?

A. Yes.

Q. Where to?

A. I wasordered to go to Schmiedeberg at the time.

Q. Did you know why you were sent there?

A. No. I had no idea.

Q. What happened to you in Schmiedeberg?

A. In Schmiedeberg after some time I was assigned to a commando which was later called SK 4a, Sonderkommando 4a,

Q. Were you given a uniform to wear?

A. Yes, because of my rating, I was given an SD uniform, and I had the rank of a Scharfuehrer.

Q. Were you accepted in the SD, or did you have to -

A. No, this did not happen.

Q. You said that you were assigned to the unit later, called SK 4a?

A. Yes.

Q. What was your work in the SK 4a?

A. Throughout the entire assignment I was working in the office of the Sk 4a in the orderly room.

Q. You said, throughout your assignment, how long did this last?

A. That was from June 1941 until March 1942 except for the time from the end of September until the beginning of January. During that time I was ill and was in the hospital and wason recreational leave at home.

Q. You said you were in the orderly room of the SK 4a as a clerk. What kind of work was done in the orderly room?

A. In the orderly room they dealt with all documents which came in and handed them on, forwarded, and registered, and so forth, field post, and so forth.

Q. Apart from the general orderly room, was there any special administrative office in the SK 4a?

A. Yes, such an office was in the SK 4a.

Q. What did the general administration office deal with?

A. We got our pay from this office and as far as I know, this office looked after the clothing and the supplies for the commando.

Q. Do you know who looked after the ammunition of the commando?

A. I don't know. I assume the administrative office did this.

Q. Did you have anything to do with the top secret matters the SK 4a dealt with?

A. No, I had nothing to do with this, and I never saw them.

Q. Who dealt with this, and where were the secret matters kept?

A. Inasfar as I know, these secret matters, these top secret matters, were kept by the chief himself in his room.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ratz, will you please refer us to the document book in which his affidavit appars, so we may be looking at it?

DR. RATZ: An affidavit was made by the witness, Kraege, --

MR. HOCHWALD: Your Honors, this is in Document Book IIIC, on page 30 of the English, No. 4765, Prosecution Exhibit 137.

PRESIDENT: IIIC?

MR. HOCHWALD: IIIC, that is right.

PRESIDENT: Page number?

MR. HOCHWALD: Page number 30. BY DR. RATZ:

Q. Where were the secret matters kept in the SK 4A?

A. Inasfar as I know, these top secret matters were kept by the chief himself in a special box.

Q. Was this special box open, and could you look at it, or was it locked?

A. No. This box was secured by locks and was in the room of the chief.

Q. Who was Chief of Sonderkommando 4A while you were there?

A. When I belonged to this commando, Standartenfuehrer Blobel was in charge of this commando.

Q. Do you know who was Blobel's deputy?

A. No. I know nothing about a deputy of Blobel's. I never heard of a deputy.

Q. Do you know whether Herr von Radetzky was ever Blobel's deputy?

A. As far as I know, Herr von Radetzky could never have been deputy of the chief. I know nothing about it.

Q. Why could Herr von Radetzky not have been deputy to the chief?

A. As far as I know, Herr von Radetzky -

MR. HOCHWALD: Just a minute. If the Tribunal please, this question is inadmissible. If the witness has said he has no knowledge of a deputy of Blobel, I do think he cannot testify to the fact why Radetzky could not hove been the deputy.

PRESIDENT: Isn't that correct reasoning, Dr. Ratz?

DR. RATZ: I believe that the witness as a member of the orderly room can testify why Radetzky could not have been deputy.

MR. HOCHWALD: That would have been only possible if the witness would have been called here as on expert on matters of military organization in the Einsatzgruppe, but according to his position as a minor employee in the office, this question seems to be inappropriate to be put to this witness.

PRESIDENT: Well. Dr. Ratz, if you can qualify him as on expert in the field or with definite knowledge of the table of organization, showing a familiarity with the qualifications required, and a competence needed, then the question might be in order. He certainly can testify as to what he saw von Radetzky do, and then it will be up to the Tribunal to determine from those activities, whether he was or was not deputizing for the absent company commander.

DR. RATZ: I only put this question to the witness because the witness said he could not have been the deputy. It, therefore, seems obvious and necessary that the witness prove this by fact and say why he could not have been deputy. And he should be an expert insofar as from June 1941 until March 1942 he was in the SK 4A as a member of the orderly room, and the members of the orderly room should have known something about such questions.

PRESIDENT: Well, he has already stated in the affidavit to the contrary. Very well. We will permit the question, Dr. Ratz. I think we will lose more time deciding whether to admit it or not than if we admit it. BY DR. RATZ:

Q. Witness, when did you see von Radetzky for the first time?

PRESIDENT: Just a minute.

DR. RATZ: I understood it to mean, your Honor, that you permit the question.

PRESIDENT: Well, who said to the contrary. Are the interpreters overruling me? Well, I would like to agree with the interpreters all the time, but this time they are overruled, all of them. You put the question, Dr. Ratz, I will take care of the interpreters. BY DR. RATZ:

Q. I now put the question, why Radetzky could not have been Blobel's deputy in your opinion.

A. As far as I know, von Radetzky was ordered to the commando as an expert on languages, and as knowing Russian conditions without any police training, from quite a different profession, in fact. I, therefore, cannot assume that in such a commando a deputy should be appointed or a commander should be appointed Who has no specialized knowledge about this field. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Were you with von Radetzky all the time?

A. No. I saw Herr von Radetzky for the first time in June 1941.

Q. When did you see him again?

A. I saw Herr von Radetzky the last time -

Q. Now, the nexttime, not the last time, from June 1941?

A. Oh, I see, I then met Herr von Radetzky on the journey from Sokal to Lutzk. Herr von Radetzky had a breakdown with his car and he was stuck on the road with his car.

Q. When was that?

A. That was on the trip from Sokal to Lutzk on 27 June 1941.

Q. All right, when did you see him again after the breakdown in the car?

A. In Luck Herr von Radetzky was in charge of the securing of documents and the opening of safes, and I was with this department.

Q. And when was that?

A. That was during the stay in Lutzk, from the end of June 1941 until the Vorkommando left for Rowno about 5, 6 or 7 June 1941.

Q. Not June -- July?

A. Yes, yes, July.

Q. All right, then when did you see him after July 6 again?

A. After the 6th of July I saw Herr von Radetzky in Rowno only temporarily.

Q. All right, now, I said when?

A. In July 1941 in Shitomir.

Q. And when did you see him after that?

A. In July or August 1941, I did not see Herr von Radetzky any more, and I saw him only once more later on in March 1942 in Charkow.

Q. And you did not see him from July 1941 until March 1942?

A. No.

Q. So you don't know what he was doing at that time?

A. No.

Q. Then how do you presume to say that he wasn't in charge of a Vorkommando?

A. As far as I know, when in July 1941 I lost sight of Herr von Radetzky, in July 1942 I heard that he had become liaison officer with the AOK, the army high command.

Q. You got this from somebody else?

A. Yes.

Q. You don't know of your own knowledge what he was doing?

A. No, I don't know that.

Q. And your only reason for concluding that he could not have been in charge of a subcommando was your assumption that he was brought in as an interpreter?

A. Yes. That was one of the reasons, and the other reason was that I heard from others that Herr von Radetzky had become liaison officer with the AOK and in that capacity he could not have done anything else.

Q. Why couldn't he have been qualified to lead a subcommando?

A. I assume that as liaison officer for the AOK he was so busy that he had no time left and besides he was not with the commando any more.

Q. We are not referring to why he couldn't have been a leader because he was a liaison officer, we are asking you what was there in his makeup which would prevent him from being the leader of a subcommando if a subcommando was turned over to him, what did he lack physically and mentally to do that work?

A. As far as I know, Herr von Radetzky had neither been trained in military or police work and had been assigned to the commando as an interpreter and as knowing the country.

bravery and intrepidity that he received a decoration?

Q Do you know that? Do you know that he was promoted from Captain to Major because of his abilities manifested in the field? the fact that he was an interpreter and you saw him when he was repairing his car. von Radetzky got into the car in which I traveled to Lutsk Herr von Radetzky worked with me in Lutsk later and later on in Shitomir. In Lutsk we worked together in seizing enemy documents, and in Shitomir I made reports for Herr von Radetzky.

Q Was he an interpreter all the time he was in Russia?

A That I can not say. I only know what he did prior to his stay in Shitomir. After that I know nothing further. Vorkommando? Herr von Radetzky had been leader of the Vorkommando. This owing to the fact that with the kommando there were three officers in all, one Hauptsturmfuehrer, that was Hauptsturmfuehrer von Radetzky and two Obersturmfuehrers, who in their civilian profession were police officers, and since I was asked during my interrogation who was deputy or kommander of the Advance Kommando and I could not reply to this. I was asked about my opinion concerning this and I said in my opinion Hauptsturmfuehrer von Radetzky could have held that position because he was the senior officer, but after thinking about it carefully afterwards, I must now say that Herr von Radetzky could not have been the commander of the Advance Kommando, because he did not have the necessary training for it concerning police work and could not have had -

Q Did you sign your affidavit voluntarily?

Q Did you swear to it? this statement: "The Vorkommando was headed by three leaders, namely, SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Waldemar von Radetzky and two others, whose names I do not remember any more."

That states it pretty emphatically, doesn't it, that he was leader?

A I beg your pardon. I did not quite get the question. that the Vorkommando was headed by von Radetzky. He was one of the three leaders. the seizing of documents....

Q Just a moment. Just a moment. I am asking you whether you made this statement. "The Vorkommando was headed by three leaders, namely, Radetzky and two others." Did you make that statement?

Q Did you make that statement? Yes or no.

Q Did you make that statement?

DR. RATZ: I beg your pardon, Your Honor. Perhaps there is a translation mistake. According to the original of my affidavit of this witness, this witness did not say that three officers were in charge of it, but the witness said that the Vorkommando had three persons who held officers' rank; Herr von Radetzky and two other Obersturmfuehrers are mentioned. It merely says there were three officers there, but it does not say that Radetzky was in charge of it and later on he says that he had the impression that Radetzky was in charge of the Vorkommando.

He merely says he had the impression.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, now let's determine now whether this translation is correct or not. I am reading from the English. It very distinctly says that the Vorkommando was headed by three officers of whom Radetzky was one. Mr. Hochwald, can you enlighten us on that?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, if Dr. Ratz will let me have the German -- It says here in the mimeographed copy, "3 Fuehrer-dienstgrade" which would mean in other words, "three officers."

THE PRESIDENT: Three officers?

THE WITNESS: That's right. BY THE PRESIDENT: next sentence you say, "I remember that one evening a conference was held during our stay in Lutsk in the course of which Waldemar von Radetzky as senior leader gave orders to the assembled sub-leaders." Did you say that in your affidavit?

Q Is that correct?

THE PRESIDENT: All right. Proceed, Dr. Ratz. BY DR. RATZ (Attorney for the defendant von Radetzky):

Q Witness, may I ask you chronologically. You said that as far as you remember on the 23rd of June, 1941, Herr von Radetzky came to the Special Kommando.

Q At the time the Sonderkommando was where? of Herr Radetzky?

Q You then traveled where?

border in Sokal.

Q In Sokal was there an Advance Kommando of SK 4a set up?

Q And where was the Advance Kommando to go?

Q And in this Advance Kommando there were also officers. How many?

Q And was Radetzky also with this Vorkommando? whether Radetzky was commander of the Advance Kommando or not. In your affidavit you said that you had the impression. Please express yourself in a more satisfactory manner as to this. the time, or, rather, that I had the impression at the time that Herr von Radetzky was leader of this Kommando because he held the highest rank as a Hauptsturmfuehrer. Herr von Radetzky in Lutsk dealt with the seizing of enemy documents and I saw him working only in that capacity there and if this sentence about my opinion is in my affidavit this is owing to the fact that the interrogator asked me specifically who was in charge of the Kommando. I could not give a satisfactory answer to this and then I was asked about my opinion, and I answered that one could have had the opinion that Herr von Radetzky was in command of the Kommando just because he held the highest rank. BY THE PRESIDENT: Radetzky was the head of the Vorkommando? Advance Kommando because no leader was introduced to us -

Q Just a moment. Just a moment. On August 21, 1947, when you were asked the question you replied at that time, that is, going back to 1941, you were of the impression that Radetzky was the head of the Vorkommando. Was that an honest statement by you to Wartenberg? Did you make an honest statement when you said that that was your impression and your opinion?

Q Please don't tell me what you were asked. I am asking you whether this was an honest expression when you said "At that time I had the impression that Radetzky was the head of the Vorkommando." Was that an honest statement made by you to Wartenberg? back to 1941, that Radetzky was the head of the Vorkommando. That's correct, isn't it? mind, if you have changed it. First let me ask you, have you now changed your mind? afterwards. I did not really know officially who was the head of the Kommando, but I was merely asked about my opinion and I stated this, my opinion honestly, on the 21st of August, but afterwards I thought about it seriously just because I knew nothing officially about this and I gained the conviction that Herr von Radetzky could not have been in charge of the entire Kommando, because he did not have the necessary training.

Q Did Radetzky give you any orders?

A In Lutsk?

Q Did he give anybody in that organization orders? How many were there? About 25 men?

Q Did he give anybody any orders? seizing documents was concerned.....

Q Please answer the question. Did he give anybody any orders? that you were of the opinion that von Radetzky was in charge; you had some fundamental factual reason for it, didn't you? highest rank.

orders were obeyed and for that reason you came to the conclusion that he was in charge of the Vorkommando? to the other two officers. Inasfar as I know, the two other officers gave orders or carried out orders independently in Lutsk.

DR. RATZ: Your Honor, may I interpolate here. I just wanted to ask the witness concerning the tasks of the Vorkommando and I think this will show that the Vorkommando as far as its missions were concerned was split up. Hay I put this question?

THE PRESIDENT: Please do. BY DR. RATZ (Attorney for the defendant von Radetzky):

Q Witness, what tasks did the Advance Kommando Lutsk have? had the task in Lutsk to set up quarters and to secure enemy documents.

Q Was anything done in that direction? Who took part in this?

A Concerning this the following was done: In Lutsk, quarters were prepared for the main kommando as well, and then the securing of documents in various buildings of Lutsk was carried out.

Q Did you yourself take part?

Q Were any documents found?

Q In which building did you work on these documents? building in which the billets of the Vorkommando were as well and they were processed there and the evaluation of this material took a long time. It was screened there and put in bundles and later on sent off and, as far as I know, the Wehrmacht, I believe, the CounterIntelligence Department of the Army, sent one or two persons who helped In the screening of the material.

Q Did Herr von Radetzky before this work was started hold a meeting? held a meeting but only a few of the NCO's were present there and not the two other officers. Herr von Radetzky held this discussion with a few NCO's and with a few Ukrainian men who were given to the NCO's to assist later in sifting the documents. gave you the impression that Herr von Radetzky was the leader of the Vorkommando, is that correct?

Q You just said that the two other officers were not present. Do you know why the two other officers were not present during this discussion? profession had nothing to do with seizing documents. In any case, I never saw them do this.

Q How long did the Advance Kommando stay in Lutsk? the seizing of documents and was Herr von Radetzky also busy doing this all the time?

Q When did the main kommando arrive in Lutsk under Blobel? arrived in Lutsk? finished and we were still busy evaluating and sorting it ans we were still compiling it and putting it on lists.

Advance Commando in Lutsk at that time also carried out executions. What do you know about these executions and to what extent did Herr von Radetzky participate? BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q What about your affidavit? It says, "I can declare with certainty that executions were carried out in Lutsk." Are you refuting that part of your affidavit also?

Q Well, did executions occur in Lutsk or not?

Q Did executions occur in Lutsk?

Q Why did you just say to Dr. Ratz they did not?

A I only said - I was asked by Herr Dr. Ratz whether the Sonderkomnando was in Lutsk while executions were carried out. I know nothing about that.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I would suggest that this part of the record may be read back. I understand the question put by Dr. Ratz saying, "Do you know anything about executions in Lutsk?" and the witness answered "No, I do not know a thing about executions in Lutsk." I would like that it may be clarified more.

THE PRESIDENT: Miss Arminger, can you read that back for us, please?

COURT REPORTER ARMINGER (Reading):

"Q According to the Report of Events, it is established that the Advance Kommando in Lutsk at that time also carried out executions. What do you know about these executions and to what extent did Herr von Radetzky participate?

A I know nothing about executions in Lutsk."

DIRECT EXAMINATION *- Continued BY DR. RATZ (Attorney for the defendant von Radetzky): under number 4, where he says, "During my presence in Lutsk I did not see any executions, but when some time later in Rowno, we were looking through the papers in the orderly room, I noticed a bundle of about 20 reports and records of interrogations which revealed that in Lutsk and Sokal people had been executed. I would like to ask the witness whether he wanted to say something different just now than what he said in the affidavit.

A No, I want to say nothing different. I am sorry and want to apologize to the Tribunal that I misunderstood Herr Dr. Ratz' question. I understood Dr. Ratz' question to mean that executions were carried out by the Advance Kommando in Lutsk and whether I knew anything about those. I replied to this, no, I knew nothing about then, because in my affidavit of 21 August I said that I only learned from somewritten documents which I happened to find that in Lutsk and Sokal executions had taken place and.... BY THE PRESIDENT: in those two places, is there? Lutsk and Sokal?

A That I can't say. I only came across these documents by chance and I just glanced at them and I saw that in Sokal and Lutsk a few executions had taken place.

Q Well, didn't they carry dates as to when these executions occurred? three minutes.

Q Did they carry dates as to the executions?

Q You had been in Lutsk, hadn't you? occurred in Lutsk?

Q Yes, and you weren't sufficiently interested to learn whether these executions had occurred during the time you were in Lutsk? right to read them. An officer took them away from me saying that this was no concern of mine. prisoners and witnesses?

A I beg your pardon. I did not quite get the question. of prisoners and witnesses?

Q Did von Radetzky ever question prisoners and witnesses? says that the Orderly Room joined the interrogation room and you had the possibility to observe that prisoners and witnesses were being brought in continuously.

A Yes, that was in Shitomir. In Shitomir the interrogation rooms were only separated from the orderly room by a hallway.

Q Did von Radetzky question witnesses and prisoners there?

A No, I know nothing about that. There were interrogating officers particularly for that.

Q Did von Radetzky ever question prisoners and witnesses?

Q You wrote reports for von Radetzky, didn't you?

Q What did these reports consist of previously?

Q Was any reference made to the enemy at all? people and about the industrial and agricultural potential of that country.

Q Any reference made to the fact that Jews were being executed? Ukrainians or Russians.

Q. So you tell us that his reports which you wrote up described agricultural conditions and the mental attitude of the people?

A. Yes.

Q. Did the reports mention too discussions of the fact that people were going to the theater, enjoying themselves in the theater?

A. I cannot give you any details about that any more.

Q. Were the theaters in operation during that time?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have anything in the reports about the theaters?

A. Yes, I think it was mentioned some time that we took care of Ukrainian cultural matters that the theaters were open again for the indigenous population.

Q. Were you in Charkov?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you there at the time that the people were starving?

A. Yes, I know that during that time --

Q. Yes, and were the theatres operating while 300,000 people were starving?

A. Whether the theatres were open in Charkov for the indigenous people I do not know.

Q. You mean the theatres which were operated for the soldiers for the German Army only, is that what you have been talking about?

A. In Charkov now and then performances for the occupation troops were given, but they were limited most of the time I was in Charkov.

THE PRESIDENT: One moment -- red light.

A. (Continued) As far as I know during my time in Charkow the front was so near that we were always prepared for alarms and therefore very few performances were even given for the occupation forces.

Q. Well, generally, you were in a war zone, weren't you?

A. Yes.

Q. You don't want to tell us that theatres were operating for the civilian population in this war zone?

A. This concerns only the time in Shitomir in 1941 and the theatres had already been opened for the civilian population.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed Dr. Ratz. Well, let's have our recess now.

( A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed, Dr. Ratz. BY DR. RATZ:

Q. Witness, I shall come back once more to the remark in your affidavit that in Rowno you saw a package of 20 files and records about interrogations from which you gathered that in Luck and Sokal people were executed. You said that you had just glanced at the reports. Could you, when looking at them superficially, determine whether the reports and records were made out by Radetsky?

A. No, I could not see the signatures at that moment.

Q. Could you see from the handwriting or anything else that Radetsky had participated in making out these reports?

A. No I could not. They had been typed and only because I got to see them accidentally I just glanced at them and I saw from their contents that executions had taken place.

Q. I now come back to Luck in point of time. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Witness, you say that you glanced at these reports very casually and you couldn't even tell the dates of the executions. How can you tell whether Radetsky had made the reports or not?

A. I said that I could not decipher whether Radetsky had handled these matters or not.

Q. Very well, I misunderstood you. BY DR. RATZ:

Q. You said that in Luck the Main Kommando arrived and that you had continued with the job of seizing documents. How long did you take and did you proceed afterwards?

A. The work on the documents took until the Kommando was ordered to move on to Rowno.

Q. Then a new Advance Kommando was formed and sent to Rowno?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Radetsky in this new Advance Kommando?

A. I can no longer say that today but it is possible.

Q. But you yourself were with this Advance Kommando?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did this Advance Kommando do in Rowno?

A. This Advance Kommando in Rowno had the same job as the one in Luck, namely, to set up quarters and to safeguard documents.

Q. What else happened in Rowno?

A. After several days after the Main Kommando had arrived, or a short time before it arrived in Rowno, another Advance Kommando was sent to Shitomir.

Q. Was Radetsky with the Advance Kommando to Shitomir?

A. I cannot say exactly because I was not with this Kommando.

Q. Where were you?

A. I continued to stay in Rowno until the Main Kommando proceeded to Shitomir.

Q. When you arrived in Shitomir with the Main Kommando did you then see Radetsky?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And what did Radetsky do in Shitomir?

A. In my opinion the main task of Radetsky in Shitomir was to make out reports about agriculture and to make out cultural reports.

Q. Did you yourself participate in making out these reports?

A. Yes.

Q. In what form?

A. Herr von Radetsky often in the late afternoons and in the evening dictated these reports to me and I typed them up.

Q. Do you know what Radetsky did in the mornings and in the afternoons?

A. Yes, to the occasional question where Herr Radetsky got the material for these extensive reports he answered me that he got these through discussions with indigenous authorities.

Q. Did the writing of the reports in Shitomir take up the full time of Radetsky or didn't it?

A. In my opinion it could have taken up all of Radetsky's time because these reports were very extensive so that I suppose that the getting of the material for them took up a lot of time.

Q. How long did this activity in Shitomir last?

A. My activity for Herr von Radetsky lasted for about three weeks in Shitomir.

Q. And what happened after those three weeks?

A. After those three weeks I lost track of Herr von Radetsky.

Q. Do you know where he went?

A. As I have already mentioned I heard that Herr von Radetsky became liaison officer to the Army Headquarters.

Q. When did that happen according to your recollection?

A. That must have been at the end of July or the beginning of August 1941.

Q. Witness, according to the documents submitted by the Prosecution executions also took place in Shitomir, executions of Jews, saboteurs, and political functionaries. Do you know whether Radetsky had participated in such executions in Shitomir?

A. I know nothing about it.

Q. Since you collaborated closely together with Radetsky in Shitomir wouldn't you have had to know if Radetsky had participated in this?

A. In my opinion in these three weeks during which I wrote reports for Herr von Radetsky I would have had to notice, or perhaps, Herr von Radetsky would have said something about the fact that he had participated in such matters.

Q. Did you see Herr von Radetsky later on?

A. After I lost track of Herr von Radetsky in Shitomir I only saw him once more, that was in March 1942 in Charkow.

Q. What did Herr von Radetsky do at that time?

A. I don't know. For some reason Herr von Radetsky came into the orderly room and said "hello" to me and asked me if I was still with the Kommando.

Q. You were then in the orderly room?

A. Yes.

Q. Would it have had to come to your knowledge and did it come to your knowledge if Herr von Radetsky had been active as the commander of Teilkommando or deputy of Blobel?

A. May I ask at what time?

Q. This is the entire period during which you were active in the orderly room of Special Kommando 4a.

A. As I have already mentioned during the entire activity with Special Kommando 4a no deputy for the commander was ever introduced, at least not in my presence. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Dr. Ratz, you have asked him whether he could have known whether von Radetsky had ever deputized for the commander, the commanding officer, and he answers that he knows there was no deputy. He told us that for a period of a year or so he did not see von Radetsky. How does he know what von Radetsky was doing when he wasn't within his sight?

DR. RATZ: Your Honor, I asked this question because Radetsky was still a member of Special Kommando 4a and even if Radesky was not present at that place he still belonged to Special Kommando 4a so that the men in the orderly room would have to know where the officer von Radetsky is, or what he was doing.

BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. What was your business in the orderly room, witness?

A. In Charkow I handled the mail.

Q. Well, you told us about Charkow. Generally what was your job in the orderly room? What did you do?

A. I took care of the letters, registered incoming mail and took care of the mail.

Q. That was the extent of your activities.

A. Yes.

Q. Who was the commanding officer?

A. The Kommando leader of the Main Kommando was Blobel.

Q. Did you have daily conferences with Blobel?

A. No.

Q. Did he tell you what he was going to do and what he had done?

A. No.

Q. Did you know of the executions which were being performed by the Kommando?

A. No, outside of those already mentioned of which I got knowledge through the records which - found in Rowno by accident.

Q. So it was only by this sheer accident that you learned about two executions?

A. Yes.

Q. You know that there were many other executions, don't you?

A. Of mass executions I heard nothing during my activity.

Q. But you can assume that this Kommando performed many other executions can't you?

A. That there were many I cannot suppose but I assume that just as in Sokal and Luck there were executions in other parts, too.

Q. But you did not have direct knowledge of them yourself?

A. No.

Q. Well, then how do you presume to tell the Tribunal whether von Radetsky had charge of any sub-Kommando out in the field? You didn't see him? You had no control over reports which he rendered. You had no immediate familiar contact with the Kommando leader. How do you now presume to tell the Tribunal that you know that von Radetsky at no time was the leader of a sub-Kommando? How do you support that statement?

A. I have stated that Captain von Radetsky in as far as I know was never a commanding officer of a Teilkommando and I would like to support this by saying that I heard that from August 1941 on he was liaison officer to the Army Headquarters.

Q. Well, you don't know of your own knowledge whether he ever commanded a Teilkommando.

A. No, I do not know.

Q. All right, proceed, Dr. Ratz.

BY DR. RATZ:

Q. Witness, you said in the beginning that you were a member of the Nazi Party and not a member of the SS either. Did you have the impression as far as Herr von Radetsky is concerned that he was an active or a fanatic National Socialist.

A. No, I did not have that impression. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Did you think that Blobel was fanatic National Socialist?

A. I cannot say anything about it because I never talked privately with Herr Blobel.

Q. Well, you were with Blobel every day. You saw him regularly. You can't tell us about Blobel but you can tell us about von Radetsky whom you only saw a short time, is that right?

A. I saw Blobel very rarely.

Q. Well he was the commanding officer, wasn't he?

A. Yes, but Blobel was rarely in the orderly room.

Q. Where was he when he wasn't in the orderly room?

A. Possibly in his private room.

Q. Well, how far away was his private room?

A. It was in the same building but I never had anything to do with Herr Blobel.

Q. Well, you saw him going in and out, didn't you?

A. I saw him occasionally when he left by car bur why he left I don't know.

Q. And you took mail in to him, didn't you?

A. No, mostly it was an officer or another man in the orderly room that did that. The one who gave him documents to sign.

Q. You want to tell us that you didn't know your own commanding officer?

A. I could not say that I knew Herr Blobel all right but since I had no personal contact with him.

Q. How long were you with him?

A. From June until March 1942 I was with this Kommando including the time I was sick and on recuperation leave.

Q. So you were with him 9 or 10 months?

A. About 6 or 7 months.

Q. How long were you with von Radetsky?

A. Only up to the time we were in Shitomir.

Q. How long?

A. That is about one to two months.

Q. So now you can tell us that von Radetsky was not a fanatic National Socialist but you cannot tell us whether Blobel was or not?

A. I had occasion to talk to Herr von Radetsky while he was dictating reports to me and to exchange some personal observations with him.

Q. Didn't you ever see any of the reports which Blobel made up?

A. No.

Q. Was there no discussion in the orderly room as to what Blobel was doing?

A. No. I know nothing about it.

Q. You know that your Kommando killed 39,000 in the space of a very few months.

A. I only found out after the capitulation that such mass killings took place in the East.

Q. You were right in the midst of all this carnage but you know nothing about it?

A. No. I know nothing of mass executions during all this time while working in SK 4a.

Q. Proceed Dr. Ratz. BY DR. RATZ:

Q. One concluding question. Did Herr von Radetsky ever talk to you about executions?

A. No, Herr von Radetsky never spoke to me about executions because the contents of the reports which he dictated to me were entirely different.

Q. And one final question. Do you know anything about it whether Radetsky ever participated in any form in any executions?

A. Personally I know nothing about it but only during the time which I have mentioned, namely July and August, was I with von Radetsky and I only saw him once more in March and I assume that in his capacity as liaison officer to the Army Headquarters he probably could not have had anything to do with such matters.

Q. That's all. I have no further questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, Mr. Hochwald. BY MR HOCHWALD:

Q. May it please the Tribunal. Witness is it true that you signed and swore to an affidavit dated on 21 August 1947?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you say the truth in this affidavit?

A. Yes.

Q. Is it further true that you signed another affidavit, dated 10 October 1947?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you say the truth in this affidavit?

A. Yes.

Q. So you said the truth in both affidavits, is it so?

A. Yes.

Q. From your first affidavit -

DR. RATZ: Your Honor, the second affidavit is contained in my Document Book but I have not yet submitted it. I think there is no cause to question the witness about that affidavit.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the affidavit is in the possession of the Prosecution, in complete correct form. We have received the translated document book, the affidavit is before the Tribunal. I do think I should be permitted to ask him any questions resulting from this affidavit.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ratz, you may not be familiar with this rule of law but in cross examination you may impeach the witness in any way, that is entirely relevant and certainly an affidavit made up by a witness is good evidence to use against him in cross examination. You may proceed, Mr. Hochwald.
BY MR. HOCHWALD:

Q. You stated in this affidavit of 21 August -- I am referring, Your Honors, to Document Book III-C, document NO-4765, page 30, No-4765, it is Prosecution Exhibit 137 -- that you worked with the Gestapo, is that correct?

A. Yes. I had been called into the Gestapo.

Q. You were in Hungary with the group Eichmann, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you tell the Tribunal what the task of the group Eichmann was?

A. As I heard in Hungary the group Eichmann carried out negotiations with the Government authorities in Hungary and it resulted in the Jewish population there being evacuated by the Hungarian Field Police.

Q. You know that the group Eichmann was this group which was assigned the task to kill the Jews?

A. No. I didn't know at that time.

Q. You didn't know that?

A. No.

Q. You wrote articles for the defendant Radetsky, cultural reports and reports on economy, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever speak to him about executions?

A. No.

Q. What did he have to do with executions?

A. I know nothing about it.

Q. Why would you then have been of the opinion that he did Know about executions if he never spoke to you, if he had never anything to do with it? Why did you, witness?

A. May I ask that the question be repeated please?

Q. Are you of the opinion that Radetsky is informed and was informed about executions in detail?

A. That he was informed about executions?

Q. In detail.

A. That is possible but I heard nothing about it.

Q. Are you and were you of the opinion that he was? That's my question.

A. As an officer the possibility existed that he heard about such matters.

Q. This is not my question. My question is very clear whether you are or were of the opinion that Radetsky was informed about executions in detail. Were you of the opinion, are you of the opinion, or are you not of the opinion?

A. I never thought about it.

Q. Were you interrogated about this question here in Nurnberg?

A. Whether Herr von Radetsky -

Q. No, about the question of executions?

A. Yes.

Q. Is it true that you said you do not know a thing about it?

A. Yes, that is correct. I merely mentioned that I knew about executions in Sokal and Luck.

Q. Is it further true that you were asked who would know about it? Were you asked that?

A. It is possible that they asked me that question.

Q. Whom did you mention who would know about these executions?

A. I mentioned that at least the commander had to know about it.

Q. Whom did you mention? You mentioned one name if you had know that a few weeks ago you must know it today, Tell us the name which you mentioned of the person who did know about executions.

A. As the only person who had to know about executions I named the Commander Blobel.

Q. Nobody else? Nobody else, witness?

A. It is possible that I mentioned the officer Karlsen.

Q. I will read to you what you have said: "Q. (I am sorry I have to read in German) How many people were exeucted.

"A. (your answer) I cannot give you the number."

"Q. Who can testify about these matters?"

"A. In my opinion the officers.

"Q. Who were the officers.

"A. Radetsky."

'Neither Blobel, neither Karlsen, but Radetsky. That is what you said, Witness,

A. It is possible that I said that at the time.

Q. All right. You have told me on very explicit questioning just three minutes ago the absolute contrary.

A. I said --

Q. I told you what you have said. Nothing else. Can you tell the Tribunal whether you are or were of the opinion that it would have been impossible that Radetsky would have carried out executions? Did I understand your testimony correctly to that effect?

A. I don't quite understand.

Q. Did you say in direct examination that according to your opinion Radetsky certainly could not have carried out executions?

A. Yes, I said that.

Q. Why?

A. Because in my opinion Herr von Radetsky was fully occupied in Luck making out his reports and later in Shitomir with writing reports.

Q. Were you interrogated about this question too, here in Nurnberg?

A. It is possible.

Q. Do you remember what your opinion then was?

A. It is possible that I then said that as an officer he could have had the opportunity to hear about such matters and I cannot remember anything further.

Q. You have not answered my question. The question was whether you were interrogated here in Nurnberg about your knowledge whether Radetsky carried out - not knew about - carried out executions? Were you interrogated about that?

A. That is possible.

Q Do you remember what reply you gave to the interrogator?

Q You did not say, "No", you only said, "I do not know, I was never outside, outside of my office." That is what you said, but you did not say with one word that it was, according to your opinion, impossible that he would have carried out executions. Let's go now to your second affidavit which allegedly is true.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, why not ask him whether that is a fact, that he did put it only in the realm of lack of knowledge and not a positive negative?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Thank you very much, your Honor.

Q (By Mr. Horlick-Hochwald) Will you answer the question?

A I didn't quite get that question.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, Mr. Hochwald asked you if in your interrogation you had been questioned as to whether von Radetzky had superintended or in any way taken care of any executions, and your reply in effect was here that your answer could only have been no. So far you understand what we are talking about, don't you?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: All right. Now, Mr. Hochwald now read to you from the interrogation which seems to say that you were put that same question and your reply was, "I don't know". "I don't know," of course, includes a positive, as well as a negative answer. Now, which is it, that you don't know whether he ever performed an execution or that he did not perform an execution?

THE WITNESS: I do not know. May I ask for a clarification?

THE PRESIDENT: All right. Now then, you say you do not know. When Mr. Hochwald asked you that very question, you said your answer could only have been no, namely that he did not perform any execution. How do you reconcile those two statements?

THE WITNESS: May I say something about this?

THE PRESIDENT: All right.

THE WITNESS: I am a baker, and have never anything to do with legal matters so that I cannot make a legal distinction between the answer, "I don't know" and "No".

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal takes this statement to be correct, any form of cross-examination seems to be impossible. I do think the witness himself has just admitted that he does not know the worth of an oath.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Witness, I wouldn't understand why a baker wouldn't know the difference between "No" and "I don't know". What is there about baking bread that so confuses the brain that one can't tell between no and ignorance? The staff of life apparently does not help a baker very much.

THE WITNESS: I can only maintain my testimony, that I said at least during that interrogation I was not legally fit to handle such quibbling.

THE PRESIDENT: Such quibbling? Please read the interrogation, that question and answer.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Yes, I shall do so.

THE PRESIDENT: For a baker you are getting into some pretty technical language here.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I beg the Tribunal's pardon. I just can't find it at the moment, but I will have it in a minute. The question was, and I have to quote in German again, your Honor, "How many executions do you think Radetzky carried out?" The answer was, "I do not know. I never was outside." I do think there is no comment necessary, that between the explanation the witness gave today and the witness gave during the interrogation there is a colossal difference.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, give him an opportunity to explain that answer. BY THE PRESIDENT:

tion and answer. You were asked, "How many executions". It wasn't even, "Did he perform an execution," but "How many," and your answer was, "I don't know". Your answer wasn't, "I don't think he ever committed an execution", it is, "I don't know because I was never outside." You went pretty far there in implicating your comrade, didn't you? "I don't know", I didn't become aware of. I cannot really know it because I was not with Herr von Radetzky in such a manner so that after the difference between the "I don't know" and "No" have been explained, I can only say, "I don't know."

Q Well, witness, your difficulty is this. If you don't know what took place that should be your answer all the time, "I don't know", but you have voluntarily set out to tell what von Radetzky was doing when you didn't even see him. You were saying he couldn't have been in charge of a Teilkommando because in the orderly room you would have found out. Now, if you would have found out whether he was in charge of a Teilkommando or not, it is not unlikely to conclude that you could have found out whether he performed an execution. Isn't that logical?

A I said in my affidavit of October, I always said, "as far as I know" that whenever I claimed anything, that if I said Radetzky did not command a Teilkommando, at least I don't know that he did, I always added that, I think.

Q That is the whole point. If you don't know, that ends it. There is no attempt here to try to confuse you, but if you make a statement of knowledge, then you must support that statement as to how you know, and if you make the statement that von Radetzky could not have been in charge of a Teilkommando because you were in the orderly room, then you have to establish that statement, you see.

A Yes. During the time I wrote reports for Herr von Radetzky in Shitomir, Herr von Radetzky was also in Shitomir, and during this period -

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, don't let's lose a lot of time on this.

We are referring to the time that von Radetzky was not with you. Dr. Ratz asked you if when he was away from you he could have commanded a Teilkommando, and you said, no, because being in the orderly room you would have learned about this. That is what precipitated this whole discussion.

Proceed, Mr. Hochwald. Do you have something to say, Witness?

THE WITNESS: I wanted to say that I can only testify for the period that I was with the kommando, that is until March, 1942. During this time from August, or July and August, that is during the time when I lost track of Radetzky, I heard that he had become a liaison officer with Army headquarters, and as far as I always heard again later he was still that in March, 1942.

Q (By the President) Witness, let's sum it all up. From June, 1941, to March, 1942, do you know whether von Radetzky conducted any executions? was ever in charge of a Teilkommando?

A From June, 1941, until March 1942?

Q Yes. Do you know whether during that period he was ever in charge of a Teilkommando?

THE PRESIDENT: You see, if you had said that at the beginning, that would have ended all the inquiry.

CROSS EXAMINATION (Continued) BY MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD : could not have been a leader of a Teilkommando and he could not have carried out executions, that you had the knowledge that these answers were to be - these questions were to be answered in the negative? Is it not true that you are telling the Tribunal now something completely different than that what you have said in direct examination Court No. II, Case No. IX.

twenty-five minutes ago? Your Honors, I am quoting from Radetzky Document Book No. I, Radetzky Document No. 7, which is an affidavit of the witness, from Page 29.

THE PRESIDENT: In his book?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD : In the defendant's book,

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, I see.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD : This document is not, an exhibit before the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: I understand.

Q (By Mr. Horlick-Hochwald) I quote: "As to the question who was Fuehrer of this Vorkommando", - and that is the Vorkommando in Luck "I would like to state today after many and thorough deliberations, today, I am of the opinion that von Radetzky was not and could not have been the Fuehrer of this kommando since he was not a member of the Security Police, and, thus, was not familiar with Security Police tasks, whereas the other Fuehrers were police experts." Did you say that? "I remember that one evening a conference was held during our stay in Luck, in the course of which Waldemar von Radetzky, a senior leader, gave orders to the assembled subleaders to seize documents and other important material from certain buildings. At that time I had the impression that Radetzky was the head of the Vorkommando, although he had never been pointed out to me as such."

A May I say something about this?

Q I want to ask you and then you can explain. Is it true that at that time, which means at a time when you were in Luck, you were of the opinion that Radetzky was the leader of the kommando? A I would like to make a statement about this.

were of the opinion that Radetzky was the leader of the Vorkommando? Answer this question, please, with yes or no. Then you can explain.

Q Will you please answer first with yes or no, and explain then?

Q Just say yes or not, whether you did. The question is, I ask you now the question for the third time, is it true that you then at that time, when you were in Luck, were of the opinion that Radetzky was the leader of the kommando?

to change this opinion between August and October 1947, six years after the happenings had taken place? that was in 1941. At the time in Schmiedeberg before the commando moved out, we had training.

Q May I interrupt you, witness. Is it not true that when you gave your affidavit in August 1947 your military knowledge was as great as on the 10th of October 1947? The question was, why did you change your testimony between August and October, Nor, what did you learn about Radetzky from 1941 to August 1947? The very clear question is, why did you change this testimony between the 10th of August and the 10th of October?

DR. RATZ: In order to make a correction, I would like to remark that the witness has not changed his testimony from August until October, for in August he said that at that time, six years ago-he had the impression.

MR. HOCHWAID: Please. That is certainly not possible that defense counsel explains what the witness is supposed to answer. This is cross examination, and it is obvious that the witness made two completely different statements. I do think that I am within my rights to question him rather rigorously on this part.

PRESIDENT: Proceed.

WITNESS: Before Dr. Ratz said anything, I wanted to say something about it. In my affidavit of August, I said that at that time I had the impression, and I didn't say that in August 1947, I had the impression that Radetzky was leader of the commando. BY MR. HOCHWAID:

Q Just a minute. That is an explanation. Were you during your examination here in Nuernberg of the opinion that Radetzky was the leader of the commando in 1947?

A No. I said in my interrogation that Herr von Radetzky.

Q I will read you question Number 16. You have said in your interrogation that he was not the commander, did you want to say that?

A In what interrogation? leader of the Einsatzkommando or of the Vorkommando or the subcommando? Radetzky was the commanding officer of-the advance commando.

Q All right. Let me ask you further what made you change your opinion between the time when you made this declaration and the time that you gave your affidavit on the 10th of August, which deliberation made you change this statement? What did you learn which informed you more about the facts between this interrogation and your affidavitwho told you to change your statement? my second interrogation here in Nuernberg --you, I can stay and hear you two days-you will answer my question. If you perjure yourself 150 times, I have no objections against that.

PRESIDENT: Now, put the question very specifically. BY MR. HOCHWAID: tween the interrogation in Nuernberg and the 10th of October when you made this affidavit-which deliberation made you change your statement?

A I did not change my testimony. I merely said in my second affidavit of October that afterwards, that is, after my affidavit of August, I seriously thought about the matter, whether Herr Von Radetzky could have been in the position, technically speaking, of being able to be commanding officer of this advance commando. asked who was the leader of this advance commando or subcommando, you did not know and it was suggested to you that it might have been Radetzky, that is what you stated and, therefore, the name came into the affidavit. made out... specifically about the interrogation, as you have said here in direct examination that it was suggested to you in the interrogation you did not know the name and then the name was suggested to you, and so you said, "Yes". I want to find out what is the truth in this case. I speak about the interrogation. When you were interrogated, did you remember the name of the man who was in charge of the advance commando or subcommando? Nuernberg I said that Herr Von Radetzky could have been it, or that he was it--I don't remember exactly, but that in the next interrogation I corrected myself, and said that it was not Herr von Radetzky.

Q What did you say in the first interrogation?

Q Are you sure about that? I said I did not know who was the commanding officer of the advance commando. rogation of yours the fact that Radetzky was in charge in Luck or did you volunteer this statement, the statement which you consider now to be incorrect?

A Is this my affidavit of 21 August?

Q Now we are speaking all the time about your interrogation? Tribunal that the name of Radetzky having been in charge of the advance commando in Luck was suggested to you by the interrogator and that you just could not remember, and after the suggestion, you gave way and so the name came into the affidavit. Now, I ask you, did you volunteer this statement that Radetzky was in charge in Luck when you were questioned about his activities? Radetzky was in charge in Luck, or did you when asked about his activities volunteer the statement that he was in charge in Luck? wouldn't have hit upon this Subject. put to you, how often did Radetzky command the commando? What did you say to that?

A What commando are you speaking about? did Radetzky command the commando--Einsatzkommando or Sonderkommando 4A.

A You mean the entire commando?

PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, ask him if he remembers the question; if he remembers the question, then ask him if he remembers the answer, and then have him give the answer. BY MR. HOCHWALD :

Q I am asking, do you remember that these questions were put to you? similar question? that it was suggested to you by the interrogator that Radetzky was in charge in Luck if you cannot remember, as you have just told the Tribunal. You have given a very explicit statement here that you have said when asked whether Radetzky was in charge in Luck that you answered, "I do not know", and that it was then suggested that he must have been, and that you agreed on that afterwards. Is that right that you made this statement?

PRESIDENT: You do put multiple questions, Mr. Hochwald.

MR. HOCHWALD: I am sorry.

THE WITNESS: I really don't know any more what you are speaking about. BY MR. HOCHWALD: questioned about the fact whether Radetzky was in charge of the Vorkommando in Luck, told the interrogator that you do not know, is that correct?

A This is the interrogation you mean in August?

A Yes. In the first interrogation I said, "I do not know", In the second interrogation I said, it is possible, or that he was it, and then I asked to discuss the matter again, and I wanted to correct that point. allegedly said you do not know?

Q Is it possible that it was on the 15th? time or only the first time? It was on the 15th, and I want to read to you the question which was put to you. I will again quote in German:

"Q How often did Radetzky command the commando?

A In Luck for a few days he commanded the commando." Are you still maintaining, did you say that? rected myself.

Q I can read you from another interrogation on the 18th. I have more than that:

" Q Who gave you your assignments?

AAs far as I know, Radetzky. At that time he had the command." Did you say that? blasting unit.

Q I have read your interrogations with great interest. You have testified to this to the safe-breaking or safe-blasting unit, but you have never mentioned the name of Radetzky, which appears quite often in the other parts of your interrogation, together with the safe-blasting unit. Is it true what you said in your affidavit of 21 August that Radetzky selected among the Ukrainians interpreters who were to work with 4A? he not? Another question:

"Q Who was your commanding Officer at that time?

A I think Radetzky--I cannot say it exactly any more." Do you remember in which connection you made this statement?

A No, I can no longer say. I merely knew that Von Radetzky gave me my direct orders in Luck. answer when you were questioned, about the fact whether Radetzky was in charge in Rowno?

A Whether Radetzky commanded the commando of Rowno?

Q I want to read to you the thing again if you want me to:

"Q Did the entire commando move on to Rowno?

A No. Only the advance commando.

Q Who was your commanding officer at that time?

A I think Radetzky. I can no longer say exactly." The question was about Rowno, not about Luck, was it? Now, I want just to ask you what you did say about the fact whether Radetzky was deputy for Blobel or not. Do you remember what you said in interrogations about it? cannot testify about the deputy of the commanding officer because no deputy was ever introduced to us.

Radetzky?

MR. HOCHWALD: Your Honors, I have no further questions, but the prosecution respectfully moves that the witness may be cited by the Tribunal for contempt of court.

PRESIDENT: On what grounds?

MR. HOCHWALD: Perjury, Your Honor.

DR. RATZ: Your Honors, I have nothing to say to that. I shall leave the decision up to the Tribunal.

PRESIDENT: The prosecution has made the request that the witness be cited for contempt on the grounds of perjury, and there is no doubt that the prosecution can draw the conclusion that the witness has committed perjury, that is, the prosecution may from what has been advanced, taking its side of the case, conclude that the witness at one time made a certain statement under oath and then later made a statement contrary to that also under oath, but it may be advanced on the other side that while it is true, the witness may have made contradictory statements, yet the witness has explained that he was only giving his opinion. It does appear to the Tribunal that the witness has at least been a little careless in his answers to questions put to him on various occasions, but we are not ready to go so far as to say that with these statements which he made there went the malice which would necessarily be requisite upon which to found a charge of contempt for perjury, but aside from whether perjury has or has not been committed, the Tribunal believes that the effects might be more injurious than solubrious. The Tribunal would not want any defense counsel to feel that there is any danger or hazard to be confronted in calling any witness to testify, and even if this witness may have gone amiss, and we do not pass upon that right now, we are definitely of the belief that it would be a very bad precedent to establish, a very bad example to have, which might cause defense counsel to believe that they should proceed so cautiously as sometimes not to call a witness for fear that Court No. II, Case No. IX.

perjury procedure might follow and in that way perhaps deprive themselves of a witness who might well be helpful to their cause. We regret very much on the side of the witness that he did conduct himself in the way he did because it is quite clear that he was careless, but we will not go so far as to say that he committed perjury insofar as the Tribunal is able to determine it here. So under those circumstances, Mr. Hochwald, your recommendation will not be accepted, but we do not in any way criticize you for having presented it.

MR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much.

PRESIDENT: Yes. Did you have any further questions, Dr. Ratz? The witness will be excused. Oh, did any other counsel desire to put any questions to the witness, because if you do, we would like to have you do it this afternoon so the witness will not have to come back tomorrow.

DR. RATZ: I only would like to clarify one point, Your Honor. On the basis of this ruling on the part of the Tribunal, I may assume that the witness can return to his homeland, to Goslar, without any hindrance, and that it would not be permitted to arrest him or to detain him or to do anything against him to prevent his return trip home?

PRESIDENT: Without any hindrance whatever, the witness may leave and go about his affairs freely as he did before he came into this courtroom, of course, referring insofar as it pertains to anything which happened here in this courtroom.

DR. RATZ: Yes, Sir. Thank you.

PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will now be in recess until tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 0930 hours, 18 December 1947.)

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant, Ruehl, will be taken to the witness box.

JUDGE SPEIGHT: Witness, raise your right hand, repeat the oath after me: I swear by God, the Almighty and Omniscient, that I will speak the pure truth and will withhold and add nothing.

(The witness repeated the oath.)

JUDGE SPEIGHT: You may be seated.

DR. LINCK: Attorney Linck for the defendant, Ruehl. May I begin my direct examination of the witness, please?

THE PRESIDENT: Please do, Dr. Linck. BY DR. LINCK: you about your person, about your vocational and political development. Please give your full name, your birth date, and where you were born.

A My name is Felix Ruehl. I was born on the 12th of August 1910 in Neheim, Westphalia.

Q Are you married?

Q Do you have any children?

Q Did you have, or do you have any brothers or sisters?

A I had one brother. He was a businessman. He was killed in the war against Russia. He was a lieutenant.

of your father?

A My father is a retired customs official. He belonged to the German People's Party.

Q Where did you grow up, Mr. Ruehl, what schools did you attend?

A I grew up in Lockenwalde. I attended the high school there.

Q Where is Lockenwalde?

Q What was your professional training? apprentice for three years in a metal factory. I remained with this firm after I completed my apprenticeship. I remained with them another half year as an assistant. Then I gave up this position in order to go to England to get some further professional training. There I was from October 1929 until May 1930, but because of financial difficulties I had to return. Because of the economic stress prevalent in Germany, at that time, it was impossible for me to find another job in my own profession in Germany, but since I did not want to burden my parents, I accepted a job as an unskilled worker in a factory. After a few months I lost this position, too, since this concern had to close up also. Despite all efforts and eagerness to accept any type of work, I remained unemployed for the time being until in the spring of 1930 -- pardon me--1931, I received an auxiliory job with the district court in Luckenwalde. There I remained until I was taken into the Prussian secret police on the first of October 1933.

Q Will you please briefly describe your political development? stress and need came to an especially strong expression -- therefore, I early reached the conclusion that the solution of the social problem was one of the most pressing problems. Therefore, during my apprenticeship.

already, that was in the year 1926, I joined the trade union of employees and I belonged to this union until it was dissolved in 1933, and I was active in its youth group. But soon I came to the conclusion that on the small front of a profession trade union alone the important youth work could not lead to any success. Therefore, in 1927 I also joined the "greater German youth group".

Q Was this a party political organization?

A No. The"greater German youth group" rejected any political affiliation. It was active generally as a part of the organized youth, and its aim was the moral and ethical education of the youth.

Q How long did you belong to this greater German youth group?

Q Were you in it in some active position?

A Yes. In the years 1931 and 1932 I directed the local youth group.

Q That was in 1931 and 1932? Party and the SA at the end of 1930, is that correct?

Q What led you to do this? party political activity, and I didn't especially interest myself in party politics. Only after I returned from England in the spring of 1930 and when I realized the extent of the economic strain and had to experience its consequences on my own person, I think I began to become interested in political parties. As I have already said, I already had considered socialism as one of the most pressing problems. I was confirmed in this opinion in my activity as an unskilled worker in the factory, and then as an unemployed and, therefore, I came to the conclusion that only socialism would offer a solution. As to the Marxist parties, apart from the ideology, I was against the idea of the class struggle because, in spite of the position I held then, I felt that I belonged to the bourgoisie because of my background.

But in addition to that, there was another thing. In the party system of the Weimar Republic, I saw one of the chief causes of our catastrophic economic and political conditions, which in my opinion, led to the absolutely senseless number of over 30 political parties. Thus the political will of the German people was so split up that the formation of an efficient ogvernment became impossible. Here, in my opinion, was one of the most important impediments to relieving our distress which could only be overcome by joining forces with everybody. Thus I decided to join the Nazi Party which promised to remove these conditions by legal means. I joined the SA because the membership in a Nazi affiliation was a matter of course for party members of my age group.

Q What offices did you hold in the Party? one.

the SS--what was the reason for that? organization and since their attitude seemed impossible to us and, therefore, on the first of October 1932 I joined the SS which was just being formed in my hometown, and in view of their higher prerequisites and their stricter discipline, I expected more from them.

Q Did you do any active service in the SS, if so, how long?

A Yes. In the local SS group I did service. On the basis of my professional training, the administrative work was given to me. When I was taken into the Prussian secret state police on the first of October 1933 I left the active service of the SS. SS membership. First of all, I want to ask you something else. You spoke of being taken into the Prussian secret state police. How did that come about? on a certain evening since a commission from Berlin wished to see us. This commission then reviewed us -- inspected us -- and finally told us that they were looking for people for the security police. For the time being, I no longer heard anything about this matter, until in the last days of September my commander told me that an order had been received from Berlin that on the next day I was to report there at the secret police. Therefore, I went to Berlin according to order where there was no question of reporting any longer, but where they gave me a job right off the bat. That is how I got to join the Gestapo. your career there? as an employee. These in the department for salaries I had to take care of calculating the social contributions -- the welfare contribution. On the first of March 1934, I was transferred to Cologne, and I on my own request.

I was used in the department for espionage counter-intelligence. After two years of training I passed a special examination in March 36 in Berlin, became an assistant for criminal affairs and finally in April 1937 I became chief assistant for criminal affairs. As such, I continued to work in espionage counter-intelligence until in September 1937 I was called to take an examination for the criminal service. After I successfully passed this examination on the first of October 1937, I was assigned to a training course for candidates for police inspector which ended with an examination after nine months. After completion of this course and of this examination, on the 30th of June 1938 I was appointed a police inspector provisionally and finally after another test period, effective the 30th of January 1939 I was appointed a police inspector. I continued to remain active in the espionage counter-intelligence service in this position until on the first of September 1940 I was called in for another course of study. On this occasion I was also transferred to Office I and released from the service.

Q What do you mean "called to a course of study", how did that come about?

A Well, I didn't volunteer for it, on the contrary, I objected orally to my supervisor, but when this remained without succes, I again objected to the RSHA giving my reasons. Nevertheless, on the first of September 1940 I was called to this course of study, since the chief of the security police in a speech termed such applications as without any foundation, and he emphasized that it was the duty of everyone to go wherever he was sent.

Q I do not quite understand that. We are still studying. Are you of the opinion that it was inappropriate to study -- in any case, why did you want to refuse to matriculate in the university?

A There were two reasons for that. First of all, on my own request I was active in espionage counter-intelligence since 1934, and I was very familiar with the work in this field, therefore, it was my wish to remain in this activity since I like it. Secondly, on the first day of the war and soon afterwards again I tried to get a release for the army. Both applications were rejected, and the reason for that was that the importance of my work was decisive. Only the belief that I could do a greater service to my people in performing this work made it bearable for me to take this rejection without any trouble, therefore, I was ashamed of the fact that now I was also taken out of this work and as a young, able-bodied man to be sent to a university, while at the same time heads of families were being sent to the front.

Q. All right. You took up your studies.

A. Yes.

Q. How long did you stay?

A. Until August 1943. Then I passed my big legal examination and that finished that.

Q. Now we are in August 1943. Then your assignement in Russia, with which we shall concern ourselves in detail, was in the midst of your legal studies?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, I would like to conclude your professional c areer. What happened after you finished your studies in August 1943?

A. Before I finished my studies, I had tried to find employment in the Criminal police, but I could not get this because of official requirements as they told me. Instead, effective the 1st of September, 1943, I was sent to the Inspector of the Security Police and SD in Koenigsberg as a Government assessor. I held this position until the 30th of August, 1944.

Q. When you worked for this Inspector of the Criminal Police and SD in Koenigsberg, did you have any executive duties or powers?

A. No, even the Inspector himself did not have such power and certainly then I couldn't have them.

Q. Can you say with one sentence what your activity was during that period?

A. In order to summarize it in one sentence To aid the Inspector in the fields of police and administrative law and to cooperate with the authorities of the Interior Administration.

Q. Now we are on the 31st of August, 1944.

A. Yes.

Q. What happened then?

A. At that point I was transferred to Augsburg. The State Police Agency there, because of lack of personnel had been dissolved in the first years of the war and had been reorganized into a branch office

Augsburg agency as far as personnel was concerned and gradually to take over its former competencies.

When this reorganization had been completed in February or March, 1945, the appointment of a commander took place -- to whom I was subordinated -- as Chief of Department IV.

Q. And after the capitulation?

A. After the capitulation, I went back to the headquarters of my office in Augsburg and there I reported to the CIC of Third Army.

Q. Now, let's come back to the Russian assignment. This has already been mentioned on the occasion of your studies. How did this come about? Did you volunteer?

A. No, I did not. In Hay 1941 approximately all the candidates of the Leading Service who were studying in Berlin were assembled in the Leaders School of the Gestapo in Berlin and the then Chief of Office I told us that our studies would have to be interrupted immediately, since we had to be available for other more urgent tasks. He did not tell us anything about the nature of the work. A few days later, the entire group of students was sent to Pretzch, where other forces of the Security Police and SD had already been assembled and forces of the Regular Police and SS also joined us.

Q. One moment. Another question. This group of students, was that the group of which Herr Schulz spoke on the witness stand?

A. Yes.

Q. And to which Mr. Fendler belonged?

A. Yes.

Q. And how long did you stay in Pretzch?

A. As far as I recall, that could have been about three weeks.

Q. What happened during those three weeks?

A. They were essentially taken up with military training and a number of innoculations. This looked like an officer assignment, but we couldn't find out anything about the objective. It was the general opinion that the long awaited campaign against England was at hand.

About the beginning of June we were distributed in the forces already assembled and the Einsatzgruppen and Einsatzkommandos were set up. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. witness, before you go into that, just a question please: What did the military training consist of at Pretzch?

A. Practically speaking, it was a brief basic military training. The important thing was to give these men a sense of belonging together to make them feel as one unit. The military training was limited to drills, marching, terrain exercises, terrain intelligence and a short course in the firing of weapons.

Q. Were you given military training in tactics, military tactics?

A. No, within the officer group terrain intelligence was discussed, and map reading -- that is really the most important thing -- and, if I may add, what we call terrain exercises, terrain games.

Q. What did you do in this type of exercise?

A. A problem was given us. Two groups were formed and one would try to reconnoiter the other and would have to find it.

Q. How long were you in Pretzsch?

A. About three weeks.

Q. Had you had any military training before?

A. Yes.

Q. Had many of your comrades had any military training before?

A. The officers, almost all of them. The members of the police, almost all. The only exceptions were those on an emergency war status. In their case it varied.

Q. was the Defendant Fendler with you?

A. Only at the beginning. We were sent there together and afterwards we were distributed among various places and even in Pretzsch we were in different groups.

Q. But you both received about the same kind of training during the time you were there?

A. In Pretzsch itself, basically yes.

THE PRESIDENT: All right. Proceed, Dr. Linck. BY DR. LINCK (Attorney for the defendant Ruehl):

Q. Thus, when these three weeks were over, there was a distribution and I think you wanted to say something else about it. To what group or to what kommando were you sent?

A. May I add that Einsatzgruppe D was then transferred to Dueben as their garrison. Here I was assigned to Special Kommando 10-B, whose commanding officer was Major Bersterer.

Court No. II, Case No. IX.

Q. Now we are in Special Kommando 10B. Will you now tell the Tribunal about your mission as exactly as possible, the position which you had in that kommando?

A. No administrative officer had been assigned to this Kommando. Since during my time with the SS I was in charge of the administrative business of my unit and since I had also been active in the State administration, all administrative jobs were given to me. I took care of these jobs until I left the Einsatzgruppe. My first-job in Dueben was therefore to look after quarters and supplies, look after equipment and taking care of the administration and organization of the forces which had come from all parts of the Reich and all branches. This work, as well as the military training already mentioned, took up my entire time until the Einsatzgruppe left at the end of June.

Q. I want to go back once more for a moment. Did you in Dueben hear about the aims and objectives of your unit?

A. In Dueben there was nothing announced about the aim or objective of the assignment, until, when war broke out with the Soviet Union, when it became clear through some lectures about Russia that we were to be sent to Russia for an assignment. About the type of our mission the Chief of the Security Police and SD in a speech in front of the entire group assembled there shortly before we left told us briefly that difficult missions were ahead of us and that he demanded absolute obedience from us and absolute fullfillment of duty.

Q. Herr Ruehl, a discussion with Gruppenfuehrer Streckenbach has been frequently mentioned here. Did you participate in this conference or did you hear anything about it?

A. I neither participated in this conference nor did I hear that such a conference had taken place.

Q. But you must have had some thoughts about your mission or you must have tried to find out something about it.

A. I considered it as a matter of course that as far as the assignment ahead of us was concerned we would have to do a job which resulted from the usual police activity, namely, the detection and combatting of all enemy forces, especially espionage, sabotage, Communist resistance movements, and so forth. That is how I understood the remark of Heydrich that difficult tasks lay ahead of us, that the carrying out of such missions in a war area would be so much more difficult. Since the commander who came later and who was completely unknown to me did not make any announcements on his part, I, therefore, say no reason to ask him.

Q. But when did you find out details about this mission?

A. Only later on, I think, in Chernovitz.

Q. Well, then, please continue your story. You left Dueben when, and where was your kommando committed at first?

A. On the 27th or 28th of June Group D left for its assignment in the southern sector and we were then told that our area would be the Caucasus. Within the Group the kommando moved via Iglau, Englaw, Arrat, Muelbach, until Chessburg in Rumania, where it arrived on the 3d of July and remained there for two days. There the kommando received, its first assignment and the order to move on to Chernovitz as their first garrison. After on the 4th of July an advance detachment had left Chessburg, the kommando followed on the 5th until Sochawa, where the kommando was divided up, while the commando himself with the major part of the kommando moved on on one next day, that is, the 6th or 7th of July, I received the order to take up quarters in Sochawa with the supply column.

BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. What do you mean? I am afraid I am getting lost between Rodavia and Bessarabia. I don't know just where I am now. when die you arrive in Chernovitz?

A. Your Honor, the first parts of the Kommando, or I, or the commando, which do you mean?

Q. Well, first tell me at what point did the kommando divide.

A. One advance detachment already became independent at Chessburg and proceeded to Chernovitz on its own, with a few cars.

Q. I see, and of what group were you a member?

A. I belonged to the kommando.

Q. To the advance kommando?

A. No.

Q. The kommando itself?

A. To the kommando itself, to the bulk of the kommando.

Q. I see. and where did it go?

A. On the next day, the kommando went to Sochawa.

Q. And it arrived there when?

A. In the evening.

Q. What day?

A. On the 5th.

Q. I see, and then where did it go?

A. There the kommando was divided, that is, the commander himself with the bulk of the kommando moved on the next day, that is, the 6th of July, towards Chernovitz, whereas I with the supply column, that is, kitchen, ambulances, etc., remained in Sochawa. Persterer, the commanding officer, first had to clarify the situation in Chernovitz. We had no news about the situation there and I received the order to remain until I received, the order to move on.

Q. And then when die you receive the order to move on?

A. In Sochawa I remained about three to four days, that is to say, I left on the 9th or 10th in the morning and on the same evening I arrived in Chernovitz.

Q. I see, and there you joined up with Persterer?

A. Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, I see now. Thank you.

DR. LINCK: May I proceed?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, yes. Please. BY DR. LINCK (Attorney for the Defendant Ruehl):

Q. I just want to ask you one more thing about this, Herr Ruehl. You are giving us exact dates, even the time of the day. Do you remember that exactly or do you have any facts written down about it?

A. I remember the march and the various garrisons very well. As for the exact dates, I would nit have been able to cite them, but, fortunately, the prosecution by submitting its reports helped me out here so that I mentioned I can cite with certainty.

Q. Thus you arrived at your first headquarters in Chernovitz. You came there a few days after the bulk of the kommando arrived, there and from the 9th or 10th of July on you were in Chernovitz?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you do in detail in Chernovitz? Did you have the same mission which you have already described on did any change take place? we are now on the assignment.

Q. During the entire assignment, my mission remained the same, namely taking care of the usual economic and administrative questions; among them are the directing of all personnel matters, the calculation of their monthly pay, the negotiations with German and Rumanian Army agencies for the purpose of allocation of food and PX goods, gasoline, maps, as well as the distribution of these items within the kommando.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, was the pay of any member in the Einsatzoommando the same as would be paid to some one of an equivalent rank in the Army?

THE WITNESS: Yes, the same thing.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. BY DR. LINCK:

Q Any other job? You were just listing the various duties? of personnel technical equipment, as well as the arranging of quarters for the technical personnel, that is to say, for interpreters, drivers, medics, guards, and kitchen personnel. In addition, and this was the case especially in Chernovitz, there were the repairs of the hotels which had been assigned to us by the Rumanian Army, which the Russians had left in a very poor condition, as well caring for Rumanian, Hungarian and German guests. see any other places around Chernovitz? I didn't leave Chernovitz with the exception, first of all, of one drive to Piatra Neamt, which was for the purpose of taking care of some economic and administrative matters, as well as calling the group physician. Secondly, when I participated in a one day military exercise in the vicinity of Chernovitz, which was for the purpose of military training.

Q Was one of your jobs also the matter of making reports? I mean by that, receiving of reports from the subcommandos, and writing of reports about the entire activity to the group? various experts were subordinated to the commanding officer personally, and got personal instructions from him; in the same manner they also reported to him personally. The making out of the reports about the entire activity of the commando was done by the commanding officer Court No. II, Case No. IX.

himself. sit down and write the reports with a pencil, and take them personally to the group. There must have been an orderly room, where reports must have been filed. Did you have an orderly room?

A In this sense there was no orderly room. May I add that the general keeping of the files about the administration and executive was not even customary in the centralized agencies at home. In addition, the commando during my membership in it was on the march, and this march was not of the type that the commando would move as one entity from one place to another, but that it was split up in various subcommandos or detachments which would take up quarters at various places independently of each other. The same thing is true for the various experts, who are designated by the Prosecution as staff officers. Thus, the subcommandos, and these research analysts kept their own files in order to have them right with them when they needed them. were a deputy of the commanding officer, or as it was phrased at one time, that you were the second in command of the commando. Will you please comment on that? nor was I ever active as such; nor did I ever have the function of socalled second in command. My functions were quite clearly delineated, and they were limited to jobs of my administrative officer, which I have already mentioned.

Q The Prosecution also claims that you were a captain. Were you as a captain, or senior officer, the highest ranking officer after the commanding officer, so that, therefore, you had special powers. the Prosecution, I was not a captain at that time, but a 1st Lieutenant, and as such I was neither the highest ranking officer, nor the senior officer after the commanding officer, and as such I would not have had Court No. II, Case No. IX.

any special power to command towards a higher ranking officer, or towards an officer of an equivalent rank in my commando.

DR. LINCK: May I make a remark about this, Your Honor. I want to point to these personnel files which the witness refers to. They are to be found in volume III-D, English page 90. This is Document 4808, Prosecution Exhibit No. 171. BY DR. LINCK: farther details about the mission of the Kommando in Chernovitz. Now we are in Chernovitz. What did you hear about that there? taining the security of the area, and that particular order of the Fuehrer pertaining to espionage, sabotage and Communist activity, looting, and other acts of violence would have to be stopped by all means, and that those who participated in it were to be shot. Special attention was to be given to Bolshevist functionaries, and to leading Jews, since they were bearers of Bolshevism, and, thus, ware considered to be the greatest source of danger for the security of the occupied territory. as they were, or did you think about them at all. Did you perhaps express such thoughts, Will you please tell us?

THE PRESIDENT: Doctor, let's have the date, please. Just when was this speech made by the commanding officer?

THE WITNESS: May I answer that?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: This is not a general announcement, Your Honor, because I came only later....

THE PRESIDENT: Well, just tell me when it was that the commanding officer of the commando told you what you have just related. Just give us the date?

THE WITNESS: I can not give you the exact date. It might have Court No. II, Case No. IX.

been 10 or 11 August.

THE PRESIDENT: All right. Of August?

THE WITNESS: Yes - no, pardon me, in July.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. You can now answer the question which your counsel had put to you, if you will. BY DR. LINCK:

Q Another question, Herr Ruehl. Did I understand you correctly to say that this announcement of Persterer was made to you, not in the form of a general announcement to the commando, which might have taken place before?

A I don't know to what extent he informed the entire commando about this order. I doubt that he did. I assume, however, that he informed all the officers about it. orientation of your own person, because you arrived late. Will you then answer my question about your reaction as to this? of this order, I was still affected by it, because on the basis of my peaceful training, and activity, I had definite ideas about the job of the police, and I had definite ideas about how a criminal case was to be prosecuted and here I was confronted with an entirely new situation. I discussed this with Persterer. He said that these measures were not to be judged by the usual European standards. That the Bolshevists would not recognize any kind of International Law, and they would force us to such measures by their manner of conducting the war. Furthermore, we would soon have plenty of opportunity to convince ourselves of this. Moreover, the Army had similar orders about the Bolshevist commissars.

Q Herr Ruehl, I want this quite clear now. According to your testimony her, if I understand you correctly, this order of Persterer's only told you that certain acts are to be investigated and to be severely punished. That nevertheless certain acts would have to have Court No. II, Case No. IX.

been committed. I would like to know whether he discussed anything about people being killed for their membership in a race, something for which they could not be held responsible. In other words, that he said a Jew should be executed merely because he was a Jew, or a Gypsy merely because he was a Gypsy? nor did he later tell me anything about it during any time.

Q But how do you explain that? sterer was expressly forbidden to carry out the Fuehrer's Order to its full extent in the Rumanian sovereign territory. Therefore, in my opinion that was no cause for him to announce such an order to us, as it was not valid for this area.

Q But you finally left Rumania, didn't you?

Q What happened then? Why didn't he then tell you about it? to withhold these measures in the interest of reconstructing of the economy. May I repeat? He evidently made use of the possibility to relegate these measures in the interest of reconstructing of economy in the administration. That this possibility existed until the visit of Reichsfuehrer SS Nikolajew in September, or the beginning of October, and that this possibility was made use of to a large extent was confirmed by Ohlendorf and Nosske, The way I can see these things today, there was in addition the fact that so far as the commanding officers are concerned, that first Mogilew was very badly destroyed, and, therefore, there was a great need for additional manpower, for building up operations, reconstructing operations; secondly, that for a time after this the commando was committed in the rural areas, in which the commando X-A had been active before. This is true of the Ananjew, as well as for Alexandrowka; thirdly, that in the area of the Nogarisch Stepp, and in Skatowsk, so far as I was informed, there ware no Jews at all. At any rate I didn't see any. membership in the commando, you got no knowledge of measures which would have caused you to conclude that an order for the execution of all Jews, Gypsies, etc., existed. My question is quite extensive. Will you please think it over?

A Yes, I could say that. I learned about various executions, but in these cases according to what I heard, these were justified individual actions, that is to say, cases where the crime had been proven.

Q I will now show you several documents. First of all Document Book II-*.

THE PRESIDENT: Doctor Linck, if you are now going to take up documents, don't you think this might be an appropriate time to have a recess?

DR. LINCK: It would be very appropriate, yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, the Tribunal will be in recess fifteen minutes.

(Recess)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. STUEBINGER for the defendant Braune: Your Honor, I am sorry that I am not in my robe.

THE PRESIDENT: I still recognize you as a good lawyer even without your robe.

DR. STUEBINGER: I have a very brief request. The defendant Braune has been ill since Saturday and I could not speak to him. I would like him to be excused, therefore, from the session this afternoon and ask that he be brought to room 57.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Braune will be excused from attendance in Court this afternoon and will be taken to room 57 where he may consult with his attorney, with or without robe.

Dr. Linck, in your opening statement you referred to the fact that the present witness, your client, had appeared at the International Military Tribunal trial. Would you be so kind as to furnish us with the reference in the transcript to his testimony so that we might glance at it. That is, if you know it.

DR. LINCK: Yes, your Honor,

THE PRESIDENT: You may continue now with the direct examination. BY DR. LINCK:

Q. I want to show you some documents, witness, Herr Ruehl, first of all in Document Book II-D, it's on English page 45, German 48. It is document NO-587 and it is Prosecution Exhibit 92. It is the report by the leader of Special Kommando 10-b Persterer to the Army Group South of 9 July 1941. At that time Special Kommando 10-b on the 7 and 8 of July carried out a large scale search for Communists and Jews and on 9 July 100 Jewish Communists were shot within the course of this operation. Does this COURT II CASE IX concur with your statement and what do you have to say?

A. This report, as well as the contents of it; I have only found out about in Nurnberg here. I have already said I arrived in Chernowitz a few days after the Kommando arrived as I was stationed three or four days in Poltawa. Therefore, at the earliest I arrived in Chernowitz on 9 or 10 July. Therefore, I cannot say anything based on my own observations concerning this. In spite of this, however, I think that this shooting which is mentioned in this report of 100 Jewish Communists is incorrect and I shall give the reasons why. I think it is inaccurate. First of all, even if such measures were not generally discussed it seems to me comparatively improbable that about such an extraordinary measure I should not have heard at least something, a measure which after all was carried out at the same locality by the Kommando just before I arrived or which is supposed to have been carried out at such time. Second, it is very significant that Perster who was with the Army Group which was far away and had no possibility to carry out such an investigation that he should have made a report to the Army Group and that on the other hand should not have told anything to his immediate superior, the Group chief. Neither in his report, as becomes evident from the report of 11 July, which is two days later, nor during the inspection by the Group chief a few days later in Chernowitz itself, because he could have established the inaccuracy of this report at the proper place and at the proper time. Therefore, I am of the same opinion as Herr Ohlendorf who thought that it was here a tactical measure in order to be able to prove some kind of activity under any circumstances. that is inaccurate, don't you? Can you give us any factual details of your own kommando, the kommando of which you were a member, and its commander?

A I think I can. The tendency to be able to prove some kind of activity or special activity, especially to Berlin, or at least to sustain that such activity has taken place, becomes even more evident, particularly evident in the final report concerning the activity of the kommando in the territory around Chernowitz of the 1st of August, 1941.

Q Just a moment, that is Document Book Volume II-D for "Daniel" English Page 39, German page 41, Document NO-2950, Exhibit 90. why does it become particularly evident here? Persterer expressed very clearly that during the days of the 8th and 9th of July alone, by the Rumanian Wehrmacht and the police in Chernowitz more than four hundred Jews were shot or were supposed to have been shot. Contrary to this he reports on the 1st of August to the Einsatzgruppe that in Chernowitz, in collaboration with Rumanian police force altogether 658 Jews had been shot. Although it becomes evident from the report to the Army Group South of the 9th of July that the by far larger part of these executions, namely more than four hundred, had been carried out by the Rumanians by themselves: Persterer, by quite consciously unclear formulation in the report of the 1st of August to the Einsatzgruppe, wants to give the impression as if the kommando had been responsible or at least had participated in all these executions. Really, however, the part that the Rumanians took in the shootings was the much more extensive one, because I know that even after the 9th of July - that is the day the report was made to the Army Group - other executions were carried out, in which the kommando itself did not participate in any way and of which Persterer only learned afterwards.

Q Could you give us examples for this? 1947.

Q This is Document Book III-D for "Daniel", your Honor, English Page 78, German Page 123, Document NO-4149, Exhibit 169. It is the fourth paragraph of this affidavit. That is this event of where 20 or 30 people were shot. Will you comment on this? by the Rumanians. I learned of this incident when Persterer requested me one day to accompany him to the Prud River, P-r-u-d- River, outside the city, in order to find out where the river could be crossed. When we arrived at the bridge, which had been destroyed by the Rumanians we discovered at the foot of the embankment there a heap of corpses. From Persterer's behavior it became quite evident that he had no knowledge about this before. He questioned the Rumanian guard and then the Rumanian officer about this incident, and the result was that this execution had been carried out by Rumanian units. A similar incident which happened a little before the incident which I have just described now. has been mentioned by Herr Ohlendorf on the witness stand. All these figures were then compiled by Persterer and thus, this large number of executions was brought about, and he thus tried to impress Berlin with a specially high number of shootings. if you are qualified to answer this. In how far did Kommando 10b participate in this at all in your opinion? part in one execution in which, according to my memory, about 12 to 15 people were shot. you found out about it?

by comrades that Rumanian units, as well as members of our kommando, when they moved into the city after the city had been taken, had been shot at by civilians. The Rumanians had arrested a number of suspects, and the kommando had received the order to execute these people because of this incident. BY THE PRESIDENT: people?

A From the Rumanian General, I assume. The order was issued by the Rumanian Wehrmacht forces, I am informed about it.

Q Was your kommando subject to orders from the Rumanian forces? Rumanian territory. was -- a German unit of the Wehrmacht, or the armed forces generally, was subject to orders from a Rumanian officer? Rumanian Army for this particular period and this particular sector. Thus I, in my own authority, conversed with and discussed matters with Rumanian officers in order to get supplies, to be registered and all that kind of thing. supplies. That is a matter of comraderie. But actually to be ordered about by the Rumanian authorities is something which wasn't too clear up until this moment.

A I cannot give any details about this. I only deduced that from the fact that we got the quarters from the Rumanians, that Persterer reported to the Rumanian general, that he went to see him very often, reported to him, and that the Rumanian general visited us. That I saw myself.

received an order from the Rumanian general to execute these Jews.

Q But that isn't the way you put in in your affidavit though. Why do you put it differently now from the way you put it in your affidavit? in many passages, your Honor.

Q Well, I read to you from the affidavit: "Sturmbannfuehrer Alois Persterer refused at first to carry out the executions, but in the end he gave in to the wishes of the Rumanians and 12 or 15 of these people shot by the kommando." The necessary inference there is that heard did it more or less as a favor to the Rumanians, to shoot these 12 to 15 people. opinion, according to what I heard there, and what I observed myself, that for us the relationship of subordination was absolutely clear. manner I have now read it to you?

A This way of putting it is not my own, your Honor. It does not show what I wanted to say in the interrogation because I described this incident in detail then.

Q Didn't this discrepancy from your own thoughts about the matter catch your eye when you read the affidavit prior to signing it? as to quarrel with Mr. Wartenberg about this little incident.

THE PRESIDENT: Will you please continue, Dr. Linck? BY DR. LINCK: fully under the subordination of the Rumanians?

A I do not know anything about the subordination in detail. I only know that Persterer reported to the Rumanian general, that he went to see him on many occasions according to my knowledge, thus in order to report to him, and I also know that he went to see the Rumanian civil governor. I deduced it, as I say, from my own activity, because the Rumanians would not have supplied him anything if it hadn't been their duty to do so.

Q Yes. In order to come back to this matter which you know from hearsay, about these 12 to 15 people.

I now ask you Ruehl, do you know who arrested these people who were later on shot? We learned yesterday that between a negative answer and no knowledge there is a tremendous difference. Please consider and think it over whether you know it or were told about it or whether you know it from hearsay and tell the Tribunal so that the Tribunal must not conclude that you experienced it yourself. Do you know anything about who arrested these people?

A From my own knowledge I could not say anything. I know the incident only from hearsay, except the fact that this execution actually did take place. people in this instance...... the kommando when they moved into Chernowitz, is that correct?

MR. WALTON: The Prosecution must object to this line of questioning. There had been no feature prior to this time of anybody shooting at a kommando, and the Prosecution objects to suggesting a line of testimony to the witness. If these incidents were connected with it, I think the witness, since he is testifying from his general knowledge in the area, could give us all the facts that he heard about. I don't like the defense counsel to suggest the answer to the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: I do think, Dr. Linck, that your question was a little leading.

DR. LINCK: I only wanted to summarize the whole matter. I thought it had already been said. I will put the question in another form then.

Q (By Dr. Linck) Just describe very briefly, Witness, what you learned concerning this operation. by comrades that Rumanian troops, as well as members of our kommando, when they moved into the town after it had been turned over to us, had been fired at by civilians. Furthermore, I heard that the Rumanians thereupon arrested a number of suspects, and the kommando was given the order from the army, from the Rumanians, to shoot these people because of this action. As far as I remember, 50 to 60 people were mentioned in this connection. I also learned that the commander objected to this order, or at least tried to rescind this order, point out that this was a matter to be dealt with by the Rumanians themselves. The reason for this could have been parly that he was not convinced that all these people were actually participants in this incident. I also learned that the Rumanian generals urged the carrying out of this order, and, thereupon, Persterer asked for an investigation in order to be able to sift out the perpetrators. These investigations were carried out by Departments 4 and 5 as far as I know, and on this occasion, according to my memory, 12 to 15 of those arrested were found guilty and were shot by order of the Rumanians.

The others, as far as I know, were released. whatsoever? who carried out the investigation.

Q How did you find out about it? gations, or what? you just described to us from hearsay. found out through remarks by Hauptsturmfuehrer Finger who was the competent officer in Department 4.

Q Hauptsturmfuehrer Finder was the departmental chief in No. 4, was he? investigations, did you see any reports or files?

A No, I did not learn anything about this at all. I did not find out about details. I only heard and received knowledge of the fact that investigations had taken place. I did not see reports. this operation, does not only refer to investigations and results but also the actuall carrying out of the execution order. Did you include that in your answer?

A Yes. That was not my task.

Q You also did not take part in the carrying out of the sentence? carried out by Kommando 10b in Chernowitz?

Q I shall now show you report of events of 1st August, 1941. It is Document Book II-D, your Honors, English Page 37, German page 40, Document 2950, Prosecution's Exhibit No. 90. There in Paragraph 2, I think it is on Page 39 of the English version if I remember correctly, there is talk about 50 Communists who have been arrested, of whom 16 have been liquidated. What do you know about that?

A I cannot comment on this at all. As far as I know Departments 4 and 5 carried out investigations and examinations and interrogations, but executions I did not hear about. Admittedly, Department 4 did it at another place geographically speaking. They were far from our own offices in another building, in another part of town, so that I did not really have the occasion to look at what they did. little hotel you spoke about when you arrive in Chernowitz?

Chernowitz find out anything about executions which your unit carried out in other places during the time in question? paragraph 5 of my affidavit.

DR. LINCK: IIID, page 76, of the English text, Your Honor -I am sorry, it is page 78 in the English document book. BY DR. LINCK: detachment of the commando that was in a place in the locality, the name of which I do not remember. In order to clarify the murder of German airmen. After these men who had been assigned to this place returned, I heard the following. Shortly after the outbreak of the war in this locality which in those days was in Russian hands, as far as I remember, two wounded German airmen had made a forced landing and had been captured by the Russians. When those people were led into the prison the Jewish population had collected and ill-treated these prisoners during the transport to the prison, but the Russian guards had managed to take these German airman into prison. There, however, shortly after this, another turmoil had started and riots had broken out and the Jews had asked for these two German airmen or at least that is what is supposed to have happened. Finally, the Jews had managed to break into the prison, had taken these German prisoners into the streets and had beaten them to death in the most bestial manner. This state of affairs and the perpetrators had been established by extensive investigations and interrogation in collaboration with Rumanian and Hungarian army agencies, the perpetrators had been shot. As far as I remember, in this connection, a number of 20 to 30 people to be executed was named. way in the investigation or the interrogation?

cannot answer this question at all. the case?

A No. As I say, I only know it from hearsay. The stories that people told after they returned, they were still very much excited about the fact they had established there. executions which had been carried out in other places during your stay in Chernowitz, you said "No", with the exception of this particular incident which you know from hearsay, is that correct?

Q Now, I want to put something else to you. In the report of the 14th of July, Volume IID, English page 43, it is Document 4135, Exhibit 91, it is stated, I quote, "In Hodin 10b carried out a number of tasks, Members of the Russian intelligentsia, in party and state, Jewish agents, teachers, lawyers, rabbies, were arrested in a number of raids with the help of Ukrainians and were treated accordingly". In the same document in the final report of the first of August, English page 39, document 2950, Exhibit 90, the same operation is being reported about again. I quote, "In the vicinity of Chernowitz, Hodin had been passed whereby 150 Jews and Communists have been liquidated". Will you comment on this, please? in Nuernberg -- that is, I never visited Hodin nor do I remember ever having heard that a detachment of our commando had ever been assigned to this place, therefore, I am unable to give any information as to whether this report is correct and in agreement with the facts. 14th of July where it says, I quote, "The following directives were passed on to 10b, influence the Rumanians to be more severe concerning Jewish questions.

Jewish meetings must be interrupted and polots must be found out in order to influence Rumanian procedure against Jewish intelligentsia and in order to take up our own positions against it." Can you comment on this? commander because only he could carry out such orders. I myself was never informed about this order, and I see no reason why I, as an administrative officer and obersturmfuehrer could in any way have influenced the Rumanian police or the Rumanian Wehrmacht. I never heard anything about the fact that the commando really raided Jewish meetings. I can only say from my own observation that the commander had a number of Jewish liaison men with whom he apparently cooperated extremely well.

Q How long did you remain in Chernowitz? August or thereabout. After, a few days before that, detachments of our commando had moved to Kamnitz Podolsk and Mogilew-Podolsk, the departmental expert of Department 3 and I received the order to go to Mogilew with the technical personnel of our commando. Mogilew had been named as the next garrison of our commando. There we arrived two days later. We were billeted in the unit which had already been stationed there, and there we took up our usual assignments. but a little more in detail. I want to point out again that it is Book IIID, the English page 76. According to this, you came in contact with a problem in Mogilew which in itself had nothing to do with the tasks of an administrative leader. By this I mean the retransfer of Jews who had been taken to German territory by the Rumanians and were not to be transported back to Rumanian territory. How did you learn about this fact, Witness?

the Prut and the Dniestr rivers we came upon a long line of civilian population who seemed to me to consist mainly of Jews, and which was escorted by Rumanian army units. Then, upon my arrival in Mogilew I questioned the officer who was already stationed there concerning this, he informed me that the Rumanians had transported a number of Jews across the Dniestr river and had left them there to their fate helplessly in German operational territory. He had, of course, prevented further deportation of Jews to German territory, but the Jews who had been deported before were the subject of considerable worry to him because, as they were completely helpless, they were roaming the country stealing and begging and thus were a danger to the security and orderliness of the rear army territory and, of course, there were therefore current actions between them and the Ukranian population. Furthermore, there was the danger of epidemics and diseases as there were neither hospitals nor physicians nor drugs. Therefore, he had informed the commander of the state of affairs. commando in Podolsk?

A Yes. That is what he told me. any measures to be taken?

THE PRESIDENT: Let me get this picture straight. Now, he was on his way from Czernowitz to Mogilew-Podolsk and he enountered a transport. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Now, how many were in this transport?

A That is very difficult to estimate, Your Honor. They were actually walking. They had little vehicles, but it would be a very rough estimate which I could not take any guarantee on.

Q Were they mostly on foot?

A Yes. The larger part was.

Q Were they of all ages, men and women as well as children? it were. If I could give an estimate, I should say there must have been about a thousand, but that may have been over-estimated because the line did not actually march in a military formation, so that an estimate would have been easy.

Q And how many were in the accompanying Rumanian troops? column by car. I saw soldiers with their rifles who escorted this column in certain distances.

Q Were they on foot also, or were they riding?

Q I see. What is the distance between Czernowitz and this other town, Mogilew-Podolsk?

AAgain I would like to establish this on a map. I don't remember, Your Honor. It is quite a distance. you to estimate the distance?

Q Was this a matter of a day's journey or several hours? We just want an approximation.

Q Then when this group of refugees were joined to the others, who were already in German territory, the total number was around 12 to 15 thousand people, is that the picture? figure, 12 to 15 thousand persons. and I seemed to remember that this was the approximate number of those who actually came over, who were actually in this vicinity of Mogilew as foreign Jews whose actual home was in Rumania.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, that makes it very clear to us. You may proceed. BY DR. LINCK: in Mogilew-Podolsk when the commander explained to you the situation. Will you again tell the Tribunal whether you did anything or not?

A No. There was no cause for me to interest myself in this matter. Competent in this case was until up to the arrival of the commander in this sector the leader, the officer who had been appointed, who was not subordinated to me in any way but who received his orders from the commander immediately. He had informed, as he told me, the commander so that there was neither the cause nor the possibility for me to do anything. 77, "I tried to get these people together at Mogilew-Podolsk in order to take them back in a group transport", but there is an inconsistency, or is it not an inconsistency with what you have said just now. If you tried something, then you must have been active in some way or another or is the present formulation inaccurate? point out again that this was not worded by myself but it was worded by Mr. Wartenberg, and that it is just as misleading as a number of other wordings which I shall come to later on.

Q Herr Ruehl, we do not want to go into details about this. I would like to interpolate here and made a small remark. It is probably remembered by the Tribunal that there was a short crossexamination when Mr. Wartenberg was at the disposal of the defense, and at this occasion it was established that a second affidavit was made out after the first had been made out and that apparently in the first affidavit the wording was not so that the witness wanted to sign it, therefore, I did not pursue this matter then, after the Tribunal had stated that each defendant is permitted to correct any false or misleading passages during the presentation of his case, but I must ask you, Herr Ruehl, whether you did not draw Mr. Wartenberg's attention to the fact at the time that such wording could lead to contradictions and to misunderstandings sooner or later?

A I should like to say the following, I told Mr. Wartenberg even when I saw the first draft of the affidavit which he gave me on the 24th of June that this draft did not only contain sentences which were the cause for mistakes - for misunderstandings, but all remarks which would not at all correspond to the facts. I asked him that these passages should be changed. Mr. Wartenberg thereupon said that the sentences which I found fault with meant what I actually had meant to say. In spite of this, I requested so many corrections, and I finally dictated a whole paragraph myself as Mr. Wartenberg constantly tried to dictated something else which was different from what I had said. And so Mr. Wartenberg finally stated the whole affidavit had to be reissued. This new affidavit was shown to me two days later. Unfortunately, I had to establish that this affidavit again contained passages and wordings which gave cause to errors and misunderstandings, and again I told him that. But the reply I received was that I would have enough opportunity to clarify mistakes even during the trial in case such errors would actually crop up.

I trusted this affirmation and as I was tired of the constant quarrels we had, I signed the affidavit especially as these misunderstandings concerned myself exclusively or at least the part that I took in these incidents.

Q What do you want to express with what you said last by "especially as it only concerned myself" and your part? interpreted from this affidavit could only concern myself, in which case I would have the opportunity to express myself accordingly and make corrections, and that is what Mr. Wartenberg affirmed me.

Q Would you like to go on? this affidavit - would be used against you as evidence without any further interrogation taking place?

A No. If I had known this, I would have made the necessary corrections and I would have insisted on them.

Q We don't have to deal with details at this point, Herr Ruehl, but I want to know the further cause of matters in Mogilew-Podolsk. What happened to these Jews?

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Linck, you are now just about to begin an episode in some detail. Suppose that we have our recess at this time.

DR. LINCK: Yes, Your Honor.

DR. DICK: Dr. Dick for my colleague, Dr. Fritz. Your Honor, I was asked by Dr. Fritz to ask whether the defendant, Fendler, could be excused this afternoon from the proceedings. He has the opportunity to speak to his wife apparently. I would, therefore, like the defendant, Fendler, to be taken to Room 57 in the afternoon.

THE PRESIDENT: We will gladly excuse Fendler for that purpose, and we will announce, so that the marshal will be informed, that all arrangements will be made so that there will be no difficulty about Mrs. Fendler seeing her husband this afternoon in Room 57. The Tribunal will now be in recess until 1:45.

(A recess was taken until 1345 hours.)

(The hearing reconvened at 1345 hours, 18 December 1947)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

DR. LINCK (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT RUEHL): Thank you, Your Honor. BY DR. LINCK (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT RUEHL: briefly about this large number of Jews who had been driven across into the German-occupied territory by the Rumanians. You have already told us about the stories which you heard when you arrived in Mogilew and you have told us that the kommando leader there had reported to your commander, Pesterer, about it. How did this matter develop further and what was your part in it? taken place there previously, had been destroyed, and the Russians had taken with them most of the supplies, especially the majority of the cattle. Thus, of course, the situation of the alien homeless Jews got so bad that Pesterer decided to go to see the group chief and to get his decision on the matter.

THE PRESIDENT: There is one word we didn't catch, it sounded, which of course, can't possibly be true, like "Aryan homeless Jews." Oh, "alien".

Q (By Dr. Linck) Please continue. because of this situation he would go to see the group chief and to see what he decided on this. He wanted to tell him that these Jews who came from the Rumanian territory should be brought back into that area.

Since he himself, meaning Persterer, did not want to return immediately to Mogilew, because he had other business; he ordered me to accompany him in order to take care of my economic and administrative matters at the group headquarters and also to hear what the decision of the group chief was in this matter and to bring this decision back to Mogilew. When Persterer reported to the group chief, the latter decided that the Rumanian Jews should be brought back to their home area. I then brought this decision back to Mogilew on the order of Persterer and I gave this message to the officer who was in charge of bringing these Jews back. Then in his own competence this officer carried out this retransport. you mention in your affidavit. to correct something. I made a mistake about the name and I would like to correct this. The name of the man is not "Lippert," but "Lipps." As far as -

Q Litz?

A Lipps, as far as I remember, L-i-p -- possibly "p"-s.

Q And this retransport took place as ordered? because of the resistance of the Rumanians, who even threatened that on the other side of the river where they had artillery they would open fire, if despite their objection any attempt would be made to bring these Jews back. without success, the competent officer, whose order it was to take care of this matter took the Jews back again and for the time being he housed them in a barracks at the edge of the city, but this was only a very brief emergency measure, because there were no facilities there and it was hardly possible to supply thousands of people for any length of time.

Therefore it was necessary as quickly as possible to get another decision. Of course, only the group chief himself could decide what to do next. Since the commander had, however, not yet returned and 1st Lt. Lipps was tied to this place with his local assignments there, I felt obligated as the man who had passed on this order, which could not be carried out, to inform the group chief of this new situation immediately and to ask him to make a new decision. The group chief then ordered that the Jews be transported back by way of a bridge near Jampol, that is, they were to be marched there and the Kommando 12 was to take care of taking them across this bridge.

Q Did you again inform Lt. Lipps of this new decision and did you give him the order to carry out the retransport via this new bridge? chief; to use the word "order" would be misleading, because this is not an order which I gave him, but I brought him the order of the group chief and that finished the matter, as far as I was concerned.

Q Didn't you concern yourself any more about the retransport of the Jews after Lipps knew what he had to do?

A No, that was not my job. That was not necessary.

Q You did not accompany this transport?

A No, I didn't even see it, much less accompany it.

were supposed to have been shot?

Q Why? the Group Chief only said to send the Jews back into their homeland. Of executions nothing was said. estimate, of the number of Jews who were then sent back? sent back, because I said I did not see the transport. I only remember that they frequently spoke of 12,000 to a maximum of 15,000 Jews. Thus, generally, I had assumed that all these Jews were actually sent back and I mentioned these figures to Mr. Wartenberg accordingly. I told him that as far as I can judge, there were 12,000 to 15,000 human beings who were concerned in this retransport.

Q Well, now I must show you the following. In the prosecution documents there are two reports which mentioned these Jewish transports. Please look at Document Book III-D. This is page 24 of the English, page 46 in the German, and it is a report of the 26th of August,1941, NO-2840, Exhibit 154. Here something is mentioned of bringing back 6,000 Jews which was carried out despite protests of the Rumanian officer in command of the bridge. That is one thing. The other one is the report in Volume II-B, English page 11, page 8 in the German. This is the report of the 29th of August, 1941, NO-2837, Exhibit 58. Here something is mentioned about bringing back 27,500 people, with the remark that 1,200, partly younger Jews, were shot. Can you say, Witness, which of these reports, in your opinion, is concerned with this particular retransport which you have mentioned here?

A I really can hardly clarify this. As I have already said, I did not see the convoy and I did not make out any report about this retransport nor did I see any. Therefore, I can say nothing about how many were actually brought back. I can only say with certainty that neither in Mogilew nor during the discussion with the Group Chief was anything over said about a figure of 27,500. Therefore, this figure seems to me to be incorrect under all circumstances. More probable, it seems to me, is the figure 12,000 to 15,000 which I still remember and which represents the total number of homeless Jews in Mogilew and vicinity. The report of the 26th refers to about 13,000. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q May I ask a question here, please. Witness, since you correct this figure in Document 2837, indicating that 27,500 is a much larger number than you remember the number to have been, do you also correct the number referring to those executed? 27,500 Jews were driven back to Rumanian territory. You say this number is incorrect and that there were only about 12,000 to 15,000. Is that correct? Is that what you told us? know. May I say, there are two reports here about a retransport; one time 6,000 were supposed to have been brought back and once 27,500.

I recall it, that you thought 27,500 was incorrect.

Q And that in your estimate it couldn't have been more than 12,000 to 15,000. made to 1,265 Jews shot. say was probably only 12,000 to 15,000. Now I ask, do you make any observation on the 1,265? Do you think that number is correct? my opinion, the retrans port which I experienced, and which took place in Mogilew and about which I had passed on the order -- that this retransport has nothing to do with this figure, 27,500. I rather believe that it refers to the report of the 26th.

I merely tried to reconcile my memory with what I found here in the documents. Jews, some of them young ones, shot? Do you know anything about that at all?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, that is all I am asking, proceed, Dr. Linck.

Q I will show you the following, witness. You had knowledge of one Jewish re-transport only in Mogilew-Podolsk? Can you solve this riddle, and say whether you know whether there were several Jewish transports that took place during your time and according to your knowledge? Mogilew only one such transport took place. Therefore only one report can refer to that and the report of the 26th seems to me the more probable one. On the one hand for the reason I have already mentioned, because they speak here of a number of 13,000 homeless Jews who had been driven out, and also the date of this report seems to be in favor of my contention because the transport of which I knew took place, as far as I can reconstruct and sofar as Mogilew is concerned, during the days from the 18th to 20th of August, and about on the 23rd we had already left Mogilew-Podolsk.

Q I think I don't have to ask you anything further about this. But before you leave Mogilew-Podolsk I want to submit one more thing to you. In the report of the 26th of August just mentioned, that is Volume III-D, the English page 24, the German page 46, there is another sentence and I quote: "It is intended to collect the Jewish population in one area of the city". End of quote. Furthermore, I quote: "Jews fit for work were detailed to clear away the rubble in the town, as well as to bring in the harvest." Do you know anything about that? Did you execute these measures, or did you order them, or did you receive the order to carry them out? measures, or carried them out. Moreoever, I would like to point out that it says in the report: "It is intended to assemble Jews there in one quarter of the city". Sofar as I know anything about Mogilew, this never happened. In any case I can say that I neither saw a ghetto or labor camp in Mogilew, nor did I ever hear of any such camps there.

Whether a similar order existed I can not say. That able-bodied Jews were used for labor I consider possible, since the entire population was used in clearing the rubble, and in bringing in the harvest.

Q Now, Herr Ruehl, I don't want to offend you but it is my intention to clarify everything which could have any connection with you during this time in this area, and, therefore, I want to confront you with another sentence from this report of 26 August. That is the report from which I quote: "In Czernovitz and by combing through the area east of the Dnjestr River, 31,006 Jews and 34 Communists were liquidated - correction, 3,106 Jews and 34 Communists were liquidated.

THE PRESIDENT: What page is that?

DR. LINCK: I do not have the English page, Your Honor. It is the report of 26 August.

THE PRESIDENT: There is only page here of the report in our book.

DR. LINCK: Page 24.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you find it, Mr. Walton?

MR. WALTON: No, Your Honor.

DR. LINCK: Can you help me, Herr Ruehl?

THE WITNESS: I don't have the English text, either. It would have to be the English page 24?

THE PRESIDENT: Are you referring to the report of August 29, Document 2837.

DR. LINCK: It is my mistake. Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: I think that was more than a mistake, that was an error.

DR. LINCK: Thank you for your patience, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You are not even in the right house. It is Book II-B.

BY DR. LINCK:

Q Can you comment on this report? questioned by several people. I can not say anything about how this report came to be made out. So far as Czernowitz is concerned, I would like to point out once more the fact that according to the order of the group chief, no such measures could be carried out in Rumanian sovereign territory. Therefore, I hardly believe that such a report was ever made out by Persterer to the group, because without a doubt this would have brought inquiries from the group chief as to what caused Persterer to act against this specific order. There, too, I would assure that Berlin laid down the final regulations about it.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, you say that it would have been impossible to kill Jews in Rumania. Didn't you tell us this morning that you took orders from the Rumanian authorities?

THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor, I consider that as an exceptional case in which at the express order of the Rumanians the commando in this one case became active in their own sovereign territory, because an independent activity of the commando would not have been possible in this area according to the order of the group chiefs.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed. BY DR. LINCK: knew anything about the 3106 Jews and 34 Communists. Did you answer all of that, or do you want to add anything to it? concerned, it does not only refer to Czernowitz but this is a report from the entire area, which at that time already extended to the Bug River, sofar as I know. I , therefore, ask also to be able to correct an error which evidently the Prosecution made, when in the order of presentation, which is contained in Volume III_D, it is said that these 3,000 and odd Jews and so many Communists were executed in Czernowitz.

To come back to Czernowitz once more, I would like to refer to the report of 7 August, which is in Volume II-D.

Q Page 35 in the English, I believe, Your Honor. That is document 10-2948 Exhibit No. 89. What is this document supposed to show? commando was in Mogilew-Podolsk. That is, it was no longer Czernowitz at that time. From my own knowledge I could add that the major part of the commando was in Camonitz-Podolsk or Mogilew-Podolsk since the beginning of August. I myself left Mogilew the 7th or 8th of August.

Q Mogilew, you mean? and I can only say that during this time I didn't hear about any other executions. May I also point out the following: Apart from the report of 7 August, namely that the garrison of the commando was already in Mogilew, there exists a situation report of 9 August, in which Einsatzgruppe C reports that in agreement with the Chief of Group-D.

Q This is Volume II-C, English page 67 on the top, Document 2947? gruppe Chief D, a small squad was transferred to Czernowitz in order to take over the assignments there.

Q I don't think that I have overlooked any document, Herr Ruehl, in which the Prosecution has implicated you in any sense so far as time and area are concerned. I merely would like to ask you a few concluding questions about the tine of your assignment, before I come to Count C, membership in criminal organizations.

You said that you left Mogilew on 23 August, is that correct?

Q Did your missions remain those of an administrative officer; did they remain as such, until you were recalled, or was there an essential change in your assignment and in your position? function of an administrative officer, and afterwards I was neither given the deputy ship of the commando nor was I given the leadership of a Teilkommando.

Q Were you a staff officer with executive powers?

Q And when did your assignment end?

A The beginning of October. I don't remember the exact date.

Q What year?

Q And what happened then? Did you get sick or what? service, were recalled to Berlin, and I took up my studies once more.

Q Then you went back to the University of Berlin?

Q And later you passed the State examination?

DR. LINCK: Your Honors, I now come to the third main subject, that is, Count-C of the Indictment, as I have already said, membership in organizations which the IMT has declared criminal.

THE PRESIDENT: A question I would like to ask just out of curiosity. Was the University of Berlin functioning in all departments in 1943?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: It has nothing to do with the case. I was just curious. Thank you.

DR. LINCK: The witness is charged with membership in two such organizations, first the SS, secondly, the Office IV of the RSHA. First of all, I shall deal with membership in the SS. BY DR. LINCK: 1932 you transferred from the SA to the SS, and you said that on 1 October 1933, you left the SS in order to go into the Prussian Secret Police. Did anything change in this later on? That is, until the collapse? other unit. SS ranks? police official. The Reichsfuehrer-SS and Chief of the German Police originally had the intention to make a so-called State Protection Corps out of the SS and Police. For this purpose all police officials were supposed to be transferred to the SS, and thereupon they would be given the ranks which were equivalent to their ratings as officials. According to the so-called Decree for the assimilation of ranks, which was the Decree of 1938, and which I think has already been submitted as a document here, the corresponding ranks for the various official ratings were established, and every promotion in the SS was the automatic results of a promotion as an official. the defendant Blume?

A Yes, I think it is Blume's Document No. 10.

Q It is in Blume's Document Book, therefore, I don't want to ask you anything further about it, but I would like to know, Herr Ruehl, whether the circumstance that before you joined the police you were an active member in the SS, is not significant?

A Well, one could hardly say that. To explain this, I would like to give the example, which shows to what strange results this assimilation of ranks led. When I came to the police in the fall of 1933, I was an SS-Scharfuehrer, that is a sergeant, but since my first position in the police only corresponded to an SS Unterscharfuehrer, I was downgraded. so to speak, to an Unterscharfuehrer, and only when I became a candidate for assistant in criminal matters, I was once more promoted to SS-Scharfuehrer, because this SS rank corresponded to that position as an official. I think this shows the relationship between the police rank end the SS rank most clearly.

Q Well, you don't have to go into such detail, because only the time after the 1st of September 1939 would play any part in this. But I would like you to describe to the Tribunal the relationship between your official ranks and the SS ranks during the later years. Please take up Document Book III-D. This is the personnel file, Your Honor, page 90 in the English text, and page 136 in the German text. This is NO-4808, Prosecution's Exhibit No. 171. Is it correct when I conclude from this that according to page 1 of the original, you received the rank of Unterscharfuehrer, 2nd It., on 2 July, 1938?

Q What did that have to do with your position as an official?

A. As I have already mentioned when describing my professional training I took a training course as a candidate for Police Inspector from 1 October 1937 until 30 June 1938. After I completed this course of study, on 2 July, we were appointed Police Inspectors on probation. On the same date and on the same occasion, corresponding to this newly achieved rank, we were promoted to the equivalent SS rank which is Untersturmfuehrer which is 2nd Lieutenant.

Q. Does this correspond to your biography as stated in the personnel file?

A. Yes.

Q. German page 144, page 96 in the English, your Honors.

A. May I point to the end of the first paragraph where it says "and after I attended a nine months course at the Leader school of the Security Police, I passed on 2 July 1938 the Kommissar examination."

THE PRESIDENT: August. The says says August.

A. 2nd of July, your Honor, in the German text.

THE PRESIDENT: There is a question mark after August in the English, so the record will show that it should be July. It is not very important, Dr. Linck, July or August.

DR. LINCK: Yes, your Honor, and the photostat shows it correctly. I don't want to go through this dry matter any further even concerning the higher ranks, 1st lt and Captain. It will suffice if I ask you the following question. Is this description which you have given here valid for the higher ranks, that is, 1st Lieutenant and Captain, that is 1939 and 1942?

A. Yes. They were the automatic result of my promotion as and official.

Q. Well, if I want to concede to you that these SS ranks had nothing to do with an active membership in the SS then I must know one more thing. Wouldn't you have had the possibility to get out of this SS membership if it was only a formal one?

A. Theoretically this would have been imaginable but it would have presupposed my Leaving the Security Police and that such an action was not possible, at least after the beginning of the war, I may say that that is well known.

Q. The second membership to an organization declared criminal is that you were a member of Office IV of the RSH... Here also the period after the first of September 1939 is the only period we are concerned with. Is the assumption correct? *ere you a member of Office IV of the RSH.. at that time?

A. No.

Q. That is the end of my questioning, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: any defense counsel desire to cross-examine?

You may begin, Mr. Walton. BY MR. ---:

Q. May at please the Tribunal I have, before I begin, one request which I should like them to grant. It appears that the regular member of our staff whose duty it is to assist the Prosecution in handing document books to the defendant is not here. However, I notice that another member of our staff assigned to me, a German-speaking stenographer, is in the audience. I'd appreciate it if the Tribunal would instruct the Marshal to let her pass to the floor of the Courtroom after the recess so that she might assist me in handling the books.

THE PRESIDENT: The Marshal will please see that that is done during the recess period. BY MR. ---:

Q. To recapitulate and to get it clear in our minds, I should like to take you back over your testimony concerning your membership in certain organizations. You have testified that you joined the Nazi Party on 1 December 1930, have you hot?

A. Yes.

Q. And on 1 October 1932 you became member of the SS?

A. Yes.

Q. In fact, you requested your transfer to the SS, did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. And in September 1933 you became a member of the Gestapo, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, was this a voluntary act on your part to become a member of the Gestapo?

A. without a doubt I did not need to obey the order which I received.

Q. I don't think that that answer is responsive.

THE PRESIDENT: Certainly it is. It is very responsive.

Q. At least I didn't get the connection.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, he wasn't required to respond in other words, he could have refused.

Q. If that is the answer, it is clear to me now. You state that you could have refused to join the Gestapo at the time you received that order?

A. Yes, of course.

Q. Nov; you continued to belong to the SS, the Nazi Party, and the Gestapo on 1 September 1939, did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. And you made no effort to sever your connection with any of these organizations on that day, or since, have you?

A. Yes, I said so. May I distinguish between the following. First, the SS membership, second, membership in the Gestapo. As far as SS membership is concerned I think I have already made clear that it was the automatic result of my other promotion, thus it was not an independent action which I could have given up independently. As far as membership in the Gestapo is concerned I can only say that already on the first day of the for I reported to the Army or rather asked for my release to join the Army; that in the spring of 1940 I repeated that; that in both cases it was rejected; and then there were general directives that it was not possible to get out and that releases from the Army were forbidden.

Q. Now, according to your SS personnel file it shows that you have, or had, the rank in the Reserve Wehrmacht of Obergefreiter or private first class, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And at the time that you made those requests you were in the SS a 1st Lieutenant or Obersturmfuehrer, were you not?

A. May I correct? When I made the first application on the first day of the War I was a 2nd Lieutenant but I guess that is not important.

Q. At least you were an officer in the SS. If your request had been granted what rank would you have had in the Wehrmacht if you had been given service?

A. Of course I would have gotten the rank of private first class which I had achieved thus far in the Army.

Q. So it was quite a disadvantage for you to volunteer for service in the Army, wasn't it?

A. I wouldn't have considered it as such because these are two completely different matters.

Q. A least the pay would have been much less as private first class than as 2nd Lieutenant, wouldn't it?

A. May I point our, Mr. Walton, that at that time I was not yet active in the operational area and did not yet got any pay as 1st or 2nd Lieutenant and, therefore, I wouldn't have had any disadvantage.

Q. Well, you got paid for what you did based oh your rank, didn't you?

A. According to the usual regulations this would have continued. I wouldn't have had any disadvantage.

Q. Your pay would have been the same as private first class in the Wehrmacht as it would have been as 2nd Lieutenant in the SS? Is that what you say?

A. Yes.

Q. You were convinced, however, that you could render more valuable service to the Reich as an SS officer than as an ordinary soldier, were you not?

A. Repeat the question please.

Q. You were convinced that you could render more valuable service to the Reich as an SS officer rather than as a line soldier, were you not?

A. No, I think Mr. Walton, I have said very clearly that I personally did not think it was correct that a young able-bodied man sits at home and that old people are sent to the front. This reason alone made me decided to report to the Army. I was brought up that way. My father was an officer. My brother was an officer. And I felt ashamed to sit at home by myself.

Q. Now can you tell the approximate date in May of 1941, that you actually reported to duty with the Einsatzgruppen?

A. I don't know how I am to understand this question. I didn't report. Thus the question isn't quite correct.

Q. All right. I will rephrase the question. Will you state the approximate day in May 1941 that you arrived in Pretzsch?

A. I cannot give you the exact date but as far as I recall it was the middle of May.

Q. Did you perform any other service in Pretzsch than with the Einsatzgruppen?

A. No.

Q. Then you reported for duty with the Einsatzgruppen some time around the middle of May 1941, did you not?

A. Yes, but on the basis of the experiences I have made I must object to the word "melden" in German which has two meanings. One meaning is to report to an agency where ordered to appear. Another meaning is that I voluntarily reported there and I would like to be sure that the matter is clear.

Q. That is all right. All we want to know is the approximate date you got to Pretzsch and the approximate date you reported for duties with the Einsatzgruppen, that you entered upon your service with the Einsatzgruppen. That is all. It does not connote how you got there or how you were sent there. I merely want to know the fact of when you started your service with the Einsatzgruppen. Do we understand each other.

A. But just to be quite careful I would like to correct one more thing. because at that time Einsatzgruppe D did not yet exist. Einsatzgruppe D was not set up until we got to Dueben and that was the beginning of June. As far as I remember, until that date we were in Pretzsch without knowing at all what is the matter and without any Einsatzgruppen being formed.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. The Tribunal will not be in recess for 15 minutes.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. LINCK: Dr. Linck for the defendant Ruehl.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Your statement is sufficient, Dr. Linck. BY DR. WALTON:

Q. Mr. Ruehl, prior to the afternoon recess we had arrived in Pretsch, and Dueben, where a collection of police members and others was made, and where later on the Einsatzgruppen were formed. In your direct examination, if my memory is correct, you testified that you first assumed, or at least guessed, that you were being assembled for an action for the invasion of England. However, at a later time when you began to receive lectures on Russia, you felt that the action of this group would be directed toward Russia. Am I right so far? wasn't an actual lecture in classes, but it was just a matter of two or three lectures concerning Russia, its people, and its country.

Q. At that time you stated, I believe, that the Chief of the Security Police and the SD appeared before the group of men which later became Einsatzgruppen, and told them of the Fuehrer Order. Did I understand you to say that?

A. No.

Q. I will ask you this question, did you see Heydrich in Dueben or Pretsch while you were there?

Q Do you know for what purpose Heydrich was there?

A Heydrich? For what purpose I could not say. All I know is that he appeared in front of the men and officers who had collected there, and he took leave of these people before they were assigned. This is what happened, and it happened in the manner in which I related it.

Q I am sorry, Mr. Ruehl, I didn't quite understand two words of the translation. Heydrich appeared before a formation of all personnel who were assembled? satzgruppen personnel; what did he generally speak of? That is what I didn't get on the translation.

A I cannot express it in another way. I can only say it was a general farewell, took leave of us. During which he said that, of course, we would be confronted with heavy tasks and he appealed to our sense of duty, and he said that he requested that we would be obedient there and we would do our duty in the assignment. I cannot give you the exact wording, but that was the general tenor he was talking about.

Q Did you assume from Heydrich's remarks that the Einsatzgruppen and their subunits would have to exterminate people? now that you had not heard of the Fuehrer Order, is that correct?

Q And that the first time that you heard of it was in Chernowitz? Persterer gave me the Fuehrer Order in the wording which I have mentioned before.

out this Fuehrer Order and exterminate Jews and gypsies, and Communists, when Persterer first mentioned it to you?

A I said, Mr. Walton, that he did not mention this at all. there was a Fuehrer Order to exterminate these people, didn't you? That is, the remarks he made in Chernowitz?

Q All right, I will ask you a question. When did you first hear of the Fuehrer Order for the extermination of Jews, gypsies and other racial undesirables, when was the first time that you heard of it? when I was transferred back, and on my return at the beginning of October, I reported to Nikolaev, and there I learned that a few days ago the Reichsfuehrer had been there and had proclaimed an order to the effect that all Jews should be executed, but I really cannot remember having heard about the same, about gypsies or other groups. as an active member of Sonderkommando 10b you never heard the Fuehrer Order at all? the first units of an Einsatzgruppe committed to action, that is, first units of Einsatzgruppe D committed to action, have you not?

A For an action? I would not like to call it that, but Kommando 10b was the first one, as far as I can judge it, which was assigned to its own garrison, apart, of course, from their unit.

Q You didn't make that qualification in your interrogation of 8 May 1947. Can you remember generally what your remarks were on that day? lowing concerning this examination, that there was no opportunity to formulate it in any really understandable manner, that such possibility was altogether excluded.

was one of the first committed to security actions in Chernowitz?

A No. All I would like to say is, I would like to clarify this in order to exclude any misunderstandings as far as I know the kommando was the first one which received an order for their actual assignment, that is, they received a locality garrison which was assigned to them, but what particular activity was connected with it I cannot say. officer on the staff of Alois Persterer who was the commanding officer of Sonderkommando 10b is that correct? rations, military training, personnel matters and motor vehicle supply, is that correct?

A Yes. Again I would like to make the limitation. military training was practically only valid for the first time while we were in Dueben, that is during this military training which only took one day in the vicinity of Chernowitz, as I already mentioned.

Q But the other duties that I have outlined are generally correct?

Q what was the total strength in men of Sonderkommando 10b? billeting or food rations or personnel matters, motor vehicle supply; could you act for Alois Persterer in these matters? motor vehicles or to requisition gasoline or to requisition personnel or food?

A. No, that certainly was not the case and such situations never arose, and anyway, I do not know anything about such a situation, because our vehicles and our fuels we received on request from the unit or the agency to which we belonged, or even, sometimes, from the group itself.

Q All right. Once these were issued to you, these motor vehicles, did they come under your charge?

A You mean the vehicles?

central motor pool and dispatch them cut as needed, or did you permanently assign them to teilkommandos?

A No. From the very beginning the vehicles were distributed by the commando leader to the subcommandos or, at least, at that time there were no teilkommandos yet and it was only my task that repairs were made, when it was reported to me by a driver that the vehicles needed repair, then it was my task to see to it in case he needed spare parts that I would supply these natters. issued to Sonderkommando 10B, to see that that truck was present for duty, at all times it was in mechanical running condition--whose responsibility was it?

A The driver's.

Q Now, to whom was this driver responsible? to his platoon officer and these vehicles which were not part of a platoon, as for instance tanks and first aid vehicles, these vehicles necessary for the entire commando, the drivers of those vehicles also were responsible to the commando leader, without the slightest doubt, to see to it that their vehicles were in working order.

Q Well, as the motor officer's of the commando leader, weren't they responsible to the commando leader through you? that question. leader which was Major Persterer, You, as a motor officer of the commando leader were not these drivers responsible to him through you as the motor officer?

A I do not know, Mr. Walten. I don't know how you promoted me to a motor officer. I was no expert for vehicles or for mechanic.

I could only go into action when the vehicle needed repair and when information to this effect was received that this or the other spare part was needed which I--whereupon had myself informed whether this part was actually needed and then I asked it from the technical officer of the group. needed a vehicle. They sent into the headquarters of Sonderkommando 10B and said, "We request a vehicle for a certain purpose," and which was a normal military purpose. Who was it that had the responsibility a certain period of time. Who was it that dispatched this vehicle at 10 kilometers? by the commanding officer as we had no reserve vehicles, In order to explain this situation to you, I would like to say that we were so badly equipped when we were assigned that we had great shortages, that we lost a number of vehicles as early as Chernowitz, and that we had no reserve parts, therefore, spare parts would have to be taken from other vehicles also - the ranking officer in the immediate vicinity, could you have dispatched that vehicle? man who wanted the vehicle and the man to who it had been allocated and those two people would have had to discuss this matter, and I could not have decided upon it because those leaders had the same service rank as I if not a higher one.

Q Evidently I do not make myself clear. The teilkommando 10 kilometers away needs a vehicle. Standing outside of your particular office is a motor truck which is not at the moment being used which belongs to another platoon of the commando. Who would have the responsibility to send this truck 10 kilometers for the use of this teilkommando that needed it? apart from the kitchen truck and the tank truck which were constantly needed for general purposes, we had no such vehicles. Otherwise, in order to deal with your example, it would have been the commanding officer whose task it would be to either permanently or temporarily allocate such vehicles.

Q Then you couldn't issue any orders concerning vehicles even if Persterer was away from his headquarters could you?

A No. About the assignment of vehicles, I could not pass any decisions. for approximately one day. Let us suppose that General Ohlendorf sent military and humane manner. Would that have been your task to have distributed that information to every one of the 85 members of Sonderkommando 10B?

A What instructions? tions must be carried out in a military and humane manner. Would it have been your task to have disseminated that order to all members of the commando to have disseminated that order to all members of the commando us the administrative officer? the Commanding officer was away one a five-day trip and this order had to be handled by someone, who was the man to handle it?

at all. I believe, however, that I have heard that the group officer gave this order from the very beginning.

beginning?

Q Where did you first hear this order?

A I don't know. I couldn't say in detail and certainly not in this concrete form. I can only know that Persterer said at the, time that the Gruppenfuehrer leader attached great importance to this and that all preparations would have to be made.

Q Was this before you reached Chernowitz?

Q Was this in Chernowitz? leader that executions should be carried out in a humane manner according to the wishes of the group chief--you know that that order was given? he did so in connection with this execution in Chernowitz but I really could not say in detail. nothing to do with execution, just routine order, and Persterer was not at his headquarters. I want to know the name of the man whose duty it was to disseminate this order to the 85 members of the Sonderkommando?

Q Well, if it had happened? given to the next senior ranking officer.

Q Would that have been you? Persterer, to whom would it have been given then?

whom it would be given. There were five untersturmfuehrer with their various tasks.

Q were you an untersturmfuehrer there Chernowitz?

A No. I was Obersturmfuehrer. in Persterer's headquarters?

Q And who was the next?

A I can't remember just now whether it was Obersturmfuehrer Barth or myself, both is possible. the headquarters?

Q. Yes, at the most, the third.

A. Of course, apart from the commanding officer.

THE PRESIDENT: When you say at the most, the third ranking officer, you mean that you could not have been second or first,

THE WITNESS: No, Your Honor, it could not have been.

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment, I think you misunderstood the way I put it when you tell us that you were the third ranking officer at the most, you lean by it that you could not have been the second and you could not have been the first.

THE WITNESS: Yes, that is what I mean.

Q. (BY Mr. MAYER): Suppose then that an order came down which must be sent to all units of Sonderkommando 10-B and you were the only officer in the headquarters, would you have then Passed this order on?

A. I believe not, because such an order can always wait until the commanding officer is present himself.

Q. Suppose the order was addressed by General Ohlendorf to the officers and men of Sonderkommando 10-B. Wouldn't that have given you, as the only officer present, the authority to disseminate this order to Sonderkommando 10-B?

A. First of all, such an order was never given and secondly, I do not understand why I should have passed it on or make it known.

Q. All right, as the only officer present in headquarters?

A. This actually never happened.

Q. And the mail clerk opened this order, as he was supposed to do, wouldn't he refer this order to you, that came in the mail, as the only officer present?

A. I don't think, Mr. Walton that the clerk in the orderly room would have dared to open such a letter which was addressed to an officer.

Q. Well, orders are supposed to be obeyed, are they not?

A. Certainly.

Q. Yes, and when they have come to a unit, the only way they can be obeyed is for a man to know of them?

A. Yes.

Q. And if the commanding officer was away, it would be somebody's task to see that this order was given to the people who were to obey it, wouldn't he?

A. If such an order had been received, Yes, that would have been the task of the next ranking officer, that is, the Hauptsturmfuehrer.

Q. Now we are making some progress. If you were the only Obersturmfuehrer in the Headquarters and that order was called to your attention, wouldn't you have seen that it was carried out as the ranking officer there?

A. I can't --

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, Mr. Walton is putting a very simple thing and it is simply this: If an order comes through addressed to all officers and all members of the kommando and you happened to be the only officer in the headquarters, you would naturally distribute the order. There is nothing complicated or difficult about that.

THE WITNESS: If it is a vent urgent order which has to be announced immediately, and there is no other officer present, I, of course, as an officer would have announced this order,

Q. That is the answer I have been trying to get for five minutes.

A. I am sorry I misunderstood you, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q. And then we can assume that the possibility existed for You to be the deputy of the commanding officer, is that correct?

A. Hardly, Mr, Walton, because I have already said, I have already stated the subordination relationship. I have said that I was the third man, excluding the commanding officer and that only in case the others would not have been there they would have come to see me, and even then it is always the matter of content of the matter, what it is all about. If it does not concern my own authority then, of course, it would not have interested me at all, but it would have been sent to the expert dealing with such things. However, this situation never came about.

Q. The question did not go to the probability of your acting for the commanding officer. The question was: "did not the possibility exist whereby you could have in certain circumstances acted as the deputy of the commanding office, namely, the example which we have discussed?

A. I would not like to all this the deputy of the commanding officer or a representative of the commanding officer, because that would mean an internal procedure.

Q. Witness, your answer is not responsive. Answer yes, or no. Did or did not the possibility exist under certain circumstances where you could have acted as the representative of the commanding officer, answer that yes or no.

A. I would like to answer in the negative to this very general question.

Q. Then the possibility never existed where you could ever be a representative of your commanding officer?

A. Yes.

Q. What about your direct examination in your treatment of General Ohlendorf's order concerning the transport of the Jews when you stated that the Obersturmfuehrer Finger or Lipps, I don't know which one, was with the News, Persterer was away and you took it upon yourself to go back to General Ohlendorf's headquarters and consult with him a second time, concerning the transport of these Jews to Rumanian territory. Weren't you acting as a deputy of your commanding officer there?

A. No, I would not like to regard it as such for this trip, Mr. Walton, the specific order by the commander had existed, which had appointed me to accompany this man and then come back. This could not be carried out and thus an emergency situation arose which I have commented on. In compliance with this order, I went to the Group Chief in order to explain to his the emergency situation which had arisen and that the order could not be carried out.

Q. You do not think at that time that you acted as a deputy of Persterer When you treated with General Ohlendorf concerning the new development in order which he had given about these Jews.

You do not consider that. you were the Deputy then?

A. No.

Q. That is all.

A. I must add. Every officer would have done that.

Q. Well, let's turn to Document Book II D, page 45 of the English, page 48 of the German. This is Document NOKW 587, Prosecution Exhibit 92. Mr. Ruehl, how large was Chernowitz, how large a town.

A. I couldn't say, I did not really get to know Chernowitz very well.

Q. Could you estimate from what you saw there approximately how many people lived there in normal times?

A. That is difficult to estimate, because I did not really got to know the town and its extensions, but it is possible that 200,000 300,000, 400,000 people lived there, within this range I think.

Q. Well, it was a fairly large city, that is want I want. It certainly --

A. Fairly large, yes.

Q. It certainly did not come in the classification of village or small town. It was a large city.

A. Yes, certainly.

Q. Now, according to this report, to accomplish the task of searching for and I Quote, "Politically suspected elements" in this town, it took all the personnel of the Sonderkommando to make this search, didn't it?

A. You start from that point that what it says here in this report is correct. Whether it is accurate I do not know, but even if we take it for granted that it is correct, I don't see that with the men at the disposal of the kommando it would have been absolutely impossible to even approach a proper search of a town in two or three day, as it says in this document.

Q. All right, was not this the general procedure on the first arrival of a kommando in a town to search out the politically suspected elements in order to guarantee your own security.

Wasn't this the usual procedure when a kommando first came to a town?

A. No, I wouldn't go so far as to say that in any war. I made not such observations.

Q. Well, if the security was the first requisite of any military unit in the field, as a matter of spending operating procedure was not the security the first thing taken care of on the arrival at a new territory or a new area?

A. This area had already been passed by the frontal units and as it becomes evident from the reports all these elements had already escaped and only returned after a short while in order to work there, I can't really say that I over observed that any of these villages and localities were searched. This may be due to the fact that in the period after this, we arrived at territories where kommandos had been active before us.

Q. I believe you stated that these elements had escaped and returned. Was this the only town in your experience where these politically undesirable elements came back?

A. I think either I have not expressed myself very well or we misunderstood each other because this is not what I said. What I wished to say -- I did not speak about Chernowitz but generally about things mentioned in these reports. I assumed that we were speaking about this question generally.

Q. That's right, generally. You stated that in this particular time or, at least, that's the way the translation came through, that on the approach of the Wehrmacht or certainly on the approach of the German forces these people had escaped you said and later returned. undesirable elements first left and later cane back in your experience?

A. I could not even say that of Chernowitz. From my own knowledge.

Isn't it true that the first consideration of your commando on the arrival at any place was to make a survey to determine the situation with regard to their own security? it, because I have made no experience concerning this, but this does not mean that the general obtaining of information in this survey, as you call it, means an investigation of the whole city, because only in very rare cases we have had enough men to do so. Rumanians were there, is that not true, and by cooperation with your Rumanian Allies, could you not got plenty of men to comb the city? therefore, it was her not the task of the commando to deal with such matters, but it was the task of the Rumanians, so it becomes evident from this report there was a police commander, or police major who was a Rumanian, whose task it was, if there was nobody else to take care of it, that the security and order was maintained in this Rumanian capitol. Chernovitz then, if it was completely under Rumanian territory.

A I could not tell you. According to my observation I regarded it in this manner, that we would be there in preparedness for future actions, and this attitude of mine is being confirmed by the reports of events. states in there that the action of the Rumanians against the Jews was desultory until Sondercommando X-B arrived. However, at this particular time I want to confine our consideration to this one document.

According to your knowledge, did any members of Sondercommando X-B assist in this search for political undesirable elements?

A I didn't hear anything about that, Communists were shot by the command? Walton, I never learned about it at all, and that I am most surprised of this, and I want to exclude, the possibility that they were shot at all, I have stated that he reported to Army group, which was far away, and that there are no deputies of his, and no inspections need be carried out, but that he does not inform his group-chief, Ohlendorf, about it, although two days later after this report to the Army group, the group was informed too, but does not say anything about this in the report. A few days afterwards the group-chief himself was in Chernovitz to carry out inspection, and even on that occasion, we have heard, he was not informed at all about this, and apart from this such a story would be in direct contradiction to the order given by the group-chief of the commando. from Sonderkommando X-B? course. that your commanding officer Persterer sent forward reports that were not true, can we assume that? until around the first of October, some five months. Did he impress you as a man who would do things like that, who would send lying reports forward?

A I must correct this statement first. It was only just over three months, but certainly not five months. Also I was not with him all the time, so it is very hard to judge another person, especially if this problem of this kind is concerned. I only know he was very careful to be able to prove the activities of the commando, because he often complained that his commando was so much in the rear and wasn't committed to action. the commando, is that what you said? means he wanted it committed to action, did he not? to help solve the Jewish question in the East, was it not?

AAt the time I don't know anything about that.

Q I didn't ask you what you know. I said, to prove the worth of the commando, one feature of proving the worth of the commando was to commit it to assist in solving the Jewish question in the East, wasn't it? because I have already said, Mr. Walton, that this order, as it has become known to me now, was not valid for the Rumanian Sovereign Territory, and those are matters which were not known to me at that time. Therefore, it is impossible that he would have reported any activity of this kind to a group, because in that case he would have made a resistance to a superior who would give him another order. I think.

therefore, we can not here argue about his trying to receive an assignment from the Rumanians of this kind, or carrying out such operation if he has orders to the contrary effect. if you saw it?

A I can not say. It is possible.

Q Well, you have seen his signature, have you not? seen many signatures since. Persterer didn't write much. Did your counsel ever show you the photostatic copy of this report?

MR. WALTON: Please, your Honor, could I request that this exhibit be brought into court tomorrow morning for submission to the witness to see if he can identity the signature of his then commanding officer.

THE PRESIDENT: The Secretary General will please have the document referred to by Mr. Walton in court tomorrow morning.

MR. WALTON: This is Document NOKW 587, Prosecution's Exhibit No. 92, Mr. Secretary General. BY MR. WALTON:

Q Let's go on a little farther in that. Do you know how far the City of Hodin, which is spelled "H-O-D-I-N" is from Chernovitz?

A No, I am sorry, I don't know. Chernovitz?

Q In your opinion could the name of "Hotin" and "Chotin" be the one and the same place?

A I would think so.,I think it is marked on the maps in one way and then in the other manner. I have tried to find out which locality might have been meant and where it might be found.

Q Let me ask you this. When you arrived at Chernovitz, did you find out that the Teilkommando, or subcommando of Sondercommando X-B was in Chotin? Chernovitz when you arrived?

A I don't know. business to find out approximately where members of your command were?

A No, that is quite impossible. The people receive their orders from the commanding officer. They don't report away from me. I do not keep a list so everybody has to sign when he leaves because - generally were? In other words, when any Teilkommando were sent out. Do you know about that, as there must have been an officer there?

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, I've decided to take up another document.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, this might be the right place for recess. The Tribunal will be in recess until tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will recess until 9:30 tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon the Tribunal adjourned until 0930 hours, 19 December 1947)

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal No. II.

Military Tribunal No. II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this honorable Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: You may begin, Mr. Walton. BY MR. WALTON:

Q Mr. Ruehl, yesterday you stated on direct examination that you were in Chernowitz from approximately the 9th or 10th of July to about the 7th of August, 1941, did you not? any executions here, because this was Rumanian Territory, is that true?

Q Yes. What was the mission of all kommandos of Einsatzgruppe D when they went to Russia? knew at the time. I already said that Persterer made known in Chernowitz and only that is known to me. subunits was to secure the rear areas behind the Wehrmacht in order that the line of supplies should be kept open. You did not know that at the time?

A Yes, that I knew. I said so.

were a member of it.

A I do not understand what you mean. I think we do not really understand each other. I said what Persterer made known to us as the task of the Einsatzkommando and, if I am not mistaken, I began by saying that he informed us that the kommando would have to deal with the security measures in the rear Army territory. kommando at the same time he introduced you as his deputy?

A There are two errors, I am afraid, in one question, Mr. Walton. First of all, he never introduced me as his deputy because I was not his deputy and also I already said yesterday there was no general speech that he made, that I doubted whether he announced the assignment to the Kommando. It wasn't his way to do that. 10-B during the months you were with it in Chernowitz. you no information about it, because I never heard anything about that, because I was only informed about this general order which had to be regarded as a sort of general assignment during the whole time. In how far his assignment had to be carried out in Chernowitz I do not know. I said yesterday that it was my impression that the kommando in Chernowitz was alerted.

Q You were with the kommando in Chernowitz for a month. Now what did the kommando do while it was there and while you were there? up contact with the Russian and the Ukrainian Army and to become acquainted with conditions. That was that I have experienced there. I am sorry that I cannot give you any further information.

Q The translation come through "taking up contact with the Russian and Ukrainian Army." You meant the Rumanian and the Ukrainian.

Q Rumanian, yes. Did Sonderkommando 10-B spend of its time inciting Rumanians to institute Jewish pogroms?

A I don't know anything about it. out a Jewish pogrom?

A That again I certainly don't know anything about. you in Chernowitz during the month of July or August, 1941?

A How many there were during the whole period, I couldn't say if I tried, since individual officers were always on the road dealing with assignments. did Sonderkommando 10-B have in all, from Major Persterer down to the youngest Second Lieutenant, how many did it have in all?

Q How many?

A Just a moment. Seven.

Q Well, were not these seven officers in and out of Chernowitz?

A I wouldn't say that. They were not constantly on the road.

Q That's right. They came in and out of Chernowitz. Did you talk to them when they came to Chernowitz, or to some of them?

A I don't remember having discussed anything with them. I heard about this or the other story from them. In order to make this clear, I could say that, for instance, on one occasion one or two officers were sent off in order to cope with difficulties that had arisen between the Hungarians and the Rumanians; although they were both our allies, they did not like each other very much. Therefore, difficulties arose occasionally and on one occasion -- I remember this particularly -- there was a sugar plant where they were about ready to fight each other.

Q Then you did among yourselves discuss your task, is that correct?

A Noo I wouldn't say that, only special events. Such unusual events, of course, were discussed occasionally; because they were so strange, obviously, that some one heard something here and there.

Q Would you consider the execution an unusual event?

Q Would not it have been discussed among yourselves?

A Yes, I would assume that it would. That is how I gained my knowledge. was doing, if it had done something unusual, didn't you?

A I couldn't say that. to secure the rear areas behind the Wehrmacht in Chernowitz?

A No, Mr. Walton. I said that I was not under the impression that the kommando ever became active at all in Chernowitz, except in this one case which I was informed about, where, on special instruction of the Rumanian Army, the kommando became active.

Q Were you in Chernowitz on the 11th of July, 1941? the English, page 52 of the German. This is Document No_2934, and it is Prosecution's Exhibit 78, Your Honors, I specifically refer to page 49 of the Document Book. Will you indicate, Witness, when you have found the place on page 6 of the original, which is headed, "Finsatzkommando 10-B, Location, Chernowitz." evacuated by the Soviet forces, according to your memory, is that true? no Russians in the place.

Q All right, if there were Russians there, wouldn't there be plenty of work for the kommando?

A I said, Mr. Walton, that I cannot remember having heard about Russians being in Chernowitz at the time.

Q When you got there, wasn't there plenty of work for the men in the kommando to do?

A No, I wouldn't say that.

Q Not much wor? Well, will you tell me what it means in this report when it says, and I quote, "Action against Jews, until the arrival of the Einsatzkommando desultory." That is about three lines from the bottom of the page in my document book.

Q Doesn't that mean that they stirred up these pogroms against the Jews.

A Who?

A I wouldn't conclude that from this, because here it says "action against Jews until arrival of the Einsatzkommando desultory." That means that action was taken against the Jews, but only until the arrival of the kommando.

Q Well, according to my memory, I won't argue, according to my understanding, and I won't argue with you, it seems to me there was very little action against the Jews by the Rumanians or anybody else until the Ensatzkommando got there. All right, did you ever see a Ghetto in Chernowitz? by the Red artillery. Could there have been a Ghetto in a city of 300,000 to 400,000 people?

A It is possible, but I don't know. That is a theoretical question. In a town of such extent, there might have been one. I don't know whether, there was one. However, I did not hear about in in Chernowitz. I would doubt whether there was one, merely for the reason that I myself saw these people walking about freely in the twon and, not only that, they came to our hotel and tried to do business with us.

Q Now, as a matter of fact, wasn't it one of the principal tasks of the kommando to round up these Jews after their Ghetto was destroyed? according to this report, it took better trained and better disciplined German police forces to perform the security tasks in this city, didn't it?

A I don't know why in such a town, which is in a foreign country we should have authority to proceed against forces of this particular state.

Q Now, Mr. Ruehl, we will consider the Document Book II-D, page 37 in the English, page 40, Document No-2950, Prosecution Exhibit 90, and I am specifically interested in the report from Chernowitz that appears on pages 20 and 21 of the original -- that is found on page 39, Your Honors, of the document book. How many of these 1,200 Jews were arrested during the month of August by Sonderkommando 10-B?

A I am not in the position to tell you. I do not think that the Kommando arrested any. performed by Sonderkommando 10-B? mentioned. their interrogations were completed?

A I couldn't give you any information concerning this.

Q All right. This clearing of the area of the Jews was a joint operation by the Rumanians and the Einsatzkommando, wasn't it? document?

killed 682, and then you arrest 50 Communists and kill 16 of them, isn't that a clearing operation?

A I said, Mr. Walton, that I doubt that the kommando even as much as participated to any large extent in this action. correct? after the Wehrmacht had driven the Russians back, is that correct?

A Do you mean the occupied territory, Transnistria, by this? It would be true of that as far as I know, at least. be no territorial changes in war time, except by conquest?

A I don't know whether I understand the gist of your question, but I should like to answer it. As far as I can see, the question it this: Chernowitz and the whole surrounding territory Bukowina up to Setzno, was Rumanian sovereign territory up to 1939 and only for one year came under Russian Sovereignty. Therefore the consequence was that as soon as this territory was reconquered, this was taken over again by the Rumanians as their own territory and was proclaimed as such. This attitude I find confirmed in a report of events, but I don't know the number, but it is one in which it says that Chernowitz and Bukowina are Rumanian sovereign territory and that it had been proclaimed Rumanian sovereign territory. What International legal conditions are concerned in this, I do not know.

territory, were these 1200 arrested Jews Rumanian Jews or Russian Jews? been Rumanian. were they Russians or Rumanians?

AAgain I could say yes or no. I don't know. They might have been people who had been Rumanian citizen, and regained their Rumanian citizenship automatically. They may also be people who during the Russian occupation arrived from Russia as original Russian citizens, and remained Russians citizens. I could not tell you even if I tried. any civilians of conquered and occupied territories, didn't they?

A I am sorry, I don't quite understand this question. Rumanians, didn't they have the rights usually afforded civilian populations in conquered territories?

A I don't know. I don't know how far you could call Rumanian territory which again comes under the Rumanian sovereignty, occupied territory. would they not? All 682 of them, wouldn't they? were shot?

A I don't know anything about it.

Q Allright, let's turn in the same document book to page 41 of the English, Page 43 of the German, which is Document 4135, on page 42, Your Honors, and, I specifically refer, witness, to that report of Einsatzcommando 10-B, which occurs on page 3 of the original.

Now in this report it states that there was a Vorkommando at Chotin. Have you found that place where it says that? Where it says, "Location Chernovitz, Vorcommando at Chotin."? Chotin?

A I could not tell you. In my opinion it is misleading that a Vorkommando was stationed in Chotin, for I was not informed that a subcommando was ever stationed there.

Q Do you know a man by the name of Robert Barth? I'll refresh your memory -

Q -- he was a Hauptscharfuehrer in Sonderkommando 10-B? Do you know him? Vorkommando in Chotin. Do you deny that?

A Yes, I certainly want to deny that. I never even saw Chotin, and I certainly was never there with any Vorkommando. you certain instances of your behavior while in Chotin. Do you deny that you were the highest-ranking officer with this Vorkommando also? answer, Mr. Walton. I have stated and I am stating again explicitly that I have never even seen Chotin. I certainly never was there, and certainly not with a Vorkommando. I can not tell you more. correct, according to your testimony. Now as early as the 14th or 15th of July, according to this document, Commando 10-B was being criticized because its measures had not been severe enough.

What did Commando 10-B do to increase its measures against the Jews?

A I said yesterday, Mr. Walton, and if you now refer to this paragraph, that the following directive were given to 10-B. Incidentally, a criticism that nothing much was carried out is not even mentioned. I would like to correct that. If you are referring now to this where it states: "Directives are given to 10-B" I can only repeat what I said yesterday, that this order if it arrived at the Commando, was not known to me, and that I did not observe any effect of such an order. first intellectual persons, intellectually leading persons quoted in the report? Was it always the task of the Commando to execute these people first?

A. I don't know. intelligentsia, such as a lawyer, a rabbi, or teacher, had his life spared by the Sonderkommando 10-B in spite of the fact that he belonged to the intelligentsia?

A I didn't know the prerequisite for this, namely that there was such an order to this effect, but I can not say -I really can not say I know about such an order. where one of the intelligentsia had his life spared by Sonderkommando 10-B. Now is your answer to that yes, or no? actually carried out, and that I would know something to that effect and, that, therefore, I can not tell you because, as I say, I didn't know the prerequisite and I didn't even interest myself in these matters, and, therefore, I am not able to answer this question.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, that question is a little bit tricky. Not that you intended it to be so, of course. That question is a little bit like asking, have you stopped beating your wife, sir? If he says, yes, it means that he had been beating her, and if he said no, he is still beating her.

MR. WALTON: I withdraw the question, Your Honor. BY MR. WALTON: accused of setting fire to some houses?

A No, I have not heard anything about it. Where was this supposed to have happened? Jews in Chotin chased them over the ruins and shot at them? I have already told you, that I never even saw Chotin. I never entered the town of Hotin. Therefore, it obviates every other question. or Hotin. I am well aware that you say that you were never there, if so, all you need to do is to answer, yes or no. You already explained why you answered, yes or no. In Chotin didn't you with your own hands plus two drivers set fire to a Jewish synagogue?

Q Do you know how long this Teilkommando was at Chotin?

A No. I could not tell you. I have said that I don't even remember a subcommando having been sent there.

Q Did you ever hear of anybody being killed in Chotin? No. 2950, on page 39 of the same document book you hold in the English, page 40 of the German, in that paragraph where it says: "In the area of Chernovitz, Chotin has been bypassed, whereby 150 Jews and Communists have been liquidated." Did you ever hear of any Jews being liquidated in Chotin or Hotin?

A No, Mr. Walton, I can only repeat what I said to Mr. Wartenberg in my first or second interrogation - I don't know when it was - that I don't even remember the name of Hotin. Hotin does not mean anything to me at all. round up Russian Nationals, such as Jews, Communists and other asocial people while you were with it? departmental chiefs made use of Russian confidential agents, in order to deal with their tasks.

Q Did you ever see a confidential agent? the commander himself received civilians as visitors, and among those there were a number of Jews as well, and he discussed matters with them. confidential agents for their services? salary, or whether they were paid a stated sum for each denunciation they made to your commander?

A They certainly didn't receive a monthly salary, because I would have known about it, it would have gone through my office, unless, of course, the commanding officer had a fund for this purpose, especially at his disposal, but I don't know anything about that.

that are mentioned in this report on page 43 of the English and on page 3 of Document NO*4135, were these denunciations by these confidential agents sufficient to sign a man's death warrant?

A I don't know at the moment, Mr. Walton, what you are referring to.

Q. All right, let's go almost to the end of document 4135. According to this report, and I quote: "10-B finished its tasks at Chotin. Intellectually leading persons from the Soviet Party and public life, Jewish agitators, teachers,lawyers, rabbis were apprehended with the help of Ukrainian confidential agents in the course of several raids and treated accordingly." Now I ask you , was the denounciation by these confidential agents sufficient for Sonderkommando 10-B to issue a death warrant for this man or these men?

A. Such a question you cannot expect me to answer, Mr. Walton. How could I answer such a question? I never carried out any investigation in such cases. Therefore, I could not if I tried tell you anything about the investigations.

Q. Well, you stated that there is reason you supposed that confidential agents were being sent out because you used to see them in the commander's office. Now I am trying to inquire into just how much you know about these visits to your commando. If you don't know, all you need to do is say you don't know, but let me caution you that I am asking the questions and not you. Let's turn now to Document book III-D, page 24 of the English, page 46 of the German, which is Document 2840. During the month of August where was the commando stationed?

A. As of 7 August in Mogilew-Podolsk.

Q. Were you with the Commando during this time?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know who it was that escorted these 6,000 Jews back to Rumanian territory, and had the argument with the Rumanian bridge commander?

A. First Lt. Lipps had the order to take them back, and I am not taking for granted that these figures here are correct.

Q. Do you know whether these Jews wanted to return to MogilewPodolsk and objected to returning to their homes in Rumanian territory?

A. No, so far as I was informed, they welcomed the idea that they should be able to return to their homes, and they would have a better prospect there than in the destroyed war territory.

Q. Now according to this report the Jews were collected in three collecting camps. Who established these camps?

A. I don't know what these camps looked like. I have not seen them, and I don't know anything about it, but I would assume that they were individual groups, which were quite large. Whether the establishment of these camps had been ordered or whether the people collected there themselves in order to support each other, that I don't know.

Q. Who put these Jews to work clearing the streets?

A. I could not tell you, I think it was probably the Ukrainian self-administration, who caused the work to be carried out.

Q. Who paid them?

A. That also I don't know, but I hardly think that this kind of work was actually paid for. My impression about the work which I had done in Russia, was that it was not customary to pay, because they were emergency laborers who I think were not paid. I could not , of course, tell you any exact details about it.

Q. Could these Jews ever refuse to do this work?

A. I don't know whether they were threatened with force and if so, how.

Q. What would have happened to a Jew if he had refused to work when ordered to do so by the Germans?

A. I could only give you the same answer again, that I have no personal knowledge concerning this.

Q. All right. Let's move on then to Document Book II-B, page 7 of the English, Your Honors, page 5 of the German, Document 2837, Prosecution's Exhibit No. 58.

THE PRESIDENT: What page is that?

MR. WALTON: Seven.

BY MR. WALTON:

Q. Witness, does the date of this document correspond with the events mentioned in paragraph three of your affidavit, which is Document Book III-D, page 76 of the English, Document NO 4149, and Prosecution's Exhibit 169. Does the date of this report, witness, correspond to the events mentioned in this paragraph three of your affidavit? I am sorry. Witness, on page 29 of the original a report is given from Einsatzgruppe-D, page 11, Your Honors, and it is about this paragraph that I asked you the question in connection with this paragraph three of your affidavit. Does the date of this report correspond to the events mentioned in this paragraph 3 of your affidavit?

A. May I ask, does the paragraph three concern the leading back of these people. I have not got it before me at the moment, I know -pardon me -- no, I don't think I have it. I only want to make certain. I'll also answer this question. I would doubt that as I have already said, the taking back of these people via taranpol in the numbers mentioned , the figure mentioned is 27,500, such figure I never heard about, neither in Mogilew, nor in discussions with the group-chief, and I would assume rather that the figure was the one I recall, namely from 12,000-15,000 people, and that the reference to this is in the report of the 26th.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, Mr. Walton only asked you if the dates corresponded. He wasn't referring to the figures - the dates. Put the question again, Mr. Walton, please. BY MR. WALTON: Document Book III-D, page 121 of the German. Do you have paragraph 3 of your affidavit before you now? which is on page 11 of the English text of Document Book II-B, and the events which you relate in paragraph 3 of your own affidavit correspond? dates.

Q Yesterday in answer to the President's question pointing out to you the inconsistencies in your direct testimony that "there was no cause for me to interest myself in this matter because the man competent in this case was, until the arrival of the Kommando in this sector, the Fuehrer who had been appointed who was not subordinate to me in any way" with your statement in your affidavit and I quote: "I tried to get these people together in Mogilew-Podolsk in order to take them back in a group transport", you stated that the affidavit was worded by Mr. Wartenberg and was misleading, is this true? you made the following statements about this event.

1. Persterer ordered me to accompany him to the Group Headquarters to hear what the decision of the Group Chief was in this matter and bring this decision back to Mogilew. Did you make that statement yesterday?

Q Second: I gave this message, that is Ohlendorf's decision, to the officer in charge of bringing these Jews back. Is that correct?

Q Then you made a third statement in this connection when you said: Then in his own competence this officer carried out this re-transport. Did you make that statement? ce. With that I want to say that he was responsible for the carrying out of this order and he carried it out by himself. "I cannot say with certainty how many were actually sent back because I did not see the transport." Did you make that statement?

Q Do you remember your first interrogation by Mr. Wartenberg?

Q Was there a stenographer present?

A You mean a stenographer? Yes, a female stenographer.

Q Did she take down questions and your answers in shorthand? she tried to do so. of May 8, 1947, would you recognize them? on it in detail I would doubt because we were both rather excited and quite some time has passed since then. tion. "Q. There were about 50,000 Jews in Mogilew-Podolsk who were taken over the Rumanian border?

"A. No, it was this way. I came from Czernowitz there then to install a Kommando in Mogilew-Podolsk. On the way I overtook a train which I was able to identify as an exile train which was escorted by Rumanian soldiers." Did you make that statement?

A Yes, but I want to correct this first sentence. I did not say that I arrived there in order to install a Kommando. I don't know how you read it but that is how it came through on the translation but I was sent there to prepare billets for the whole Kommando which was to be transferred there.

Q I skip a few sentences which are not particularly important. "I have thought a good deal about what could have been done since it was not possible to take care of them (referring to this transport of Jews again). I thereupon herded the Jewish people together in Mogilew-Podolsk with the idea of bringing them back. I tried it and went to Ohlendorf and asked him about it and explained the situation to him. I told him that the situation was impossible and I wanted to advise him that the people should be taken back. He agreed with me. I ordered them to collect and told them that I would take them back over the bridge." Did you make that statement in the interrogation?

A Yes, but, Mr. Walton, the wording which you have read does not make very much sense and I don't think I have to say much to this point. May I just take out one particular point, that I myself should have gone to see Ohlendorf, to suggest this to Ohlendorf and to cause him to tellme to lead these people back? That in itself is so peculiar and I think Ohlendorf has already given testimony concerning this point and, of course, he will confirm how it actually happened and who was to report to him about it. those statements in your interrogation to Mr. Wartenberg?

A Certainly not in this form. I have discussed this matter with Mr. Wartenberg and he said "this is what you told me", and I said, "it is quite impossible because it did not correspond to the fact. Therefore, how could I have told you such a story". I really discussed this quite some time with Wartenberg, the matter concerning these two affidavits.

A This is not an affidavit. This is the stenographic transcript of your interrogation and I am asking you if you made these statements. Let's read further. After you relate about your negotiations with the Rumanian Colonel at the bridge and his refusal to allow this transport over the bridge you state, and I quote: "Then I went back to Ohlendorf and told him that there was still one bridge that was German across the river. The people could go back over this. He also approved this" and then you said, "I call the train together and we march back to the borders of our Kommando and there, according to orders, changed and turned the train over to our neighbor Kommando 12. This train was then also taken over." Did you make that statement? you now about statements that you made on 8 May and you are positive that you never made this statement that I have just read.

A What I say is that I did not do it in this manner. I told him that the first attempt of these transports did not take place. As I was going to report to him about it. Lipps asked me to come to see him at the Rumanian Commanding Officer's Headquarters to tell him again that it was the decision of the Group Chief, that he heard himself that this was with the agreement of the German Army. On this occasion we went to see the Rumanian commanding officer and we discussed the matter again but he refused. On the next day I went to see the Group chief because the situation was untenable, or at least I regarded it as such, and after I had passed on the order I regarded it as my duty as an officer to notify the Group Chief immediately and to tell him that his order could not be carried out, that this and that situation had arisen, and I had decided to ask him for a new decision. It is quite possible that on this occasion I mentioned that down the river there was another bridge - that is quite possible.

Q Let's go on a little further. The question was then asked you by Mr. Wartenberg, "Who headed Kommando 12?"

And your answer: "Noske. He took the people as far as Jampol and there they went over the bridge happily". Did you make that statement?

AAgain not in this manner because I couldn't have said that, at least, as this was actually said in this particular wording doesn't mean that he himself was personally able to say this. By this it is only meant that he took charge of this in his capacity as Kommando chief, as people of his Kommando were concerned. I can only say again I did not go with this particular transport for one step. As far as I am informed, and I remember Lipps sent a few people with this column and I was of the opinion that these men escorted this column up to the border of our Kommando sector but as far as actual knowledge goes I have not been concerned with this incident.

and your statements made here disagree, which do you stand on, your statements made here or your interrogation and your affidavit?

A I may say the following here. The affidavit is the result of these alleged records.

Q Just a minute. Let me get an answer to my question. As between your statements made here and your interrogation and this affidavit, which do you stand on now, your statements made here or your affidavit and interrogation? witness stand. transport to the area of Einsatzkommando 12. Did he report to you after he accomplished his task?

A I do not know - not to me because that wasn't necessary.

Q Well, since you had taken such interest in these Jews, weren't you at least curious to find out what happened to them?

A Well, obviously when he returned he would have told me "Here I am again. The thing has been managed." But this would have been a comradely act but not a report, or whatever you want to call it.

Q All right. Did he tell you he had delivered the Jews as he had been ordered?

A I don't remember any details. He told me he only - he stated the transport had actually been carried out.

Q Did he say to whom he had delivered these Jews? these Jews and before he started back to his own unit?

A I don't understand the question.

Q All right. When he delivered these Jews to some one in the area of Einsatzkommando 12 he certainly didn't break down into a dead run and leave immediately to report back to his unit.

I am asking you now, did he ever tell you of any events in connection with this transport that happened after he turned over the Jewish transport and before he had started his journey back to his own unit?

A You presuppose, Mr. Walton, that Lipps accompanied and escorted this column to the border. I couldn't tell you that. you of any events that took place after he delivered the Jews and started back to his own unit - your answer is in the negative, is that correct?

A Yes. I never thought anything about it. transport of Jews?

A No. I regard this as quite impossible. He never told me anything about it either. I don't see any reason why he should have done that. and other places, isn't it a fact that you were convinced in your own mind that you sent these Rumanian Jews across the river you were sending then to their deaths?

A No, no, that is not so. Because that one would send a whole population to their death by shooting I never imagined that kind of thing would happen and I do not see from what you conclude this. I neither heard anything about it nor ever saw anything in the documents, and if you ask me about the picture in my mind which I have of this, I assumed that the group chief, who dealt with such important things after discussion between the Wehrmacht, also informed the Wehrmacht about it, and that there are discussions to this effect with the Rumanian Wehrmacht authorities.

Q Well, did you not know the anti-semitic attitude of the Rumanians?

anti-semitism as far as Rumanians are concerned. I would say I didn't use this expression. They were different attitudes. the Germans at this particular time? do they not?

A I would like to doubt that. I know of sufficient examples that this is not so. I mentioned the difference between the Rumanians and Germans.

Q Well, I will prove to you that your doubt is ill-founded. Both of you were fighting the Russians, were you not. Russians? of the Rumanians and Germans was the same. Now I am asking you, was not anti-semitism a basic policy of both the Rumanians and the Germans?

A You see here we do not understand each other, Mr. Walton. You were speaking of the war aims and you say that the basis of this war aim are common political opinions and convictions. In my opinion they are not necessarily a part of it. For instance, I may point out here an example you mentioned. The Allies - I do not think their political aims were the same yet they would have the same war aims.

Q Well, I will ask you this. Was it not one of their war aims to get rid of the Jews?

Q Wasn't that a common war aim between Rumanians and Germans?

Q As Allies didn't the Third Reich encourage the anti-semitic policy of the Rumanians?

A I don't know,

Q All right. Did you know when you sent these Jews to the area of Einsatzkommando 12 what Einsatzkommando 12 would do with them? chief that it was the task of the Kommando to lead these people back across the bridge and that discussion would have teen held with the Rumanians so that they would not run into the same difficulty. they got them, didn't you? back into the territory of the people that had expelled them, you knew that when you sent them hack, didn't you? was aware. I was of the opinion though, and I still am today, that it was less bad for these people not to be very well regarded in their own country or sector or position, than to be helpless in destroyed territory suffering hunger and being crowded. to the conclusion that if you sent these Jews back, some of them were very liable to be killed, weren't they?

A No. I don't see what reason I should have had to think so. I had not heard by then of any Jews being killed. Therefore, I had no conclusions.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will begin recess 15 minutes.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. HOFFMANN: Hoffmann for Nosske. the Tribunal. My request is that the Defendant Nosske be excused from attendance in court this afternoon in order to prepare his document book. Your Honor, my question is the following: The Tribunal will remember the event in Jampol when the Jews were brought into the Rumanian territory. The bridge commander, whose name was Horsch, was to be interrogated, investigated. According to instructions by the Tribunal, by submitting the record, I asked Major Schaeffer in the Defense Center to bring this witness here. I assumed that the Tribunal would have a session tomorrow, Saturday, but there are rumors, I say rumors, your Honor, that there will be no session tomorrow, and in order to avoid that the witness comes here in vain, I would like to ask or inquire whether there is any truth in those rumors, whether the witness should be told not to come.

THE PRESIDENT: Is he available to you by telegram?

DR. HOFFMAN: I would have to go quickly to the information center and ask Major Schaeffer about this. I think he summoned him for tomorrow, but we can also tell him not to come.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Just a moment, please. Dr. Hoffmann, are you certain that by telegraph you could stop this witness from starting on his journey?

DR. HOFFMANN: I am sure of that.

THE PRESIDENT: Because we would not want him to make this trip unnecessarily. I tell you what you might do, Dr. Hoffmann, if I can burden you with it, to find out from the information center if by sending a telegram they can prevent his starting on the trip. If they cannot do that and the man is on his way or will be on his way then we should meet long enough to hear him tomorrow morning, at least for that, because it wouldn't be fair to have him make this trip and have him make it again.

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, immediately, I shall -

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, I think we should have a definite statement either by a report from him or from someone who would know whether he is gone or not. why don't you do that, please, Dr. Hoffmann and then let us know and then we will make our decision.

DR. HOFFMANN: Yes, I shall be back in a few minutes, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, Very well.

Q. (By Mr. Walton) Witness, before the morning recess, we were talking about the transport of thousands of Jaws which you were instrumental in delivering to Einsatzkommando 12 for further accompanyment into the Rumanian territory. Did any of this transport refuse to go with Lt. Lipps?

A. May I first correct something. In the introductory sentence I think you made a few slight errors, as to my participation in the retransport; in order to clarify this again, in order to avoid further misunderstandings, I was the one who handed on the order. I did not conduct the transport back. From my own knowledge, I cannot say whether the Kommando 12 sent any men to assist. I concluded this from the fact that they did sand people, because we also did this. Now, in order to answer this question, I would lime to say that Lipps did not tell us anything about the fact that people were shot, I think that was the question, was it not?

Q. Did some of these Jews escape and refuse to go with the transport conducted by Lt. Lipps?

A. I did not hear anything about that.

Q. Did you interview any of these Jews when you came upon them on the road to Mogilew-Podolsk.

A. On which road, please?

Q. Chernowitz to Mogilew Podolsk, where you first found them, Did you interview any of them? Did you talk to them?

Page 4,475

A. No.

Q. How did you know why they were in this area?

A. I don't understand quite how this is connected with what we are talking about, in order to clarify this.

Q. All right, let me rephrase the question. You have stated that you were advancing from Chernowitz to Mogilew. You came upon a transport of Jews of several thousands. Are we agreed on that?

A. Yes.

Q. Now I ask you whether when you first found this transport, when you first knew of it, did you stop and talk to any of these people?

A. No, this transport was travelling and I overtook them with my car.

Q. How did you know what it was?

A. I saw the people. I passed them and seeing that the roads were bad, one had to travel slowly.

Q. How did you know from whence they came?

A. I never said that I knew from where they came. I do not know that even now, from where they come. I assume from their territory itself.

Q. Well, why did you go to Ohlendorf with the suggestion that they be sent back across the river into Rumanian territory, if you don't know whether they came from there or not?

A. That was an entirely different group. Mr. Prosecutor, this transport I saw on my way from Chernowitz to Mogilew. I overtook them. When I came to Chernowitz I heard there from Lt. Lipps when I discussed this matter with him and after all, it was something special, something unusual, that I observed this during the journey that thousands of Jews from the Rumanian territory existed and that he had received instructions to prevent such Rumanian Jews from going back to the German operational territory.

This transport that I saw, to where they brought these people, I don't know at all. I don't think they even crossed the bridge and those people who were on the other side already told me at that time that the Jews came from the Rumanian territory and that seemed to be something similar.

Q. Then you found out from other people then, not the Jews themselves, where they were from, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. All right, and you never stopped your car even to speak to these Jews to question them in any way. You just rode on by?

A. Well, I told you this transport passed through the Rumanian occupied territory and was accompanied by Rumanian military personnel and I had no reason to interfere.

Q. Did you talk to any of the Rumanian military personnel that were accompanying these Jews when you found them?

A. At that time I did not know what was going on.

Q. And the information that you got that they were from Rumanian territory you got from Lt. Lipps and others?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, let's go back to Document Book II-3, page 11 of the English text and page 29 of the original in the German text, which is Document 2837 and is Prosecution Exhibit 58. Now this report shows on its face that it was issued from Berlin, does it not?

A. Yes.

Q. And where did Berlin get these facts which they have related here?

A. From the Einsatzgruppen, of course.

Q. And where do you suppose the group Headquarters got the facts?

A. Normally from the Einsatzkommandos.

Q. Didn't they got these facts from Sonderkommando 10-B that are related in this report?

A. No, this could not be a report from Kommando 10-B, because it is a summary report, or a general report.

Q. Did they get it from Einsatzkommando 12?

A. According to the information, as far as I can see it at the moment, this is a total report of the group, but I cannot see here whether the group made any special report in that case or whether they rearranged it in Berlin or even compiled it out of various reports.

Q. Well, there is no point of Berlin charging certain activities to other groups than the one from which they received the report, is there?

A. It probably was not done on purpose. I assume that errors occurred.

Q. What proportion of the 3105 Jews and 34 Communists were executed by Sonderkommando 10-B?

A. I cannot tell you anything about this.

Q. Well, was Sonderkommando 10-B east the Dnjepr River at the date of this report, namely, the of August, 1941?

A. Yes.

Q. And since this is a summary report from all of the Einsatzkommandos and Sonderkommandos, isn't it reasonable to suppose that it included Sonderkommando 10-B?

A. That is quite possible.

Q. And if they say "all our kommandos shot 3,105 Jews and 34 Communists," it means that Sonderkommando 10-B shot part of them, doesn't it?

A. That is not bound to be like that.

Q. Now you have testified here that there is some doubt in your mind as to whether you know one Robert Barth, a former Hauptscharfuehrer in Sonderkommando 10-B. Would you recognize him if he was summoned as a witness, if you say him?

A. I think so.

Q. Do you ever remember giving a Robert Barth any orders?

A. I do not remember.

Q. Was he present when you were discussing this transport of Jews on the road from Chernowitz to Mogilew Podolsk.

A. I cannot say that either.

Q. It is possible that he was along, isn't it?

A. I cannot exclude the possibility.

Q. Do you remember whether or not he was detailed to go with Lt. Lipps to deliver the transport to the area of Einsatzkommando 12?

A. That order would have been given to him by Obersturmbannfuehrer Lupps. I do not know which people he appointed to this.

Q. Did you not route this transport through the Russian cities, Ananew, Nikilajew, Jampol, and Skajowsk? Isn't that the route that the transport took in order to get to the Rumanian bridge from where you saw them?

A. May I show you where Skadowsk is, Mr. Prosecutor?

(Witness indicating on map.)

Chernowitz is here. Here is is Mogilew Podolsk. Here is Jampol. Ananjew is here and Skadowsk is here. I hardly think that a transport went that route in order to get down here to this first point.

Q. What was the river which these Rumanians crossed? What was the name of the river that these Rumanian Jews corssed?

A. The Dnjestr River.

Q. The Dnjestr River?

A. Yes.

Q. About how many kilometres from where you found them to Rumanian territory was it?

A. I beg your pardon, I don't know what you are referring to now. Where did I find some -

Q. You said you passed this transport on a road from Chernowitz to Mogilew Podoslk. About how many kilometres from the point where you found them to where they crossed the Dnjestr River, was it?

A. That was in Rumanian Sovereign territory. That was between Prut and Dnjestr and whether this transport ever crossed the Dnjestr River I don't know and I doubt it.

on your second visit to him that they be conducted to another bridge. Was this other bridge on the Dnjestr River?

A I certainly did not suggest it to him. At the most, on that occasion I mentioned to him that a second bridge existed. A suggestion I could not make, because of the rank I held. I could not have done that at the time.

Q All right, where was this second bridge? On what river was this second bridge? Jampol. did they not? saw this transport of Jews, approximately how far was it?

Q Well, didn't you state that you took, or you were connected with plans to take these Jews in this transport which you found to the area of Einsatzkommando 12 and that Einsatzkommando 12 would then take them in Rumanian territory. Now were the two transports of Jews two separate events from the one you found and the one that you testified you spoke to Ohlendorf about and was finally taken across the river, the Dnjestr River. Were there two separate transports of Jews?

A Definitely, there were two different matters. I am trying to clarify this all the time, but perhaps I did not express myself quite clearly. May I repeat it? When I travelled to Mogilew I came across, or, overtook, in the territory between the Prut and Dnjestr rivers, a transport escorted by Rumanian military people. Where they went to, I do not know. That they crossed the bridge I doubt very much, because Lipps had already received the order to stop such illegal deportations. That was the one transport. bring the people back from Mogilew to Jampol to their homeland. That is an entirely different matter.

Q Why didn't you put both these instances in your affidavit?

A During the interrogation I told Mr. Wartenberg how I thought of this matter. The first thing I thought of was when touching upon such a question that I saw this transport and did not know what was going on and then when arriving in Mogilew I discussed the matter with Lipps and then he told me -

Q There is no point in going through that again. I asked you the question, why you didn't put it in your affidavit. I want to follow it up. When this affidavit was submitted to you to read before you signed it, why didn't you call Mr. Wartenberg's attention to it then?

A I don't know what I could have corrected on that occasion. I don't see anything that is not clear here.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, may I interrupt just a second, please?

MR. WALTON: Yes, sir. BY THE PRESIDENT: the road and then when you arrived at Mogilew Podolsk, you found out what this transport was all about and then you made efforts to have this transport sent back to Rumanian territory.

when I knew all that was connected to it, I didn't realize this. of refugees and then you didn't see then you didn't see them again. That ended that episode. different group of people? had been expelled by the Rumanians and had been brought across the bridge and already existed in that territory. Jews that you saw? this problem. Mr. Wartenberg told me that I should tell him about it and I told him in the same broad manner as I expressed it here and then he took a few sentences of that statement. and which consisted of roughly of about 1,000 people, came to your attention and then passed out of your view and out of your life and you don't know what eventual fate these 1,000 people met.

A No, I don't know that, Your Honor.

Q Was this in Rumanian territory that you saw these people?

A Yes, that was between, if I may explain this, Your Honor; the border ran along the the Dnjestr River and I overtook these people in the territory between Prut, that is the river Prut and the Dnjestr, which is near Mogilew. In this territory I overtook this carivan. Where they were going to I didn't know. That is why I discussed the matter with Lipps and aksed him what was going on and I then heard what the Rumanians had done previously.

Q But you don't know whatever happened to these thousand people?

Q Well, I think that's where the confusion arose. The impression was gained that you then later saw these 1,000 people elsewhere. never did get into German territory insofar as you know, in German occupied territory? agreement existed between the two armies that across the Dnjestr, which was the border of interest, any traffic was prohibited, any moving of population either way was prohibited, and, in violating this agreement, the Rumanians had used the opportunity of no German troops being there brought those people across the bridge and that was what Lipps found.

Q You say in your affidavit, Witness, we have this statement: "On my arrival at Mogilev-Podolsk, I was told that this transport consisted of Jews who originated from Bessarabia and the Bucovina and had been driven from their homes in order to be left to their fate after having passed the border." Then comes this: "I attempted to get these people together at Mogilew-Podolsk in order to take them abck in a group transport."

A That can be easily misunderstood, I agree, Your Honor. At the moment when I signed it, I did not notice that. to understand it in any other way, isn't that right?

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed. BY MR. WALTON: to get to the Dnjestr River? Did it pass through any Russian cities?

A I cannot say that, Mr. Walton, he would have taken the nearest road.

get to the area of Einsatzkommando 12? that territory. Jews that you know of?

A 10-B?

Q Isn't it a matter of fact that 10-B took 400 Jews out of a transport at Ananjew and shot them?

Q Didn't Sonderkommando 10-B have the duty to guard the approaches to an execution of the Jews, including old men, women and children, six kilometers from Chessan?

A Where?

A Chessan, do you mean? I do not remember that any of our people were in Chessan. I myself was not there and I do not know that in Charnowitz any of our unit were assigned.

Q. Your commanding officer, Alois Pesterer was an efficient officer, wasn't he?

A. Yes, but I don't know how as a subordinate that I can pass judgment on this. I think Herr Ohlendord could have given better judgment on it. He was a soldier, that was my impression.

Q. He would make inspection trips to the subcommandos of his Command some distance from his headquarters, didn't he?

A. Yes, he was on the way quite a lot.

Q. When he was away from his headquarters, whom did he leave in charge?

A. No commando existed practically, because if he visited the subcommando, the commando was divided into several commandos.

Q. Whom did he leave in charge of his office while he was away?

A. I don't know whether he asked anybody in particular, but the next senior officer was Hauptsturmfuehrer Finger.

Q. That name is F-I-N-G-E-R, is it not?

A. Yes.

Q. Whenever a commando changed its location, who was in charge of the movement?

A. The commando-chief himself.

Q. At what town did you leave the commando in October 1941?

A. In Skadowsk.

Q. Is it not a fact that Persterer introduced you to the whole commando as his deputy at Dueben, and you remained so until you got to Skadowsk?

A. No.

Q. Didn't Persterer like his alcoholic beverages?

A. I didn't notice that.

Q. Isn't it a fact --

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, if that is a charge in the Indictment, I think we will have to exclude it.

MR. WALTON: Unfortunately Sir, this is a basis being laid to show that this man was incapable of performing his duties, and other people had to perform them, and, it is the contention of the Prosecution that this man was his deputy, and we intend to prove it, perhaps, not by this witness, I agree.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, you may proceed, Mr. Walton. BY MR. WALTON:

Q. Isn't it a fact that Persterer was a great many times too drunk to perform his duties, was he not?

A. No. I strongly object to that in the interest of the deceased. And I can assure you that is such a thing had occurred even once, Herr Ohlendorf wouldn't have stood for this, that would have been the end of his career as a commando leader, insofar as I got to know Herr Ohlendorf.

Q. When you left the commando, wasn't your place taken by Finger?

A. As far as I know a new Obersturmfuehrer arrived who was to take over my job.

Q. Will you repeat the answer please, it didn't come through?

A. As far as I know an Obersturmfuehrer arrived, and I assume he took over my job, but I am not certain.

Q. Well, are you certain that Finger didn't take over your job?

A. I would almost like to exclude that possibility, put I am not certain.

Q. Alright. Let's turn to the fifth paragraph of your affidavit, which is in Document Book III-D, page 76 of the English, page 121 of the German, and it is Document NO-4149, Prosecution's Exhibit No. 171.

The part we will discuss, Your Honors, is on page 78 of the English text, and page 124 of the German, paragraph 5. Isn't it a fact that this incident was left out of the first affidavit Mr. Wartenberg drew up for you to sign, and you wrote him an account of this incident, a note, and discussed it on his next interrogation?

A. May I correct this, namely, that so far as this correction is concerned I had made already before the first draft of the affidavit, and in the meantime I remembered this, and I didn't want that one could gain the impression that I tried to keep the matter out or to keep it a secret, that is why on my own I sent it to Mr. Wartenberg.

Q. Why was the number of thirty Jews decided upon for the killing of two German pilots?

A. I beg your pardon. Why?

Q. Why was the actual number of thirty Jews decided upon for the killing of two German pilots?

A. I can not tell you anything about the things that happened there, and the details. Neither can I name the figure I am not certain, I only remember vaguely that it was something like twenty or thirty people that was concerned.

Q. Who decided upon this number?

A. Who finally decided it there I can not say, whether the Obersturmfuehrer Schukert, or just the local commander there who did it. I can not say.

Q. Who gave this order or these orders to Schukert to round up these Jews?

A. If I may go back to your sentence; so far as I know, Schukert received instructions that the case of murdering the two German Army pilots was to be investigated as matter of course, this event which I have described.

Q. That is what I want to know, who gave him these instructions or orders?

A. He could only have gotten them from Persterer.

Q. Isn't it a matter of fact that because Persterer was unable, due to absence, or because of his failing to give these orders, you as his deputy gave the necessary orders to avenge the death of these two pilots?

A. Certainly not.

Q. Did you ever issue any orders that resulted in the execution of Jews?

A. No.

Q. Of Communists?

A. No.

Q. Or of Krimchaks, or Gypsies?

A. I never saw any, and, therefore, had no oppurtunity even if I wanted to.

Q. Did you ever issue any orders of abetting the the execution of Jews, or any undesirables?

A. No, that would not have been my task any more apart from that I didn't know at that time that such general order existed.

Q. Now, I understand that you were awarded the Army War Meritorious Service Cross with swords. What year was this award made?

A. In the year of 1941.

Q. Did you receive this metal after your return from Russia?

A. Unfortunately not. I got it already before, and may I tell you which office awarded it to me. I was awarded this from the office in Brunn, for my work in counter espionage. If you knew the meaning of this merit or this distinction I think you wouldn't regard it as very important.

Q. Were you proud of this metal when you received it?

A. I said already, Mr. Walton, if I may repeat it again, this war meritorious service cross second class in Germany, is of secondary importance for almost every air warden got it who wore his helmet three times during raids at home.

I think there is no special reason for being very proud of then, and may I tell you that afterwards I didn't even wear the ribbon because I was ashamed of it.

Q. Well, I wanted to get that answer, and it took you a little time to give me the facts.

A. I hope I have explained it.

Q. You were promoted to Hauptsturmfuehrer in January 1942, weren't you?

A. Yes.

Q. Didn't your foreign service influence your promotion?

A. I hardly think so. It was new. It was in the course of ---

Q. How often did a promotion occur in the SS, in the officers ranks?

A. There was no general regulation for this.

Q. Were you not seated in the dock when it was testified to here that four years was the normal promotional procedure from one rank to another? One of your co-defendants testified to that effect?

A. I can only tell you, Mr. Walton, that I don't know any directives saying that promotions were to be given within a certain period. I believe that was dependent on individual levels, which depended on the ranks.

Q. would you have received this promotion if you had not had foreign service?

A. No doubt I would have been entitled to this and would have been promoted,

Q. Were you familiar with the directive issued by Himmler himself that no one would be promoted in the SS until he had had foreign service, or front line Service?

A. There was internal instructions for the different units concerned. As to the officers I don't know about that. These other directives for promotion to competent officers I can not answer that.

Q. You never saw this directive from Himmler then?

A. I can not remember.

Q. But it could have existed, so far as you know, is that true?

A. That would have been quite possible. I really can not say. It is quite possible.

Q. Now coming back to your promotion sheet in your personnel records, it seems that you were able to get promoted within three years from a 1st Lt., to a Captain. Don't you think your service in Russia had something to do with this?

A. I already said that at that time it occurs exactly on the same date when my rank was to be assimulated. In that respect, therefore, I would have been promoted automatically on that date.

Q. Well you stated in your direct examination that you were recalled from service in Russia to go to school. Now why would they promote you just to send you to school?

A. It was not done because of that. May I clarify this. Effective from 30 January 1939, I was appointed Police Inspector. My SS rank was assimulated, and I became Obersturmfuehrer; after three years service because of the assimilation regulation I automatically was made Hauptsturmfuehrer.

Q. And your service in Russia had nothing to do with it?

A. They need not have had anything to do with it.

Q. Will you explain to the Tribunal the "Action Zeppelin", what it was?

A. The operation "Zeppelin" was to try to recruit volunteers from the Russian PWs who would act in counter intelligence in the East against Russia.

Q. How long were you engaged in this activity?

A. Two or three months.

Q. Finding these people who were willing to engage in this espionage, involved careful screening of the persons, did it not?

A. Yes, that's the reason why people were sent out did know something about counter intelligence end espionage and who had worked in the field. These Investigations could not be done very carefully, or very thoroughly, because in my mission I was limited to judge according to my impression and my experience which I would gain of the individual person I had to pass judgment whether a party would be ready to do this work, and whether he would be suitable for that kind of a task.

Q. Did you everin this screening process discover a Russian prisoner Court No. II, Case No. IX.

of war who was a Jaw, or a Communist functionary, and, what orders would you issue concerning him?

A I had no orders to that affect. My instructions from Office-VI were to find suitable people for this operation "Zeppelin", to select them and to recruit them and then to report to the office that they were ready. This task, in order to clarify this, I carried out in such a manner, that first of all I talked to the commander of the camp about the matter; then I would talk to the counter intelligence officer who existed in every camp, and who knows his people, and then he suggested a number of them to me, and I then talked to these people individually. A general screening of the entire camp could not be talked of, I, as an individual, would hardly have had the time to do this.

Q Did you ever select a Jew for this espionage activity?

A No. Mostly I selected Caucasians and Mongolians. functionary?

Q How many prisoners of war did you interview? was a Jew, or a Communist functionary?

AAt least no one told me, and I didn't notice it if any one might have been among them. you get for your "Action Zeppelin"?

A I personally? There must have been a few hundred I should think, whom I suggested. for their duties?

A No, unfortunately, I didn't know sufficient for such.

performed from July to September 1941?

Q Now you are familiar with the document books, aren't you, familiar with the documents that show that by the first of September Einsatzgruppe-D had executed 35,000 people?

A Whether this figure is right, I don't know, and I think I would like to remind you, it has been said repeatedly here, that this figure does not mean at all that all these people were executed by the group, but that these were supposed to have been executions which occurred in that territory at some time and by some one. that can be accounted for by Sonderkommando X-B were three?

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, please make it clear whether "three" refers to three people or three collective killings.

MR. WALTON: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Because you are using the question -

MR. WALTON: I am sorry, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: -- in contradiction to the 35,000.

MR. WALTON: I'll withdraw the question and rephrase it, Your Honor. BY MR. WALTON: three persons were killed by Sonderkommando X-B from July until September?

A Did you say three persons?

Q Isn't that what you told me?

THE PRESIDENT: That is what I want to clear up. He said three executions.

MR. WALTON: All right. All right, I shall re-ask the question. BY MR. WALTON: to Sonderkommando X-B?

A I can not tell you, Mr. Walton.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, witness, how many were included in the three executions?

THE WITNESS: That I can not tell either quite exactly, because I only heard about the third execution afterwards, without hearing any figure about it on that occasion. two executions. twelve to fifteen people.

Q And in the second execution?

Q You have no idea how many there were in the third?

A I really can not say. It must have been -- it must have been a limited number of persons, I think.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed. BY MR. WALTON: Ohlendorf?

Q How many?

Q Did Seibert ever make an inspection of Sonderkommando X-B? he came together with the group-chief.

Q Did he ever make one alone?

Q Who was the chief of Leiter-III in Sonderkommando X-B? Buckert?

been there, but I can not say really.

Q Did you have any official contact yourself with Seibert? vestigation concerning two German villages.

A -- but I didn't get any instructions from him.

Q Did you ever receive any correspondence signed by Seibert? Seibert to hold while you were a member of Sonderkommando X-B?

Q Did you consider him a deputy of General Ohlendorf? roll call, which the group-chief himself conducted there, and if I am not very much mistaken, and my recollection is not wrong, that he appointed as his deputy, if necessary to do so, Obersturmbannfuehrer Setzen.

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, I have only a few more questions but I want to go into the statements made by him yesterday concerning the signing of his affidavit,

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we can do that after lunch.

MR. WALTON: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Hoffmann?

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, I can only get a definite reply between two and three o'clock. The Secretary General will inquire by phone whether the witness has set off or not.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we will hold it in obeyance until you report to us, Dr. Hoffmann. The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:45.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will be in recess until 1345 hours.

(Whereupon recess until 1345 hours, 19 December 1947.)

(The hearing reconvened at 1345 hours, 19 Dec 1947)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. KOESSEL FOR HOFFMANN: Your Honors, the defendant Nosske was excused yesterday to take part in a conference with his counsel this afternoon but he is still at the moment in the room here. I would like your Honor to arrange that he be excused.

THE PRESIDENT: The Marshal is directed to take the defendant Nosske to room 57 where he may confer with his counsel.

DR. KOESSEL: As the defense counsel of the defendant Schubert I would like to trouble the Tribunal with one question. According to rumors there is supposed to be no session tomorrow morning and the whole state of affairs seems to be rather difficult, especially as a witness has appeared for the defendant Haensch. There is the danger that the examination of the defendant Schubert in the witness stand will be cut into two parts and will not be finished before the Christmas holidays. I would, therefore, ask the Tribunal because of this danger not to call the defendant Schubert to the witness stand. There are a number of colleagues who want to submit documents books. I am one of them. I should like to submit my document books, also for the defendant Haensch and for Dr. Hoffmann. So I think there is quite a lot that has to be done.

THE PRESIDENT: What you are really trying to do is to have the rumor include this afternoon some time.

DR. KOESSEL: No, it wasn't that. I only wanted to be certain that I shall not have to call the defendant Schubert to the witness stand.

THE PRESIDENT: Tomorrow?

DR. KOESSL: That one would come to an agreement, to a ruling, that the examination will not be interrupted, not that part of it will take place before the Christmas holiday and the other part after the Christmas holiday.

THE PRESIDENT: If a rumoris repeated often enough it becomes a fact and if two or three or more defense counsel tell me about this rumor there will be no way to hold court tomorrow. Suppose we see what developes during the next hour and perhaps we can have the rumor crystalize into some kind of fact.

DR. KOESSL: Very well.

MR. WALTON: Your Honors, before I conclude the cross examination of the defendant Felix Ruehl I should like at this time to answer to the ruling of the Tribunal made on 9 December that on the question of the admission of the affidavit of a deceased witness the Prosecution and the defense should file suitable briefs. At this time and in open Court I desire to tender the brief in the required number of English and German copies to the Secretary General for filing.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you know whether defense counsel have prepared a brief in reply?

MR. WALTON: It is my understanding, sir, that they are working on it. They have had English copies two days or so but I want to give them as I can the advantage of the copies prepared in German - that they have both as of today.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. BY MR. WALTON: to the date that you received the Indictment in this case. At the interrogation in which you signed the affidavit which appears in Document Book III-D you stated in your examination that you objected to errors and inconsistencies contained in this affidavit and Mr. Wartenberg stated that you would be given an opportunity to make corrections, is this true?

do you again state that you objected to signing an erroneous affidavit and only signed on the promise that you would be given an opportunity to make corrections?

A I have already said, Mr. Walton, that in the first affidavit which was shown to me I asked for so many corrections to be made and that I myself dictated one paragraph as Mr. Wartenberg kept on dictating something quite different from what I stated, so that a now affidavit had to be made out. The now affidavit was again not entirely according to my statement and I told Mr. Wartenberg so. Whereupon

Mr. Wartenberg told me "You still will have an opportunity to do so if this is going to be used against you." was prepared and only signed on the promise that you would be given the opportunity to make corrections? Is that a true statement of facts? the first or second draft but I want to persist to say that Mr. Wartenberg stated that if this should be the source of any errors whatsoever and if this is going to be used against you there is enough opportunity during the procedure to clear this up and I was convinced of this affirmation.

Q Do you remember the date that you signed this affidavit?

Q Of June?

Q Was there a stenographer present when you signed this affidavit?

Q A female stenographer? Did she take notes?

A I did not observe that. As far as I know she did not write. stenographic notes from 26 June 1947 from 1500 hours to 1530 hours. "The interrogation 1243-D was conducted on 26 June 1947 from 1000 to 1030 hours. In this interrogation the affidavit was submitted. Due to the many corrections the affidavit had to be re-written and could not be signed."

And then the stenographic notes go on:

"What is your name?

"A Felix Ruehl.

"Q Are you the same Ruehl whom I have interrogated often before? I remind you that you are still under oath.

"A Yes.

"Q I have had the affidavit re-written. Please read it and sign it." these wores:

"The witness reads the affidavit and signs it."

Did those events transpire? am absolutely certain, you may believe me or not, that I discussed this affidavit with Mr. Wartenberg. addition?

examination I assume from what you have stated that you were given a certain function in Sonderkommando 10-B and you were effectively blocked off from all other activities as if Persterer had put blinders on your eyes and you saw nothing that transpired either to the right or to the left and your whole attention and your whole eyesight was directed at your own task and that the executions of which you have any knowledge whatsoever are those which you found out only in casual, conversation with your comrades, is that the substance of your testimony? dealt with within the frame of my own competence and I told you those things that I learned about myself. I cannot tell you any more. Mr. Walton.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any re-direct examination? Dr. Linck? BY DR. LINCK: membership in the organization of the SS. Were you a member of the General-SS? Police? Then I was taken into the Reich Security Main Office and I was then kept on the files of the SD and thus I left the General-SS. SS, the SD?

Q Did you do any service?

Q Did you pay membership fees?

Page 4,501

Q Was there any SS service in this special SS formation, the SD?

Q What was this formation then, your service? What was its function? was wearing the uniform. organization of unifomred men of the SD? I had nothing to do with that.

Q Thank you. Your Honor, I have no further questions. myself and in order not to appear as stupid, that I raised no objection during the whole cross examination because my client made me promise him to let him answer all the questions even thos which seemed inadmissible. It wasn't easy for me to comply with this promise, but I kept my promise.

MR. WALTON: If the counsel wants to testify let him testify and take the stand and be swonr. I don't think the matters have any bearing on the issues in this case, nor does the information add one bit to the duty or the ability of the Tribunal to decide the case. I don't think it is a proper remark for the Tribunal. I don't think counsel is acting in his place as counsel to reveal confidential communication between himself and his client.

THE PRESIDENT: I am sure that Dr. Linck did not intend to offend any one by the statement which he volunteered and which was sincerely made but I don't think it necessary to pursue the statement any further.

DR. LINCK: Thank you, your Honor. May I on this occasion ask the Tribunal whether it would be agreeable if I would answer the question which I have received about the IMT. It was a question which was asked by the Tribunal in connection with my opening statement.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, you had stated in your opening remarks that the witness had appeared and I asked you if you could refer the Tribunal to the page in the transcript.

DR. LINCK: There is a small error in my opening statement. I had raised the point that my client did not hide a Civilian Internee camp hut followed the call of thedefense for the organizations in IMT and he arrived in Nurnberg on his own accord. It did not come to an examination as a witness before the IMT but the following happened, which I saw myself with my own eyes as I was active myself then in the International Military Tribunal for the organization of the political leaders. The organizations defense counsels were locking in the camps for men whom they could present to the court, and on this occasion a co_defense counsel found the defendant Ruehl as a witness for the defense. He helped to compile the documents for the defense and then came to Nurnberg as a witness. As the number of those who would be heard before the Tribunal was extremely limited the defense had him merely submit an affidavit instead of examining him and after a few months he was brought back to Nurnberg. This is the only explanation that I can give.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, well that clears it up completely. The transcript showed that you had said that the International Military Tribunal chose him to be a witness and we naturally assumed that he had appeared. But now in view of what you said naturally we don't need to have any reference to the transcript.

DR. LINCK: Yes, your Honor. the case as concluded. I have no witnesses.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, the witness will now be returned to the defendants' box.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, before the witness takes the stand I would like to ask defense counsel for the defendant Haensch, a question, the Tribunal will certainly recall that the witness Weinmann appeared in behalf of the defendant Haensch. It is the contention of the Prosecution that the witness Weinmann is the wife of the then Obersturmbannfuehrer Erwin Weinmann who replaced the defendant Blobel as commander of Sonderkommando 4-A. There is no proof in the record as yet to show this fact.

We want to ask defense counsel for the defendant Haensch whether he contests this contention of the Prosecution or whether he will admit the witness Weinmann who appeared here in Court is the wife or was then the wife of Erwin Weinmann, Sturmbannfuehere or Obersturmbannfuehrer, who replaced the witness Blobel as a commander of Sonderkommando 4-A.

DR. KRAUSE for the defendant Haensch: I am glad to give the explanation and certify that the witness Weinmann who was examined here in the witness box was a wife of the then Obersturmbannfuehrer Erwin Weinmann with whom Haensch at the time had been assigned to the East simultaneously. That altogether was the reason why the witness Weinmann was called by us.

DR. HOCHWALD: If your Honors please there is only one thing missing, whether the defense counsel contest our statement that it was this Erwin Weinmann who replaced the defendant Blobel as commander of Sonderkommando 4A.

DR. KRUASE: May I have a short discussion with the defendant Haeusch concerning this. I am not in a position to make a statement concerning this without discussing the matter with him.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I beg the Tribunal's pardon, but I do think it is much easier to ascertain this fact in this way.

DR. KRAUSE: Whether Weinmann happened to be defendant Blobel's successor the defendant Haensch cannot state. He only knows of the fact that Weinmann was the assigned kommando chief of the SK 4a.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If your Honor please, this statement seems entirely sufficient to the prosecution, and the prosecution thanks defense counsel for the defendant Haensch for his statement.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you want to say something else?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: As the witness Reich will be called to the stand, I would like to submit two affidavits which were sent down to the prosecution which were executed by the witness Reich, Document NO-5698 and Document NO-5718, which I introduce as Document 192-A and B. Your Honors, I will have these documents distributed by the clerk.

THE PRESIDENT: Will the witness now be called in?

FRIEDA REICH, a witness, took the stand and testified as follows:

JUDGE DIXON: Witness, raise your right hand and repeat the oath after me. pure truth and will withhold and add nothing.

(The witness repeated the oath.)

JUDGE DIXON: You may be seated. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Witness, do you know Gertrud Schreyer?

Q Were you ever employed by her?

Q Do you remember the months?

1943, but I do not remember the month.

Q Are you sure of the year when you began employment in Schreyer's office?

A Yes. When I was interrogated at Berlin I made a mistake. I said 1939, but in the meantime I found a photograph, on the basis of which then I went to Mrs. Schreyer and I found the date, 1941.

Q Well, have you seen Mrs. Schreyer recently?

A I have not. It is about ten weeks ago that I saw her last.

Q Did you talk to her about this matter? the date as to when you first became employed in her establishment. sent to my husband at the time in the field, and on this I found the date.

Q What was your activity with Frau Schreyer? the customers, and I issued the photographs and helped her to cut, to dry the photographs, and sometimes develop, and so forth. them into the books. Then when the prints were ready, I had to dry, cut, I put the names on, and then I passed them on to the customers when they arrived.

Q Who took the photographs in Frau Schreyer's studio?

Q Do you know Walter Haensch? Frau Schreyer's studio?

A I am not certain; I couldn't say. If I saw the prints I might remember, but there were so many customers that I can't remember individual ones.

THE PRESIDENT: May we have those exhibits, Secretary-General.

(The exhibits were handed to the President.) BY THE PRESIDED: of negatives whether the pictures indicated by those negatives were taken in Frau Schreyer's studio? Tribunal is trying a certain exhibit which consists of a black bound book which I am now exhibiting to you. I would like to have you look at this book.

Are you familiar with this book?

Q Did you keep this book?

Q Do you find the name of Walter Haensch in there?

Q Yes. While you are glancing through it, Witness, let's ask you another question. Are you familiar with this other exhibit which has been referred to as an appointment pad book?

Q Did you keep this also?

A Yes, but Frau Schreyer also did so because I wasn't always present.

Q Are the entries in this appointment pad book in your handwriting?

THE PRESIDENT: Page, please show this to her.

A This, for instance, is Frau Schreyer's handwriting.

BY THE PRESIDENT?

Q Is it her handwriting all the way through?

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, do you remember the number of the entry in the cash book?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: To the best of my recollection, your Honor, it is 931, but if I can have the exhibit for a minute I can -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, would you please look at the black book. I don't think that is the number.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: 391. I said 931, I am sorry. BY THE PRESIDENT: in the case book and tell us if you wrote that entry.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, do we have the original in German of her interrogation?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: There are two documents in evidence, your Honor. One is typewritten and one is handwritten.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Document No. 5698.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: 5698, the original is with the SecretaryGeneral, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you have the original there?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Please show that to the witness. answer? Read it aloud. Read it slowly, please.

A "Do you know whether a photograph was taken of this man in Frau Schreyer's studio? Answer: I do not remember. I consider it unlikely because I was supposed to transfer the names of Frau Schreyer's clients from the appointment pad into the cash book. It is, of course, possible that Herr Haensch was an acquaintance of Frau Schreir and that she photographed him privately. In this case his name would not have appeared in the appointment pad."

Q Just what do you mean by that statement?

A I said at the time that I don't remember having seen a photograph of his, and I don't remember an entry. I said at the time that there were so many customers whom I had to enter into the book that I could not remember the details.

Q Well, just what do you mean by the statement, "I consider it unlikely" - or "impossible" as it has been translated here - "because I was supposed to transfer the names of Frau Schreyer's clients from the appointment pad into the cash book?"

A Well, I can't really say anything to this. (Your Honor, this is a mistranslation. It should be "unlikely" because the German is "unwahrscheinlich."*

Q I see. Very well. You were asked, "Do you know Walter Haensch?" And you say, "The name is familiar but I don't know in what connection I heard it, and I cannot remember a man of this name." Then you were asked, "Do you know whether a photograph was taken of this man in Frau Schreyer's studio?" and you answered, "I don't remember. I consider it unlikely." Why did you say considered it unlikely?

ferent way perhaps when I was questioned there. Perhaps I said that it was possible that a photograph was made, but that I personally didn't remember. making the appointment, taking the picture, writing the reference in the cash book?

Q Did you take the appointment?

Q Did you write up the reference in the appointment pad?

Q You wrote up the appointment?

Q You said in that same answer, "It is, of course, possible that Herr Haensch was an acquaintance of Frau Schreyer and that she photographed him privately." Did she or did she not photograph him privately?

A I shouldn't think so because if I made this entry here, there he must have been a regular customer.

Q And did you also make the entry in the case book?

Q Do you remember the instance yourself; do you recall it? tion?

THE PRESIDENT: Let us have the document please, the book and the pad.

(The exhibits were returned to the President.) BY THE PRESIDENT:

Would you please tell us whether those were made in Frau Schreyer's shop?

THE PRESIDENT: All right, let me have them back.

(The exhibits were returned to the President.) BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q How do you identify the negatives?

A I have recognize on the top Mrs. Schreyer's handwriting, and it is, customary that we made notes in writing.

Q How do you identify negatives when you put them in your files?

A We put them into envelopes. We wrote the name on this and then, according to letters, sorted them, filed them.

Q Is the name written on the negative itself?

Q Is that done in every instance?

Q Does the number always appear too on the negative?

THE PRESIDENT: Page, please show her these negatives again. the name and number on the negatives?

A On this negative, on this photograph, there is a name. The number is almost illegible. Yes, on this one too.

THE PRESIDENT: May we look at them too?

(The exhibits were returned to the President.) BY THE PRESIDENT: you see the name and number.

A Yes, here, and here is the number. (Indicating.)

THE PRESIDENT: Do you have that famous magnifying glass of yours, Mr. Hochwald?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I haven't got it, your Honor, but I shall try to get one for you.

THE PRESIDENT: I thought you always traveled with a magnifying glass. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Just where do you see the name?

(The witness indicated the name.)

Q Oh, yes, I see it now. In whose handwriting is that?

A Mrs. Schreyer's.

THE PRESIDENT: You may take the witness stand. Page, please hand to the witness a blank sheet of paper and a pencil. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Will you please write your name? letters, and now I use Latin letters, that is characters.

Q Well, I know that women don't like to go back to the old days, but let's go back to those days and write the way you wrote then. Why have you changed your style of writing since nineteen-forty--- When was this, 1942? 1943? I cannot use German characters. I have to use Latin characters, and, therefore, I got used to it.

Q Were you married when you were working for Frau Schreyer?

AAt the beginning I was not married. I married only on Christmas, 1941. Frau Schreyer. 1941.

Q Well, you were married when this transaction occurred?

"Hamburg". Now write "Dr. Haensch". Write "391".

THE PRESIDENT: Page, give her another sheet of paper now. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Page 4,513

Q. May I see them now, please.

A. (The sheets were handed to the President).

Q. And what is your explanation as to why you used different script while you were working with Frau Schreyer?

A. In those days I did not have any English correspondence and I was not used to Latin characters, because one did not use them in those days.

Q. And what caused you to write in this way today?

A. What exactly do you mean now, Your Honor?

Q. Why do you now use the different type of typography today?

A. You mean another kind of handwriting?

Q. Yes, that's right. Why do you write differently today from the way you wrote in 1943?

A. As I have said, because I now have a lot of English correspondence and I must write in Latin characters in order not to get back to the German kind of handwriting again.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, do you want to examine? Do you want to examine the witness?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Certainly, I do, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed. BY MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD:

Q. Witness, do you remember having sworn to and having signed two affidavits in the time between 3 December and today?

A. Yes, I do. Two affidavits.

Q. Did you sign and swear to two affidavits in the time between December 3 and today?

A. Well, once at the interrogation and then I had to make a short statement in handwriting, and the next day somebody else came to me and gave me something which I signed again.

Q. Did you make these affidavits voluntarily and freely?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, is it therefore true? Is what you said in your affidavit the truth?

A. Yes.

DR. KRAUSE (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT HAENSCH): May I object to this question. I think it is impossible to question a witness whether what he has stated some time ago is true. It is possible that a witness when further considering has come to a better recollection of an event.

THE PRESIDENT: That is the only way you can find out, by asking whether it is correct and true.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do not want to comment on the objection on the part of the defense.

Q. (By Mr. Horlick-Hochwald) Are these two affidavits the truth?

A. Yes, that is what I stated at the time.

Q. Were you convinced on the 3rd--I am sorry, the 4th--I am sorry, I cannot find the date -- on the 3rd of December when you signed this interrogation that you have said the truth to the interrogator?

A. Yes, at that time I was of the opinion.

Q. May I ask you, who did speak to you about this matter in the time from the 3rd of December until today?

A. You mean who was in charge of the interrogation?

Q. No, with the exception of the interrogator, with the exception of Mr. Sachs, who interrogated you in this case, with whom else did you speak about this matter?

A. No, I spoke really to nobody. I discussed it briefly with my friend with whom I share a room, I did do this because Mr. Sachs came and as he had no time then, I said she should go into another room and she asked me what was the matter, and I told her that I could not give her further information.

Q. So you spoke to nobody else?

A. No.

Q. The Presiding Judge has interrogated you about paragraph No. 7 of your interrogation. Do you have the interrogation before you?

Page 4,515

A. Yes.

Q. I want you now to turn to paragraph No. 12. Mr. Sachs asked you, "Do you have anything else to add?" Will you read to the Tribunal please, the answer which you gave.

A. (Reading) "I only want to point out that I consider it improbable that the name of Walter Haensch is in the cash book, because I was supposed to transfer the names from the appointment pad to the cash book and because of this I would have remembered the name."

Q. Are you still today of this opinion?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. Because I have first of all convinced myself of the contrary.

Q. When?

A. Just now when you showed me the pad and the cash book.

Q. But is it not true, Witness, that you changed your statement in this respect before you had seen these two books?

A. No.

Q. But that was just a routine question. Is it correct that you worked for Mrs. Schreyer, usually only in the evening?

A. With the exception of Saturdays when I was generally there in the afternoon already.

Q. Did you ever work for her in the morning?

A. I cannot remember really.

Q. Please try to remember.

A. Yes, it is possible, of course, on days when I had a day off, given me by my firm, when we had air raid precaution practice.

Q. Will you turn to paragraph 9 of your affidavit and you said, "In general, the appointment pads were only kept by Frau Schreyer. On Saturday afternoons, when I was in the place and clients were actually finished, I often made entries in the appointment pads. Aside from the two of us, no third person made entries, with the exception and so on" That is enough, and it is definitely said that you worked only in the evenings and afternoon.

Do you change this statement?

A. Yes, then I did not think, that I did have days off owing to air raid practice.

Q. So, you think it is correct that--did you look at the pad, 391 the little pad?

A. Yes, I looked at it.

Q. 391? Did you write that?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you look at the entry 391 in the big black book?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you write all of it or only part of it?

A. May I have another look at the book. I don't remember exactly. Yes, I wrote all of it.

Q. When did you write that?

A. It is possible that I wrote it on the same day or one or two days later.

Q. Will you explain the fact that two addresses appear in this book, one address in Berlin and another one in another place, which I don't recall, but you can tell the Tribunal, as you have the book before you?

A. Yes, the first one, the address in Berlin was the living quarters of the person concerned and then it was the remark to be sent to Mrs. Dr. Haensch Renfelde via Zittau where the pictures were actually sent.

Q. Do you remember actually sending the pictures there?

A. I saw on the pad that I made a remark "sent" and then the date.

Q. May I ask you another question who used to write the names, numbers and dates on the negatives?

A. Frau Schreyer did.

Q. Always?

A. It is possible that I helped her occasionally when I was there and she had a lot of work to do.

Q. I want to tell you what Mrs. Schreyer said about this. It is very interesting. She did not find either name or number on the pictures. I asked her, "Will you just examine these two pictures?" I am quoting from Record 3356, Your Honors. "Will you just examine those two pictures. Can you tell the Tribunal whether on these two negatives" -- and she interrupted me by saying, "No, there is no number on them." I asked her for the name --"Is there a name on it?" and she said, "No, no name either, unfortunately."

The Presiding Judge asked here, "Why do you say, 'unfortunately' Why did you add that? What difference does it make whether they are there or not?"

And now says Mrs. Schreyer, "Because my employees did not do this properly when they wrote on the negatives. It really should not have occurred."

Isn't it clear from this statement that these names and numbers were usually written by you and not by Mrs. Schreyer?

A. No, it was generally the work that Frau Schreyer did, because there would have been a mix up if the photographs, and prints had been left until the evening.

Q. Mrs. Schreyer even goes farther, when the Presiding Judge asked her, "Well, therefore, you are the one who should have added the name and number-" She said: "No, I developed and printed them and the next day when the employee came she handled these writing matters." And the presiding Judge asked here again, "And she would write on the negative?" Answer: "Yes, she would have written the name and the number on it." Can you explain why Mrs. Schreyer made this statement or who of you according to your opinion is mistaken on this point?

A. I really do not know why Frau Schreyer said that.

Q. It is then true that you were supposed to do this to put these names and numbers on the negatives, is that right, and not Frau Schreyer?

A. No, it was really the work that Frau Schreyer did herself, because, as I said, when she developed the photographs and prints and when I arrived in the evening, the prints and photographs would have been mixed up.

Q. You have no explanation as to why she gave this explanation under oath in court?

A. No.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, we will have the recess. Witness, during the recess, which will last fifteen minutes, please do not speak with anybody of the prosecution or of the defense.

(A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, when were the pictures usually taken, in the daytime or in the evenings?

THE WITNESS: During the dry, but sometimes during the evenings. That is, during business hours.

Q. Until what time was the shop opened in the evenings?

A. I cannot say. It might have been six or seven o'clock.

Q. Well, you would come to work at seven o'clock, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, seven o'clock, sometimes already at six.

Q. Now, did you recognize your own entry in the appointment pad?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, if you would come to work at seven o'clock and no pictures were taken after seven o'clock, how could you have made the appointment?

A. It might have been on my day off, after my air raid service.

Q. I don't understand that.

A. I already said if I did air raid service for the firm, then I had the next day off.

Q. Which firm?

A. That was with the Aluminum Sales Company.

Q. In your affidavit, or rather in your interrogation you say, "I ordinarily worked for Frau Shreyer from six to seven o'clock in the evening until ten and later. Saturday , I worked in her business from three to six or seven o'clock." You did not indicate any exception in that answer?

A . At that time I didn't even think of that fact, that I had days off.

Q. Have you thought of anything else since you answered these questions and wrote up your affidavits, which in any way changes what you told the interrogator and wrote up?

A. I merely determined that the beginning date was not 1939 but it was 1941.

Q. What did you tell the interrogator, what year?

A. I told him I didn't know exactly any more whether it was 1939 or 1940, but it was already during the war.

Q. Well, you tell us now that it was in 1941?

A. Yes.

Q. Just before we recessed you said that you told the interrogator 1939?

A. Yes, 1939 or 1940.

Q. Well now, which was it? What did you tell the interrogator, 1939 or 1940?

A. I think 1939.

Q. Will you please look at your affidavit, Document NO 5718?

A. I don't have it with me here.

Q. Well, will some one please show it to her . In the second paragraph, what do you say there, about working for -

A. Since November 1940.

Q. Yes, you wrote that out yourself, didn't you?

A. I wrote it by hand.

Q. Yes. Well, how was it now that you say it could have been '39 when you yourself wrote 1940?

A. Well, I must be quite honest, and I must state that I always mixed up the years.

Q. Then when you were questioned -- do you have Document 5698 there?

A. Yes.

Q. The interrogation under oath. Look at question 2-B. Read the question and read the answer?

A. "Since when? Answer: Since November 1940, shortly after -since November 1940. "

Q. Yes, that is enough. So that is twice you have indicated 1940, isn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. Then in your affidavit, Document No. 5718, -- no, you did refer to that. I am sorry. Well, you were confused about the time that you started to work for Frau Shreyer?

A. Yes.

Q. How was it you remember it so clearly now, that it was 1941?

A. I once more thought about the matter and, then it occurred to me that I still must have a picture which Frau Shreyer had before the time that I started to work for here, and on this occasion she asked me whether I can remember working for her, and, that I still must have this picture at home. I looked once more and I found the picture, and I saw that it was in November 1941.

Q. Let me have the transcript, please, of Frau Shreyer. Witness, do you know Frau Haensch?

A. No, I cannot remember.

Q. Did she come to you and ask you to locate the negatives of the pictures of her husband?

A. I cannot remember that, either.

Q. well, if that happened, it would have happened recently.

A. No, it was certainly not recently.

Q. Shortly before Frau Shreyer came to Nurnberg?

A. No, I didn't see any one there, nor talked to any one.

Q. How do you identify these negatives as being plates which come from Frau Schreyer's studio?

A. I noticed it from Frau Shreyer's handwriting on the top of the negatives.

Q. You don't remember the picture itself, do you?

A. I got a superficial recollection of it when I saw the negative.

Q. Do you remember having seen the subject in the studio, Haensch himself?

A. No, I cannot really remember that.

Q. Then you identify it from the handwriting?

A. Yes, and on the basis of the superficial recollection of having seen such a picture in the studio.

Q. You remember the picture but not the person?

A. That is right.

Q. Do you remember most of the pictures that you looked at?

A. I think if I would see them, yes.

Q. How long did you work there?

A. How long did I work there? Do you mean with -

Q. Yes, with Frau Shreyer?

A. From 1941 until the beginning of 1943.

Q. About how many pictures were taken during that time?

A. Well, I cannot say. There was a lot of work to do there.

Q. Would you say as many as a thousand?

A. Even more than that.

Q. Two thousand?

A. Well, I could not really say.

Q. Well, anyhow you had at least one-thousand, and do you think that you would remember the features of one-thousand faces?

A. Not all of them.

Q. Would you remember most of them?

A. I think so, yes.

Q. You remember the features of most of one-thousand which, of course , would be over five-hundred, but yet you could not remember when you went to work there, whether 1940 or 1941?

Q Well, was 1940 the same as 1941?

Q Was 1939 the same as 1941?

Q Well, you had more reasons to be happy in 1939 and '40, than you did in 1941, didn't you? the furlough of my husband, and thus, the time always seemed the same to me.

Q I didn't quite catch that answer?

A I was always waiting for my husband's furlough, from one furlough to another, therefore, the time always seemed the same to me.

Q When did he go away?

Q I don't recall your having said that you were married in 1939, when we questioned you before about that? Is that when you were married, in 1939?

A No, I was married in '41, but in '39 I was already engaged.

Q Yes. Wouldn't you remember 1941 very distinctly if that was the year in which you got married? Wouldn't you?

Q Well, how could you confuse that with 1940? for Frau Schreyer.

Q In what month were you married in 1941?

Q Where is the black book? Let me have the black book, please. When did you start to keep this book (shows witness the book?)

Q What is the first month indicated here? this book before.

Q When did you start to keep the book?

Q Was that the 13 November 1941?

Q What happened to the first seventy pages of this book?

A I don't know. ably devastated the studio? Were you working there at the time?

Q When did you leave?

Q When was the studio destroyed by bombs?

Q Is that when you ceased your services with Frau Schreyer?

Q How many days before?

Q Well, was it a matter of days or a matter of weeks? you left just before the planes arrived?

A No, I was always in Berlin, but my husband didn't want me to work in the evenings. just a day before the bombing attack?

A Why one day? studio, is that correct?

A I don't know whether it was one day before.

Q When was the studio destroyed by airraid?

A (Delivers the book to the witness.)

Q Does that say, "28 February," the last entry? the day before the airraid?

A Yes, I can now remember. On the first of March I had air raid service in the firm and when I came home on the second of March I went to Frau Schreyer to help her to clear up the place. On the same day, however, my husband came home on furlough and he didn't want me to continue to work for Frau Schreyer. didn't you?

THE PRESIDENT: Any further questions? Dr. Hochwald, you may proceed.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I have one or two questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Certainly.

DR. HOCHWALD: If I can get the book. BY DR. HOCHWALD:

Q Will you tell us, witness, what day you married?

Q Did you work that evening?

Q On the 27th of December 1941?

Q Will you look at the book. Isn't the entry of this day from you, made by your handwriting?

THE WITNESS: May I say something about that, please.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, certainly.

THE WITNESS: We always made the entries but it sometimes happened that I would put them in afterwards. It is possible that perhaps I made the entry on 30 December but we wrote in the date when the appointment was made. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Were you working on your wedding day?

Q Well did you make up any appointments on that day? In that appointment pad? Where is the appointment pad?

MR. HOCHWALD: Should be on the bench, your Honor.

THE WITNESS: No, I don't have the appointment pad.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. You may proceed counsel. BY DR. KRAUSE: entry with ink in the book?

Q Did you use a fountain pen?

A Yes. I have a fountain pen.

Q Do you still possess this fountain pen?

Q And something else. In the course of time when you were working for Frau Schreyer there were centuries of entries in this book; do you recall every single name?

A No, of course not. I could not. consider it improbable that the name Haensch appears in the cash register book, since you had transferred the names from the appointment list to the cash register book and therefore would recall that name. How did it occur to you to say this was improbable if your memory of the various names is not so good after all? quite correct. mean this? but that I can't recall it.

Q Yes. After you left Frau Schreyer, that is, after March 1943, did you ever have this book in your hands again?

your hands again after this time?

Q Did any one on the order of Dr. Haensch get in touch with you?

A You mean now? Recently?

Q At all, I mean, ever? tions altogether and you were sworn in as to what you testified. After you answered these 12 questions or during the course of the interrogation was it said to you that the name of Dr. Haensch is contained in the book, contrary to your own assumption? reproduces your handwriting at that time? down or even letters which you wrote and which were handed back to you?

Q Thank you, I have no further questions. But I would like to make a motion. I would like those samples of writing of the witness which are available from the year 1942 and which reproduce her handwriting as it was at that time, that this material be safeguarded and secured and be submitted here in order to compare the handwriting. Furthermore, I request that the sample taken today be repeated by the witness in ink by using her own fountain pen.

Your Honor, at this occasion I would like to ask a question. After the completion of the examination of the defendant Haensch it was intended to undertake a medical examination of the defendant in order to to determine how his state of health has developed.

Now, as I hear from the defendant, a short visit by a physician was made in his quarters and the defense is interested in whether the result of a possible examination is already available.

THE PRESIDENT: The Secretary General will be instructed to report to the Tribunal as soon as possible on the result of the examination made of the defendant Haensch and as soon as this report comes into possession of the Tribunal defense counsel will be informed.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I have no further questions to the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Now, defense counsel has made a motion with regard to - - -

DR. HOCHWALD: I want to express the view point of the Prosecution. We do not, of course, oppose this motion but I do think that we could ask the Tribunal to instruct the witness to write down the affidavit which is in evidence before the Tribunal and is written by the witness in Latin letters, to write down the same affidavit in Gothic letters in ink so that a good basis for an examination of the handwriting may be available.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, you are instructed to copy again the affidavit which you have already written in your own hand, but to copy it this time in Gothic in the script which you used in 1942.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do not want her to copy. I do want her to write it from the mimeographed text which does not give an example to the witness in the way in which she wrote.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, by copying I meant copying the wordage and not the form of writing.

DR. HOCHWALD: May I move then that the witness be handed a mimeograph copy in German that from this mimeograph copy in German she should write in ink the contents of the affidavit in Gothic letters.

THE PRESIDENT: And we ask you witness, is there any reason why you can't do that after you leave the witness stand and you don't need to bother about it any more, while you are here, you can write it and submit it to the Tribunal and you don't need to concern yourself about it later.

THE WITNESS: Of course, I can do that immediately.

THE PRESIDENT: Now just how do you intend to obtain these other papers that you referred to, counsel?

DR. KRAUSE: Well, I have the following to say, your Honor. I believe it is not so important how the witness writes German today but how she wrote German in 1942. Therefore, taking a German sample of her writing today I do not consider so relevant but, of course, I would not object to it. On the other hand I consider it important that any kind of sample of her writing from the year 1942 be brought in for purposes of comparison, and I would ask you to instruct the witness to put such a sample at our disposal and by the motion that I made before about securing all the writing material I don't mean that everything be confiscated from her which she put down in writing. It may be left up to the witness to give us any kind of sample of her writing in 1942 and to submit it here.

DR. HOCHWALD: It goes without saying, your Honor, that of course if the witness wants to put at the disposal of an expert a letter or something in her handwriting from the year 1942 it would be of great help to this expert, but nevertheless I still move that it should be shown how she writes today, first of all, it is easily possible that the witness will be not able to put at the disposal of the Tribunal examples written by her personally in 1942 as the identification is not easy of such things. Second of all I do think it is necessary that the Tribunal knows that this example is written by the witness herself and that can only be done here and nowhere else.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. We will sum up the entire matter. This is what will take place. In the first place the witness will in accordance with defense counsel's request, copy these words which she wrote on this sheet with her own pen on a sheet of paper. That is number one. And you may introduce that as an exhibit, counsel. Then number two. As you leave the courtroom you will step into one of the ante chambers and copy from the mimeographed sheet the affidavit which you wrote in Berlin. Number three. When you return to your home you will endeavor to locate some letters which you wrote to your husband in 1942. If he is a good husband and loved you perhaps he kept the letters, but maybe he is still a good husband and loves you but lost the letters.

But, at any rate we would like to have not only the letters but the envelopes in which they were mailed. A representative of the Prosecution, and if the defense has a representative in Berlin, can call on you to obtain these letters. At any rate to whomever you consign these letters you will obtain a receipt that the letters were consigned to that person and then the letters will be submitted to the Tribunal.

Now will you please write those words?

WITNESS: Yes, but I just find that I have left my fountain pen in the other room.

THE PRESIDENT: Any pen will do. Where is your pen? Page, will you get the pen for her?

DR. KRAUSE: Your Honor, I ask that the witness be given the opportunity to use her own fountain pen.

THE PRESIDENT: The page has gone for her own fountain pen.

DR. KRUASE: Pardon me. Thank you.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, it is respectfully moved by the Prosecution that all exhibits in the case connecting the case of Haensch with the different negatives and positives of this picture mentioned, the two negatives, the one positive, the appointment pad and the book, the different examples of handwriting of the witness may be handed to American experts who should be able to answer all questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Why do you say American experts? To experts.

DR. HOCHWALD: To experts, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: They can be German as well as American.

DR. HOCHWALD: Certainly your Honor. I only said to American experts for one reason as I do not think there is an institute at the moment in Bavaria other than American who can expertise these letters. That was the only reason.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, defense counsel will have the same privilege of presenting them to whichever experts they select.

DR. HOCHWALD: Certainly, I beg Your Honor's pardon.

DR. KRAUSE: Your Honor, Dr. Riediger has already made the motion to undertake a comparison of handwriting by experts. May I repeat that motion?

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I have then said that we have no objection against this motion but that we think it is premature before the Court until the witness will be heard. There is no objection by the Prosecution whatsoever that the defense hands these samples of the handwriting of the witness to any expert the defense may desire. I do think my motion was different. I said all exhibits which include also the negatives - I have mentioned the negatives - and the positives of the picture - we are interested to know when and how the picture was made. So we move that all these exhibits may be handed by the Tribunal in the form the Tribunal desires to experts who can determine all pertinent questions in this case.

THE PRESIDENT: The exhibits will be in the custody of the Secretary General and they will be available both to the Prosecution and to the defense for expert scrutiny, comparison, analysis and eventual report to the Tribunal.

DR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Just one last question, witness. You have testified that both you and Frau Schreyer kept this appointment pad. In this particular one which we have here in the Tribunal do you know whether the pad was kept more by yourself or more by her?

appointment pad as between you and Frau Schreyer?

Q Very well. Was the appointment made the same day the picture was taken?

Q You don't recall whether you saw Haensch that day or not?

wouldn't you?

Q But when you saw the negative you couldn't recollect him as an individual, you only recollected the picture or rather the negative which you had seen before?

A That's right.

THE PRESIDENT: Secretary General, will you please take these exhibits now so that they won't be confused.

Yes, Mr. Hochwald.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, in order to make the case completely clear I would respectfully request that the Tribunal advise the witness Schreyer to hand over the appointment pad of the second part of December 1941.

THE PRESIDENT: Well why not say the entire month so there won't be any confusion.

DR. HOCHWALD: If possible, the entire month.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you intend to have a representative call at Frau Schreyer's to pick up these pads?

DR. HOCHWALD: I intend to do so with the permission of the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: The Secretary General will make the necessary entry and the transcript will show this, that Frau Schreyer is directed to turn over to a representative of the Prosecution the appointment pads kept of her work during the month of December 1941.

DR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: And now defense counsel may introduce the exhibit made up by the witness if he so desires.

THE WITNESS: I have to wait for the fountain pen.

THE PRESIDENT: Page, where is the fountain pen? Have you located it?

DR. KRAUSE: Your Honor, the witness calls my attention to the fact that she had to have her fountain pen in order to take down the sample with ink.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, where is the fountain pen?

DR. KRUASE: I just hear that somebody was sent out to get it.

THE PRESIDENT: Where did you leave your fountain pen?

THE PRESIDENT: Seems we have to establish a lost and found department in this particular instance. Well, under those circumstances the witness will have to return to the witness home to write up these exhibits because she doesn't have her fountain pen here.

DR. KRUASE: Well, I ask that she be permitted to do so.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, please return to the witness house and combe back to the court house if you can still today, otherwise tomorrow morning, with the documents which you are to prepare. Is that clear to you?

THE PRESIDENT: Defense counsel, and prosecution counsel as well, unquestionably who were cherishing the hope that the rumor might be true that the Tribunal would not sit tomorrow will have to blame Dr. Hoffmann if this hope has been punctured because we have just received a note to the effect that the witness that he had summoned will be here tomorrow morning. The Tribunal will be in session for a short period to hear this witness tomorrow at ten o'clock, and after that witness is heard, then the Tribunal will adjourn until January 5th, so that now the Tribunal will be in recess until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 20 December 1947, at 1000 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

Military Tribunal II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

DR. HOFFMANN (Attorney for the defendant Nosske): Your Honor, I have heard that the witness Haensch is here, I beg your pardon, the witness Harsch. May I ask the Tribunal if it is agreeable to them that the witness Harsch may be lead into the Court?

THE PRESIDENT: The witness will be brought into the courtroom and taken to the witness stand.

DR. KRAUSE (Attorney for the defendant Haensch): Your Honor, yesterday I was to be given the specimen of the handwriting of the witness Reich in order to introduce it as document. This was the specimen which she gave of her handwriting here on the witness stand. Unfortunately, I was not in a position to reach the witness in order to get this specimen of her handwriting. I do not know whether I shall reach her. In this case this is not -

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment, there is no use of your putting a long question to me when I already know the answer.

DR. KRAUSE: Well, the important matter to me now is whether I will get this specimen of her handwriting.

THE PRESIDENT: That is what I am going to tell you. You see, I know the whole story so you don't have to tell it to me. The witness returned after the session of the court had terminated and turned over to the Tribunal the specimen of her handwriting and the copy in Gothic script of her affidavit and these have been turned over to the Secretary General to be kept in the archives until the court reconvenes in January. We don't believe that it would be wise during the holiday season to have these exhibits outside the Secretary General's office, because there is always the chance of loss, so that if you will address yourself to the Tribunal or to me personally when we reconvene on January 5th, we will accede to your wishes.

DR. KRAUSE: Thank you very much.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

ERWIN HARSCH, a witness, took the stand and testified as follows:

JUDGE SPEIGHT: Witness, raise your right hand, repeat after me: pure truth and will withhold and add nothing.

(The witness repeated the oath).

JUDGE SPEIGHT: You may be seated. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q What is your name, witness?

A Dr. Harsch.

Q And what is your address?

Q Do you have a street address?

Q Very well. Witness, Dr. Hoffmann, who is the attorney for the defendant Nosske in the case which is being tried before this Tribunal, indicated to the Tribunal that you were familiar with an incident or episode in which the defendant Nosske played a part during the war. We are not going to put any specific questions to you immediately, because we do not know enough about your knowledge of the situation even to put questions. Dr. Hoffmann has suggested that you be summoned here to court and that has been done and suggested that you be allowed to tell your story and you may do so. Just tell the Tribunal what you know about this episode in which Nosske played a part, giving us the dages, the places, and all relevant data.

A I will. During the war I was a member of an engineering unit. In 1941 we had built a bridge across the Dnjestr River from Bessarabia to the Ukrainian part. After the bridge had been built, my unit went along to the Bug River, while I myself and a small kommando remained at this bridge. Approximately the middle of August, 1941, a passenger car appeared at this bridge in which there were one or more members of the SS - they might have been members of the SD, I do not remember.

Q Yes, now, Dr. Harsch, what unit were you with?

Q This, of course, was part of the Wehrmacht?

Q And what rank did you hold?

Q All right. Now you were an NCO of the Bridge Building Battalion of the Wehrmacht, you had built a bridge across the Dnjestr River, a bridge which spanned the river and which conducted traffic from Bessarabia to the Ukraine, generally speaking; and in the middle of August, a truck appeared. Proceed from that point. addressed as Sturmbannfuehrer, asked for the bridge officer. I told him that I was dealing with matters of the bridge, whereupon he said, "Surely, we know each other." He said that he had been in Halle and that I also came from Halle. After a few questions and answers we found out that the man who asked the question was a Government Counsillor, Nosske, who at the beginning of 1930 had worked in Halle as a lawyer and whom I knew from there, whom I had met during that time, in fact.

I had then been a lawyer and notary public in Halle.

This Nosske put his request to me. He told me that a large column of Jews would be lead to this bridge and would be lead back into Bessarabia. I do not remember what number it was that he mentioned. It could have been between 10,000 and 20,000 Jews. possibly even the whole night, and he asked me whether the bridge could be released for this purpose. Of course, now, this bridge had all the traffic to the front line. As such, it could not be interrupted, so that I could not release the bridge for so long a period, unless there was some other possibility to get the traffic to the front line; there was another possibility which was that for this night another bridge had been completed for traffic by the Organization Todt a few kilometers down stream. of one half of the bridge so that the traffic could go across this bridge that night. I notified the Constabulary that at the beginning of darkness the traffic to the front line could go across the new OT bridge and now I said to Sturmbannfuehrer Nosske that at the beginning of darkness, he could use my bridge for this Jewish column. In the evening between seven and eight, he reappeared with a Kommando, I think there were several vehicles with the Kommando and preparations were made to lead these Jews across this bridge to Bessarabia. There was a difficulty, however, because the Rumanians, particularly the Rumanian bridge kommando on the Bessarabian side had received instructions not to allow these Jews to re-enter Bessarabia. As a consequence of this, this kommando, especially the Rumanian officer in charge, was told a fib. They said that the Rumanian Government had agreed to the retransport of these Jews or something to that effect. In any case, this Rumanian officer left by motorcycle in order to consult with his higher authority and the SD kommando made use of his absence and mounted a machine gun over the Rumanian guard and after dark, about eight o'clock in the evening, or possibly 2015.

the Jewish column was lead towards the bridge without any further difficulties. They were transported to the Bessarabian bank where the Jews were left to themselves. Nosske and his other officers among whom there was the Criminal Commissary in SS or SD uniform from Halle, whose name I had heard before, that these Jews were supposed to have come from Northern Bessarabia and from Bukovina and from northern Rumania. I think Czernowitz was mentioned especially in connection with this, from which these Jews were supposed to have come.

Q How did they get over into the Ukrainian territory? Were they led over? Were they driven over, or how? Kommando and from certain observations which I made during my march through Bessarabia and Rumania. The Rumanians, after the Russian campaign had started to drive the Jews from Bessarabia, the newly occupied territory and from the former Rumanian points from Jassy and so on across a bridge to the Russian sector and left the Jews there to their fate. It was talked about then that these 10,000 to 20,000 Jews had been led across a bridge near Mogilew. That was a Rumanian bridge which had been built from Rumanian pontoon bridges. They had been led across it over to the Russian side and immediately behind this Jewish column, this pontoon bridge had been dismantled. These Jews had tried to disperse in the Ukraine but by this Einsatzkommando they had been recollected and had then been taken in a mass in a few days up to my bridge upstream. expulsion or a voluntary pilgrimage? Rumanians. Government or its representatives with regard to this movement of Jews? been taken yet against the Jews or only gradually. Of course, they were always stopped again, but in the newly occupied territories, especially Bessarabia, the Rumanians expelled all the Jews from their settlements and they were herded into groups and as far as I could observe it, they were led across the country until large columns were finally taken across the Dnjestr River into the Ukrainian territory.

Q Did these Jews all move on foot?

Q I presume that it was an entire population. Therefore you had men, women, and children of all ages. children, babies, etc. The whole Jewish population from the individual localities.

Q Did they carry any equipment of any kind, household equipment? with provisions of any kind. Sturmbannfuehrer Nosske informed me that he had seized peas in some place and the Jews lead to my bridge had been given these peas. He had them distributed to them. Furthermore, I saw when this long column passed my bridge, I sill saw peas lying on the ground.

Q When had they left Rumania, do you know? according to my estimate took place in the middle of August and the expulsion could not have taken place very much longer previous to that because the Dnjestr bridges were not built until July 1941. you? Bessarabia I had seen Jewish columns repeatedly which were driven by Rumanian Constabulary across the country without my being able to recognize at the time where they were to be taken to.

Q At what bridge did they cross over the first time? bridge to Bessarabia were, as far as I was informed led into the Ukraine across the bridge near Mogilew, a bridge which was 30 kilometers or even more upstream from my bridge. Thus they were led across to the Ukrainian bank.

Q And did you say that was a pontoon bridge?

A Yes, that was a pontoon bridge; that was what I was told, that was a bridge which was made from Rumanian pontoon material, a rotable bridge. This bridge was then taken apart again after this column had passed, so that the Jews could not return across this bridge to the Bessarabian which is now Rumanian bank. had reentered Bessarabia, did you ever learn what happened to them? again colleted these Jews and transported them into the interior of the Bessarabian territory where camps were now set up.

Q Were they not allowed to go back to their original homes?

A I don't think so; I didn't see anything to that effect. All I saw was in one or more places in Bessarabia, there were parts of forests surrounded by barbed wire, in which the Jews were kept.

returned into Roumania?

Q Dr. Hoffmann, would you like to address some questions to the witness?

DR. HOFFMANN: I only attach particular value to the fact that the witness confirms that I have had no contanct with him before. And that he is testifying here without my ever having talked to him before, is that correct, witness?

AA few weeks ago I received a letter by a lawyer in Hanover. I can't say what the name of this Gentleman was who mentioned that he was defense counsel of a certain man, Herr Dr. Gruenewald, who had been before the War Criminal Commissar in Halle and was of the Staff of Dr. Nosske whom I saw on the occasion of this Jewish transport, and whom I saw on the occasion. Hr asked me fora statement concerning this incident. This statement I gave to this lawyer in Hanover, the name of whom I do not recollect at the moment.

DR. HOFFMAN: But his name wasn't Hoffman was it?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Hoffmann, even if you had spoken with him that would be entirely proper. There is no reason why an attorney may not speak with a witness and find out what he has to say. But your statement that you did not see him is adequate for the Tribunal and it isn't necessary for anybody to confirm anything what you tell the Tribunal with regard to yourself.

DR. HOFFMANN: With that I have no further questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, do you have any questions? BY MR. WALTON:

Q Witness, were you a member of the Nazi Party? the war?

Q are you a member of the German Lawyers' Association?

A Yes. But there was a procedure for exclusion against me which was, however, without result.

Q Wasn't the German Lawyers' Association a branch of the Nazi Party for lawyers? defendant Nosske?

A Nobody approached me for the defendant Nosske. I merely received a telegram the day before yesterday that I should appear in Nurnberg as a defense witness without telling me what case was concerned.

Q Did you ever talk to his wife?

A No. I didn't even know whether he is married. bridge commander on this Wehrmacht bridge crossing to the Dnjestr River. How many SD officers did you see the day that Nosske came to your bridge besides Nosske?

AAt least another two. There might, however, have been more officers. I must say that the insignia and badges of SS and SD I do not know very much about.

Q Were you at that bridge all day?

Q What time did Nosske arrive? What time of day?

Q Morning, afternoon?

A That I could not tell you now. It is poissible that he arrived the day before even but any way it was in the day time and there was quite some time left for the discussion or the release of the O. T. Bridge. spoke to Nosske?

Q I am not speaking about the Jewish transport. I mean, in the normal course of business during the day did you speak about anything whatso ever with other SD officers or SS officers than Nosske?

Q Traffic was quite heavy across your bridge, wasn't it? they not? this bridge.

Q What did your traffic consist of most of the time? the Bridge. you saw during the day?

Q How many did you see? How many SD Officers did you see the day before Nosske got there? with you?

Q You could have seen them but you just don't remember, is that your answer? bridge. The next day another car arrived to bring me and my people some food supplies, but I don't know whether that was brought by an officer or a man. and not SS units, would they not?

direct, but with the money we couldn't do anything at all because the regulation slips were not valid in Bessarabia because it was Roumanian Sovereign territory, and in the Russian sector in the Ukraine, one could not buy any thing with that money.

Q Perhaps you misunderstood the question. The car that came to your bridge the following day you say came with food. Now, I ask you the question didn't you draw your food supplies or your money to buy food from the Wehrmacht and not from the SS? occasion. At that time we did not receive any food from the Wehrmacht. We only received money but we could not use this money and that is what I told Dr. Nosske in the course of our conversation and then he said, "I shall send you and your people something to eat."

DR. HOFFMANN: I would only say, your Honor, the witness must give quite lengthy answer to Mr. Walton's question. Please allow him this answer.

THE PRESIDENT: I think the question has been put and the answer has been given.

BY MR.WALTON: arrived the next day was an emergency measure and you drew some emergency food supplies from Nosske, is that correct?

A Yes. We had difficulties with our food because we only received money for our food and and in order to help us a little Dr. Nosske sent us a little additional supply.

Q Yes, Your relation with Dr. Nosske were extremely friendly, is that correct? that night. He had worked with a lawyer in Halle and he, of course, especially as I was able to release this bridge for him thanked me in this manner.

Q Yes. One good favor deserves a favor in return, that's correct, isn't it?

A I did not regard it a favor. I regarded it as a particular way to show appreciation but also as a comradely act. As I say, it was an appreciation for my people and my men.

Q Now, let's return. How long were you bridge commander at this particular bridge? away.

Q Approximately two months time?

A No, I said until 3 September. That is about just a little more than 14 days after that episode.

Q How many Jewish transports did you see during this time? which was lead back through all this night in question and only a few individual people still arrived the next say in small groups or by themselves without any escorts. They also went across this bridge to the Roumanian Bank.

over that brifge, wasn't it?

A I wasn't really tolf anything about it. Of course, there were the traffic regulations in effect as it was a one way traffic. That is either from the front line or to the front line but I was not aware of any directives whom we should not let pass the bridge.

Q Did you ever refuse to let any Jews cross your bridge?

A I was never put into this position to refuse; except for this one incident there was not request made to me and there was no civilian traffic across this bridge anyway. and small groups of Jews continued to cross this bridge after the main body of the transport had gone across? either Wehrmacht, or SS or SD? that they were part of this column so, of course, I let them pass my bridge to the Bessarabaian bank without further ado. next day or after the main body of the transport had crossed? Did you speak with them, talk to them? they felt safe in the persons, in their possession? bank and were glad they could go back to Roumania from which after all they had been expelled. on the Roumanian bank shouted "Hurrah for Hitler".

Q Isn't it natural that an individual Jew unescorted would come to a German held bridge. I say isn't it natural for him to ask permission to cross that bridge rather than to walk on it, without permission he had seen that the others had already crossed the bridge.

24 hour or 48 hour period? Your bridge guards, that is.

A I did not have to tell the bridge guards. I did not say so in so many words. After 10,000 or more had crossed each individual person following would be permitted to cross the bridge. We had no control over civilian people. precedence. You could keep them off of it, couldn't you? exist. That's whay you mean to say, is it not? that after arrangements were made with Nosske for the crossing of the bridge by the Jewish transport the Roumanian Commander on the other side was notified. Who notified him that these Jews were coming across? Bessarabian bank.

Q Did you go with Nosske?

A No. He drove there in his car. motorcycle to go to see his superior?

A Nosske told me, but it is possible that I saw it myself. Anyhow this Roumanian Lieutenant at the time of the beginning of this transport, was not at his sentry post.

Q. Now, after these Jews crossed this bridge, did they camp on the bank of the river for two days?

A. They camped partly on the banks of the Dnjestr River and partly they went further up to the rather steep bank, dispersed, and they lay down to sleep. Partly they went to the next village Kusauti (Kusiutz), until they were collected apprehended by Rumanian armed constabulary.

Q. Did you see these Jews during the whole time they remained on the opposite bank? Were they in your sight?

A. More or less, yes.

Q. But you couldn't see the portion that went farther inland to the next village, could you?

A. They didn't go that far. They had marched for too long by then. Individual persons might have proceeded to go further inland -strong people -- but remained the mass more or less together.

Q. And the last that you yourself saw of this transport of Jews was when the armed Rumanian constabulary were marching them off from the Dnjestr River, is that correct?

A. Yes, that was the last I saw.

Q. And you don't know what happened to them after they marched out of your sight, do you?

A. Later on I went to Northern Rumania on a few occasions to Jassi and Jasch, in order to take money for supplies, and on these occasions I saw on my travels through Northern Bessarabia that meanwhile one or more Jewish concentration camps had been set up.

Q. But you don't know whether any of this Jewish transport was put in those camps, do you?

A. I presume so with a 100 percent certainty.

Q. But you don't know of your own knowledge; you just presume so?

A. I think it is so absolutely certain because according to my firm conviction none of these Jews went back to his own home -- locality.

Q. Did you see them put -- commit these Jews to these barbed wire enclosures?

A. I did not see them being put in but I saw them behind the barbed wire.

Q. Did you ever talk to any of these Jews behind the barbed wire and they told you that they had crossed your bridge?

A. No.

Q. So, so far as you know that as soon as they got out of sight or nearing of the bridge that the Rumanian constabulary could have executed them? Couldn't they, so far as you know?

A. What could the Rumanian gendarmerie have done?

Q. Executed -- shot them down.

A. That, I think, did not happen.

Q. You think did not happen?

A. Because I would have been informed about it at that time if such mass executions had already taken place.

Q. Who would have informed you?

A. Well, I think one would have heard about it.

Q. But so far as you know it could have happened? You just didn't hear about It?

A. I did not hear about it, but such event at that time would have been talked about, because at that time such mass executions had not happened. That only happened later on during the course of the further Russian campaign, and then, of course, one was being told about these things.

Q. Now, you did not know that so many Jews were in the German occupied territory until Nosske came and told you, is that correct?

A. I should like this question to be repeated. did not quite get it.

Q. Yes. The first you knew of a large Jewish transport, from ten to twenty thousand was when Nosske came to you at your post as commander of the bridge and asked you to let these Jewish people pass.

This is the first you knew of a large Jewish transport in the territory next to your bridge, is it not?

A. Yes, except for the fact that before in Bessarabian territory I had seen smaller columns of Jews which were escorted by Rumanian constabulary across the country.

Q. And, so far as you know, Nosske could have performed executions upon some of these transports of Jews before they ever got to your bridge, couldn't he?

A. But -- He could have done, but I did not hear anything about it, and I do not think that at that time executions took place.

Q. But you didn't hear whether he had or had not? He could have, but you just didn't hear it; is that correct?

A. I certainly did not hear. But when --

MR. HOFFMANN: This kind of hypothetical question, your Honor, I would like to object to. On the one hand, Mr. Walton confirms that the hypothesis which the witness states are in favor of the defendant are not valid and they must not be expressed; on the other hand, he tried to put up hypotheses which are unfavorable for the defendant to draw his conclusion. I think that a cross examination can be conducted thus to establish the credibility or incredibility, correctness or incorrectness of facts, but I don't think -it can only deal with hypotheses for half an hour.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, if hypotheses are going to be presented naturally they must be presented in a way that the answers may express an observation which will illuminate the situation as exists, whether it be favorable to the prosecution or favorable to the defendant. Put your question again. BY MR. WALTON:

Q. I asked the witness that at some time before he knew this transport of Jews was in the area close to his bridge the defendant Nosske could have performed execution on a portion of it, so far as his knowledge was concerned. He has answered that it could have, even though he did not think that it did. Which is, to my mind -- is a responsive answer.

MR. HOFFMANN: I object also to this question, because Mr. Walton could with equal right ask whether Nosske during this time when the witness was not there whether he slept during that time.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, that is a very natural conclusion. The probative value of that is for the Tribunal. If you ask a person whether he could have flown to the North Pole and he knows absolutely nothing about it, his answer must be, "Yes, he could have, if he had the necessary equipment" and so on. Whether there is enough in the substance to prove anything is something for the Tribunal to determine: but just merely out of a void presenting a hypothetical situation when the witness himself has no way of determining whether it can or can not be true does not help the court much from a probative value point of view. BY MR. WALTON:

Q. All you know is that Nosske did not mention the fact to you that executions had or had not occurred while these Jews were under his command. That is all that you know, is it not?

A. Yes, but I am firmly convinced that Nosske or his men would have told me about these executions if such had taken place.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, may I interrupt? One of the members of the Tribunal has suggested that the witness comment on whether he knows of executions of Jews on either side of the river.

BY MR. WALTON:

Q. Yes, Witness, how long were you in this area all together, whether you were the bridge commander or the bridge builder, or in any capacity, how long were you in this area where this bridge existed for two weeks? bridge until this bridge was destroyed by floods. I remained in Russia afterwards until the year 1943.

Q. Well, how many months were you in this area? Or, how many weeks were you in this area? From when to when?

A. From the beginning of the Russian campaign until the October when I went to join my unit.

Q. Approximately four months?

A. Well, three.

Q. Were there any executions performed by anyone in that area while you were there?

A. No, No, nothing was told at the time about executions, either,

Q. I don't mean whether anything was told; I mean, did you see or did anyone report officially to you an execution had taken place? Is your answer the same?

A. Yes. Yes, I have not heard, or seen anything.

Q. Were you ever stationed until 1943 near SS or SD units?

A. Later on I saw in several localities that SK detachments had taken up billets, of which it was said they were the detachments that had to deal with Anti-Jewish operations.

Q. By "dealing with anti-Jewish operations" you mean executions, do you not?

A. That was made known later. I did not observe anything. When I arrived in Russia in October I learned during the following months that from the Russian villages Jews had been expelled and had been killed, in tank ditches; but this was news to me, in Bessarabia and Ukraine during my time nothing of that kind ever happened, or at least I was not informed by any parties about such events having happened.

If such incidents had happened at that time one would have got to know about it.

Q. Do you know what German units performed these acts and executions that you heard of later?

A. No.

Q. Could you assume that they could have been either Security Police or SD or could they have been units of the Wehrmacht?

A. The Wehrmacht, as far as I could see, had nothing to do with this.

Q. So it must have been units of the police which followed behind the lines of the Wehrmacht?

A. Yes.

MR. WALTON: No further questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Hoffmann, any further questions?

In view of the fact that Dr. Hoffmann, in effect, invited you to come to Nurnberg as a Tribunal witness, we thank you for having made the trip. day morning, January 5th which will then be a new year, 1948.

(Court in recess until Monday, 5 January 1948, at 0930 hours.)

of America; against Otto Ohlendorf, et al;,

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

Military Tribunal II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal. as follows:

JUDGE SPEIGHT: Witness, will you raise your right hand and repeat this oath after me: I swear by God, the Almighty and Omniscient, that I will speak the pure truth and will withhold and add nothing. (The witness repeated the oath) You may be seated.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, before the Christmas Recess, during the testimony of the court witness Frieda Reich, the Tribunal ruled that certain exhibits which were put in by Dr. Riediger in the case or the defendant Haensch would be put at the disposal of both parties for investigation. As most of these documents, in fact, all of them with the exception of the affidavit which the court witness wrote in her own handwriting, and which is only for purposes of comparison, were put in by the defense, which were the guarantees for their genuineness by putting them before the Tribunal, we request at this time that we should have the possibility at this time of investigating these documents first.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal ruled at that time that you would have the right to obtain the documents, so that we are only repeating when we say that you may - -

MR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much.

THE PRESIDENT: -- get the documents and use them for the purposes indicated.

MR. HOCHWALD: May I then ask the General Secretary to be so advised about these documents.

THE PRESIDENT: The Secretary General will turn over to the Prosecution the documents under discussion.

MR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much.

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome.

MR. WALTON: May it please the Tribunal, there are now in the hands of the Secretary-General some voluminous defense document books of the Defendant Ohlendorf. In view of the press of other business over the holidays, and the fact that I happened to be the only Prosecution Attorney present during that time, I confess that I have not thoroughly examined the document books. However, my examination does show that at least sofar as the Prosecution is concerned, there are some documents which are objectionable. If it is convenient for the Tribunal I should appreciate in view of the number of document books for the defendant Ohlendorf that an announcement be made by counsel at least twenty-four hours before he plans on introducing the document books in order to give me a chance to list the documents which I believe are objectionable for purposes of entering formal objections as they are formally introduced

THE PRESIDENT: The request is a very normal one, and, Dr. Aschenauer, do you have any objection to the request made by Mr. Walton?

DR. ASCHENAUER: No, Your Honor, I have no ob jection.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Allright, you may now proceed.

DR. KOESSL: Dr. Koessl for the defendant Schubert. I would like to be permitted to examine the defendant Schubert in his own case.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed. BY DR. KOESSL:

Q When and where were you born?

Q What schools did you attend?

Q First I went to grammar school for 4 years; the elementary school in Eisenberg, Thueringen, for 3 years, and Grammar School in Berlin for one year. After that for six years I attended the Realgymnasium (High School) in BerlinLichterfelde, and left school after the seventh class, that is, the Obersekunda, and was given a diploma. page 147, there appears your curriculum vitae. This is Document No. 3244, which is Exhibit No. 172. Does that give your correct date of your marriage? in this document here, is given here as "1 February 1940", but it should say, 21 December 1940.

Q Did your first wife die?

A Yes. My first wife and my child were victims of one of the first bombing attacks on Berlin.

Q Did you then remarry? 1943. I now have a boy three and one-half years old. files?

A Yes. On the second page of this document at the top the date of my joining the party is mentioned here as "1 May 1944" and it should say "1 May 1934." I presume that this must have been a typographical mistake which was made when the document was copied. On the next page of the same document under the heading "Party Activities" it shows "Speaker in the Gau Indoctrination Courses" in Berlin (Gauschulungsredner). I don't know how this entry got into the original, or into this document. I have never been a speaker in my life, and sofar as the Party is concerned I did not belong to the Berlin District, and, furthermore, I was never active in the political organization of the Party. I was only a nominal member of the Party. and when was that? myself, I was transferred into the Party from the Hitler Youth of which I had been a member since 1931. Of course, I never raised an objection against it, either. I was nineteen years old at the time, and at that time it was generally considered a token of recognition for members of the Hitler Youth to be transferred into the Party if they were regarded as qualified.

Q Were you a member of any formations of the Party? Youth.

Q Since when?

Q Didn't you say 1931 before?

A If I said that I must have made a mistake. I beg your pardon. I was a member since January 1932.

Q Did you hold any full-time office in the Hitler Youth?

A No, I held no full-time office. I did my service apart from my professional activities during my free evening hours, and during week-ends in my spare time.

Q Did you hold or achieve any rank in the Hitler Youth? of Scharfuehrer. non-commissioned officer? be no comparison with a military rank.

Q In any case it was the lowest rank, wasn't it? perform any function? least, in the organization of political leadership, the PO; I never held any office in this.

Q What professional traning did you have? administrative official in or become a candidate for the Interior Administration. At that time, that was the beginning of April 1931, all administrative agencies to which one could apply were filled up, and I could not find a job. Thereupon, on 1 April 1931, I entered a lawyer's office as an apprentice in Berlin. I was to take a training period of three years, but they exempted me from the third year so that after two years of training I became a Registrator in this same lawyer's office. This position I held until August inclusive, of 1933. At this period I had the possibility to get into administrative work, and I accepted a job as a candidate for the administrative service the Bremen Reich Deputy Office, the Representative of Bremen for the Reich.

That was the office of the representative of the free city of Bremen in the Reich Government. There I remained for thirteen months, and had prepared myself for the examination as an administrative secretary, which, however, I was not able to take, because this particular office had been dissolved by Reich Law at the time the Reich Council was dissolved, and I, as the youngest member of the staff, and as the one who had worked there the shortest time, had to leave first. That was within the course of events.

Q When and how did you join the SD? administrative service. I didn't suceed in this, despite the strong support of my former superiors. In the search for a new appointment, I happened to meet a former comrade of mine from the Hitler's Youth who at this time had joined the SD. He told me that the SD at this time had just been transferred from Munich to Berlin, and was urgent looking for men who had been trained in administrative work, and he suggested to me, as he was aware of the fact that I had lost my job, that I apply for a job in the SD. I accepted this offer, and I applied to the then SD Main Office in Berlin. That was on 10 October 1934. On this particular day I was taken into the SD as a member of the NSDAP.

Q Did you join the General-SS on this occasion? formation of the SS, but I never became a member of the socalled General (Allgemeine)-SS. Furthermore, I never served in this General-SS for even as much as one day.

SD and what did your activity consist of? 1936, and then again from the 1st of November 1938 until the beginning of August 1939 I was an auxiliary worker in the then SD Main Office. That was in the Department I/13, that was the registration office of the SD Main Office, and I dealt with the various branches of registration machinery and I dealt with all registrar work that came up. My main activity, however, was to keep a diary of all letters. That means to register the letters coming in and going out. At the beginning of August 1939 I was transferred to the Office I of the Reich Security Main Office. I must correct myself here. I had already been a member of Office I; I was transferred to the personnel department of the SD Main Office, again only as an auxiliary employee and I handled the filing of personnel directives according to instructions of my superiors. I corrected personnel documents and I kept personnel statistics up to date. That was my general activity as an auxiliary member of the personnel department. In the summer of 1940, after I had been promoted to Untersturmfuehrer in the SD, I received a T/O job in Office I - that was the first and the lowest T/O position to be held by an SD officer. I became a so-called Departmental expert in the Personnel Department of the SD. In this function I again worked on personnel directives for the special sector of this department, again according to instructions of my superiors. From October 1941 until September 1943 inclusive I held the position of an adjutant. I shall come back to that in detail at a later point. F rom October 1943 until November 1944 inclusive I held the job of an auxiliary departmental official in Group III-B of the Reich Security Main Office. In this office I dealt with personnel matters within Group III-B, that is, the internal personnel administration and, beyond that, internal organizational matters and the general supervision of the registration and files of this Group III-B. On the first of December 1944 I was detailed to the SD Sector Augsburg and I was entrusted with the leadership of Department III-B. In this department I only had to deal with the information service in the domestic sphere, ethnic Germans and public health for the Administrative District Suabia (Schwaben). This job I held until 26 April 1945.

On this day the office of this sector was dissolved. these jobs you held? had any power of independent decision. At no time whatsoever.

Q Where were you from 1936 to 1938? You omitted that time before. Armed Forces. I was a soldier from 15 October 1936 until 29 October 1938. I did active service at the time in the 38th Armored Reconnaissince Bn in Stahnsdorf near Berlin.

Q That was a Wehrmacht Unit, wasn't it?

Q What training did you get there? as an infantry soldier and as a radio operator. After this training for a year I was trained as a company clerk, that is, as a noncommissioned officer dealing with clerical jobs. During the last seven months of my service I commanded a signal detachment in an Armored Signal Bn.

Q What was your last military rank? charged. When I was released from active service in the Wehrmacht I was made a non-commissioned officer in the Reserves. 1939?

in the personnel department of the SD. That was Department I-A-4 of the Reich Security Main Office.

Q Were you called up for the Wehrmacht when war broke out?

A No, I was not. That wasn't even possible. I may explain that perhaps. As full-time member of the SD in July or August 1939 I received a so-called mobilization order. This mobilization order provided that the holder of this order in the case of a mobilization had to remain at the place where he worked. In addition to this, at the outbreak of the war, a special notification was put into my military papers. That was the order to the effect that I was essential for the SD, In addition to this, apart from the mobilization order which explicitly said that a voluntary enlistment for military service would be without avail in case of mobilization and, therefore, should not be done. In addition to this, from the outbreak of the war, members of the SD came under special jurisdiction of the Security Police and SD. A violation of all of these regulations and orders would have had as its consequence punishment according to this regulation of the SD and police jurisdiction. Apart from the fact that service in the SD from the beginning of the war had been declared a special war service, and therefore nobody had any reason whatsoever to leave this war service and to apply for service in the Wehrmacht. That was practically impossible and, therefore, nobody could apply for service in the Wehrmacht independently in order to be called up. never apply voluntarily for service in the Wehrmacht? just once, because I believed that I had a special reason which would guarantee success so that I could join the Wehrmacht. After I had lost my wife and child in a bomb attack in August 1941 I applied to the chief of the Security Police and SD asking that I be released to the Army and that my essential status in the SD be revoked.

I was convinced that this application would be approved, but I was most disappointed when the application was refused on the basis of existing regulations decreed by Heydrich and Himmler.

in the SD? Russian campaign? personnel decree was issued and this ordered the release of the candidates for the so-called leaders' service who at the time were active in the Russian campaign. Within the program of these releases I was chosen as relief in this action and I received a written order to join Einsatzgruppe D. Within two days I was to prepare myself to leave and had to start for the garrison of Einsatzgruppe D.

Q What did you at the time know concerning the Einsatzgruppen?

AActually not much more than the name. Of course, I had been told that during the Polish campaign so-called Einsatzgruppen had been set up. The same is also true, if I remember rightly, for other assignments, for instance, in Norway at the beginning these units were also called Einsatzgruppen. Of course, I also knew that at the beginning of the Russian campaign so-called Einsatzgruppen had been formed for that theater of operations also. Furthermore, from the orders of the Security Police and SD this order is the same as an administration gazette in other administrative offices, it might be called a circular. This circular contained lists of casualties from the beginning of the Russian campaign, members of the Security Police and SD who had been killed in the service of such Einsatzgruppen. That was essentially the knowledge that I had concerning the term Einsatzgruppen.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Koessl, I didn't quite follow that last answer. Would the witness please repeat it. I didn't quite catch the drift of just what he was aiming at in that answer.

DR. KOESSL: Please repeat very briefly what you knew about the Einsatzgruppen when you received this special order?

A I did know that Einsatzgruppen existed. I know the actual term Einsatzgruppen.

I knew that they had been active in Poland, Norway, and now also in Russia. Apart from that, however, I had concrete knowledge that they were also active in Russia - these so-called Einsatzgruppen. This knowledge I had received from the so-called gazettes from which I saw notices concerning men who had been killed in action - men who were members of the Security Police and SD and who served in these Einsatzgruppen.

THE PRESIDENT: I see. You are telling us that you saw reports indicating that men assigned to Einsatzgruppen had been killed. they were official circulars which went to all service organizations of the Security Police and SD.

DR. KOESSL: These were casualty reports, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: They were the usual casualty lists which appear in the newspapers during a war announcing those in the Armed Forces who had lost their lives?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, that didn't give you much knowledge just what Einsatzgruppen meant, did it?

A No. I had no knowledge about that. BY DR. KOESSL:

Q To whom did you report in Berlin before you left? who was an officer holding the rank of Major, a Sturmbannfuehrer. missions of the Einsatzgruppen?

A No. On that occasion I was in no way informed about the task of the Einsatzgruppen, but I merely received my marching order to report to Einsatzgruppe D. I may add that at the time my superiors in this office could not even tell me where I could find Einsatzgruppe D. I first had to find out about the garrison of this unit which I was to join.

Q What did you imagine your job would be in this Einsatzgruppe? One was a purely military assignment. The second possibility was an administrative activity in this unit. I had the professional training for both of these possibilities.

Q Where and when did you report to Einsatzgruppe D in Russia? the southern Ukraine when I reported to the staff of Einsatzgruppe D. The chief of Einsatzgruppe D at the time was SS-Oberfuehrer Ohlendorf.

Q Wasn't he a Standartenfuehrer at the time?

A I don't know whether he was still Standartenfuehrer. Any way it was about the time that he was promoted from Standartenfuehrer to Oberfuehrer.

Q Had you known Ohlendorf previously?

A I had not known Ohlendorf personally before. Of course I was aware that he was chief of Office III of the Reich Security Main Office, but I think I can say with certainty that before this date I had never seen him consciously.

Q Were you alone when you reported there?

A No, I wasn't the only one. Apart from myself there were nine other officers, who had been detailed to Einsatzgruppe D as replacements who arrived together with myself at the office of the chief of Einsatzgruppe D. Einsatzgruppe D? of the Einsatzgruppe to the effect that it was the mission of the Einsatzgruppe to secure the rear Army territory and the operational area of the 11th Army. I think, but I am not sure, that on this occasion the so-called Barbarossa order was also mentioned. Furthermore, and this seemed to me of special importance to Ohlendorf, he carefully screened each one of these ten officers He went into great detail.

He asked about personal details. He asked for the curriculum vitae of each individual with special emphasis on the professional training, and special training in branches of Security Police and SD in order to be able to find out what special activity this particular officer would be best fitted for. It depended on this screening how each officer was to be employed.

Q Was the Fuehrer order mentioned on this occasion?

Q When and in what connection did you learn about the Fuehrer order? the first time at the end of October 1941. The circumstances were briefly the following. During the period in which Ohlendorf was on an official trip to Berlin I had started to work myself into the department to which I was assigned. I received the reports in this office which had been put at my disposal, the reports which the individual Kommandos had sent to the Einsatzgruppe and I received knowledge of the reports of the Einsatzgruppe to the Reich Security Main Office.

I can't say for certain today what was the occasion which made me think - which made me suspect - -

THE PRESIDENT: I am a little confused here as to what reports he is speaking of. I thought that he was telling us about the reports he received. Now it would appear that he is talking about reports which were sent out.

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, I spoke about the reports deposited in this office. These were reports from the kommandos to the Einsatzgruppe D as well as reports of the Einsatzgruppe D to the Reich Security Main Office.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, then you saw both types of reports, those which came in and those which had been sent out or were to be sent out.

THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor. In these reports information was contained about so-called resettlements which had taken place, and I already said that I do not remember the exact occasion which caused me to see in this term "resettlement" a camouflaged expression for executions. I intended then to find out in detail and when Herr Ohlendorf returned I asked him concerning this matter, and on this occasion , in this discussion, I was enlightened about the content of the Fuehrer Order, but Ohlendorf also told me on this occasion that I would have nothing to do with the carrying out of this order. BY DR. KOESSL:

Q Did you agree with the Fuehrer Order? now. I can only say that when I learned of the content of this Fuehrer Order I was deeply shocked, mainly about the fact that one could expect people to carry out an order of such tremendous consequences, that people could actually be expected to execute such an order. Furthermore, in my own position I was completely helpless in the fact of the facts with which I was confronted.

Q What did Ohlendorf tell you then concerning your own employment? I should be the successor of the adjutant who had been released, and he also put me in charge of the orderly room of the staff of the Einsatzgruppe D. officer in charge of the orderly room.

A My tasks as adjutant were relatively small. The reason for this was mainly that Ohlendorf refused personally to have any office machinery for his own personal needs. As the adjutant I had to make appointments for official visits and to receive the visitors in the office. Apart from that there were occasions from case to case to carry out work within the regular field of activities of an adjutant. For instance, when Herr Ohlendorf wanted to go on an official trip it was then my task to assist him in getting the necessary maps, to note down the route, and similar matters. As the supervisor of his office I was entrusted with the supervision of the office work; that is, in this office as far as registration and files are concerned, the correspondence between the Einsatzgruppe on one hand and the kommandos or the various offices of the Wehrmacht on the other hand was filed end taken care of. The complete correspondence went through this office and was there registered according to incoming and outgoing mail. office? the officer in charge of this office, I had one clerk who at the same time, apart from this activity in the office, was the clerk of the chief and also a radio operator. Therefore, this one man did not only come under my exclusive supervision.

Q Did this T/O correspond to an office of a military unit? military unit. If I may make a comparison at all with a military unit, which never is quite fortunate, then I would compare the staff of the Einsatzgruppe D in its T/O with the staff of a regiment. In such a regimental staff, however, there was a so-called staff sergeant.

This staff sergeant did not exist in the staff of the Einsatzgruppe. Therefore, this function of a staff sergeant was also taken over by me in this case with the effect that in addition to my duties I had to deal with billeting, and I had to make out plans for sentry duties, and I had to deal with main as well.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, if you compare the Einsatzgruppe headquarters to regimental headquarters, following out that comparison, would you say then that the kommando headquarters would be comparable to battalions and the sub-kommandos to company units, or would that rather be a forced comparison?

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, if I may say so openly, even the comparison between Einsatzgruppe Staff and regimental staff is very far-fetched, and any conclusion that could be drawn from this concerning kommandos would be equally far-fetched, I only compared it in order to give a comparison of numbers, of the numbers of the staff, and I only made this comparison in order to give a sort of comparison in the strength of personnel, but actually, or as far as service is concerned, there are no possibilities of comparison here because the Einsatzgruppen and the kommandos are, to be sure, military units, so-called mobile units. but were differently organized and sub-divided than a military unit.

THE PRESIDENT: If you were going to compare them at all, I presume the Einsatzgruppen could be compared more easily to a battalion and the kommandos to companies rather than the way you first put it.

THE WITNESS: If I am to deduce this from the number of the personnel then, of course, Your Honor is right. Of course in that case Einsatzgruppe D at best corresponds to a military battalion.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed, Doctor. BY DR. KOESSL:

with the internal service? Einsatzgruppe? of course, I could give directives for his service in the office, I could give no directives to anyone in the Einsatzgruppe. of the office?

A Generally, yes. I can, of course, not exclude the possibility of actually not having found out about a number of proceedings, but I would like to state here that theoretically, of course, I had the possibility of examining any matter which was mentioned in the mail that came in and went out because all the documents were in the office. kommandos? Security Main Office and to the Army?

Q Did you participate in the making out of such reports? kind or parts thereof?

Q Did you ever sign a report? in that case, of course, never.

Q Will you now look at Document Book III_D, English page 34, of the German, page 60 , Document NO-2859. It is Exhibit 158. It is an affidavit of the co-defendant Seibert, in which it says under No. 2 it is on page 1 of the original - I quote, "Although Ohlendorf, as well as his adjutant, Schubert, from time to time prepared their own reports, the making out of reports was one of my main duties."

That is the end of my quotation. What can you comment on this way of putting it? A I should like to draw the attention of the Tribunal to the casein-chief of the prosecution, on page 255 of the English transcript, where it says, and I quote, under paragraph 2 of the document, that is the affidavit Seibert, it says, "It is shown that the defendant Schubert from time to time prepared certain reports of Einsatzgruppe D."

Q What do you have to comment then on these formulations?

A I beg your pardon for just one moment. I haven't quite found the place.

Q You mean in the case of the prosecution?

Q It is in the document book, page 60 at the bottom. It is the next-to-the-last line on page 60.

A. Yes, thank you, I have got it. Seibert testified here to the effect that although Ohlendorf as well as myself prepared our own reports from time to time the making out of reports was one of his main duties.

He furthermore describes the content matter of these reports but it seems tome of importance to clarify that this way of putting it, in the case-in-chief of the prosecution, concerning the omission of the defendant Seibert, that Schubert from time to time made out certain reports, and this does not say which reports, that this omission, however, should refer to the reports mentioned by Saibert in his affidavit; that would be a false assumption. From time to time in this program of reporting, I made out documents concerning personnel changes and changes of garrison within the field of activities of the Einsatzgruppe D. These documents which were made out from time to time for Berlin in order to give them an idea on the regional and personal structure and in order to keep their reports up to date, these documents, therefore, I made out; and only to that extent did I personally or my clerk take part in making out reports because these documents were made out all at a certain time for a certain report and were contained in such a report.

Q. Do you know of any data concerning executions in such reports?

A. Yes, I know about such data.

Q. Did these individual reports from the Kommandos, contain any figures concerning executions?

A. In the various reports figures concerning executions were mentioned.

Q. Did the reports of the Einsatzgruppe to the Reich Security Main Office contain any figures of executions?

A. Yes, but not all reports; some reports, especially the radio reports to Berlin, contained figures.

Q. Did you have any id*a concerning the total figure of executions?

A. At no time whatsoever. In spite of the knowledge that executions took place and in spite of figures mentioned in the reports I had no idea concerning the total number of people who were executed; never, and I could not have any such idea.

That was practically impossible.

Q. On the 30th of September in the afternoon , page 251 in the English transcript, it is in German 256, the prosecution read a contradiction into your statements on page 7 of your affidavit of the 4th of February, 1947, Document Book I, English page 17, German page 19, No-2716, Exhibit 4. The Prosecution sees the contradiction in the fact that you first maintained that younever knew how many people were executed altogether on the one hand, and that you say yourself that the written reports which went to Berlin contained the exact number of people who were executed. Will you clarify this alleged contradiction?

A. I think that if the prosecution reads a contradiction into my Statement the reason must be in my affidavit. This phrasing , especially of no. 7 in my affidavit. is partly so unfortunate, that somebody who does not know the actual conditions can either not see anything from this or can also see that what the prosecution wants to read into it, mistakenly. In this Figure 7 of my affidavit I said, or shall we say that I signed the wording as it was put by Mr. Wartenberg, and I gave details about the two ways of reporting of Einsatzgruppe D to Berlin. On the one hand, I spoke of radio reports in which figures were also transmitted, which, however, I did not get to know, and I said why I could not have known about them. Then I explained the second way of reporting, that is those reports which went to Berlin as written reports , via army mail or via courier. As for content of these written reports, the wording for it was chosen by Mr. Wartenberg, and I quote, "These reports contained exact data and descriptions of those places in which the operations had taken place. " I may now come back to the wording in theprosecution's case-in-chief. Here it says, "I would like to draw the attention of the Tribunal to Schubert's claim which is contained in Paragraph 7 of his affidavit of the 24th of February, 1947."

Here I may clarify this and say that it should be 4th of February. It is evidently a mistake. Furthermore, it says, two sentences later he says that he did not know the exact number of people executed, but I am now talking about the content of the reports concerning the activity of the group which went regularly to the headquarters in Berlin. He says that these reports contained exact details anddescriptions of the places in which these operations actually took place. I can, therefore, only refer these statements to the radio reports, and if the prosecution really understands it to this effect then this conclusion is wrong, because here they connect the word "operations" with the executions which had been mentioned before, but the written reports which I talked about and which I explained, contained mainly information about operations and the places in which these operations took place, but in no place whatsoever does it say that these operations or actions meant executions which had been carried out. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Well, did you see the reports before they were sent out?

A. Whether I saw the reports which were sent out?

Q. Yes, did you see the reports?

A. I don't say basically before they were sent out, your Honor, but I had the chance to see them either before, that is theoretically possible, but in any case after they had been sent out when the copies were filed.

Q Yes, well, then, I don't know that you have answered Dr. Koessl's question, namely, that you should explain the inconsistency between the statement that you did now know how many were killed and the statement that the reports contained the numbers killed. You have quoted from that paragraph, but you didn't go--you did not go to the phrase which indicates the number "number of places destroyed and persons killed". Now, when you signed this affidavit you saw that wording, didn't you?

Q Well, doesn't that very clearly state that the reports indicated the number of persons killed? because it is not clear enough, and I may remind the Tribunal of the fact that my defense counsel, when Mr. Wartenberg was called into the witness stand for cross examination, that my defense counsel asked Mr. Wartenberg about this wording and its unclarity, and I may remind Your Honor that it was you who said, "Yes, if it isn't very clear, then it is not very clear". BY DR. KOESSL: what operations are concerned on that particular point where it says in your affidavit. "the number of villages destroyed and people killed"-- what operations or actions were you speaking about in this particular point of the affidavit?

THE PRESIDENT: Judge Dixon calls to our attention that this statement appears twice in your affidavit; in paragraph 6 this sentence appears. "The reports of these leaders arriving at our headquarters were written in the manner prescribed by Chlendorf and also contained information as to the number of Russians and Jews executed". That is in paragraph 6. BY DR. KOESSL:

Q Witness, what figures were you referring to? We are now discussing reports containing figures of executions. Did these reports only contain 5 Jan 1947_M_MSD_7_2_Spears (Hildesheimer) the figure of one single execution or did these reports calculate cumulatively from the last figure in order to give a total figure of execution and people executed by this Einsatzgruppe up to that period?

Einsatzgruppe to Berlin were not based on a previous figure that had been reported about before. Therefore, the sum total of all the executions that had taken place after that date was not reported.

Q But figures were contained? quite clear that I knew about that.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I think that the statement which apparently I made some time ago stands, that if it isn't very clear, it isn't very clear, so let us have a recess for 15 minutes.

( A recess was taken)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. RATZ(ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT VON RADETZKY): I would like to ask that the Defendant Von Radetzky be excused today and tomorrow afternoon from attendance in court so that he can visit his wife. This has been approved already for special reasons and I would like instructions to be given that the defendant be brought to Room 57 at 1:30.

THE PRESIDENT: When you say that Von Radetzky will be excused that he may visit his wife, you mean that his wife may visit him. Mrs. von Radetzky to visit von Radetzky this afternoon in Room 57 and the same privilege will be accorded tomorrow afternoon.

DR. RATZ: Thank you, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome.

DR. KOESSL: My colleague, Dr. Ulmer, asked me to make an application that the Defendant Six be excused tomorrow, Tuesday, the 6th of January, -- that he may be excused for the afternoon only tomorrow and that he be brought to Room 57 so that the closing brief for the Defendant Six can be written.

THE PRESIDENT: The Defendant Six will be excused from attendance in court tomorrow afternoon for the purposes indicated.

DR. KOESSL: (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT SCHUBERT) I ask permission to continue with the questioning of the Defendant Schubert in his own case.

Q (By Dr. Koessl) Witness, please clarify again which figures you knew and which figures you did not know. but I did not know any possible total figures about the total period of the work of Einsatzgruppe D. I never knew of these at any time. the various reports?

A No, I never did anything like that. I never had orders to do that. In addition those figures, for example, which were with Einsatzgruppe D documents existed for that period.

I don't think either that unless customs were changed, lists previously had been kept; I know nothing killed; which operations were you referring to here at this point of the affidavit?

as they were made known to us for the territory of Einsatzgruppe D. These against partisans.

Here, of course, localities were destroyed during combat and also people were killed.

This is what I was referring to and "Reports about the civilian sector"?nothing.

I regretted this and pointed this out to Mr. Wartenberg at the time.

If I had had the opportunity to word this myself, it probably population in the occupied territory.

That is what was meant.

Q Mr. Warenberg said in the English transcript, page 390 to 391, Figure 7 in your First affidavit.

Why, on 21 April, or on 24 April, did you not do so?

A May I correct you first? You mean 21 February and 24 February. I

A This statement by Mr. Wartenberg here on the witness stand was given Mr. Wartenberg at the time did not tell me that he would interrogate me again, or, if this should occur, when.

I did not know whether I would be interrogated again. He never let me know at any time that at a later date I would be able to give further explanations concerning this affidavit. I mentioned to him that there were some points which were not clear in this affidavit and he told me that if something had been formulated unclearly, it could only mean the same thing, as I had explained it. This was merely a compilation, a summary of this previous interrogation.

4 February?

rewritten, on 24 February it was signed again. This affidavit merely had been discussed.

Therefore, for me it was not supplementary affidavit affidavit with new subjects.

Apart from that, if I may mention it here.

on the wording of these texts in these affidavits. I could not have any influence.

The interrogation was conducted entirely by Mr. Wartenberg and I could not interfere here and say, "Stop here.

We can't do it that way," for any executions?

Q Did you yourself ever see an execution?

Q How did this come about? Was this part of your task as Adjutant?

with the executive task. Why this order was given to me, I would like Einsatzgruppe D at the time.

This was the execution which has been discussed here repeatedly.

It was the execution for which the 11th time.

This deadline, as far as I know, was Christmas or the end of the year, 1941.

Einsatzgruppe D, in as far as I understand about events carrying out the executions by that time.

The Army was informed about this personnel and technically was not able to cope with this matter.

The actual execution did not change, so it had to be carried out.

In this Einsatzgruppe, my codefendant, Mr. Ohlendorf, under those circumstances, matters carried out in a clean and thorough manner.

Herr Ohlendorf and also the local kommando leader of Simferopol, Dr. Braune, themselves

THE PRESIDANT: I didn't quite catch that distinction which you Q (By Dr. Koessl) Which differentiation did you make, whether they were carried out at all or how they were carried out?

That is what you

A Yes, I understood. What I was trying to say was: my instructions

THE PRESIDENT: Do we understand that you say that you yourself the orders issued by Ohlendorf?

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, I would not like to say here that they by Mr. Ohlendorf, because the words, "that they were carried out" carry out the executions to carry it out.

I did not get such an order.

DR. KOESSL: You only mean the manner, Witness. Thank you.

THE PRESIDENT: Let us suppose that the execution was not being by the Chief of the Einsatzgruppe?

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, I could not have done this. I would have a different manner.

I might have tried to tell the officer who was

THE PRESIDENT: Well, if you saw a flagrant violation of the order of the execution with that violation, would you not?

THE WITNESS: Of course, Your Honor, in an emergency I would, of

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

Q (By Dr. Koessl) What instructions did Herr Ohlendorf give you at the time for your work?

MR. WALTON: If Your Honors please, I want to object to that question as putting the answer in the witness month.

If you will note, could have received his instructions.

I should like very much for the

THE PRESIDENT: The point is well taken.

DR. KOESSL: I believe that the prossecution merely objects to the Defendant Seibert gave instructions I shall bring up later.

I shall ask that.

I don't know whether I understood the prosecution correctly.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, well, why make it so difficult? Just ask him "Who gave you instructions?"

Page 4,588

DR. KOESSL: I shall do that now.

Q (BY DR. KOESSL) Witness, who gave you the instruction to be present during this execution?

Q What instructions did Herr Ohlendorf give you? phases of the entire events. That was what Herr Ohlendorf told me to do. executions?

A Yes. I knew those directives and that is written directives they had been issued to the kommandos and as part of may work in the office. I also heard about these directives. any other missions? German page 256, the affidavit by Ohlendorf of 2 April 1947 was mentioned. This affidavit is in Document Book III-D, page 1, as Document No. 2856, Exhibit 148. The prosecution says, and I quote, "In paragraph 3 of the same document, Ohlendorf says that he had sent Schubert as his deputy in order to inspect executions. These inspections of executions, the Defendant Schubert in his own affidavit of 24 February 1947 admits." What I mean is the affidavit Schubert Document Book I, English page 108, German, 141, No_3055, Exhibit 28. What can you say to this statement by the prosecution and the affidavit by Ohlendorf?

A. This wording by the prosecution, in my opinion, is wrong, mentioned in the plural.

Concerning the affidavit by Herr Ohlendorf that is several.

He says that as far as he remembers I carried out one inspections in Simferopol.

Later in his affidavit he says, however, Defendant Seibert and Herr Gabel.

If the Prosecution wants to charge of executions.

In fact in my life I only saw one executions, the

Q. Please describe how you carried out your mission and

A. Hay I summarize first briefly and later explain it in detail?

phases of the entire events took place as I was ordered. I inspected the manner in which the execution was carried out.

In no manner did I

Q. Who had to supervise those executions?

A. The supervision was carried out by a person who hold the

Q. Were any other officers present and what rank did they have?

A. Apart from this officer who hold the rank of a major, there were two other officers who had the rank of a captain.

Apart from that

Q. Could you supervise these officers in carrying out the missions given to these officers?

A. Of course, I could not supervise any missions of these

Q. It has just been pointed out to me that the comparison

A. The person in charge of the execution is a Sturmbannfuehrer,

Q. In the SS, therefore, the major was a Sturmbannfuehrer and

A. Hauptsturmfuehrer.

Q. Did you have any influence in choosing the location where the execution was to be carried out?

A. No, I could not influence this. The location which was nothing to do.

I merely had the instruction to look at conditions of

Q. How long did you stay at that place where the valuables were collected?

A. As far as I can remember or estimate now, I would like to say about a quarter of an hour.

I remember that during my presence at valuables.

I witnessed this. I saw how these valuables were collected.

As far as I remember, this event took about a quarter of an hour.

Q. Did you have any special mission concerning the valuables and the collection of them?

A. I did not have a special instruction for this, merely the instruction as I described before, that is, to watch this and to inspect it. whether it was carried out according to the rules laid down by Herr Ohlendorf, that is, whether the collection and the listing had been done in the proper manner.

Q. Had the execution already started when you got there?

A. Yes, it had already started.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Koessl, is he now describing one certain execution or is he describing generally executions which he inspected?

DR. KOESSL: Your Honor, the witness already testified that he only inspected on one occasion. That is the inspection mentioned in his affidavit and being talked of just now. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Well, Witness, I understood you to say that although you only witnessed one execution, you did make some preliminary arrangements in other executions. That is to say, to see that the place was secured so that no one might look in on the executions.

A. Your Honor, I did not carry out any kind of preparations, but

Q. I did not mean that you actually made any physical preparations, but I understood you to say that in your capacity as Adjutant and acting under the instructions of Ohlendorf that from time to time you would inspect locations and sites where executions were to take place and to observe that the necessary security regulations were met and other things which you could make certain were entirely in accordance with regulations.

A. Your Honor, I would like to emphasize again, that except this one execution which I now described, I did not see any other executions and as Adjutant on no occasion did I receive the mission to

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed.

BY DR. KOESSL:

Q. The President asked you whether you made preparations, general preparations for inspections?

A. No, I did not make any preparations for any such inspections,

DR. KOESSL: Your Honor, I have just been informed that the interpreter translated "inspect" and "supervise" with the same English word.

What I mean by "inspect" this does not mean "supervise", but to inspect may receive a report about this.

That is all one has to do when inspecting, while "supervising" means a kind of work which includes

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Koessl, it isn't necessary to amplify this any further; so long as the witness uses the words, "inspect" and "supervise". I am sure the interpreters will give us those words in

DR. KOESSL: Yes, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Because we don't have any possibility of con fusion between "inspect" and "supervise" as we had between "fehler" and "irrtum."

Who supervised this incident?

persons to be executed at the collecting place in Sinferopol?

merely had to look at this, too. I myself did not load guard, it was not up to you?

A No, I was not in charge of the supervision. I did

MR. WALTON: If it please the Tribunal, I have not

THE PRESIDENT: You want to make a differentiation

MR. WALTON: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: You think he is dragging him.

MR WALTON: By the bridle, yes, sir.

THE PRESIDENT: Please don't drag the witness.

DR. KOESSL: It was only meant to be a summary of what BY DR. KOESSL: getting ready the execution in any way?

English page 108, German page 141, Document No. 3055, Exhibit No. 28.

Are the events as you described them during the execution, correctly related in this affidavit?

my mission is incorrect. This refers in particular to the expressions "supervise" and "Inspect," I think it is the same in English.

I think the word "supervise" means those two words in the German language; also the formulation of "I took care of it."

These wordings do not correspond with my actual signing your affidavit?

A Before signing my affidavit I talked to Mr.Wartenberg for some time about these wordings.

I told him that in place of "supervise", which is obviously deducted from the English, it would be better to use the words, " To inspect" because In English I would express it, "To look at".

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Koessl, I, of course, don't recall now whether you questioned Mr. Wartenberg on this subject.

DR. KOESSL: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Did you question Mr. Wartenberg?

DR. KOESSL: I asked why the witness did not correct And now the witness is about to say why he didn't make those corrections, I myself questioned Mr. Wartenberg for a long

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Would you please give me the look at it when we recess?

DR. KOESSL: Yes.

MR. WALTON: I shall get a copy of the transcript during

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, Mr. Walton will get me the English transcript.

That will be allright, Dr. Koessl?

DR.KOESSL: Yes, your Honor.

BY DR. KOESSL:

Q Why did you not correct this, witness?

A I was not able to make these corrections. During our conversation Mr. Wartenberg gave me repeatedly to he used and my explanations in his opinion.

He said that I had to tell Mr. Wartenberg about these beforehand, and, Mr. Wartenberg had declared repeatedly, "you can only make such corrections which I allow you to make", and thus, I was not allowed to make, but Mr. Wartenberg told me that

Q When did you sign this affidavit?

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Koessl, opposite paragraph 3 in that affidavit there appears a note, "handwritten corrections initialed H/ScH, 24/2/47."

Witness, what correction did you make in that paragraph?

or did it refer to a correction on that page, generally?

paragraph 3, namely, the date "in December 1941." I believe "in January or February 1942."

this is - and I shall come date, why couldn't you insist upon changing the word "Supervise" if you did not like the word "Supervise."

if Mr. Wartenberg would have permitted me to do so. It is the wording, "I was assigned for this by Ohlendorf or by Seibert," right at the beginning.

At the time I pointed out to Mr. Wartenberg that this wording "or by Seibert" could the Einsatzgruppe at all, but he was on leave.

I, therefore, would have liked to cross it out, but Mr. Wartenberg told questioned me that "Herr Ohlendorf or Seibert gave me that order."

I told him thereupon that possibly I might have said that at first, but when considering this I had to correct myself. Of course, I knew exactly at that time that Herr Seibert was not present.

THE PRESIDENT: Would you think that this might be an appropriate time to recess. For Lunch-Time, Dr. Koessl?

DR. KOESSL: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:45.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will recess until 1345 hours.

(Recess until 1345 hours, 5 January 1948.)

(The session began at 1345 hours, 5 January 1948.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. KOESSL: May I go on?

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed. BY DR. KOESSL: discussed before? which is contained in the Document Book was signed by me 24 February 1947 but I would like to draw the attention of the Tribunal to the fact that as early as 21 February 1947 I signed an affidavit of the same contents. In this affidavit I had 8 corrections which I made before I signed it. After it had been signed by me and I returned it to Mr. Wartenberg, in 8 copies, Mr. Wartenberg informed me that now he would have this affidavit re-written owing to the fact that so many. corrections in handwriting had been made and that he would then give it back to me for signature. 21 February 1947, ask Mr. Wartenberg whether you might be able to correct these sentences and what did he say to you when you asked him? he saw no reason for any corrections as the corrections and limitations which I had made he only regarded as a game with words and, therefore, he was not willing to have this correction made and he also added that at the proper time I could give the proper explanations and make any statements I would like to make.

Therefore, this correction never came about.

THE PRESIDENT: Let me understand this clearly. One affidavit was signed 4 February, is that correct?

THE PRESIDENT: Then which one was it in which the 8 corrections were made, the one of 4 February or the one dated 24 February? affidavit of the 21 February in which the corrections were made in handwriting and these corrections which were made in handwriting were then contained in the affidavit of 24 February except one particular part.

MR. WALTON: Owing to circumstances surrounding the affidavit which is not before the Tribunal and which has not been introduced in evidence I think such testimony is immaterial.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, which one is before the Tribunal? which number?

MR. WALTON: The one of the 4th of February and one of the 24th and now he speaks of one of the 18th which has nothing to do with the affidavit in the hands of the Tribunal as a prosecution exhibit.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, calling your attention, witness, to the affidavit which was signed on 24th day of February we see opposite paragraph 3 the words "handwritten correction - initials H.Sch. 24/2/47". Was this written by you after the affidavit had been rewritten by Wartenberg? at the moment I have not seen but I may assume that it is the original of the affidavit which I made out on 24 February in 8 copies and which I signed but I myself have not seen the affidavit since then.

I only know the cyclostyled copy in the Document Book.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. An affidavit was submitted to you and you made numerous corrections or a number of corrections. Mr. Wartenberg then said he would have it rewritten, is that correct?

THE PRESIDENT : And he brought it back to you and you signed it?

A First I read it through. Mr. Wartenberg submitted it to me making the remark that this was the affidavit of the 21 February newly issued but unfortunately I had to establish the fact that it was not the same wording - it was not like the affidavit of the 21. Therefore, I was a bit suspicious and I looked at the affidavit and I was very much shaken because this particular point had meanwhile been changed in the text. I had trusted that this, the copy which had already been made out, would be submitted to me again without the text being changed.

THE PRESIDENT : Well, you did even on this re-written affidavit then make a correction? was referring to the change in the text of the affidavit of the 21st. In this affidavit of the 21st it had said under # 3 "In December 1941" and if I remember correctly this date December 1941 in the affidavit on 21 February was put in by me in handwriting and after it was put in its final form on the 24, now, in the new edition, the wording appeared "In January or February 1942."

THE PRESIDENT: And you made the correction?

which in this connection is most important. I was not

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Wartenberg brought you the re-written affidavit.

He handed it to you and you read it. After reading it you made a change in the date.

That's correct, isn't it?

THE PRESIDENT: Now, why didn't you also make whatever correction?

A Your Honor, I think that Mr. Wartenberg said when

THE PRESIDENT: Now, just a moment. We are through with the date.

You have made that correction. Let's not talk about that date any more.

you have made that correction.

Now we ask you why didn't you correct the word 'supervise# if you didn't like that word?

A I didn't like it on the 24, and I uttered my

THE PRESIDENT: I don't understand you saying you were not permitted.

You had the paper in your hands. you crossed out "January - February 1942". you wrote in "December". Why didn't you then go over to the word "supervise", cross that out, and write in another word.

you had it physically in your possession - why didn't you do that?

something. Theoretically, one can see that after the event I said I wanted to change that but Mr. Wartenberg said "Any corrections you want to make you have to discuss with or not."

And this permission - - -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, did you tell him, "Mr.Wartenberg, I would like to change the word 'supervise'"?

A Yes, your Honor. The word supervise as well as

THE PRESIDENT: Did you say "Mr. Wartenberg, I want to change this word 'supervise'?" Did you call that specifically to his attention?

THE PRESIDENT: You can dwell on possibilities. We must know definitely whether it did or did not happen.

Did you specifically call to Mr. Wartenberg's attention the word "supervise"?

THE PRESIDENT: And did you call to his attention the word Seibert,the name Seibert?

A Yes, your Honor. And I would like to say here the answer that I got from Mr. Wartenberg concerning this

THE PRESIDENT: What was the answer?

A I don't know literally but I thin, I can give its drift. when I told Mr. Wartenberg that the date had been changed and the passage "or Seibert" is also contained again Mr. Wartenberg told me words to this effect - "Yes, but in January or February Seibert was there again". I told Mr. Wertenberg that that of course was correct, but...

THE PRESIDENT: Listen, witness. We are going over ground which you have tilled a number of times. Now we have cultivated that ground and we have got the harvest - mainly the correction. Don't go back to the date. Let's go back to the other things. We understand the conversation you had about the date - that is settled. you called it to his attention, you convinced him that the correction should be made, and you made the correction as evidenced by the fact that it does appear corrected and your handwritten corrections are here. Well, now why didn't you go through the same procedure on the matter of the word "supervise". That's the question.

A your Honor, I should like to be very brief on this point. I asked for this change to be made on various occasions and was not permitted to make it.

THE PRESIDENT: Not on various occasions but on this one occasion when you corrected this date, why didn't you correct "supervise"? to this word. If I have changed the wording of the dage, if I succeeded in doing so, it may be so because I was particularly obstinate on this point because I didn't want a co-defendent of mine to be indicted by a negligent remark in this document. All other wordings referred to my own person and after Mr. Wartenberg told me that at the proper time I would be able to explain everything as I meant it, I thought, in the state I was in at the time, that I could no longer resist, that I thought I would have to sign this statement being able to explain later because I did not want to appear in dubious light in case I would resist too long and trusting that I

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it you feared that you would be put in what you intended.

Wasn't that the occasion to correct the dubiosity of the situation?

Wasn't that the time to make the correc tion?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, now just a moment, did Mr. Wartenberg threaten you in any way?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, please answer that, did he threaten you?

THE PRESIDENT: Did you read this? "I had the opportunity to make changes and corrections in the above statement.

I made this statement jected to any threat or duress whatsoever". Did you read that?

A yes, but I may say the following, Your Honor. This way of putting position to make all corrections.

When it says "I read this statement and" that "I had the opportunity to make corrections" then it is in a way not false, not wrong, but it doesn't explain everything.

THE PRESIDENT: You were allowed to make 8 corrections but not 9 corrections?

Is that what you are telling the Tribunal?

A I had to ask for the permission of Mr. Wartenberg for everyone of these 8 corrections but I did not receive permission for this owrding "supervise". I do not know at the moment whether those are the only corrections which I wished to make on that occasion .

The PRESIDENT: Suppose you do this witness. You indicate to the Tribunal the corrections which you actually made end then indicate the corrections which you want to make now and then we will have it on the record just what this statement should be. Tell us what corrections you did make and what corrections you want to make now. Dr. Koessl, will you please take him over that field? BY DR. KOESSL:

Q I will. witness, please state on what passages of your affidavit of 24 February you wanted to make any corrections on your own behalf? I do not want to make out a new affidavit now, but that I only want to carry out what Mr. Wartenberg had promised me that is to explain what I mean and what unfortunately he worded incorrectly.

Q Tell us, therefore, very briefly, what words you want to correct?

A Wherever it says "supervise" it would say "inspect" or "to look at". contained under #3 of the German, the fourth line, paragraph 3-A at the beginning of 3-B, the first expression. Furthermore again at #3 C. Then under paragraph 4, line 3, in the German and then in the next line -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, just a moment, are you making these corrections?

DR. KOESSL: The witness has already stated that all these points where it says "supervise" instead of "look at" or "inspect" - that all these points should be changed. Personally I have marked these points in my affidavit. I therefore wanted to tell you briefly. The witness is in position to do so himself - it would be the same.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Now, you said that 3-A was wrong but you didn't indicate how it was wrong.

Suppose you let the witness do it Dr. Koessl. Let him point out in the affidavit where it is wrong. Now, what is wrong with 3-A?

DR. KOESSL: Tell us, witness, under #3 any passages, what passages you want to be changed? I would like to say -BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Well, tell us why it doesn't make sense. It seems to read very clearly to us. It makes sense. "To see that the location of the shooting be remote enough so that there could be no witnesses to the shootings". I don't know how it reads in German but it is clear in English. why is it so obscure in German?

A I don't know, your Honor, whether you are quoting now from the English, and whether it says there "to see". It says in the German "beaufsichtigen". That would be "supervise" in the English. If it says there "to see" I am in agreement, as I approve of the wording this way, although to "confirm" would be quite correct. I only had to convince myself of the actual order. sentence: that you would go to the location to make an observation and make certain that the location of the shooting was far enough away that people who might be in the vicinity would not see the shooting. That, in other words, is what we gather from this 3-A. is the thought you intended to convey? according to the wording in the affidavit it means that I had to supervise this particular place where executions took place. I cannot have a supervision of a place. therefore I object to the way of putting it here. certain that the shooting scene would be far enough away that witnesses might not see the actual shooting. in a proper state and that is what I think I have said in my statement. The wording of the affidavit means something else, in my opinion. shooting place, is that what you want to emphasize?

Q All right. This does not say that you selected it. It says that you went there to make certain that the place selected for the shooting was so located that it would fall within the regulations, namely that there would not be any unnecessary witnesses to the shooting.

THE PRISIDENT: Yes. Let's proceed to the next one. We understand that.

DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued) BY DR. KOESSL: did not like.

A Then the next figure,Paragraph 3-B, there again it says "to supervise" so that.....

THE PRESIDENT: So that -- proceed, proceed. BY DR. KOESSL:

Q What was the wording that you approve? I convinced myself that the collection of money and valuables of people to be shot was not done by force, etc. The next passages, 3-0, here it says again "to supervise that executions were carried out as far as possible in a humane and military fashion."

Q And what should it be?

A It should say "to convinced myself" or "to look" or "see" that matters would be carried out like that.

Q Any further corrections?

A Yes, under figure 4 it says in the second sentence "I went into the Gypsy quarter of Simferopol and I supervised the loading into the trucks of people to be executed". Again it should say "I convinced myself" that this was to be done and not what it says here in the affidavit.

Q What next?

A The same sentence in the next paragraph "I took care that people were loaded as fast as possible and that no unrest and no disturbances should take place on the part of the native population. Furthermore, I took care that people who were to be executed should not be beaten while they were loaded into the vehicles.

Q What should it say?

A There again it should say "I convinced myself" of the fact of that, etc., there it could not even be formulated "I saw to it." I could only have meant "I convinced myself", because there is nothing else that could have been meant, and I could not have said anything to a different effect during my interrogation. In the last paragraph of No. 4 it says "as it was my task to supervise the whole execution I could only remain a short time at each of the different phases". There again "supervise" is wrong. Again it should say "to inspect" here or "to see", in order to get the true meaning, in order to be able to cope with my task.

THE PRESIDENT: Are those the corrections you want to make in the affidavit?

THE WITNESS: No, unfortunately, they are not all,

THE PRESIDENT: All right, let's have them all.

THE WITNESS: In No. 5 of the affidavit again there is the word, "I supervised". On page 3 of the original, the second sentence begins, "I supervised the SS and regular police that these people should not keep any of the valuables that were collected. Again there was nothing to supervise but only to convince myself, and I had to supervise how these things were carried out and whether they were in agreement with the orders which were given. Again it should not say "supervise". Under No. 5 again, the next hit one sentence, there it says. "This stage was supervised by me in detail so that all valuables should be turned over to the Einsatzgruppe for the purpose of passing them on to Berlin at a later date". This wording might permit the conclusion that it was my assignment to supervise and to take care that everything that was to be taken, actually was taken, so that everything would actually be transferred to Berlin. I think that Mr. Wartenberg thought of this way of constructing it when he formulated the sentence, but again I can only say that it was not my task to supervise these people taking the valuables, that it was not my assignment, but only, and that is what I said this morning, the stage of events, while I was there, to look at it and see to it that it was complied with, according to orders given.

I did not have to actually supervise this procedure. but I only had to see to it that it was done. BY DR. KOESSL:

Q Any further corrections?

A Under paragraph 6 it says "a short while when these executees were already in position in the ditches I supervised the shooting". This supervision again is wrong because I have already stated this morning that the task of supervision was the task of an officer who held the rank of a major. Therefore, there was nothing for me to supervise because there was already somebody who was supervising it who had a much higher rank than I had, and I did not have the executive power that these things were carried out. to Seibert. In the compiling of your corrections I think it would be a good thing if you now mentioned this particular point again.

A It is No. 3 where it is said that "in December, 1941 - I do not remember the exact date - I was detailed by Ohlendorf or Seibert to supervise the execution of seven hundred to eight hundred people". This wording "or Seibert" is completely wrong for the mere reason that Seibert at that time was not present in Simferopol at all. I think I have already clarified this point by saying that I told Mr. Wartenberg that this was wrong, but he did not permit me to make any corrections concerning Seibert because, allegedly, I had said in the interrogation "Ohlendorf or Seibert". This possibility I could not contest at the time, but I do not want to contest it today, that in the first moment when this question was put to me whether I ever or "what would you say, Herr Schubert, if we had proofs that you had actually to inspect executions?"

that was the question that was put to me at the time.

It was put by Mr. Wartenberg. I think that it is "Ohlendorf or Seibert". I cannot and do not want to contest that, 24th of February, I drew the attention of Mr. Wartenberg to the fact in Berlin.

Therefore, it would have to be crossed out, but unfortuna which is inessential but which should be corrected. It is the last but one sentence of paragraph 1. "On the 9th of May, 1934, I was transferred from the Hitler Youth to the Party". It should say "on the 1st of May". I do not know whether I made this statement at the Q And now let's just discuss again Paragraph 2. Is Paragraph 2 correct as it is put here, or do you have any other remarks to make?

A Under Figure 2 it says in this second sentence, "Otto Ohlendorf was chief of the Einsatzgruppe his deputy was Willy Seibert". I should understood and put down by Mr. Wartenberg in this very general form, the case could have happened in which Seibert would have been the deputy of Ohlendorf for the entire Einsatzgruppe D. Therefore I would like to explain this particular wording "Seibert was his deputy", and that is what I said, I think, in my interrogation very clearly, and I certainly did not put it into this very general form.

In the last but one sentence in paragraph 2 it says "I was appointed Ohlendorf's adjutant for the Einsatzgruppe and I kept this post from my joining the group until I left in 1944". I think that must have been a mistake. I think that has been corrected by the prosecutor. It should have said '42.

Q I think that is only in the German copy. It should read June, 142.

Q Any more corrections? where it says in the last sentence "it is known to me that it was of special importance for Ohlendorf that people who were shot were killed in a humane and military manner as in case other methods of killing were used the psychological burden of the members of the kommando would have been too heavy." I was very sorry that this is the last sentence of this particular passage, but I could not very well tell Mr. Wartenberg what he should put in and what he should leave out, but in my interrogation I tried to explain that this psychological burden was not only the particular burden of the kommando itself but that each victim, of course, would have a much heavier burden, and that is what I would like to say here; and I think that with this all matters are now cleared up which I wanted to be cleared up. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Now, witness, you consider yourself an educated man, don't you?

A Your Honor, one should not say that of one's self. But I think that I have an average education.

Q Well, you had your schooling; you worked in a lawyer's office; you were a civil servant; you worked for the Reich; and you belonged to the Hitler Youth. I don't know that that would be any evidence of great education but at any rate -- how old are you?

Q Thirty-three years old? How old were you when you signed this affidavit?

Q Yes. Now you signed three times on this document, didn't you? you signed your name three times?

A I don't quite understand, Your Honor.

Q You signed your name to each sheet of the affidavit?

Q You know you actually wrote your name, you wrote "H. Schubert" at the end of the first sheet, "H. Schubert" at the end of the second sheet; and then at the end of the third sheet you let yourself out completely and signed "Heinz Hermann Schubert", didn't you?

Didn't it occur to you as an educated man that it would be highly misleading to have this word appear seven different times if it did not convey the actual picture of what occurred? I asked Mr. Wertenberg whether I would be able to change it, but I was not permitted to do so, but only the promise was made to me that "you will have the opportunity to explain this". He saw no difference in what I meant when I said "inspect" or "look at" and his own "supervision". He said that was quibbling for words and he thought it was exactly the same thing "supervise" and "look at". and the original affidavit. I would like to have you tell the Tribunal whether you yourself wrote in the word "December" in paragraph 3?

Q Did you ever once say to him, "Mr. Wartenberg, I refuse to sign this paper", once, did you ever say that to him?

A Yes,Your Honor referring to the change of the date; when I had to confirm that the wording of the affidavit of the 24th had been changed, I told Mr. Wartenberg that I would not be willing to sign that, and this is how I explain the actual change that was then made and which I was permitted to make. have told us, which we understands, and which is a closed book--You insist on the change of date made; you initialed it, Now, I ask you, leaving aside the date, did you say to Mr. Wartenberg, "I refuse to sign this statement again; but I would like to add now, Your Honor, that immediately after the interrogation of the 18th of February I was taken into a severe custody, and on the 31st of February as well as on the 24th I did not feel myself free in my own will and physically as well as psychologically I was not in the position to resist any further, I was not in the position to go any further than I had already gone, and I thought that I had achieved all that could be done in this situation. I was put into solitary confinement. I was not allowed to go for walks I was put into an unheated cell and that in February. My cell was lit up from outside as at that time it was only usual in the case of defendants, although I at that time was not a defendants, There was, therefore, a difference between my custody as it had been until then. A difference like day and night; my state of health physically was very bad.

I was 26 percent underweight, and I was not in the position-

Q Did Mr. Wartenberg have to do anything with what you have just now related?

A Your Honor, Mr. Wartenberg was asked by my defense counsel here when he was in the witness box under cross examination concerning these matters and, if I remember correctly, he has stated that he had then been under the impression that I was thinking of committing suicide, based on the statements which I had made previously and that it was possible that owing to the statement that he had made to the prison office that therefore I was taken into more severe custody. This statement of Mr. Wartenberg's I cannot bring into agreement with the usual habits in such cases in the prison office. to what you regard as hardships in order to make you sign an affidavit which contained statements not in accordance with the facts, is that the point which you are trying to make? facts? went, and I presume it is only with regard to the affidavit that you tell us about these hardships. Q Did you say to Mr. Wartenberg, "If I sign this paper, will I be released from solitary confinement or did be indicate to you that if you signed it you would be released from confinement?

question I would never put to my victors. I think I would be too proud to do that.

Q Well, were you too proud to sign this statement, "I had the opportunity to make changes and corrections in the above statement. I Made this statement of my own free will without any promise of reward, and I was not subjected to any threat or dress what so ever." Was it because of magnanimity of soul which caused you to sign your name to a statement of that kind when, according to what you tell us now, it does not represent the fact--was that just magnanimity on your part toward your victor, as you call it? This formulation I signed because it was not exactly incorrect to a certain degree, but as I had no possibilities to make any modifying remarks or make any supplementary notes which would not have been received..... today differs from what you said in the affidavit. You said that you did not supervise, you only had to see that it was done. It is again--it is said that I had to see to it that it was done. That is again not quite correct.

Q Did you, or did you not say that? That is what I have in my notes. Did you say that this afternoon? not.

Q You were sent there by Ohlendorf, is that right? execution was not being conducted in the manner ordered by Ohlendorf; you would have spoken to the officer in charge, wouldn't you?

A Yes, Immediately. I may say that General Ohlendorf himself and Dr. Braune inspected the execution on that very day. I would have had enough opportunity to express my misgivings even if the superior officer had not been of my opinion or had not shared my misgivings.

I had not by any means forgotten the incident of Oberursel, and I am prepared to give details about this event, if the president wants me to do so,then he is a stronger character than I am, at least, stronger in his resistance. I was no longer in the possession of my full strength, otherwise, I would have resisted again, and if I may emphasize this again, it was my express intention to change all those passages--wrong statements which indicted other people. As far as my own person was concerned, I trusted that I would be able to explain myself if these things would be used against me. Perhaps that was wrong of me to do so, but I cannot find any other explanation for it.

Q Yes, sir. Now you state in this document and I quote, or rather, other things and I quote:

" number of places destroyed and number of persons killed". Would these reports contain information that a Jewish synagogue was burned by units of the Einsatzgruppe?

Book - that a synagogue was burned. I never said that.

number of persons killed. Now you said that, didn't you?

was burned by units of the Einsatzgruppe?

A NO, Mr. Prosecutor, that isn't how it is meant and apart from this wording I don't know any report where any such report might be contained.

I don't know of any such reports. Something quite different is meant here.

This wording refers to that part of the reports territory where Einsatzgruppen D was active during certain times.

I according to the reports which we received.

Part of this was, for had been completely destroyed and did not exist any longer.

But this there were those persons killed.

Them in fact it would have been right?

A I don't refer that only to the enemy who was killed but to any persons killed.

That might have been civilian people or enemy soldiers or might have been our own losses.

I only speak of casualties here and

Q I can understand what you said about casualties. It is in the very next sentence of that paragraph.

But I was speaking particularly about the phrase " total amount of persons killed". Now would that phrase include executions as well as people killed in open combat?

A Mr. Prosecutor, this wording here does not refer to executions to mean the same as executions mentioned before.

This was never

Q All right. Let's consider the operational situation reports of which you had personal knowledge.

I believe you stated yesterday that them.

did you not?

AA total figure for a certain period of reporting. Of course, you are right.

I cannot exclude the fact that in these reports communica of the Einsatzgruppe, didn't you?

A Mutilated, I never heard that Mr. Prosecutor. I merely know the Q Let me repeat the question. I think the translation was a little bit different from what I meant.

From reading the copies, knew that thousands of people were being executed monthly, didn't you?

A Mr. Prosecutor, that monthly thousands of people were executed I would not like to say.

Here I can only stick up for the fact that I

Q Would you say hundreds of people were executed monthly?

A I believe, Mr. Prosecutor, you asked whether I would say hundreds?

monthly according to reports which you saw?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I cannot determine this for a certain figure fro a month.

Occasionally I saw figures and heard of figures which were cannot determine this for a certain period of time.

A There was no special order for this Mr. Prosecutor. This was Q Mr. Schubert, I am asking you for the name of the person in the uation report for you to file.

Who was this person?

A Mr. Prosecutor, perhaps I may briefly explain the way we worked.

Q Who was that person?

without trying to dodge the question. I merely asked who the man was who left these copies in your office.

Let's pay attention and answer promptly.

Now, in paragraph 8 of this affidavit you make a statement to headquarters you, as you state there, and I quote:

"looked after the house". Approximately how long did these inspection trips last?

A That varied very much, Mr. Prosecutor. These official trips days.

That varied.

looking after the house?

A I do not recall any such case, Mr. Prosecutor. Of course, I

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed Mr. Walton.

BY MR. WALTON:

would you have done with this order?

A Mr. Prosecutor, in such a case, that is an emergency situation contacted him then, too?

A If he was enroute it was very difficult, Mr. Prosecutor, because in his vehicle he did not have a radio instrument to keep up contact with the gruppenstaff but I knew in general where Herr Ohlendorf went to and could always try to reach him and that was a technical possibility. accompanied General Ohlendorf to Prague at one time. Suppose during that time the same emergency had arisen, to whom would you have referred this order for action? It took a long time to get from the Crimea to Prague, and you know they are on their way and you get an order which demands immediate action, to whom would you refer?

A Mr. Prosecutor, in every case, in each and every case, there was one definite way of receiving instructions from Berlin, from the chief of the Security Police himself if any such emergency arose. There was always their radio communication. The distance didn't make any difference. In a short period of time through the radio a decision can be reached from Berlin to the Crimea in a very short time.

and that General Ohlendorf and Seibert were gone? Would Heydrich's decision come back to you over the radio?

A I don't think that the Chief of the Security Police would have

Q No, I don't mean that. We take our same example. Fro purposes of this example General Ohlendorf and Seibert cannot be reached.

You receive an order which demands immediate action.

You acquaint the Chief gruppe D. Now, the question I ask you is this, after the Chief of the is to whom this matter would be referred, come back to you over the radio?

A Mr. Prosecutor, it would not have come to me personally, but it

Q That is the answer that I wanted. If this matter was a matter which concerned Einsatzkommando 10a and Heydrich said, "Refer that to the area where 10a is," you would then have taken Heydrich's answer and referred it to Seetzen, the commander of 10a, would you not?

A In practice it probably would have been different, Mr. Prosecutor, fore they never had to be informed about this.

The kommando chief of 10a was a Standartenfuehrer.

I cannot imagine that any officer in Berlin in

Q All right, we will take another example. Suppose that in the first instance orders came from Berlin, from Heydrich's office, which ward.

Now, both General Ohlendorf and Seibert are away, and they cannot be reached.

This is a matter which you open and you decide and which ions what to do with this order.

Now, I ask you, would instructions come to forward this order to the commanding officers of the various kommandos?

A Mr. Prosecutor, such instructions were never received and theoreti Einsatzgruppe at that time.

Such a situation, however, never arose.

units, would consider himself bound by orders form Heydrich at Berlin?

A That is not what I am trying to say, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q Wouldn't the commander of the 11th Army say, "This is a Security Police order; it means nothing to me.

My commanding general is the only man who can order me to do anything," and he refuses to help, and you various Einsatzkommandos, wouldn't it?

Q All right. I will go back to our same example. Heydrich has gruppe D shall be freed or cleaned of Jews.

General Ohlendorf and Seibert are both away from headquarters.

We will state even this order comes in over the radio marked "Urgent". Would you sit down and inform cannot concern himself with.

I am asking you, would you then dis mandos, the various commanders of the Einsatz and Sonderkommandos?

DR. KOESSL: Your Honor, I object against this question which in practice could not have been practiced at all.

The hypothetical questions from one day to another.

This is so entirely impossible, and entirely

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Koessl, you are indicating that it is im possible, but you weren't with the Einsatzgruppe D. You are arguing factually.

You are not arguing legally or logically now. It is up to the witness whether such a situation is impossible.

How do you know whether it is impossible or not?

DR. KOESSL: Your Honor, the order is the same as the Fuehrer Order had not been carried out completely.

I, therefore, think it is quite

THE PRESIDENT: But, Dr. Koessl, the witness stated that in any given general of the 11th Army.

Now, the witness has stated that. Mr. Walton went one step further and said, which is not impossible, "Suppose the it did not fall within the purview of his activities."

What is impossible about that?

If the commanding general says, "This is not my field; this is a Security Police measure," what is impossible about that?

DR. KOESSL: The order based on this hypothetical question is the is, they are to be executed in that territory.

It only differs from the Fuehrer Order by the word " immediately" and the word " immediately" makes the Fuehrer Order logically impossible.

In practice, therefore, the

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it is not unimaginable. You say that the only change is that the word "immediately" is added.

Well, that is a very important change.

A program may be outlined for a period of time, and then or should be achieved at once, and furthermore, Dr. Koessl, the important know what would happen in the event the commanding general said, "This is not my problem; it is the Einsatzgruppe's problem."

So, let us hear

DR. KOESSL: Yes.

THE WITNESS: May I answer to this now, your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

by me. I could not have decided at all.

Q (By Mr. Walton) Suppose when you handed it back to Berlin you got subunits of Einsatzgruppe D, would you have done so?

A If I had received orders from Berlin to hand on this order?

Q Yes, would you have done so?

mando chiefs and I would not have had to forward it. It would have been

Q. Now you have an order. There is no point in them sending closer to the kommandos than Berlin.

So an officer on the staff of Heydrich radios you personally, "Pass the order on to the five kommandos, of the subunits."

Would you do so?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, here again I would like to point out that it was technically impossible to do so in such a case.

In such a case one radio massage would have been sent to everybody.

That is, all the they are being addressed at the same time over the radio.

In this case

Q. You haven't answered my question yet. I am not talking about the feet that it never happened.

I ask you the simple question if an officer on Heydrich's staff, in view of the fact that General Ohlendorf and Seibert were away, radioed you to pass on Heydrich's order done so?

Now, you can answer that yes or no. You have given your

A. Mr. Prosecutor, If all other possibilities which I have

Q. Thank you very much. Now, when General Ohlendorf was every would you give it?

A. You now talk about the order, if I had received that, the order we just discussed?

Q. Not particularly any order. Suppose that you get an order men, will be paid henceforward on the 28th of the month.

General Ohlendorf is away from his headquarters.

This is a matter which affects the whole Einsatzgruppe from the general on down.

Nobody is in To whom would you give this information?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, in that case I would have made a difference, that it had to be handed on immediately.

Then Ulrich, the administrative who required it.

I would not have been needed for this.

Q. Suppose this request came from Berlin to the effect that the ten days of the month, they have lost the report in Berlin.

To whom would you have handed this matter?

A. May I repeat the question in order to make sure that I understood it correctly?

Berlin gives me an order to inform them how of the Einsatzgruppe, is that right?

Q. That is right. Now, you are in your office and you open the mail and that request is in front of you.

I want to know to whom you would give that letter for action on that request?

A. I would not have been able to hand it on to anyone because it was addressed to the Einsatzgruppe.

Probably I would have submitted

Q. You mean to say that if that order had come down the last until he returns?

A. Of course I would have done something. If Herr Ohlendorf had

Q. That is what I want to know. Now, did General Ohlendorf ever issue any written orders to any of the kommandos?

A. I cannot remember any definite order but already yesterday about the manner of carrying out executions.

Surely there were other instructions, only I don't know whether I could call them orders.

Q. All right. Did he ever issue any written instructions or orders to a particular kommando leader?

A. I cannot say that any more now, Mr. Prosecutor. I cannot

Q. Well, it is possible, isn't it?

A. I cannot exclude that possibility.

Q. Now, you had the responsibility to see that these orders group staff headquarters?

A. For the fact that they were sent off or that they had been conscience because that was my work.

That was the task of the office

Q. Would you keep a copy in the file of this order?

A. Of course.

Q. Now, if the general was away and Seibert was in the head orders, or instructions to a kommando leader?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, If Herr Ohlendorf was absent and Herr

Q. Then he had -

A. And in that capacity he also conducted correspondence with

Q. Can you recall any subjects which he treated in his orders during the time when General Ohlendorf was absent?

A. I cannot remember any definite case, Mr. prosecutor, but I

Q. I am not talking about the reports now. I am talking about communications with the kommandos.

I am not talking about his reports either to the Army or to Berlin.

I am talking about his separate communi cations with the komnmando fuehrers.

Do you recall any subjects which he treated in his instructions or orders to the kommando leaders?

A. Here I cannot remember any definite case at the moment, Mr. Prosecutor.

I really don't know what I could tell you here.

Q. You have answered the question I asked you. Do you remember its location or its base of operations?

A. I do not remember any such order nor do I remember that

Q. Did you ever see any orders or instructions issued by this acting commander which concerned the Jewish question at all?

A. May I ask to have the question again, please? I did not

Q. Did you ever see any orders or instructions issued by Herr Seibert which concerned the Jewish question?

A. Such orders I do not know of.

Q. Did any kommando leader over call at group headquarters when the general was away and Seibert was there?

A. That certainly occurred, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q. With whom did they discuss official business?

A. The kommando chief? With whom?

Q. General Ohlendorf is away and Seibert is there. I asked

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I still don't quite know what you are aiming at.

I think you are trying to ask with whom the kommando chief discussed

Q. That is right.

A. These kommando chiefs in such case discussed the affairs

Q. When both the General and Seibert was present in staff there request to see the general?

A. The kommando chief, of course, could ask me to report him

Q. Who made the decision that the matter upon which he came was important enough to be discussed with the general?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I don't know any case where there might not be led to him.

He certainly came to him and then discussed his

Q. If such a matter did not need the general's decision, if he didn't particularly want to see the general, he wanted to see anybody the adjutant?

A. If it was part of my task he could have talked to me. For

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, just a moment, please. We didn't quite get that word, Miss Juelich, if he wanted to have a "term". I don't understand a "term".

DR. HOFFMANN: That means the English word -- it is the German word "termin"

INTERPRETER JUELICH: I am told it is "appointment, " not "term."

I said "term." I meant to say "appointment".

DR. HOFFMANN: It is the German "termin" "appointment".

MR. WALTON: An "appointment", Sir, an "appointment" with General

THE PRESIDENT: I see. Thank you.

(By Mr. Walton) I have been informed that one duty of an adjutant, wanted or frivolous visitors.

Now, you were such an adjutant in Berlin for second time.

Wouldn't some of your duties, at least in Berlin include chief?

A. Of course, Mr. Prosecutor. The person who asked for such an he wanted to discuss with him.

I had to tell Herr Ohlendorf this.

Q. Now, did you perform the same service for General Ohlendorf when you were sitting outside his office in the Einsatzgruppe staff?

A. You mean in my former work?

Q. I thought your previous answer referred to the time when you sat in his anti-room in Berlin.

Now my next question, did you inquire when a to see him about such and such a subject?

A. Of course, Mr. Prosecutor, I did that.

Q. Now, after you talked to this man, and you found out that even Ohlendorf was rather a busy man that this matter did not need the General's decision, to whom would this visitor be referred by you?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, in no case could I have decided, or overlooked whether the visit was so important or so unimportant that I could have stopped the visitor from seeing H err Ohlendorf. I think I never had that right and I think I never used any such authority.

Q. Well, let's take one other example. Here is a man that arrives hot foot with what he considers a very important matter concerning the morale of the Russian population. Now you a re sitting there and he says I want to tell this to someone who can handle it. I think I can improve the morale of the opoulation. You know that, according, at least, to Seibert's testimony here, he took care of those matters as Chief of Department III. You know that General Ohlendorf is extremely busy, Wouldn't you have the right to say, "Look, maybe that's not a matter which you need to worry the General with. Seibert's taking care of this in these headquarters. Suppose I make an appointment with him for you?' Could you have told him that?

A. No, Mr. Prosecutor. I would have done something else.

DR. GAWLIK (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANTS NAUMAN AND SEIBERT): Your Honor, I object, Your Honor, I object to this question. I consider this question irrelevant, because I think the subject of this trial is not to get reports on morale. Making reports on morale among the opoulation, I cannot consider that a punishable act and therefore it does not matter what would have been done in such a case.

THE PRESIDENT: Did you hear the witness* reply? Did you hear the witness' reply?

DR. GAWLIK: Yes, I heard it.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, did it hurt your case any?

DR. GAWLIK: I only heard the first few words, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: That's because you were doing a very rapid race.

DR. GAWLIK: What I wanted to say was I believe that in that manner that contact is to be made with the prosecution with the subject of Jewish executions. If the prosecutor refers the question to the subject which is the with this at all.

That is why it is irrelevant to whom the visitors would have

THE PRESIDENT: Well, haven't many of the defendants testified that they were concerned about submitting reports of the morale of the population?

Haven't several of the defendants and hasn't your own defendant testified to that -- your own client?

DR. GAWLIK: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, now, listen, Dr. Gawlik. Dr. Gawlik, if you reflect on just what happened here, won't you conclude that Mr. Walton help you generally?

Wasn't he sort of confirming what you have been insisting morale in the population?

DR. GAWLIK: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Walton in this instance was really helping you, wasn't he?

DR. GAWLIK: Yes, that's why I consider this question irrelevant.

THE PRESIDENT: That's right. You should consider it very good.

DR. GAWLIK: That is not the point, Your Honor, in the trial it depends

THE PRESIDENT: Well, now, listen, Dr. Gawlik. Do you regard the which a certain Einsatzkommando is operating important?

Do you regard that important?

DR. GAWLIK: For the work of the Einsatzgruppe, yes, but from a legal

THE PRESIDENT: Do you want to exclude then everything that your client said about that?

DR. GAWLIK: No, not at all, Your Honor, not at all.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, then, that is one of your defenses, isn't it?

DR. GAWLIK: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, and Mr. Walton was talking about that very thing,

DR. GAWLIK: That is just why this is irrelevant. It has already been clarified.

I do not see the purpose of the question.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you object to its being corroborated and helping your client a little bit?

DR. GAWLIK: In this case during the questioning of this witness, it is irrelevant.

I consider this question in this particular case concerning

THE PRESIDENT: Was it irrelevant when your client spoke about it?

DR. GAWLIK: Not in this case, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Then, why is it irrelevant now? It is still the same

DR. GAWLIK: I said, Your Honor, this is accumulative proof claimed

THE PRESIDENT: Well, then do we understand you, Dr. Gawlik, that you don't want another word said in this trial which my help your client a little bit more ?

DR. GAWLIK: I do not start from the assumption that questions by the

THE PRESIDENT: No, but if accidentally he helps you, you don't have any quarrel with Mr. Walton, do you, about that?

Dr. GAWLIK: If the Tribunal holds the opinion that the answering

MR. WALTON: In order that I might have Dr. Gawlik feel a little better, I'll repeat my first general question, since we have given an Q. (By Mr. Walton) If the kommando leader or a visitor came to upon yourself to refer him to the man who could help him certainly more quickly than the General could?

perhaps Dr. Gawlik won't object to that form of the question.

THE PRESIDENT: I think upon reconsideration now, he didn't object to the former question.

MR. WALTON: All right, Sir.

A. If a visitor had come, Mr. Walton, in every case I would have informed Herr Ohlendorf who was there what he wanted to discuss and then Herr Ohlendorf could have told me, "I have not time. Take the man to Herr Seibert, to Herr Ulrich," or to any other man. That would have depended on what the man wanted to discuss, but in every case I would have asked Herr Ohlendorf first. I would have told him about this man, even in the danger of being thrown out by Herr Ohlendorf myself. He wouldn't have done that at all, but I would not have assumed the authority and not let him see him on my own authority.

Q. Suppose General Ohlendorf arrived at his headquarters early that morning and he said, "Schubert, you are like St. Peter, standing outside the gates of heaven keeping them safe against the world. I am very busy this morning. I don't want to be disturbed. I have a lot of important things to do." Just about the time General Ohlendorf gets seated at his desk and deep in work, here comes a visitor. He wants to see General Ohlendorf. You question him about the nature of his business and you find out it is not quite as important as he thought it was and furthermore other people could handle the matter beside General Ohlendorf. Would you still go in, in spite of what General Ohelndorf said and disturb him and ask him if he wants to see this visitor or would you refer him to the one he wants to see?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, if I received these definite instructions to stop seeing visitors from seeing Herr Ohlendorf, I would have taken the man to Herr Seibert and said "This man really wants to see the boss, but the Chief has said he does not want to be disturbed and he is busy, would you please deal with the man." That would be the next best thing to do.

there was an unfortunate choice of language by Mr. Wartenberg used in your reference to Mr. Seibert and that you meant to say that Mr. staff.

Now, that is correct, is it not?

A I did not hear I am sorry. -- I think it is all right now.

INTERPRETER: Would you repeat the question, please?

Q (By Mr. Walton) Yes, in your direct testimony yesterday, I which Mr. Wartenberg put in your affidavit; that what you meant to say was that Mr. Seibert was deputy for the Group Staff and not just Deputy of General Ohlendorf.

Did you make that statement yesterday, or words to that effect?

A Yes. Mr. Prosecutors I said that Herr Seibert was the Deputy affidavits while you were at Oberoesel?

D down through the kommando level?

A I don't remember any details, just now, but I did discuss it.

I was asked about it; What were the functions of the various officers?

That is 18 months ago. Now, I don't remember the details.

it appeared on such an affidavit, wouldn't you?

A Of course, Mr. Prosecutor.

MR. WALTON: Page, will you hand this to him?

(By Mr. Walton)

A That is my signature, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q And what date is given on that document?

Q December 1945? You were at Oberoesel at that time?

Q Now, what is that document, Witness?

A May I look at it first?

Q Certainly. Certainly.

Q And that is an affidavit on that subject by yourself?

Q What title did you give the Defendant Seibert? What's on that affidavit as Seibert's title?

A It says here as title of Herr Seibert, "Permanent Deputy."

Q "Permanent Deputy"?

Q So 18 months apart you call Herr Seibert "the permanent deputy of General Ohlendorf" and yesterday you said that you didn't mean to say that, but you meant to say a deputy in the staff.

Now that is twice that you have called him "the permanent deputy."

Why did you change from your affidavit yesterday?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I did not think of this affidavit and this wording "permanent deputy" which I had used before.

I didn't think of because this wording, "permanent deputy" in my opinion can only refer to

Q The way you have got it written up there it means "permanent Deputy," for all questions. You didn't specify that he was permanent deputy for the staff. You didn't specify that he was permanent deputy for economic questions. You just said the all-inclusive term,"personal deputy". Why didn't you make that addition to that paper?

A Mr. Prosecutor, because at the time I did not know that possibly this statement might be misunderstood. If I had known that and if I had had the opportunity to explain it in more detail, I could not have explained it any differently at the time than I could have done yesterday here.

MR. WALTON: Page, will you return the copy? is being prepared for introduction into evidence. In view of the fact that there was no force here that purpose during the holidays, I am forced to be a little late. I trust that I shall offer this into evidence before the close of the cross-examination and certainly before the close of the day. I would like to reserve the right to introduce it formally into evidence at a later time.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you have a copy that you can hand to Dr. Koessl so that he can be informed of its contents?

MR. WALTON: I am sorry, Sir. That will come down with the others. I have only the copy which is my own. I have a copy, but not that I can serve on him.

THE PRESIDENT: Why not let him look at it even now.

Q (By Mr. Walton) Can you remember any orders given by Seibert that resulted in the execution of a person or persons?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I do not know of any such orders.

Q Could he have given such orders unknown to you? done without my knowledge.

Q The possibility exists, though, doesn't it?

THE PRESIDENT: I don't think that's a fair question. He says he doesn't know. He can't say what Seibert could have done. Seibert could have done anything and he could have done nothing.

MR. WALTON: I withdraw the question, Your Honor.

Q (By Mr. Walton) Was it known ahead of time in Group Headquarters that an execution was scheduled for a future time?

A I don't quite understand that question. I don't quite get the sense. May I have it again, please? later or a day later an execution was scheduled to take place at a certain time and on a certain location?

A Whether it was known in the Einsatzgruppe? May I remind you of the example I gave you yesterday? But on the whole, the Einsatzgruppe only heard about executions after they had been carried out and they heard this from the kommando; in this particular case which I mentioned yesterday there were special circumstances and therefore it had been known before.

Q Now, here's the question that I should like you to answer: Was such information of general knowledge to the staff or was this information restricted to only certain ones of the staff? one case I mentioned.

Q Either one. What I had in mind was when advance information about an execution came into Staff Headquarters, I would like to know whether such information was known to everyone in the staff or only to the particular persons in the staff.

A Mr. Prosecutor, this question I cannot answer. I never heard what might have been known. I don't know whether everyone in the staff heard about.

Q Well, I'll amend the question. Was such information known by all the officers in the staff, the SS officers, or was it known only to General Ohlendorf and yourself? except for the example in Simferopol, which I mentioned myself yesterday, I do not know any definite case where the Einsatzgruppe was informed beforehand of an execution. I really cannot say if such a case had occurred who, apart from Herr Ohlendorf, would have heard of it. Unforunately, I am not able to do this.

Q I think you have answered the question. You have in effect said that as a general thing you only know of executions after they happened. However, if anyone would have known of their scheduled time the likelihood is that if General Ohlendorf knew and certainly a very few other people, possibly Ohlendorf himself alone, is that what you mean to say?

A Mr. Prosecutor, theoretically the possibility exists that others apart from Herr Ohlendorf heard about it. For example, it is imaginable that in this case Herr Ohlendorf informed one of the officers on the staff to inspect, but it is merely an assumption, a theoretical assumption. I don't know any definite case except the case I described yesterday.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, do you think this might be a suitable time at which to have a recess?

MR. WALTON: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess fifteen minutes.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will be in recess for fifteen minutes.

(recess)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. LUMMERT: Dr. Lummert for the defendant Blume. Your Honor, I ask the defendant Blume be excused from the session this afternoon and tomorrow morning so that he can prepare his documents.

THE PRESIDENT: In accordance with the request of counsel, the defendant Blume will be excused from attendance in Court this afternoon and tomorrow morning.

BY MR. WALTON:

Q Mr. Schubert, when General Ohlendorf ordered you to make the inspection of the execution which you saw in the neighborhood of Simferopol you did not think it was an unusual occasion to receive such an order from him, did you?

A Well, I may correct this first of all. Herr Ohlendorf did not give me the order to carry out inspections of executions as it was translated but he gave me one specific order of one inspection and that I could have thought it funny I don't understand that at all.

MR. WALTON: The translation came through "funny".

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I think that is used in the sense of strange.

MR. WALTON: Well, my question to him was that when he received this order from General Ohlendorf he didn't think it was a particularly unusual occurrence and I didn't quite understand his answer. If the Tribunal is satisfied

THE PRESIDENT: No, you may put the question again. BY MR. WALTON:

Q Mr. Schubert, did you think that General Ohlendorf's order to you about this execution was an unusual one?

Q Did it occur to you why you were selected to watch this execution?

A That wasn't very difficult for me, Mr. Prosecutor. There wasn't any one else there at that time. All the other people were occupied in carrying out the execution and Herr Ohlendorf had no other choice but to give the order to me. sometimes were the personal representative of General Ohlendorf, weren't you?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I would like to draw a clear distinction here between the purely legalistic term deputy and the fact that anyone whom Herr Ohlendorf sent anywhere is sort of a delegate or representative. One can call it a deputy but it is not the same.

Q I don't know what the German word was but certainly for this one that is true, isn't it?

A I didn't consider myself as such. I got an order from Mr. Ohlen dorf.

I carried out this order but I never was the personal representa

Q Now, witness, I don't wish to argue with you but you remarked that execution as General Ohlendorf's representative.

Now my next question

A I am sorry, but I cannot agree with you. I am of a different opinion.

I was not the representative of Ohlendorf the way you under stand it.

I was sent out to carry an order and I did so and I cannot explain it any other way.

Furthermore, and I would like to mention That's why I got it and otherwise I wouldn't have gotten this order.

Q We will return to this question in a minute. Did you ever carry out any orders given to you by Seibert?

business of the group?

A I don't know what you mean - general business of the group. I can't quite comprehend it.

Do you mean the orderly room?

Q No. Did these orders ever affect these orders of Seibert ever affect the group as a whole?

A Certainly not the entire group. They could have only affected happened every day in the staff?

A I don't know any such orders.

Q Did any of Seibert's orders ever concern security questions?

office, or what?

Q I mean the security -- Well, either one. Answer them both. Did they ever concern security measures of the office?

A There were no such orders. I don't know of any such orders.

Einsatzgruppe D?

A I don't know of any such orders either.

Q Did they ever concern security questions of the group staff?

A I think that question was put once before. I cannot imagine anything by this and I don't know any such orders.

I don't know

Q The answer then is you don't know of any such orders. Did they ever concern executive measures to be taken?

different times?

Q All right. Now then let's turn to Document Book I, page 108 in the English text, 141 in the German text.

It is your affidavit again, Document NO-3055 and is Prosecution Exhibit 28.

Will you indicate of General Ohlendorf to be his official witness at this execution.

Is that right?

That's paragraph 4, Your Honors.

A Mr. Prosecutor, I didn't leave Simferopol for this occasion. It says here I went into the Gypsy quarter of the city - that is within the city. headquarters for there? Kommando 11-B on the way to the Gypsy quarter?

A No. I had no order to do so. from your own office, is that correct? your headquarters? thing you saw was that German personnel were engaged in loading these people on trucks, is that correct? ing at this place. That is what I had to inspect. There was a roll call and then in certain intervals they were transported away from there by trucks. I was to supervise this incident.

Q Did you get there in time?

A May I say something more. It was translated "supervise". My whole struggle is to make that clear. I apologize, but it should be: "to look at". I was to look at it. loading site what was the first thing you saw - what was the first thing that caught your eye. Now you have answered that question and I accept your amendment that the first thing you saw was the roll call being taken, that is correct, is it not?

ed there, that is the first thing I saw. Then there were some trucks there. There were guards and I also saw how people were loaded on trucks and how the trucks left.

Q Were you there when the first truck was loaded with these people?

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, did I understand you to say that he said there was a roll call.

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, I suppose we must check back with the court stenographer.

THE PRESIDENT: Well in his enumeration now of the things which he saw the roll call was not mentioned. BY MR. WALTON:

Q I will ask the question again. Was there a roll call taken of these people gathered at this loading site before they climbed on the trucks?

A I said that these people's names were read off. Well, that's a roll call. I don't know whether you call it such but it was a control which was carried out. it in the negative - were you there when the first truck was loaded? Did I understand you to say you were not?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I knew that some transports had already left this place and what I saw was not the beginning of it. I came in the middle of it.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, do you know who made up the list which was being read?

A I cannot say, Your Honor, I don't know. BY MR. WALTON:

Q Now, Mr. Schubert, about how many German personnel were engaged in loading these people on these trucks? too high but approximately 20.

Q Was Dr. Braune there when you got there?

A No, I didn't see Dr. Braune on that day at all, When I returned from this order to the Group Staff I saw Dr. Braune again because Kommando 11-B was in the same building with us. yesterday in your direct examination who was in charge of this operation?

of Kommando 11-B. SS Hauptsturmfuehrers were present. What were their names if you know?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I am not sure whether I wouldn't give a wrong name. I thought that one of these captains was Captain Gabel, commanding officer of the Police Company, but it is possible that I am wrong and that it might have been his successor, the name of whom I don't recall. I don't remember this fact so exactly that I could take it upon my conscience to say Gabel or someone else. Perhaps both of them were there but I cannot say with certainty. Hauptsturmfuehrer? of Kommando 10-A which had been in Simferopol from the beginning and later was subordinated to Kommando 11-B but unfortunately I cannot give you the name of this man. I don't remember. present at the loading site when you got there?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor -was present during the loading phase while you were there? lieutenant of the police and there was another SS-first lieutenant and I think those were the two officers who were present at that place.

Q Now, Mr. Schubert, was there an officer in charge of these enlisted men who were loading these people on the truck? there, at that moment, in any case they were under command of the 1st lieutenant of the Police Company.

people to the execution site?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I cannot tell you exactly. I didn't see all the trucks at Once.

But I recall the fact that the Army furnished us g hundred people in the trucks and get them away from the loading site?

Approximately hour long, how much time did it take?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I cannot tell you this from my own knowledge. I wasn't there during the entire time of the transportation.

I was left this place.

These vehicles were sent off in intervals. I can not say how long a time the entire loading process took.

I can merely truck?

A I cannot even answer that question. I merely saw trucks that left the place and I can't say whether a truck that had returned was carrying a load.

I can't really say.

the truck toke off from the time it was empty until it was filled?

A I have no possibility of estimating. You can do it quickly Or you can do it slowly.

I don't know how long it takes until you have read go.

It all depends how the these things are carried out.

Q Were these Gypsy transported in open trucks or closed trucks?

Q How many guards were on each truck besides the driver?

there was an assistant driver. This was customary in the Army and

Q Was he armed?

Q What arms did he carry?

A Certainly that varied. He might have carried a pistol, he might

Q Did these Gypsies enter these trucks Willingly?

A I don't think that they went there gladly in any case.

Q I don't mean that - did these guards have to force them up the up the ramp and into the truck?

their own power, in that right?

THE PRESIDENT: Did the Gypsies know at that time what was going to happen?

A I don't think so, Your Honor, at that point they didn't.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, when you remarked that they didn't do it gladly

A No, Your Honor, their fate was not quite certain. It was uncertain and I meant to express this uncertainty.

They knew some change was to BY MR. WALTON: Witness, how long did you personally remain at this loading site in the Gypsy quarter?

A. In any case I was not there longer than twenty minutes.

It was sufficient for me to stay there a short time

Q. Now, Mr. Schubert, you said when you first left

A. I drove, Mr. Prosecutor, but I needed five minutes

Q. Oh, a five-minute drive in an automobile?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. Well then, you probably have answered my next question.

I presume you went in your own car from the loading site.

You had your own transportation between these two Places, did you not?

A. I had a car of the office. One was assigned to me for that occasion.

I used it.

Q. Now, did your take the same route that the trucks execution site?

A. I cannot tell you definitely because I didn't road.

There was no other possibility.

Q. Do you know whether or not these people created Execution site?

A. I know nothing about that, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q. On the arrival of the trucks at the execution site, who placed these people in the anti-tank ditch?

A. Those were members of this execution kommando who had been ordered to carry out the execution.

They were mem formation, SD, or state police men of Einsatzgruppe D.

Q. What was the rank of the man in charge of the execution kommando?

A. That was Sturmbannfuehrer Schulz.

Q. And it was at his command that these people Were placed in the anti-tank ditch, is that right?

A. Well, he certainly didn't order it again and again in every case, out he distributed the men under his command for definite jobs and these officers and men then carried out those jobs.

Q. Now, this execution squad, I believe you state in your affidavit, were armed with automatic weapons and rifles, is that right?

A. They were armed with rifles and partly With machine pistols, yes. I don't know whether I said in the affidavit - yes, yes, so it says here.

Q. Now, was each truckload of these gypsies executed on arrival?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I myself saw only one such transport out I may assume that every preceding and further transport took place in the same way as the one that I Saw.

Q. Did you, on arrival at the execution site, get out of your car, walk over to the anti-tank ditch and look in it?

A. Later, out first of all I stopped at the road and saw something different which took place there, namely the way they were unloaded and the way the valuables were registered.

Q. We will come back to the valuables in just a moment. You stated that you saw these people unloaded. Was there any disorder among the truckload of people when they were ordered to get out of the truck at the execution site?

A. No.

Q. Did they make any verbal protest, was there any shouting?

A. No.

Q. When they reached the ground my understanding is that then they were relieved of their money and valuables, is that correct?

A. As far as the people complied with the order to give up their valuables, yes, these things were collected, but they were not forced to give up anything.

Q. Was their outer clothing collected at this time, overcoats and shoes?

A. I know nothing about shoes, out coats were also taken away, overcoats.

Q. Was their suit or their outer clothing, besides clothing -- in other words, witness, were they stripped down to their underwear?

A. No, Mr. Prosecutor, no more than their overcoats or furs were taken away, otherwise nothing.

Q. Now long after they were relieved of their valuables and their outer clothing or their overcoats before they were ordered to the anti-tank ditch, how much time elapsed?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, this period of time was very brief, and I would say that it wasn't even five minutes.

Q. How were these gypsies placed in the tank-ditch, were they kneeling or were they standing or were they lying down?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I have to draw your attention to an unfortunate phrase in the affidavit. There it also says, "in the anti-tank ditch", under No. 6. I must have overlooked this when I signed it. In any case, it isn't correct. The people that were to be shot were standing at the edge of this anti-tank ditch and were shot there.

Q. Did they face the execution squad or were they shot in the back?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, they were lined up with their faces turned away. During the execution which I witnessed myself it happened that some of the people to De shot on their own turned their faces towards the execution kommando and had themselves shot this way in a very courageous way.

Q. Mr. Schubert, I believe you testified that General Ohlendorf wanted these people executed in the most humane manner possible. I now ask you were mercy shots administered to those who were not killed instantly?

A. I did not witness, or I was not able to witness such a procedure. The execution which I saw, or during this execution I did not see that such mercy shots had to be fired. The persons were dead.

Q. Now, after these people were shot, did you walk over and view the anti-tank ditch, the bottom of the antitank ditch?

A. I saw this anti-tank ditch, yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, your question presupposes that as they were shot they fell into the ditch.

MR. WALTON: He said so, your Honor, they were shot on the edge.

THE PRESIDENT: On the edge, out develop then that they actually fell into the ditch.

MR. WALTON: I am sorry. I reached that conclusion.

Q. (By Mr. Walton). I believe you testified a few moments ago that these people were lined up on the edge of this anti-tank ditch and they were facing away from the execution squad. Some of them turned and were shot then. Now, where did the bodies fall after they were shot?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, these bodies dripped into this ditch.

Q. Now then, the question which I asked you was, did you ever view this anti-tank ditch or did you yourself ever stand and look down into the anti-tank ditch after these executions were performed?

A. In this case, yes, I did.

Q. Did you see whether or not any of the people lying there moved or seemed to be still alive?

A. No, Mr. Prosecutor, I didn't See that.

Q. It would have been apparent to you when you stood there on the edge of that ditch if someone had moved, would it not?

A. Oh, yes, certainly.

Q. Well, your inspection confirmed the fact to you that these people were dead in that ditch; everyone was killed outright; there was no one allowed to suffer, is that correct?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I had no cause to believe that such a thing happened.

Q. Now, Mr. Schubert, whose task was it to bury these people?

A. I did not witness that procedure out according to what I heard about it, members of the execution kommando had to fill in this anti-tank ditch with earth after the execution.

Q. Now, let's go back to the money, valuables-

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, while you are on that subject, before you proceed to the next one, would you find Out if anyone was assigned to determine that desth had been instantaneous, that the victims prior to being buried were actually dead?

MR. WALTON: Yes, sir.

Q. (By Mr. Walton). Mr. Schubert, did you know whether or not the staff phusician was present, Dr. Schnapwagner, was he present at this execution?

A. Not at my time, no. Whether he was there otherwise I cannot say.

officer or enlisted man had the task to determine whether those people lying on the bottom of that ditch were dead?

A Yes, Mr. Prosecutor, this was the job of the Officer in charge of the execution squad. attached to Einsatzgruppe D? because there were several execution squads who relieved each other. BY THE PRESIDENT: executees were dead, did he get down into the ditch or merely view from above? ditch, but certainly he convinced himself whether these people were actually dead according to his conviction. It was only a matter of determining whether a person actually was not killed and thus was still moving in order to giv e him a coup de grace then.

Q How big was the ditch? that a person was alive and yet seemed dead, wasn't it? of the manner in which the execution was carried out, that is, it was fired from a relatively short distance of five to six meters, and thus the result could only be fatal; it was a matter of course for the officer that if the man who had shot had really hit the person to be executed, that person was really dead.

aimed badly and as a result the victim received only a shock, he could have been knocked unconscious with the bullet but not yet actually be dead so that to the casual observer he would seem to be dead but in fact his heart was still beating?

DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued) BY MR. WALTON:

Q Now, Mr. Schubert, coming back to the point where the money and the valuables and the outer clothing were collected from these people, was an officer or an enlisted men in charge of this detail? officer who supervised these matters at the place.

Q Do you know his name?

Q Now, you say this was in December, 1941. The weather was quite cold, wasn't it?

A Mr. Prosecutor, in the Crimea it never really gets cold as far as our concept of cold is concerned, but I do recall that the temperature was a few degrees above zero at that time. (That is probably Centigrade.)

THE PRESIDENT: Just one more question please, on the matter of the execution. Did the executors aim at the head, was that the vital point, the back of the head, or at a point in the back that the bullet would penetrate through to the heart?

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, I merely saw that the people aimed at the head. Q (By Mr. Walton) Mr. Schubert, how soon after the Einsatzgruppe D for transshipment to Berlin?

exclusively valuables. Certainly they got there on the same reached Einsatzgruppe D headquarters?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, I merely know that the Einsatz transshipment to Berlin?

Q His name was Ulrich?

valuables?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor. As far as I know they only were keep away unauthorized persons out at the execution site?

A I can't really estimate that, but I would say that places were people walked and drove

A This entire terrain, Mr. Prosecutor, was bordered on one side by the road from Simferopol to Karasubasar. That was really the only road. Beyond that there were same field paths which branched off and which had to be blocked off. The traffic was re-routed via another road quite a distance away from this place. did you visit these guard posts to see that these approaches were blocked off? off guards. I don't think I missed any one of them. were they not? Einsatzkommando llb?

A I cannot exclude this possibility, but I don't know with certainty. I don't remember the various individuals.

Q I don't mean that, but they were not exclusively the police company?

A Certainly not, Mr. Prosecutor. There were also members of the field police which had been furnished by the Army.

Q Now, Was Dr. Braune at the Site of this execution at any time you were there?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor. the site Of the execution? the way back to the building of the group staff I passed by a large number of guards that were blocking off the area before I actually returned to headquarters.

see how near finished this action was? shortly to see whether things had been completed there or if they hadn't, that things were carried out according to orders there.

Q All right. Then you left the execution Site and you proceeded past this road block on your way book to view once more the number of people still to be executed, still to be loaded on to trucks, was that your action? were any persons left there to be loaded, and when I saw that there were some more I watched them for a short time in order to be certain that these matters were carried out as ordered.

Q What I want is the answer to my question. You left the actual execution site, drove in your car by the roadblock, and then went on to the loading site again. That is the action you took after you saw these fifteen or twenty people shot?

A Yes, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q Yes. Now then, Mr. Schubert, after you had determined that the loading was still going on properly, where did you go When you left the loading site for the second time? arrival?

Page 4,691

Q Was Seibert there?

A Herr Seibert was not there at all. He was on furlough.

Q He hadn't come in as yet? did you report to General Ohlendorf? think I can say with certainty that I saw him the day during the late afternoon and talked to him. Ohlendorf orally, or did you make a written report? talked about or discuss the facts of this execution with Seibert on his return shortly after? I discussed with Herr Ohlendorf, yes. As far as Seibert is concerned I don't think I spoke to him about them not even after he returned.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, it is twelve-thirty. Would you want to suspend?

MR. WALTON: Yes.

DR. WISMANN: Dr. Wismann, assistant for Dr. Schwarz for the defendant Joost.

Your Honor, Mr. Barr of the interrogation branch has expressed the desire to have the defendant Joost excused this afternoon - or rather to interrogate the defendant Joost in the presence of the defense this afternoon. Therefore, I would ask the Tribunal to excuse the defendant Joost from this afternoon's session and to see to it that he be sent to Room 57 until three o'Clock.

THE PRESIDENT: In accordance with the request made, o'clock this afternoon.

The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:45.

(A recess was taken until 1345 hours.)

( The hearing reconvened at 1345 hours, 6 January 1948. )

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in Session.

Dr. ULMER (Attorney for the Defendant SIX):

THE PRESIDENT: In room 55?

DR. ULMER: Tomorrow I would like to have the Defendant

THE PRESIDENT: I understood it was Room 57 in which

DR. ULMER: 57 is the entrance and 55 is the room

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. The Defendant Six will be BY MR. WALTON:

Q. Mr. Schubert, I was particularly interested in stated that there was no disorder.

Also in answer to the President's question, if my memory is correct, you stated was in store for them.

Am I correct so far?

A. May I have the last sentence again, please?

Q. Certainly. I believe you stated in answer to a not know at that time what their ultimate fate would be.

Am I correct in that?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I replied to your question, whether of these people and I replied to this, "no". The president that they were going to be shot.

To this question I re plied "no" again, because at that time the people did not yet know the end.

I saw no disorder, therefore.

Q. Did these people hold any conversations with their around?

A. It certainly happened that various people talked

Q. And no one of the German personnel told them at the loading site where they were going, did they?

A. Where they were going to be sent to, they were not

Q. Now, was there any disorder that you could see when the trucks arrived at the execution site?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, in order to be quite correct here occurred, this never happened.

Of course, when the people

Q. Was there any weeping and lamentation among the women and children?

A. During my time I saw neither women nor children, really came about, no real disorder.

I would like to say, how calm it was.

It was almost too calm. It was frightening

Q. None of these men attempted to escape by leaping to the ground and running when they were unloaded, did they?

A. I did not see anything of the kind, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q. Now, was it known to you the reason why these people were being executed?

A. I did not know why the individuals were being ex ecuted.

It is possible that there were persons among them

Q. Did you ever see a written report on this total of business which came from Kommando 11 B?

A. No, Mr, Prosecutor. I would like to point out something here, if I may.

Today you only talked about gypsies, I think.

In my affidavit I said, or, rather, Mr. Wartenberg worded it, "Russians and Jews who" -- originally it said "member of other nationalities."

This wording seemed rather general to me and I asked Mr. Wartenberg to replace by "Russians and Jews" but surely there were gypsies among them as well.

perhaps even the majority of them.

Q. Then the change should be instead of "gypsies", "Russians, Jews, and Gypsies"?

A. One could add there "gypsies". That would make it quite correct.

Q. Do you know whether or not this instance ever appeared in one of Seibert's reprts to Berlin?

A. I do not remember it and consider it quite impossible.

Q Well, weren't executions reported to Berlin? period.

Q Yes, but you misunderstood my question. Did you ever see a written report of this total of 700 to 800 Russians, Jews, and Gypsies?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q And you don't know of your own knowledge whether this same total was included in one of Seibert's reports or not? I cannot say that any more. the total number of executions performed for the month of December, wasn't it? That is quite possible. that same day you met Dr. Braune in the building in which the Head_ quarters of Einsatzgruppe D was and also the Headquarters of Einsatzkommando 11B were.

Q Did you have any discussion with Dr. Braune about this matter?

A I do not remember any definite discussions, Mr. Prosecutor. I believe that I remember correctly that I saw Dr. Braune during a discussion with Mr. Ohlendorf.

Q Did he make any comments on your report to General Ohlendorf?

Q He listened to what you had to say, though?

A Mr. Prosecutor, however hard I try, I cannot tell you whether Dr. Braune, when I described the events I had seen to Herr Ohlendorf, whether he was present then or whether I saw him after I had reported to Herr Ohlendorf. I cannot tell you that now. he make?

much to be said about it. I think the attitude of my chief at the time me to him, inasfar as no objections could be raised.

These things

Q Did he tell you that you had done a good job?

A He did not prasie me at all. Mr. Prosecutor. He did not tell , me anything else either, that he was satisfied with me.

Mr. Prosecutor.

Q Now, Mr. Schubert, let's turn to Document Book III-D, on page 1, both in the German and the English, Exhibit 148.

Now I direct your partiu German text.

Indicate when you have found your place.

did they not?

A I believe, Mr. Prosecutor, you are referring to the explanation which starts "The former Obersturmfuhrer Heinz Schubert."

Q Now I ask you, didn't your duties include the distribution of official mail when you received it?

Q Did you open all official mail?

A I certainly cannot say, " all of it," Mr. Prosecutor, but I to see what it contained so that you would know to what person it would have to be delivered for the necessary action?

or, if he was absent, it was given to his deputy in the staff, Herr Seibert. Department III matters? because Herr Seibert was in charge of the entire reporting to the Army as well. I cannot limit this to his work as Chief III. Certainly. he also received other reports. absent, this official mail went to the desk of Mr. Seibert for action. Did this mail include orders from the RSHA in Berlin?

Q Did it also include orders from the 11th Army?

Q Now did Mr. Seibert over transmit these orders from either two sources to the kommandos?

A I know nothing about that, Mr. Prosecutor. I don't know any specific case. according to this affidavit, which is now before you of General Ohlendorf, you took care of the registery so that I assume from this affidavit and from other facts you have testified to that you registered outgoing mail as well as incoming mail, am I not correct in that assumption?

A Yes, Mr. Prosecutor. ion of at least a short or a sentence description of what the contents were and where it was going?

A Mr. Prosecutor, the outgoing mail in the office was dealt with in the some manner as the incoming mail, which was entered in the mail diary in form ofa brief summary, but now after more than six years I am

Q No, I didn't ask you for a specific case. What I want to know desk of Mr. Seibert, if Mr. Seibert took action or if it was necessary of command, wouldn't he forward those letters and wouldn't you register the outgoing mail forwarding those orders to the kommando?

DR. GAWLIK (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANTS NAUMAN AND SEIBERT): Your Honor, I,object to this question.

The witness has already answered to the question, that he does not know.

The witness has no sufficient knowledge on this.

Anything he might say now would be assumptions, or he would just gess.

If the witness does not know, he cannot answer

THE PRESIDENT: Of course, and "I don't know answer" does not exclude inquiry and probing.

That is the purpose of cross-examination.

one could close the door on cross-examination by merely saying, "I don't know."

The cross-examiner has the right to quizz to determine if ible in order to ascertain whether the defendant's answer of ignorance

DR. GAWLIK: Yes, I realize that, Your Honor. In that case the evidence, but he is only repeating his question.

It is the same question he has already put and the witness has answered, "I don't know."

THE PRESIDENT: That is what Mr. Walton is trying to do, I presume.

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, shall I refresh your memory. The answer he could remember no specific instances.

My following question was office.

I am not interested in knowing what these orders to these kommandos contained or the details of it. I merely asked this witness and I think I am entitled to an answer.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, put the specific question now and Dr. Gawlik will have the opportunity to object, Witness, please do not answer this question until you observe whether Dr. Gawlik wishes to interpose an objection.

MR. WALTON: When this official mail from either Berlin or from the 11th Army contained a matter which should be brought to the attention of one or more sub-units, would Mr. Seibert dispatch the contents of this order, or his own directive, or some comment, to one or more of the commandos?

DR. GAWLIK: Your Honor, I object to the question because it is hypothetical. If he asked whether the witness know of some incidents of some case,dependent on the defendant Seibert, to that I have no objection, but whether he would have done it, for that the defendant Seibert can not be punished for what he thought he might have done or for what he would have done, but what he had done in fact. If the witness testified to what the defendant Seibert did do in somecases, or what he dispatched in some case, I have no objection that question.

THE PRESIDENT: The present defendant, the witness involved, occupied the same office as did the defendant Seibert, soo therefore----

THE INTERPRETER: Will you please repeat that, Your Honor.

THE PREISDENT: The witness was in the same office with Seibert, so, therefore, it is not unreasonable to ask him what Seibert did. Now whether the witness actually knows what Seibert did, or not, is only within his knowledge, and the only way he can find out as to put the question to him, and if he knows then he will tell us. If he does not know naturally he can not tell us, and the only way to find out is to ask him, which Mr. Walton has done.

DR. GAWLIK: Yes, I agree to that, but not to the question what he would have done. To the question of what Seibert did, or to the question as put by Your Honor, I agree.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. I presume the interpretation of the question was, what was the custom, what was the practice of the office, what would he have done meaning in the usual routine and course of affairs of what Seibert had done, what did he do, that is what was meant, or by any one else in the same position. What was the routine of the office; communications coming in from the Army, how were they routed, and Mr. Walton objectionable.

Very well, witness, if you remember now the question,

THE WITNESS: I think I understand it correctly, and I would like to answer it as,to that effect:

During the absence of Herr Ohlendorf in the group staff, Herr Seibert was the deputy for the group staff; then

A No, neither that, Mr. Prosecutor.

A May I have the question repeated please?

the Karaimians were Jews?

A I think if I remember correctly, Mr. Prosecutor, in the Fall of 1945 I made a statement which contained about the following:

When Ethnic groups were to be treated.

Thos were the Krimchaks and the Karai mians.

The principal question, or the basic question which had to be decided was whether these groups of persons were to be treated as Jews according to the Fuehrer Order, or not.

At the time sofar as I can recall I testified that at the time Herr Ohlendorf did not want to and could not define this order himself, and, therefore, a decision from Berlin had to be applied for by him. I think that is about the statement I made at the time.

Q I congratulate you on your most excellent memory. However, there is one point which appears in the affidavit that you omitted at this time, almost two years later, or a year and a half later. "Therefore the decision --" I shall read it to you and I am quoting now from your own affidavit: "Therefore, the decision was put up to the Reichsicherheits Hamptamt, Berlin, whereby the basic question was whether the Krimchaks or the Karaimians, or one of these two groups were to be considered Jews or not. In case - I am still quoting "In case that they would have been considered Jews, they would have come under the extermination regulations." Now this is only the point that you omitted, and I am still quoting: "Whether any decision or what decision arrived from Berlin is unknown to me. At that time I was absent from the Einsatzgruppe for some time in order to carry out these seizures of Russian POWs of Tartarian nationality at Nikolajew." Did you make that last statement?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I certainly didn't draw that conclusion, and I should like to look at my affidavit now. I am quite certain that I said I was absent because repeatedly I was on journeys in connection with recruiting Tartars as volunteers in the POW camps at Nikolajew. I don't know whether I also said in a few villages in the Crimea, and, if I may add now, I recall quite clearly the other explanations that were also made, Mr. Prosecutor, just quoted, and I do not intend to leave them out, but I merely thought I had to say this in order to clarify the matters we are talking about here, but as to the seizure of POWs of Tartarian orign, I could never had said that. This could have only been the recruiting of Tartar volunteers, and I am quite certain I said nothing else, Mr. Prosecutor.

the question and you have given an explanation. That is what I wanted. Now, did you ever make any statement concerning the commanding Officer of Sondercommando X_B, one, Alois Persterer? concerned, I made a statement.

Q Did you ever make this statement and I quote: "P" - the initial alluding to Pesterer, "Who always inclined a great deal towards great independance had always the best understanding with the local Wherm cht, which could not be said of the Einsatzgruppe as a whole.

In addition Pesterer - " except you had the initial "P", "-was a great friend of alcohol who had always worried Ohlendorf a little, obviously from fear of inconsiderations by Pesterer." Did you make that statement --- or I shall withdraw that question, and ask you this one. Is that statement true? in just those words. I said, that after Mr. Wartenberg asked me about Pesterer's personality ---

Q I withdraw that question, Mr. Schubert. I will ask you if that statement that I have just read to you is essentially ture. allowing for some differences in the translation?

A I do not want to answer this yes or no. I should like to make a brief statement. It is correct that Commando Leader presterer had much better relations with the local Wehrmacht than the Group-staff had. It is correct that Commando Leader Persterer had much better relations with the local Wehrmacht than the Group-staff had. It is correct that Herr Ohlendorf was not very enthusiastic about Herr Persterer during some meetings where the gentlemen of the Army took part in, when he took a little more alcohol than he should have done. ever was deputy to Persterer?

A No, Mr. Proseuctor, the co-defendant Ruehl did not work during

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, do you intend to introduce this document which you are reading from now into evidence?

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, please, this document is now being searched for.

I only have the English translation, This is a document which was taken from the files of the Interrogation Center in Oberursel.

I cannot c py by the defendant Schubert, or the original.

However, I believe

THE PRESIDENT: There is no question about the appropriateness and correctness and the relevency of your cross examination.

There was a but I don't know whether it ended with the meeting of the minds, or just what was said.

As I recall your quotation you used the word "seized" certain Russian prisoners of war, and the witness used the word "Recruiting," and of course, there is a vast difference between

MR. WALTON: I assume from my point of view he denied the statement

THE PRESIDENT: I see. Very well.

DR. KOESSL: Your Honor I merely would like to ask that on re is very important as part of the conten ts of the affidavit.

The witness

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Koessl, you can not be interested or concerned

DR. KOESSL: Your Honor, I am only interested in finding out whether contains exactly what the witness now said on the witness stand.

I assume

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Koessl, Mr. Walton has put certain questions and the witness has answered those questions.

Now in the absence of the probative value as the Prosecutor's questions, because Mr. Walton's questions are not evidence so Mr. Walton is really bound by the defendant's answers,

DR. KOESSL: Yes, I am only concerned with the contents of the affidavit, the translation of what Mr. Walton read is not sufficient for me to prove that it is the actual contents in the German affidavit.

Mr. Walton

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Koessl, you were asking for something that Mr. Walton has already promised, about which the Tribunal has indicated

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, if that does not come to light, his answer pointed out.

I see no reason for my surrender of my copy of a copy to Dr. Koessl at this time.

I would like a ruling on that if the Court please.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Koessl would you want to submit this affidavit

DR. KOESSL: No, Your Honor, I don't need it for that. I merely need concerned.

If the Prosecution accepts the reply of the witness, I agree to

THE PRESIDENT: Well, you have the right on your redirect examination

MR. WALTON: Just one final word. I accept, Your Honor, the statement he recruited Tartar prisoners.

I shall act on that in my brief and in the Maybe that will satisfy Dr. Koessl.

THE PRESIDENT: I think with that statement, Dr. Koessl, you can cons Mr. Walton as assistant defense counsel on this particular point.

Dr. KOESSL: For the time being I am satisfied.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

THE WITNESS: May I say something about this please?

MR. WALTON: Yes.

THE WITNESS: I am sorry that I am not quite satisfied as yet.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it would be too much to expect that everybody

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, Mr. Walton just said that I testified that I dealt with recruiting matters.

I am quite certain that this is not contained in my affidavit, and I would like to correct it.

I believe that there is an in Nikolajew.

I was on my way to it but never was I personally in charge

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, that statement may stand.

BY MR. WALTON:

Q. Now I believe you testified this morning that you go some office copies of the reports from Mr. Seibert to file, and that these reports contained some information concerning executions.

Nearly every report you got from Seibert had Information concerning executions, didn't it?

A. "Nearly every one" is going rather too far, Mr. Prosecutor. I would like to re-word this.

A part of these reports contained such

Q. What percent of his reports would you estimate referred in some way to executions?

A. I can not tell you a percentage and I don't think it matters.

Q. Do you want to make an estimate as to the number of radio reports that referred to executions, would you say it was fifty percent?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, it does not depend on my good will or good intentions but I simply think I am unable to make such statement.

I would be

Q. Well, you were generally acquanited with what went on in head quarters, were you not?

Page 4,710

A. In general, yes.

Q. Do you know what assignments were given to members of the staff other than yourself?

A. In general, the staff of officers of the staff I knew, of course.

Q. Did the Group-Physician ever have to inspect an execution by a gas-van?

A. I know nothing about gas vans.

THE INTERPRETER: There was a mistake in the translation, as was given "gas chambers" rather than "Gas-wagon" or gas-car.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, that is an important distinction between gasvan and gas chamber. So the witness may understand, you are referring to gas-wagons? BY MR. WALTON:

Q Do you understand that I meant "gas-wagon" instead of gas chambers

A. Yes, I think you are talking about gas-van, that is right. I can not say what definite orders the physician of the group received concerning this. I know nothing about that.

were you not?

A Yes, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q And it's been testified to repeatedly from that witness stand that for a time there was at least one gas van in the courtyard at Simferopol.

Q Did you ever dispatch this van anywhere? send a gas van there?

A No, I don't know of any. Headquarters dispatching the van from the courtyard to a Kommando territory?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor. cutions?

A During the executions in Simferopol, or in general?

Q In general, any executions. Do you know of anybody in the group staff who was given the special assignment to inspect executions besides yourself?

A Mr. Prosecutor, this is a question of great consequence which I have to answer here, I myself was never present when other members of the group staff were carrying out such inspections. Therefore, I cannot say who, when, and where the inspections were made.

Q You misunderstood my question. Did you ever learn - did you ever have any knowledge - did you ever hear it generally talked about did it ever come to your attention that some one besides yourself in the group staff inspected executions? cerned I know definitely that he carried out such inspections.

Q Did Seibert ever inspect an execution to you knowledge?

Q Did Siebert ever discuss the subject of executions with you? general. One could not avoid doing this, but not about any particular execution. I don't think so. Perhaps in connection with the Fuehrer order in general. in any way about executions?

A What are you referring to, Mr. Prosecutor. I said I talked to him in a general way.

Q Certainly. But, I asked you next, do you recall what was said in any of these conversations? Do you recall if Mr. Seibert expressed himself that he was for executions or against executions, if he liked them or didn't like them? Did he ever make any remark about his own feeling in the matter?

A I understand you now, Mr. Prosecutor. That is the subject of any discussion possible at all and I believe not only in as far as Seibert personally is concerned but concerning everyone. I can assure you here that there was not one man who agreed to these measures and agreed to this order. But whenever these matters were discussed everybody was seriously concerned. To be sure, we were very worried about these matters and yet we were helpless and that is perhaps, to put it quite briefly, what we talked about during such discussions. one had the intention of not carrying out the Fuehrer order, did you? one might have refused to carry out this order. I just said I understood the question to mean, whether I heard that Herr Seibert or any one else ever made statements to the effect that they would not carry out this order

Q Now in Seibert's affidavit, which is in Document Book III-D, page 34 and in your document book, Mr. Schubert, on page 60, document NO-2859, Prosecution Exhibit 158, in paragraph 2 of Mr. Seibert's affi davit he states that you prepared reports from time to time.

In your what you said.

Will you repeat for my benefit what type of reports you before you sent them off?

Mr. Seibert under figure 2 Of this affidavit, but that from time to concerned changes in personnel and location within the group.

How often I made such compilations, I cannot say.

Certainly it only occurred Mr. Seibert?

Did you ever have that task of all?

AA situation report?

Q What I mean by that, Mr. Schubert, is, did you ever have to port in view of the fact that Mr. Seibert was away on leave or some unusual reason why Mr. Seibert couldn't make this out, did you ever have to substitute for him in drawing up or compiling these reports?

AAt no time, Mr. Prosecutor.

the group chief before sending them on? Having him correct them or change them?

Did you submit it to the group chief?

A Mr. Prosecutor, May I say first these were not reports of my of a report and I really don't know in detail whether these matters I submitted to the chief or Herr Seibert before hand.

I rather think that these documents made out by me were used by the clerk exactly as they were and that the compiled report was then signed.

A Of course, Mr. Prosecutor. came of age to join did you? the time, I did not object to it. It never occurred to me. the first time. That's when you first went after you lef the lawyer's office. Did you apply for this employment or was this position offered to you?

A It was offered to me. I reported there. I was approved and I was promised the position and I did not object to it and on that occasion I joined the SD. the interview which proved mutually satisfactory you were given work in the SD, but you yourself went there, isn't that true.

A Mr. Prosecutor when joining the SD I did it on my own initiative.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will now take its afternoon recess.

(A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

MR. WALTON: With permission of the Tribunal I will conclude this

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed.

DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued) BY MR. WALTON:

Q. Mr. Schubert, did you over make any attempt to get released from the party?

A. No, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q. Did you ever seek to be transferred from Amt III, which is the SD, to some other amt in the RSHA?

A. I could not have made such an attempt.

Q. You could have made such an attempt prior to the outbreak of the war, couldn't you?

A. Before the war and until 1943 I was a member of Office I. I had

Q. Did you ever object to being transferred from office I to Office II*

A. I raised no objection and could not have raised such.

Q. Now, you were a member of the SS, were you not?

A. I was a member of the special SS formation SD.

Q. Now, you knew when you became a member of the SD you would also become a member of the SS, didn't you?

A. At the time when I joined I did not, Mr. Prosecutor, not yet.

Hitler Youth. The membership in the SS formation SD was not an unconditional

Q. It didn't occur to you to object when they informed you that you were a member of the SD formation of the SS, did it?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, it never occurred to me to raise an objection

Q. Now, according to your service record -- May it please the court, I would like to give that citation again in case it is not before you. Document Book III-D, Page 99 of the English text, 146 of the German text, Document 3244, Prosecution's Exhibit 172. I am now about to make specific reference to page 102 in the document book, which is page 149 of the German text. It is the last page in the document book. Witness, will you indicate please, to me when you have found that page 149 of the German text?

A. I have got it, Mr. Prosecutor. It is the notice about my membership in the Hitler Youth.

Q. Well, maybe it is on a different page in your book, but I am specifically interested in the last column which says SS schools. Now, according to the information that is in my book you attended SS schools from 15 October, '36, and 26 October '38. Does that appear in your copy?

A. No, Mr. Prosecutor, this must be a mistake in the copy in your document book, because these are the dates which refer to my active service in the Army. In the original document it can certainly not be contained. I cannot imagine that it could be.

Q. Then this evidently is an error in copying, but these are the service schools or Wehrmacht schools which you attended, is that correct, and the dates, are they correct ?

A. The dates are correct, but those were no schools of the Army, but that is the Army unit with whom I served actively as a soldier.

Q. Look on page 150 of your Document Book. Now, on this page there are some dates given.

Is that a Wehrmacht school or an SS school?

A. Mr. Walton, it is neither an Army school nor an SS school, but it says here under the column "Reichs Heer" -- that is the Reich Army; and there it gives the date 15 October 1936 until the 29th of October 1938;with which I served -- that is, the Armored Signal Battalion 39.

This is

Q. I wanted to get that clear there for the benefit --- My document book and your document book are not in agreement on that point.

From my were not allowed to change.

When did you inform your counsel about these allegations which you made yesterday concerning changes in your affidavit?

A. I can not remember the date, Mr. Prosecutor, but at the latest it was before Mr. Wartenberg was examined here in the witness stand.

Q. Between the time you received your copy of the indictment and the time when Mr. Wartenberg was examined.

you are sure of that?

A. Yes. Yes, it must have been between those dates.

Q. And did you tell your counsel that the corrections which were made were dependent on the permission of Mr. Wartenberg?

A. I certainly told that to my attorney.

Q. And did you also tell your counsel that you intended to make certain corrections which were not approved by Mr. Wartenberg and were therefore not made?

A. Yes, I told him that, too.

Q. Well, you were present when it was determined by the Tribunal that Mr. Wartenberg would be called as a witness, were you not?

A. Yes, I was present.

Q. Did you confer with your counsel as to what questions your count should put to this witness in your behalf?

A. Yes, I discussed this with my attorney and I merely regretted very

Q. Well, why didn't you insist that your counsel bring out matters of this correction fully for Mr. Wartenberg?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I believe that my attorney skid Mr. Wartenberg and Mr. Wartenberg about those changes which I wanted to make.

Mr. Wartenberg

Q. One question that -

A. I don't think it was only one question. Certainly there word two

Q. Well, you were present when Mr. Wartenberg was cross examined by your counsel, Were you not?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, why didn't you insist to your counsel that he go further at great length yesterday?

A. Mr . Prosecutor, I am of the opinion that here I am represented by an official attorney whom I can not force to do this or that.

This is exclusively a matter of confidence -- a confidential matter.

I have no Way

Q. Mr. Witness, it is your case, not your attorney's case. The responsibility for your defense rests on you.

However, we will leave that.

Isn't it a fact that these topics about these corrections were dis cussed most fully with you when you were preparing your direct testimony?

THE PRESIDENT: I would like to interrupt here to say from the Bench that there is nothing in the examination conducted by Dr. Koessl which would

MR. WALTON: May I continue, your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, you may.

BY MR. WALTON:

Q. Didn't you discuss these topics most fully with your counsel when you were preparing your direct testimony?

A. I believe I told my attorney everything that I had to say about

Q. Were you satisfied with your attorney's direct examination of Mr. Wartenberg -- cross examination of Mr. Wartenberg when he was on the stand?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Walton, I don't think that that is a question which the witness should be called upon to reply to.

He has confidence in his attorney, and his attorney presented his case.

Now, I

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, the only thing that puzzles the Prosecution asked -- put to Mr. Wartenberg when he was on the stand and they only came out when they know that he can't be recalled, when he is beyond the jurisdiction of the court.

Those are the matters which I want to probe into.

INTERPRETER LEA: Will you please repeat that. Just the last portion.

MR. WALTON: When the matters concerning these interrogations were brought out for the first time and were not sifted from Mr. Wartenberg when should come out at this opportunity when Mr. Wartenberg is now beyond the jurisdiction of the court.

And I desire to probe into them to see whether or the opportunity of the cross examination of Mr. wartenberg has passed.

That

DR. KOESSL: Your Honor, I want to just give an explanation to this.

I asked Mr. Wartenberg about everything. I knew about these interrogations.

Rather, what I knew about the interrogation I did ask Mr. Wartenberg here, which the witness was asked.

But we would have never asked these questions in such a crude form.

I was of the opinion at that time that it was completel Mr. Wartenberg the question whether he had threatened the witness or not.

MR. Walton: The point which I am not satisfied about and which that time an interrogatee concerning the changes in his affidavit.

I read last night -- I don't have it before me now -- the questions which Dr. Koessl asked the witness Warternberg.

They were germane, they were pertinent, but I saw nothing in there, sir, concerning the refusal of the Prosecution' agent for this witness to make changes in his affidavit.

And that is what

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, I know that you are disposed to be Dr. Koessl Proceeded with the material that he had at hand, and it must be admitted that Mr. Wartenberg was brought into court without notice of a Mr. Wartenberg.

At any rate, this is something which the Prosecution may argue at the proper time.

We doubt that much can be elicited from the ship between client and counsel.

Now, he has given the explanation that the wasn't much time allowed for a conference with his attorney on all features of the questioning.

Dr. Koessl did question at some length, and the record shows that.

I don't think that much can be gained by probing into "Why wasn't this question put?"

and "Why wasn't that question put?"

MR. WALTON: Sir, the Prosecution is only interested in knowning tha

THE PRESIDENT: He gave an explanation yesterday. The probative value Wartenberg it would still remain to the defendant to explain why he didn't make those changes in the affidavit.

Well, it is suggested by Judge Spade:

Of course, you have the right to inquire into it, and you have inquired into it; in your very cross examination you go into that.

If there

MR. WALTON: I appreciate the fact, your Honor, and since it is such thin ground, I wish to be entirely ethical in the matter.

I leave affidavit of the defendant and present witness, Heinz Schubert.

I be duce this affidavit.

Diligent Inquiry has resulted in the fact that this is the only signed copy available.

A check with the document room shows that.

Therefore, the Prosecution will have to reprocess this doc ument.

However, I now move that the German copy be introduced and that serve its objection to such time.

WITNESS HEINZ SCHUBERT: May I say something, your Honor, before Mr. Koessel starts?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, by all means.

WITNESS HEINZ SCHUBERT: First of all, I would like to defend my attorney as far as the point which was discussed before is concerned.

My attorney actually did ask Mr. Wartenberg in the cress examination whether in the interrogation transcript of Mr. Wartenberg there were remarks in it to the effect that a discussion took place about this.

"The tran scription shows that I wanted to make corrections.

" I would like to print out merely that Mr. Walton objected to Mr. Wartenberg should have clarity any etails which happened in the interrogation later.

QUESTIONS BY DR. KOESSL

Q. Witness, concerning the question of the prosecutor whether Braune and Nosske's successor received directives outside of these given by Ohlendorf; I would like to ask you, do you know specifically that Braune and Nosske and Nosske's successor received instructions from Ohlendorf?

Page 4,724

A. No, I do not Know this specifically at all.

Q. Furthermore, do you know the contents of the discussion between two officers and Ohlendorf and Nosske? Do you know it specifically?

A. No.

DR. KOESSL: I personally have only a few questions.

Q. First of all, was Ohlendorf, On the day on which you were in Simferopel, or, rather, on the day when you witnessed the execution in Simferopel, was Ohlendorf himself in Simferopel on that day?

A. Yes.

Q. What did Ohlendorf do on that day?

A. I was not with Herr Ohlendorf at that time. I can not say. I merely heard that Herr Ohlendorf too inspected this execution on that day.

DR. KOESSL: Thank you, your honor, I have no further questions.

DR. GAWLIK: Gawlik for Seibert. BY DR. GAWLIK:

Q. Witness, I submit to you once more exhibit 193 , Document no. 5111.

WITNESS: Which book please, Dr. Gawlik?

Q. Please read out what it says under Roman numeral VIII, the first word.

A. "Einsatzgroup Staff."

Q. But what does it say about the co-defendant Seibert?

A. "Permanent representative."

Q. To what did that statement "permanent representative" refer?

A. To the "Einsatz Group Staff," because that is where it appears.

MR. WALTON: I want to object to that question and the answer by the defendant on the grounds that the document itself is the highest and best evidence, and that anything that he should say in answer to that question would be his opinion, when it is up to the Tribunal itself to evaluate the probative value of the document.

We do not have a copy of that, your Honor.

That is the Document No. 5111, which I just spoke

DR. GAWLIK: Your Honor, I have this to say. In general the doc

THE PRESIDENT: Let us have the question again, Dr. Gawlik,

MR. WALTON: The Prosecution is perfectly aware that Dr. Gawlik ion, sirs, is that he can net ask him, "what does that document mean now?"

or "What does one gather from thatdocument?" or "what does it say?"

The --- The witness can make a statement in Which he says, "I ride on a black horse."

Then he could say later on, "I really meant I ride on a write horse."

Then it is up to the listener to de termine whether it was a black or a white horse.

You get in to the realm of what is probable and what is logical.

Would a man say he rode on a black horse when he meant a white horse?

But every person is en titled to explain what he said and what he did.

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, as I pointed out, we have no object very well put example, but Dr. Gawlik asked him, "What did the docu ment say?"

That is what I object to --That form.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, let's have the question again.

DR. GAWLIK: I merely wanted to say the following: your Eonor It is the same question which the prosecutor has asked.

Therefore, I also ask that the question of the Prosecutor be stricken from the record, because the Prosecutor submitted the document to the witness and had him read from it, "a permanent representative." Then that is also admissible.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, whatever Mr. Walton was permitted to do, you are permitted to do, so no one is hurt. So put the question, Dr. Gawlik.

Q (By Dr. Gawlik) What did you mean to express by the statement, "Seibert, Permanent Representative." was what was the actual case. Seibert was the Permanent Representative in the Group Staff of Einsatgruppe D.

Q I how far was Seibert not the permanent representative? the Einsatzgruppe Staff.

Q Was Seibert the permanent representative within the Group?

Did I understand you correctly?

A I don't know whether I said passed on " or whether I said that Herr Seibert, during Ohlendorf absence, dispatched letters to the various kommandos. they had?

A No, I don't know any more today. pecially to the execution of Jews, Gypsies, Communist functionaries?

Q You have further stated in your cross_examination that in Ohlendorf's absence the kommando leaders discussed matters with Herr Seibert. Did I understand you correctly? leaders discussed with Seibert?

A No, I wasn't present.

Q Did Seibert have any power of command towards the kommando leader? in Simferopol was the only one which had been previously known in the Group Staff. Did I understand you correctly?

A No, not quite. I cannot say, of course, anything about the time before I got there, but during my own time there I don't remember any second case.

Q Was Seibert then with the Group Staff?

Q Where was Seibert at the time?

DR. GAWLIK: Thank you. I have no further question. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Witness, we've allowed counsel frequently to ask an irrelevant question so the Tribunal is going to avail itself of that privilege and ask an entirely irrelevant question:

Were your forebearers related to Franz Peter Schubert?

A You mean the composer, Schubert? line, yes. in some way a connection back to that great figure in musical history. relationship to a great German, yes.

Q Was he a German or an Austrian? naturally aroused that curiosity.

deal of discussion, we wonder how the name Seibert ever got into this affidavit, unless you used it yourself in your discussion with Wartenberg, referring to Paragraph 3.

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, will you give the document number, please.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, the document number is 3055 Q (By the president) Did you mention the name to Wartenberg?

too whether in the interiorrogation of the 18th of February, which lead to this affidavit whether I mentioned the name of Seibert. It is even possible that is used this phrasing, "Ohlendorf or Seibert" at the moment, but that I corrected myself later on after I thought about the contents of the interrogation quite thoroughly and at that time it occured to me quite suddenly again that Herr Seibert was not there at that time. duties as an Adjutant?

A Witness: With the Einsatzgruppe, Your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, yes. very extensive. As chief of the orderly room I had much more to do and the designation of Adjutant I only listed in order not to be suspected of omitting one of my jobs; I only had to make the appointments, to receive the visitors, and occasionally to furnish maps for the Commanding General for his trips, to mark down the route, and to make out accounts of trips and I think that those were all my duties as an Adjutant. Of course, I fullfilled a few private requests of Herr Ohlendorf, but I would like to repeat once again what I said yesterday. Herr Ohlendorf did not like any kind of servants around him. Thus I was not was also given the direction of the orderly room.

Q Very well. Coming back to the affidavit, Document No. 3055, and calling attention to paragraph 4, we will ask, were the persons who were to be taken out of the gypsy quater informed that they were to be resettled? Is that what they were told? think I must answer this question in the affirmative in this case, because that was customary, generally. that the entire family in each instance would be resettled, wouldn't it?

Q Yes. Then that would mean that the women and children would go along also, wouldn't it? Place? children at the execution site, but at the place where they were gathered there were women and children.

Q And some were loaded aboard trucks? there were no women and children there actually being executed or being prepared for execution

Q Yes. Now, Witness, you have indicated, have you, all the corrections which you desire to make in this affidavit? have you?

A Yes, Your Honor. I think I have said all about them I wanted to say.

Q Now we will call your attention again to that paragraph 4. I will read, " I went to the gypsy quarter of Simferopol and Supervised"- and we understand your correction of that word -- "the loading of the persons who were to be shot into a truck. I took care that the loading es and unrest by the native population." Now, I call your attention to the phrase, "took care." ing "I took care" it should say, "I convinced myself of the fact, because actually there was nothing for me to take care of.

Q You were present, at least, at one loading, weren't you? proper manner?

A No, Your Honor, I did not have that order. Two offices were Present for that purpose who did these things.

Q Now, the phrase in the German is, -- I know I won't pronounce it correctly, "Icj sorgte dafuer," yes, now that translated into English is, "I took care," which very clearly indicates that you were concerned about seeing that it was done properly. It was more than merely watching, but you were careful to see that it was done properly. "I took care". How can you now limit it to merely watching.

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, Mr. Wartenberg phrased this , and it is One of the many wordings which I objected to , because Mr. Wartenberg was evidently of the intention to represent my activity in this as supervisory capacity. That is why he chose this wording "I took care", although there was nothing for me to take care of.

THE PRESIDENT: This morning, witness, when you were given the opportunity to enumerate one by one the corrections which you wished to make in the affidavit, you called our attention to "supervise" and so on, but we don't recollect that you corrected this phrase "I took case."

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, I do not know at the mount whether I said it or not, but I think that I did say it. If it was not said then it is because so much has been said about these things that I had lost track of it at the moment, but I would be grateful if my explanation would be accepted on this particular point, too.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Now you went to substitute for that phrase "I convinced myself", is that right?

THE WITNESS: The text would then have to be re-transposed in the German, but the sense would remain the same. "I convinced myself of the loading, etc. . ."

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

Q Now Ohlendorf sent you on this mission, didn't he? self, could be just convinced? in which these matters were carried out.

Q Well, suppose that you were not convinced, what would have happened? in whatever manner I could have. I would then have had to point out the violations against orders to these officers.

Q So that in effect "you took care" of it, didn't you?

A Your Honor, I don't know whether one should interpret it that way.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Koessl, do you have any other questions to put to the witness?

DR. KOESSL: No, Sir, I have no further questions, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Judge Dixon calls our attention to a phrase in paragraph 3-B, or perhaps it is 3-C, after discussing the collection of moneys, jewels, and so forth, then we come to a sentence or clause which reads: "To supervise" and of course we understand your explanation of "supervise", "that the execution be completed in the most humane and military manner possible". Now just what did you mean by "humane execution". THE WITNESS: Your Honor, I knew the order Ohlendorf concerning the manner of the actual shooting. There was only way one could call humane under these circumstances, that is, the form of shooting by a military execution squad under the orders of the military officer. This type of execution is what was meant.

Q And that is what you mean by "Humane manner"?

Q In paragraph 6 you said: "I know that was of the greatest importance to Ohlendorf to have the persons who were to be shot killed in the most humane and military manner possible, because otherwise in other methods of killing, the moral strain would have been too great for the execution squad". What were the other methods of killing?

A That is meant purely theoretically, Your Honor. It might mean the execution of individuals by one individual person outside of the military squad, as I have described it.

Q Then in paragraph 5 we find the sentence: "I watched that none of the deposited items were kept by the SS and the ORPO-men who were designated for the collection." Was there danger that some of the SS and ORPO-men might have purloined some of these articles, kept them for their own use?

things were always correctly conducted, but no one can look into the soul of each individual, and that is how this order came to be made to me, to see to it that great care was taken, and if something like that would happen, that this would exclude such occurrances which actually didn't happen, and I never heard anything about it. not their souls?

A Your Honor, I didn't look into the pockets of these people, but from the way in which these things were carried out, there was no doubt for me to say that these things were correctly carried out, that such things didn't happen

Q And if it was done, you didn't catch them at it?

A Your Honor, I don't know what happened when I was not present, think so, however. to participate in petty thievery of this character? matter. field, how you can distinguish between the high honor of not taking a piece of money, or ring, or watch, and the killing of a person who is utterly defenseless? of any property from these victims was prohibited. This was first of all the basic difference. from the Reich, but there is nothing wrong in seeing or in taking these personal belongings from these defenseless people?

to do with these matters, I went to explain that I am convinced without being able to say this just with certainty for everyone, that I do not believe that there was any elements among us who did not consider these things just as sacred for the carrying out of the Fuehrer's Orders, as they could be sacred to human beings.

Q Were you ordered to take the money and valuables? with then. property of those who were to be executed

A I can not say, Your Honor. I do not know whether this was one part of the Fuehrer Order, or whether these were executive regulations pertaining to the Fuehrer Order. handing them back to others legally entitled to them upon the decease of the owner?

A Your Honor, I know of the regulation of the .Reich Security Main Office which referred to these valuables, and this regulation provided that these valuables were to be sent to Berlin to be handed over to the Reich Finance Ministry. Other regulations on which this directive was based are not known to me. I could not say anything about it.

THE PRESIDENT: Very Well.

DR. KOESSL: Your Honor, may I ask a question.

THE PRESIDENT: Certainly.

DR. KOESSL: May I consider the examination of the witness closed, and may I consider with him this evening.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, by all means. Dr. Hoffmann, do you have something to say?

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, I have a very short motion to make. The Tribunal will recollect that the defendant Nosske said in the witness stand that in the year of 1944 as the result of his resistance in Duesseldorf he was excluded from the SS. The defendant Nosske haws further informed me that this also brought in its wake his exclusion from the Nazi Party. In order to bring proof of this, I would like to get the personnel file of the defendant Nosske, which is in the Document Center in Berlin, and, I ask the Tribunal to instruct the Secretary General that he obtain this file from the Document Center in Berlin.

MR. WALTON: We have not charged him in the Indictment with membership in the Nazi Party. I don't see where that is material. We charged him with being in a Criminal organization, the Gestapo the SS, and, it may be the SD, I am not sure about that, but we have not charged him with being a member of Nazi party as a criminal act, so I think his request is immaterial.

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, if I can gather from Mr. Walton's statement that he does not contest that the defendant Nosske was excluded from the SS in 1944, then, of course, I would not need this card from there, but if he does contest it then I need the card to support my contention.

THE PRESIDENT: If you are willing to admit for the record that if the card were obtained it would show what Dr. Hoffmann said, then there would be no need to get then card.

That is the first thing you must decide. Then after you have decided that either in the affirmative or the negative, then we will go to the next thing.

MR. WALTON: That document including the SS personnel file was here at the beginning of this trial under the protecting wing of one, colonel Neil. The Tribunal at that time ruled that any comparison to be made of the document presented by the Prosecution in its case in chief would be compared at that time, and that would be the only time. They stayed here, and the opportunity originally of scrutining the personnel file when it was here, and now I think it is putting too great a burden on this court to have one of those files returned here for further scrutiny.

THE COURT: Mr. Walton, do you consider it material or immaterial, and are you basing your objection on the fact that defense counsel once had the opportunity to obtain this document, and not having availed himself of the opportunity, his time is now passed.

MR. WALTON: If Your Honor decides against my first objection, that it is immaterial, then I base it on the second prong of the objection, that it was here.

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, it is correct that the personnel file of the defendant Nosske was submitted here, but the personnel file only showed that a proceeding was ins tituted against him because of military disobedience in the year of 1944, or rather that a proceeding pended against him, but * the personnel file did not show that the defendant Nosske, as he stated in the witness stand, actually was excluded. Why this was not noted down is a question of argumentation, I think, which I can bring in my final pleading, but in Order to support my argument, I would like to have documentary proof, and as a defense counsel I have no way of being admitted to the document center, therefore, I ask the Tribunal for assistance.

THE PRESIDENT: With regard to the materiality of the document asked for, we will say as we have said before, that when a defense counsel believes a certain piece of evidence is material, we are disposed to allow it, and we even went so far as to say that we will permit any evidence of any kind up to the social life of penguins in the Anarctic Zone. And if you can show that even that is relevant, we will permit you to introduce a document so show just how the Penguins live in the Anarctic Zone. So, therefore, we will rule in effect on the materiality, because you say it is material, and, in regard to the second feature, we would never penalize an attorney because he overlooked doing something which in the interest of his client he could have done. Now if you didn't get the document when it was here, that is no reason why you should not have it now, so the Tribunal will direct the Defense Information Center to obtain that document, if it is obtainable so that you may use it in the defense of your client.

Anything further?

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will now be in recess until tomorrow morning at 9:30 O'clock.

THE MARHSAL: The Tribunal is now in recess until 0930 hours, 7 January 1948.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 0930 hours, 7 January 1948) A. Musmanno, Presiding.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the courtroom will please find their seats.

Military Tribunal II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Graf will be taken to the witness stand.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Durchholz for Schulz. Schulz before the defendant Graf enters the witness stand. I need the exhibits for my trial brief which I shall submit shortly to the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Very well, you may proceed.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: So that the names and numbers in my documents appear correctly in the transcript, I would like to give the interpreters and the court reporters a written copy of my document list here. to the Tribunal when I submitted Document Books I and II on the 17th of November, 1947. This index is on Page 2448 in the English transcript and in the German transcript on Page 2500. In Document Book III too, in the English as well as in the German text, the page numbers are the same.

I now submit and offer: which refer to the activity of the defendant Schulz as a police official and police officer in Bremen during the years 1923 to 1939.

THE PRESIDENT: Would you kindly suspend just for a moment until we receive our copies of the document? We didn't know, of course, that you were going to read this.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I have one English copy. If the Tribunal would like to have this copy I will hand it to the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: We are getting copies for the entire Tribunal. ready to present because we are now approaching the termination of the trial and we don't want any congestion in the translation and reproduction divisions. We would also suggest -- all the defense counsel are not here but you might pass the word around -- that there is no reason why they couldn't begin on the preparation of their final arguments.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: May I repeat briefly that as far as Point II of my index is concerned, I will submit documents which refer to the activity of the defendant Schulz as a police official and police officer in Bremen during the years 1923 to 1939. On page 190 as Exhibit No. 63, Document No. 65. This is the affidavit of the Police Inspector, Otto Kay. On Page 192 as Exhibit No. 64 the Document No. 66.

THE PRESIDENT: With which book are you now dealing?

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Document Book III, your Honor, Document books 1 and 2 have already been submitted by me.

THE PRESIDENT: Suppose you start at the beginning again.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: As the next document in Book III on page 190 I submit Document No. 65 as Exhibit No. 63. This is the affidavit of the Police Inspector, Otto Kay.

On Page 192 I submit Document No. 66 as Exhibit No. 64. This is the affidavit of the Secretary for Criminal Affairs, Richard Ruehe. On Page 194 I submit Document No. 67 as Exhibit No. 65. This is the affidavit of the Superior Secretary for Criminal Affairs, Wilhelm Parchmann. On Page 214 I submit Document No. 74 as Exhibit No. 66. This is the affidavit of the Higher Secretary for Criminal Affairs, Emil Kroeger. On Page 222 I submit Document No. 77 as Exhibit No. 67.

This is the affidavit of the Police Inspector, Fritz Schmidt. On page 225 I submit Document No. 78 as Exhibit No. 68. This is the affidavit of the Senior Secretary, Senior Police Secretary, Willy Aland. On Page 229 as Exhibit No. 69 I submit Document No. 79. This is the affidavit of the Police Inspector Heinrich Herrlein. All these witnesses were formerly subordinates or collaborators of the defendant Schulz in Bremen. All of them confirm, as can be gathered from the documents I submitted earlier, that the defendant Schulz never had any political attitudes but was always impartial in fulfilling his duties as a police official, that as far as questions of protective custody were concerned which he had to deal with, he always conducted himself humanely and that he took special care of people in protective custody and their families, further, that he never was anti-Semitic, rather that he always showed a tolerant attitude. the Document No. 86 as Exhibit No. 70. This is the affidavit of the present director of the city food office in Bremen, Heinrich Sebbes. This witness, who had been in protective custody in 1993 because of communist leanings and against whom very serious charges were raised for this same reason, confirmed that he had become acquainted with the defendant Schulz as a decent and just man who respected the limits of humanity. He also confirmed that Schulz in this, his humane attitude, spared many another person a sad fate and had managed to get many people out of concentration camps. of the defendant Schulz in Graz in the year 1938, I submit and offer on Page 188 Document 64 as Exhibit No. 71. This is the affidavit of the Police Counsellor Josef Frank from Millstadt on a lake in Austria. On Page 203 Document No. 71 as Exhibit No. 72. This is the affidavit of Dr. Paul Hillinger from St. Martin in Austria. On Page 239, Document No. 82 as Exhibit No. 73. This is the affidavit of Wilhelm Weinzierl from Graz in Austria.

These three witnesses were at the time collaborators of Schulz in Graz and have an exact insight into his activity there. They have known his extraordinary friendliness and his popularity, not only with all officials, employees and workers at an agency, but also among wide circles of the population. They confirm that he released on his own initiative the greatest part of those people who had been taken into protective custody by the Austrian National Socialists. No. 83 as Exhibit No. 74. This is the affidavit of Heertha Schmid from Grazzin Austria, the wife of the university professor, Dr. Schmid, who was also in protective custody. She confirms that Schulz freed her husband from this custody. She also confirmed that as long as Schulz was in Graz she had a feeling of security against renewed attacks of the Gestapo. The affiant added a newspaper excerpt from the Graz paper, "Tagespost" of the 2nd of July, 1938, and this excerpt shows among other things that on the occasion of Schulz's farewell from Graz he made a speech in front of representatives of the state and the party in public in which he asks his collaborators to let their heart speak too in their work, whether they are friendly to the cause or not. This was not sentimentality. If one does not feel that there is heart in your work then it would be better not to do that work at all. The service had to be conducted strictly but gallantly.

As the next document I offer on page 246 the Document No. 84 as Exhibit No. 75. This is the affidavit of University Professor Dr. Heinrich Schmid from Graz, the husband of the affiant mentioned above. He states especially that Schulz saved him from a concentration camp after having released him from his protective custody, the concentration camp into which he would no doubt have been sent because of his opinion in favor of the independence of Austria. Above all he states that the conduct of Schulz and his just and humane attitude differed most pleasantly from all the other officers of the Gestapo with whom Schmid, at that time when he was arrested, had come into contact.

On Page 249 Document No. 85 as Exhibit No. 76. This is the affidavit of the pastor, Dr. Kohlbach, from Graz in Austria, who had gotten into protective custody as a well-known Austrian writer and doubtless would have been consigned for years in concentration camps just like many other editors of Catholic publications of Austria if Schulz had not released him together with other clergymen.

On Page 254, Document No. 87 as Exhibit No. 77. This is the affidavit of the then Austrian Minister for Economic Planning and Security of Property, Dr. Peter Krauland from Vienna whom Schulz had likewise liberated from protective custody in Graz. He too confirms that the conduct of Schulz was so pleasantly different from most of the other functionaries that he had written him a letter of gratitude.

itself with the activity of the Defendant Schulz in Reichenberg in the then Sudetenland in 1939, I submit and offer on Page 232 as Exhibit No. 78 Document No. 80. This is the affidavit of the engineer and former criminal counsellor, Hans Hasse, from Hamburg, This witness confirms all statements which Schulz made in the witness stand about his activity in Reichenberg, especially that in the Sudetenland there never was or there was no Jewish question, furthermore, that he appointed two police officials only for the purpose of protecting the property left behind by the fleeing Jews from unauthorized confiscation. Schulz thus had ruthlessly proceeded against the embezzlement of these valuables and he had these perpetrators arrested. Furthermore, that Schulz had understood how to influence other agencies from refraining from thoughtless actions and that he also had won his point with the Gauleiter when he considered measures that had been ordered as incorrect. Through his conduct in the Sudetangau he had no enemies and in public opinion he was respected and popular. of the Defendant Schulz as the director of Group IB in the RSHA and as the commander of the Leader School of the Security Police in BerlinCharlottenburg from 1941 to 1942, as well as the director of Group IA and of the Office I in the RSHA from 1942 to 1944, I submit and offer the following: On Page 200, Document No. 70 as Exhibit No. 79. This is the affidavit of Rudolf Hotzel who confirmed that in the Leader School of the Security Police in Berlin, whose commander Schulz was, the training in the professional subjects took precedent. He further confirms the statements of the Defendant Schulz about his talks in front of the students in the school in which he concerns himself with the concepts; domineering man and super-man. harshness and brutality, goodness and softness; leader and subordinate, He also confirms that Schulz had an unpolitical temperament and was not an eager National Socialist and did not influence the students in this respect.

and VII of the RSHA did not exist, and that an influence on the work of these offices did not exist either, nor was it possible. affidavit of Dr. Hans O'Gilvie, who was a teacher at the police officers' school. He says, among other things, that only good and well-trained teachers were allowed to teach there, that a military training was not given at the school at all, and that schulz relegated the ideological training consciously to a very small and unimportant part of the cause in favor of the professional training. Furthermore, Schulz had granted the teachers academic freedom. Furthermore, he states, as far as the activity of Schulz as chief of Office I in the RSHA is concerned, and as chief of the Personnel Department, he described Schulz as a man with great feeling for justice as opposed to the Chief of Office IV. Mueller, who had a strong dictator's will. the affidavit of the criminal councellor, Dr. Walter Zirpins, who also describes the purely factual activity of Schulz. affidavit of Dr. Paul Dittel, who discusses the exemplary leadership of the Personnel Department in the RSHA by Schulz. defendant, Schulz, in Salzburg, I finally offer and submit on page 198, document Number 69, the Exhibit Number 83. This is the affidavit of the former Brigadier General and Chief of Staff in the Service Commando XVIII in Salzburg, Anton Glasl. He confirms, among other things, that despite existing Fuehrer Orders Schulz had prevented the defense of the city of Salzburg and the blowing up of the bridges. of the architect, Richard Rothboeck, of Salzburg. affidavit of the physician, Dr. Robert Leitinger, from Salzburg.

the affidavit of the secretary, Hildegard Seiringer, from Mondsee in Upoer Austria. has said about the activity in Salzburg, especially about the humane treatment and his care for the prisoners of war and foreign workers and his fair and humane attitude towards the enemy pilots that had been shot down. as Exhibit Number 87. This is the affidavit of Dr. Anton Neumayr from Vienna, who confirms that Schulz had liberated his father, the present mayor of Salzburg, from the Concentration Camp Dachau, and had secured him a position in the Austrian civil service. which I received voluntarily. I could submit a great many more of such affidavits, but I think that the statements already submitted will give the Tribunal a sufficient picture about the personality and the activity of the defendant, Schulz. I may only remark that I shall submit one affidavit of the Jewish Nobel Prize winner, Dr. Noewe, who now lives in New York. The defendant, Schulz, also helped this man, as he did many other people in the year 1936. I only received this affidavit a few days ago from New York, So that for the lack of translation I could not yet submit this affidavit today. This is the end.

THE PRESIDENT: When do you think you may have that ready, Dr. Durchholz?

DR. DURCHHOLZ: I shall have it written now and give it to the Translation Section, and it depends on them. As soon as I get it back, I shall submit it.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. The defendant, Graf, Will be taken to the witness stand.

DR. BELZER: Belzer for Graf. Your Honor, I ask that before the examination of the defendant, Graf, begins that you permit me to call a witness who is present here and who has to return to Munich tomorrow. The witness' name is Schaller.

MR. HOCHWALD: The prosecution has no objection to calling the witness now.

THE PRESIDENT: The witness, Schaller, will be called in the court room and taken to the witness stand.

HEINZ SCHALLER, a witness, took the stand and testified as follows:

JUDGE DIXON: Witness, raise your right hand and repeat the oath after me: I swear by God, the Almighty and Omniscient, that I will speak the pure truth and will withhold and add nothing.

(The witness repeated the oath)

JUDGE DIXON: You may be seated.

Q Do you have any brothers or sisters? parents' home?

A My father was a liberal during the Weimar Republic. He was a democrat.

Q What was the religious attitude in the parents' house?

Q Will you briefly comment about your childhood and adolescence?

A My mother was Italian by birth. For this reason, I learned both German and Italian when I was young.As a boy already I visited Italy, and these first impressions made me yearn for the faraway countries, which never left me again. My liking for foreign languages is to be ascribed to these circumstances.

Q What schooling did you have? school in Kempten. the beginning of the war. Kempten, my home town. During my two years' apprenticeship I learned English and Portuguese, too. I wanted to go to South America. In 1922 In Went to Brazil.

First of all, I was English correspondent with an import and export firm. Later I was an English-German correspondent, in an export firm -- coffee export firm. By teaching in the evening at a technical high school I managed to get a good knowledge about machine construction. I learned various types of machine construction. I worked in a factory in Dolz. Here I met manufacturers and tradesmen and farmers and got to know the people and the country I made good money for my age and wanted to remain in Brazil. Unfortunately, I received bad reports from home. The firm of my parents had practically lost all its money because of the inflation. My brothers and sisters were still too yound and, therefore, I had to return to help out. In 1925 I entered my parents' plant and used all my strength in order to get the concern going again. After three or four years I succeeded in doing so. In 1932 I wanted to go back to Brazil. Unfortunately, this was not possible because of the restriction on foreign currency. the boycott against German merchandise began in South America, and this was responsible for the fact that German businessmen and technicians were rejected. I had to defer my plans. In 1934 I became independent as a business agent; by hard work and by saving, I managed to found my own business. I sold tractors and refrigadaires. My yearly income amounted to 12,000 marks. Because of my activity in the firm Humbo Dolz in Cologne, I was hoping that I could realize my old plan of emigrating. In June 1939 I was in cologne for this purpose. On the first of January 1940 I was to start a position in Valparaiso, Chile and then the war interfered.

Q. Thank You. I think that suffices. Witness, how and when did you come to the SS?

A. I was an enthusiastic motorist when in 1993 in Kempten the SS motorized unit was formed and that is how I came to this SS unit with some friends.

Q. When did you join the party, the Nazi Party?

A. On the 1st of May 1993.

Q. Did you at any time hold a position in the Party?

A. Never in the party, as a political leader, that is.

Q. From 1993 on did you belong to the SS uninterruptedly?

A. No, in 1936 I left the SS.

Q. Why?

A. I had personal differences with my superior.

Q. Did you rejoin the SS before September 1939?

A. No.

Q. What effect did the outbreak of the war in September 1939 have on you? I mean by this, were you drafted into the army or were you able to continue with your profession?

A. On the 25th of August 1939, I was drafted for a short time to the Army Service Command as a driver. I was Assistant Driver with the motor pool. On the 8th of September 1939, I was released again without having received any military training. I continued with my profession.

Q. How did you get to the SD?

A. In the beginning of January 1940, I received the message that I was drafted into the SD by the Reichsfuehrer SS, as an auxiliary worker for the time of the war, as war emergency worker and that I was to report to the office in Augsburg. There I was told that I was on a war emergency Status and that I had been deferred for service in the SD under the Reichsfuehrer SS, and that my salary would be regulated according to the directives which existed.

Q. Did you try to raise any objections against this drafting?

A. Yes, but it was useless. I was told that I would have to comply with a war emergency call.

Q. Why didn't you want to go to the SD?

A. I only had disadvantages to expect. I was born in the year 1903 and I had not served previously and I did not yet have to expect to be drafted in 1940. My business was intact. I had good allocation of merchandise and as an independent businessman I earned much more than what I was getting in the SD.

Q. Did you, after you were drafted into the SD, get any police or military training?

A. No, in no form. This is not necessary for SD activity.

Q. What was your position and activity in the SD?

A. I was auxiliary employee at the office in Kempten and later I was to take over the SD sector.

Q. Through your war emergency call and your transfer to the SD, were you a memeber of the SD or were you merely a temporary employee of it, for the duration of the war?

A. I was not a member of the SD, but merely a temporary employee for the duration of the war.

Q. Can you tell the Tribunal on what this opinion of yours is based?

A. After I was drafted and assigned to the SD the Labor Office in Kempten gave me a service record for my activity in the SD. In this service record from the time of my drafting on, that is the first of March, 1940, the term, "employee of an agency" was listed as my job and furthermore the MOS 25, that is, type of work, that too was listed down in Group B. I was again and again requested to join the organization and I wanted to remain as such.

I had no to position. I was merely an auxiliary employee for the duration of the war.

Q. Did you try, after your objections against this draft were of no avail, to get out of the SD after you had gotten into it?

A. Yes, I tried to get to the General Kommando as an interpreter for English.

Q. Were you successful?

A. No. when the Inspector of the Security Police found out about it, I was transferred to Dueben a few days later.

DR. BELZER: Your Honor, in this connection I would like to submit this document. Document No. 9 in the Document Book Graf on page 23 of the Document Book. This is the correspondence which the Defendant Graf has had at that time with the army District Command. The first letter on page 23 is a letter from the Army Service Command in Kempten of the 25th of February, 1941.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I have just examined the exhibit. This exhibit offered by Dr. Belzer is a typewritten copy. It is the understanding of the prosecution that either the original or a photostatic copy must be submitted as an exhibit. The prosecution is in no position to find out from a typewritten copy anything about the genuiness of the document.

THE PRESIDENT: Firstly, Dr. Belzer, what do you mean to show -

DR. BELZER: May I say something to this? I was told in the Defense Center that everything that can be copied by typewriter is not photostated.

Therefore, I was not in a position to submit a photostat here, but I was told in Room 545 that I would have to copy these documents and that I would have to certify them, and then I could submit them.

THE PRESIDENT: Where is the original? Where is the original?

DR. BELZER: The original is in my possession.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, if you have the original and you will proffer that for inspection, certainly the copy will be accepted.

DR. BELZER: Yes, your Honor. Unfortunately, I do not have it with me, but I will bring it this afternoon.

THE PRESIDENT: Certainly.

DR. BELZER: I repeat then. this is, first of all, a message from the 25th of February 1941, to the Defendant Graf, according to which he is asked to present his birth and christening certificate of him and his family. On the 16th of September 1941, the Draft Board in Kempten told the Defendant Graf that he had to get his release from his office immediately and that he had to confirm his release to the Draft Board. This is a letter of the 16th of April 1941. The next letter is the application of the Defendant Graf of the 18th of April 1941, for the release from the SD. Here I only have the copy and not the original and this circumstance gives me cause to submit the document so that I can ask an additional question of the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, by all means. BY DR. BELZER:

Q. Witness, to whom was this application of 18 April 1941 addressed?

A. To the Inspector of Security Police and SD in Munich , who was competent for me personally.

MR. HOCHAWALD: If Your Honor please, I do understand that these three documents mentioned by Mr. Belzer are not as yet evidence. There will be an offer in evidence as soon as Dr. Belzer gets the original, I presume, and the Prosecution reserves the right to object to these three documents as soon as they are formally offerred.

THE PRESIDENT: You will have all three then this afternoon, Doctor?

DR. BELZER: I hope so, but at the latest tomorrow morning.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. BELZER: Because I don't know whether I have them at home.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, tomorrow morning will be sufficiently early.

DR. BELZER: Thank you. BY DR. BELZER:

Q. Witness, I shall then come back to your previous statement that you were transferred to Deuben, when the Inspector heard of your attempts to get to the Army. I shall ask you now, did the Inspector of the Security Police and SD in Munich get any knowledge of this application of 18th of April?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have a written reply to this application?

A. No, I got no reply, either written nor oral.

Q. In your opinion was the transfer to Dueben the answer to your application for release?

A. Absolutely.

THE PRESIDENT: When was the transfer to Deuben?

THE WITNESS: On 18 May 1941.

Q. Just one month after you had made the request?

A. Yes, Your Honor. BY DR. BELZER:

Q. Did you try to have the transfer order to Deuben revoked?

A. Yes.

Q. Why and with what success?

A. My wife was sick at the time in Stuttgart Hospital, and had telephoned as soon as I heard about my transfer to have this revoked, because at that point it was not clear whether my wife would survive.

Q. Where you successful?

A. No.

Q. Could you have refused to comply with this order?

A. No, that would have been a military disobedience.

Q. Did you have to expect punishment?

A. Yes, according to the regulations I was under the jurisdiction of the SS and Police as an auxilliary was worker.

Q. What were you told about the purpose of your transfer to Deuben?

A. It was a brief military training.

Q. How long were you in Deuben?

A. Until the 22 June 1941, until we left for Russia.

Q. Didn't you get to Schmiedeberg then?

A. Yes, pardon me. For our concept , Schmiedeberg, Dueden and Pretsch are in a locality close by and they were all the same for us.

Q. What did you do in Dueben or Schmiedeberg?

A. In Dueben we merely waited, and a SD officer who was unknown to me asked me a few questions, and the end of May 1941 I was transferred to Schmiedeberg.

Q. And what happened in Schmiedeberg?

A. In Schmiedeberg we were organized into Einsatzcommandos; were lined up in various formation, State Police, Criminal Police and SD, according to a definite plan the men were assigned from these units and were formed into commandos.

I was sent to Einsatzcommando VI together with a SS sergeant, UIrich Krimminger. We were to handle Department III, Which is SD reports. Krimminger as the analyst and I as his aid.

Q. Do I understand you correctly when I assume that only you and Krimminger as SD men were assigned to this EK-VI?

A. Yes.

Q. How large was the commando, otherwise?

A. I can not tell you exactly but it might have been between onehundred sixty and one-hundred eight men.

Q. Did you receive any police or military training in Dueben or Schmiedeberg?

A. No police training but hardly any military training. In the short time of my stay there we had marching exercises, and we were trained very generally in the use of arms.

Q. Did you receive a uniform in Dueben?

A. Yes, field gray with the SD insignia.

THE PRESIDENT: witness, had you had any military training prior to this?

THE WITNESS: No, your Honor.

Q. What training did you receive in the use of arms here at this school, or rather at this assembly point?

A. First of all we got -- theoretical training. We had to take a part carbines and put them together again by ourselves, and later -we had no weapons before, they only arrived a few days before we left for Russia , we did a few exercises on the range, firing exercises, Most of the men the non-coms of the commandos had had a military training. They were men from the Waffen-SS, from the regular police, and officials of the criminal police, and the Gestapo, who were mostly soldiers who had served for twelve years. There were only a very few men there who had not served previously.

Q. Altogether how long did your military training at this point continue?

A. All told, four weeks.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. BY DR. BELZER:

Q. What was your rank in the SS?

A. Unterscharfuehrer, which is equivalent to a sergeant in the German Army.

Q. What were you armed with when you left for Russia?

A. Pistol and a carbine

Q. What were you told about the type of your future assignment?

A. Major Hennicke, who was Chief III of Einsatzgruppe C -- B, rather, at the time it was still called "B" , told Krimminger and myself , or rather informed Krimminger and myself about the mission of the experts of Department III. Where and when the assignments were to take place we were not told.

Q. Did you receive either in Dueben or Schmiedeberg any knowledge in any form whatever about the Fuehrer Order, or about the killing of Jews, Communist functionaries, etc.?

A. No.

Q. When did you hear that you were to be assigned in Russia?

A. On the day we left, after the outbreak of the war with Russia.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Belzer, do you think this might be a good point at which to suspend for recess.

DR. BELZER: Yes, I consider it a suitable point.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, the Tribunal will be in recess for fifteen minutes.

(Recess)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. STUEBINGER for Braune: Your Honor, I would like the defendant Braune to be excused from the session this afternoon as I have to discuss with him various matters concerning his document book.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Braune will be excused from attendance in Court this afternoon.

BY DR. BELZER for the defendant Mathias Graf: examination of the witness. you were to be assigned to the Russian campaign you have not answered yet. When did you go to the East? it was the 23rd. I do not remember exactly.

Q What was the means of transport of the Kommando? the Soviet Union?

Q What was the first garrison of EK-6 in Russian territory?

Q How long did you stay in Lemberg? 6 July 1941.

Q What did you do in Lemberg? Einsatzkommando C-6 arrived in Lemberg. The NKWD building which was assigned to us for billets, a former Polish bank, was at that time inhabited by other units. I believe EK-4-B, EK-5, and EK-C, as well as the Security Police and Crakau, his name was Schoengat, were housed in the center of the town in the school. The vehicles stood on a open square and had to be guarded.

For sentry duty those were appointed who had no special assignment yet. On the first day of our stay I had sentry duty. On the second day I had 24 hour standby. I was to be relieved by SS-Unterscharfuehrer Krimminger. As he did not arrive I took his guard duty as well in order to protect him from punishment. Later on I found out that he was unconscious, apparently poisoned, and he had been delivered to the Hospital. Krimminger came from my home town and at the same time was my superior officer. I asked the Kommando chief SSStandartenfuehrer Dr. Kroeger to care for Krimminger. I got this order and I went to see Krimminger in the field hospital. I turned over to the medical officer his personal belongings, that is, Krimminger's and I tried, as the staff him whether I could take he, Krimminger, would die very soon, I asked him whether I could take his last greetings to his wife. Unfortunately he never woke up again from him unconsciousness. especially of carrying out execution of Jews? active in the actual main building but what they were doing I never learned. EM-6?

A EK-6 moved to the East. As it was raining and the roads were in very poor condition -- they had been partly destroyed -- EK-6 moved very very slowly. We spent the nights in various villages on the roadside and eventually we moved into a brick yard in time which was two kilometers from Proskurov.

Q How long did you stay in Proskurov?

Q What did you do in Proskurov?

Q What was the next garrison?

long did you remain there? remained there until toward the end of July. period?

A No. A few days after we marched into Winiza I was detailed to the liaison officer of AOK-17. That was Untersturmfuehrer Heyer. post with Heyer? Golshevists had not destroyed and with a number of auxiliary workers, they were Russians and mechanics of the Kommando, we catalogized these films and chose the cultural films and also the propaganda films. We packed them into boxes and sent them to the Einsatzgruppe. August when I finally arrived back at my Kommando. Untersturmfuehrer Heyer? That was the Ministry of Economics Staff which had been installed. These military economic leaders had the task to issue several economic decrees. All roads met there. As this economic staff was advancing together with the 17th Army therefore a contact with the SD work was of major importance. In Winiza, however, there was no such German office. untersturmfuehrer Heyer, or did these bits of information also have bits of police matter or were they just merely general information concerning all domestic spheres?

concerning all domestic spheres. you arrived back with your Einsatz-Kommando 6. Where did you meet your Kommando?

Q How long had the Kommando been there?

A I don't know how long it had been there when I arrived, but as far as I remember it remained there until the beginning of October 1941 in Kriwoij-Rog.

Q And you stayed all this time, did you? your activities in Kriwoij-Rog but be as brief as you can.

A May I just point out on the map just where Kriwoij-Rog is?

(The witness pointed out the place on the map)

THE PRESIDENT: How do you spell that town?

MR. HOCKWALD: May I spell it, your Honor? K-r-i-w-o-i-j-r-o-g, Kriwoij-Rog.

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you very much. important ones of eastern Europe. As far as I can remember 60-70% of the Russian-European supplies are being won there. While until then EK-6 had been mainly active in agricultural territories, with Agricultural installations, the Kommando came for t he first time into an industrial territory. It is obvious that, of course, through this the SD reports became of major importance to this. First of all we had to make an inventory as far as this was concerned -- how many ore mines were there before the war, what is the stateof affairs after the occupation, what industries are there, and how far they are intact. All documents concerning these things I obtained and I submitted them to the Kommando chief.

Apart from this the general reporting was started and things had to be found out such as exactly what difficulties the German Military Government wasconfronted with as far as current and lack of water supplies, assignment of indigenous personnel, it had to be esta blished whether any experts or skilled workers or technicians were available. The atmosphere of Kriwoij-Rog was something newto us as well because it was first a purely industrial town with the major part of the population being workers. Therefore, the atmosphere, the mode of the working people had to be reported about, the attitude toward the German Wehrmacht, their preparedness to take up work again, the effect of the German rules and regulations on the general atmosphere, food, health, culture, and the effect on the government. Shortly, we had more and more work with each day, therefore one man was not able to cope with it. Therefore, I suggested to the Kommando chief that as a substitute for Unterscharfuehrer Krimminger, who had died, Unterscharfuehrer Dr. Haste should be appointed as my collaborator. This was agreed to by the Kommando chief. executions on the part of EK-6?

well as the other criminal assistants and secretaries and inspectors who were all contained in the executive department, carried out arrests and interrogations. Who actually carried out executions, I do not know but I only knew that such executions were actually carried out. Jews and Gypsies without being interrogated first?

Q Did not on one occasion Himmler come to Kriwoij-Rog to Kommando 6?

A Yes, I think it was at the end of September 1941. As it was known that Himmler was very interested in German settlements, the Kommando had to prepare for his visit. That is, such settlements had to be prepared for ceremonial welcome. It was my task to deal with these preparations. which you are sitting now it was said that Himmler on the occasions of a visit to Einsatzgruppe D spoke to the officers and Men of Einsatzgruppe D and made known the Fuehrer order to them. I now ask you, did Himmler do the same with EK-6 in Kriwoij-Rog?

Q Did Himmler give a speech in front of a collection of men?

THE PRESIDENT: Did you see Himmler yourself?

THE PRESIDENT: What was the occasion? dinner, to Himmler.

THE PRESIDENT: Did you give him a good dinner?

THE PRESIDENT: If he were alive would you serve him the same dinner now?

Page 4,768

BY DR. BELZER:

Q Where did the Kommando go after they had been in Kriwoij-Rog?

A From Kriwoij-Rog we went to Dnepro petrowsk. May I spell it D-n-e-p-r-o-p-e-t-r-o-w-s-k. Dnepropetrowsk.

Q Did you come in one unit to Dnepropetrowsk?

Q What was the unit with which you arrived there?

Q How long did the main Kommando remain in Dnepropetrowsk? in a few short sentence your activity in Dnepropetrowsk.

THE PRESIDENT: Why don't you say in that place.

A Thank you your Honor, I shall follow this ruling. - - - were similar to those in Kriwoij-Rog. The only difference was there were a number of bigger towns with specific industrial institutions. As far as I remember before the War there were in the vicinity of this town two million people living there. Again I had to ask for expert workers, skilled workers, technicians, engineers. And, through these I had to affirm and establish whether these industrial workers were still there and still available. I had to report about the re-opening of plans and industrial enterprises and about the difficulties connected with the feeding and paying of the working population, as well as other problems, such as electric current, water supply, raw materials, question of transportation, colloboration of the over-lapping German agencies, as far instance, the labor exchange, the mining offices East, railroad administration. I had to take up contact with Economic Agencies and Economic Kommandos who had already founded their central offices for the whole Kommando in Dnepropetrowsk. Apart from that, this place was a university town and the local population tried very hard to re-open the university, especially the medical faculty.

The professors had to be taken care of and the university teachers. Apart from that the effect of the independent administration, that is, the Ukranian mayor's office and the other Ukranian agencies had to be reported about. Furthermore the black market which was extremely active in this place had to be reported about. Then there was an order in existence to compile and collect all important material and yo sent it on to Kiew. Current reports went to the Kommando leader first who then passed them on to the competent agency of the AOK or to the Einsatzgruppe itself. Is your activity as a reporter to be understood with that effect that you were the information piece for the organization?

A No. SD information work and executive activity exclude each other. An SD official, for instance, cannot arrive at a place in the morning in order to carry out an arrest and then in the afternoon report about the same enterprise, about the mode and atmosphere in the working stage. that is quite impossible - dealing with the case in the executive is the work of the Police officials and for this a counter-intelligence service is necessary who has to report about actual cases of persons and who actually deals with these cases. The establishing that the working population takes and the attitude that they work whether willingly or unwillingly, or for this or that reason do not want to work, the executive authority cannot do very much with a report of this nature or, at least, they can't do anything at all with it because there is no basic case from which they can start. But such reports are very significant for all competent authorities in German Administration because if they are issued with expert knowledge they can, or may, be the basis for the elimination of unnecessary severity. Also they can be the basis of further directives and regulations.

and the administrative. what do you exactly mean by executive authorities? up to the carrying out of sentences, in other words, the assignments of Departments 4 and 5 of the domestic agencies. so-called authority in the EK-6, or rather, who was in charge of it? or state police, Stapo. authorities concerning executions, arrests, or even only interrogations in Dnepropetrowsk?

A No. I had so much to do with my work with the Einsatzgruppe C for the department chief of Department 3, that he had no reason whatsoever to assign me to deal with any tasks of the executive authorities. cutions were carried out by the Einsatzgruppe or by other authorities?

A No. In several discussions with the local population I learned that in October numerous Jews had been shot. This I reported, in accordance with my duty, to my kommando chief, the SS Standartenfuehrer Dr. Kroeger, who said that this had been a special police action ordered by the Higher SS and Police Leader Jeckeln, and no official or no man of his kommando had participated in this operation. He did not approve of such measures.

Q were you enlightened about a special figure of Jews? nor by kommando leaders and officers. members of the local population about this fact. Were you then under the impression that knowledge about such facts was a general thing among the population or that it was only certain circles who knew about it?

Ukrainian authorities. One could almost say official agencies because they had been approved of by the German administration, and it is obvious that the chief of a food supply office or the population office, or even the mayor of such a large city has, of course, some extensive knowledge, more extensive knowledge at least than any, citizen. I never heard such remarks expressed by members of the population. you see any Jews there?

Q At any time? were a usual picture in the city. Of any measures of confining these Jews to ghettos in Denpropetnowsk I never heard about. any Jews?

A No. I heard merely and only afterwards of this operation which I have mentioned on the part of the Higher SS and Police Leader Jeckeln.

Q Where did the EK 6 move from Dnepropetrowsk?

A The Kommando advanced via Saporosje to Stalino. In the activity of Saporosje, the kommando, during the night of the 12th to the 13th of November, 1941, was surprised by a fall in temperature, by a catastrophic fall in temperature. Within a few hours the temperature had fallen from plus 10 degrees Centigrade to minus 20 degrees Centigrade, and this had as a consequence that most of our vehicles froze, and the kommando chief passed on the order that the individual vehicles should move on their own independently, or at least try to move, to Stalino. The EK remained in Stalino for eight months.

Q How was the kommando billeted in Stalino? This large building made it possible for us to subdivide the kommando according to departments exactly as it was in the Reich. I myself and my collaborators moved into our own office which was a special office for Department 3, as all other departments of the kommando had other offices allocated to them.

Offices and spheres of activities of the individual departments were divided and separated. General matters were discussed by the kommando chief either in the officers: mess or in the offices of the chief, always with the man competent, to deal with the individual sphere of activity.

Q Did you have access to the officers? mess in Stalino, that is, were you able to take part in the discussions between the chief and the departmental chiefs, or could you only discuss matters with the kommando chief in his office?

AAs an NCO I had no access to the officers? mess. Discussions which I had with my kommando chief took place in his office. Even during the periodical visits of the chief in the Department 3, the discussions pertaining to my sphere of activity took place in my own office.

Q Could you never enter the cassino at all? there as an NCO. of the chief of Office 3? and asked questions concerning SD reporting which I had made and which were to go to the Einsatzgruppe, which had gone in fact to the Einsatzgruppe. Furthermore, he visited other authorities and offices, together with me and my collaborators, and he visited important plants and enterprises.

Q Did you only have to deal with SD reports exclusively in Stalino?

Q Did you make any observations in Stalino concerning executions? that arrests, interrogations had been carried out, and that in individual cases shootings had been carried out.

Stalino, were you them also in Stalino all the time? occasions. On the 20th of December, 1941, I got home leave for 21 days. For the journey there and back I needed about 18 days. On the 28th of January, 1942, I arrived in Stalino. Therefore, I was not with the kommando for five and a half weeks. That is 38 days. The second interrogations happened at the end of March, 1942. I fell ill of dysentery and I was delivered into hospital. During the second half of April, 1942, I was released from field hospital, and first of all I remained in medical treatment. Around about the 9th or 10th of May I got recreation leave of 21 days from which I returned at about the middle of July, 1942, to Stalino. This absence from my kommando therefore lasted for about three months.

Q When did the kommando leave Stalino? towards the east.

Q. did you move with the kommando?

A. No, by order of Einsatgruppe C for "Charles" I remained until further order at Stalino. I saw from letters from my wife that the Inspector of the Security Police and SD in Munich wanted me to be retransferred to my home country and had taken steps to do that and that I could reckon with return very soon. No marching order arrived from Kiev for me so that for almost the whole September I had to remain at Stalino.

Q. What was your activity in Stalino after the kommando had left, Kommando EK 6?

A. That is the new commander of the Security Police and SD in Stalino, for him I had to build up the SD reporting.

Q. What was your subordination?

A. As far as personnel is concerned, according to my knowledge I was a member of the EK 6. I was merely transferred, I was detailed for work in the SD.

Q. Did you ever return at all to the EK 6?

A. No.

Q. Therefore, your activity with EK 6 was practically over at the end of July or beginning of August, 1942, when the kommando left Stalino, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. In Document Book III-C of the prosecution, on Page 123 of the German, Page 74 of the English document book, that is Document NO-4855, Exhibit 146, that is your affidavit of the 28th July, 1947. In this affidavit it says under Paragraph 3, I quote: "In Einsatzkommando 6 I was until the 15th of October, 1942." That is the end of my quotation. How can you bring this in agreement with the statement you just made that your activity with Einsatzkommando 6 was over at the end of July or beginning of August, 1942?

A. As I have said, I did not move from Stalino with EK 6, but I was not active in the kommando since August, 1942, but as far as personnel is concerned, I was a member officially of Einsatzkommando 6. With this limitation the affidavit of the 28th of July 1947 is correct, or this statement.

Q. Were you an officer while you were a member of EK 6?

A. No.

THE PRESIDENT: Do we understand, witness, that you were physically with the kommando until the early part of September, 1942, and then were carried on the rolls of the kommando without active service until October 15, 1942?

THE WITNESS: Yes, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed.

A. (continuing) At the beginning of the assignment in June, 1941 I was Unterscharfuchrer, which is corporal. After approximately a year I became a Scharfuehrer, which is sergeant, and a few months later I became SS-Oberscharfuehrer, which, perhaps, is first sergeant. I was promoted to this rank. These are ranks of the NCO rank and correspond to NCO ranks in the American Army. During my assignment in the East I was at no time an officer.

Q. (By Dr. Belzer) Did you, during any period whatsoever, during your activity in EK 6 or with the kommando of this Security Police and SD, hold any executive powers there?

A. No. I was never in charge of a kommando or a subkommando. Never was I entrusted with the leadership task.

THE PRESIDENT: Did an SS N.C.O. carry the same insignia of rank as a Wehrmacht N.C.O.?

THE WITNESS: No, your Honor, the insignia were slightly different. An N.C.O., exactly as in the Army, has a silver line at his collar, and he had one star on a black ground, one pip, but an N.C.O. of the Wehrmacht and Armed Forces did not have that. He had this line without a star or pip. An N.C.O. of the SS had the same shoulder pieces, the same as in the Wehrmacht with a white silver line.

THE PRESIDENT: How about the insignia of the Officers' ranks of the SS, were they similar in appearance to the insignia of the Army officers holding the same rank?

THE WITNESS: Similar, yes. The shoulder pieces were the same, but the insignia on the ground, on the collar, were different from the Wehrmacht ones. The different ranks of the SS could be recognized by the collar of the officer. An Untersturmfuehrer, for instance, had three stars on his black ground; an Obersturnfuehrer had three stars and a silver line, a silver bar; a Hauptsturmfuchrer had three stars and two silver bars and on the shoulder piece he had two buttons, which was exactly as in the Wehrmacht; a Sturmbannfuehrer had four stars, etc.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, Thank you.

Q. (By Dr. Belzer) Did you ever have anything to do with a police interrogation?

A. No, I neither actually supervised an interrogation nor was I ever present in one.

Q. Did you at any period whatsoever have anything to do with executions carried out by the EK 6?

A. No. I have never been present at any execution, and I could therefore not say who ordered it or carried out such executions.

Q. Were you occupied at any time whatsoever with sifting and sorting out of prisoners in camps?

A. No, and I don't know anything of it.

Q. Did you, at any period whatsoever of your activity in the East, have anything to do with recruiting or with forced deportation of Russian workers to Germany?

A. Recruiting and deportation? No. I merely reported about transports of workers.

DR. BELZER: Your Honor, I think this would be the moment to have our recess before I begin with a new chapter.

DR. HOFFMANN: Defense Counsel Hoffmann for the Defendant Nosske. Your Honor, I should like the Defendant Nosske to be excused this afternoon and tomorrow - this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon in ordered in order for me to prepare his document book with him.

THE PRESIDENT: The Defendant Nosske will be excused from attendance in court this afternoon and tomorrow, Thursday afternoon.

The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:45.

( A recess was taken until 1345 hours.)

(The hearing reconvened at 1400 hours, 7 January 1948.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed, Dr. Belzer.

DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued) BY DR. BELZER:

Q. Witness, theprosecution , in support of their charges against you, as far as your activity in Einsatzkommando 6 is concerned, has referred to three documents, Document No. 3240 in Document Book II C, page 65 of the German text, page 60 of the English text, Exhibit 80. Secondly, it has had reference to Document No. 3405 in Book IIA, page 61 of the German, page 67 of the English, Exhibit Number 42; and finally, to Document No. 3340, in Document Book I, on page 119 of the German text and page 86 of the English text. This is Exhibit Number 22. When the prosecution submitted these documents, it had the following to say, and I quote, "All these documents refer to the executions carried out by Einsatzkommando 6 during the time that Graf was a member of it." Can you say anything about these documents?

A. I can, first of all, only repeat that I did know of the carrying out of executions, but that I had no knowledge of details about how they were carried out. Whether, when and where the executions mentioned in these and other documents were carried out, I do not know. The reports were not made out by me, and I did not see them until I got here to Nurnberg. I was in no way concerned with matters dealing with the executive measures.

Q. Witness, you have read through all the prosecution documents?

A. Yes.

Q. And in other situation reports, too, I have read of executions which were carried out by the Einsatzkommando 6. Does your statement which you just made also refer to those situation reports?

A. Yes, likewise.

Q. Will you now briefly tell the Tribunal how you were finally relieved from the Eastern assignment?

A. The office of the commander of the security police and SD in Stalino was set up in August 1942, as far as I remember. As I said before, I had been transferred to this agency in order to build up the Department III, which is the information service. In the beginning the commander had very few officers. New subcommandos had to be set up. Because of this great lack of officers, noncommissioned officers were given the leadership of the subcommandos. Around the end of September 1942 I was to take over a subcommando, too. I rejected this, saying that I had only been ordered to set up Department III, that I had been furnished by the group for this purpose and I was onlya man who dealt with SD reports. Because of refusal to obey an order, a trasncript was immediately taken down and I was arrested. After eight days I was released from this custody; in the middle of October 1942 I was ordered to repor t to Kiev where a disciplinary proceeding was to be started against me. After long delay

General Thomas decided that no disciplinary proceeding was to be started against me, and I was returned to Germany.

Q. Thus from Kiev you neither went to Stalino nor to Rostov to return to the Einsatzkommando 6 ?

A. No. After this stay in Kiev I rturned directly to Germany.

Q. While travelling from Stalino to Kiev did you stop in Rostov?

A. Yes, my orders read Stalino, Rostov, Kiev. I was to report to my unit, Einsatzkommando 6, in Rostov before leaving.

Q. Did you speak to the commando leader in Rostov?

A. No. I was told that the commanding officer was in Kiev.

Q. Who was the commanding officer of Einsatzkommando 6 at that time?

A. The co-defendant Biberstein.

Q. Were you not in Rostov on another occasion?

A. No. I was in Rostov only once.

Q. Did you have any special mission to carry out in Rostov?

A. No. During my trip to Rostov I had already been relieved because I disobeyed the order. I undertook the trip to Rostov in the accompaniment of the two responsible Ukrainian physicians of the civilian hospital in Stalino, who, because of a threatening epidemic of diphtheria, were in need of diphtheria serum. I accompanied these two physicians to the director of the bacteriological institute in Rostov where the physicians , on the basis of a requisition slip , which I obtained for them, were able to obtain a sufficient amount of vaccine.

Q. Did you voluntarily offer your aid to these two Ukrainian physicians, or did you have an order to do so?

A. I offered this assistance voluntarily. Of course, I had to notify my commanding officer to the effect that I wanted to help them.

Q. That was then your last activity in the assignment in the East in Russia?

A. Yes.

Q. I cannot leave the unsavory field of Russia without asking you a specific question. You need not answer this question.

THE PRESIDENT: What kind of a question is it, if it isn't to be answered.

DR. BELZER: I think that after I have asked the question, the Tribunal will understand why I made this preliminary remark.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, we are all in expectation. BY DR. BELZER:

Q. Witness, do you know anything about a nickname which you had in the Einsatzkommando?

A. Yes.

Q. What was this nickname, and how do you explain that you were given this nickname?

A. I was named "the paper soldier", perhaps because I had more to do with paper and files than with military matters.

DR. BELZER: Thank you. BY DR. BELZER:

Q. Then we shall return back home. When did you get back home?

A. About the middle of November 1942.

Q. What was your activity back home?

A. After a short furlough I took over the leadership of the SD office in Kempten as a commissar. On the 15th of November 1944 I was given the commissar leadership of the SD office in Kaufbeuren. In Kempten, as well as in Kaufbeuren, I was occupied purely with SD intelligence service.

Q. Did you during your activity in Kempten and in Kaufbeuren send information to the police, and especially to the Gestapo?

A. No. No such information was asked of me.

Q. This morning you explained that before your assignment in Russia you had refused repeated requests to join the SD. I now ask you, did you become a member of the SD after you returned from Russia?

A. No, I remained a temporary employee for the duration of the war. On the 20th of April, 1944, I was promoted to SS Untersturmfuehrer, 2nd Lt., but this did not change anything in my position or in my pay in the SD.

Q. In order to clarify this, your promotion to SS Untersturmfuehrer, that is, to an officer's rank, took place, according to what you say, approximately one and one-half years after you returned from Russia, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Witness, you told us you had left the SS in the year 1936. How is it possible that, as you have just stated now, you were promoted to an SS Untersturmfuehrer in April 1944?

A. After I was put on a war emergency status and drafted as a temporary employee for the duration of the war, I made an application in June 1940 to be taken back into the SS. The SS Personnel Office then asked me to present the papers of my family and my marriage certificate. I did so and I wrote out my biography, which is contained in Book III-D of the Prosecution, Exhibit 147, Document No-4801, page 125 of the English text.

Q. Witness, may I interrupt, please? You said, Document Book III-D?

A. Pardon me, it is Book III-C, English page 125.

THE PRESIDENT: What page number?

THE WITNESS: Document Book III-C, English page 125.

DR. BELZER: English page 75, Exhibit 147.

THE WITNESS: The biography is on page 4 of the original. made an application for re-entry. Here I made a mistake at the time. It should say in June 1940.

Q. Does this document contain any other mistakes which you would like to correct?

THE PRESIDENT: Which page was that, please?

DR. BELZER: Page 4 of the original, page 78.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Page 78 of the Document Book, your Honor, on the bottom of the page.

DR. BELZER: It is the last sentence.

A. In the biography itself it should read in the next to the last sentence, paragraph 2, "In 1925 I returned to Germany" and in paragraph 4 it should say, "on the 1st of May, 1933", not, "1935", when I went to the Party. That is on page 3 of the original, your Honor. That is page 3 of there original. It should say on page 3 of the original, "married since the 16th of September, 1936". On page 1 of the original it says "SS" and below it "16 September 1939". The comparison with other documents shows that this is a mistake in copying from the original. This date has nothing to do with the SS. It evidently is supposed to be the date of my marriage, which is incorrect in addition. I was married on the 16th of September 1936.

Q. What made you apply for re-entry into the SS?

A. The then personnel manager with the SD office in Augsburg, Hauptsturmfuehrer Junginger, persuaded me to make this application. After a long delay I finally agreed to do so, after this man, Junginger, had expressly assured me that I would not become a member of the SD in this way.

Q. Why didn't you want to become a member of the SD under any circumstances?

A. Because I Wanted to take advantage of the first opportunity to get away from the SD and in order to take up once more my profession as a businessman.

Q. And I shall now come to another document which the prosecution has submitted. This is also in Document Book III-C on page 123 of the German text, page 74 of the English text. This is Document NO-4855, Exhibit 146. This is your affidavit of 28 July 1947. In this affidavit it says under paragraph

2, and I quote, "In 1933 I joined the General SS, my membership number being 47,431". Did you, before signing this affidavit, demand that it be added here that you left the SS in 1936?

A. Yes.

Q. Why was this change not made?

A. When this affidavit was made out, you, my defense Attorney, were present. The interrogator, Mr. Wartenberg, and you told me that I could make this addition in my direct examination. That is why I was satisfied with that explanation and did not made the addition in the affidavit.

Q. You have repeatedly stated today that you left the SS in 1936. In the document which was discussed previously, NO-4801, Book III-C, on page 75 of the English, page 125 of the German, the date you mentioned as to when you left the SS, is listed as March 1937. How do you explain this discrepancy between these two statements?

A. I left in the summer of 1936. I received the confirmation of my leaving the SS in March 1937.

Q. After you once again had become a member of the SS in the year 1940, I now ask you, did you perform any service with the General SS after you re-entered the SS in 1940?

A. No, in no manner.

DR.BELZER: I thank you. I have no further questions, and I have completed the direct examination of the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: What about your document book, Dr. Belzer?

DR. BELZER: After my other witness has been heard, I Shall submit them. They are all ready and I am prepared to submit the documents, perhaps after the cross-examination.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you have another witness?

DR. BELZER: Yes, I have a woman witness, Mrs. Reimers. She is present, and the Tribunal approved of a third witness, but he is not able to come and I shall do without the witness Hasslinger who had been approved by the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: If you can obtain an affidavit from that missing witness, of course, it will be acceptable.

DR. BELZER: That cannot be done unfortunately, your Honor. According to the information I received, this witness is in a French prisoner-of-war camp, but I was not able to find him.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Does any defense counsel desire to cross-examine the witness: BY DR. FICHT (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT BIBERSTEIN):

Q. Witness, you said that you were transferred from Einsatzkommando VI in August 1942 and you were then active in a different agency in Stalino, while Einsatzkommando VI itself proceeded on to Rostov and you merely went to Rostov to report there before leaving the unit and that you had not met the then commanding officer of the kommando, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. I want to ask you this: As for the Defendant Biberstein, who was then the commanding officer of the unit, did you ever get to know him personally before you came to Nurnberg?

A. No.

Q. Who was your commanding officer when you were detailed from the unit in Stalino and when the unit left for Rostov?

A. That was Sturmbannfuehrer Mohr.

officer of the Einsatzkommando VI and when Biberstein became the commanding officer, do you have any knowledge about that? my comrade Dr. Hasslinger, that the kommando leader, Mohr, that is my kommando leader of Einsatzkommando VI, had been very briefly with the kommando of the Security Police and SD Stalino and that he had been relieved and that he was on his way home via Kiev. I cannot give you the exact date, unfortunately, because I did not speak to Mohr himself. Biberstein started as commanding officer?

DR. FIGHT: Thank you. I have no further questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Judge Dixon has posed a question. Do you know why Mohr was relieved before Biberstein arrived?

THE WITNESS: No, Your Honor. I had no knowledge about that.

THE PRESIDENT: I see. Very well. Mr. Hochwald, are you ready to proceed? BY MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: rejoined the SS in 1940, it was before you were assigned to an Einsatzgruppe, is that correct? deferred to the SD?

Q Can you tell the Tribunal in what capacity?

call, they merely told me that I was to be employed as an auxiliary war employee.

Q Did you receive a rank when you entered the SD?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, neither a rank nor a uniform.

Q When did you receive the uniform? been between January and March 1941.

Q It was when you were still in Germany?

Q From whom did you receive the draft? Who informed you? Which was the office which informed you about your draft? labor office in Augsburg? to join the SD?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, that is not the way it was. Somewhat later, via the labor kommando in Kempten, as far as I can recall it today, I received an official message that I was on an emergency war status and in this notification the inspector of the Security Police and the SD was mentioned as the agency which had put me on this war emergency call.

Q Did you try to evade this draft?

A Yes, Mr. Prosecutor, as I have already said this morning.

Q Did you make a written request to be released?

A No, not as far as I know. When I reported in Augsburg, I immediately made my objections orally and the personnel officer, I think it was a Major May, at the time, said that "there is no use for you to object to this. We realize that it is difficult for you, but there is nothing that can be done about it."

had you not? collusion between the SD and the Wehrmacht? Will you explain how the thing was handled that you just wont over from the Wehrmacht to the SD?

A This morning, Mr. Prosecutor, I said that before the beginning of the war, that is, on the 25th of August, I was drafted by the Service Command of the Army as an assistant driver. After the mobilization had been completed, if one may call it that, the motor pool was handed over to the Government Councillor there. Thus a military installation became a civilian one and that was probably the reason why a few days later, probably no more than two weeks I was released from there. I had not served previously. I was Age Group 1903 and on the basis of my medical examination which took place at that time I think I heard -- of course, we were not informed about it but I think I heard -- that I was not fit for military service at that time. called up?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I was a businessman. With great pains I had built up my own business without any help from anyone else and at that time I earned an average of 1,000 Marks a month. Because of my connections with manufacturers, merchandise continued to be delivered to me, so that at that time it wasn't a matter of having to try to make a sale. One had, first of all, to get hold of the merchandise.

question of your salary which made you reluctant to join the SD?

A Mr. Prosecutor, not quite. It was not a financial matter, but it was a matter of my existence, because I thought if I get out of my business, I will lose the contact with my customers, and furthermore it is better for a businessman if he stays away from politics.

Q Did you know what the SD was when you joined it? not say so. I merely knew it was an information service. That is all I know. the Nazi Party, did you not?

A Mr. Prosecutor, the Intelligence Department is not the right word. At this place here, right here, my codefendant Ohlendorf characterized the SD more aptly by calling it a type of Gallup Poll. I do not mean that this is the same thing new. Of course, it was an organization of the Nazi Party in addition, including everything that that term means, but it was not an Intelligence Office.

THE PRESIDENT: I did not quite catch the reference to the Gallup Poll. I know you meant it as an illustration, but I didn't get the significance of what you said.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If I understood the witness, he wanted to say that it was something like the Gallup Institute to find out about public opinion, obviously,

THE PRESIDENT: I see, thank you. Institute, the SD?

A Well, I couldn't determine that at that time.

Q You did not know that at that time? When you come to pretseh and Schmiedeberg, you did not hear about the Hitler order, is that correct?

Page 4,791

A No, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q When did you hear about this order for the first time? the IMT trial, I heard through the then counsel for the SD, Dr. Gawlik, about the Prosecution's material against the SD, and this was the first opportunity when I became acquainted with the Fuehrer Order. Gypsies and other people, insane people and other people not liked by the Nazi Regime were deliberately killed by the Einsatzgruppen?

A I didn't hear this at any time in this form in which you put it. correct? you were in Russia you never learned that there was a general policy, or a general program to exterminate those people?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I neither heard this in Russia, nor did I hear that later, from the documents which have been submitted against Einsatz Kommando-VI. This morning I said that once in Dnepropetrowsk I heard from the population that the SS and police Leader - - - rather, I heard this from my commanding officer, but I heard from the population that Jews were shot.

Q Did you hear why the Jews were shot? officer told me this was a special operation by the Police.

Q I do not think that you answered my question. I didn't ask you by whom. I am asking you whether you heard why these Jews were shot. Were they shot for the simple reason that they were Jews?

A I don't know, Mr. Prosecutor, and did'nt know it at the time either. I merely knew that Jews were being shot. that they were shot for the reason that they were Jews?

A Not in my opinion, Mr. Prosecutor, because I was an Intelligence-man, and the only duty which I had as an SDExpert was to report any influence the German occupation Forces had on the morale of the population to my superior officer, but it was not my duty to ask my superior, "Colonel, why were these Jews shot?" did you hear about mass executions? Or about executions at all? Dnepropetrowsk.

Q And about other executions? Kriwoirog and Stalino. were a member had as its main task to kill people, is that correct?

A No. Mr. Prosecutor, in my position, in my field of work I could not establish this. I never made the observation that, for example, in a new garrison Jews were put into a Ghetto, or that any other measures were taken against the Jews. the Einsatzkommando VI was about one-hundred sixty to onehundred eighty men strong, is that right?

AAt the beginning, yes, Mr. Prosecutor.

What did they tell you about their activities?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I didn't Speak with my fellow soldiers about this subject. I didn't go to my fellow worker in Department-IV and ask, "What are you doing?" What I heard was the conversations which took place between comrades, but gneerally my activity allowed me little contact with the other man. you were gating with them in the same mess hall, and that you word sleeping in the same quarters, that you shered your offtime with them. You must have known something about their activity?

A Right, Mr. Prosecutor, I confirmed that in my direct examination. executed by the unit of which you were a member?

A Certainly, I did ask them. In the course of the conversation this was quite natural, and down to the last day of my membership in Einsatzkommando VI I was of the opinion that every single case was investigated, and that only guilty people would be convicted and shot.

Q Why did you have this impression? Did you see or were you present at some of these investigations?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, this opinion stems from the conversations which I had with my comrades. It was discussed that Partisans, Saboteurs, Looters, and various other clements who had violated the regulations of the Army would be investigated and convicted. were not able to state from the documents here that there was a general program to kill the Jews. Would you please turn to Document Book II- A, and the quotation is from page 57, Your Honor.

It is Document No. 3445, Prosecution's Exhibit No. 42, the page is 67 I am quoting from, from the top of the document. Here it says very clearly that between the 24th and the 30th of November 274 people were killed, and not less than 226 of those 274 were killed, as the document says, for the simple reason that they were Jews?

A Right, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q Do you know about these executions? about these document that I knew nothing about it.

Q How do you explain that you don't know anything about it? The number in your Einsatzkommando was one-hundred sixty to one-hundred eighty men, and most of the men must have killed in those six days two people each, and you have been living among them without knowing a thing, is that what you are going to tell the Tribunal? date and the number are listed there, but not the place.

A Of course, Mr. Prosecutor, the Einsatzkommando VI, always was divided into three or four sub-commandos. I only had to concern myself with information work, and, therefore, I could not know what the commando and its sub-commandos were doing.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, I don't think you got an answer on your question. I am sorry. I don't think you got an answer to the question which you put. You said that the witness had indicated that even the reports didn't show that Einsatzkommando VI had ever shot any Jews. Then you called his attention to this report. Well, that observation of yours was not commented on, and then you went to something else.

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, may I say something about this. I think there is a mistake here. I didn't understand then Prosecutor to say that I didn't know anything about Jewish executions, but Mr. Hochwald spoke of mass executions.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, did you say, witness, that you didn't know about executions of Jews, nor do the reports show that Einsatzkommando VI executed Jews as Jews, did you make that statement here?

THE WITNESS: Pardon me, Your Honor, that is not the way I wanted to express myself.

THE PRESIDENT: Just what did you say about the reports?

THE WITNESS: The debate started with the question of the Prosecutor, as to whether my knowledge is the only one about mass executions in Dneproptrowsk.

MR. HOCHWALD: I do think you are mistaken,witness. I asked you, when did you learn for the first time that the general policy existed to kill the Jews, and, if I am not mistaken, you answered that "I didn't learn that during all the time I was in Russia, and I didn't learn it later, and even the documents, sofar as Einsatzcommando VI is concerned, do not show that such general policy existed." So I am asking now - - -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, first, let's find out if hc said that. My recollection is he said it in answer to his own counsel's question.

MR. HOCHWALD: He also said it in answer to my question, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, let's find out if he confirmed that; that the reports do not show that Einsatzcommando VI killed Jews because they were Jews.

THE WITNESS: I didn't mean to say that, Your Honor. I think the whole thing can be traced to the mistake that I assume Dr. Hochwald was speaking of mass executions.

MR. HOCHWALD: All right, do you consider the shooting of 226 Jews not a mass execution?

THE WITNESS: Right, right, Mr. Prosecutor.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, that right, right does not make it it very clear. Your question is put in the negative, and you got two affirmatives, so now we don't know just what really it is. execution?

THE PRESIDENT: All right, suppose we take up from this point, Mr. Hochwald, after recess.

MR. HOCHWALD: Yes, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will now be in recess for fifteen minutes.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will be in recess for fifteen minutes.

(recess)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

Dr. VOEKEL for the defendant Six: Your Honor, I have to make the request for the defendant Six to be excused tomorrow from the session because I would like to discuss his defense with him.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Six will be excused from attendance in Court all day tomorrow.

DR. VOELKEL: Thank you.

PRESIDENT: You are welcome. BY DR. HOCHWALD:

Q. May it please the Tribunal, before the recess Herr Graf spoke about the document in Document Book II-A on page 67, your Honors, No-3405. It is Prosecution Exhibit 42. If you look farther into this document you will see that up to 12 November 1941 Einsatzkommando-6 shot 800 insane people. What do you know about the shooting of these 800 people?

A. I do not know anything about this shooting.

Q. Nothing at all. Herr Graf, what was your rank at that time?

A. I was an NCO.

Q. You were an NCO in this outfit. You had quite an important position. You are an intelligent person, you are not blind, you are not deaf, people are killed in your presence by the thousands. Nevertheless, you don't know a thing. Is that what you want the Tribunal to believe?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I really do not know anything about the shooting of these persons.

Q. About how many executions did you know in all the time you were in Russia?

A. As I said this morning I learned from my comrades that people were arrested, interrogated, and shot, but I never learned any figure.

Q. You have never asked "How many did you shoot?" "How many execution do you carry out regularly, or usually?" You have never asked that?

A. That was not my task.

Q. I know that it was not your task but it doesn't stand to reason, Herr Graf.

An execution is not an everyday thing in a soldier's life. It's only in an executioner's life an everyday thing. You were surrounded by these executions. You heard by the population, from the population, about these executions, and you are still maintaining here as a witness that you did not know the number, you did not know the reason, and you did not know anything about these executions. That is what you are going to tell the Tribunal here?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, the state of affairs was this. First, executions were not publicly carried out. Secondly, those persons who had orders to deal with these matters resented to discuss these matters.

And, I had no reason whatsoever to ask my comrades about this and I never did so, because after all, as you quite rightly put it, an execution is not a very agreeable matter.

Q. In other words, now you want to tell us that you did not ask as you did not want to know - you just did not want to know what was going on.

A. That is not what I wanted to say. But as an NCO in the position I held I merely dealt with my own SD tasks and I did not bother about the tasks of Department 4.

Q. But you yourself have volunteered this statement, that from the part of the population you had been informed about these executions which were carried out in Dnjepropetrowsk.

A. Yes.

Q. You know that by EK-6 people were executed. It's impossible, Herr Graf, that you knew that but refused to know on the other hand how many and why the people were executed. I do know that you did not know possible, the number 226 Jews which appears in the document, but you must have known by then that approximately 200 Jews were shot by your Kommando. You must have known that approximately 800 insane were shot by your Kommando. This is not 2, this is not 1, these certainly are mass executions.

with my former way of putting it I did not express myself very well. What I really wanted to say was that it does not become evident from the documents when - or at least it does become evident when, but not where these executions took place. In this document, for instance, it only says that those eight hundred people were shot in the lunatic asylum Igrin, but the remaining 274 shootings, I do not know, whether those were carried out in Dnjepropetrowsk or Vasilkowska, or were they carried out by another subkommando of EK 4?

Q This perfecty correct. I do not want to say that I do know that these people were killed in Dnjepropetrowsk, but they were killed by your unit. This unit was a small unit, 160 to 180 men, as you said yourself. You have been living with these people for one and a half years. The record is full of documents which show that executions were carried out by Einsatzkommando 6, not only once, not only twice, but many times, and I ask you now, how often did you hear about executions carried out by the unit of which you were a member?

A To give you an exact figure, Mr. Prosecutor, is impossible for me. Out of my own free will, I told you this morning that I heard about shootings through comrades, but I have not heard exact figures or exact dates.

Q Can you estimate how often you heard about executions?

AAny figure that I might give you, Mr. Prosecutor, might be wrong. I said that on various occasions I heard several times about it, but I don't know how many times.

Q All right. Possibly I can ask you something else. Did you hear once a week usually when you were in Russia, or more often then once?

A May I say something else to this, Dr. Hochwald? The Einsatzkommando itself was only in the rarest cases - I do not know of any such case -in the same buildings as the prisoners were housed.

For instance, in Stalino the distance from the prison to the kommando office was at least two kilometers. Therefore, for somebody who actually has this office with the kommando it is not possible to find out when executions are to take place, and it was similar in Dnjepropetrowsk, the prisoners were in the building of the kommandantura, so were the interrogation rooms, so I could not find out about it. hausted and nervous?

A May I say something else to this, Mr. Prosecutor? The office routine, which employed at least thirty people of the armed SS and the Ukrainian auxiliary police, was carried on in such a way that I could not find out about such matters. They were partly in another building and I did not see them come or go. had been in Russia for three weeks, but you have been there for one and a half years. During this one and a half year Einsatzkommando 6 had as its main task the extermination of people; and you tell the Tribunal that you heard about its extermination program as late as in 1946. Do you stand to this testimony?

A Mr. Prosecutor, you say that Einsatzkommando C-6 had as its main task to exterminate people. I can assure you, Mr. Prosecutor, that during the whole time in which I was with Einsatzkommando 6 I was certainly not of the opinion and as far as I can reconstruct happenings I could not have had this opinion, that exterminatings were concerned. I knew that persons were arrested; that they were interrogated; and I knew that after a procedure they were shot, but I did not know anything of exterminations. Did you know it?

or something like that?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, I cannot even say anything about there kind of procedure because I don't know anything about it, but I cannot say of what opinion I was during the time I was with Einsatzkommando 6,and then I was of the opinion that they were normal martial law courts.

Q Very well. You told the Tribunal that you were informed by the population when you made your survey of the public opinion -

Q Didn't you learn then the reaction to these activities of Einsatzkommando 6? The population certainly told you a little more than the bare sentence. "By police measure the Jews were killed." Were you not interested to find out how the public opinion reacted to these killings?

A Mr. Prosecutor, it was very difficult for me personally as at that time I did not speak any Russian, and I did not understand it. I tried to learn from various inhabitants, of the town what their attitude was and with this, as I certified this morning, I also heard in Dnjepropetrowsk that the population as such knew about exterminations of Jews, but it wasn't so that everybody told me the same thing but only one or two people who held an official position. That is what I said this morning, for instance, officials of the municipalities, of the Registration Office council, the food supply offices,etc. The population as such spoke very little to me about these things.

Q Didn't those people who told you about these facts,didn't they tell you a little more than just saying Jews were killed, finished? to speak in sort of broken German with me and the drift of these conversations was, "Levy kaput; Robinson Kaput."

That is more or less how it happened. But they did not tell me that they disapproved of the shooting or that they had any emotion or any emotional attitude against the German population or the German occupation, or at least I certainly could not establish this fact at that time. I must say though, that they were somehow shocked, I must admit that. the task of the Einsatzkommando? You must have had some idea why this Einsatzkommando was formed. So you told me that you did not know that the main task of the Einsatzkommando was the extermination of people. Will you tell the Tribunal now what you did think was the main task of the Einsatzgruppe? here, the main task of Einsatzkommandos was the securing of the frontal area and the rear army territory, the security, in fact. out? occupied country, Einsatzkommandos as, for instance, in Norway, France, Czechoslovakia and Poland, and I also knew that the task of these Einsatzkommandos was the security and consisted of fighting active enemy forces by the corresponding officials and men in Department IV, or, at least, that they were arrested, and if they could be found they would be shot. That is what I knew at the time, and that is what I assumed.

Q. Did you think that this was a legitimate activity?

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I believed it at the time, for the more reason that I am neither a lawyer myself, nor that I had any knowledge of international law and jurisprudence, and I also did not know what shape the combat between Germany and Russia took.

Q. I do think it is not necessary to be a legal man to know that the population of an occupied country has the right, every citizen of the world has the right for their own lives.

Q Didn't you find out that these activities of Einsatzkommando 6 violated these rights?

A. Not at the time, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q. So, you were of the opinion that it was completely legitimate to kill these people?

A. That, of course, I can not say either, Mr. Prosecutor, but I am of the opinion that the only person who can judge whether it is legitimate or illegitimate is the kommando chief because he, after all, decides whether the man to be shot is really shot and because he is the only one who has knowledge of the activities of the kommando.

outfit, should you not have at least a general knowledge of what was going on in this outfit--did you never hear any of your comrades say that this mass shooting of Jews or for instance of insane has been ruining his nerves, ruining his health--did you never hear such a remark? especially members of the Waffen SS said that they would much rather be in the first trenches than here. I asked why, and then they said, "I will not tell you that," this was the gist. situation?

A Well, Mr. Prosecutor, I imagine that for the person who has to carry out an execution, it is very hard to carry it out.

Q I do not think that you answered my question. I asked you whether you did not guess from these remarks of your fellow soldiers why they did want to be, rather on the battle field than in this outfit.

INTERPRETER HILDESHEIMER: I would like to say something, Mr. Hochwald. You are listening to the witness without us, and the witness is listening to you without us. You must both wait for the interpretation.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal confirms that.

MR. HOCHWALD: I am sorry, Your Honor. BY MR. HOCHWALD: battlefield than in Einsatzkommando 6, did you not? who has been convicted is a hard task for these people. by Einsatzkommando 6, did you not?

A I did not learn of any extensive figures, Mr. Prosecutor, as altogether I did not find any total figures.

page 86, Your Honors, No. 3340, Prosecution Exhibit 22, page 67 of the German, and I am quoting from page 87 in the middle of the page, second to the last paragraph. It is on page 118 in German--I am sorry. Here it is said that" Einsatzkommando 6 shot in the past weeks 173 political officials, 56 saboteurs and looters, and 149 Jews. And if you turn two paragraphs farther you can read that "During the period from January 10 to 6 February 1942 in Dnjepropetrowsk 17 criminals, 103 communists, 16 partisans, and about 350 Jews were shot. In addition 400 inmates of the Igrin mental hospital and 320 inmates of the Vasilkowska mental hospital were disposed of", which means, of course, that they were also killed. These are great numbers and certainly could not have completely escaped?

A May I say something to this document, Mr. Prosecutor; first of all, I do not know anything about the content matter and the origin of this document. Secondly, it becomes evident from his document, as you just said yourself, that Einsatzkommando 6 shot in the past weeks 173 political officials, 56 saboteurs and looters, and 149 Jews. The document itself was issued on the 25th of February 1942. I assume, therefore, that it is based on a report of the Einsatzkommando but it is a fact that the Einsatzkommando 6 had already been in Stalino for three months on 25 February, therefore, I do not quite understand how executions in Dnjepropetrowsk could have been carried out by Einsatzkommando 6. around?

A Quite right, Mr. Prosecutor, but Dnjepropetrowsk was after the 15th of November 1941 under German civil administration according to my knowledge, at least. Therefore, from this date on there was a civil administration in Dnjepropetrowsk, and there was a higher SS and police leader and a high commander of the security police and the SD. When these people were installed, I cannot know that, but I do know that the Einsatzkommando 6 on the 12th of November, as I said today, had evacuated Dnjepropetrowsk completely.

Q How do you reconcile then your statement with the document?

A Mr. Prosecutor, Dr. Hochwald, I only know, I can only tell you what I know. I cannot tell you anything about this do because I did not make it out, and I do not know who compiled it. earlier than in May 1942?

A That is possible. I cannot judge, but I do know that on the 12th of November the Einsatzkommando 6 had completely evacuated Dnjepropetrowsk. When the commander started his job, I do not know.

Q You made the reports for the commando leader, did you not? Gruppe? leader to the group. As a noncommissioned officer, I did not hold authority to send a NSD report to the group myself. numbers of executions were given?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor. to the Gruppe?

A No. That was the task of Department IV, Mr. Prosecutor. which turned over their report to the commander and who then passed on the individual reports to the group. commander? but what it said in these reports. I did not know.

Q But Mr. Graf, you have told the Tribunal just a while ago that you knew that people were executed on the basis of the investigations made by Department IV?

Q, Isn't it then true that you. must have also known that the Department IV, when making these reports reported about these activities, is that right?

Q So you know that Department IV was reporting the executions? just killed by Einsatzkommando 6 during the time you were there? Were you never curious to know?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q So you were not concerned with these questions, were you?

A Mr. Prosecutor, I am not - an never was a policeman, Matters connected with police actions were entirely foreign to me. Furthermore, as a noncommissioned officer, I had no authority or right to ask anybody about them.

Q All right, but you also had to evaluate documents, is that right?

A Yes, Mr. Prosecutor.

Q If you came into a NKVD building, and you found these documents, didn't you evaluate them; if you got a list of communists, did you not know that you had to hand this list to Department IV so that the people could be shot off--you must have known something about that?

A Yes, but may I tell you something? Did you ever see a list made out in Russian? whether that is a list of clothing, or whether it is names of towns, or what it is - I certainly didn't know it.

Q How could you then evaluate the document?

A I did not want to cay by that, Mr. Prosecutor, that I evaluated it, that it was my task to secure documents of any kind, and the interpreters who were also there in the commando then had to sift the documents and to pass them on to the competent departments.

Q Was that done under your supervision?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, that was under the order of the commander leader who knew Russian fluently and could read every document.

Q Then I am at a loss as to what you had been doing, you couldn't read it, you did not supervise it, so what actually did you do with these documents?

A May I tell you, Mr. Prosecutor, which were the documents which were of special interest to me. They were not the K NKWD documents. That was the task of Department IV. What was of special interest to me were the documents of the special enterprises. When I arrived at an enterprise at which the offices had not been tidied yet and brought into order, there were a number of documents which c mid interest me for SD reports. With these reports I went to see the Chief and I asked him whether I could have an interpreter and then we sifted the necessary documents together.

Q All right. You came to a factory and there was a list of the higher officials. As the factories, all of them, were state owned in Soviet Russia, it can he presumed that the high officials or the higher employees in this factory were all Bolschevist. Did you hand over, when you got these lists, did you hand over these list to Department IV?

A I know what you mean to get at, Mr. Prosecutor, but I am afraid . I cannot he of any help to you here. I could give you a number of names, names of plant managers, names of former departmental chiefs during the Russian period in municipal and state enterprises who were not only not arrested, but who were re-instated in their former positions. I can say here under oath that the chief mayor of Stalino was registered member of the Communist Party, which meant quite a hit in Russia, because as you know, there were only one and a half to two millions. The task of an SD reporter was not to safeguard people. That was again the task of Department IV. My task was, on the contrary, to intervene that skilled labor and experts were employed, even if they were politically not quite sound.

Q And how was it with Jews? If your skilled specialists were Jews, what happened to them?

AAgain I cannot oblige you, Mr. Prosecutor. It is a fact that in the territory around Stalino 95% of the craftsmen, that is, also specialists, were Jews, and a mining enterprise one cannot reinstate without craftsmen. Therefore, Wehrmacht agencies, as well as industrial enterprise which interested themselves in this, had to go on employing a number of Jewish specialists.

Q And how was it with the Jews in Gorlowka, for instance? VI, but I can't say anything about it, because I have never been a member of this subkommando in Gorlowka and because the subkommando, chief, who I think was an Obersturmfuehrer or an Untersturmfuehrer, never told me anything about shootings that had taken place there.

Q But you were in Stalino, were you not? this city? estimate and that would be arbitrary. person was Jewish or every fifteenth person was Jewish, or something like that.

A I can only tell you one thing, Mr. Prosecutor, that through the ceasing of the attack of the German troops in the Dnjepr area and through the extensive radio propoganda on the part of the Red Army which II listened to myself that there were hardly any Jews, or no big number of Jews in the Stalino area. Stalino itself was a town which had only come into existence during the last 20 years, a peasant village of about 1,500 inhabitants, and which grew within a very short time into 250,000 to 300,00 inhabitants. kommando VI?

Q How could that have escaped you?

A I said this morning, Mr. Prosecutor, it was my task to write the SD reports.

Q All right. That I know. However, you have been living in this outfit.

If you would turn to Document Book II-C and I am quoting from page 60. This is Document 3240, Prosecution Exhibit No. 80, on page 65 of the German, under the heading, "page 5 of the original," Your Honors, there it is said in Stalino nearby 500 persons were executed, 369 of them Jews. Would you call that a mass execution, Herr Graf?

A. Yes. unit and you did not know about it?

A Dr. Hochwald, may I draw your attention to the fact that in this document it says, I quote, "As a result of the measures carried out by the Einsatzkommando 6, the localities Gorlowka and Makejewka are now free of Jewish components." These places were the garrisons of two subkommandos, Gorlowka and Makejewka.

A "A small number who remained in Stalino will be resettled as soon as weather conditions permit. Here a total of 493 persons were executed." It does not become evident from this document in what locality these people were shot. this paragraph? Isn't it absolutely clear that these 493 persons were killed in Stalino? Here a total of 493 persons were executed. means the sector of the Einsatzkommando EK 6.

A I said that I can't comment on this document as such.

Q So you say that all though you were 1 1/2 years with Einsatzkommando VI you did not know that the main task or that it was one of the tasks of this Einsatzkommando to kill people in great numbers?

A No, I did not know then, Mr. Prosecutor.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I have no further questions. BY THE PRESIDENT:

executions performed by Einsatzkommando VI. I don't know that I will take the trouble of reading each item, but, if you have gone through the document books, you will see Einsatzkommando VI repeated 2 - 3 - 4 - 5 6 - 7 - 8 - 9 - 10 - 11 - 12 - 13 times. Have you found those references in the document books? occurred, in view of their public nature. it would be rather difficult for you not to know about them, especially in view of the fact that you were charged with writing reports on the morale of the population. Isn't that logical? point, in my opinion, it can only be a matter of individual people and such an episode does not stay in one's memory so much as a larger matter. Of 20 or 30 persons in any case, I did not hear anything about it. of individuals taken to be killed through the streets would not make an impression upon those who saw them passing?

A Yes, Your Honor. That would have made a lasting impression on the population and would have had some response possibly, but I do not know anything about this incident and therefore I can say nothing about it.

THE PRESIDENT: Before we adjourn for the day. I would like to ask defense counsel to see to it that their document books are submitted and those who have document books ready for presentation should be in court tomorrow to present them, because after we will have completed the Graf case, we will not immediately take up the cases of Rasch and Strauch, because there is still some medical examination pending in those two cases. They will, however, come immediately after the documents have been presented.

The Tribunal will now be in recess until tomorrow morning at 9:30.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 8 January 1948, at 0930 hours.)

8 January, 1948, 0930-1630. Justice Musmanno,

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

Military Tribunal II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal. There will be order in this Court.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Belzer, do you have any more questions to put to the defendant?

DR. BELZER: I have just one more question int the redirect examination, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued) BY DR. BELZER: occasions yesterday that you as a non-commissioned officer in the Commando HK 6, that after all you held quite a high rank. Now, II would like you to tell the Tribunal on who had a lower rank then you in the HK 6. drove along during the advance in the East had a higher rank than you had?

A Yes. He was a Hauptscharfuehrer.

DR. BELZER: I have no further questions in that case. BY THE PRESIDENT: ments this Einsatzkommando 6 had participated end we had before us a list - yes, Judge Speight has handed me a list here indicating 13 different reports which tell of executions conducted by Einsatzkommando 6, and I think you have confirmed that there were 13 reports.

Q It seems rather extraordinary, don't you think, that with your being a member of this kommando that period of time that you wouldn't know of these executions or most of them.

the prosecution yesterday, when I was cross examined, I did know about executions, but what I did not know was an exact figure, and I didn't know what extensions these executions took because that was not my sphere of activity. would know the exact number of people that were executed, but you knew also, did you not, that Jews were being executed just because they were Jews?

A No, Your Honor. During the time of my assignment I did get told know that. person of your intelligence and of your more or less daily association with the men who were engaged in this week, in this activity, that some time or other you wouldn't learn that they were being called upon to shoot and liquidate people merely because they were of a certain race or nationality. make an explanation concerning this?

Q "At any time", is that the translation?

INTERPRENENT: "At everytime."

A who sometimes were 200 kilometers from thee H.Q. of the EK 6, and the existence of which I was never aware. Furthermore, EK 6 advancing passed through the most important industrial territory in Russia and worked there. We, for instance, if in one report, as week saw yesterday, there were locations mentioned, like Wokolowka and Makajewka, those were garrisons of sub-commandos of EK 6, if in fact these are mentioned, these are not small villages, but they are towns with more than 100,000 inhabitants.

I had nothing to do with these sub-commandos and , quite honestly, I did not interest myself in what these men did who mainly consisted of people from the Department IV and that, Your Honor, is the reason I do not have this knowledge which you expect me to have.

Q Just what were your duties with the commando? the reason that our commando was stationed in industrial territories only which work was confronted with more problems of every kind, more problems then there would have been in an agricultural neighbourhood, the tasks of Department III were many-fold. We had a lot of work. our work was very extensive, and I did not only have to visit the German informers during the day but also in the evenings in order to get my material.

A Now, we have one report here which says "On 13 October 1941 approximately 10,000 Jews shot in" and then we have the name which Mr. Hildesheimer and I have difficulty in pronouncing.

Q "that because of an extreme shortage of skilled laborers some Jews had to be kept alive temporarily, up to the date of the report a further 1,000 were shot. Steps are being taken for the extermination of 1,500 inmates of the provincial lunatic asylum." Now, this entire picture is one of such enormity that it seems a little difficulty to comprehend how you would not be aware of it. 10,000 Jews shot, then preparation being made for the liquidation of 1500 inmates of a lunatic asylum which in itself is a rather grotesque procedure at best. And then some were being reserved for your field reporting on industry. How could you now know about this?

as well as in the cross examination, and as far as I remember, even in my interrogation, I said that I learned of this special action, which it is in this case, it is in fact a special operation on the part of the SS - of the higher S and police leader - and that from the population.

A Your Honor, I wouldn't like to express it as precisely as that. I heard voices within the population, mainly officials of the new Ukrainian agencies, and in accordance with my duty, I reported about these to my commando chief because that was part of my tasks to reported about the atmosphere and the attitude of the population, and Dr. Kroeger, my commando chief told me then that that had been a special operation ordered by the higher SS and police leader and that no single men of his commando had participated in that, and so I had to satisfy myself. were shot, I did not know. of yours, going out of a day and finding himself engaged in shooting Jews, shooting human beings, and then coming back and not discussing it, especially when he has been engaged in the shooting of great numbers, that would be the most natural thing for this man to come back and make some remark about the terrible task to which he had been committed that day. It doesn't sound reasonable that he wouldn't talk about it. fact, especially in this case, that they were not comrades who carried out this police operation. According to my knowledge, the higher SS and police leader with his units at that time was in Dnjeprpropetrowsk and - I am sorry - in Kriwoij-Rog , that was mere than a hundred kilometers from Dnjeprpropetrowsk.

I don't know what kind of men they were. I don't know who they were. I never saw them, and, therefore, I never talked to them, and I certainly could not get any knowledge about this terrible happening. It isn't that these were men of our commando; if that had been the case, in that case I would admit that the men certainly would have been excited about it and would have reacted accordingly in some form or other.

Q Well, let's take up Operational Situation Report 94 dated 25 September '41. Were you a member of the commando in August of '41

A Yes, Your Honor. In August 1941 I was with that liaison officer AOK 17.

Q. Now, I will read under the heading, "Einsatzkommando 6". "During the period 1 to 13 September 1941 executed 60 person. Group staff was able to liquidate during the last days 4 political officials and informers of the NKWD, 6 associal elements and gypsies, and 55 Jews." Then comes this most appalling statement, "These units shot a total of 44,125 persons in August, mostly Jews." Now. does it accord with -

A. May I ask what document book that is, and what number of document that is because I do not have it in front of me

A. Yes. It is in II-C, page 62, and the number of the document is No. 3146. That is page 62 of the English, of course.

A. I have it, your Honor. In the same document it says under Roman figure I, "Locations: EK 6 is stationed in Kriwoij-Rog, where also the higher SS and police leader has moved." And then on page 15 of the original from which your Honor has been quoting, I assume -

Q. Yes, that is right.

A. When looking through this document, your Honor, I have tried very hard to understand it because, first of all, I cannot imagine that the EK 6 had a group staff, but here it says, "Functionaries of the group staff could execute 6 associal elements, 4 political officials and informers of the NKWD, during these last days and 56 Jews --." According to my personal opinion, when this document was made out in Kiev, a mistake must have been made and the man who made out this report probably mixed it all up because EK 6 did not have a group staff. I could not imagine who that could have been. "Group Staff" is only -- with the group -- and I am not aware of the fact that the group staff was KriwoijRog, I don't know.

At any rate, I did not see it because, as I said, too, Your Honor, because I was not in Kriwoij-Rog in August; and then it says in the next sentence in German of the original, "actions of the higher SS and police leader, in August, altogether 44, 125 persons, mostly Jews, were executed." This sentence I am even more unable to understand. First of all, I do not think that at the time there were more than 30,000 people all in all, in Kriwoij-Rog. Secondly, it was shortly after advance; it was frontal territory; fighting still took place there, even in the vicinity of Kriwoij-Rog there was hardly anybody, or hardly anybody at all in September. I saw it myself, for instance, that we had moved to a village and there were about 15 or 20 people in that village. The others had escaped because they didn't want to be between the tow front lines and be exposed to bomb attacks, and it was only later that the population moved back. I can, therefore, not imagine where the higher SS and police leader should have taken these 44,000 people from. As far as I can see, this is quite impossible. Then I may draw the attention of your Honor to the fact that the sphere of activity of the Higher SS and pllice leader is mostly comprised of a whole territory or country like the Ukraine or at least a number of provinces within the Ukraine. These people could have been shot 2 or 3 or 4 hundred kilometers away from that place where I was at the time, and as far as I can see, your Honor, in the territory while in Kriwoij-Rog, which is iron ore territory, industrial territory, therefore, there were very few Jews. Therefore, I can only repeat that I cannot understand this document, and I do not know how it was compiled.

Q. In quoting from this document we did not intend to assert that it established beyond the peradventure of doubt that the Einsatzkommando 6 had killed 44,125 persons.

A. I understood that, your Honor.

Q. But only to call to your attention that somewhere in your vicinity great numbers of Jews were being liquidated. Now, even if we say it was 200 kilometers away, that is not so distant that knowledge of so appalling an episode would not filter through, especially in a military time when there is constant movement and traffic, and soldiers talk. What we are calling to your attention is the difficulty of grasping how a person of your obvious intelligence could fail to know that there was a widespread operation which called for the extermination of a race. That is what we can't quite grasp.

in the territory in the vicinity around Krinoij-Rog, in a radius, shall we say of 50 kilometres, there were very very few Jews. At that time I did not hoar of operations of the SS and Police Leaders neither from German soldiers nor by Ukrainian civilians, and if Your Honors would like to ask the witness, the female witness, who is to appear here, who also was in Krinoij-Rog, she will confirm this. At that time

I never heard about those terrible figures and I never heard that extensive numbers of Jews were shot in Krinoij-Rog. belonged engaged in executions of mental hospital inmates I can only say that I do not understand. The same report concerning the killing of insane people appears twice in these reports; the first time on the 12th of November, it goes to the account of Einsatzkommando 12, and a second time, I think it was in February, there were no agencies mentioned as being responsible; but in February EK 6 was not in Dnepropetrosk. It is Document 3340. I am just about to look. It is Document Book I, Exhibit 22, No-3340. Here it says on page 5 of the original, in the time between the 10th of January, until the 6th of February, 1942, in Dnepropetrosk, 17 habitual criminals, 103 Communist functionaries, 16 partisans, and approximately 350 Jews were shot after summary court. On page 6 of the original, apart from that, it says 400 inmates from mental asylums in Igrin and 320 of the mental asylum of Wasilowka were eliminated.

Q What do you intend to show by that. I did not quite understand. reported about on two different occasions. I did not hear about such shootings during my time and it is quite possible that is is the result of a mix-up of some kind, but I cannot really comment on this positively, because I have no knowledge of the incident myself. I would only like to draw the attention of the Tribunal to the fact that this report appears twice and it is questionable who is the author of this, for instance, because I cannot imagine that in a mental asylum an act of this kind is carried out twice.

I do not know about this incident. Jews were shot after court-martial, or some such phrase.

Q The document says, "by order of summary court."

INTERPRETER HILDESHEIMER: I did not have the document. It is summary court.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

A I did not want to comment on this document. I only wanted to draw you attention to the fact that there is something unclear about this. I did not hear anything about this operation. I was not in again and I did not know anything about it. time? mine who had been killed was buried. That was for a few hours, not more.

Q Situation Report No. 86, dated the 17 of September 1941 indicates that a caravan of Jews were shot in Novo Ukrainka and vicinity. Did that ever come to your attention?

A Is that Document No. 3151, Your Honor?

Q That is right. Did that ever come to your attention? AOK 17 with the Liaison Officer Hayer. I only stayed at Novo Ukrainka a few hours and I never heard anything about that. Jews, and perhaps even Jews in vehicles, while travelling, were suddenly fallen upon and exterminated, and, if that be true, it would certainly create an incident which would at the least cause conversation, but that never came to your attention, you say?

A No, Your Honor. I never heard about this.

Q What was your attitude generally regarding the Jews? not hostile, at no time. In my home town, there were about 12 to 13 Jewish families living. who were all respected citizens and I had a partly personal contact which I maintained with these people, and I certainly respected them. the SD, is that correct?

Q Yes, Then how did you rejoin? What were the circumstances which brought you back into the SS, briefly? There was no other possibility. I had to work in the program of the SD. Then the Personnel Department Chief told me, "Comrade Graf, you used to be a member of the General SS. Make an application, then you will receive your former number," and that is what I did.

Q Well, if you had not applied, what would have happened?

A Nothing would have changed, Your Honor. I would still have been on an emergency appointment in the SD. Nothing would have changed. voluntarily or not. I would not have rejoined the SS, never, because I was a businessman, and did not want to have anything to do with the Party and its formations.

Q I don't quite follow you. I asked you, if you had not rejoined what would have happened to you. Did you rejoin voluntarily or were you compelled to rejoin? That is what I am trying to ascertain.

out the application. I filled in all the family papers and documents, but you could not call it "voluntarily," because it became untomatic. The Personnel Departmental Chief could see from my documents that I used to be a member of the SS, so he said, "Of course, in that case you have to rejoin the SS." Therefore I made out the application, but, if I had not been deferred to the SD, I would never have rejoined the SS. After all, I had left the SS and also I did not rejoin the General SS, but I was transferred to the special formation, the SD. After all, this was on the war emergency status. In my opinion then, it was merely a formal matter to regain my former SS number. if you had not filled out these forms, that you would have been called anyway?

A May I call the attention of Your Honors to one fact: The proof, that I did so through the interference of my Department Chief is the fact that in January I was drafted on an emergency status and only on 28 July, I believe I made out the application; only after I had spoken on various occasions to my Department Chief, he got me there so I would make out the application. If it had been done immediately, the date would not have been the 28th of July, but perhaps the 2nd or 4th or 6th of January, 1940. May I point out to your Honor this is evident in my personal file, which is in Document Book III-C, NO-4801, Ex. 147. had not made out this application, would you still have been called? called at a previous date, or, at least, before I made out this repapplication. This was only an action I took afterwards and this became necessary after the war emergency status. was a mere form?

I think it is on page 3 of the original, it says, "Kempten Scheldow, the 26th of July, 1940." That is a few months after my war emergency status became effective. That is several months after the war emergency draft.

Q. Where were you when the war came to an end?

A. I was in Kaufbauren, and my section chief ordered me to report to the nearest Army unit, which I did. I was detailed to an infantry division which was in Jungholz or, at least, in the vicinity of Jungholz. That was approximately the 24th of April, 1945.

Q. Witness, did you ever witness an execution?

A. No, Your Honor.

Q. Did you ever see the preparations for an execution?

A. Well, Your Honor, if you call the lining up of men a preparation, then in that case, it is so, but otherwise, I never saw any.

Q. The lining up of men, did you say?

A. Yes, yes. The lining up of men.

Q. You mean the lining up of the firing squad?

A. No, Your Honor, at the garrison of the kommando the men had to line up.

Q. You mean, merely the assembly of soldiers?

A. Yes, Your Honor.

Q. Well, that of course, would have nothing to do with the actual mission; but did you know that when they were assembled, that when they were lining up, that they were about to depart on an execution mission?

A. Well in individual cases I knew that, Your Honor.

Q. And in any of those cases, did you know that they were destined to shoot great numbers of people?

A. No, Your Honor, I did not know that in any case.

Q. You travelled a great deal and numerous executions occurred during the time that you were a member of this kommando and during the time that you were travelling as evidenced by these reports. Now, doesn't it seem a little strange that in all your travelling that you never came upon an execution, never came upon one while it was actually in COURT II CASE IX progress nor just before it took place, nor just immediately after it had occurred.

Now can you explain that phenomenon?

A. Your Honor, what my comrades told me was that an execution for reasons of security, would not be carried out on the roads or in public squares or near villages. This may be the reason that I did not happen to witness an execution either.

Q. Witness, you see squads of men lined up ready to march off to an execution. You are aware of the fact that that is their mission - and you must have been there or you couldn't have seen them - Now wouldn't natural curiosity cause you to inquire as to where they were going and what they were going to do and whom they were going to shoot and how many?

A. Your Honor, the only person who might have been able to give information about this was the commanding officer and I, as a noncommissioned officer, could not have approached him and I could have said, "Excuse me, Herr Untersturmfuehrer, where are you going to and what are you going to do?" I couldn't do that and I am quite honest when I tell you, Your Honor, I was not interested in these things.

Q. Did you see any of the aquads that went out on any of these missions which are reported here?

A. As I have already told you, Your Honor, I only know from the events mentioned in the documents, what I have said about Dnepropetrovsk and I can't say that I know that at this and this locality on this and tills, day that men were assembled and assigned for executions.

Q. Who made out the reports of executions for the kommando to the group?

A. In Einsatzkommando 6 there was a Department Chief IV, who was responsible for all executive reports. He made COURT II CASE IX out these reports and then passed them on to the kommando chief.

Q. Did Seibert make up any reports of this character?

A. Your Honor, I cannot tell you anything about this, because Seibert was in an entirely different Einsatzgruppe.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: He was Chief of Einsatzgruppe D.

Q. (By the President) Yes, Well, we know that it was a different Einsatzgruppe, but it belonged to the same department. You and Seibert belonged to the same department, Department III, and as a matter of custom and a matter of routine, did your department make up reports on executions, because that is what Seibert said?

A. May I then point out one thing? Seibert was in the staff of Einsatzgruppe D, in the group staff. I was in Einsatzkommando C-6, a Department Chief. The position of the Co-Defendant Seibert, as a Chief of Department III, is an entirely different one from my position as an NCO, a noncomissioned officer in an Einsatzkommando. My task was to collect news and reports, to write them down, and to pass them on to the kommando chief.

Q. Well would you say that your position in the kommando corresponds to the position, to the same position in the Gruppe and, if so, if Seibert would report an execution from the Gruppe, belonging to Department III, why wouldn't you in Department III of the Kommando make similar reports?

A. Your Honor, I should like to point out that Seibert, after all, was a Standartenfuehrer. Furthermore, he was Chief III of Einsatzgruppe D and, as such, he dealt exclusively with SD reports which he compiled and passed on to Berlin.

Q. Yes, but we are not asking you if you made reports to Berlin, whether you made reports to your Gruppe, your COURT II CASE IX Einsatzgruppe Headquarters.

A. Your Honors, in our kommando, the entire reports were made by the Kommando Chief. He was the only one to decide what part of my material, I had reported, was going to the Group and he had the responsibility for the entire report of the kommando, Your Honor. Furthermore, the difference between Einsatzgruppe C and D is, as far as I heard here, that Einsatzgruppe C had a Chief of Department IV, but not in D, so that these matters of reporting -- that is what I wanted to say -- went into one channel.

Q. Well then it didn't always happen that the departments in the kommandos and the gruppen were entirely isolated from each other. It did happen at times that their duties overlapped and mingled?

A. I do not know how it was in the case of other kommandos, Your Honor, but with our own kommando it was thus that the spheres of activity were separated. Department IV dealt with executive matters. III deals with Reports, I and II with personnel matters and supply.

Q. You just indicated that in Group D that Department III took over many of the duties of Department IV.

A. That is not what I wanted to say, Your Honor. What I wanted to say, Your Honor, was that there was no Department Chief of Department IV in Einsatzgruppe D, who otherwise would have passed on the reports concerning executive matters, and therefore, this all went into one channel, the whole material.

Q. We recall, Witness, that various defendants, and Schubert, particularly because he testified very recently, indicated that executions occurred near roads, near highways; in fact, it became necessary to block off these roads so that the public would be entirely excluded from the executions, COURT II CASE IX so we came back to your proposition that it was impossible for you to witness an execution because they were never near roads and they were always in very isolated sections.

How do you reconcile your observation with the very clear statements made by the defendants as to the site of executions?

Page 4,832

A Your Honor* in my opinion this becomes evident from the difference in territories; I was most of the time in the industrial territory, like for instance, the rural territories in Germany, and one cannot say that here is a town boundary, and this is a town boundary of the other town, so that the roads in an industrial area are entirely different from roads in an agricultural area, that may be the reason. I don't know how it is that I was not a witness in such operations but in any case that is how it was. This is the reason I think it was. action at one tine. What was that episode? Security Police and SD at Stalino had only few leaders, and I was to become leader of a subcommando as an Unterfuehrer, that is, a non commissioned officer. I explained that I as a member of EK-VI had been detailed to Stalino, with the task to establish a Department-III, within the commando of the Security Police; if I were to be made a subcommando leader, I could not do so, that was not the purpose of my assignment, and the officer on duty thought that I was refusing to obey an order because of the fact he had given me an order that "You are taking over this and that task" and I said, "No, I had been appointed in order to build up Department III, and I will not take over a subcommando," so he said, "Therefore, you refuse to obey my order," and I said, "Yes, for this and that reason," he said, "You will have to face the consequences," and as a result of this discussion I was arrested, or at least I was locked up.

Q Who was talking to you there. Who was indicating the arrest to you?

A The then commanding officer was not present at the time. I can not say for certain what officer it was. In any case it was the representative of the commanding officer of the corps, who gave me this order.

Q And what were the consequences? a disciplinary procedure started against me with the police and SS court. the officer who subjected you to this experience. It certainly must have remained vivid in your memory? Domnick.

Q What happened to him?

Q Then when you were sent to Kiev, what occurred? already arrived, and I defended myself before the personnel Referent there, I said to him that I had not been detailed to the commando in order to take over a subcommando but in order to build up Department III. Then the natter was cleared up by the personnel referent of the department, that I was up for refusal to obey, but he admitted that I was right in saying I was assigned from Kiev in order to build up Department III, for that reason it was favorable for me, Also at that point I had already been released the commanding officer had not informed me about that. you were ordered by your commanding officer to perform a certain mission, to take over a subcommando, and you point blankly refused, and you tell us now that nothing happened to you after that very flagrant disobedience of orders? commanding officer, had given the order not to advance with Commando-VI to the East but to remain in Stalino in order to build up a Department III:

for me the order of the group was still valid, because I had not received another order to the contrary to that effect. officer, refuse to obey an order of a superior officer merely because he has an argument that an officer above that officer had told him to do something else?

Q Well, that is what you did. The officer told you to do a certain thing, and you in effect said, "Oh, no, I am not going to do that because an officer who is above you told me to do something else," that is what you are telling us? the superior agency, and I was not a member of the Security Police in Stalino, I didn't regard it as a refusal to obey. I merely explained to him that I had received this, and that order, and, therefore, I could not accept another order as long as the other one was still valid and had not been rescinded. do, and because of that you were placed under arrest? leader's order, and that is the reason that you refused to go along, and you took a chance?

A Yes, Your Honor. I knew that I was subordinated to Einsatzcommando VI, and not to this commander, and if somebody, is detailed from one former unit to another, then the old order has to be rescinded before neworder is accepted.

THE PRESIDENT: If there are no other questions by other counsel; you have a couple of questions Mr. Hochwald?

MR. HOCHWALD: I am sorry to take the tine of the Tribunal but there are two or three questions which was brought up from examination of the witness by the Tribunal. BY MR. HOCHWALD: emergency draft, is that correct?

Q And when was that? emergency service? fullfledged member, nor through my application for rejoining. yet. Did you become a member of the SD on the basis of this emergency service, a fullfledged member of the SD?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor. of this emergency service?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor. SS on the basis of your own application? Will you answer this question with a yes or no?

A Yes, Mr. Prosecutor, based on the fact that I voluntarily applied for my rejoining, I received my formal SS number in the formal formation of the SD.

Q Is it then correct, that you rejoined the SS voluntarily?

A Mr. Prosecutor, that is not and was not my view, because if I had not come under war emergency status, one was a logical consequence of the other, in that case I would never in my life have connected with the SS again.

the application for the entry into the SS? application, is that right? this second matter has a logical consequence of the first. If I had not been drafted on the emergency status I would never have thought of ever rejoining, or making application.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, you and the witness are having a jolly good time, because both of you are exports in languages, and you both understand English and German, but the rest of the Courtroom has to get the dialogue, so please let there be a pause between you and the witness, so others not so gifted as both of you can keep up with the examination.

MR HOCHWALD: I beg your pardon.

THE WITNESS: Yes, I beg your pardon, my fault. BY MR. HOCHWALD: right?

A Of course nobody forced me Mr. Prosecutor, it was only that the personnel referent told me there that day, who used to be a member of this unit, in order to be relieved from that I would have to apply after that date and they would have to approve that; it was drawn out from January up to July. refused to take over the command of an entire commando in Einsatzcommando VI?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, that is not how it was. I told the Tribunal that I was detailed from EK VI to Stalino; and that the officer asked me without rescinding my former order, to take over a subcommando, in the Kommando at that moment I would have been a member of the agency of the commando of the Security Police in Stalino, and I would then no longer had been a member of EK-VI.

I told this office that this was not possible, for I am only detailed for this or that purpose and as long as the other order is still valid, and this if this order is not rescinded I will not do so, and that was regarded as a refusal to obey.

Q Who was then commander of Einsatzcommando VI? Sturmbannfuehrer Mohr, who was the commander, or Sturmbannfuehrer Bieberstein, our co-defendant.

Q Can you tell the Tribunal the exact date when that happened? in any case, it was either September or October, but I don't remember the exact date, unfortunately.

Q September or October 1942?

take over the command of the subcomando? Departmental Chief III, that was the work which I knew; but at the moment of my taking over the job as a subcommando chief, I would have had to take over a task which was entirely foreign to me, a purely police task. I had no police training, police, and I did not have the qualifications for such activity.

Q Was that the only reason why you refused? from the very start I can not cope. carry out a military order in wartime? Didn't you have any other reason which up to now you have not told the Tribunal?

A No, Mr. Prosecutor, it was taken to be a refusal to obey, but in reality it was not such, because I had received the clear, which I had received from the group, "You are not advancing to the East, you are remaining in Stalino in order to install Department III, and, as long as I hold this order, such an order, I felt myself bound to it, because it could have been a case, Mr. Prosecutor, if I had agreed to such an appointment, I would have been punished by the Group for the reason, "You have had the unambiguous order, why did you not stick to it."

Q So you didn't refuse to carry out this order as you were reluctant to carry out executions yourself; that wasnot the reason for your refusal?

A Mr. Prosecutor, never in my life, not for one hour have I been a policeman, and for me police work was entirely strange and foreign to me. Why, therefore, should I take over a police task which I would have done if I had become a leader of a subcommando. Why should, I, therefore, do it if I had been ordered to do something else.

Q How long before 1940 had you been a SD man?

A Not a day, Mr. Prosecutor.

MR. HOCHWALD: No further questions, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: In view of the imminence of the usual recess period, the Tribunal will take this recess a little in anticipation, and during the recess the witness will be returned to the defendants' box and just before we reconvene the witness Fransiska Reimers will be taken to the witness box, and we will immediately begin with her examination when we reconvene. The Tribunal will now recess.

(recess)

Page 4,840

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. GAWLIK for Seibert: Your Honor, I ask instructions to be given that the defendant Willy Seibert be excused this afternoon so that his defense may be prepared.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Seibert will be excused from attendance in court this afternoon in accordance with the request by his counsel, Dr. Gawlik.

DR. GICK, deputizing for Stein for the defendant Sandberger: I ask that the defendant Sanberger be excused from attendance in court this afternoon and ask that instructions be given to take him to room 57.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Sandberger will be excused from attendance in court this afternoon and instructions are hereby given that he be taken to room 57 that he may confer with his counsel,

DR. KRAUSE for the defendant Haensch: Your Honor, I ask before the witness is questioned, that you permit me to give you some more information about the witnesses Schreyer and Reich.

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment. Will the witness please be at case - sit down.

DR. KRAUSE: First of all, I have the question whether Frau Schreyer, as she had been instructed, made the letters of her husband from the year 1942, if she kept them, available to the Tribunal. Also whether the sample of handwriting which the witness Reich made here in court is available. And, also, whether Frau Schreyer sent the negatives of the Wachtmeister who was in her studio to the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Negative of whom?

DR. KRAUSE: Negatives of a Sergeant, a Wachtmeister. I don't know the name - but either after or before the entry concerning Haensch he was mentioned as ordering a picture. May I inform the Tribunal again what the situation was. In the large book of customers Haensch was listed under No. 391 on 21 February 1942 for a photograph to be made of him. Before this entry or after this entry there was an order concerning a Sergeant, a Wachtmeister in German, and it was to be determined whether the negative of the photo of this Sergeant still existed and what lettering was on them.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, did you make inquiry about the negatives or pictures of this Sergeant before?

DR. KRAUSE: No, I did not.

THE PRESIDENT: What is your request now of the Tribunal?

DR. KRAUSE: I am only asking that the witness Schreyer be instructed that the request made by the Tribunal be fulfilled. I assume that the Tribunal had a purpose in asking this.

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment. Has anything been said up to this time about the pictures of the Sergeant?

DR. KRAUSE: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: What request did you make regarding those pictures?

DR. KRAUSE: Concerning those pictures I did not make any request but the Tribunal considered it important to obtain the negatives of this Sergeant as well.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, can you shed any light on this situation?

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please. As far as I can recollect I asked the witness in cross examination about her recollection of faces and in this connection the Tribunal asked the witness whether she would recollect the face of this German Warrant Officer whose name appears one or two days before the name of Haensch appears in the big book, and as far as I remember the Tribunal asked the witness whether she has the negative of this picture. The witness answered in the affirmative and the Tribunal asked the witness to hand over this picture, the negative of this picture, to the Tribunal. As far as I am informed, I don't think I am mistaken, the witness Schreyer has to do this date not complied with this request. I, however, can state that we have, with the permission of the Tribunal, sent a representative to see the witness Schreyer about the little book of December, and have received information that this little book of the end of December is not in the possession of the witness.

We have obtained a short affidavit to this effect from the witness and we have also obtained other of these little books of other months which we will submit to the Tribunal as soon as we have the expert opinion on the other exhibits ready.

THE PRESIDENT: But anything about the Sergeant?

MR. HOCHWALD: The Prosecution does not desire to put in the negative of the Sergeant in evidence and I personally do think that cannot shed very much light on the case by producing a second negative. Of course, if the Tribunal desires to have this negative I shall make arrangements that the same representative who received from Mr. Schreyer the little books will also obtain for the Tribunal the negative of the Sergeant.

THE PRESIDENT: Does defense desire the negatives of the picture of the Sergeant?

DR. KRAUSE: I would like to ask for it now, yes. Your Honor, I just heard that the witness Schreyer, with the permission of the Tribunal, was visited by one of the members of the Prosecution and again interrogated.

DR. HOCHWALD: That was not what I said, your Honor. With the permission of the Tribunal a representative of the Tribunal visited Mrs. Scheyer asking her for the handing over of the little books which contained the different orders for December.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, this is all immaterial any way, it doesn't make any difference who visits Schreyer. Anyone can talk to Schreyer. In the American forces there is liberty and anyone can talk anyone else. A representative of the Prosecution can go and talk to Schreyer, defense counsel can talk to Schreyer. She may even talk to her divorced husband. She can talk to anybody. She is free. So we are using a lot of talk here about something which is of no consequence at all. Now, to get down to the real issue of the matter, these letters which you have asked about have not come to the Tribunal, so either the Prosecution or the Defense will see that Schreyer hands over these letters if she still has them, if she preserved the letters sent by her husband, with regard to the negatives of the sergeant, if you have someone up there defense counsel who can get these negatives and can certify the negatives are properly preserved you can have that done or you can ask Mr. Hochwald to have his representative there do so, so there will be no more confusion, no more mystery and no misdirection.

DR. KRAUSE: I beg your pardon. I do not want to take up the time of the Tribunal unnecessarily about this. I only want to give one explanation. According to the information which I received, which possibly might not be correct, at Frau Schreyer's a search of her apartment is supposed to have taken place. Although Frau Schreyer is a witness of the defense I purposely kept away and since her examination here I have not approached her because it way my opinion that the points which the Tribunal considered still needed to be clarified could only be clarified by the Tribunal itself. Now if any further measures were taken concerning Frau Schreyer I only ask the Tribunal to tell me about the results of these measures.

THE PRESIDENT: Before Frau Schreyer appeared here in court I believe that the Tribunal indicated that she was not to talk to anyone about the case. But, she has now appeared in court and testified and, therefore, there is no injunction upon anyone not to talk to anyone else, I am refer ring to both witnesses, the original withess and the assistant.

Now the Tribunal is not aware of what has happened since the assistant appeared here in court. We do know that the letters which were discussed have not been presented to the Tribunal. We would suggest that you talk to Mr. Hochwald and between both of you arrange to obtain everything that you believe you need in the further clarification of this issue regarding the picture of the defendant Haensch.

DR. KRAUSE: Yes, Sir. Thank you, Your Honor. That will be sufficient.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. lows: BY JUDGE SPEIGHT:

Witness, raise your right hand and repeat after me: pure truth and will withhold and add nothing.

(The witness repeated the oath.)

JUDGE SPEIGHT: You may be seated. BY DR. BELZER for the Defendant Mathias Graf:

Q.- Your Honor, I have special reasons to ask the Tribunal to give instructions that no photographs be taken of the witness here. Until now with the assistance of the Prosecution and the Marshal I have been able to avoid it so far but I now ask the Tribunal to give special instructions on behalf of the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Although this is a very unusual request that an attractive woman does not like to be photographed. Since you make that request in behalf of the witness the Tribunal will be glad to see to it that your request is carried out. So, the photographers in the courtroom will please not take a picture of the present witness.

DR. BELZER: Thank you, very much, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: That doesn't mean that the photographer may now go home and forget about his work. We will do other work. He will do other work. BY DR. BEIZER:

Q.- May I ask the witness to speak slowly into the microphone in answering the questions I put; you are not to answer Immediately but let a little time elapse for my question to be translated by the interpreters first.

A.- Frau Franziska Reimers.

Q.- When and where were you born?

A.- I was born on 3 January 1911 in Kortiska, District Saporosje, in the Southern Ukraine.

Q.- Where are you living now?

A.- In Bonn on the Rhine.

Q.- Please tell the Tribunal briefly about your career, about your life until the beginning of the German-Russian War.

A.- On 3 January 1911 in Kortiska, District Saporosje, I was born in the Southern Ukraine. My father was a carpenter, and originally belonged to the Dutchmen who at the time of Catharine the Great settled in southern Ukraine. In my native town I graduated from all German Schools the German elementary s chool, intermediate school, and high school, and after that four semesters at the Ukrainina University in Odessa, After terminating my studies I married the land-owner Cornelius Reimers. He also was a high school teacher for mathematics and physics. After marrying in the year 1930 we were both moved into the country in order to be active as teachers there. Since my husband was of bourgeois origin the Soviets never treated him very gently and he had a lot of trouble with them. These difficulties culminated in his arrest on 4 November 1937 by the Russian G.P.U. or the NKWD; they transported him to Siberia as I was told he was expelled there.

I have never heard from him since. I myself had to stop working as a teacher. With my child, who was then 2 years of age, I was put into the street. Outside the prison of the GPU I saw so much misery that perforce I could no longer feel any sympathy for this so-called socialism although this had not been the case until then.

Having had quite enough of Bolshevism, of course, I joined those circles who were anti-Communist. When, in the year 1941, on 22 June the war with Germany started, I was called into the NKWD building and they gave me the choice either to leave my child and also to go to Siberia or to help in the intelligence service behind the German lines. Because of fear and worry about my child I accepted this suggestion. On 15 August, 1941, in the general staff of the southern front, Major Tschaikovsky gave me my mission and I had to leave my child alone who was then five years of age while raids and fighting took place.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, you indicated to us that you were given certain choices, to do one thing or another, or a third. You said that you were given certain alternatives: You could go to Siberia, or remain. At any rate, you were given three choices. Then you said, "I accepted the suggestion", but you didn't tell us which one of the alternatives you accepted. Please tell us which one you accepted and then relate what happened.

THE WITNESS: Since I knew the methods of the Russian GPU and the NKWD, I knew that if I did not accept the suggestion of working in the intelligence service, then I would never see my native land again.

THE PRESIDENT: Please tell us which suggestion you accepted. What did you decide to do?

THE WITNESS: I decided to accept the suggestion to join the intelligence service behind the German lines.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Proceed, Dr. Belzer.

Q Witness, was there a possibility for an existence in Siberia? Was there a means of making a living or would that have been your undoing? life?

A No. After having walked 500 kilometers towards Saporosje-Uman between Krawoy and Kriwoij-Roc, I was captured by the Germans.

I was taken to a higher commander of the German Wehrmacht and a major interrogated me. The major could understand my worry about my child and my emotional distress and he promised to ask his superior to pardon me. After interrogations which lasted three days, I was brought to Kriwoij-Roc to the Security Service, EK 6.

Q Do you know the defendant Mathias Graf?

Q Where is he sitting?

THE PRESIDENT: The last one to the right as you are facing the defendants' dock, is that correct? Because the last one could be on the other side too, you know?

THE WITNESS: Yes, on the right side.

Q How did you get to know Herr Graf? Please describe the first meeting briefly. taken for a walk of one or two hours by members of the Security Police every day. Sometimes there was one. Sometimes there were two members of the SD. On the 24th of September, or, it might have been the 22nd, I don't know exactly any more now, it happened to be Herr Graf and his comrade Schulze or Schulte or something like that.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Belzer, let's have the date, please, the year. BY DR. BELZER:

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. BY DR. BELZER:

Q It might have been on the 22nd too, did you say that?

Page 4,849

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed. BY DR. BELZER: with Herr Graf? because he was particularly kind towards the Ukrainian population. I would like to give a small example here. When we passed through the streets of Kriwoij-Roc, we saw a Ukrainian woman who was crying bitterly. Herr Graf asked me to ask this woman why she was so deeply upset. I went to the woman and asked "Why are you crying?" She answered to this that her husband had been a miner in the Kriwoij-Roc Iron Ore Mines and had been denounced by the neighbors who said that shortly before the German troops came in he had dynamited the mines. As a result of this the SD had arrested him. Herr Graf talked to this woman in a very kind manner, to which I was not accustomed, by saying she should calm down, because if her husband was innocent, then after the case had been investigated, he certainly would return. These words consoled the women and I was also pleasantly surprised about that.

Q Do you know what happened to this man in the end? he an officer?

A No. At the time I did not know much about the insignia of the German Wehrmacht, but, as far as I can remember, when he was addressed by comrades, he was addressed as Unterscharfuehrer, an NCO.

Q How long did you stay in Kriwoij-Roc? my child was was no longer being shot at by Russian artillery. Then I was promised that, if possible, my child would be taken out of there and again it was Herr Graf who realized my emotional troubles and said he would speak to Standartenfuehrer Kroeger so that they would speed up this matter and I would get my child back as soon as possible.

Q Did you get back your child then? units went towards my home town on the Dnjepr River and I found my child in an air raid shelter where my brother had kept it.

Q Where did you go after Kriwoij-Roc? officials - Herr Graf was among then and I don't know the other people - brought me to Dnjepropetrowsk, again to the Security Service.

Q How long did you remain in Dnjepropetrowsk? Security Service until part of perhaps the entire EK 6 - I don't know which - was transferred to Dnjepropetrowsk and be chance Herr Graf and I met in the corridor of the Security Service building. Then he promised me again to intervene with Standartenfuehrer Kroeger as to whether my living conditions could not be changed, and that they would give me some work to do and that my child would receive medical care.

Q Did you see Herr Graf repeatedly in Dnjepropetrowsk? Russian language and Herr Schulze also and I did that in Kriwoij-Roc. At the same time Herr Graf gave me English lessons to make up for it. I Dnjepropetrowsk these language lessons were continued two or three times a week. Herr Graf?

A None, really. Of course, we only talked about private matters. to tak to the civilian population?

What happened to these people I could not find out, but when I inquired about this from my superior, at the time in the Department of Agriculture and Food, I was told that the Jews were being resettled. That they were actually shot, I only heard when I came to Germany later on. Russian workers to Germany?

Q.- How did you and Herr Graf get separated again in Russia?

A.- Herr Graf was with his commando in Dnepropetrowsk for only a short while, and I believe for three weeks, something like that, he was transferred to Stalino, over there on the front.

Q.- Did you remain in Russia throughout the entire war?

A.- Yes, until the German troops withdrew in 1943.

Q.- And then?

A.- And then I was evacuated from Russia like all Ethnic Germans.

Q.- Later on, did you meet Herr Graf again?

A.- When I was in a camp in the Sudeten Region, the SS refused to take me into Germany as a citizen, and owing to a denunciation the Gestapo arrested me in Troppo. Again I was under so-called protective custody, but after the situation was investigated I was released. Now, in the Sudeten District I was without any means at all, and being Stateless, I was not allowed to take any position, and in my distress I had my mother and my child with me, I turned in writing to Herr Graf, who at the time was in Kempten and Kaufbauern, where he was working. Herr Graf replied if I had no means of supporting myself in the Sudeten Region, would I come to him and his wife, they would look after me, and my billeting, and that he would see to it that I would got work. I packed my belongings, and travelled with my mother and my child to Kaufbauerer.

Q.- In Kaufbauerer, did you get a job through Herr Graf?

A.- Yes. First of all Herr Graf's wife had died in the meantime, and therefore, I could not remain in his home. He took care of it then to see to it that I was taken care of by farmers in the country who could help me, and at the same time he got me a job as an office worker in the DAG (Dynamit Ltd).

Q.- During the time of your presence in Kaufbauerer, did you make any observations as to Herr Graf's activities?

A.- Since Herr Graf visited the DAG repeatedly, I assumed that he had some kind of a job, and was there in an official capacity.

He had asked me to talk to the Ukrainina population now and then because I knew the language, in order to find out under what conditions the foreign workers were living there, as a great number had escaped from work, and he suspected apparently that the management of the DAG treated the Eastern workers badly.

Q.- Did you make any observations that because of your communication Herr Graf saw to it that the conditions were changed?

A.- There I talked to the Ukrainians and the Russian workers; because those people were always very close to my heart, and I was told that the food was so bad that they could not live there any longer, that is why they escaped from the DAG. I tasted the food, and found it could not be eaten. Later it was found out that the cook smuggled the food and used it for the black market, and the Eastern workers did not have enough food to cat. Apart from that the workers from the East had the potatoes taken away from then by the Police, which they had got from the farmers. I reported this to Herr Graf, and he tried after that not without difficulties to insist that the management sofar as the foreign workers were concerned gave the same food as the german workers received. In fact, in April 1945, he achieved this.

Q.- Go ahead?

A.- Apart from that he gave instructions, or rather he succeeded in achieving that the food which the Eastern workers received from the farmers for their work was not taken away from then any longer.

Q.- What impression did you have because of your various meetings with Matthias Graf concerning his character and political attitude?

A.- In general I had the impression that Herr Graf had a very good up-bringing. He had a devout up-bringing, and to be quite honest I could not see how he came into the SS at all, he didn't fit in there.

Q.- Why not?

A.- The reason was because he was devout, which I could not coincide as in Russia it would be quite impossible that a person whoever visited a church could join the Communist Party, or would be admitted.

Q.- I have one final question?

THE PRESIDENT: I didn't quite catch the last statement. She was talking about her surprise that a man with religious tendencies should be in the SS. Then she spoke about the Communist Party. I didn't quite catch the connection. Would you please repeat that, witness?

THE WITNESS: Yes, according to my knowledge of the Soviet Union, I can not reconcile that a person who is devout and belongs to a church, simultaneously can belong to the NSDAP or the SD; that he would be accepted in such organization, because in the Communist Party this would be quite impossible.

THE PRESIDENT: I don't quite catch the comparison. What does the joining the NSDAP have to do with the Communist Party? Is that clear to you, Dr. Belzer?

DR. BELZER: Yes, the witness is trying to say that she was surprised concerning Herr Graf that he was with the SS, and yet had a religious attitude, and according to the experience she had had in Communist Russia, she simply could not imagine that a religious man, at the same time could be a Bolshevist Party member, and a member of any of its organizations, and looking at the German conditions in comparison, she could not imagine that a religious men should be in the SS. That is the comparison the witness was trying to make.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Thank you.

DR. BELZER: I have one final question. BY DR. BELZER:

Q.- Do you know anything about the fact that apart from the defendant here, Matthias Graf, another member of Einsatzcommando XI had the same name Graf?

A.- Yes. In Einsatzcommando in Krowoij-rog there was another Herr Graf, but I don't know his first name, or anything further about him, I only remember his appearance vaguely, which I might be able to describe. First of all, he was older than Herr Graf. He was graying, and I believe, I am not quite sure, he had the rank of an officer.

DR. BELZER: Thank you, I have no further questions to put to the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Does any defense counsel desire to cross examine the witness. If not, Mr. Hochwald will proceed.

MR. HOCHWALD: May it please the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald. BY HR. HOCHWALD:

Q.- Witness, what is your nationality?

A.- I am stateless.

Q,- Did you have any nationality before the war?

A.- In our circles in Russia, we were mentioned as German but as Russian subjects.

Q.- So I am right in assuming that you were before you were stateless a Soviet Citizen, is that correct?

A.- Yes.

Q.- You have told the Tribunal that you were an Ethnic German, is that correct?

A.- Yes.

Q.- And that your husband was also an Ethnic German?

A.- Yes.

Q.- When was he deported to Siberia?

A.- On 4November 1937.

Q.- And from this time you changed your mind about the Soviet Union is that correct?

A.- Yes.

Q.- Am I then right in assuming that when the Germans attacked the Soviet Union, when that started your sympathies were with the German forces than with the Russian?

A.- Yes.

Q.- You have then told the Tribunal that you were called into the NKVD Building, and it was suggested to you either to go to Siberia, or to enter the Intelligence Service for this Soviet Union, is that right?

A.- Yes.

Q.- Where was that, witness?

A.- In Saporosje.

Q.- If I am not mistaken, it was in the middle of August 1941, is that right?

A.- Yes, 15th of August.

Q.- Who suggested this thing to you?

A.- First a member of the Russian NKVD. I whether would accept this order on principle.

Q.- What did you do when he asked you that?

A.- I said I was prepared to accept this order.

Q.- Immediately?

A.- No, I was allowed to think about it for twenty-four hours.

Q.- Did he tell you of what nature this kind of Intelligence Service would be?

A.- Not on that day, no.

Q.- Do you remember the name of this official?

A.- Yes.

Q.- Can you tell the Tribunal the name, please?

A.- That was Lt. Kiwenkov.

Q.- Do you know whether also other people were offered jobs of the same kind at the same time by the same official?

A.- Whether by the same official, I don't know, but I was set on route with a few others. There were no other Ethnic Germans among them, but there were Kuranians.

Page 4,858

Q You were the only Ethnic German?

Q When did you learn the nature of your job?

A On 15 August, that is in the evening between 10 and 11 o'clock in the Staff of the General of the southern army.

Q Where was that?

Q Who informed you about your task?

Q What did he tell you? have to travel and the mission. I was to go the Uman where the first collision allegedly with the 9th Russian Army had occurred and was to find out under what circumstances the 9th Army had come to an end, whether owing to treason or other circumstances.

Did you have former training in intelligence work? position to find out all these facts and to inform the Soviet General Staff correctly about such a rather complicated matter? which directed all my deeds and actions I believe, assuming I had been on my own without children, I think I would have been able to carry out this task. out this task?

The Staff of the General assumed that I would not be able to reach Saporosje on my way back and had named me another city, near Charkov where I was to go to, but I can't remember the name now. the treason which allegedly led to the destruction of the 9th Army?

Q How long did you confer with him?

A I believe 3/4 of an hour.

Q And you had never heard before this 3/4 of an hour anything about intelligence service of this type, is that correct? ing of 3/4 of an hour you would be able in intelligence work to discover why a complete Army of the Red Army was destroyed, is that right? it out or not.

Q All right. What did you do then when you had received information from the major? time to do anything. I was not allowed to leave that room. I had to learn the route by heart and during the same night, together with a few other people, I was put into a car and I had to drive about 30 kilometers away from the city. Then we were turned out of the car and we had to walk.

Q What did you do then?

A Then we walked. I was never alone. And between Kriwoij-Rog and Novo Graf in a small Russian hamlet, we became captives of the Germans.

Q It was on the 16th of August, was it?

A No. We had already walked 500 kilometers. That was three weeks later.

A No real punishment. I was only taken into protective custody. for having been a Russian spy behind the German lines?

A If you don't consider what I suffered during my life as a punishment, then I was not punished. it was not meted out by any authority against you, it was just hardship which you had to endure.

Very likely many other people had to endure such hardship who had never taken a job as a spy in any place, just as an effect of the War.

Will you tell the Tribunal what reason for this unusual leniency on the part of the German forces against you was?

A Must I say this here?

Q You must not answer any question if you do not want to. If you say "I don't want to answer this questions," I cannot compel you to do so.

DR. BELZER: Your Honor, perhaps the witness should be informed that she does not have to answer any questions, the answer of which might bring about any disadvantages for her.

PRESIDENT: The Tribunal confirms what Mr. Hochwald saud, that she is not required to answer.

Of course, the immunity does not go as far as you have indicated, Dr. Belzer, and a witness may refuse to answer any question which might incriminate a Witness, but this Tribunal will go further than that and will not compel any witness to answer any question if for any reason the witness is disinclined to answer. BY MR. HOCHWALD:

Q So I take it then that you prefer not to answer this question? to be afraid of being handed over to the NKWD again, from whom I have suffered so much already, the I would answer this question freely. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Where do you live now, Witness?

Q Do you have your child with you?

Q Where is your husband?

A I don't know. I was told he was expelled in Siberia. I don't know whether he is still alive.

Q How long ago was that?

Q You never heard from him since? Mr. Hochwald put to you, and you are entirely free to answer or not to answer. Certainly you need have nothing to fear from the present authorities, but if you do have any fear of any character and for that reason would rather not answer the question, you follow your own inclinations in that respect.

A Shall I answer?

Q Well, we have left it to you, Witness. If you entertain any apprehensions of any character that some harm may befall you by answering the questions which was put by Mr. Hochwald, you need not, but if you think that a clarification would be in order, and that you can escape any ignominy or hardship or punishment which the court doesn't see, then, of course, you may answer the question, but it is entirely up to you.

A Very well, I shall answer. I would like to say first that not only I am concerned with this, that all the Menoits who emigrated from Holland had to suffer terribly from cruelities in Russia; in the flourishing locations at the time not one man ever came home in the villages, all the men were expelled to Siberia in 1930. I suffered terrible things. Small children, babies, were taken away from the mothers' breasts. The mother was taken to Siberia. The father was taken to Siberia, and they never Saw each other again. It is natural that for a government who sets up its power on millions of corpses. I felt an unbounded despise, and that when I accepted the mission, I had a little hope that I might be able to do a small service to my countrymen, and that is why I volunteered for the German Wehrmacht.

That if the reason why I received decent treatment by the Germans. BY MR. HOCHWALD: not arrested by the Germans, that you reported to the Germans, isn't that right?

Q You were alone when you did this? you said that together with other persons you were arrested by the German forces?

A Yes. I chose a moment when the other persons who were with me took a different route. you fetched your child, is that correct? that right? brought my child -- just a minute, not to Einsatzkommando 6, that was not in Dnepropetrovsk at that time, there was another unit of the security service there. A No. I was an employee of the general commissariat of the department of agriculture and food in Dnepropetrovsk. I was employed there through the intermediation of Herr Graf.

Q Was it a German agency?

Q Were you paid for your duties there? German Government?

Q When was that?

this place?

A. Well, I was only there for a short period of time, for only about two weeks -- I did not look into it very deeply. I did see SS men occasionally, but what their tasks were, I don't know.

Q. You told the Tribunal further that Herr Graf wanted from you certain information about the Eastern workers in this factory, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ask yourself, or did you know why he wanted this information?

A. No. I considered this to be more in the nature of private work. It was not given to me as a mission, he merely requested me to talk to the foreign workers.

Q. You knew that he was in the SD, did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. Nevertheless, you were of the opinion that he asked you these questions entirely out of private curiosity?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you tell me further, you remained in contact with Herr Graf from the time you met him first in 1941 til the end of the war, is that correct?

A. We had correspondence also with Mrs. Graf. Yes.

Q. All the time?

A. Yes.

Q. I gather from your testimony that you have a great personal admiration for him, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So I gather that you tried in the best possible way to help him here? Is that right?

A. First of all, I am always prepared to stand up for the truth, and it is my opinion that Herr Graf as a decent human being, deserves that I testify everything I know about him.

Page 4,869

MR. HOCHWALD: I have further questions, your Honor.

PRESIDENT: Dr. Belzer, do you have any further questions of this witness?

DR. BEIZER: Just one question, your Honor.

PRESIDENT: Very well. BY DR. BELZER:

Q. Witness, do you know that it was the custom in the NKWD that a great number of intelligence agents were sent behind the German lines without hardly any training?

A. Yes, hoping that perhaps one among 50 might be able to find out something.

DR. BELZER: Thank you. I have no further questions.

PRESIDENT: Do you have something further, Mr. Hochwald?

MR. HOCHWALD: I beg the Tribunal's pardon.

PRESIDENT: Certainly. BY MR HOCHWALD:

Q. You have just said that you know that the NKWD used to send great many unskilled informers out. Where from do you have this information?

A. After the German troops entered, I talked to ethnic German women who had received the same mission and were trained even less than I was, young Students, girls who had no experience at all, who could not possibly have carried out this mission, but they tried to send them.

Q. But you did not receive this information from the major who briefed you?

A. No.

PRESIDENT: You have now finished, Dr. Belzer -- have you finished with your entire case?

DR. BELIZER: I have finished except for presenting my documents.

PRESIDENT: Yes. The next defendants would be the defendants Rasch and Strauch. They are both more or less 111, so that some preparation might be required in order to take up their cases, and in fact defense counsel have asked for further medical examinations, and that is the reason we cannot proceed immediately with those two defendants. So that it is the opinion of the Tribunal that something could be gained in time if we take up the cases of these two defendants next week that is, on Monday morning. In the meantime, all counsel, of course, will be engaged in finishing their documentation, not only the document books, but we presume that they are also working on their closing statements. From all appearances, the taking of testimony should be finished next week, then there will be a recess of one week during which time all counsel will complete their closing statements and then the following week we will hear the statements. I hope that the majority of counsel already have their closing statement in good hands so they can be turned in to the defense information center -- the defense center, and they can be processed so that when they are delivered in court orally the Tribunal will have copies and, therefore, can more keenly and acutely follow the arguments being made by defense counsel. now adjourn until next Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 12 January 1938, at 0930 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

Military Tribunal II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: In the absence of Dr. Stein for the Defendant Sandberger, Your Honors, I ask that the Defendant Sandberger be excused this afternoon for the session, so he can prepare his defense.

THE PRESIDENT: The Defendant Sandberger will be excused from attendance in court this afternoon.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Thank you.

DR. KLEINERT (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT SEIBERT): Your Honor, I would like to ask the same thing for my client.

THE PRESIDENT: The Defendant Seibert will be excused from attendance in court this afternoon.

DR. SURHOLT (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT RASCH): The defense for the Defendant Rasch will try to examine the defendant as a witness in his own case. Before I begin with the examination, I would like to make an explanation for this procedure and read into the record: On the 5th of September, 1947, by having reference to Article IV-D of Ordinance No. 7, the defense has made a written motion to the court to have the proceedings against Dr. Rasch set aside because of the inability of the defendant to stand trial.

This motion has not yet been ruled upon. I will not go into the reasons for this. The defense just wants to make clear that this motion still stands. in his own cause, despite his physical condition be considered a demonstration of good will. The results, whatever they may be, will be an additional clarification, that is, in addition to the medical opinion now available, and will continue to clarify the facts of the case, which & are important for the Tribunal in order to rule upon the motion made by the defense.

Therefore, the defense reserves the right, after the conclusion of its examination of Dr. Rasch and in summarizing the facts which result from the proceedings today to ask the Tribunal to rule upon the motion of dismissing the proceedings and setting aside the case.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Surholt, your motion of September 5th was not ruled upon for the reason that a decision could not be made without a thorough mental and physical examination of the defendant. A report on that examination eventually made by a board of three physicians was submitted to the Tribunal on December 11. We now have that report before us. of the proceedings, in so far as he is concerned, the Tribunal will then be in possession of all the facts, knowledge, and information needed in order to pass upon the motion. This motion is pending and is still valid and will be ruled upon at the appropriate time.

DR. SURHOLT: Your Honor, I thank you for the explanation of the Tribunal and it agrees with the explanation the defense just made.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the prosecution will waive their right of cross-examination of the Defendant Rasch. However, we have prepared a document book containing the documents which we would have put to the defendant, if we would have cross-examined him. These documents are unfortunately not yet processed. We will submit them to the Tribunal and to the defense at the earlist possible convenience.

If Dr. Rasch wants to answer or wants to comment on these documents, I think it should be appropriate not to call him back on the witness stand, but the prosecution would have no objection if such comment would be made in the form of an affidavit.

THE PRESIDENT: We do not, however, exclude that if the defendant desired to avail himself of the right orally to explain any of these documents or make answer to them, that he could then, providing he was physically able and mentally desirous of doing so, come back to the witness stand.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: We have made the suggestion of an affidavit only to facilitate matters for the Defendant Rasch.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. SURHOLT: It is the opinion of the defense and this point is different from that of the prosecution, as far as the defense is informed, the prosecution and the Tribunal especially were of the opinion that the Defendant Dr. Rasch, in view of the medical opinions available, could not stand a cross-examination. Therefore, the prosecution has kindly, as it put it, waived a cross-examination. Now it has just been explained that those documents, which would have been the subject of the cross-examination are to be submitted afterwards. I consider that this is a round-about method, which does not correspond to the situation in which the defendant Rasch finds himself, as far as the trial is concerned. For the defense, especially, for the Defendant Dr. Rasch, it is of importance, and I would say in consideration of the peculiarity of such a trial, the facts of which case are of a collectivistic nature, it is perhaps decisive for such a defendant that the various defendants, and, I am speaking of Dr. Rasch, he allowed to explain and describe their personality to the Tribunal and that they have an opportunity, as far as important counts of the indictment are concerned, to be able to use their personality in explaining them in order to answer the charges. Under these circumstances, I see in the waiving of the cross-examination by the prosecution, if it is willing to submit the material later on, without the defense having the possibility of answering them personally, I see in this a very clear restriction on the defense. the participants in the trial were in agreement in principle that Dr. Rasch could not stand a cross-examination. I think that under those circumstances, the intention of taking Dr. Rasch into cross-examination would not have been necessary.

DR. HORLICH-HOCHWALD: Of course, it goes without saying that the prosecution has no objection that Dr. Rasch himself testifies on the documents, which we will present. However, if we waived the right of COURT II CASE IX rebuttal and we should be entitled to submit in rebuttal every document to rebut the statements.

I have documents to rebut the statements which will be made in direct examination by Dr. Rasch. As to the documents, when we wanted to put in the documents earlier than in rebuttal, it was only to facilitate for defense counsel for Dr. Rasch and for the defendant himself to react to these documents, so we still take the position that the procedure suggested by the prosecution facilities and does not impede the defense of the Defendant Dr. Rasch.

DR. SURHOLT: The defense is of the opinion that the statement of the Prosecution needs no answer. I have already given the reasons for it.

THE PRESIDENT: Then I don't see where you are in any way impeded, Dr. Surholt, by the procedure announced by Mr. Hochwald. You are in no way prejudiced in the presentation of your defense. The defendant will testify, and then later when these documents may be processed, and we are always confronted with the mechanical difficulties in this business, they will be submitted to you, you will read them over, and you will confer with your client. If your client desires to make answers to them in written form, Mr. Hochwald has indicated that he is willing, and will interpose no objection to an affidavit being submitted by your client. If your client is willing and desirous of orally explaining the documents in court, that right will be permitted him, so I don't see how in any way you will be prejudiced by the procedure outlined by Mr. Hochwald.

DR. SURHOLT: Well-- I see only that by this procedure......

THE PRESIDENT: Perhaps, Dr. Surholt, the difficulty lies in this, that perhaps you understand from what Mr. Hochwald said that Mr. Hochwald would cross examine the defendant on the documents, but I don't think that Mr. Hochwald intends that.

MR. HOCHWALD: Your Honor, please, the Prosecution has no desire to cross examine the witness, Dr. Rasch, at all.

DR. SURHOLT: Well that is just it. The charges which are to be included in the cross examination are merely being posponed, and in the personality especially of Dr. Rasch, I don't consider it an advantage, but a disadvantage to the defense, if the defendant can not stand the cross examination in these matters for physical reasons. For reasons of the defense it would have been very desirable for the defendant, Dr. Rasch, because only in this cross examination, where it always effects the personality of the man, it would important for Dr. Rasch to answer the charges personally, but perhaps we can begin the examination.

MR. HOCHWALD: If Your Honors please, it goes without saying that the Prosecution presents its case as the Prosecution sees fit. Whether we intend to cross examine the defendant, or not, is entirely up to the Prosecution to decide. Nobody can compel the Prosecution to cross examine the witness. However, I want to repeat that we have waived the right of cross examination only in Order to facilitate the examination for Dr. Rasch.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Surholt.

DR. SURHOLT: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: It is not quite clear just what you object to. You have now indicated that you deplore that there will be no cross examination, which is certainly a very novel statement coming from any defense counsel, but whatever you feel could be brought out in cross examination you certainly can bring out in direct examination

DR. SURHOLT: Yes

THE PRESIDENT: -- and if you wish to take the belligerent attitude which you assume is alwaysinherent in the cross examiner, then you can rest your fears and cross examine, if you want crossexamination.

DR. SURHOLT: No, Your Honor, I am of the opinion that the cross examination would be completely impossible for the defendant, and that for this reason it was waived, but if the charges which were to be brought up on cross examination are brought up later, without the defendant being able to answer them personally, and being questioned about them personally, then I do not consider this an advantage but a deterioration of the defense situation, but perhaps.......

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, but Dr. Surholt, you have completely overlooked what I said, that after the defendant reads the documents, we will permit him to reply by affidavit by oral statement by examination anyway that he and you agree is the best way to do it.

DR. SURHOLT: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: And we will say to you, Dr. Surholt, that in examining the defendant Rasch, that you need not do it in the formalistic manner; you can talk with him conversationally, and if we can arrange it so that the interpreting process will not in any way be impeded, you might even stand close to him, and we won't restrict you to the formal manner of examining, so that if by a question even a little bit leading, you can more quickly get an answer from the defendant that will be permissible.

DR. SURHOLT: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Captain Carpenter, will you kindly step within the pit. Captain Carpenter, I should like you standing close, or Sitting close to the defendant. Will you please take a Seat at the counsel table now. (Captain Carpenter sits at the counsel table of the Prosecution within reach of the witness box). Dr. Surholt would you want to sit next to the defendant, and both of you use the same microphone, or would you prefer to stand where you are?

DR. SURHOLT: Your Honor, I shall try out whatever is best.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. SURHOLT: I already explained to you the other day that I shall proceed in as little a formal manner as possible in order to facilitate things for the defendant, who is very much subjected to mental tensions.

THE PRESIDENT: We will first try it with you standing at the podium. If we have difficulties, then you might move to a point closer to the defendant, and attempt it that way.

DR. SURHOLT: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Rasch will now be brought into the courtroom. Before the defendant is brought in, Dr. Aschennauer, I presume, you will be available in the event we need you for the purpose of your presenting the document books today.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I shall need about one and a half to two hours, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, I only ask that you hold yourself in availability. follows:

DR. SURHOLT: Dr. Rasch, you know which charges are contained in the Indictment against you. In the municipal hospital, when personally interrogated, you have made the statement that you considered yourself as not guilty, and as your defense counsel you have given me the reasons which were important for you in making this statement. I want you to try now in a very easy manner to express these reasons here in the courtroom. Please give the Tribunal your personal data, what is your name ----

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Surholt, he has not yet been sworn. Lt. see that his earphones are applied.

JUDGE SPEIGHT: He need not stand. I don't know whether the witness can raise his right hand, or not. Witness, can you raise your right hand?

THE WITNESS: Yes, I can.

JUDGE SPEIGHT: Raise your right hand. I swear by God, the Almighty and Omnicient, that I will speak the pure truth and will withhold and add nothing. (The witness repeated the oath) BY DR. SURHOLT:

Q Dr. Rasch, please give your first name and your last name?

Q When were you born?

Q Where?

Q. What are your present family conditions?

A. In February, 1944, my wife died in a terror attack on Berlin. I have three children, girls, at the ages of eleven to fourteen years.

Q Well, Dr. Rasch, then you were born in East Prussia, and as I know, on an estate called "Friedrichsruhe." Will you tell us, please, briefly how the conditions......you still hear me?

Q - - - (continuing) What the conditions were in your family?

A My father was a farmer. He had a brick factory. The industrial development in East Prussia didn't begin until after the First World War. Actually, not until after 1930. Around the turn of the century, the industrial firms in East Prussia had essentially the character of agricultural enterprises, brick factories, distilleries and sawmills.

Q Dr. Rasch, perhaps you will tell us briefly about your family?

A Well, I want to say that my father was well to do. Seen from a socialogical standpoint, he belonged to the patriarchial order. It was ordered from above, and from below, it was obeyed. On the other hand, my father considered it his uppermost duty to take care of everyone of his people. This social duty came from the deeper moral awareness from religion. My parents were very devout. Everything is beginning to swim before my eyes.

Q Do you still hear me clearly when I talk to you?

DR. SURHOLT: Your Honor.......

THE PRESIDENT: Captain Carpenter, will you please examine the witness to see if he may continue. (Thereupon Captain Carpenter holds the wrist of the witness) Will one of the interpreters please go to the witness stand to interpret for the Doctor.

THE WITNESS: I merely see colors and lights, and in my ears there is a funny sound, just like in a radio.

THE PRESIDENT: Will Captain Carpenter come to the bench, please. (Whereupon Captain Carpenter appears before the Bench and discussion ensues outside the record). The Tribunal will be in recess a few minutes, and Captain Carpenter will confer with the Tribunal during that recess. Dr. Surholt will hold himself in readiness to be called into the conference, as well as Mr. Hochwald.

DR. OTTO RASCH- resumed

THE HARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: Will you apply the ear phones, Lieutenant?

Dr. Surholt, you may proceed. BY DR. SURHOLT:

Q. Dr. Rasch, you were just about to tell us what the conditions were in your family. Please briefly describe the education by your parents and their methods, especially of your father. Do you hear me? Do you hear me, Dr. Rasch?

A. Yes, but badly. You mean educational methods?

THE PRESIDENT: It is very obvious, of course, to everybody that you are an ill man and the only reason that we are proceeding in spite of your illness is to give you an opportunity to explain the serious charges which have been filed against you. Try to be as calm as possible and take your time in answering.

A. Well, that is just the difficulty. The more I have the will to calm myself the worse do the physical disturbances get.

THE PRESIDENT: How about your comprehension of the questions which are put to you? Do you understand me clearly?

A. I understand the sense of the question but there is a strong noise and it is coming through very indistinctly.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we will try to proceed. BY DR. SURHOLT:

Q. Dr. Rasch, back home in East Prussia didn't you get the first moral directions in your life from your father? Will you just briefly describe it?

A. At home I was educated very devoutly. That was in accord with the almost pious devoutness of my parents. My father taught Me the love of my country, love of nature, and how to hunt.

all he taught me the moral principles of hunting. He taught me that hunting was not just shooting and killing of game but it was also the care of and respect for the Creator and his creatures.

Q. How long were you at home, Dr. Rasch?

A. I lived in this atmosphere until the 10th year of my life.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, just what did you mean by the moral principles os hunting? What morality was involved?

A. Hunting in the German sense demanded that the individual, even if he is completely unobserved in his area, realises his obligations toward the creatures, and that he is to refrain from everything which violates these, for example, shooting during the time it is prohibited that is, during the time the animals are protected, shooting of the mother as long as her young ones need her and only shooting on careful deliberation, not to satisfy one's passion for it.

Q. Thus, until the tenth year of your life you were back home, Dr. Rasch? How did you development proceed further, briefly?

A. When I was 10 years old I entered the Royal High School in Luck.

Q. Thus from the 6th to 10th year you visited grammar school in Friedrichsruhr and when 10 years old came to high school in Luck?

A. Yes, that is right. There I lived with an aunt.

Q. How far did you get in high school?

A. Until two years before graduation.

Q. You left after 10 years of school then?

A. I did not want to go to the university at that time and the grade I attained was considered as sufficient education.

Q. Do you have any special memories from this time which are important in your life?

A. I was a good student and I was on friendly terms with most of my teachers. I enjoyed a relationship of confidence with them. This lasted during my entire life.

Q. Then you volunteered for the Agriculture Department in Luck to receive training?

A. No, with the Landrat, government counsellor.

Q. And you stayed there six months?

A. Yes, approximately.

Q. And then you went to the bank of the East Prussian Agriculture?

A. Yes.

Q. You remained there about one year?

A. Yes, one year.

Q. Do you still understand me, Dr. Rasch?

A. Well it's getting worse again.

Q. Then you became the private secretary of a count zu Dona? You still hear me?

A. Yes.

Q. And then your life took a different course from then on. Can you briefly explain why?

A. The Count zu Dona took me along on some of his trips. The Court is beginning to shake. Well, he took me along on some of his trips. He took me to Paris.

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment. You may suspend just a moment, witness.

The witness will be removed from the courtroom. The Tribunal will take its morning recess.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. LUMMERT (Attorney for the defendant Blume): Your Honor, I would like to have the defendant Blume excused this afternoon in order to be able to prepare his defense With him.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Blume will be excused from attendance in court this afternoon.

DR. RATZ (Attorney for the defendant von Radetzky): Your Honor, I have a short but urgent request to make. On the 6th of January, I requested of the Secretary-General that I be permitted to speak to the Witness Hartl; the witness Hartl was granted to me according to a ruling of the court of the 3rd of October, 1917. The prosecution objected to my request, giving the reason that the Witness Hartl had already been examined in a direct examination and had been questioned by me.

I, however, would like to say this: that I think it is absolutely necessary to speak to the witness Hartl again concerning the document which the prosecution submitted from the personal files of the defendant von Radetzky Subsequently. This document was only submitted by the prosecution after the examination of the witness Hartl, namely on the the 17th of December and it contains completely new points about which I want to question the Witness Hartl. speak to the witness. If I am not permitted to do this, I am at a disadvantage in presenting the defense in this case, because this very point, which has been submitted by the prosecution subsequently, is a new aspect on which I have to obtain and submit new evidence.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, it is the position of the prosecution that Dr. Ratz is mistaken by saying that by the introduction of the document to which Dr. Ratz refers a new aspect was opened in the case.

We have asserted and also offered proof that the defendant von Radetzky was a leader of a Teilkommando. I merely remind the Tribunal of the affidavit of the witness Kroege which we have introduced in our case in chief in Document Book III-C. I haven't got the document book with me and I can't give the document numb er, but this dooument was already introduced in the case in chief. The document which we have introduced in cross-examination is nothing else than a corroborative document to this statement of Kroege. As the witness Hartl was on the stand after the case in chief of the prosecution had been presented, Dr. Ratz had full opportunity to ask the Witness Hartl questions in connection with the position of the defendant von Radetzky. Dr. Ratz has cross-examined the Witness Hartle at great length and I do think he should have exhausted all information which can be elicited from this Witness. That is the reason why the prosecution did object against further examination of the witness Hartl. I might add in passing that the Tribunal has excused the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, we have always adhered to the principle that a trial is not a gladiatorial combat between attorneys and no defendant or client should be made to suffer because of the lapse of his attorney, if there is a lapse. Now Dr. Ratz did have an opportunity to cross-examine this witness. He now tells us, and We certainly must accept that he tells us in good faith, that he wishes to put another question to him and we will not deny him that opportunity merely because of the procedure usually accepted that once a witness has taken the stand that finishes that Witness.

True, ordinarily that is the situation, but if Dr. Ratz, indicates that in order to properly present his case it is necessary to talk again to Hartl the Tribunal will not deny him that opportunity, because our policy has been from the very beginning to give defense counsel every opportunity to examine, cross-examine, investigate, interrogate, and to bring in anything which they believe is relevant, up to the social life of the penguins, as we explained before.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWAID: Very well, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: So that you may interrogate the witness Hartl, Dr. Ratz.

DR. RATZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome.

Did you want to say something, Dr. Aschenauer?

DR. ASCHENAUER: No .

THE PRESIDENT: The Witness Rasch will be brought into the courtroom.

)The witness was brought into the courtroom)

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, we want you to understand that this hardship to which you are being subjected is not intended as a hardship. According to the Anglo-American procedure, every defendant is presumed innocent until proved guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. You therefore stand before the court as an innocent man. You Were charged with crime, very serious crime, and the Tribunal is required to give you every opportunity to answer these charges. Thus, you are brought into court, not with the thought of subjecting you to an unpleasant and uncomfortable experience, but rather to a pleasant and comforting one in that at last you will have the opportunity to speak to the world. If you don't wish to speak, you are not required to do so and if you would indicate at any time that you do not wish to be brought into the courtroom you will not be brought into the courtroom. It was because we were assured that you had no objections to coming into court, namely in taking the stand in your behalf, that you were brought in.

We have medical attendants here. You need have no fear about your physical condition, so we again put to you that if, for any reason, you would rather not testify in court, you need merely indicate that through your counsel or directly and you will not be called upon to answer any of the questions, and we do want the record to show very clearly that you come into court voluntarily and that you are not being subjected to any hardship and are not being compelled to testify.

DR. SURHOLT: Your Honor, as the defensecounsel of the defendant, may I make just one remark? It is the express desire of the defendant obviously to express his opinion and to comment upon the counts of prosecution, by presenting himself in court, but there is no possibility for the defendant to cope with this and to testify beyond his physical ability at the moment to do so. The defense itself is of the opinion that the further examination will result in an exhaustion which will gradually increase and that such examination is not a proper examination of the Witness. The defendant therefore is here voluntarily, but his defense, however, is of the opinion that the actual examination of the witness no longer conforms with the prupose of a proper examination.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Surholt, the witness demonstrated an amazing clarity and lucidity of mind this morning on the two occasions that he was questioned. The Tribunal is not aware that he is having any difficulty whatsoever in understanding and comprehension. The only thing we are concerned with is whether his physical condition is such that he may not be able to continue with the examination for any extended period of time. However, all this is a medical question and not a legal one, and so we have in attendance a competent physician and defense counsel is permitted to have in the courtroom any physician that he chooses to call to assist in the determination of the final question as to whether physically this witness is able to continue With the examination which is being put to him sympathetically, because only defense counsel will question, the prosecution having waived cross-examination. with the fact that the prosecution has already submittef its case and, as is true in every instance defense counsel may be willing to accept what has been submitted against a client as true, but yet denying the legal implications sought for by the prosecution, in which event it would be a question of law as to whether the documents establish a prima facie Case.

testify and at any time, he or you, Dr. Surholt, indicates that he would rather not testify, the proceedings, of course, will be immediately halted and he will be taken back to his cell or to the hospital, or wherever he happens to be presently lodged and, of course, your motion, Dr. Surholt, will always be before the Tribunal for determination and eventual decision as to whether he is physically and mentally capable of being heard at all.

DR. SURHOLT: Your Honor, the last decision--

Your Honor, I am not in the shoes of my client and Dr. Rasch himself must know about the borders of his physical ability. He had expressed the Wish to testify and I shall try to continue.

THE PRESIDIENT: Very Well. You may proceed.

Q. (By Dr. Surholt;) Herr Dr. Rasch, before the recess, you spoke about being in the service of the Count zu Dohna, and as Such, you went for trips into foreign countries.

A. Defense Counsel, I am desparately ill.

THE PRESIDENT: Captain Carpenter, will you please look at the defendant and report to the Tribunal?

( Captain Carpenter conferred with the court.)

THE PRESIDENT.: The proceedings will be suspended and the Tribunal will be in recessuntil One forty-five. and, if defense Counsel desires to call in a physician of his own also to examine the defendat, and then the doctors Will report to the Tribunal. At any rate at the present time, we are now to be in recess until one forty-five.

( A recess s was taken until 1345 hours, 12 January 1948.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: For Dr. Riediger for the Defendant Haensch, I ask that the Defendant Haensch be excused from the remainder of today's session and for all of tomorrow's session in order to prepare his defense and to instruct that he be immediately taken to Room 57.

THE PRESIDENT: The Defendant Haensch will be immediately excused this afternoon and will be taken to Room 57 and he will also be excused from attendance in court tomorrow.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Thank you.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there no way of adjusting the position of the defendant to that the Tribunal may actually see his face?

Witness Rasch, do you hear the Tribunal speaking? Witness Rasch, do you hear the Tribunal speaking?

THE WITNESS: Yes, I hear. I hear something, but very indistinctly.

THE PRESIDENT: We Shall make another attempt to continue with the examination, so you will please endeavor to cooperate in the best way that you can. The only reason that you find yourself exposed to this rather uncomfortable situation is that in this trial an indictment has been returned against you and co-defendants. This indictment, insofar as you are concerned, charges you -- and evidence has been submitted to support the charges -- that during the time you were in command of Einsatzgruppe C killed more than 75.000 people. There is quite a list of charges, each one of which indicates that illegally you caused the death of thousands of defenseless and helpless people. It is because of the enormity of these charges that you have been brought into the court so that you may have an opportunity to explain whatever you want to explain in answer to these grave charges.

Is that all very clear to you?

THE WITNESS: No, I heard a few words, but I did not comprehend them. I am so terribly tired.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Surholt, would you attempt to ask him the substance of what the Tribunal has just said?

DR. SURHOLT: Your Honor, what has just been said is, of course, the nucleus of what happened and which is the substance of the indictment. But this morning already I pointed out that the defense does not see its most important task in this fact that one, two, or three more executions are discussed here, but that it be clarified what the defendant's inner attitude was to the facts in the case and what his attitude is today and this proof can only be produced from the connections of the most important dates in his life, and, of course, above all, the most important dates of his political life.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Surholt, you will admit that any person charged with 75.000 murders should be given every opportunity to exculpate himself even at the expense of physical discomfort?

DR. SURHOLT: Certainly.

THE PRESIDENT: We want to make this very clear so that no one may get the impression that the defendant is being treated with but little compassion. There is the greatest of sympathy for his physical condition, but in his own behalf it must be uttered that with a crime of this appalling nature charged against him that he be given an opportunity to explain why he finds himself in this legal situation and that that of itself might even offer a comfort to him in that he had his chance in court to speak.

DR. SURHOLT: Your Honor, there is no disagreement Of opinion about that, but at the moment it was not clear to me when I was supposed to start my examination after the words of the President, at what point I was supposed to start. This morning, we briefly described the education of the defendant at home and his first schooling; that that he left school -

THE PRESIDENT: You need not repeat it, Doctor. Just begin Where you left Off. BY DR. SURHOLT:

Q Dr. Rasch, during your examination this morning, you Stopped at the point when you reported that while in then service of Count Dona you made trips abroad. Would you briefly tell us what trips you made at that time. Where did you go, and what decisions they induced in you?

A I hear your voice, but I don't know what you want. I am very tired.

Q (Dr. Surholt standing close to the witness) Herr Rasch, We want to try to continue with the examination, if at all possible. This morning you spoke of your first glimpse of the World. Do you have the physical possibility of answering?

A I don't understand you. I just don't understand you. Everything is of no consequence, and I am SO exhausted. I made all efforts, but I just can not go on.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Kretzer, Will you please question the Witness yourself, professionally, and then come here to the Bensch. Remove the microphone, please. (Whereupon Dr. Kretzer - later identified as Dr. Grahmann - bends over the witness and holds his wrists.) Captain Carpenter will you please also stand by. (Consultation between Dr. Grahmann and Captain Carpenter while near the witness. Captain Carpenter is before the Bench consulting with the Judges in a discussion Outside the record. The Captain returns to his chair.

THE PRESIDENT: The Marshal is directed to transport the defendant Otto Rasch from the courtroom to the dispensary, or such other place designated by the medical authorities.

(The Marshal and three assistants carry the defendant out of the courtroom on a stretcher) Captain Carpenter, will you please take the witness stand. testified as follows:

THE PRESIDENT: Please raise your right hand. Do you swear by God to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help me God?

THE WITNESS: I do.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, you may be seated.

Q Please give us your full name?

Q What is your rank?

Q Where are you stationed?

Q Please, indicate your professional qualifications? is chief of Medical Service. I was trained at Northwestern University Medical School; graduated from that University; served an internship at Evanston Hospital, and Residential at Mayos.

Q Not so rapidly, Captain. All of this must be interpreted as you go along, please. You may now proceed.

A I was graduated from Northwestern Medical School: served internship at Evanston Hospital, and Residential at Mayo Clinic in Rochester. from this Tribunal examine the defendant Otto Rasch, with two other physicians, and submit a report on his physical and mental conditions?

brought into the courtroom? occasions that the Trib unal recessed? your findings were at that time, what they are at the present time, and what your conclusions are with regard to continuing the examination in court of Otto Rasch? examined the defendant in the hospital that he was suffering from a disease known as Parkinism; that his case is a purely advanced case of this disease. There was the further opinion into court, but that in so doing he would be subjected to emotional and mental trauma, which tends to exaggerate the signs and the symptoms of this disease.

Q A little slower,please, captain. Very well. the courtroom, it was apparent that these conclusions were borne out; under the stress of questioning, and in the emotional trauma of being in court, the manifestations of the disease -and the red means to stop.

AAll right. The manifestations of the disease were certainly exaggerated. It was apparent at that time that the defendant was becoming exhausted by the continued questioning. It was apparent that perhaps by questioning him for short periods of time, and then permitting him to rest for an interval, that we might be able to proceed.

However, the exhaustion of the patient was such that it has become evident that it is apparently impossible to proceed. It is my opinion that the defendant Rasch should not be subjected to further questioning.

Q At this time. You mean at this time? didn't mean with regard to today, but for the future. You are not indicating what the future would bring? this particular case, but it certainly is typical of this disease that the patients do not improve but continue to pursue a downhill course; so I don't anticipate that in this particular case that the condition of the defendant will improve. defendant should be brought into the courtroom to testify any time during the next two weeks? that the defendant Rasch should not be brought into the courtroom within the next two weeks.

THE PRESIDENT: Does counsel on either side desire to put any questions to Captain Carpenter? BY DR. SURHOLT: have to count on a quicker down hill course of the disease? of the symptoms and signs whenever the patient is subjected to any emotional stress or strain. The ideal treatment for such a case is to keep the patient quiet in every way possible.

Therefore, by subjecting any such patient to emotional stress of the courtroom, we probably should say that the deterioration would be more rapid,under such conditions.

Q One more question. According to the effect which the examination of today has had on the defendant, cannot it be assumed that if such a thing is repeated within the next few days that one might get a better result? point of view, is that right? stand it better, that he would use his mental capacity better than that he was able to do today? the defendant was brought in on the first occasion this morning, he was more mentally alert than he was this afternoon, for instance, or later in the morning. I anticipate that the patient, if he were permitted to rest for twenty-four hours, or thirty-six hours, again we might expect a short period during which he would be able to answer your questions, but I further anticipate that the performance we saw today will be repeated.

DR. SURHOLT: Thank you.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Ferencz. BY MR. FERENCZ: examination of the defendant, Otto Rasch, would you say that after a rest period, the defendant is able to understand the nature of the charges brought against him? question that was asked the Board of Officers that examined the defendant, and that question was answered in the reply of that Board of Officers, where it was stated at that time that it was the opinion of the Board that the defendant could understand the charges brought against him.

that the defendant is able to answer questions within a limited time period concerning those charges?

A I believe I answered that question a moment ago. I believe if he were brought into the courtroom again -courtroom altogether? future time, doubtlessly, for the first few minutes, perhaps, a shorter period than was that of this morning, he would be able to answer the questions, but again he would become exhausted and tired as he did today.

defense counsel a coherent statement constituting the basis of his defense, either outside of the courthouse, or in the courthouse?

A It would depend on the conditions. If the defendant and his counsel were alone or without a group of people around, I think there should be no difficulty at all in his dictating a statement to the counsel.

Mr. FERENCZ: Thank you.

THE PRESIDENT: Captain Carpenter, in describing the symptoms, you used the word "exaggeration". I presume the word "exaggeration" is used professionally, in a sense somewhat different from its popular connotation. When we speak of "exaggeration" generally we think of a purposeful enlargement of any given situation.

Q Do we understand by your use of the word "exaggeration" perhaps intensification?

THE PRESIDENT: Any other question, Dr. Surholt?

DR. SURHOLT: No, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Captain Carpenter, we are very grateful to you for being in today, and we would like to ask you to be in tomorrow again, if you will. If for any reason you find that is not possible, to notify us immediately.

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

THE PRESIDENT: Will you, Captain?

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

(Witness excused)

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. "Kretzer" will you take the stand, please.

DR. HERBERT GRAHMANN, a witness, took the stand and testified as follows:

JUDGE SPEIGHT: Raise your right hand, Doctor. Repeat after me: I swear by God, the Almighty and Omniscient, that I will speak the pure truth, and will withhold and add nothing.

(The witness repeats the oath). You may be seated.

THE PRESIDENT: Let's have your full name, please?

THE WITNESS: Dr. Herbert Grahmann.

THE PRESIDENT: You must be a different person from the one I have been talking to.

DR. SURHOLT: Your Honor, yes, it was a different name.

THE PRESIDENT: When he was in my chambers, I addressed him as "Dr. Kretzler" and you didn't correct me.

DR. SURHOLT: Your Honor, I don't believe I heard it in your chambers but at least I introduced him as Dr. Grahmann.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we received from you a statement by Dr. Kretzler, and I made repeated reference to this statement, and I assumed all the time that naturally this was the man.

DR. SURHOLT: No, your Honor. The medical opinion of the doctor at the moment was signed by Dr. Kretzer, and the opinions were made out in the city hospital in Professor Maithaler's Department. On the order of Professor Maithaler, Dr. Kretzer and Dr. Grahmann handled the opinion, and the opinion was signed by Dr. Kretzer. It was explained to me that one name is sufficient.

THE PRESIDENT: And your name is Grahmann?

THE WITNESS: Grahmann, yes, sir.

THE PRESIDENT: I am glad to know you, Dr. Grahmann, and I hope you will excuse me for having called you "Dr. Kretzer".

" Now, Dr. Grahmann, you heard Captain Carpenter's statement from the witness stand, did you?

Q Do you concur in what he said? defendant, Otto Rasch?

patient.

Q You doctors like to talk very rapidly. Please watch these lights, and when this globe is illuminated with a yellow light, you speak slowly, and when it is illuminated with a red,stop.

A Yes, sir. It is possible that the condition of the patient might be deteriorated in such a manner during this session that it might lead to loss of consciousness, or loss of consciousness to chewing cramps.

defendant were to be called again to testify within the immediate future, that there would be the possibility that while testifying he might lose consciousness. Is that what I understood you to say?

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed. Anything else?

THE WITNESS: I would like to add that through the constant exaggeration of the mental makeup and emotional makeup, there would be a further alteration or deterioratio n of the patient, and with a onehundred percent certainty, my colleague, Dr. Carpenter, in his point on the one count of the prosecution, has not stated exhaustingly the following point: Were the defense to discuss various points with the defendant alone, considering the extent of the charges, a similar situation as we have seen here would result.

THE PRESIDENT: Do we understand from that that you take issue with Captain Carpenter's conclusion that the defendant could easily enough and without danger to his health, dictate an answer in the presence of his defense counsel to the charges brought against him?

it doesn't matter whether the charges are answered in the presence of a large auditorium or alone with the counsel.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you wish to question him any further, Dr. Surholt?

DR. SURHOLT: No, sir.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Ferencz, do you have any questions to put to him? BY MR. FERENCZ:

Q Doctor, are you a specialist on Parkinson's disease? beyond that I have a large medical experience with the many diseases in the neurological field - and I think that submitting a certificate of approbation as far as this disease is concerned is not necessary. suffering from Parkinson's disease are able ot discuss matters generally with intelligence? suffering from Parkinson's disease is able to conduct an intelligent conversation on general subjects? that the defendant would be unable to discuss it? matters and especially in all questions which concern his personality so keeply would be very much disturbed. is so deeply involved in these things they h ave a deep impression on him and have a disturbing effect, is that correct?

A I cannot answer these questions; whether here is guilt or no guilt I think that an insult or a charge of this extent would suffice to produce emotional disturbance in a man which strongly effects his personality.

Q How long have you been attending this patient? put to him?

THE PRESIDENT: Anything else, Dr. Surholt?

Dr. Grahmann, we thank you very much for giving us of your time and attention. That will be all.

Dr. Surholt, do you h ave anything else to present in the Rasch case?

DR. SURHOLT: Nothing to present, Your Honor, But I would like to take up once more my motion about severance of the case and to ask the Tribunal for a ruling.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we believe that you have indicated your position very clearly. You have made your motion. We now have the reports of various doctors. We H ave seen the demonstration in court so that the Tribunal will be able to rule upon this motion without any further argument.

DR. SURHOLT: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: So -

DR. SURHOLT: Your Honor, only one further remark. The facts as they have been characterized by you is clear, also my reasons given so far need no further addition, but there is something that I haven't submitted yet. That's the general difficulties for the defense. It isn't merely that the defendant could not stand the examination as a witness in his own case here in court, but the preparation of the entire defense material under the effects of this disease has suffered badly. This morning already I have explained that despite innumerable visits It's probably the same there as it is here in court, insofar as I found him in good shape and if I extended my discussion somewhat the result was so much the more negative on the following day.

Because of exhaustion and because of his entire condition which he called bad he rejected the questioning giving the reason that he could not stand it.

I merely wanted to say by this that in the decision of the court, not only the incident here in court but the entire difficulties of the total defense should be considered.

THE PRESIDENT: That will be considered. We merely want to add one further expression on this particular episode and it is this, that the defendant Otto Rasch was brought into court because it was his right to be heard. That is a constitutional privilege which the Court gave to him and insisted upon for his own benefit.

DR. SURHOLT: The defendant Rasch told me expressly that he wanted to make an attempt considering the importance for his defense but from the beginning he was skeptical about this attempt.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Now, Dr. Aschenauer, I had thought perhaps we could reach you earlier in the day and then you would be able to give us your various document books.

DR. SURHOLT: One question, Your Honor. Dr. Grahmann can be eased, is that correct?

THE PRESIDENT: Oh, yes, indeed. Dr. Grahmann, that is sufficient.

(The witness was dismissed)

THE PRESIDENT: Before we consider the presentation of your document book, Dr. Aschenauer, we will make the general announcement to all counsel that the program is now pretty well established as to what will transpire in the remaining few days of this trial. When we recess this week after having heard the other defendant, rebuttal, and whatever surrebuttal there is, the Tribunal will adjourn. Does anyone have a calendar here? Is "Montag", Monday? Very well. The Tribunal will adjourn until "Januar 26, Montag". Is that right? Very well. Until - I had better be my own interpreter here - until Monday, January 26. At that time we will hear the closing arguments on the part of defense and prosecution. It is assumed that an hour's argument on the part of each defendant through his counsel will be adequate to cover the points involved, with the exception of the Ohlendorf case because Dr. Aschenauer has undertaken the burden to generally argue the international law and the common defenses and we will take that up later.

Page 4,904

If any of the defense counsel believes that one hour is not adequate for him in the presentation of his summation he will then please make application to the Tribunal. He does not need to make it formally, he can see anyone of the three judges, so that we can determine whether he should be allowed a little more than the hour's time. Dr. Aschenauer will be allowed such time as he considers reasonable and I would appreciate it if he would let us know just about how much time he thinks he will need. He doesn't need to tell us that now but rather soon. The summation, of course, should be prepared as quickly as possible because we have the translation difficulties always with us and you know if we get too many documents to the translation room at one time there is bound to be a congestion. We do not know whether any of defense counsel intend to submit in addition to the final closing arguments trail briefs. May the Tribunal be enlightened on that point. Do defense counsel intend to submit what we call a brief? Well, counsel, are privileged to do so if they desire. It is not asked for.

Page 4,905

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Aschenauer, you indicated you would take perhaps an hour and a half approximately to present your documents and in view of the lateness of the hour, and in view of the fact that tomorrow morning we intend to take the defendant Strauch, I am afraid it would not be desirable to divide up the presentation, so if you don't mind we will have you present your documents immediately after the Strauch case is finished. Is that satisfactory to you?

DR. ASCHENAUER: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you very much.

DR. ASCHENAUER: That is all right will me, but I would just like to announce that after my documentary presentation I would ask that the defendant Ohlendorf be excused for one and a half days from the session because I want to discuss several questions about the final arguments with him.

THE PRESIDENT: That is entirely in order, and when you have finished with your presentation of the documents your request will be fulfilled.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Thank you.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will now be in recess until tomorrow morning at nine-thirty.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 13 January 1948, at 0930 hours) Otto Ohlendorf, et al.

, defendants, sitting at Nurnberg,

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

Military Tribunal 11 is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

Dr. GIGK: Defense counsel Dr. Gick, for the defendant Strauch. Your Honor, the Chief Medical Officer, Dr. Roeder von Bayer is present in this room. I received the permission yesterday for the Chief Medical Officer von Bayer to be present during the direct examination of the Defendant Strauch. I would like to be permitted, Your Honor, to have Dr. Bayer sitting at this table here in order to be able to follow the direct examination of the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: You may have Dr. Bayer sit whereever you think it will best serve your purpose.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, before I begin with the direct examination of the defendant in the witness box, I would like to make the following statement. On the 23 October 1947, I submitted a motion of severence to the Tribunal stating the frequency of the epileptic fits, and the consequence thereof. The American Board of Medical Officers examined Strauch on 11 December 1947, and the result wasthat under given conditions he would not be able to be responsible for his own acts, Strauch's condition has become considerably worse after this.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, it is not necessary to go into a discussion of this. You have made your motion, andthe motion is now pending. The defendant is in the courtroom, and I would suggest we immediately proceed to the examination, because the longer time that we expand in discussion, the more energy is being used by the defendants, merely in waiting. So that unless you have something specific to present to the Tribunal to rule upon, it would not be necessary to review the entire history of what has happened up to now.

DR. GICK: It is not my intention, Your Honor to review the entire history. It is merely my intention to explain to the Tribunal that I am still as I always had been of the opinion, as I expressed in my written application that --

THE PRESIDENT: That is just it, you have explained it all in your written application. It isnot necessary to tell us what you told us in the application.

DR. GICK: Your Honor ---- I know ---

THE PRESIDENT: Don't you realize, Dr. Gick, that the longer you talk now, the more of a tension you are developing in the defendant. He is here. The examination has been made. It has been determined that he iscapable of testifying. Let usproceed to the testimony, unless, of course, something comes up which requires a decision. Don't you agree with me?

DR. GICK: Yes, I now agree, Your Honor, to begin with the direct examination, and if the situation should come up. I will put in my comment, which I meant to make before I was stopped.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, we don't mean to curtail your statement, but in view of what we are confronted, let's save time. The witness does not need to stand up to take the oath. testify as follows:

JUDGE DIXON: Witness, raise your right hand and repeat the oath after me. I swear by God, the Almighty and Omniscient, that I will speak the pure truth, and will withhold and add nothing. (The witness repeats the oath while sitting.) BY DR. GICK:

Q. Herr Strauch, are you in the physical condition concerning your health to give an account for yourself today?

A. Yes, I hope that I am able to do it. I have a few difficulties, and I have difficulty in expressing myself, but I hope and any way I shal l try very hard to do so.

Q. Do you know why you are here?

A. Yes, I am here as a defendant in atrial so that -- in a political trial -- against especially which involves a number of especially large number of former people who are former political inmates.

Q. Herr Strauch, I want to start with the direct examination with you as the witness. I wouldlike you to concentrate as well as possible, and I want you to give corresponding answers to the questions so far as it is possible. Do you understand me?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, will you give us your personal particulars?

A. I was born on 17 August 1906.

Q. Where.

A. In Essen.

Q. How old are you then, today?

A. I beg your pardon.

Q. How old are you today?

A. I am today forty-one years old.

Q. What was your last civilian occupation?

A. My last civilian occupation was SS-Obersturmbannfuehrer -I mean, SS-Oberregierungsrat, that is, Senior Government Councillor.

Q. You mean, Senior Government Councillor?

A. Yes.

Q. Oberregierungsrat?

A. Yes.

Q. Please give us a short review concerning your education, and your professional training?

A. I beg your pardon.

Q. I would like you to give me a short description concerning the way you were educated at home, and what professional training and education you have had?

A. I am the son of my father, a worker, and during the war -shortly after the First War, my father became unemployed, and my brother and myself, we did any old work that came along. For instance, myself, I gave coaching-lessons, and, thus, I earned a little money, and I was able to increase my parents! income. I thus was able to support with earnings and to increase a little the earning of my father and brothers. I worked myself, and my brother also worked. My parents worked very hard, and didn't bother about anything else. They always worked very hard, and the work was pretty hard, and they worked pretty hard so I could attend Gymnasium, which isa high school.

Q. Do you mean to say, Herr Strauch, that you always had to work very hard because your parents were not in a position to contribute anything towards your education, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. What schools did you attend?

A. I first attended Police School -- that is, not Police School, but the elementary school -- that is, the elementary school until the year of nineteen .... I must have to think it over -- I must think it over very hard, until I was nineteen. Until 1906.

Q. 1906?

A. 1906, yes.

Q. I thought you were born in 1906?

A. No.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, in order to save nervous energy, I don't think that I would tax the witness with questions on precise features of his early education. It isenough that he was educated. He can say in one year what hislast unit of education was, and then we must assume that he participated in all that went before that. BY DR. GICK:

Q. Herr Gick, when did you conclude your studies?

A. I can not put it in that way. May I just give a few details concerning thisfeature.

Page 4,910

I was born in 1906, and sofar as I remember, 1906 I went to school, and 1910 I went to high school, the gymnasium; that means that for four years of my training I had four years training of elementary studies, and 1906 until I went to high school.

Q. You mean to say you finished your studies at high school? Did you graduate?

A. Yes, I graduated privately.

Q. You mean up to your graduation examination - you mean to say you earned your living for your studies yourself, is that right? Were you not prevented doing so through your epileptic fits which have become apparent today?

A. No, not at that time. When I studied - when I was partly going to elementary school or high school or to the university, I also worked.

Q. What I mean, did you have any epileptic fits at that time?

A. No, the first epileptic fits I had when I was a child and then in the British Camp that I was in, I think, in Dendorf.

Q. When was that?

A. That was the time --- I must work it out. I joined the forces in 1931 and I was under tremendous nervous strain as conditions were most unfavorable and I was released - and then I was completely released because it was not possible any longer.....

Q. What were you released from?

A. From the hospital.

Q. you mean the hospital of the Prisoner of War Camp?

A. Yes, I was taken to the hospital and I was then released.

Q. I asked you when was that?

A. Yes, I am just trying to recollect.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, just a moment, please. I don't think it is necessary to go into the medical history because that history has been thoroughly examined by the medical authorities and that is a part of the record. I would suggest that you immediately proceed to ask him when he entered the SS, if he did, and get right down to the issue. Later on, if we find that it is necessary, then we can go into these other collateral matters.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, I only attach particular value to the witness testifying as to what he remembers in order to clarify the point of his COURT II CASE IX condition.

Therefore, I attach particular importance to whether the defendant remembers when these epileptic fits occurred again....

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, it isn't necessary for you to keep emphasizing the malady with which the witness is afflicted thereby only emphasizing in his mind the situation. Let us proceed immediately now to the issue.

DR. GICK: I shall be as rapid as possible.

THE PRESIDENT: It isn't a matter of being rapid. It is a matter of getting to the issue. Dr. Gick, now please do that.

DR. GICK: Herr Strauch, In order to give a short picture of your personal conditions, again please tell us what you did after you left high school.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, now you are doing just exactly what the Tribunal to..d you not to do. Now will you please listen to what we say, Dr. Gick. We are having more difficulties with you than we have with the witness. Now please immediately get to the issue and the issue is not whether he graduated from high school. I think the Prosecution will admit that? The Prosecution very generously admits that the witness graduated from high school.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, I deem it necessary to give the Tribunal a picture of the personality and development of the defendant so that the Tribunal will be in a position to recognize what mental and professional development the defendant had which seem to me of great importance for the judgment of his deeds. Therefore, I went to deal very briefly with his professional training.

THE PRESIDENT: Well Dr. Gick, can't you get - you have got him out of high school, now, he is a grown-up man. Get into the field of activity, of his life's activity. BY DR. GICK:

Q. Yes, I can do that. Well, then I want to start with the period when the defendant became politically active for the first time, Your Honor. Herr Strauch, will you tell the Tribunal now in what way you became politically active for the first time?

A. First I was a member of the "Jung Deutschen Orden" because I was of the opinion that Communism had to be fought. Therefore, I joined the German-Sweden. It was an organization which sometimes increased and sometimes decreased and I don't remember exactly, but I think I joined the Deutsche Orden in 1937. That was the year, I believe, which I joined.

Q. What was this organization? What were the tasks of the Jung Deutschen Orden?

A. Well, the tasks, the idea was to protect the German Nation and to get the light back into the German people. therefore, it was the belief that in this field it could become active.

A. Was not the task of the Jung Deutschen Orden to fight Communism?

Q. Certainly. There was only communism and bougeosie in Germany and then it was the right, the political right, that nothing else could be discovered and one had to fight this state of affairs. We fought Communism with the few people we had. please excuse me, it is a little difficult again. We wanted to fight Communism and as we had experienced the war a short while ago and because there was no air as a consequence of the War it was very difficult to live, and so on, and, it was no longer possible to go on.

Q For how long were you a member of Jung Deutsche orden? Did you understand me?

A No, I don't understand you. Orden? 1925. I don't remember exactly.

Q Didn't you only join in 1926?

A yes, of course, 1926. I remember that when I joined the university then I joined the Jung Deutsche orden.

Q When did you join the SA?

A The SA I joined on 8 September, I think, 1931. Then I joined the SS......

Q Just a moment. Let us remain with SA for a little while. Why did you join the SA?

A Why? I was of the opinion that if one did have to join an organization for political reasons then one must join the NSDAF.

Q You mean SA which you joined?

A The SS and at the same time I joined the SS. Again, therefore, in 19 - - - The SA, then the SS, and finally in 1943 -- is it all clear?

Q Before you joined the SA did you leave the Jung Deutsche orden?

Q In any case you left. Why did you do that and why did you join the SA?

A Because I wanted join a political party. I wanted to join a Party which one could decently join. time -- I and my comrades -- my comrades suggested to me to join the SS-comrades who were members of the Party and to fight for Germany. Under the conditions, therefore, seeing that Germany would be lost, therefore, one had to be a member of a Party which one could decently join.

Q Which formation did you join after you joined the SA?

Q What formation did you join after you joined the SA? and then the SS.

Q When did you join the SS?

Q What year?

A 19 - - -, I think -- I believe, in 1930. Then in 1931 I joined the Party. No, in 19 - - - I joined the Party in 1932 and 1933 I joined the SS.

Q Herr Strauch, did you not join on 10 January 1932 the SS?

Q A nd did you not join on 1 August 1932 the Party?

A No. If there is material you can produce for being given to me I can certify it and comment on it.

Q When did you join the SS and when did you join the Party?

Q Why did you leave the SA, Herr Strauch to join the SS? my liking. The general conditions were better.

Q you mean the best organization?

Q Organization for what purpose?

A Our task was mainly to protect the Fuehrer. For instance, when somebody came -- it's all right -- I have heard that -- when any fights or incidents of that kind took place they were shot at by our people and they were fought by our organization, that is the SS.

Q Did you ever hold any office Within the Party? were carried out, such as being a Scharfuehrer -

Q You mean the SS?

Q Will you then tell us about your career in the SS? to protect the territories and I can't say what else. mainly, however, our main task was the protection of - -

Q protection of what? for being a referendar? Did you not also receive a law training. three years.

Q There years. Therefore, were you not during that time a member of the SS? A member of the SD I mean.

Q SS or SD member?

Q During 31 you were still referendar?

Q You were at the same time amember of the SS?

Q Did you have the opportunity to become active in the SS? comrade.

Q Please go on with your career. What other jobs did you hold in the SD?

A I was gradually promoted. Well, I was a legal official first. Then I was examined by the Internal Administration, by the Internal Administration. I was taken over by the Internal Administration.

Q But that is not what we are talking about. We are speaking about your career in the SS.

A yes, I wasin the Administration. That is completely correct what I said -- in the Internal Administration, as referendar. Service.

Q How did you join the Security Service? Security Sector. I received the order to report to the Sector and I was to report there -- was to report there.

Q Who ga ve you the order?

Q What supreme commander?

A Rhineland. But my commanding officer did not went to have me transferred he wanted to keep me.

Q You mean your Commander in the SS?

Q Was that the SS-section officer in Essen?

A Yes. What was his name?

Q What was his name? It doesn't matter. Anyway, it was the SS-section chief, Essen, who passed on the order to you. Witness, what order did he give you? Essen and then I was to take over the sector in Dortmund.

Q What job was that, the SS-section?

Q Or is it the SD-sector?

Q SD sector? expected to fulfil with the security service?

A No, not at all, I never knew what happened. I had no idea what they were doing there.

Q What was your first task in the security service? had to be organized and built up before one started with the organization. Everything that has been said here I can only confirm. your SD activity?

A You mean my SD activity? Yes, the worst for me was, or the most important thing was to organize the organization and to build up something, to build up an information and news service.

Q Where?

Q Were you not first in Essen?

that chapter was closed.

Q What did you do after that?

Q Where did you go?

A First to Essen. Then I remained in Dortmund, and remained in Dortmund. district of Arnsberg?

Q How long did you hold that position?

A You mean in Dortmund?

Q Up to what year then? concerning the tasks and the manner of working of your security service which you were in charge of. tasks, and during the - within the population to collect names and activities and to pass these on to the the superior office which again passed it on, and collect them somehow, and that was the task, to transfer them to the superior office and thus to conclude this.

Q Did you hold any other tasks besides? to the station police whom you suspected?

Q Were you active fulltime in the security service? is the state police, and I refused to work for the state police in any manner whatsoever, and it was thus that a number of comrades of mine suggested to me that I should occupy myself with other things. There was one, or at least two, which matter somewhat, but I said, "Here I have my directives, and I only have to collect information, and there is nothing else that I want to do." the SD. What, then, was your fulltime job, your professional job? secret state police, not the state police, but from the I can't remember.

Q The interior administration? and I could manage with this. which was an honorary activity, you were an official of the interior administration? sector of the district Arnsberg?

Q How long was it? Koenigsberg, I immediately took my wife with me because I reckoned with difficulties. yet.

At the moment we are still in Dortmund, managing district Arnsberg.

A What do you mean, at the beginning of the war? How long was that?

A Oh, that is what you mean. There I was from -When was it that I started? That was in -- Well, I was in Rot.... and there I remained for seven years I think.

Q Seven years? That is until the year '41, is that right? arrived there until the year 1941. I don't know when it was that I started. That must have been in 19-- probably in 19--, I really cannot remember. I should like to say the following. I believe - I want to say the following - I was taken there 1626. I was taken there and then I was separated and simultaneously I was assessor and assistant lawyer. I don't know when I arrived. I would have to look deeper into matters.

Q Let's recollect. You were the leader of your "SS" sector in Dortmund and that was in the year 1934. Do you remember that?

A '34? No. In '34 I was a section leader, an Abschnittsfuehrer.

Q Yes. Now I ask you, for how long did you remain the section chief in this district?

A Until when?

A Until the beginning of '34. long did you remain a section chief?

recollect and then in '20 yes, I think it must have been '20, I come to Koenigsberg. That is approximately how it was.

Q You mean '20 you went to Koenigsberg? Arnsberg as a section chief and you remained in that position until 1941. Do you remember whether that is correct?

A 1940 to Koenigsberg? That is quite impossible.

Q How is it according to your recollection? I don't remember.

Q You can't remember that? Do you remember that your activity as section chief in Dortmund was interrupted on repeated occasions. Do you remember that? Do you understand what I asked you? went to Russia, or the middle of '40, of '40 I went to Russia, and then I first was under Stahlecker. certain events. Do you remember that during your activity with the sector in Dortmund, you repeatedly did something else just them cope with your SD activity? it is very difficult to concentrate. I can't even keep that thing on, the earphones on.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, we will anticipate the recess by five or ten minutes, and I would suggest that when we reconvene after the recess that you begin with the year 1939. He will have had a little rest, his energies may be refreshed, and then we can get immediately to the issue. Later on, if you believe that it is important, then you can go back in to the period prior to 1939, but now that we have him here and he is oriented, let's get to the issue. So I would suggest that after recess you do that.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. BELZER: Dr. Belzer for the defendant Graf. Your Honor, I would like to ask that, for the further preparation of his defense, the defendant Graf be excused from attendance in court this afternoon.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Graf will be excused from attendance in court this afternoon.

Q Dr. Gick, it will be permissible within reasonable limits for you to lead the witness, so that the amount of talking that he will need to do will be reduced to a minimum. You can take him right up to a situation, and then put the question to him.

DR. GICK: Very well, Your Honor. your Honor, I had my earphones on , and thus I was not able to hear the English translation. During the recess it was pointed out to me that the testimony of the witness didn't come through in the English translation as it was said originally by the witness. What the defendant said here as a witness appeared in the German as rather confused German, in fact, completely confused. I understand the fact that it is difficult to translate the words of the witness in such a manner that the Tribunal gets the impression exactly as given by the witness. But I think it necessary, that the translation, in order to give you a correct impression, give every word the defendant says, no matter what nonsense it is.

THE PRESIDENT: Now Dr. Gick -

DR. GICK: Even that repititions are also mentioned.

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment, please, Dr. Gick. Now, we will instruct you not to keep referring to the defendant's condition, to nonsense, and so on. You proceed with the examination. The Court will determine whether it is nonsense or not, and we are not aware there were any libertics taken with the translation, but if any mistakes occur in the translation, and they are pointed out to the Tribunal later, or even now if you know exactly which ones they were, the corrections will be made.

Now let's proceed immediately to the issue. 1939, what happened?

DR. GICK: In order to bring this up again, may I ask the interpreter be asked that every word be translated.

THE PRESIDENT: We have the utmost faith in the interpreter, and that will be done without any additional admonition or request on the part of the Tribunal.

DR. GICK: Very well. BY DR. GICk: At that time you were still Section Chief?

A Well, when was I supposed to have arrived? At that time you were Section Chief in Dortmund?

Q What office did you take over after the year 1941?

Q That is all right. You should merely answer. as Section chief in Dortmund, where were you transferred to ?

A Yes. Yes.

Q Do you understand my question?

Q Please, answer it?

Q You don't understand the question then?

Q Then please will you reply to it? already discussed that I was to go somewhere else, and the Section Chief said - -

THE PRESIDENT: Witness. Witness, will you please direct your attention to the Tribunal. Where were you in the year 1941?

THE wITNESS: I beg your pardon?

THE PRESIDENT: Where were you in the year 1941?

THE WITNESS: Well, Your Honor, I always get the German. I always hear you speaking in German. I don't know that much German.

THE PRESIDENT: Where were you in the year of 1941?

THE WITNESS: In the year of 1941, I was in Koenigsberg.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, Proceed Dr. Gick. BY DR. GICK: Koenigsberg then?

A Yes. No answer.

Q What office did you take over there?

Q I don't understand you?

A The Government Counsellor's Office.

Q The Government Counsellor's Office, is that right? Herr Strauch, please think what you are saying. You could not have taken over the Government Counsellor's Office?

A No, I didn't take it over. I took over one department in the Government Counsellor's Office, that is what I took over. The Government Counsellor's Office in the police - - the subject of - - - in the police county counsellor, senior government, that is too main government.

Q In Koenigsberg there is a district government?

Q Were you with the district government?

A No. There are two government. There is one main government, and another government.

THE PRESIDENT: Counsel, please, please, now Dr. Gick, you know from the document, and from the personnel record, of Eduard Strauch, that since 4 November 1941 he was leader of Einsatzcommando Latvia, two. so begin with the date, November 4th, 1941. you know what he is charged with in the documents. Take up the document immediately and have him give whatever explanations. Counsel, you may begin with. when he actually arrived in Russia, or, when he was assigned to go to Russia, but this is a crux of the charges against him, what he did in the East, and, if you want to go back later, you may. You may lead two witness to that point.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, It is very difficult for me to conduct this direct examination here, because in my opinion I don't have a man in front of me with whom I can conduct this examination in a normal manner. I was just about - -

THE PRESIDENT: That is quite obvious to the Tribunal, and for this reason we said that you may lead the witness. you know your case. you know what he is charged with.

DR. GICK: yes, I am just about to clarify that point.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

Q Herr Strauch, when did you come to Koenigsberg? Hundred and -- Well, as far as I know -

Q How long were you in Koenigsberg then?

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, you don't need to labor over a date. If he doesn't think of it, you may supply it. We don't need to linger and work and puzzle over things which can easily be found in the record and which you undoubtedly know, so help the witness.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, may I comment on this very briefly? It is my opinion that the most important part is to hear what the defendant has to reply himself to may questions, and, if I lead him and he answered a leading which I put to him, this would not give exactly the same impression which the defendant would give otherwise.

THE PRESIDENT: We don't mean that you should lead him on a very vital point, but the matter of when he left Koenigsberg, if it is in the documents, you needn't worry him with that, and, incidentally, it is the first time, Judge Speight observes, that we have heard a lawyer objecting to leading a witness.

DR. GICK: The special situation requires it, Your Honor. May I continue, Your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: Please do. Q (BY DR. GICK) Herr Strauch, may I remind you that in Koenigsberg you were Section Chief of the SD, which is the same as in Dortmund, until the time when you were supposed and had to take over another office.

Do you know what office you were supposed to take over? to Riga? reached me on 2 January, as far as I know.

Q Second of January, what year?

A In what year? Nineteen Hundred -- Nineteen Hundred -22 -- 20 -- 2d January 1920.

Q Herr Strauch in 1941 you were in Koenigsberg. Then the order only could have reached you in the year 1941, is that right?

Q When do you think that the order reached you? Yes, 1941 Is that right, 1941? And then 19-- I took over the kommando in Riga for a very brief period. I had to remain there and them in 1942 I was transferred form Riga to -what is that called again? I can't think of it. I will think of it in a moment. Just a moment. Rovno. the date.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Glancy, just a moment, Dr. Gick. Mr. Glancy, will you please furnish the Tribunal with the document numbers, document books, and the pages which contain ther specific charges against this witness?

MR. GLANCY: Sir, that might be found in the Order of Presentation contained in Document Book III-A, Responsibility. of the Defendant Strauch.

THE PRISIDENT: Page?

MR. GLANCY: Page 2 of Document Book III-A. It begins with NO-2966 in Document Book III-A and continues on.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. GLANCY: Do you have that, Sir?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, I have it now, thank you. All right, proceed, Dr. Gick. Q (BY DR. GICK) Herr Strauch, please concentrate hard and try to remember when you received the order to take over the office in Riga.

A I can't say quite exactly. but I assume that -- I assume that in '44 -- that must have been in 1944. few days of November, 1941, you received a teletype message containing the order that you were to go to Riga, is that right?

Q What happened after this? No, it is not right. It isn't right.

Q What is wrong here?

A This teletype message was not this one. It was a teletype message where it was suggested to me in Riga to remain. I was told in this teletype message to remain in Riga.

Q What happened as a result of that teletype message? I was to remain in Riga forever.

Q That you were to remain in Riga forever? to remain there constantly.

elbow and your upper arm again? I am asking you again?

A It is quite simple. I wrote to my wife and told her

Q You would have to return to Berlin?

A No, to Koenigsberg. I would have to return to Koenigsberg.

Q But you were in Koenigsberg. You were to go to Riga from Koenigsberg?

A Where was I? O, like this -- that is how it was In Derrings I was in Koenigsberg and I waited there and wanted to get away and then there came my attempt to remain in Koenigsberg and since -- and since I did not want to remain in Koenigsberg, I made an attempt -- well, through a teletype message, I was trying to get away through this teletype message, and then I was told I would not be permitted. I could not -- or, rather, I could get leave, but that I had to go back to -- to -- what do you call it? To Frankfurt on the Oder River.

Q Frankfurt on the Oder River?

Q Weren't you to go to Riga, not to Frankfurt on the Oder River? Figuero, Fruehr.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick -

DR. GICK: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness Strauch. Witness Strauch, please look at me. You are in court and you are charged with serious crimes. we are aware of the fact that you have been ill and that on certain occasions you are afflicted with seizures, but we are not aware that between these seizures you are not fully mentally capable of understanding and participating in ordinary conversations. Now, your demonstration this morning is not very convincing of a willingness to cooperate with your attorney. We do not believe that you purposely are giving unresponsive answers, but we are of the opinion that you are being very careless. Now, if you think that by giving irresponsible answers that you are helping your case, you are making a very bad mistake, Now, we want you to take hold of yourself and answer intelligently, The medical records do not show that you are incapable of answering questions intelligently. Now, please, in a very calm and tranquil way listen and answer and answer Intellingently.

Now, Dr. Gick, we will call to your attention that in this very brief survey which I have made, after Mr. Glancy called to my attention the page on which I could find the documents, that there are two documents here to which you could well direct your attention at once, namely, the letter from the Commissioner Kube and the affidavit made by Sandberger, both of which charge this present defendant with crimes. Now, direct your attention, please, to these specific charges to begin with. Are you familiar with the document, PS-3428on page 30 of Document Book III-A? That is, it begins on 30. On page 32 you will find the reference to Strauch in which it is alleged that he participated in some way in executions which eventually mounted to 55,000.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, I do not have the document with me. I already pointed out that I Started the direct examination of the defendant in November 1947 - I started working on it, I mean - but that about the beginning of December it was no longer possible

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment, Dr. Gick, are you familiar with this document?

DR. GICK: Yes, I know the document.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, then, ask the witness about the statements in that document.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, may I not develop this chronologically? In Latvia the defendant was also charged with several things, for instance, the Jeckeln Action.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Very well. That is what I would like to have you do. Proceed to the direct charges. I only chose this one because it is the first one that came to my attention. You choose any one you desire. Now, please, have the defendant answer to the charges and don't tire him out with what can be omitted until later on, if we find then that it is relevant.

BY DR. GICK: to Riga. Do you know when you came to Riga?

A Is it so terribly important for me to know this? 14 Jantsen.

Q Herr Strauch, I Shall come back to this later. Please reply to my following question - what office did you hold in Riga?

A I did not get it. Please answer again. However, I did not carry out any office. I did not -

Q You were in Charge of an SS or SD office in Riga. That is, you were transferred there in order to take over an office.

What office was this?

A Well, I don't know. I don't know.

Q In Riga were you the commander of the Security police and SD?

Q Were you the Chief of Einsatzkommando 2?

Q I did not understand you. Please repeat.

Q Were you Commander of the SD and the Security Police? Einsatz - of the Chief -- the commander of the Einsatzkommando 2 no, it is wrong again. Well, I had nothing to do with the kommando, but immediately as commander -- as Chief of the Einsatzkommando, I went to Riga. Einsatzkommando.

Q You said you became Chief of the Einsatzkommando. That does not agree.

A Noo, I have nothing to do with it. I am not Chief of the Einsatzkommando but I was commander of the Einsatzkommando. Do you understand me now? and the SD in Latvia stationed in Riga?

A Right. That's it. Kommando Chief -- Chief of the kommando of the Einsatzkommando - Latvia.

Q Who was the commander of the Security Police and the SD in Riga?

A That was before my time, when I arrived - yes, who was it? In any case I had a predecessor - I don't know any more who it was. you came to Latvia?

established and the predecessor, I was to be trained and I was well, this work was kept away from me. I was to be trained first for three days or so. That is how it was to remain and then during the time when I was there for three days, the predecessor was retained there and that was Patz.

Q Who was Patz?

Q What was his office as Chief? police.

Q Commander of the Security Police? And you were to become Patz' successor? of the Kommando which was advancing but we wre merely the administrative office.

Q You were merely the administrative office?

Q Were you chief of the Administrative office?

Q In Chena?

Q Riga? And the chief of which office were you? Police and SD.

Q you were then Commander of the Security Police and SD? II, number II? example, I had nothing to do with the State Police. One could say that and then, for example, I did not have to give any orders to the State Police and they had people - as Commander one did not have to give any orders and one did not have to make decisions.

Q As a commander? Riga?

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, now the important thing is not when, where, and how he broke his arm but whether he killed and Jews. Now, ask hii that - did he kill any Jews? That's what he is charged with you know.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, here for example a date is of important, namely the 3th November 1941, That was the day when the so-called Jeckeln operation is supposed to have taken place in Latvia. I am now discussing those dates because I want to show whether Strauch was still commander on that day, chief of the Einsatzkommando or not.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, why not ask him that question? Why not ask him that question - that's the way to find out instead of going around Robin Hood's barn.

DR. GICK: In my opinion I have to create a basis for this which should help the defendant to answer this question what happened.

THE PRESIDENT: But why not have him answer first. Then, if any explanation is in order ample opportunity is permitted but you see the difficulties you are having. So, try to got to the pivotal point. Now ask him about this Jeckeln action. Was he commander at this time in Jeckeln?

DR. GICK: Your Honor, you will see we cannot. I shall now put this specific question.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, now, Dr. Gick, if you are anticipating that you can't proceed, that doesn't show that you are very anxious to cooperate either. You are already saying now we won't be able to proceed. How do you know? Has thedefendant told you he won't be able to proceed?

DR. GICK: Your Honor, I realize the witness cannot remember any dates.

THE PRESIDENT: Listen, Dr. Gick, you do not need to repeat to us what we through our own senses are able to scertain. Proceed to the question.

BY DR. GICK:

Q Herr Strauch, where were you on 30 November 1941?

A I don't get that at all.

Q I asked you were you were on 30 November 1941?

THE PRESIDENT: Now tell him what happened on that day. which took place, took place on 11 November 1941.

Q Herr Strauch, do you know anything about a Jeckeln action?

Q What happened during this Jeckeln operation?

A The following happened during this Jeckeln operation. The SS_Obergruppenfuehrer Jeckeln, who has now been condemned - what do you call it? Well, he was killed somewhere and there his wife was waiting for him and relatives and did not get any news and suddenly it was published in the paper that SS_Obergruppenfuehrer Jeckeln had died. And then he was dead, that's all.

THE PRESIDENT: Captain Carpenter and Dr. Bayer, will you please come to the bench.

(Captain Carpenter and Dr. Bayer conferred at the bench with the Tribunal)

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, up until a very short time ago you were thoroughly capable of intelligently carrying on conversations. There was no indication when you were in the courtroom the other time and since then up until a few days ago that you weren't thoroughly capable of comprehending question. Now we again ask you to pay attention to the question and use all yourmental forces to respond to the question and don't let your mind wander. We think with a little bit of will you can answer intelligently and respond factually to the questions which are put to you. Do you understand me?

THE PRESIDENT: Now, please try to answer your attorney and Dr. Gick will continue.

All right, Dr. Gick.

BY DR. GICK: called Jeckeln operation was.

A The Kuechler operation was very difficult. One day an operation was carried out, instigated by Jeckeln and he wanted all forces, he wanted to use all forces for this and we also were to participate. And at the time I think I said that Heydrich had given strict orders for a blockade, for restirictions, in Estonia, and on that evening - yes the evening when we said that it is impossible to carry out such an-to give such instructions. First of all it was against the Fuehrer and secondly other orders were received which were contrary. It is quite impossible and he did not want to reject this, to revoke it, and he did not want to give up his principles and we pointed out to him that it is impossible, quite impossible - that's nonesense - and he did not want to revoke this. He issued orders - the order is valid and will be carried out. And, now one day the famous order from Jeckeln came then and I simply got rid of the order. I ignored the order. I said simply for him to take back his order. He sent three or four officers - three officers - and I Sent the officers back and I told him that this was impossible that such an order could be carried out and I think my wife if she testified here as a witness she would know more. Well, in any case - it's funny how this looks. And then I have in this letter - I wrote a letter to him.

THE PRESIDENT: You wrote a letter to whom?

To whom did you write the letter? to Heydrich and I think it was Heydrich - to Heydrich.

THE PRESIDENT: Well why did you write a letter to Heydrich?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, what did this have to do with the Jeckeln action? Now you remember you were -

THE PRESIDENT: No the Jeckeln action.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, proceed. You were describing the Jeckeln action. Now direct your mind to that and stay on that particular action. refused to take part in this, for example, I know very well that Stahlecker -- Sal -- Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Stahlecker?

THE PRESIDENT: You mean one of your co*defendants?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, which one? Count him from the end, which one do you mean?

A The first, the second of the first. Not him, the third one.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, count him. You mean Sandberger? Well, count from the end, 1- 2- 3.

THE PRESIDENT: Well. that's Sandberger.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. All right, now what about Sandberger?

THE PRESIDENT: Well what did Sandberger have to do with this Jackeln action?

A He did not want to carry it our either. He also refused to Sandberger - rather did not refuse - refused to participate.

THE PRESIDENT: Well than who did carry out the action? time. We had some sort of tour i, for example had to carry out a tour - I don't know from Strauch, from Stahlecker. Stahlecker had, I believe, wanted to - did not want to do this -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, now Strauch, you began to tell us about the Jeckeln action and you spoke very well.

You spoke clearly and outlined the situation. New if you will just take hold of yourself

A I don't get it all

THE PRESIDENT: if you will just determine to answer, I am sure that you can. It's that you then lose control or interest but if you just will hard enough I am confident that you can answer the questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Are you willing to answer our questions?

THE PRESIDENT: And you know that you are a defendant in this trial.

THE PRESIDENT: And you know that you are charged with very serious crimes.

A Well, I don't know if this applies to my case.

THE PRESIDENT: wELL, whether it is true or not has not been decided, and the only way we can determine whether these very serious version. effort to give the right --

THE PRESIDENT: The right answers. Yes. Now you will have an opportunity to rest for an hour and a half and then you will be brought back to the courtroom and at that time we want you to answer the questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Because it is to your own benefit that you understand and answer these questions because otherwise these charges remain against you unanswered.

THE PRESIDENT: you understand that. Very well. The Tribunal will be in recess until two o'clock.

(The hearing reconvened at 1415 hours, 13 January 1948.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. DURCHHOLZ (ATTORNLY FOR THE DEFENDANT SCHULZ): Your Honor, I would like the Defendant Schulz to be excused tomorrow the whole day, because I want to prepare the rest of his defense.

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you.

DR. KLINNERT (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT SEIBERT): Your Honor, I have the same request concerning the Defendant Seibert.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Seibert will also be excused tomorrow.

MR. GLANCY: May it please the Tribunal, the prosecution would appreciate some information from the two attorneys who just requested the excuse of their clients as to when they intend to put in their document books.

THE PRESIDENT: We had assumed that practically all document books were already in and, if they are not, this comes as a disappointment to the Tribunal because certainly we have frequently informed counsel of the necessity of getting in these books at once. Now do the defense counsel who have just addressed the Tribunal have anything to offer in connection with Mr. Glancy's question?

DR. KLINNERT (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANTS NAUMAN AND SEIBERT): Your Honor, the documents for Nauman and Seibert have still to be submitted. so far, it has been impossible because the translation has not been concluded yet. I do hope, though, that we shall be in a position tomorrow to submit the documents.

THE PRESIDENT: Then they are already prepared. It is only a question of translation. Is that what I understand?

DR. KLINNERT: They are in the Translation Department.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. DURCHHOLZ (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT SCHULZ) Your Honor, I have submitted three volumes of document books and there are only a few documents which have been found later which are in the Translation COURT II CASE IX Department at the moment.

I may perhaps point out that the translation in the Translation Department takes a long time. That is the reason why I have not submitted them all yet, but I shall do so very soon.

THE PRESIEDNT: Mr. Glancy, there were a number of Schulz books presented.

MR.GLANCY: The reason I made that request was so that it would facilitate the prosecution in learning as to when and in what order the defense counsel had approximately agreed upon presenting their documents formally into evidence.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. GLANCY: Would would appreciate it if perhaps we could get some word from the defense as to which order they desire to present their books.

THE PRESIDENT: Just as soon as we finish this case and we take up Dr. Aschenauer's documentation, we will go into the whole subject of document books.

MR. GLANCY: Thank you very much.

DR SCHWARZ (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT JOST): Your Honor, in order to make it possible for the Tribunal to dispose of their time, I may point out that so far I have been unable to submit document books. I have not concluded them, in fact, because unfortunately three affidavits have been received too late. Therefore the document book is still in the Translation Division. I think it would be a good thing if I submit all my document books together. Therefore, I would like to be permitted to submit my document books on Thursday or Friday of this week.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

Now, Dr. Gick and Defendant Strauch, the Tribunal will call to the attention of both the defendant and counsel that an examination was made during the recess period of the defendant and it appears from the examination that the defendant is able to grasp questions and to answer. The examination was made by a psychiatrist from the Army hospital in Nurnberg. His affliction of itself does not becloud his brain or his mind or his memory. He may have some little difficulty, but nothing like COURT II CASE IX that which he manifested this morning, so far as medical reports are concerned at any rate.

So now we want to call to your attention, Strauch, that this is your one day in court. It is entirely up to you. If you don't want to answer the questions, if you want to make answers about China, that's up to you, but we would recommend to you that you confine your answers to Russia. That is where you are supposed to have committed these crimes. That is what you are charged with, and this is your day in court. Now, it is up to you. If you don't want to answer, then the Tribunal will dispose of the case without your answers. It seems rather extraordinary to the Tribunal that you would suddenly lose you memory just as you come into the court room. You were perfectly able to handle yourself up to a couple of weeks ago, so we again put it to you. It is up to you. You are on your own. The Tribunal has given you fair warning. Now, you will proceed, please. BY DR. GICK ( ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT STRAUCH):

Q. Herr Strauch, we spoke of the Jeckeln Action in Riga.

A. I am sorry, I haven't understood.

Q. I am asking you on what day and what year the Jeckeln Operation was carried out in Riga.

A. The Jeckeln situation took place -- took place -- in the year 19 -- 19 -- I think 1913 or !14 -- O, I mean !40.

Q. Where were you on that day when that operation was carried out in Riga?

A. Yes, the matter was as follows: I don't want to give a figure. I merely want to recollect the conditions. I sat - I was sitting in Riga, whereupon two noncommissioned officers arrived at my place and told me -- asked me where I was after Jeckeln -- or, at least, they asked for Jeckeln or, rather, his deputy. They were in the anti-room and they asked "what has happened? What is about to happen? Upon what order?" Actually it was all about a number of Jews who were to be killed. That was the answer. They said that Strauch is about and they COURT II CASE IX were to go to him, although I was ill and my arm was bandaged, or, at least, was in a plaster cast.

Then the medical officer arrived and I said -- and he said that -- that it was not possible to put troops at their disposal, because, first of all, it was too cold and, secondly, there were no people at their disposal for such matters. There were no troops, but we can't assume this task suddenly. There came a discussion and after I had listened to what was being said, I did not know who was speaking at the telephone. I only said that whoever was on the telephone should reassure himself and should quiet down. Anyway, there was nobody present.

None of those who could cause anything was in the office. Then suddenly the telephone conversation went on and nothing could be done in any case. He asked --- well, then I asked him whether I could speak to him, and, he said that there was no necessity to speak to him, I had to follow the orders of the Reichfuehrer, and he was speaking, and wanted this order to be carried out. He was requesting me to do so. He just concluded the telephone conversation, and I realized that he was --- he also said that he was deputy of the Reichfuehrer.

Q. Whom did you speak to on that occasion.

A. I had spoken to "von Demback" ---no, not "von Dembach, the Highest SS and Police Leader, who was the highest SS and Police Leader at that time and that can be immediately established.

Q. Was it Jeckeln?

A. Yes, Jeckeln, that was the name.

Q. What happened to this telephone conversation?

A. After it had been concluded, I sent the teletype message to the General Jeckeln from the Highest SS and Police Leader, and then -- and, of course, to --- a number of teletype messages to Stahlecker concerning --- there was no answer.

Q. What did you say in your message?

A. I said that I was asking for new directives. First, that after now we had not received any replies from Heydrich, and, secondly, that we asked to disregard this order, and that we were refusing to execute the Jews, and that Sandberger --- Stahlecker said that they didn't want to go further, they wanted to go away; they didn't want to play. That was much later than it had been earlier when the directives --- when I had the directives as a Commando-chief to carry out these things.

THE PRESIDENT: witness --

BY DR.GICK:

Q. Did this Jeckeln operation actually take place?

A. Yes, the operation was carried out, that, as I have already said, in February.

Q. What year was that, February of what year?

A. March.

Q. What year, that is what I am asking you?

A. In March.

Q. That was the month, but what year?

THE PRESIDENT: necessary to bother him with it. Now there is no question involved in that. Do you know what year it was? What year was that?

DR. GICK: It was in 1941.

THE PRESIDENT: ALL right. BY DR. GICK:

Q. Do you remember it now?

A. Yes, it was in 19141.

Q. It was in 1941. It was not in February anyway. It was in November. Now Herr Strauch, did you take part in this Jeckeln operation? Did you understand my question?

A. Yes, yes, yes, I did. That whole matter seems in 1941, went to Riga '41 --- I went to '41, and the whole matter, therefore, it must have been discussed in the presence of the Supreme Commander.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, please look at me.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

Q. You were the commander of Commando-II?

A. No, I was young. I mean I was chief of the Security Police and of the SD in --

Q. Were you Chief of Einsatzcommando-II?

A. Chief of Einsatzcommando II and SD for the united Russia, that is Latvia.

Q. Were you chief of Einsatzcommando-II?

A. No, I never was the Chief of a Einsatzgruppe.

Q. An Einsatz-commander of Einsatzcommando-II? of the security Police Unit and the SD.

Q. Were you Chief of Einsatzcommando-II?

A. No. That was the dispute. That was the separation, the fact that I was not the Chief of the Security Police and SD but --

Q. What was your job in Russia?

A. I was Chief --- Chief of the Security Police, SIPO, and Chief of Einsatzgruppe. You see here there are various matters, the Reich Security Main Office was the Offices I, II, III etc.

Q. Witness --

A. Then there was --

Q. Just a moment, please. When you went to Russia, what position were you given?

A. I was immediately assigned to Einsatz---No, I became the Chief of Einsatzcommando of the SD.

Q. Yes. Was that Einsatzcommando-II? When you first went there you were Chief of the Security Police. Then later on you became Chief of a Commando, is that right, later on?

A. No.

A. No.

Q. You were never a Chief of a Commando?

A. Never, never.

Q. Yes, well, then, as Chief of Security Police, what were your functions?

A. That was assignment as it was mentioned and described by Ohlendorf, and others, that really various bits of intelligence were to be compiled and used, and were to be collected.

Q. That was the SD?

A. NO, that was Australe, that was the Red-Iv; with that I had nothing to do, This is Department - III, but I ever I was the Chief of Department III.

Q. You were then Chief of Department-III?

A. III, yes.

Q. And as Chief of Department - III did you learn of the exe cution of Jews?

A. News were part of Department- III, or part three.

Q. Did you learn of the execution of Jews?

A. no, at that time no Jews were executed.

Q. During all the time that you were in Russia, were any Jews executed to your knowledge?

A. I can pass over that. That I don't Know.

Q. Do you know whether any Jews were executed?

A. I beg your pardon?

Q. Did you participate in the execution of any Jews?

A. No.

Q. You were charged with having supervised, ordered and di rected the killing of Jews?

Q. You are supposed to have done that.

A. You mean to have carried out executions?

Q. That is right. That is right?

A. Not true. That it is documentary matter to me what is said,

Q. There are various documents here which particularly mention the Einsatzcommando-II, of which you were the Chief killed Jews?

Page 4,951

A But I was not the Chief. I was not the Chief. I was not made the Chief in 1902. In 1902 I was Chief of - -

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Glancy, will you please point out to me any document or documents where he is referred to as Chief of Einsatzkommando-II.

MR. GLANCY: In Document Book III-A, your Honor, page 20, Document is No-2966. The last paragraphs on the page. The heading is: "Security Police Service Record since 4 November 1941. Leader of EinsatzkommandoLatvia," which is equivalent of Einsatzkommando-II.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, let the witness be handed that Document Book III-$ in German language. Do you have the document Dr. Gick?

DR. GICK: Yes, it is just being looked for. I think I have got it.

THE PRESIDENT: all right, show it to the witness. Show it to the witness, please. (Whereupon Dr. Glick shows the document to the witness.)

Q Will you read that?

(Conversation ensues between counsel and witness.)

Q Well, show it to him Dr. Gick, just the short statement.

DR. GICK: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, have him sit down and put on his earphones.

Q Strauch, will you read that?

Q Now that is your own personnel record? kommando in Latvia when it is right in your own personnel record? I went away, and I was supposed to go away completely.

Q Were you at any time the Chief of Einsatzkommand-Latvia?

A No. No.

Q Why did this appear in your personnel record? give you voluminous reports which are unclear, which are inaccurate, which are not inaccurate but which are not wrong.

Q But you claim that this is a mistake?

A Yes, I maintain that this is a mistake. I can give you quite a number that are wrong.

Q Well, all right, show us some more mistakes?

A Where it says, 2 or 4/11. That we have. Then it says - -

Q Well, let's be a little more specific. Now further on in the same statement it is declared that since February 1942 you were commander of Security Police and the SD in White Ruthenia, is that correct? Is that correct. Is that correct, witness.

A (No answer.)

THE PRESIDENT: We will suspend the questioning for a moment. Dr. Gick, the Tribunal has decided to do this. To have the defendant Eduard Strauch once more examined psychiatrically, and upon the determination of the examination the Tribunal will decide what to do. We are not entirely convinced up to this moment that this defendant is not capable of understanding you a little more clearly and comprehensively than he seems to be understanding, but the only way that can be decided is psychiatrically. Now, witness, we will not question you further today, but we would advise you to make every effort to gather your mental forces and refresh your memory of the events which happened in Russia in 1941 and '42, so, when you come back into the courtroom you will be able to testify without hesitation, but we won't lose so much time as we did today. Do you understand that?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

THE WITNESS: I only want to say again that my mother has lost everything in her house, her own house, everything. It is, therefore, impossible -- or it is possible that there must be something remembered of these implements that were found, that my mother or I should be reproached or charged, that we are not able to do so.

I don't think that it is possible.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, just a moment now. Dr. Gick anything further you want to say at this moment?

DR. GICK: There is one thing, your Honor, I would like to say on this occasion; after the defendant has been examined by the psychiatrist, may I then ask the psychiatrist a few questions, and may I then again request the presence of Dr. Ritter von Bayer, and to hear his opinion as to this case.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, there is no reason why Dr. von Bayer may not be called into this conference. In fact, I think the present plans are to have him in on the conference.

DR. GICK: Thank you, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Now Dr. Aschenauer, will you be ready to proceed after recess? You will be, yes. All right. The Tribunal will now be in recess for fifteen minutes.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will recess for fifteen minutes.

(A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: I would like to say, Dr. Aschenauer, just before you begin that such other defense counsel as have their document books ready and intend to present them should be ready tomorrow morning to proceed and we would like to say - I don't see him here - that counsel for the defendant Fendler should be in tomorrow morning because we might call Fendler to the stand for a question or two. So, will one of counsel try to notify Fendler's counsel to that effect. Very well.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Preliminary question to the interpreter. Do the interpreters have a second copy of my document presentation?

INTERPRETER: Yes, I have.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, in that case may I tell you that I have talked with the prosecution and told them that I am presenting my documents together and that the end of the presentation of my documents the prosecution will raise their objection.

THE PRESIDENT: I don't know just what difficulties either of you anticipate. If, Mr. Walton, you should indicate at the very moment that he presents the document why you object, if you object, why is not that program followed? It may be that you have a good reason.

MR. WALTON: YOur Honor, we agreed (any agreement which we made is, of course, subject to approval by the Tribunal and the wishes of the Tribunal will of course be followed in this.) However, we thought among ourselves that it would in the end save time and in addition to that would be important for comment either in the closing statement or in the brief of responsibility or the answer brief for counsel of both sides to find the record of the objection and the ruling on the objection in one consecutive spot. Now if that is going to place an undue burden on the Tribunal, naturally, I would not insist on such a procedure.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, as it seems to us the first flush it may be after we get into it it will look different but as it seems to us prime faciedly:

we have a document before us. Dr. Aschenauer presents it and you find some reasons to object to it. You give your objection. We make our ruling and that ends it. The other way, after we listen to a discussion of some 5 documents then you come in and interpose an objection, Let us say, on thirty, well then you have to find your way through the labyrinth to connect it with the document when it is presented. It seems to us now that it might be better that is, as soon as he furnishes the document to which you desire to object you state your objection.

MR. WALTON: Very well, Your Honor, we will follow that.

THE PRESIDENT: well, we will try it.

Dr. Aschenauer do you see any serious objection to that procedure?

DR.ASCHENAUER: Yes, the objection I have for my part is that the documents form one unit and one document supplements others and that the entire document submission will be disturbed. The entire thing will be discontinued. That is the objection I have.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, isn't it going to be disturbed later when he gets up and points out his objection to various documents?

DR ASCHENAUER: I don't think so.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, if it's ruled on immediately you know whether it is in or not. Let's try it this way a few minutes. There is no harm to be committed in trying it. Well, we will see how it works out.

DR. ASCHENAUER: In my presentation of documents in the case of Ohlendorf I am starting with Document Books II, II-A and II-B which II intended to introduce in their entirety concerning problems of a war in the East. They are intended to show how it came about that communists, Jews and Gypsies in the Soviet territory were considered as elements endangering security. They are also to show in what manner Communists, Jews and Gypsies constituted and element endangering the security in Soviet territory and why the defendant might have thought so. Ohlendorf and his co-defendants picked for themselves a special situation in this war situation which cannot be without influence in judging this question.

I, therefore, treat Document Books II, II-A, and II-B as an entirety. I submit Document 38 as Exhibit 1, Document 39 as Exhibit 2, and Document 40 as Exhibit 3.

MR. WALTON: Now, Your Honow, I would like to object to each one of these documents in Document Book II. The way they were presented was the series of four. Does the Tribunal wish me to take up each document separately or does it wish me to take up the document as a series?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, either way. Now we have these three documents and they are more or less inter-related. These three documents are inter-related and there is no reason why you can't address yourself to the three of them.

MR. WALTON: Well, prosecution objects to Document 38 as being the expert opinion on the law....

THE PRESIDENT: You are referring to Documents 38, 39 and 40.

MR. WALTON: I shall take them up as they were offered, 38 first.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR. WALTON: Prosecution objects to the introduction of Document 38 as the expert opinion on the law of the case by Dr. Reinhard Maurach. It objects for the reason that this testimony is incompetent since this witness' testimony does not relate to matters of fact but to issues of international law involved in the proceeding, that is, to those specific issues of law which the Tribunal itself must determine. Second, a conclusion and inferences drawn from assumptions of fact as to necessity and self defense would be matters for argumentations either by brief or memoranda of law before this Tribunal. Since this Tribunal like any domestic court is presumed to know and authorized to take judicial notice of law of its own sovereignty and jurisdiction, and that law which is international law, in this instance, need not be proved. The court is competent to draw its own inferences from such international law.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Walton, in Dr. Aschenauer's opening statement he referred to this law. Dr. Aschenauer in his opening Statement referred to the law of self defense, law of necessity, law of presumed self defense, law of presumed necessity. That is part of his opening statement. That is part of his case. Now in support of that he submits an expert opinion. No harm can be done in having that before the Court. The court will accept it or not accept it, will agree with the theory by Professor Maurach or not. I can see no harm done in having it introduced. On the contrary it will be helpful in appraising the theory of defense as presented by Dr. Aschenauer.

MR. WALTON: May I cite a precidence in the Southeast Generals case where the defense was prevented quoting an expert opinion on international law.

THE PRESIDENT: You remember, Mr. Walton, in this case Professor Maurach was here and we specifically said to him that it is not necessary to take the witness stand and give a long dissertation but we shall be very happy to have you submit a brief on that subject which he now apparently has done. lightenment and illustration and for reference no one can possibly be prejudiced.

MR. WALTON: If Your Honor Pleases, Prosecution finds the duty on itself to object for purposes of the record. The ruling on that Objection is, of course, always within the breast of the court. However, I would like to get my objections in the record regardless of what the Court's ruling is.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. You m ay proceed.

MR. WALTON: It is of course true that in domestic courts foreign law may be proved by expert testimony. That, however, is only because it cannot be presumed that the so-called foreign law is known to the domestic court; here the law of the forum is, generally speaking, international law for this Tribunal, as Wigmore has put it and I quote:

"Must be coedited with a knowledge of its own or at least with a competent knowledge of where to search for it." Wigmore on Evidence, Section 2572, page 551. matter of argument for counsel's defense brief. The other questions of law treated are in their proper function for the Tribunal and as a defense document is objected to by the Prosecution. Document 39.

THE PRESIDENT: The objection is overruled. Proceed to the next one.

MR. WALTON: Document 39 is an excerpt from a Stalin radio speech of 3 July 1941, page 60 of defense document book. The type of resistance instituted against an aggressor cannot justify before this Tribunal the liquidation of a racial group of people of an invaded country especially since this extermination was planned before the first act of aggression was ever committed. The fact that the attacked nation fought back with every means it possessed to expell the invader still does not justify the commission of nearly one hundred thousand murders.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, if this speech by Stalin had said that Soviet troops should kill Jews I don't think that you would object to its introduction because then it would be argument on behalf of the defense; it did not say that , we know, but it is the theory of the defense that the Russians were conducting their warfare in such a manner as gave some justification, at least psychologically, that the defense for their acts, whether that is accepted or not, is a matter for argumentation and even decision. We see no reason and no harm is done in having this in the records. The objection is overruled.

MR. WALTON: Document 40, excerpt from the Russian was publication entitled "We are Guerrillas", no date given, page 61 to 67 of the defendant's document book. This is in the n ature of hearsay evidence and in addition it gives no date when the events it relates happened. They could have happened subsequent to the date the defendant left Russia and they could also have happened in other areas besides that occupied by Einsatzgruppe D. The Tribunal in its order of 9 October 1947 has rejected this type of evidence as inadmissible.

THE PRESIDENT: We do think that the lack of dates here make the document a little elucive.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Herr President, I am prepared to submit the original.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, does it have a date?

DR. ASCHENAUER: I have the original book in my office and can submit it to the Tribunal at any time just as it was multiplied.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, but I asked, does it have the date. A book can be printed at any time.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Well, at the moment I cannot answer this question but I can look it up any time.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Then we will reserve our decision on that until we see the original book.

Page 4,960

MR. WALTON: Document 41, the affidavit of Oskar Dankers.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I Haven't submitted that yet.

THE PRESIDENT: He hasn't submitted that, Mr. Walton.

MR. WALTON: Sorry, sir, I thought he submitted the entire document book.

THE PRESIDENT: No, he said 38, 39 and 40.

DR. ASCHENAUER: The prosecution considers in their indictment the war in the East as a normal war. Document No. 38 reveals that the German-Russian war is not a war in the sense of international law.

DR. ASCHENAUER: This document reveals that the partisan warfare which is being discussed by the prosecution, even if The Hague Convention of Warfare is applied in the case of Russia and the rules of warfare are applied according to their meaning, under no circum stances could the warfare be considered illegal; that, therefore, owing to the peculiarities in the territory where the Russian war was conducted, in view of the measures, the manner in which the war was conducted were justified which otherwise would have to be considered illegal or prohibited.

It is also shown that for the Russian warfare there were no limitations according to international law. Any means was permitted according to Soviet opinions as long as it would harm the enemy.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Aschenauer, do you intend now to argue from this thesis?

DR. ASCHENAUER: No, Your Honor, I am just quoting from the document book.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Now you have indicated what it is, it is the expert opinion by this professor on international law, and then when you make your summation you will draw from this opinion such parts as you will need to support your argument. If you are going to argue it now then you are going to argue it twice. We know now what it is.

That is the purpose of talking about a document when you present it, to inform the Tribunal what it is.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Of course, Your Honor. In that case I would like to talk about the next document now.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

DR. ASCHENAUER: According to Document Book II - in the Document Book II-A Document No. 42 and Document No. 43 are submitted as Exhibits No. 4 and 5, and I offer those numbers. These are excerpts from the Russian Encyclopedia which indicate the official notes of warfare of the Russians. I submit this document mostly because I want to offer that all that the Russian warfare had planned and the way it was conducted was known because these documents were made out before the year 1941.

MR. WALTON: The same objection, Your Honor, to both documents being discussed by the prosecution. The prosecution objects to Documents 42 and 43 in that they are treaties on partisan warfare methods. No evidence appears as to the qualifications of the authors as experts in this type of warfare, and as such they are purely hearsay. Nothing contained therein shows any justification for multiplicitous murder committed by German Einsatzgruppen or other crimes laid down by the charges in the indictment. No policies of the Russians on partisan warfare can set at naught the laws of all nations on the crime of murder. To allow these documents will serve only to clutter up the record and thus needlessly protract the proceedings in this case.

THE PRESIDENT: Strictly speaking, Dr. Aschenauer, the relevancy of these documents is not apparent. What the Russians intended to do in their partisan warfare can scarcely have any effect on whether multiplicitous murder is justified, or killing is justified or not. However, if you insist on it, they are already mimeographed; it can't harm anyone; the work is already done; so if you insist on giving

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, I have to do that. The subject of the theory of the prosecution is opposed to the theory of the defense the prosecution contends that this fight was part of a great fight between the races, of extermination of races, while we of the defense hold the opinion that the measures were carried out for security reasons, security reasons which were required in Russian warfare. The documents of the Russian Encyclopedia, the date of the publication is known and also the author. These are official documents and they prove that the German measures had their reasons.

THE PRESIDENT: What is the Russian Encyclopedia, Dr. Aschenauer?

DR. ASCHENAUER: From the Russian Enclopedia of the year 1937. Argunew is the author.

THE PRESIDENT: Is it something comparable to the Brittanica in English, if you are familiar with that work?

A. Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, it is? Is it state sanctioned? I presume it is because everything in Russia is state sanctioned.

DR. ASCHENAUER: That is correct.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. One reason why we would have difficulty in excluding this, especially so far as the present speaker is concerned, is that I went out pretty far in indicating what would be relevant. I said everything up to the social life of penguins, and this would certainly fall within that rather large circle, so the objection is overruled.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Document No. 41 from the Document Book II is offered as Exhibit No. 6. It is to be used as evidence in how far the assumption of the emergency state in the state appears justified Owing to the acts of the Russians in the territory conquered by them, it can be shown clearly for the defendants what would have been the fate of their homeland if these Russian troops, who have committed those crimes, had come into this country.

MR. WALTON: Now, Your Honors, the prosecution objects to Document 41 on the basis of the decision rendered by this Tribunal on the date of October 9, 1947, and in the language of that decision when the same type of evidence was offered wherein, the alleged terror and persecution committed by Russians on Latvians in Latvia, is, as this Tribunal so succinctly stated in that order which I have referred to, and I quote, "an attempt to draw a red herring across the trail". The evidence to be considered at all must have some bearing on the issues drawn by the indictment, I have a copy of the Tribunal's order in my hand if they would like to see it.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, may I reply briefly? This document confirms the opinion of Dr. Maurach.

THE PRESIDENT: Let's find out who Oskar Dankers is. Who is Dankers?

DR. ASCHENAUER: That is General Dankers, the plenipotentiary in Latvia, a competent witness therefore, because he took part in these things.

THE PRESIDENT: The difficulty about this Dr. Aschenauer, is that there is nothing in this affidavit which says that the Jews were responsible for the bloody massacre described in it. It is something that happened between the Bolshevists and the Latvians.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, how could that be used as an argument that the Einsatzgruppe operating in that area had the right to kill Jews?

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, this must be seen in the entire psychological connection which I have mentioned. What the Bolshevists did in Lithuania, in Finland, in Latvia and in Estonia, they also did in Eastern Germany after 1945, and those who fought in the East had to expect this, and therefore, the defendants doubtlessly, in view of all the measures taken, the Fuehrer Order, etc., had to consider the war-emergency status of the State which in their opinion caused these cruel measures.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, but you are in effect telling us. A and B are having a bloody fight. C comes in and kills D. The Bolshevists and the Latvians are fighting. The Germans come in and kill the Jews. How do you connect up these two separate events?

DR. ASCHENAUER: The connection, therefore I said that these documents form an entirety, in the opinion of Dr. Maurach prove in how far the defendants could get the impression that the main bearers of these measures in the East were Jews.

THE PRESIDENT: Are Jews mentioned in this affidavit?

DR. ASCHENAUER: This affidavit mentions the active group of the NKWD, and it is a well known fact that this cannot be denied, as Dr. Maurach also says as a fact that the high leaders of this system unfortunately were Jews.

THE PRESIDENT: It would appear now that your original idea is the better one because if we let Dr. Aschenauer submit what he has to submit then Mr. Walton indicates his objections, then the court will have an opportunity to look them over and render its decision. I think we will save time and perhaps proceed a little more smoothly.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Then no decision is made about 41 yet?

THE PRESIDENT: We won't render any decision now, Dr. Aschenauer. We will let you submit your documents and then Mr. Walton will make his objections.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I now come to the Document Book II-B. The submission of the following documents is done because the attempt of understanding the actions which have taken place in the East and for the action of the defendants is not possible without realizing how for years the problem of Bolshevism was being taught to the German people. In this connection I submit as opinion the Document No. 58 as Exhibit No. 7. I point out that this-

THE PRESIDENT: Where is that, Dr. Aschenauer?

DR. ASCHENAUER: In Document Book II-B.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, I have that.

DR. ASCHENAUER: B for "Book".

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, but I don't see the document number.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Isn't that in the English copy? Just a moment.

THE PRESIDENT: No, we have four documents but they are not numbered.

DR. ASCHENAUER: It is the first document. I quote from it.

THE PRESIDENT: Tell us where it is. According to the index here there are excerpts from Schacht, Hitler and Byrnes.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: All right.

DR. ASCHENAUER: And I am quoting an excerpt. It says in this document -

THE PRESIDENT: Indicate which one it is, Dr. Aschenauer, because the documents are not numbered in this book. You give an exhibit number and then we will have it, the document number and the exhibit number.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Yes. I introduce this document as Document No. 58 and offer it as Exhibit No. 7

THE PRESIDENT: You still haven't told us what it is because there are four here.

Which document?

DR. ASCHENAUER: It is the first document in Document Book II-B.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, it is the first. Then you have told us.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I quote from this document. "As ever Germany is being considered as the focus of the Occident in view of the Bolshevist attacks. In these lines I would only like to give my conviction that this crisis cannot be avoided and will not be avoided, and that Germany has the duty to protect its own existence, in view of this catastrophe, by all means, and to secure it and to protect themselves from it, and that owing to this false situation a number of consequences result which concern the most important tasks which were ever put to our people".

THE PRESIDENT: We didn't find what you were reading. You yet haven't told us who said this.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Who said it?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

DR. ASCHENAUER: It says in the index: Memorandum by Adolf Hitler about the task of the Four Year Plan and that is the opinion concerning the Bolshevist problem, an opinion by Hitler which I described as Fuehrer opinion.

MR. WALTON: Your Honors, I think the compiler of the document book is the real person at fault. I seem to have in my document book a preface page and then in the very next document is an excerpt from the newspaper "Voelkischer Beobachter", and so they left the document which Dr. Aschenauer is now speaking about out of the book when they compiled it. All you have, if yours is like mine, is the preface page or the indentification page. You have got nothing that follows it, and, of course, the prosecution will have to object because it is not on notice. I don't know what the contents of it are. That is not Dr. Aschenauer's fault, but it certainly can't be answered.

DR. ASCHENAUR: I am sorry. It was a mistake by the translation department.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Well, that was causing all the trouble, Dr. Aschenauer. It apparently is not in our book. Let's give it a number anyway. What exhibit number did you give that?

DR. ASCHENAUER: I gave this document the exhibit No. 58, or rather Exhibit No. 7.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, proceed.

DR. ASCHENAUER: The next document I am talking about is the second one in this document book. In the index it says "from the Proclamation of Adolf Hitler of 22 June 1941, Boelkischer Beobachter of 23 June 1941", This document, No. 59, I submit as Exhibit No. 8. I quote: "Thus I still believed to the last moment to have served the peace in this territory, even if thereby I incurred a heavy personal obligation. But in order to get a final solution of these problems and also to obtain enlightenment as to the Russian attitude towards the Reich, as well as under the pressure of the ever increasing mobilization on our eastern frontier, I invited Mr. Molotov to come to Berlin." defendants could h ave received the impression of an aggressive war, or rather whether the defendants had to get the impression that this was a war of defense; to decide, whether this last question was described correctly by the German side, I, want to submit as a supplement the Documents N os. 60 and 61 as Exhibits Nos. 9 and 10. It is a short excerpt from the book by James Byrnes, "Speaking Frankly", in English and German.

THE PRESIDENT: Judge Speight asks, is there any evidence that Ohlendorf knew of this declaration by Hitler?

DR. ASCHENAUER: These statements were made at the time on the radio and in the newspapers so that it is without doubt that Ohlendorf knew these statements by Hitler.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, would you state as a fact that Ohlendorf knew of these declarations?

Page 4,968

DR. ASCHENAUER: Ohlendorf knew Hitler's proclamation and from this proclamation and others he had to assume that this was a war of defense.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I now submit Document Book No. 3. In this document book the relationship between the Wehrmacht, or the Commander in Chief of the Army with the Einsatzkommandos or the Einsatzkommandos is being clarified. In these document books the question of responsibility and the question of knowledge is being gone into for the heads of the Army concerning those actions which are under judgment here. This question of responsibility and of knowledge is of importance for the problem of the possibility of resistance against the order given.

In this connection, I offer Document No. 50, in the German text page 20 of the Document Book as Exhibit No. 11. This document is to be considered the basic document for the relation between the Army and the Einsatzgruppen. It outlines the responsibility of the Commander in Chief as the person with executive power. I quote:

"If a theatre of operations has been determined, the authority to exercise the executive power within this theatre of operations is without a further order conferred on the Commander in Chief of the Army and on the Army Commanders.

"The Commanders in Chief holding executive power can, effective for the theatre of operations enact regulations having the force of law, institute Special Courts, and give orders to the authorities and offices within whose jurisdiction the theatre of operations is, except the Supreme Reich Authorities, the Highest Prussian State Authorities and the Reichsleitung of the NSDAP. The authority to give orders has priority over the instructions issued by other superior offices."

Document No. 51, which I offer as Exhibit 12, clarifies the subordination relationship in units in the operational territory. I quote:

"The Commander in Chief of the Army or his subordinate agencies are subordinate to the Army in the operational territory of the Army and they are subordinate to the Commander in Chief in tactical questions.

"The offices and troops of other Army units are also under the command of the Commander in Chief in tactical questions.

"The Commander in Chief or the Commander in Chief of the Army, if a state of defense or of war should occur has the right to exercise executive power in the operational territory according to the R*ich Law of Defense."

Document No. 44 I offer as Exhibit No. 13. It is a decree about the carrying out of the war jurisdiction in the area of Barbarossa and about the special measures of the troops. This decree clarifies the question whether civilian persons of enemy nationality could be subject to the competency of the war jurisdiction. It clarifies the question of the Supreme Commander as Supreme legal authority.

Document No. 45 I offer as Exhibit No. 14. In it the common basis for the treatment of political commissars is indicated. I quote from this top secret matter:

"In this war, indulgence and consideration for International Law with respect to those elements is uncalled for. They are a danger to our own security and the speedy pacification of the conquered territories.

"The political commissars are the originators of barbarous and Asiatic methods of fighting. Proceedings, therefore, must be taken against them immediately and directly, with all severity.

"These commissars are not recognized as soldiers; the protection accorded prisoners of war under International Law has no application to them. After screening has been carried out they are to the liquidated.

"Commissars who have been caught in the rear zone of an Army because of suspicious behaviour are to be handed over to the Einsatzgruppe responsible, to the Einsatzkommandos or the Security Police."

Document No. 46 is offered as Exhibit No. 15. The subject of evidence is the same. This document is submitted in order to show how the order was distributed.

Document No. 47 I submit as Exhibit No. 16. I herewith introduce a basic order by the Wehrmacht, which the Wehrmacht thought they could consider justified according to the situation. I quote:

"The troops available for the protection of the Conquered Eastern Territory are adequate in view of the extant of this area only if all resistance is not revenged by legal punishment of the guilty but if the Occupying Power spreads abroad terrir - the only thing likely to rob the population of all desire for insubordination.

"The Commanders concerned, are, with the troops at their disposal, to be made responsible for peace in their areas. Not in the request for further security forces, but in the use of appropriate Draconic measures the commanders must find the means of keeping their security areas in order."

Document No. 48 I offer as Exhibit No. 17. I quote from this order of the Wehrmacht:

"As a matter of principle it must be said that Jews and Gypsies in general represent an element of insecurity and thus a danger to public order and safety. It is the Jewish intellect which has brought about this war and which must be annihilated. The Gypsy, because of his internal and external make-up cannot be a useful member of a people's community. It has been found that the Jewish element participates considerably in the leadership of the bands and that Gypsies in particular are responsible for special atrocities and for the communication systems."

Document No. 49 I offer as Exhibit No. 18. An order by the Wehrmacht reads: "I order the immediate arrest of all Jews and Gypsies as hostages."

Document No. 52 I offer as Exhibit No. 19. I quote from it:

"In the East, this manner of fighting a so-called partisan war, already last winter had led to a considerable decrease of our fighting power, has cost the lives of numerous German soldiers, railroaders, workers of the organization Todt, the Labor Service, and has extremely decreased the performance of transportation for the maintenance of the fighting ability of the troops; it has even disrupted the latter for days. The successful continuation of this type of warfare or even its intensification may possibly lead to a serious crisis at one or the other sector of the front. Many measures against this cruel, as well as treacherous sabotage activity, fail simply because the German Officer and his soldiers have no conception of the extent of the danger they face, and thus they individually do not act against these enemy groups as much as it is necessary to help the most forward front and thereby the entire war effort."

I offer Document No. 53 as Exhibit No. 20. It is submitted on the subject of evidence of what a refusal meant, a refusal to obey an order, or not to obey the order according to the regulations.

That is the end of Document Book III. If we would like to take the recess now, this is suitable for me.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess until tomorrow morning at 9:30.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 14 January 1948, at 0930 hours.)

Otto Ohlendorf, et al., defendants, sitting at Nurnberg,

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

Military Tribunal II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Aschenauer, you don't happen to have, do you, an English copy of your presentation?

DR. ASCHENAUER: No, I am afraid I don't have another English copy.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Well, was there any English copy made at all?

DR. ASCHENAUER: Of course, English translations were made. The Secretary General has distributed English copies here. I received very few.

THE PRESIDENT: I do not mean the document books, I mean the presentation - what you are reading from.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I don't quite get that. Yes, I have it here. It was not translated.

THE PRESIDENT: It wasn't translated. Well, let me put the question very directly. Do you have an English translation of what you are reading to the Tribunal?

DR. ASCHENAUER: No.

THE PRESIDENT: That answers that. All right. Proceed. Thank you.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, yesterday there was an argument with regard to my excerpts with the title "We Are Guerrillas". I have the original in front of me. It is a book with the title "We Are Guerrillas", an account of the work of the Soviet guerrillas behind the Nazi lines. "Soviet War N ews", books No. 3, published by authority of Soviet War News, issued by the Press Department of the Soviet Embassy in London. This book was published by the publishing house Hutchinson and Co., London, New York, and Melbourne. Therefore, it is an official publication which the Soviet Russian Embassy in London.

This book was published by the publishing house Hutchinson and Co., London, New York, and Melbourne. Therefore, it is an official publication which the Soviet Russian Embassy in London published and gave to the English population. In this book several dates are mentioned so that doubtlessly one cannot say that the facts which were stated here are merely hearsay. Perhaps I on my part made a mistake by quoting from the English original which was translated into German and from German it was re-translated into English. Of course, this impression could arise. I beg your pardon for this. I hope I have made up for my mistake by making an excerpt from the English original of the sentences concerned which I shall now submit to the Tribunal in English.

May I now continue with the presentation of my documents. I shall now speak about Document Book I. I offer the Ohlendorf document #1 as Exhibit #21. It is an affidavit by Professor Andreas Preddehl, Kiel, the chief of the Institute of World Economics at the University of Kiel since the spring of 1934. Professor Preddehl confirms that Ohlendorf in the late summer of 1934 at the official request of the Ministry of Culture had to leave the Institute of World Economics, because he was a factor of unrest among the students.

I offer Document #1-A as Exhibit #22. It is an affidavit by Dr. Wilhelm Greiser. He is the administrative expert at the Institute for World Economics in Kiel. Dr. Greiser states that in the year 1934 Ohlendorf was arrested at the suggestion of the NSDAP in Kiel. For several months he was under Police observation. He was tortured with interrogations and examinations and the Reich Ministry of Education also persecuted him and finally as a result of this he was dismissed at Kiel. Dr. Greiser, who according to his statement, was neither a member of the NSDAP nor of any of its formations, also gives a character opinion of Ohlendorf in his affidavit from which I merely want to emphasize that Herr Ohlendorf is described as a loyal personality, full of high ideals, with a positive love for his native land and having true humanitarian feelings.

He had an original great love for science. He entertained elementary respect for scientific freedom, also at the time when in later life he had become a Deputy State Secretary, in the Reich Economic Ministry, where he brought science into contact with the leadership of the State by entrusting special missions to science. Dr. Greiser also explains that Ohlendorf disapproved of the measures against the Jews in the years after the power was taken over and that he rejected the radical racial opinions of the Party. He describes him as an opponent of any deviation from the legal State and of National imperialism. In this connection he also emphasizes the plans of Ohlendorf as an economic politician which show a true world economic attitude.

I offer Document #2 as Exhibit 23. It is an affidavit by Professor Karl Gebhardt who as chief physician at the hospital in Hohenlychen and advisory surgeon of the Waffen SS was in close contact with the Reichsfuehrer SS Himmler. The affidavit reveals the intense criticism of Himmler who personally strongly objected to Ohlendorf. The reasons Himmler had for this are described in detail and Gebhardt confirms that Himmler intended to release Ohlendorf between 1942 and 1943, in particular in connection with difficulties which Himmler had with the Reich Commissar Koch because of reports which Ohlendorf had made against Koch. As a discussion partner in Flensburg at the beginning of May 1945 Gebhardt repeats the request of Ohlendorf toward Himmler to dissolve the SS in order to avoid that resistance groups form and to surrender to the Allies.

I offer Document #3 as Exhibit #24. It is an affidavit by Karl Wolff who from 1936 until 1943 was chief Adjutant of Himmler and chief of the personal staff of the Reichsfuehrer SS. In the affidavit it is confirmed that the SD Inland (Sd homeland) even in 1936 was still in its early beginnings and that during that time Ohlendorf organized the economic information service. He describ es as a witness that already in 1937 the critical reports by Ohlendorf who did not compromise became a nuisance for Himmler and that Himmler reproached Ohlendorf not to be loyal enough and also for not being National Socialistic enough in his policy.

Himmler described Ohlendorf as a pessimist, a super Nazi, a knight of the Holy Grail, and that for this reason already in 1937 Ohlendorf was put on the side track.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Aschenauer: I have seen this phrase "super Nazi" several times. Do you mean by that phrase just what it imports, that he was a Nazi in the superlative sense?

DR. ASCHENAUER: The translation isn't coming through on these earphones.

THE PRESIDENT: I would like some enlightenment on this word "super Nazi". Does it mean what it says - a Nazi in the superlative sense?

DR. ASCHENAUER: It means the following: That it was Ohlendorf's opinion that the practical work in the NSDAP policy had deviated from the original Party program in the course of time and for that reason Himmler described Ohlendorf as being a super Nazi because he held those opinions.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, perhaps it could be translated as exaggerated Nazi.

THE PRESIDENT: I see. Very well. It just seems a little extraordinary that Himmler would be complaining because someone was an exaggerated Nazi, that he was more Nazi than he was required to be, that he was more saturated, more enthusiastic about the Nazi ideology. Why would Himmler complain about that?

DR. ASCHENAUER: The situation was something like this, that Himmler was a pure tactician and left the Party program and did not want to see to this and did not want to admit this, and Ohlendorf held the opinion that owing to this deviation the excesses and the deterioration of the National Socialistic State would come about. This is a subjective attitude by Himmler and these explanations are merely to show the difference between Himmler and Ohlendorf.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, proceed.

DR. ASCHENAUER: He confirms that in the spring 1938 Ohlendorf left the SD as a fulltime job. Wolff also confirms that in the fall of 1939 he received instructions from Himmler to inform Ohlendorf that he should leave his service.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Aschenauer, was the Karl Wolff statement sworn to?

DR. ASCHENAUER: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: It does not appear in the document that you read.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, in the copy which I have in front of me it says, "I, Karl Wolff, General of the Waffen SS", etc., "after it has been pointed out to me -- "

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Well, we know that, that is there, but then at the end of the affidavit there is no indication that he swore to it before anyone.

DR. ASCHENAUER: The certification is in the original.

THE PRESIDENT: I see. All right, proceed.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Wolff confims that Ohlendorf only visited Himmler very few times, that he never held a confidential position with him or has influenced his decisions and resolutions.

Wolff also confirms that from 1937 on each individual promotion of Ohlendorf encountered with difficulties and could only be effected after overcoming the determined opposition of the Reich Leader of the SS and that he, Wolff, on account of his world economic activities did overcome these difficulties. Apart from that Wolff also gives the reasons of the opposition between Himmler and Ohlendorf.

I offer the Document No. 18 as Exhibit No. 25. It is an affidavit by Luitpold Charlemayer. From 1935 until 1939 he was personal referent in the personal staff of the Reichsfuehrer SS. He confirms in his affidavit the statements by Ohlendorf about his position and work in the SD during the years 1936 to 1939, inclusive, and gives the reasons, which are not in contrast to the actual reasons, for the promotion of Ohlendorf within the SD.

I offer Document No. 5 as Exhibit No. 26. It is an affidavit by Dr. GebhardtKlopfer, the former chief of the legal state department in the party Chancellery. As a referent and later state secretary with Bormann, he makes the statement as the best expert about the relation between Bormann and the party Chancellery, his relation to the SD Inland. He shows that the SD by the party was only legitimized as enemy intelligence service, but that the SD Inland under Ohlendorf did not carry out any enemy intelligence. The special work in the domestic spheres was always denied by the Party and as I quote, "The NSDAP at no time considered it legitimate." Bormann refutes that the SD Inland has done this kind of work and threatens to report the matter to the Fuehrer and prohibits the cooperation of all functionaries of the Party in the Party just a Ley did. Simultaneously Klopfer explains that in spite of this serious rejection of the SD work by Bormann and by a great number of Gau leaders Ohlendorf continued in his work until the end of the war. There are great arguments but Ohlendorf accepts them on his own responsibility because Ohlendorf is trying to make up with the SD Inland for the public criticism and opposition which are prohibited.

I offer Document No. 25 as Exhibit No. 27. It is an affidavit by Dr. Justus Bayer as referent in the SD before 1939 and expert in the Party Chancellery until 1945 who was in constant contact with the work of the SD Inland under Ohlendorf, and as intermediary between the Party Chancellery and Office III. He completes his testimony the statements by Ohlendorf, Dr. Klopfer, etc., about the relation of the SD Inland with the Party and the struggle between Ohlendorf for the independence of the SD Inland and the task of the intelligence service of the SD which he had developed as positive opposition against the excesses of the National Socialist regime. It is revealed particularly clearly in this testimony affidavit that in spite of the prohibition of activity in the SD Ohlendorf makes reports about the Party and he particularly makes reports about the Party itself in the SD and continuously attacks the attempts for power by the Party in the state for self-administration.

I offer Document No. 6 as Exhibit No. 28. This is an affidavit by Hans Fritsche who at the end was chief of the department Radio Transmission, in the Reich Propaganda Ministry. He is one of those receiving reports from the SD Inland, also during the time when Goebbels had prohibited the reporting to the ministries. Fritsche confirms in his statement that the SD reports were concerned with all spheres of life of the state and the people, and in particular were the echo about the statements and the actions of leading men within the people. The echo was formulated clearly and without considerations of anybody. He also saw a lot in Ohlendorf's reports and realized his aims in these reports to make up for the missing criticism. He added, I quote, "As a journalist I had the impression that Ohlendorf and his collaborators acted as mouthpiece of the opposition which otherwise could not become known." Beyond that he stressed the special position of the SD Inland with Ohlendorf within the entire SS and the Reich RSHA and indicates that contrary to the prohibition by Dr. Goebbels he received reports from Ohlendorf by indirect means.

I offer Document No. 7 as Exhibit No. 29 . It is an affidavit by Dore Neumann who was Ohlendorf's secretary from 1937 until 1945. Apart from her character statement, the affidavit says how Gruppenfuehrer Mueller, the Chief of Office IV, tried to get rid of Ohlendorf via the question of anthroposophy. I offer the Document No. 4 as Exhibit No. 30. It is an affidavit by Karl Hedrich who from 1935 to 1944 was deputy chairman of the Party Examination Commission for the Protection of National Socialist Literature, and who in that capacity was constantly in contact with Ohlendorf. Hedrich explains in detail that in Bormann's circle Ohlendorf was considered as unreliable from an ideological point of view, in particular because he protected anthroposophy against the Party. Hedrich knows from his own knowledge that because of Ohlendorf's attitude concerning anthroposophy Bormann wanted to have Ohlendorf removed from his Berlin office and asked Heydrich to have him removed, and that this was the reason why at the beginning of the Russian campaign Heydrich ordered Ohlendorf to go to the Russian front.

I offer Document No. 8 as Exhibit No. 31. It is an affidavit by Dr. Rudolf Hauschka, one of the loading scientists from the circle of the anthroposophists, who, as part of the work against the anthroposophists, together with his collaborators was arrested in June, 1941. Dr. Hauschka had taken up personal relations with Ohlendorf, only after he has heard about the charges against him in Nurnberg, and without being asked to be sent this affidavit which I now submit to the Tribunal. I ask that the character affidavit given in the affidavit be taken note of in its entirety, and I would like to limit myself to emphasize the affidavit by Dr. Hauschka here because after being released from prison he heard, I quote, "that Ohlendorf had been removed". What he means by this is the removal of Ohlendorf from the Office III in Berlin in the year 1941 that because of his approval of and interest in anthroposophy he was sent to the Eastern front as a punishment.

I offer Document No. 9 as Exhibit No. 32. It is an affidavit by Frau Dr. Elisabeth Klein, former chief of the anthroposophic school at Gerswalde in Dresden..Frau Dr. Klein also had been arrested as part of the action against the anthroposophists in the year 1941. The affidavit contains further proof for Ohlendorf's actively tolerant attitude towards other philosophies and his efforts against untrue attacks by the National Socialist State and the Party.

I offer Document No. 10 as Exhibit No. 33. It is an affidavit by Dr. Hans Ehlich who from 1937 until 1945 was a collaborator of Ohlendorf's in the SD Inland and at the end was group chief III-B in the Reich Security Main Office. From his experience throughout many years Ehlich explains that Ohlendorf considered all people of equal human value and therefore rejected the opinion that one people should be superior to any other peoples and should govern them as being in contradition to the laws of life. "Positively", I quote Page 34. "But the aim he tried to was an order of the people's according to which each people was to live and develop according to their own characteristics and possibilities". And according to Dr. Ehlich's testimony Ohlendorf at any time stood up for the principles which he considered right even if this should result in great difficulties with his superiors or other offices.

His opinion of peoples became the basis of Ohlendorf's entire SD work against other National Socialist efforts. Elich gives a number of examples for this, most of all from the occupied territories and concerning the treatment of foreign workers in Germany. Elich also testified, and I quote, that, "It is known to me that in consequence of this concept Ohlendorf proposed to Heydrich about 1940 for submission to the Reichsfuehrer SS, that the Jews should be given a status of a minority, according to which they should be treated as a recognized racial minority." Elich also is witness of the measures and threats by Himmler towards Office II and Ohlendorf resulting from the report by Ohlendorf against the power politic of Koch in the Ukraine.

I offer Document No. 11 as Exhibit No. 34. It is an affidavit by Dr. Hans Roessner, referant and department chief for cultural questions in the SD Inland from 1940 until 1945. During his time of service under Ohlendorf he Roesner experienced strong criticism, from him, but Roessner wanted to give this affidavit to the Tribunal particularly in view of the charges raised against Ohlendorf. I ask the Tribunal to make special use of this affidavit in particular because it is the most extensive report about the actual activity of Ohlendorf as a political human being. Just as an indication I would like to mention that Roessner testified that in the SD, in spite of threats by Himmler, Ley and Bormann, Ohlendorf continued in positive opposition against the National Socialist leadership which expressed itself in a negative way, and I quote. "In any case Ohlendorf still was the strongest exponent and a driving mental power against any misdevelopments and excesses, as the state, the Party and the cheifs of the Wehrmacht are being reproached with now."

I continue to quote. "Ohlendorf in countless SD-reports signed by him addressed to the authorities of the Reich, in discussions, conferences, addresses before party functionaries, SS-Fuehrer and Officers of the Wehrmacht wholeheartedly took a clear stand against appearances of despotism in cultural life, As one example of many, I cite a lecture of Ohlendorf's which I, too, heard which he gave perhaps in February 1944 at the Wartburg before all Educational Directors of the Party and its organizations." I continue to quote. "In this lecture and others, the basic thought of Ohlendorf's was, "that man could dare, wholeheartedly, to oppose the highest powerpolitic ain and signs of corruption and publicly espouse the cause of cleanliness and healthiness in the economic and cultural life." Roessner also gives many individual examples from all domestic spheres which Ohlendorf testified in his opinions, in word, writing and deed, including his fight against Fascism which caused official complaints by the Ambassador Alfieri with Himmler.

Roessner rather then draws the human conclusion, and I quote, "There are few examples, I think, that the closer collaborators, without exception, and as can be proven, now will stand by the side of their former office chief, not because they obeyed this orders or because they had sworn to a common party dogma, but because they still today recognize the pure will of Ohlendorf, and his spiritual independence even now. A deeper recognition Ohlendorf already found before 1945, in that groups of people who increased from year to year, people of all professions and social positions came to him and his collaborators in the SD Inland, in order to openly tell him about their desires, their criticisms and their worries. Party membership or political attitude was never mentioned on this occasion. These people, scientist, artists, teachers, men and women came sponstaneous and voluntarily to Ohlendorf and to the SD because there they found the only means of exercising criticism and their fuctual or position. Here Ohlendorf and the SD gained great confidence in particular from the population who were not party members.

Dr. Roessner finally describes the situation of Ohlendorf which appears tragic to him, athat in spite of this situation because of the constantly growing mistrust and the increasing objection by the highest authorities as a spiritual originator of an opposition and an alleged defeatism, he was reproached and threatened for this. According to the description of an actual loneliness of Ohlendorf, in the framework of the national socialist regime, he repeats a statement by Himmler made during the last few days in lay 1945 which reads something like this, and I quote, "If I had heard your opinion earlier and recognized it, many things would certainly have developped differently." Roessner adds, I quote, "This remark expresses more than general observations concerning the importance and tragedy of Ohlendorf."

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Aschenauer, where did this conversation take place in the last days of May?

DR. ASCHENAUER: The discussion took place in Flensburg. Ohlendorf testified this in the witness stand as well, and this is a confirmation for Ohlendorf's testimony.

PRESIDENT: Well, when did Himmler commit suicide?

DR. ASCHENAUER: Himmler committed suicide, I believe on 22 May '45

THE PRESIDENT: In June?

DR. ASCHENAUER: June.

THE PRESIDENT: I didn't realize it was so late. I thought it was shortly after the termination of the war.

DR. ASCHENAUER: No, about two months after the end of the war.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, very well.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I offer Document Number 35. It is an affidavit by Dr. Erhard Maeding, chief of the Department constitution and administration in Office III, SD inland in the year 1944. Maeding worked on obtaining news and information concerning administrative reform questions in particular and owing to his activity in this field, he states that this is clear in particular, that the SD Inaldn did not consider it to be their task to secure a certain form of state and administration in the state, but he describes the actual task which Ohlendorf considered to be the task of the SD, and I quote: "From discussions it could be seen that Herr Ohlendorf was deeply worried about the inner misdevelopment of the German state life in the previously mentioned and in other connections. His attitude was not based on technical considerations of usefulness, and not because these organizational experiments were unsuccessful, but they were founded on clear social philosophical and ethical convictions. The state life could not be organized as a formidable legislative and compulsion apparatus, but the administrative tasks were to be shared to a last extent by many spheres of life, locality, profession, or otherwise according to who were to act independently in the administration. This social basic opinion of a community which was to be made of as many individuals and independent existences and units as possible which were to form Fin elastic society penetrated his attitude, his concept of state. The community life was to be built up on a structure of cooperative living, the central administration was to be limited very strictly.

The thought of a total administrative mechanism was rejected by Herr Ohlendorf in the same manner as any dogmatization of political, thoughts or even the monopolizing of political initiative and authorizations of professional party functionaries.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Aschenauer, now do you think that it is necessary to go into Such detail in each of these affidavits? We now have a pretty good picture of just what these affidavits intend to demonstrate, and don't you think that if you summarized in a sentence or two what each affidavit is attempting to establish, that your purpose would be fulfilled?

DR. ASCHENAUER: I shall try to be brief, your Honor. I offer Document Number 13 as Exhibit Number 36. It is an affidavit by Dr. Helmut Seydel, a former legal referent in Office III of the SD Inland, and describes the attitude of Ohlendorf towards the national socialist justice authorities.

I offer Document Number 17 as Exhibit Number 37. It is the affidavit by Dr. Heinrich Malz, who from 1940 until 1944 was chief of the legal department in Office III. Dr. Malz testifies to the same tasks as mentioned in Document Number 13. He describes the fight for the development, and for the maintenance of the legal state. I stress in this statement Ohlendorf' s initiative, in the legal field, according to which Ohlendorf repeatedly tried for an independent legal procedure with regard to the way in which protective custody which was to be enforced as part of the legal police.

I offer Document Number 14 as Exhibit Number 38. It is an affidavit by Dr. Sigrid Barlen, another female collaborator of Ohlendorf in the cultural department which is to be evaluated particularly as a character testimony.

I offer Document Number 15 as Exhibit Number 39. It is the affidavit by Dr. Franz Hayler, who at the end was state secretary in the Reich Economic Ministry, from 1938 until 1943, he was chief of the Reich Group III, trade, and in both positions he was the immediate superior of the defendant Ohlendorf. In this affidavit Dr. Hayler confirm the professional activity by Ohlendorf as given before.

I offer the Document Number 16 as Exhibit Number 40. It is an affidavit by Dr. Gustav Schlotterer, who at the end was Ministerial Director in the Reich Ministry of Economics.

Schlotterer also offered his affidavit on his own initiative, although he had personal differences with Ohlendorf in the Reich Ministry of Economics and Ohlendorf was known as his opponent. Schlotterer states that tolerance and expert knowledge were the basis of the personnel policy of Ohlendorf.

I offer Document Number 19 as Exhibit 41. It is the affidavit by Walter Solbeens Ministerial counciller in the Reich Ministry of Economics. The statements by Solbeens complete the statements by Dr. Hayler and Schlotterer about the attitude and the work of Ohlendorf in the Reich Ministry for Economics. I quote briefly from Solbeens' statements, "It could be found that we as experts for the first time had a support with regard to attempts by the SS, the party and the DAF, the German workers' front who tried to exercise influence in the economic sphere."

I offer Document Number 20 as Exhibit Number 43. This is an affidavit by Dr. Elmer Michel, who at the end was Ministerial Director in the Ministry of Economics. This statement by an opponent of the party also completes the statements made by Dr. Hayler. He explains that Ohlendorf rejected any party political prejudices and, therefore, very soon in a number questions was in direct opposition to the party, in particular to the DAF, the German labor, front, and without fear always stuck up for his point of view even towards the highest party authorities.

I offer Document Number 21 as Exhibit Number 43. This is an affidavit by Dr. Josef Duetsch, manager of the economic group, retail trade, who was in official contact with Ohlendorf from 1937 until 1945. He also testifies, and I quote "It was particularly recognized that Ohlendorf, always stood up for his opinions which often opposed the usual tendencies of the Third Reich toward everybody." It also says, "In 1940 in a protest meeting which was called by the member of the committee of the trade organizations. Ohlendorf attacked Dr. Ley's policy in a manner which was not at all customary in the Third Reich." These are two affidavits given by two workers from his home community and which are a certificate for his character showing the opinion of people in his home town, before the taking over of the power in 1933 by Hitler and afterwards until 1945, and the giving reputation he had in his home town.

I offer the Document Number 26 as Exhibit Number 47. this Document Book I A. I offer this Document Number 26 as Exhibit Number 47. This is an affidavit by Horst Webendorfer. He also offered to give his affidavit without being asked to do so. And he describes in particular the fight offer Lay against Ohlendorf, and that Ley asks Himmler to get rid of Ohlendorf.

I offer the Document Number 27 as Exhibit Number 48. It is an affidavit by Dr. Hans Roessner. Dr. Roessner testifies here about Ohlendorf' s political fight for freedom of the individual and he talks about an episode which is of importance for this, namely, the attempt of Ohlendorf-through many years, to try from the bottom to attain that the party bureaucra cy and the government of the party chancellery be destroyed. This was the attempt of getting the help of the leaders of the Hitler Youth in order to attain this aim.

I offer Document Number 28 as Exhibit Number 49. This is an affidavit by the Reich Minister Dr. Hans Lammers, the chief of the Reich Chancellery. The prosecution brought up the question whether the defendant, Ohlendorff, did not have the opportunity to complain to the fuehrer and supreme commander of the Wehrmacht about the general order of killing in the Eastern campaign. Lammers testifies, giving individual reasons that Ohlendorf's position was neither high enough nor it was that technically possible for him to get a personal audience with the fuehrer because of this position.

I offer Document Number 29 as Exhibit Number 50. It is an affidavit by Werner Lorenz, the former chief of the VOMI. Lorenz states that because of his activity as chief of Einsatzgruppe D in Russia in October 1941, Ohlendorf was on his suggestion spontaneously promoted to SS oberfuehrer. The reason for the promotion was the work done by Ohlendorf in the ethnic German resettlement territory in Transuistria for which the ethnic German resettlement office was competent.

I offer the Document Number 30 as Exhibit Number 51. This is an affidavit by Dr. Erich von der Heyde from the time of his activity in the economical staff of the OKW. He testifies that Ohlendorf in the fall of 1934 held a lecture to the economi staff in the OKW caused great surprise which because of the open criticism of the economic policy of the Reich of the policy of the NSDAP in general and especially of Speer, Ley, and Bormann.

I think I made a mistake in the year, it is 1944.

I offer Document Number 31, as Exhibit Number 52. It is another statement by Dr. Erich von der Heyde from the time when he was in contact with Ohlendorf as an employee of the I.G. Farben and simultaneously as honorary collaborator in the economic intelligence service in the SD. Heyde testifies that in the years 1939 and 1940 Ohlendorf repeatedly supported applications for emigration for Jewish employees of the I.G. Farben with the Gostapo, although he neither knew the Jews concerned, nor did he have any interest in them.

I offer Document Number 32 as Exhibit Number 53. This is an affidavit by Rudolf Fumy from 1938 to 1945. His affidavit of the document submitted by the prosecution attacks the credibility. According to his affidavit, the reports of events and the details therein do not give the exact happening in the East, and can only to a very limited extent be considered as a verbal repetition of th original reports.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I offer Document No. 33 as Exhibit No. 54. This is a personal letter of the Reichsfuehrer SS to the SS Brigadefuehrer Ohlendorf of 31 October 1943. I have submitted this letter as one of the pieces of evidence to show the relation between the Reichsfuehrer SS and Ohlendorf.

I offer Document No. 34 as Exhibit No. 55. This is a letter of thanks of the Tartar Committee of the District of Simferopol of 2 July 1942. In this letter there is expressed among other things, and I quote:

"The Tartars in the Crimea were so oppressed and enslaved during the Bolshevist regime that they had lost almost all their Tartar ethnic characteristics.

"The firm foundation of our love and confidence in the German people is the result of your thorough and unselfish work.

"The Tartar people appreciate and will never forget your services."

I offer Document No. 35 as Exhibit No. 56. It is a letter by the Defendant Ohlendorf to his then fiancee at the time of February 1934. I ask the Tribunal to take notice of this entire letter.

I offer Document No. 36 as Exhibit No. 57. It is a correspondence with Professor Dr. Otto Donner, who is now living in America. He also shows the active tolerance towards non-natuinal socialists, when they were oppressed by official offices of the Reich and were presecuted by other agencies.

I offer Document No. 37 as Exhibit No. 58. This is an excerpt from the minutes of the session of the INT, page 1869 and 1870 of the interrogation of Dicter Wisliceny of 3 January 1946. I submit this examination as evidence for the fact that the so-called final solution of the Jewish question, that is, the extermination of the Jews as Jews in Europe was expressed only in the letter by Himmler of April 1943 to the Chief of the Security Police and the SD, and the Inspectorate of the Concentration Camps The testimony is a confirmation of the further examination of the Defendant Ohlendorf who states that the Fuehrer Order for the Russian Campaign originated independently from the so-called final solution of the Jewich question.

Shall I go to Document Book No. 4 before the recess, Your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: Just about how much more do you have, Dr. Aschenauer, So we can arrange Our program for this morning?

DR. ASCHENAUER: In all, there are the documents up to Exhibit No. 64; that is, another six documents are to be introduced and one judicial notice of a document already introduced to the Tribunal

THE PRESIDENT: Yes Who will follow Dr. Aschenauer in the presentation of documents?

You, Dr. Belzer? Yes.

Very well and then will anybody else be reedy after Dr. Belzer?

DR. STUEBINGER: Dr. Stuebinger.

THE PRESIDENT: Then you will be ready. Just a moment please. Mr. Ferencz. Yes, Mr. Ferencz.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, we have a list here of all of the document books in English which have been Served on the prosecution and the list indicates that almost all of the defendants have completed document books to a certain extent. That is, some are introducing two or three books, two of which have been translated and the third of which is still being processed. in so far as they are completed. For example, if the Defendant Just has two books completed and anticipates having two more, which are now being translated, that he give us these two so that we can have a basis from to prepare our rebuttal, rather then have us wait until the last page in the last document book is done. If he can give us the book that he already has finished, I think that, will facilitate matters,

THE PRESIDENT: You have heard Mr. Ferencz' statements and the Tribunal concurs with it. We might also indicate to counsel that in the preparation of the presentation of documents that if they are going to refer to the documents that instead of reading the text a very brief condensation be already in the mind of the counsel so that he can give the idea without having to read from the document itself, because if we must sit here and listen to the reading of all these documents, naturally, it will be an interminable proceeding.

I do not mean by this, Dr. Aschenauer, that we are in any way criticizing your presentation. On the c ntrary, we think you did a very nice job in presenting your documents.

(A recess was taken)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Aschenauer, before you begin, the Tribunal would like to announce that it would appreciate that all defense counsel, or as many as are available, be present when we reconvene at 1:45 (1345 hours) and all Prosecution counsel also, Mr. Ferencz, so that we can discuss just what we have before us in the way of document books and all relevant matters, so we can map out the program now for the termination of all the proceedings. Thank you. Proceed Dr. Aschenauer.

DR. Aschenauer; I now come to Document Book IV. As the first document in Document Book IV, I offer Document No. 54, as Exhibit No. 59. This is the notification in the military passport for Otto Ohlendorf of 20 November 1939. It shows that Ohlendorf at the beginning of the war was deferred from service for the Reich Group Trade, that is, that his war service was supposed to be performed in the Reich Group Trade. I quote: "The possible order on the part of the Reich Group Trade is to be complied with by you at any time in peace, as well as in war. That noncompliance with this draft is punishable. During the war reporting as a volunteer is useless, and is, therefore, to be refrained from. "Now I offer the second document of this volume, that is the No. 55, as Exhibit No. 60. It is an affidavit of Dr. Lammers, as a completion to the affidavit of 20 October 1947, which was submitted as Exhibit No. 49, and which was Document No. 28. The third document in this book with the No. 56, I offer asExhibit No. 61. First of all, I would like to correct a translation mistake. On page 11 it says under "A": "The Reichfuehrer-SS and Chief of the German Police," and not "Reich Security Main Office." This is an affidavit of Dr. Hans Ehlich, who as I have already said, who was active in a fulltime capacity from 1 February 1937 until the end of the war in the Security Service of the Reichsuehrer-SS and who since 1940 was a Department Chief in Office III, the chief of which was Ohlendorf's work. The affidavit supplements some statements of the IMT Judgment, or corrects them.

I may quote briefly: "The new Office III, SD Tuland of the RSHA as the only central office for the SD work at home didn't have any sphere of work and had no mission as far as political opponents are concerned, and it had no political function or power. It worked completely independently from the missions of the Security Police. The restriction of the missions of Office-III of the RSHA, to purely objective task of importance about the domestic field, and the avoidance of any reference of this work to any political field was the demand of Ohlendorf when he founded Office III of the RSHA. "It is, therefore determined in this affidavit that from 1939 to 1945 no combatting of political enemies and no kind of executive power waspresent. Ehlich answered, therefore, to a number of individual questions about the activity or non-activity of Ohlendorf within Office III. The last document in this volume is Document No. 57, and I offer it as Exhibit No. 62. This is an affidavit, of Heinz Wanninger, in the end Referent for general questions of organization of the RSHA. He supplements the statements in the affidavit, that Dr. Hans Ehrlich which has just been submitted treats the organizational questions of the Office of the RSHA and the Offices of Chief of Security Police and SD at home, and in the occupied territories, as well as the special position of Einsatsgruppes and Einsatzcommando in the Russian campaign, which, as militant special units, were no agencies, or offices, or parts, or branches of the offices of the RSHA, especially not the Offices III, IV, VI and VII of the RSHA. Then I have two more individual documents which have reference to the subject as to whether the struggle of the East was regarded as a struggle between two races by the defendants, or whether it was merely a matter of measures which were taken for security reasons. These two documents refute the thesis of the Prosecution, and I may hand them both to the Tribunal. I would like to offer the German copy with the document No. 62 as Exhibit No. 63, and the English copy as Exhibit No. 62-A -- or rather, as No. 63-A. Document 63 or 63A is offered as Exhibit No. 64 or 64-A. I quote:

Page 4,996

"Top Secret. A few thoughts about the treatment of aliens in the East, We have to see to it ---"

THE PRESIDENT: Which document are you reading from now Dr. Aschenauer?

DR. ASCHENAUER: From 62. I just gave it to the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, what the number have you given that?

DR. ASCHENAUER: 62, as Exhibit 63.

THE PRESIDENT: We have a document -

JUDGE DIXON: I think I have found them now.

THE PRESIDENT: What happened, that each one of the Judges got three copies of the same document. All right, proceed.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I quote: "Concerning the treatment of aliens in the East, we have to see to it that we acknowledge and cultivated many individual Ethnic groups as possible. That is, outside of Poles, Jews, Ukranians, White Russians, the Gorals, etc. If other small and isolated national groups can be found in the other places, they should be treated the same way." document submitted in the IMT, the Document No. 710-PS. I would just like to quote into the record: "Reichmarshall of the Greater German Reich. Berlin, July 1941, and the Chief of Security Police and SD, as SSGruppenfuehrer Heydrich, As a supplement to the task assigned to you on 24 January 1939, to solve the Jewish question in the form of emigration or evacuation, and to find as favorable a solution as possible I give you the order," and so forth.

DR. ASCHENAUER (continued): I am at the end of my documents. I have before me the documents handed over by the Prosecution in Case XII. As such these documents offer nothing new. They prove the knowledge of the Army, the participation of the Army, and the jurisdiction in the area of sovereignty. I don't have the intention to continue to submit these matters unless I decide to submit a trial brief with short quotations, at the time of my final plea.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Do you want any ruling on that?

DR. ASCHENAUER: Well, if the official permission would be given for this it might be good to have it in the record.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Fenercz, do you have something to say to this?

MR. FERENCZ: Not on this particular point, on the general matter.

THE PRESIDENT: You are permitted to do what you have asked, Dr. Aschenauer.

MR. FERENCZ: May it please your Honor, there are certain fundamental objections which are applicable to many of the documents offered by the defendant Ohlendorf. I refer particularly to Document Books, II, II-A, II-B in their entirety. Book II begins with the so-called expert legal opinion on the concept of notation or necessity as a defense. The other materials in Books II-A and B are offered in support of that legal opinion. We must examine these things as a whole to see if they can be admitted. If the Court will turn to page 2 of Ohlendorf's Document Book II they will find a table of contents of this one legal opinion. You will notice, your Honors, that parts A and B concern the law to be applied. These are the first 12 pages. With this we have no quarrel. The remaining 50 pages are quite another matter. They deal with the objective and subjective prerequisites concerning the facts about the Soviet War, whether it was an aggressive war, whether International law would be followed by Russia and Russian's conduct before and after 1941. It can be readily seen, your Honors, that these are matters of fact and not of law. The affiant purports to give an expert opinion on these questions of fact. Books II-A and B are extracts to support these facts.

What the affiant presents as fact is nothing less than a very clear exposition of a print of view which has nearly wreched the world. We cannot allow these matters to stand on these records as great statements of fact, These matters have already been argued and decided by the International Military Tribunal. If the Tribunal here desires to open these factual questions to re-examination we will produce evidence to the contrary. To do so, however, will entail bringing into this case many questions already considered and decided by the first International Tribunal. Part C-2 of this so-called legal opinion, this is on page 2--A of the document book your Honors, concerns the official Nazi theory of Jewry and Bolshevism and the defendant's own experience and imagination on this subject. Here gain the matter has nothing to do with law and less to do with fact and are certainly beyond the scope of any export legal opinion. opinion on maters of continental law. We will not object to Ohlendorf including in his closing statement his own subjective victor of the facts but we must not forget this trial is open to the world and will be studied by future generations. We cannot permit the distortion of very important facts disguised as expert legal opinion to remains as a permanent block unchanged and unchallenged on this record. We ask the Tribunal to consider this matter and to study these documents before making a ruling. Mr. Walton will present additional specific objections.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed Mr. Walton.

MR. WALTON: If your Honors please, if you will permit me I should like to take up the documents in the document books in the order in which they appear rather than in the order in which they were presented. I kept score but I have no guarantee it is right as far as the exhibit number is concerned and when I wrote my notes for the objections I did not have the exhibit numbers and will refer to the document by the page it appears in the document book and the name of the affiant or document as it appears in the record.

THE PRESIDENT: Once you do that there can be no possibility of error so tire recommend you follow that announced policy.

MR. WALTON: At this time, then, I wish to file certain specific objections to Documents Book I which I will take up by documents as they appear in that volume, Document #1, in this Document Book, the affidavit of Andreas Predoehl dated 9 October 1947, pages 1 and 2. The difficulties of the defendant while a student at Kiel University are immaterial to the charges of murder or membership in criminal organizations. For that reason we object, Does the Tribunal wish to rule after each objection is uttered?

THE PRESIDENT: No, the rulings will be made after we have had an opportunity to consider the objection and studying of the documents themselves.

MR. WALTON: Very well, I will continue without further interruption.

THE PRESIDENT: Please do.

MR. WALTON: Document 1-A, being a affidavit of Dr. Wilhelm Greiser. While it contains matters which tire believe to be immaterial, Prosecution does not urge an objection since it is in part a character affidavit.

Document 2, affidavit of Dr. Karl Gebhardt, dated 15 August 1947, pages 9-21 in the English text is objected to because the personal relationships between Himmler and the defendant Ohlendorf are not material to the issues in this case. Neither is a summation of Himmler's attitude toward his subordinate leaders, his morals, or his personal idiosyncrasies helpful as background material nor do they have any bearing on the issues involved. The same can be said of the affiant Gebhardt's conception of Ohlendorf's political philosophy in comparison with that belonging to Himmler. Furthermore this is a purported affidavit but, no jurat appears on the document.

Document #3, the affidavit of Karl Wolff, dated 10 September 1947, pages 22 to 25. The same objection as to Ohlendorf document 2 applies to this document. Furthermore should the Gebhardt statement and not the affidavit be accepted in lieu or in place of a character affidavit, this document is merely cummulative testimony on the same point.

This document has no jurat Document #4, the affidavit of Karl Hedrich, undated document, pages 26 to 35 of the Document Book.

It is cummulative evidence on the point of the defendant's political philosophy, his struggles -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Walton, I don't think we are going to be concerned - I don't think the Tribunal will be particularly concerned whether the document is cummulative. If it is relevant and sheds light, even excessively on a point which the defense considers important there seems no reason why we don't take it, study it and evaluate it, especially in view of the fact, that it is now already processed. If required to go out and get more then we might consider that. And, furthermore the character of each defendant is certainly attacked and what ever he can present to show that his character is such that would preclude the criminals intention imputed to the defendant it is certainly relevant.

MR. WALTON: I can only get my interpretation and give them as my objections. What the Tribunal does is, of course, their function but I should like to go on record with these objections.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well we don't want you to gain the hope that you were succeeding in that particular argument.

MR. WALTON: I assure the Tribunal it is entirely impersonal. I merely put in the objections, the Tribunal acts on them. immaterial to the issues in this case and this document, being document #4, is also without a jurat. No date that the document was signed appears.

Document to. 5, the affidavit of Dr. Gerhard Klopfer, dated 3 October 1947, pages 36 to 38. This document is objected to on the grounds of immateriality and while it is admitted that in the course of time it may have some historical value it is, in my opinion of the Prosecution, of no value to the material issues of the case.

No jurat appears on this document.

Document 6 _ this is the affidavit of Hans Fritzsche, dated 18 August 1947, pages 39 to 41. The criminality of the SD is established by Control Council Law #10 and by judgment of the International Military Tribunal. Evidence to the contrary is immaterial. As this criminality of the SD is now a raised adjudicata matter. The mere fact that the SD under Ohlendorf was engaged in some legal activities is no guarantee that the Security Police and SD were innocent of crimes in the occupied territories of Russia. This Tribunal does not concern itself primarily with actions taken by Germans against Germans. As was said in the Medical case it is only when crimes or illegal acts are committed on Nationals of other countries does it become of concern to the family of nations. This document is also objected to because it lacks a jurate.

An unworn statement of Dore Neumann, being document #7, dated 11 October 1947. This is immaterial as to the issues in the case because this affiant only testifies to the defendant's activities In Berlin and in the RSHA. She admits she knows nothing of the SD or the Einsatzgruppe activities in Russia.

Document #8. statement of Dr. Rudolf Hauschka, dated 16 August 1947, pages 46 and 47. The defendant Ohlendorf's attitude toward German practitioners of anthropography whether tolerant or intolerant is not material to the question of his attitude toward Russian Jews, Gypsies and Communist functionaries. Charitable acts toward this affiant has no bearing on his uncharitable acts toward people in occupied territories of Russia marked for slaughter.

MR, WALTON: (continued) Document 9, statement of Dr. Elizabeth Klein dated 17 September 1947, pages 49 to 52. Prosecution objects to this document because the International political struggles of Germany and the attitude of the SD therein may be of value to the history of such movements but it is immaterial as to whether the SD was a criminal organization. This has been decided by the International Military Tribunal and the issue in this case is whether or not the chief of that organization knew of criminal acts performed by the SD organization while establishing and maintaining the security of German Armed Forces in Russia.

Document 10, statement of Dr. Hans Ehlich, unsworn, dated 20 September 1947, pages 53 to 61. The attitude and the policy of the defendant Ohlendorf toward the Germanization of and assimilation of foreigners, the difficulties he had to maintain his ideals on these questions, the antipathy had had held for Koch and Thomas and the hatred he possessed for the monopolistic attitude of I.G. Farben, are material only if the issues in this case include whether or not this defendant made enemies during his career. Such statements while of interest to a treatise on the life and times of General Ohlendorf are not material. If they are offered to establish the point that the defendant did courageously maintain his ideals in spite of powerful adversaries then these documents are cummulative and are surplusage since Prosecution is prepared to admit this last named contention.

Document 11, the affidavit of Dr. Hans Roessner dated 13 September 1947 pages 62 to 79. This is a document which points out again the resistance maintained by the defendant to his political adversaries, his efforts in behalf of the cultural life of Germans, the scientific study, and achievement of German scientists, the religious policy of the state and the his relations with Nazi hierarchy. It is immaterial to SD activities in the occupied eastern territories of Russia.

Document 12, affidavit of Dr. Erhard Maeding, dated 22 September 1947, pages 80 to 90.

In the English translation the first page is missing. The Prosecution was not put on notices as to the full contents of the document but is willing to waive this technical objection if the contents are of the same general nature as the remaining 9 pages. The economic Spy system on the leading personalities in the German State was right and proper as the German people wanted it. The right of any country to make its own laws and to conduct its own international affairs is not an issue here. The same question of acts proven in Germany, whether legal or illegal, is of no concern to this Tribunal. It is when these or other acts result in the crimes against humanity or war crimes and are visited on peoples outside of the German border they do concern the rest of civilized nations of the world. Neither are the routine procedure practices in the SD, for Germany questions of material value for the Tribunal in this case nor are the relations between the SD with the Ministerial Department and gauleaders. The defendant's efforts in behalf of State reform for Germany is not material to the issue of criminal activities against the civilian population or Russian occupied territories.

Document 13, Statement of Dr. Halmut Seydel dated 3 September 1947, pages 92 to 98. Prosecution objects to the introduction of this document because the functioning of legal institutions in Germany and the proposed reforms therein are immaterial. The attempted counter action of the trend away from a constitutional state inside of the borders of Germany, the pointing out of Party corruption, etc., is of no material value to this case. The author in his closing paragraph - I cannot call him an affiant because it is unsworn - the author in his closing paragraph specifically states and I quote: "I did not know of the assignment in Russia." The Prosecution does not object to the introduction of Document 14 which is a statement of Sigrid Barlen, B-a-r-l-e-n, dated 3 October 1947, pages 100 to 102.

Document 15, this is a purported deposition of Dr. Franz Hayler, pages 103 to 121, In the English copy it is unsigned. The authority for taking the oath is not shown, no witnesses' certificates appear, the date when the deposition was taken is not shown, the authority before whom the answers were made is not shown.

If it is a deposition, no cross interrogatories were over put to the witness. If it is purported to be an unsworn statement no signature is attached. This is cummulative evidence of the fight inside of Germany against monopoly. As to the struggles with Himmler, as to collaboration with Professor Jessen, as to the defendant's opposition to Nazi hierarchy and other Internal German State matters none of which appear to be pertinent to the issues in the case. The interrogatee disclaims in his answers to questions 6 and 7 any knowledge of the details of the defendant's work in the SD and his participation in the Russian campaign.

MR.WALTON: To ducment #16, being the affidavit of Dr. Gustav Schlotterer, dated 4 October 1947, the Prosecution offers no objection.

Document 17 the affidavit of Dr. Heinrich Malz, dated 30 September 1947, pages 124 to 126. This is cummulative to the point of the defendant's attitude and ideology on International Germanic affairs. It is Immaterial to SIPO and the SD in Russia.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:45.

(The hearing reconvened at 1345 hours, 14 January 1948).

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: We really feel very much complimented at seeing everyone present today.

Mr. Walton, would you mind our taking up the matter of the document books with the counsel who have all appeared?

MR. WALTON: Not at all, sir, except that I am sorry to state that I was unable to find Mr. Glancy during the lunch hour. Dr. Hochwald has gone to call his office. Mr. Ferencz, I don't know why he was not here because he was sitting here when you made your announcement, but if the Tribunal will allow the two elder members of the prosecution to stand in lieu thereof, we can proceed with the business of the court.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. WALTON: As soon as the phone calls go through I feel certain they will be here. They are in the building.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, would you then went to proceed with your-

MR. WALTON: Not at all, unless the Tribunal feels that the full prosecution should be here.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it isn't necessary that they should all be here, but I think they should be rather well represented because they may went to make some observations. The thing that I am concerned with is if I don't take care of these attorneys at once they are going to slip out one by one, and I want to have them here in unison. So you may proceed for ten minutes or so and if they have not come by that time then we will take up the matter of the document books.

Dr. Hochwald, do you know whether the other two intend to be here?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, Mr. Glancy is ill today.

THE PRESIDENT: Oh, I am sorry.

MR. HORLICH-HOCHWALD: And Mr. Ferencz will be presently before the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, fine.

MR. WALTON: The next document to which the prosecution wishes to enter its objection is in Document Book I, being the same document book which was being discussed prior to the noon recess. Document No. 18, which is the statement of Luitpold Charlemayer, dated 21 August, 1947, Pages 127, 129, and which is again on the point of the personal feud between Himmler and Ohlendorf, again objected to on the grounds as being immaterial to the issues involving the activities of the defendant in the East. Document No. 19-

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, I see Mr. Ferencz is here now, so let's take up the matter of the document books, if you don't mind. and we would like to suggest that even where counsel does not have all his document books but does have one or more, that he present those so that at least we can be working on them, awaiting the remaining ones which might still be in the process of being translated and mimeographed. I think it might be well to go down the list beginning with Ohlendorf, which, of course, we are now disposing of.

Heinz Jost. Now, this list indicates that we have Document Books I and II. Are there any more?

DR. SCHWARZ: Yes, your Honor, I have finished the Document Books I and II and can submit them if the Tribunal desires so. Document Book III is being translated at the moment, and a fourth document book unfortunately I was not able to complete yet, because two affidavits were only received during the last few days, but I shall hand in the document book by tomorrow for translation.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Erich Naumann.

DR. KLENNERT: Dr. Klennert for Naumann. Your Honor, I have four document books which I handed to the translation department. As far as I know only one of them has been returned as yet. Three further books are still to come, to be translated.

THE PRESIDENT: Are they already in the translation department, II, III, and IV?

Page 5,007

DR. KLENNERT: Yes, II, III and IV are in the translation department.

THE PRESIDENT: You are ready to proceed with No. I?

DR. KLENNERT: Yes, with No. I.

THE PRESIDENT: Otto Rasch. Of course, we know that you are hoping that you won't have to submit any document books.

DR. SURHOLT: Yes. I have prepared one document book, but since no ruling was made about my application as yet, I have not handed it in in order not to burden the translation department too much.

THE PRESIDENT: Nor to burden the attorney too much.

DR. SURHOLT: I have finished my work so far.

THE PRESIDENT: One of the marks of wisdom of a lawyer is never to do more work than he has to.

DR. SURHOLT: One should not contradict wisdom.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, very well said. The attorney for Schulz.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: DR. Durchholz for defendant Schulz.

I have already submitted Document Books I, II and III. I have already submitted these three documents books, and I have another few documents which I shall probably receive back from the translation department at the end of the week. May I mention here that there is one document among them concerning the witness Karl Heinz Bent. The affidavit by this witness I have already completed a month ago, but after having summoned the witness at the time I wanted his signature. Suddenly the witness had been taken away from Nurnberg, and today I was told that tomorrow or the day after he would come back again so that I will be able to get his signature then. This was a delay which is not my fault.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, which books are you ready to present now?

DR. DURCHHOLZ: I only have a few documents which I shall submit as Document Book No. IV as soon as I have them all.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Attorney for the defendant Six.

DR. ULMER: Ulmer for Six.

mimeographed and translated already, that I could submit at any time now. Document Books II and III, I handed in. II has already been mimeographed in the German and it is just being translated into English. In order to speed this up I myself have given an English translated to the translation department, and the translation department will only have to review it. My Document Book No. III I have not received back mimeographed yet in German.

THE PRESIDENT: You say that you did some of the translating youself?

DR. ULMER: I had them made.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, but you did it to assist the translation department?

DR. ULMER: Yes, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, you seem to be contradicting the wisdom of Dr. Surholt, doing more work than an attorney is required to do.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, I might have a fourth document book but this will only consist of three or four documents. I am expecting these to come in within two days. That is only a small matter.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, Thank you very much, Dr. Ulmer. Dr. Heim. Oh, he is not here. I haven't see Dr. Heim for a long time. Where is he?

DR. KUHR: DR. Heim is in the Tribunal No. VIII, where his client is just being on the witness stand at the moment. He, therefore, cannot appear. As his deputy I would like to make the following statement. Your Honor, Document Book I for Blobel has already been submitted. Document Book II we received back this morning from the translation department, and Mr. Hochwald informed me that the prosecution has the Document Book II for Blobel. We have in addiction a supplement to Document Book II of Blobel but this has not yet been received back from the translation department. It is possible that we shall hand in supplementary documents. and we shall try to have the translation speeded up. Submission of further documents is not intended.

THE PRESIDENT: Well then, you would be ready to present Document Books I and II.

DR. KUHR: Document Book I has already been submitted, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, you are ready to present II then.

DR. KUHR: Document Book II I could present. However, the supplement cannot be submitted as yet because it has not yet been translated.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Dr. Lummert for Blume.

DR. LUMMERT: Your Honor, my Document Book I has already been submitted by me at a previous date. The rest of my documents will be contained in Document Book II. I shall be able to submit the rest of the documents at the latest at the beginning of next week. They have already been translated.

Page 5,010

THE PRESIDENT: Are they all contained in one book, No. II?

DR. LUMMERT: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: And you expect to have that book ready no later than Monday?

DR. LUMMERT: Monday at the latest. I can then present it.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Dr. Handry for Sandberger. Oh, Dr. -- I see, yes.

DR. STEIN: My name is Stein, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, that is right. You constantly change your name.

DR. STEIN: Your Honor, I already submitted two document book. Both are still in the translation department. I also have a supplement to Document Book No. I which is being prepared, and I shall be able to hand in this book in about two days. Apart from that I am expecting from abroad about two or three further affidavits which I was unable to get before because I did not know the addresses of these foreign witnesses. At the moment I cannot give a definite date when I shall be able to submit the document books, since I do not know when the documents will be translated. I am not able to submit Document Book I already now because the matter is overlapping. There are various affidavits in both books which I wont submit in a proper presentation. I, therefore, ask for a term, I ask to be given time until the beginning of next week provided that the books are translated by them, and apart from that I would like to reserve the right that if they should not be completed by then in the translation that I Shall be able to submit the document books at a later date, but may present them to the Tribunal earlier.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, Dr. Stein. You understand the situation, and I am sure that you will cooperate to the utmost of your ability.

DR. STEIN: Yes, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Who is deputizing for Dr. Gawlik? Oh, you are. Very well.

DR. KLENNERT: Two document books for the defendant Seibert have been handed in. They are still in the translation department. When the translation will completed I do not know, but I assume that this will be this week. Apart from that a supplement of a few documents was prepared and was either given to the translation department today or will be given to them today.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Dr. Mayer for the defendant Steimle.

DR. MAYER: Dr. Mayer for the defendant Stimle. III for the defendant Steimle.

THE PRESIDENT: And will that complete your documentation?

DR. MAYER: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Thank you, Dr. Mayer. Dr. Fisch for Biberstein. Let's see, you have presented one document book. Do you intend to have any more?

DR. FISCH: No further documents. your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, thank you.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Mayer for the defendant Braune.

DR. STEUBINGER: Steubinger for Braune.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

DR. STEUBINGER: I have two document book and one supplement which I have prepared. The first document book is completed and can be presented. The second document book is translation already, but it is still in the sorting out department, in the filing department, and the prosecution has not been able to have a copy as yet. The same applies to the supplement, part of which has only been translated. Document Book No. II I shall submit as soon as I am given the English translation.

THE PRESIDENT: That could be rather quickly, couldn't it, maybe tomorrow?

DR. STEUBINGER: Yes, I hope so, your Honor. Of course, I cannot say exactly how long this will take, but Document Book I can be introduced today.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, very well.

DR. STEUBINGER: I said this morning that I was prepared to do this.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, we will take it just as soon as we reach it.

Dr. Riediger for the defendant Haensch.

DR, RIEDIGER: Your Honor, I handed in three document books. Document Book I has been translated and submitted. Document Book II has also been translated and should be submitted any day. Document No. III is being translated and it should take a few more days until the translation will be completed. Apart from that I am expecting two or three further affidavits from the Russian zone which should arrive sometime this week which will also be added to the document book, completed, is Document Book No. I, and can be submitted any time. Document Book No. II Should be ready for submission at the end of this week.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the prosecution has received Document Book No. II of Dr. Riediger's.

THE PRESIDENT: Well then, you would be ready to proceed with your Document Books I and II.

DR. RIEDIGER: Yes, I then could submit I and II.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Dr. Hoffmann. Are you here only as a Spectator today, I see you sitting back in the gallery, or are you really working?

DR. HOFFMANN: I only took that seat because I did not want to sit in the front row.

THE PRESIDENT: That is just your natural modesty.

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, for the defendant Nosske who is my Client I am submitting seven documents which will be translated by Monday.

I could not call this a book, but I shall introduce the documents individually.

THE PRESIDENT: And you think they will be ready by Monday?

DR. HOFFMANN: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Thank you very much, Dr. Hoffmann.

Dr. Koessl for the defendant Ott.

MR. WALTON: If your Honor please, there is one matter that concerns Dr. Hoffmann and myself, and since we are both here and since Your Honor has cited the occupational disease of lawyers to slip out. I would like to take up this one matter before we proceed further. On the 19th of December, in obedience to the direction of the court, we submitted an affidavit of the former defendant, Emil Hausmann. My understanding is that is Prosecution's Exhibit 188. I have forgotten the document number. However, there is a motion pending before the court already filed by the prosecution on the 19th of December. So far I have not received a reply or an answer to that motion. If I remember correctly the court stated in its direction that counsel for the defendant and the prosecution would file their briefs and that the court would make its decision in a written opinion.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. WALTON: The secretary is getting a little nervous about it too. He keeps writing me notes asto just what I am going to do.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. WALTON: But the main thing I should like, if it is at all Possible that if the motion is decided in my favor I intend to use it in my closing brief. If not, I would like to know that now so that I can Still write the brief without reference to the document.

PRESIDENT: Yes, Dr. Hoffmann, will you please tell us whether you intend to file the reply brief?

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, I received the motion by the Prosecution and also prepared a reply. By the end of this week it will have been translated; however, I take the liberty of suggesting whether we and the prosecution will have to discuss the Hausmann affidavit as yet because of the fact that various Tribunals have made different rulings. This with regard to Ordinance Number 7, might complicate matters.

PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Hoffmann, you can quote in your brief those decisions which support your view that the affidavit should be excluded, and I presume Mr. Walton will certainly quote those which support his contention that it should be admitted. Then, of course, we will decided which one we like better and dispose of it.

MR. WALTON: Fur purposes of record, Sir, that document specifically is No. 4147.

PRESIDENT: Yes, Very well. Very well. Dr. Koessl.

DR. KOESSL: Koessl for Ott and Schubert. I have ready for presentation the Document Books I and II for Ott and Document Books I and II for Schubert. For Ott only a small supplement is still to be submitted. I hope that this small supplement will be translated by the end of the week.

PRESIDENT: Well, are you ready to present Document Books I and II in behalf of Ott and I and II in behalf of Schubert?

DR. KOESSL: Yes, immediately.

PRESIDENT: Very well, thank you very much. Dr. Gick, for the defendant Strauch. Do you intend to present more than one document book?

Page 5,015

DR. GICK: Your Honor, I have two document books which I have completed for the defendant. The document books, the second one in particular, I had to make without the cooperation of the defendant. I had to make it based on my own information only and by studying files and documents myself because I was not able to work with the defendant for some time. These two document books were already handed in to the translation department. As soon as the translation department returns them, I shall be able to submit them.

PRESIDENT: When did you hand Number II in, because Number I is already prepared.

DR. GICK: Number I is prepared -- I didn't know that yet. The second one was only handed in yesterday.

PRESIDENT: Is it a very long one?

DR. GICK: It is not very large, No, but I assume that it contains about 20 documents.

PRESIDENT: Very well. Dr. Mayer for the defendant Klingelhoefer.

DR. MAYER: Mayer for Klingelhoefer. Your Honor, I have one document book which I am prepared to submit for the defendant Klingelhoefer.

PRESIDENT: Very well, thank you. Dr. Fritz for the defendant Fondler. You have already presented one document book. Do you intend to have anything more?

DR. FRITZ: Your Honor, today I submitted another document book, Fendler Nuaber II, but it consists only of two documents. It should be completed in a few days, and apart from that, I am expecting one further affidavit, and I would like to submit that as well, it it should be received before the end of the presentation of the evidence.

PRESIDENT: Very well, thank you. Dr. Ratz for the defendant von Radetzky.

DR. RATZ: Dr. Ratz for the defendant, von Radetzky. Your Honor, my two document books have been translated, and mimeographed for some time already. I am prepared to submit the document books at any time, but I am about to get another three or four affidavits which I have not yet received, but I hope that I shall have them at the latest at the beginning of next week, and shall be able to submit them as well.

PRESIDENT: Very well. Dr. ruehl for the defendant Link, or I mean -

DR. LEHMANN: Dr. Link has informed me that his books are not ready yet.

PRESIDENT: Well, I think I was correct, saying "Dr. Ruehl for the defendant Link." Dr. Koessl for the defendant, Schubert -- well, he has already given us that. Dr. Belzer for the defendant, Graf.

DR. BELZER: Your Honor, I would like to make my statement from here. I have prepared one document book. I am waiting for a sign to start with the presentation.

PRESIDENT: You are waiting for what?

DR. BELZER: I am waiting for a sign to begin my presentation.

PRESIDENT: We will give you that sign this afternoon. Thank you very much. Well, I think school is out for the pupils here, with the exception of Dr. Aschenauer, Dr. Belzer, and two or three who are immediately ready. You may continue with your objection, Mr. Walton. We would suggest that those attorneys who have all their documentation ready to present might come next rather than those who are only partly ready.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, I take the liberty of expressing a general request.

The presentation of evidence is being delayed a little, and that is why I want to make the request that for the beginning of the final pleas a few additional days will be given us. Too many technical difficulties would arise of one considers the translation difficulties. Perhaps instead of Monday, Wednesday, or Thursday, the final pleas should be started.

PRESIDENT: It isn't quite clear just what you request, Dr. Aschenauer. We have now scheduled January 26 for the summations. Now, do you ask that that be modified?

DR. ASCHENAUER: Yes. I should like to ask to postpone this for a few days so that we have more time for preparation. It is just like this, that the presentation of documents will not be finished befor* Monday, and before the final pleas are made, all the pieces of evidence have to be considered. The final pleas can be handed in at the earliest on Friday or Saturday next week.

PRESIDENT: Dr. Aschenauer, one full week will be allowed for the preparation of the summations, regardless of when we terminate the actual taking of testimony and the receipt of document books.

DR. ASCHENAUER: For preparation, then let us assume that the presentation of documents is concluded Monday week, in that case.

PRESIDENT: You mean next Monday?

DR. ASCHENAUER: Next Monday. Let us assume that the presentation of documents is concluded by then, then we get eight days to prepare ourselves. That would mean Monday week. Then the final pleas could be translated at the earliest on Monday week. This suggestion for handing in the final pleas department on that date, but the translation department takes a few days as well.

PRESIDENT: Yes. Well, arrangements are being made for an acceleration of the translations of the final arguments. It will not be necessary to mimeograph these arguments so long as you have the German copy ready, enough translations will be made for the delivery, that is, to say, the reporters will have a copy, the interpreters will have a copy, and then as it is delivered the summations will go into the transcript and it won't be necessary to bring it out in a separate document, so that in a matter of a couple of days we will have a summation as it appears in the transcript.

DR. ASCHENAUER: In that case, may I therefore conclude that my final plea will not be handed into the translation department before Monday week.

PRESIDENT: Yes, well, your case is just a little bit different, Dr. Aschenauer, because you more or less have taken the burden of submitting the law which applies generally to those who fall in, let us say, the category of the defense advanced by your client, Ohlendorf, so that if you should want a little more time, we are certainly disposed to let you have it, but there is no reason why the next defense counsel shouldn't be ready to begin at the time we have indicated because he won't need to have so much time to prepare his argument.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, my colleague objected with the following argument which is of importance. They will coordinate their pleas to my final plea because I shall make general statements and they shall follow me.

PRESIDENT: But I can't believe that every attorney is going to wait until that very last moment to prepare his argument, and there is no reason why they can't be preparing their argument right now; however, you can be assured that everyone will be allowed ample time to prepare his summation. that is what we say now, and that is what we are going to insist upon, but if because of some circumstances over which you have no control it is necessary that you have a little more time, naturally, that will be granted. As it stands now, let us say that you will be ready to submit your written argument a week from next Monday for translation, so that you will be ready to deliver it, let us say, on Wednesday of that week.

DR. ASCHANAUER: Very well.

PRESIDENT: Let us tentatively agree upon that.

DR. HOFFMANN: Hoffmann for the defendant, Nosske. Your Honor, but this does not mean to say that the presentation of documents will have to be concluded by the defense by Monday. Surely it will be possible to present some documents, if necessary, on Monday, on Tuesday, or Wednesday, next week.

PRESIDENT: Yes. Very well.

DR.BELZER: I beg your pardon, Your Honor. The suggestion I wanted to make is similar to the one my colleague, Hoffmann just made. I am in difficulties with two witnesses, Zimmermann and Wohlgemut, which have been approved by the Tribunal. I have been trying for weeks to get affidavits from these two witnesses to avoid their having to come here. Mr. Pace intervened, but still we were not able to get these affidavits in the meantime. I just heard that the one witness, Dr. Wohlgemut, will arrive here on 14 January. I shall try to get an affidavit from this witness immediately and shall include it in document Number IV, and shall try to submit this document book still this week. Concerning the other witness, Zimmermann, it might be necessary that he should be visited at his present place of residence in order to obtain an affidavit from him.

It is possible that I might only be able to get this affidavit at the betinning of next week, and I shall only be able to submit it at that date.

PRESIDENT: Well, where there is a situation as you have already described, and the Tribunal has already approved the witness, certainly we will receive the affidavit at the first moment that you are physically able to obtain and process it.

DR.PELZER: Thank you, Your Honor.

PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. MAYER: I beg your pardon, Your Honor. Merely for the sake of clarity, I would like to ask that I might be allowed to summarize-that the final pleas, have to be handed in one week after the conclusion of the presentation of documents?

PRESIDENT: They should be ready by one week from next Monday.

DR. MAYER: I thought this was merely an example, Your Honor. It is possible that this might be delayed and that the presentation of documents might not be concluded by Monday.

PRESIDENT: Well, Yes, one week from the date we conclude the proceedings.

DR. STEIN: Your Honor.

PRESIDENT: Yes, Dr. Stein.

DR. STEIN: I have an inquiry to make. I intend to hand in a closing brief as well as my summation. I would like to ask whether this closing brief also has to be submitted within a certain period?

PRESIDENT: It would be highly desirable that that brief be in the hands of the Tribunal at least--not later than the day you make your final summation, but if for any reason you don't have it ready and would indicate to the Tribunal that you would submit it say two or three days later, we will receive it then.

DR. STEIN: Thank you.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, I beg your pardon for intervening, but in order to be clearer about the time, it would be better to fix a definite date concerning the questions we have discussed.

I just explained for my defendant, Six, and was praised by the president for doing this, that I had my documents translated myself at least in document book II in order to avoid delays, but in fact it is like this, that as long as I have not received back the document books completely, I cannot take the responsibility of not being present at the proceedings and already starting to work on my final plea, my final summation. The translation of the document when received from the translation department has to be reviewed by the conscientious defense counsel. It is a rather vague concept if we are told that one week after the conclusion of the presentation of documents the final summations have to be handed in. This last date of presentation of documents might be Wednesday, the 21st or a day earlier or a day later. Your Honor, you originally fixed the 26th of January as the time for the submission of the summations. Looking at the calendar, may I ask for myself in a more precise manner that the submission of our summations should be fixed for the second of February at the latest, that is, one week after the originally intended 26 January. It is easier to have a definite date, Your Honor. I don't know when my colleagues will have finished with their last document. If I knew it was the second of February, I wouldn't need to know, but if you said of course, to have everything prepared by the second of February, that would help me a great deal, and I think the entire work and cooperation would be made easier.

PRESIDENT: Do you have something, Mr. Ferencz?

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, the prosecution is prepared to proceed with the rebuttal case immediately as soon as the defense is through with the introduction of any documents or evidence. However, we cannot proceed with our rebuttal until the defense is through. therefore, it is important for us, too, that we set a definite date when the defense will have all their documents in or it will be too late. I would like to remind the Tribunal that the prosecution's case was finished in two days. Since then the defense has had three and a half months, when they had all the evidence before them, and the prosecution and the Tribunal have instructed the defense to have their documents ready and submit them to translation.

I suggest therefore that the Tribunal set some date close to the 26th for the date of the completion, and for the taking of any testimony for the defense.

PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will discuss this in chambers during the recess and will advise counsel precisely as to the chronology of the various things still remaining to be done until this trial is completed.

DR. ULMER: Thank you, Your Honor. May I finally make the formal application for myself to be given time until the second of February for the delivery of my summation?

PRESIDENT: Well, we can't at this moment, Dr. Ulmer, make any announcement with regard to any particular defendant, you better wait until we make the general announcement, and then if you have any specific reason for deviating from the schedule outlined, then if you will see the Tribunal, then we can see what can be done.

DR. ULMER: Yes, Your Honor. I merely wanted to specify what I wanted but not to make any new suggestions.

PRESIDENT: Yes, very well. Thank you very much. All right. Mr. Walton.

MR.WALTON: The next document in Document Book I submitted for the defendant, Ohlendorf, to which the prosecution objects is Document No. 19, which is an unsworn statement of Walter Solbeen, dated 22 August 1947, page 130 to 132. This statement gives information as to Ohlendorf's activities in the Reich Ministry of Economics after November 1943. It is immaterial to any charge brought against this defendant. Document Number 20, the unsworn statement of Dr. Elmer Michel, dated 20 September 1947, page 133 to 135. This treats of the defendant's fight against monopolistic practices, struggles with political and antagonists and it shows on its face that the author has no knowledge of the defendant's activities during 1940 to 1945, some of which time is in direct issue in this case. Document Number 21, being an unsworn statement of Dr. Josef Duetsch, dated 26 September 1947, pages 136 to 140, and it treats of the defendant's struggles prior to the outbreak of the war as an official in the Reich group for trade and commerce.

It is immaterial and irrelevant to the issues of the case.

MR. WALTON: Now objection is offered to Document No. 22, being the affidavit of Fritz Schulz, undated. Franz Maulhardt, dated 6 October, 1947, There is no objection offered to Document No. 24 being the unsworn statement of Karl Winter, dated 3 October 1947.

Prosecution does, however, wish to object to Document No. 25, which is the unsworn statement of Dr. Justus Beyer, undated, pages 149 to 153, which is again evidence submitted as to the domestic spheres of the activities of the SD. It is immaterial as to the activities of this organization in Russia.

It interposes an objection to Document No. 26, being the affidavit of Horst Webendoerfer, dated 21 October 1947.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, perhaps if you refer to the affidavit number, the document number, and the name of the declarant or affiant, as the case may be, we might expedite things a little bit.

MR. WALTON: Yes, although all of them are hot affidavits.

THE PRESIDENT: Or whatever it is.

MR.WALTON: The affidavit of Horst Webendoerfer is a memorandum as to the defendant's activity during his service with the National Group Trade and his struggles with Ley, Himmler, and so forth, and is immaterial.

Document 27, the affidavit of Dr. Hans Roessner. There are several affidavits from this affiant. This is undated and is found on pages 6 to 15 of this particular Document Book la. This document of the witness' testimony is unsigned and refers to the cultural life of the German people, and the interest further displayed by this defendant is immaterial to the issues and to his activities as head of the Einsatzgruppe. It is irrelevant as to whether or not he participated in war crimes and crimes against humanity as a member of the SD in the East.

Document 28, being the deposition of Dr. Hans Lammers, shows that on its face it is undated in the English text and that the certificate of the testifying witness is unsigned.

Page 5,025

The document is objectionable in that it is not shown that this witness is an expert on channels of communication is SS formations, nor is it shown whether this witness has knowledge of other than the official relationships between Ohlendorf and members of Hitler's personal staff. affidavit of Werner Lorenz. Erich von der Heyde. It is cumulative testimony and treats of the political ideology of the defendant. It is neither material nor relevant to the issues of the case as at this time the defendant was only nominally a member of the SD. Erich von der Heyde. This document showing the kindness and consideration shown by the defendant in the case of Jewish employees of the I.G. Farben is irrelevant to the murder of thousands of Russian Jews for security reasons. being Document 32.-from Himmler to Ohlendorf and is dated 31 October 1943. It is cumulative evidence of the uncontested fact that relations between these two parties were not cordial. Reprimands that are based on charges of alterations of SS uniforms are somewhat irrelevant to this case. pondence from the Mohammedan Committee. letter dated 6 February 1934, purportedly being from Ohlendorf. This, of course, is objected to on the grounds that it is a self-serving declaration and is immaterial to his activities in the Eastern Territories, which happened in '41, or to the illegal acts committed by the SS or SD subsequent to September 1939.

Page 5,026

Donner dated 8 October 1947, this document being a recital of the activities of Ohlendorf during the period 1934 to 1937, to which there is no contest and to the later period of 1944 after his return from Russia. It is not claimed by the prosecution that this defendant committed any illegal acts during these periods of time. Such testimonies as letters of recommendation, unsworn, and covering incidents outside the scope of the charges in the indictment are irrelevant. lizeny before the International Military Tribunal of the 3rd of January, 1946. ted to as the documents were offered. There is no point in going over that.

THE PRESIDENT: No, you needn't go over it.

MR. WALTON: I should like to take up now Document Book II-B, which is in the series of books.

Document No. 58 is an excerpt from Hjalmar Schacht, being Schacht Exhibit 48, and is a memorandum concerning the description of a four-year plan, dated 1936. The contents of this document have not been served on the prosecution, as was pointed out to the court yesterday and I don't believe the court has a copy of this particular document. I would like to reserve objection on that until I see what the contents of the document are.

The next document is Document No. 59, which is excerpts from Adolf Hitler's proclamation of 22 June 1941 as appear in the Voelkischer of 23 June 1941. This is hearsay evidence. It is an attempt to refute the historical fact that the invasion of Russia was an aggressive act on the part of Germany. Nothing in this document pertains to the issue involved in the case and the quotation of a newspaper account is certainly hearsay evidence too far removed from the source and for that reason the prosecution objects.

The two extracts from the works, "Speaking Frankly," which are Documents No. 60 and 61, the work, "Speaking Frankly," being published by James F. Burns is hearsay and conclusions of the author and immaterial to the issue in the case.

The next document book is Document Book 3. The prosecution interposes no objection to Document 44 and interposes no objection to Document 45. There is no objection to Document 46, nor does the prosecution object to Document 47 in Document Book 3. der of the Commanding General Plenipotentiary in Serbia, dated 26 October 1941. Now this order is immaterial to the issue for the lack of jurisdiction over Einsatzgruppe D. At the date of the order Einsatzgruppe D was not in Serbia and was not under the jurisdiction of a general commanding in Serbia. also of the Plenipotentiary Commanding General in Serbia dated 3 November 1941 for the same reasons as were entered in the record as to Document 48. to Document 52, but the prosecution does object to Document 53, the same being extracts from an interrogation of General Westhof on the grounds that it does not show the qualifications of the witness, his positon in the German armed forces, his opportunity for knowledge and what are the reasons upon which he bases the opinion given in this interrogation, also for the reason that the highest and best evidence in the matters about which he testifies are the regulations, decrees, and orders themselves.

Prosecution interposes no objection to Document No. 54, which is contained in Ohlendorf Document Book No. 4. The same is the entry in the service record book of Otto Ohlendorf. There is no objection.

the same being a supplementary affidavit of Dr. Hans Lammers. No. 56, that being the affidavit of Dr. Hans Ehlich, dated 25 November 1947. This is the organization and function of Amt. 3 of the RSHA as given in a deposition form by a former Chief of Section 3-B of that Amt. This document while possibly of value as background or historical material has no value to the charges of mass murder in Southwest Russia including the Crimea. Likewise it presents no defense to the charges that the SD was a criminal organization as this is a fact that has become raised adjudicata by the decision of the IMT. Doubtlessly the SD engaged in numerous legal activities during the years 1939 to 1945, but this Tribunal is engaged in the examination of the illegal and criminal activities which this organization and its titular head engaged in during the Russian Campaign. Therefore, the knowledge and or participation of this defendant in such actions are neither discussed hor denied by this witness and this document therefore becomes irrelevant to the issues of this case. same being the affidavit of Dr. Heinz Wanninger. To four-fifths of this affidavit the same objection can be raised as was offered to the affidavit by Dr. Ehlich appearing in the document book. However, since this affiant does treat the organization and inside of the Einsatzgruppe, the prosecution offers no objection to those parts which pertain to the issues of the case. missed either 63A or 64A, but certainly to the translation of Document No. 1880. There is nothing which shows the source of this document on the English copy. However, we do not object to it and I think from the language it will be of value ot the prosecution. tract from Document NO. 1881, was not served on the prosecution in English, but I waive that as I have had that translated to me, but this document refers to some plan or proposal concerning the treatment of volunteers from the East.

It is, the best I could get from it, a cover letter or a memorandum file and such a document is immaterial until the referred-to document is introduced which apparently was part of this same extract. Maybe it can't be found, I don't know, but as the document stands on its face, it is certainly immaterial to the issues in this case.

MR. WALTON: NOW, your Honor, a few words more and I am finished. As to the documents which were presented to the Tribunal in connection with the activities of the SD,it must be said again that all these documents are immaterial to this case. The question before the Tribunal is not whether the SD, the SS or the Gestapo were criminal organizations. The question is solely whether the Defendant Ohlendorf or any other defendant in this case having joined the SD voluntarily remained a member of this organization, or if he was drafted into this organization by the State, whether he took part in such criminal activities or not and that is the question.

The fact that the SD. the SS and the Gestapo were criminal organizations is definitely established by Control Council Law No. 10 and is not an issue before this Tribunal, the prosecution would be obliged to offer proof of the criminality of these organizations. In other words, the prosecution would be obliged to request this Tribunal to try a considerable part of the case of Goering and others, as it was before the International Military Tribunal, over again. have decided about membership in criminal organizations that the question of criminality of certain organizations to which the SD belongs was validly decided by the IMT and by Control Council Law No. 10 and was made binding for the decisions of these Tribunals. prosecution objected against the admission of a document which was presented by defense counsel for the Defendant Fendler by stating and I quote: "You can show that he, that is, Fendler, was either not a member of that organization or that being a member of the organization he was entirely ignorant of its criminal operations, but you cannot contest what is now adjudicata, that that organization has been declared a criminal organization." And later on the Tribunal stated further. and I quote again, "We will permit the document only for the purpose of enlightening the Tribunal on the knowledge of the Defendant Fendler that this organization was conducting criminal operations."

That is from the transcript of the Record page 4020.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess 15 minutes.

(A recess was taken) THE MARSHAL:

Page 5,032

The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. KOESSL: Dr. Koessel for the defendant Ott.

I ask that the defendant Ott be excused from tomorrow' session, that is, in the morning to prepare his defense, and in the afternoon for a visit of the dentist.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Ott will be excused from attendance in court tomorrow in accordance with the request of his counsel. testify as follows:

THE PRESIDENT: Defendant Fendler, there was apparently an error in the interpretation of a question, or rather, an answer made by you to a question, which in all fairness should be corrected in the transcript. On page 4073 of the transcript you were asked: "When you arrived in Pretsch, weren't you for a few days in command of Einsatzkommando IV-B?" To which you replied , "No". The reason that question was put to you is that, when your attorney first questioned you on the matter - - - D r. Fritz, do you have that page when he was first asked about reporting? Yes, this is it, on page 3992 of the transcript, we find this: "Finally Einsatzgruppen and Einsatzkommandos were set up. personally was sent to Sonderkommando IV-B as its commanding officer. The then Government Counsellor and Sturmbannfuehrer Hermann was then designated as leader of the Kommando." We had the film checked, and it is apparent that an error was made, because of perhaps your failure to pause between one part of your declaration and the other part. The correct interpretation should be, "I myself was assigned to Sonderkommando IV-B to the leader of which the then Government Counsellor and Sturmbannfuehrer Hermann was appointed." Is that correct?

A. Yes, your Honor, that is the way it should be.

Q. So that you were at no time the commanding officer even for the shortest period of Sonderkommando IV-B?

A. No, no.

Q. Then you will recall that a question arose as to whether you were familiar with the reasons for the execution of certain individuals. we were of the impression that you had stated, you didn't know why these executees were killed, and the reason we were of that impression is that you had said, according to the transcript, page 4017: "I only know that in Kremenchug shortly before the commando left for Poltava, an execution was carried out. What kind of persons they were, and how many they were. I can not say." Do you remember having said that?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, then after you were questioned about the soldiers who were discussing the execution, you indicated that these soldiers had not told you why the execution had been carried out, and that you had not stated that you didn't know why the victims were killed. So we call your attention to that statement in the transcript where you said: "what kind of persons they were and how many they were, I can not say." Do you recall having said that?

Q Then again on page 4071 the transcript shows "As I have already said on Saturday, I heard about it in Kremenchug that one execution took place but I don't know what people were concerned there." Do you recall that?

A Well, that's the way I might have said it but I don't remember the exact wording. your testimony caused the Tribunal to believe that you did not know why these people were killed and we questioned you at great length as to why they were killed when you were telling us that the members of the squad who had done the killing were talking about it. Then you said that you thought that we were asking you if these people had told you, if these other soldiers had told you, as to why they had done this killing but the general impression was that you did not know. Then after all this questioning you said, "Well, of course, I knew because it was very obvious why they were killed. It was in retaliation to some murders done. Now we call your attention to some points in the transcript where you said definitely you did not know why they were killed. clarify this, this whole mistake does not refer to the executions in Kremenchug but to those in Tarnopol.

Q Well, where were these 20 to 30 shot?

A That was in Tarnopol. Perhaps my attorney can give you the place in the English transcript. I think he had the page before.

Q Can you give it to us, Dr. Fritz? described as follows: I said that I had heard that 20 to 30 people had been shot in Tarnopol. Thereupon, Your Honor asked me whether I was told why these people were shot. I said thereupon, "No, I did not know, or pardon me, not that I didn't know but that I was not told."

That is what I said . Thereupon you asked me a few sentences later whether I knew why these people were shot. Then I said, "Yes, these people were shot as a reprisal measure because of the murder of German prisoners of war who were found in the Tarnopol prison". And I added that this was an assumption and a conclusion on my part, that of course this seemed to me a matter of course for me that this execution which was carried out in Tarnopol could only be connected with this incident of this murder of German prisoners of war.

Q On page 4014 you were talking about executions and you said, "I learned from hearsay that executions occurred." I remember at the moment -

In answer to a question you stated, "I learned from hearsay that executions occurred. I remember at the moment only one case that a figure was mentioned to me. It is possible that I knew at the time that I heared about it, that I had forgotten in the meantime. "Then you stated that 20 to 30 persons were mentioned. You had indicated that you did not remember and then immediately afterwards you said 20 to 30 were killed. Now, was it that you then suddenly recalled or worked out logically in your mind that 20 to 30 had been killed?

A well, I cannot explain, Your Honor, and I still haven't found the place in the transcript in order to read it in the German text in which connection I said the first - I knew from the first, and I think I said it in an interrogation already that I had heard that in Tarnopol 20 to 30 persons were shot by Special Kommando 4-B. tion?

Q Well, now I call your attention to page 4077. That's in the English. Can you find that in the German? You were asked, "How did you know 20 or 30 were killed? A. A lot was said about it in the Kommando at the time because the men were excited about the fact they had to carry out an execution."

Does it appear that way in the German?

DR. FRITZ: In the German record it is page 4152.

A Did I get you right, 4152? Yes, I found the place, Your Honor. BY THE PRESIDENT: it does in the English?

A In the German text it is not evident. In the German text there is only the objective,statement that something was said about executions in the Kommando, otherwise nothing. A statement as to whether these discussions took place before or afterwards cannot be gathered from this passage in the German text. And I would like to point out, Your Honor, that a few passages later - I hope I will be able to find it - I myself said in this connection that I learned of this execution afterwards. I would like to call the attention of my attorney to this - 4157 in the German. stand, to clear up these discrepancies and to find out if you did at one time say that you heard about the execution before and later stated you heard about it afterwards. If there is a mistake in the transcript we want to correct it. So, that's the reason we want to know what you said. On page 4077 please read it in the German. Read it slowly.

A I beg your pardon. "A lot was said at the time in the Kommando about this execution, because the men were very excited about the fact that they had to carry out an execution". It says here as far as the tense of the verb is concerned - "had had to carry out execution". This is the pluperfect - past. execution was carried out?

Q Did you hear about it before?

Q So that you only heard about it after?

Q Now I call your attention to page 4-68 in the English. Can you find that? Perhaps I had better tell you what it is first and then you can locate it.

"Q. Do you remember the execution? A I remember to have heard at the time that an execution would be carried out or was carried out."

Have you found it, Dr. Fritz? Not yet?

DR. FRITZ: Your Honor, in the German text on page 4143, the last line. BY THE PRESIDENT: Will you read that please, witness?

A One moment, please. "How many people were executed in that execution which you remember took place at that time?" Is that place, Your Honor?

Q Yes, yes. Then you have

AAnd this place refers to the execution in Kremenchug. In other words, it is a completely different incident.

Q How many were killed in the execution in Kremenchug?

A I cannot say; I don't know, Your Honor. it, but at that time I didn't hear it, in order to be precise about it. tion, as being familiar with the details, and you stated that twenty to thirty people were killed at that one execution, and isn't it? Weren't we talking about that execution? The first execution about which we spoke before was the execution of twenty to thirty people in Tarnopol. That was about the beginning of July. And now the last reference which Your Honor has made referred to an execution which took place between the 13th and 26th of September in Kremenchug, a completely different incident. Tarnopol?

the execution?

Q And they told you that they had conducted this execution?

A Yes, Your Honor;

Q This was in Tarnopol? about it in Tremblova, which was the next garrison.

Q Well, didn't you hear about it just when it happened?

Q How long after the execution did you learn about it?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we merely called you to the witness stand to have the record very clear upon these various point. Do you have any questions, Dr. Fritz?

DR. FRITZ: Your Honor, I have no questions to ask the defendant Fendler. In reference to the execution at Tarnopol, however, would like to draw the Court' attention to page 4082 of the English transcript. On the middle of the page the defendant Fendler answered a question by saying, "I heard about this execution in Tarnopol afterward, Your Honor," That is to say the defendant Fendler gave the same description then as he did now.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Well, we had called his attention to that one statement where it seemed rather clear he knew about it before, but now he tells us that that was a different execution. It wasn't so clear at the time that he was talking about another execution because he had maintained throughout the testifying that he only knew of one execution in any detail. he had heard of six others, six or seven others, but there was only one that he was familiar with and knew how many had been killed and why they had been killed, and the burden of the interrogation was directed entirely, at least so we thought,too this one execution of which hear had some detailed knowledge, but apparently he was thinking about another execution and that is what brought about the misunderstanding.

BY THE PRESIDENT: Tarnopol. How is it that you tell us only twenty to thirty were killed there? Your Honor. I cannot say anything about the others. I know that in Tarnopol people mostly of the Jewish race were killed by excesses of the Ukrainian population under the German Army, but I did not hear at that time how many people were killed. I only heard now from the situation report that this was supposed to have been 600.

Q You only heard there from twenty to thirty at the time? ted 600 Jews.

A I don't think so, your Honor. Isn't that an error? If I am orientated correctly it says in that passage that the Kommando liquidated 127 persons, and in the course of the excesses 600 people had been killed.

Q I will read it to you. "Einsatzkommando 4-B has finished its activity in Tarnopol. 127 Executions. Parallel to the, liquidation of 600 Jews in the course of the persecutions of Jews as induced by the Einsatzkommando." So that the responsibility would seem to rest on the Einsatzkommando, wouldn't it? prosecutor I already made a statement about this. he asked me what I had to say about this. I was only able to tell him that I am not informed about it, that I have no knowledge that the excesses in Tarnopol which led to the killing of 600 people were instigated by Kommando 4-B, that I heard about it only here through the situation report.

Q Just one more question. Did any of these members of the Einsatzkommando who participated in that execution tell you why they had killed twenty to thirty?

I will tell you why I am asking you that question. On page 4081 in the English transcript you give three different answers to that question, so we would like to have you tell us which of the three you stand upon, provided the transcript is correct. Will you please look for that, Dr. Fritz? The first question is, "And in all this excitement, and in all this talk, no one ever said 'We killed 20 to 30 people because of the murder.' Is that what you want us to believe?"

Do you find that?

DR. FRITZ: Yes. BY THE PRESIDENT: question with "I cannot say. In general maybe somebody did." Then later on the question was, "Well, you said everybody was talking about them. You did hear someone say that men were executed because of the murders which had occurred in the prison, is that right?" His answer now is "No". Then he was asked, "In all this discussion, in all this excitement, no one ever said why these 20 to 30 had been killed, is that right?" And the answer is, "I cannot remember", so that we have the three gradations; one that no one said that, very emphatically, the other maybesomeone said it, and then the witness doesn't remember whether anyone said that or not. Now, which one do you stand on?

A May I look this passage over, Your Honor? I just found it.

the impression that these are three different answers to one question, rather I have the impression that I understood the question of your Honor to mean whether anything was ever said about it at all, why these 20 to 30 people were executed, where no reference is made as to whether this was said to me. That is my first answer. he did not need to have given this explanation to me. learned of the execution, two days after the execution, these soldiers were talking about having participated in the execution, so I asked, 'and in all this talk no one ever said, We killed 20 to 30 people, "then you answered, "I cannot say in general, maybe somebody did". Now, in that answer, you say, "Well, perhaps someone did".

Then we ask you again, "Well, then, someone did tell you then why the executions took place. you replied, "he wouldn't have had to give this explanation to me". Then we put to you, "Well, you said everybody was talking about them, you did hear someone say that the men were executed because of the murders which had occurred in the prison, is that right". You now say, "No", that is, no one talked about why they had executed these individuals, Then comes another question, "In all this discussion, in all this excitement, no one ever said why these 20 to 30 had been killed, is that, right", then you say, "I cannot remember." Now, upon our reading of that, you give us three different answers, one that perhaps someone did explain why the executions had occurred, another, "No, no one made that explanation," then a third answer you give is that, "well, I don't remember". That is the way we read it. If we don't read it correctly, that is the reason we called you to the witness stand, to explain it. that from the transcript before me, it is evident that I answered your question, namely, "during all this excitement and all this discussion no one ever said, "We executed 20 to 30 people because of this murder, Do you want us to believe that, no one ever gave this explanation" that I did not understand this question of yours to refer to my person, but that I understood it to mean the way it can only be understood in this context.

you asked me whether I was of the opinion that not any one of those who spoke about the execution didn't also mention why these people were shot. That is quite general, not referring to my person. That is how I understood your question, your Honor, and that is how I answered it in general. I asked that you regard the word "general", consider the word "general" possibly in the sense that one didn't give an explanation generally. as to whether anybody explained why he committed the murder, that naturally I would be asking you if he mentioned it so that you heard it. You couldn't be responsible for what he said to somebody else. I think the tenor of the question is very clear, that is, with regard to whether you had heard anyone say why they performed the execution. Wouldn't you say that is the normal interpretation of that, and in all this excitement, and in all this talk no one ever said, that is, no one ever said -provided you heard it, but any how, you proceed with your explanation.

A That was the first version your Honor. Then you ask me, "but now you have said that everybody spoke about it; you just heard from hearsay that people were killed because of the murders that occurred the prison, is that right?" Then I said, "No, Your Honor."

Q Well, we have it here, "You did hear someone say that men were executed because of the murders, "is that the way it appears in the German, "You did hear someone say that men were executed because of the murders which had occurred in the prison, is that right?"

Q Then you answered that "No".

A "During this entire discussion and naturally this excitement, no one ever said why these 20 to 30 people were shot, is that right", thereupon I said, "I cannot remember". Again I considered this generally.

Q Well, you had said just immediately before that, "No one had said it", then you said -

A Pardon me, for interrupting, "to me", I mean. they be saying it except to you, that is, within you earshot -- within your hearing? that I would pass two people who were conversing and during this occasion I might have accidentally heard them talk about it without their directing their words to me. I never intended that you tell me if any of the participants had said to you, "Herr Fendler, we killed these people for that reason", we were only asking you if in all the discussion which wasn't with you, but just generally, they hadn't said why they killed these people. That is the whole tenor of the questioning. And on that question as to whether you heard why they had killed anybody, as we read it, you gave three different versions, one, they did not mention it; two, they may have mentioned it; three, you don't remember whether they mentioned it or not. That is the way we read it.

A Well, your Honor, I beg your pardon. At the moment I am not in a position, or I see no way in explaining this to you in any more detail, but I beg your pardon, if I say that according to me and according to the version I have, II see no contradiction in is possible. If one discusses it, it might be quibbling, but I would like to add that II think quibbling was not my purpose at the time nor is it now. If I had correctly understood the sense of your question, I would have certainly made an effort to give you the definitive answer, the clear answer which you expected.

was to perhaps indicate that our questioning of you at the time had a certain reason, and that it wasn't done nearly to harass you on the stand. The main subject of discussion was whether you knew why these individuals were killed and we got the impression all the time that you had said you did not know, and that is the reason we began to question you asto why you couldn't have learned in all the conversation as to why they were killed and then you said, "Well, I thought you were merely asked me whether I had heard from the whether they had told me," but that you did know why they were killed because it was very obvious. Now, the reason we got the impression that you had said that you did not know why they were killed, and that is what precipated the whole question, is because on page 4013 of the transcript in the early part of your examination, this is what you said, according to the English transcript, on page 4013, Dr. Fritz, of the English, "He, the commando chief, reserved the right for Einsatzkommando 4 B for all executions which might become necessary. During the assignment I heard that Sonderkommando 4 B did carry out executions, but I did not get any information how many persons were involved or what kind of persons they were". Now, if that transcript is correct, you will see, witness, that right at the outset of your examination you laid down the promise that you did not know how many persons were involved, what kind of persons they were, which naturally indicates that you didn't know why they were killed. So that impression remained in our mind throughout your examination, and then we began to question you as to why you did not know. Is that clear? this first remark in connection with what the commando chief announced about the power of command, about carrying out executions, that this generalization, if I may put it that way, was too farreaching.

In this connection, I just wanted to explain clarly that the responsibility for the ordering and carrying out of the executions rested alone with the commando chief, that on the basis of my own position and my activity, I got not knowledge, nor could I get any knowledge, as to who was executed and how many persons were executed. decisive in any way, but from this statement of yours that you did not know how many persons were involved or what kind of persons they were, speaking of those who were executed, it would be a contradiction then to say that it was obvious to you why certain people were killed, that you did know why certain people were killed because it was obvious. That would be more or less in contrast to this statement that you did not know how many were involved or what kind of persons they were. knowledge of these incidents, that I received no official knowledge of these executions. I did not want to give the impression, Your Honor, I beg your pardon, I did not want to give the impression that I had not perhaps heard about the fact that executions had taken place. officially and merely learning of it indirectly, or unofficially?

PRESIDENT: Well, I think that is where evidently the misunderstanding occurred. Dr. Belzer, we will give you that sign that you are so eagerly awaiting tomorrow morning at 9:30.

DR. ASCHENAUR: Your Honor.

PRESIDENT: Yes, Dr. Aschenaur.

DR. ASCHENAUR: May I reply to the statements of Mr. Walton and Mr. Ferencz tomorrow?

PRESIDENT: Dr. Aschenaur, do you think that is necessary? Your have indicated why you believe that these documents are relevant, they have indicated why they are irrelevant.

Now, if you reply to them showing that they are wrong, then they have the right to reply to you that you are wrong, then you will have the right to reply to that -sur-surrebuttal, and then next Christmas some time we will see Dr. Belzer coming up with a long beard saying, "Well, when are you going to listen to me".

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, as far as the technical matters which Mr. Walton has listed are concerned, I would like to say the following. The document, the originals are all correctly made out, and have the prescribed formula, and as required, they are certified by a notary public, or by an official, or by me, or by a mayor, or by an assistant of the defense, so that each regulation which is required has been fulfilled. Mr. Walton did not look at any single original and I cannot help any differences in the translation because the translation is only an auxiliary means of helping us.

PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Aschenauer, I don't think that the Tribunal is much disturbed about the form of those declarations, if you tell us now that the originals carry the necessary authentication, that is adequate. We take your word for it. The only question which we will need to pass upon and we will in due time, is the relevancy and materiality. The competency, I think that we can tell you right now, that is, competency in the sense of authenticity of those declarations, I think that we can admit now. Your statement is on the record, and that is adequate for us.

DR. ASCHENAUER: One further request. I ask that the defendant, Ohlendorf, be excused from the session all day tomorrow.

PRESIDENT: The defendant, Ohlendorf, will be excused from attendance in court all day tomorrow and will hear Dr. Belzer in the morning, but not for all day tomorrow.

(The court adjourned until 0930 hours, 15 January 1948.)

of America; against Otto Ohlendorf, et al;

A. Musmanno, presiding.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the courtroom will please find their seats.

Military Tribunal II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

DR. RATZ: Ratz for Radetzky.

Your Honor, I have a small request. I want to know whether I can start with the presentation of my documents after Dr. Belzer so that I can be prepared. Mr. Hochwald would be in agreement with my request.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the court please, inasmuch as the documents of Dr. Belzer and Dr. Ratz refer to the same subject and have also their main activity in Einsatzgruppe C, and both counsel will refer to the emergency decree of October 1938 and any decrees which led to the execution of this emergency decree, it would possibly be advisable to hear these two counsel one after the other.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Yes, then you will be next called.

DR. RATZ: Thank you.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Durchholz for Schulz. excused from this afternoon's session to prepare his defense.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Schulz will be excused from attendance in court this afternoon.

DR. STEUBINGER: Steubinger for Braune.

Your Honor, since it may be assumed that it won't be my turn today to present my documents because only Document Book I is ready and the other is still in the filing department, I ask that my client, Dr. Braune, be excused from the session all day today.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, let's keep this in mind, that we are going to move along with these document books as rapidly as possible. We will hear what are ready. There can be no lull, no moment that will not be actually used in court in connection with the presentation of documents, because as soon as the documents are presented then we will hear the rebuttal. So I would appreciate it if you would stand by to follow Dr. Ratz with whatever you have available, and that applies to all of the counsel. Just as soon as we reach a point where there is no counsel here with any documents ready then we are going to go ahead with the rebuttal, because there will be no delay. Counsel have been informed over and over again about these document books, and we cannot tolerate any hiatus, and gap in the schedule of the presentation of the documents and the evidence which still remains to be presented in this trial.

DR. STEUBINGER: Your Honor, I completely agree to submit Document Book I, but your Honor said yourself yesterday that those colleagues should come first who have their document books complete and before me there is my colleague Mayer who wants to submit three volumes, and Dr. Belzer and Dr. Ratz.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Well, of course if they are here, let's see who we have here this morning. There will be Dr. Ratz to follow Dr. Belzer and then there will be Dr. Mayer, and which of your defendants are you representing this morning with document books?

DR. MAYER: Your Honor, I can submit my document books for the defendant Steimle and immediately afterwards for Klingelhoefer.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Now who else in the courtroom is ready with document books?

(no response)

THE PRESIDENT: All right, now if you would want to be available sometime later on in the morning with this one document book, we will be glad to hear you. If not, we will go on without you, just as you wish in that respect.

DR. STEUBINGER: Then I shall withdraw my request for the time being.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, and then renew it whenever the opportunity suggests itself.

DR. STEUBINGER: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. All right, you may proceed, Dr. Belzer.

DR. BELZER: Belzer for Graf. document book for the defendant Mathias Graf. The Tribunal will recall that the defendant Graf stated on the witness stand that because of the emergency war draft to the SD he was torn out of his profession as an independent businessman, and thus suffered great disadvantages. In order to confirm this statement of the defendant Graf as a witness in his own case, I submit documents Graf No. 1, Graf No. 2, Graf No. 3 as Exhibits 1, 2 and 3. These are the affidavits by Matthias Neubaur, the partner of Mathias Graf, that is to say the business partner, and the affidavits of Theo Stellwag and Georg Beyerlein who negotiated with Herr Graf as representatives of larger firms.

As Exhib it No. 4 I submit the affidavit of the former SS major and personnel officer in the Office I, SD, in Augsburg, with the SD sector in Augsburg. May states that he was the one who in January, 1940 -

THE PRESIDENT: What is the name, please?

DR. BELZER: The name? May, M-a-y.

THE PRESIDENT: And the document number?

DR. BELZER: Document Graf No. 4, Exhibit No. 4.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Please always give the document number.

DR. BELZER: May states that in January 1940 he was the man who was the cause of putting Graf on a war emergency status, I also submit Graf Document No. 5 as Exhibit No. 5. That is an affidavit of Anton Graf. This man is the brother of the defendant, Mathias Graf, who was at the time director of the SD branch office in Kempton. After this emergency war draft of the defendant, Mathias Graf, he was assigned to his brother as an auxiliary war employee. It is confirmed in this affidavit that Mathias Graf was put on an emergency war status, Furthermore, the statement of the defendant Mathias Graf is confirmed, namely, that in 1936, because of personal differences, that is lack of interest in the service, he had to leave the SS and that merely through the war emergency draft of the defendant Mathias Graf to the SD there was a new contact with the SS. Mr. Anton Graf further confirms that his brother, the defendant Mathias Graf, in the years 1940, 1941, made repeated attempts to get away from the SD and that all these efforts were unsuccessful. Mr. Anton Graf also confirms that his brother, while in the eastern assignment, was always only a noncom and never an officer. He also explains that on direct questioning his brother never told him anything about having participated in executions in the Einsatzkommando 6.

Then I submit Graf Document Number 6 as Exhibit Number 6. This is the affidavit of Annemarie Huebel. In January 1940 she was employed in the Office in the SD Sector Augsburg, and she can remember that Matthias Graf was at that time put on an emergency drafting to the SD. Miss Huebel further confirms that Mr. Graf, only some time after he returned from Russia, was promoted to SS Second Lieutenant -- that is, an officers rank.

Then I submit Graf Document Number 7 as Exhibit Number 7. This is an affidavit by Frau Friedel Schmidt. Frau Schmidt was also drafted on an emergency basis to the SD and was employed as a clerk in the SD office in Kempten. She confirms that it was not until after Mr. Graf returned from the East that he was promoted to an SS officer. Frau Schmidt recalls that after he returned from the East, Herr Graf worked on the letter of rehabilitation which concerned his attitude during assignment in the East. Frau Schmidt also explains that, as far as a cooperation of the SD Kempten and the SD Gestapo is concerned nothing is known to her. from the Work Book -

MR. HOCHWAID: If the Tribunal please, I only want to interpose shortly. Dr. Belzer has several documents which he puts in in the form of carbon copies, as he could not obtain photostats. The Prosecution has no objections against Dr. Belzer's putting exhibits in in this form as Dr. Belzer has the originals with him and will kindly give the originals to the Prosecution for probing.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, if he will do that. The situation is tentative.

DR. BELZER: This Work Book shows that at the time the draft of the defendant Matthias Graf to the SD was connected with the contract -with a work contract, and Graf was employed from the 1st of March 1940 as a clerk there, according to an entry in the works records. Furthermore, as an MOS number, the number 25 is given, the letter small "b". These designation mean that he is a businessman.

As Exhibit Number 9, I submit Graf document Number 9. This is the correspondence which the defendant Graf carried on with the Army Service Command about being drafted into the army and his application to the SD to be released from the SD.

In the direct examination of the defendant Graf, I have discussed this correspondence with him. At the time the Prosecution objected against the submission of this document, but after looking into the originals the Prosecution kindly waives the objection it made at the time. In this correspondence we are concerned with a letter dated 25th of February 1941 from the Army Service Command in Kempten in which the defendant is asked to submit his birth certificate and that of his wife. In the next letter of the Army Draft Office in Kempten, of the 16th of April 1941, the defendant Graf is informed that he was to secure his release from his office immediatel The next letter is the copy of the reply to the application for release made by the defendant to his agency. Exhibit Number 10. This is the affidavit of Otto Heyer. Heyer was an SS Captain and when the Einsatzkommando C-6 was set up, he was assigned to that Kommando, and during the assignment in the East he was transferred to the 17th Army Headquarters.

THE PRESIDENT: You referred to this affiant as Heyer. It is Meyer according to our book.

DR. BELZER: It should be Heyer. The first letter is an "H".

THE PRESIDENT: H-E-Y-E-R.

DR. BELZER: H-E-Y-E-R, yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, the correction will be made.

DR. BELZER: In this affidavit Heyer confirms that, as the defendant Graf said as a witness in his own case, that around the 20th of July 1941, Graf was transferred to him and only the end of August or September 1941 he returned to Einsatzkommando C-6. Heyer further confirms that when the Kommando was set up Graf was an SS Unterscharfuehrer, and, apart from a few men of the Waffen SS, he had the lowest rank in the Kommando. Heyer further confirms that to his knowledge the defendant Graf was occupied exclusively with SD reports and never had anything to do with matters of police executiv measures.

As a matter of precaution, I point out that in this affidavit it is mentioned that another man named Graf belonged to this Kommando who was actually an officer and who was concerned with police activities. Number 11. This is the affidavit of Karl Hennicke, formerly SS Major. When the war broke out between Germany and Russia in June 1941, Hennicke was with Einsatzgruppe C as SD export. In his affidavit he first lists the routes of Einsatzgruppe C and of the Einsatzkommando C-6. He confirms that it was he who, when the march began to Aussie, instructed the SD exports about their jobs, and expressly told them that they were to concern themselves exclusively with SD reports. He confirms that an Unterscharfuehrer Grimminger was assigned to Einzatzkommando C-6 as an expert and that the defendant Graf was assigned to this man as an assistant. Hennicke further states that, to his knowledge, as far as the kommandos in the Einsatzgruppe or Einsatzkommando C-6 is concerned, these experts never had anything to do with executions.

Then I submit Graf document Number 12 as Exhibit Number 12. This is the affidavit of Friedrich Moeller. Formerly Secretary General for Criminal Affairs, Moeller was with the Einsatzkommando C-6 in that capacity. He confirms that the defendant Graf joined the Kommando as an SS Unterscharfuehrer or was assigned to the Kommando as an SD export, and he also can confirm that another man by the name of Graf, who was an SS ofiicer, also belonged to this Kommando.

Then I submit Graf Document Number 13 as Exhibit Number 13. This is the affidavit of Hans Doering. Hans Doering was inspector of road construction road construction activity in Stalino. To his Knowledge, Graf was sent to the Kommander Einsatzkommando C-6 in order to inform himself about the conditions of Stalino. He thinks that Graf was at that time an SS non-com but certainly no officer. of Joseph Rabitsch. This man waa a War Administrative Counsellor with the Kommando in Stalino and he got to know the defendant Graf. Graf was at that time Unterscharfuehrer in the SD. Mr. Rabitsch also states what he knows about the activity of the defendant Graf in Stalino.

He describes in detail what Graf was interested in. He mentions that Graf had no interests in any political spy activities and that he never told him about having in any way participated in any executions or the like.

I then submit Graf Document Number 17 as Exhibit Number 15. This is the affidavit of Max Schellhorn. During the war Schellhorn was active in the Army as Captain and from December 1941 till June 1942 he was in a transit camp for prisoners of war in Stalino. He already knew Herr Graf personally from the time before the war. In the Spring of 1942 both met accidentaly in Stalino. No official contacts existed. Schellhorn states that he never heard that Graf had had anything to do in a prisoner of war camp. He confirms that Graf was not an officer at the time but was a non-com.

The Graf Document 18 I submit as Exhibit 16. This is the affidavit of Anni Mayer. From the beginning of 1942 until about September of 1942 she was a Red Cross nurse in a hospital of the German Army in Stalino. When Graf was in Stalino she saw him repeatedly. She confirms that Graf was a non-com at the time. The some thing is true for Graf Document Number 19, which I offer as Exhibit Number 17. This is an affidavit of Therese Haas, who also was a Red Cross nurse in Stalinio, at the same time as Graf was in Stalino. She also confirms the rank of the defendant as a non-commissioned officer and she can also remember that at the time she met Graf in Stalino he was convalescent -- that is, he had just been released from the hospital. davit of Frau Maria Grimminger. This is the wife of the former SS Unterscharfuehrer Ulrich Grimminger, who was assigned to Einsatzkommando C-6 as an expert and, as the defendant Graf told us, who died in Lemberg during the evacuation. She knows the defendant Graf from that time already and she confirms that Graf was an Unterscharfuehrer just like her husband and that in the Winter '41 - '42 and later in May or June 1942 he was on furlough at home.

Then I submit Graf document Number 22 as Exhibit 20. This is an affidavit by Frau Ottilie Winkler. Frau Winkler is a sister of the de fendant.

As Defense Counsel, she gave me three APO cards, from the East of the defendants deceased wife, which I shall submit to the Tribunal in photostat. First of all, there is a card from the 27th of August 1941. Then a card from the 9th of November 1941. And one from the 25th of June 1942. All three cards were addressed to the Defendant Graf at Einsatzkommando C-6. They approximately comprise the period of time during which the defendant belonged to the Kommando. The first is addressed to SS Unterscharfuehrer, the second to SS Unterscharfuehrer, and the third to SS Scharfuehrer. This was in June '42. This shows without a doubt that Graf never belonged to the Kommando as an officer.

Then I submit Graf Document Number 23 as Exhibit Number 21. This is the affidavit of Reinhold Heinz. From February 1942 until October 1942 Heinz was with the Chief of the Security Police in Kiev as a personnel officer. In the Summer of 1942 he met the defendant Graf. He confirms that at that time the defendant Graf was assigned to the Office of the Security Police and SD in Stalino from Einsatzkommando C-6. He lists the rank of the defendant Graf as Unterscharfuehrer or Scharfuehrer but not higher. concern the activity of the defendant Graf after his return from the East-back home. As the first one, which is Graf Document 24, I offer as Exhibit 22, affidavit of Johann Zettler. Zettler was together with the defendant Graf in an SS unit in Kempten. He confirms that around the year 1936 Graf left the SS and later never did any more service with the SS. affidavit of Meinrad Prestel. Prestel states that, to his knowledge, he only has to thank the defendant Graf for not getting into a concentration camp and that he never heard that the defendant Graf ever denounced any political opponent or even persecuted them.

DR. BELZER: As Graf Document No. 24 I submit the affidavit of Josef Baur. This man, too, confirms that he only has to thank the defendant that he was spared great difficulties because of his criticism of the SS state. He confirms that Graf, even after his assignment in the East, made repeated attempts to get away from the SD. The rest of the contents of this affidavit is a description of the Defendant Graf and I shall not go into this in detail. I merely ask the Tribunal to take notice of it.

Graf Document No. 27, which I submit as Exhibit No. 25, is an affidavit by Fritz Karg, which was sent to me. This man says that the defendant saved him from being consigned to a concentration camp.

Graf Document No. 28, which I offer as Exhibit No. 26, is an affidavit of the former Government Councillor in Kempten, Sonntag. In this affidavit he describes in detail the activity and work of the defendant Graf in his capacity as provisional chief of the SD agency in Kempten.

Then I submit Document No. 29, which is Exhibit 27. This is an affidavit of the Government Councillor, Dr. Weber, in Kaufbeuren and it concerns itself with the activity of the defendant Graf as provisional Chief of the SD office in Kaufbeuren.

Finally, I submit Graf Document 30 as Exhibit 28. This is an excerpt from the SS personnel transfer record. This excerpt shows that the defendant Mathias Graf was only promoted to SS Untersturmfuehrer in the RSHA effective 20 April 1944, a year and a half after his return from his assignment in the East.

I offer Graf Exhibit 29 as Document No. 31. These are the legal regulations about the war emergency draft, first of all the war emergency regulation of the 15th of October, 1938, and as an appendix the announcement of the authorities which could ask for such emergency services after 8 July 1939.

As Graf Document No. 32, Exhibit No. 30, I submit the third executive decree of the War Emergency Decree of the 14th of October, 1939.

Graf Document No. 33, which is Exhibit 31, is a copy of the Gazette of the Chief of the Security Police and SD and concerns the subordinated relation of members of the Security Police and the SD to police and SS jurisdiction. The excerpt, which I submit, provides who belongs to the staff of the Chief of the German Police.

Graf Document No. 34 I offer as Exhibit No. 32. It concerns itself with the question of how to proceed when members of this staff refused to comply with the order to proceed to the occupied territories. This is also in an excerpt from the Gazette of the Chief of the Security Police and SD. I quote under 5 from this excerpt: "You will, therefore, take the necessary steps against members of the staffs who do not comply with such an assignment if the pre-suppositions mentioned before are fulfilled."

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ratz, are you ready to proceed? Are you ready now, Dr. Ratz, to proceed?

DR. RATZ: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, all right. Dr. Ratz, please try, in presenting the documents, to omit all unnecessary wordage. Get to the kernel of what you wish to present and move on to the next one. of, if the document books are ready and they are not here when their turn is reached, will always have an opportunity to present their document books, so long as the prosecution has copies of these document books and the prosecution offers no objection to any particular document. Those documents may be used in the final summations and in any other way that counsel so desire.

DR. RATZ (Attorney for the defendant von Radetzky): If the Tribunal please, my documents are contained in two books. I shall submit the documents in their proper order, but I can keep the order the way it is in the document books only part of the time.

From Document Book I, I offer Document No. 1 as Exhibit No. 1.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If Your Honors please, this document is a memorandum which was made out in May, 1946. It is neither an affidavit nor a captured document, nor a document which was made out previous to May, 1945. For this reason, I object against the document as inadmissible in its form. Moreover, its contents are immaterial.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, you have observed, of course, that the policy of the Tribunal has been throughout the trial to be liberal in the allowing of the presentation of both documents and evidence. Now, this particular document is in the nature of a reference work. It seems to be a historical treatise on that particular part of the world geography. I know that you can repose faith in the Tribunal that, if it has no probative value, then it won't disturb anyone. On the contrary, it may shed some light on this period of the world's history and help to evaluate the testimony which is superimposed upon that area of the earth's surface, so we will overrule your objection.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Of course, if the Tribunal wants to have the exhibit before it, htere are no objections from the prosecution.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, very well.

DR. RATZ: This is a memorandum about the Baltic refugees of Werner Hasselblatt and reports about the foreceful resettlement of the Baltic Germans in 1939 from their homes in the Baltic States into the province of Posen. The memorandum further reports about the history and nature of the Baltic Germans and about their attitude towards National Socialism. Finally, he reports and describes the misery into which these people were thrown when they were forced out of their homes.

On page 14 of my Document I is my Document No. 2. I submit it as Exhibit 2. It is the order of Himmler of 11 October 1939 to the effect that the population of Riga was to resettle to Gothenhafen and Posen. Radetzky was living in Riga.

On page 15 of the Document book is Document No. 3, the affidavit of Traugott Mense of 18 March 1944. I submit this affidavit as Exhibit No. 3. Mense reports about his activity as an expert in Office III of the Staff Office of the Reich Commissioner for the Strengthening of Germanism; that after the resettlement had been carried out and after the resettlers had been placed into camps of the Office for the Repatriation of Ethnic Germans they were taken over by the Commissioner of the Settlement for Germans and were finally settled; that the resettlers themselves had no opportunity to designate their choice of locality of where they wanted to be resettled. He also confirms that the resettlers were promised the acquisition of German citizenship without their request and that all male resettlers who had not yet been drafted were obliged to be active in the various organizations. He finally says that in general the male resettlers were drafted into the SS.

DR. RATZ: From my Document Book II, page 50, I submit Document 14 as Exhibit 4, the affidavit of Hans Jochen Kubitz of the 28th of November 1947. Kubitz was an expert for the minority rights of the German ethnic groups in the Baltic countries and in Poland with the Office for the Repatriation of Ethnic Germans.

He states under No. 2 that the German Ethnic Group in Latvia on the basis of international treaties regarding minority rights enjoyed a cultural autonomy. For that purpose there existed an autonomous organization, "The German National Community", in which Herr von Radetzky was already active prior to 1937.

Under No. 3, he states that because of the secret supplement to the German-Soviet Pact between the German Reich and Soviet Union, it was agreed upon that the states of Latvia and Estonia, as well as a part of Lithuania, were declared as coming into the Soviet sphere of interests. He continues that Hitler had ordered the resettlement of the Ethnic Germans from Latvia and Estonia. and Reich German was forced to submit to the resettlement, because, according to the treaties concluded, the Reich refused to promote any interest of these Germans and, furthermore, the advance of the Soviet troops was threatening.

Under No. 4, Kubitz reports that an office was organized in Posen to advise these Baltic German immigrants. This was the Baltic German Immigrants' Advisory Office, and this office, on the orders of the Office for the Repatriation of Ethnic Germans, Was taken over by the latter.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ratz, it isn't necessary to analyze minutely the documents. If you indicate to the Tribunal what this document refers to, what it will establish, you can make a statement without reading what is before us. Each document will be read by the Tribunal so it is unnecessary to take it up paragraph by paragraph and tell what is in each paragraph.

DR. RATZ: I shall then very briefly give the contents of No. 5 in which Kubitz reports about the incident owing to which Radetzky received an SS rank. He says that he didn't receive the SS rank because of special merit that he acquired in the SS or in the Party and that a refusal to accept this honor on the part of Radetzky was impossible. The last sentence seems to be especially important, that the honorary leader of the SS was not considered anything but a wearer of the uniform and not as a real SS officer even up to 1945. of the 14th of November, 1947. This is Document No. 15 and I offer it as Exhibit No. 5. He reports about his activity as a personnel officer in the Office for the Repatriation of Ethnic Germans and he reports about Himmler's order that Radetzky was to be taken into the SS as an honorary officer and explains the conception of honorary officer and wearer of the uniform.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, in the last document and in this document, having reference by the affiant as to the honorary leadership in the SS, it is the contention of the prosecution that these parts of the affidavits are immaterial. In the decision of the IMT, the honorary members of the SS are not excluded among those who are criminally liable, having been members of the criminal organization. Therefore, those affiants, or, to be correct, the affiants Kubitz and Radunski, when giving information on this point, certainly don't give material information to the Tribunal on those things. I don't object against the affidavits, Your Honor. I object only against those parts of the affidavits which deal with the question of what was the honorary member and what were his rights and duties.

THE PRESIDENT: The documents will be before the Tribunal and your objections will be recorded.

DR. RATZ: At the end of the affidavit, Radunski states that in July 1941, Radetzky made an application to be employed again by the Office for the Repatriation of Ethnic Germans.

18 Which is the affidavit of the 4th of September, 1947, Document No. 4, and I offer it as Exhibit No. 7. This affidavit shows that after the resettlement of the Baltics from Estonia and Latvia in the years 1940 and '41, despite an order of Himmler - this affidavit shows that after the second resettlement of the Baltics from Estonia and Latvia during 1940 and '41, Radetzky, despite and order of Himmler to resettle only politically reliable people in the Reich, Radetzky effected that all people be admitted for resettlement who felt endangered because of their political or professional activity, but, even if they did not come up to the orders issued by Himmler in reference to the provisions laid down concerning national origin and racial origin and owing to this activity by Radetzky a large number of people were saved from danger of their lives and of deportation.

THE PRESIDENT: Did you purposely omit No. 6, Exhibit No. 6. I thought you called this No. 7.

DR. RITZ: I beg your pardon, I must correct myself. The document just discussed was Exhibit No. 6. As Exhibit No. 7 I offer from Document Book II, page 62, the affidavit of Doering, of 2 December 1947. This is document Radetck No. 16. Doering was a staff officer of the Office of the Delegate of Reich Commissar for strengthening the Germanism in Posen, and he says that the Immigration Advisory Office was created by the Baltic Germans themselves to represent private interests. That Radetsky didn't have any official functions, and finally, under No. III he says that on the occasion of the inspection in Posen carried out by Himmler, Radetsky had been received into the SS by the latter in an Honorary capacity, and that this being taken into the SS happened without any doings on the part of Radetsky. I want to submit further documents about the activity of the defendant in the East.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, Dr. Ratz, we will now have a recess. Might I suggest where you have two or three documents referring to the same subject, that they can be grouped together and you can make a general omnibus remark, to the effect that this covers a certain feature, then it is not necessary to go into each document separately. The Tribunal will be in recess fifteen minutes.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is in recess fifteen minutes.

(recess)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: You may Proceed, Dr. Ratz.

DR. RATZ: I now submit documents concerning the activity of Radetsky in the East. From Document Book I page 20, I submit Document No. 5 as Exhibit No. 8.

MR. HOCHWALD: There is no objection to this document but I have one question, Your Honor. Dr. Belzer has offered this same document as his exhibit No. 29, the translation, which the Tribunal has in Document Book for the defendant Graf is a complete one, but the translation which Dr. Ratz has obtained is only a partial one, so I would suggest that if possible Dr. Ratz could refer to the exhibit which was handed in by Dr. Belzer, as the Prosecution intends to quote certain passages of this document which are not translation in the document book of Dr. Belzer.

DR. RATZ: Your Honor, I can not investigate in order to see whether Dr. Belzer really has everything that I have in this document. I also have a notification in this document, and also a decree -- an execution decree, therefore, this document which I have compiled for the defendant Radetsky, I would like to be permitted to offer.

MR. HOCHWALD: I am not objecting against those documents, but if DR. Ratz wants to have his version in it, it is understood, of course, that the whole documents are in evidence and not only the excerpts which he is giving that means the decree of 18 October 1936, and all other documents in full, not those parts which he has translated in his own document book.

THE PRESIDENT: Naturally, Mr. Hochwald, you would have the right to refer to the entire document -- the entire -

MR. HOCHWALD: The entire decree.

THE PRESIDENT: The entire decree.

MR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, of course.

DR. RATZ: From my Document Book II, page 65, I would like to submit document No. 17, as Exhibit No. 9. It is the affidavit of one Heinz Wanninger, 14 November 1947. It concerns Radetsky's emergency deferement and his assignment is liaison officer, and finally Wanninger said it is known to him that Radetsky tried to get a release in order to join the Wehrmacht, that such applications, however, were basically refused. From Document Book-I, I want to submit the affidavit of Schellenberg, on page 24 of the Document Book. Schellenberg's No. 6 I want to submit as Exhibit No. 10. It is Schellenberg's affidavit of 12 October 1947. Schellenberg was Office Chief in the Reich Security Main Office, and he testifies as to War Status of Ethnic Germans from the Baltic States.

Furthermore, he said that in 1944 Radetsky was released from his activity in the East, and that in this year Radetsky applied for release in order to join the Army. From Document Book I, I furthermore submit the document on page 34, which is an affidavit of one Walter Ostermann, 26 September 1947. This Document No. 8 is submitted as Exhibit No. 11 Ostermann from the very first day of the Russian assignment, July, 1942, was in SK-IV-A, and he states that Radetsky was transferred as liaison officer with the Army, and that Radetsky was never deputy of Commando-chief in this case Blobel. On page 36 of the same Document Book, there is the affidavit of August Haeffner of 10 October 1947, Document No. 9, and I want to submit it as Exhibit No. 12. He talks about Radetsky's assignments in the SK-IV-A, and, he says that Radetsky was never the deputy of the commandochief; that Radetsky came under the war emergency status.

DR. RATZ: (continued) On page 39 of the same docubook there is an affidavit by one Karl Hennicke of 2 October 1947. It is document # 10. I want to submit it as exhibit # 13. Hennicke was from the beginning of the Russian campaign, June 1941, in the staff of Einsatzgruppe C as chief of department III and he confirms the activity of Radetzky as departmental chief for SD matters in Sk4A. He further talks about the discussions they had in Schmiedeberg furing which it was said that these department chiefs were in no case employed in other fields than their own. Furthermore, that Radetzky was permanently employed with his intelligence activity, that he was liaison officer, and was never the deputy of Blobel. book II another affidavit of 28 November 1947, document # 20 which I would like to submit as exhibit # 14. Here Hennicke talks in even more detail about the SD reporting with the Special Kommando. Furthermore, he talks about the fact that Radetzky was employed as chief of department III and that according to his knowledge, Radetzky never took part in any executions and was liaison officer with the competent Army authorities. by one Fritz Luley of 7 October 1947, document #11, which I submit as Exhibit 15. Luley was counter-intelligence officer with the 6th Army and he herewith speaks about the activities of Radetzky as liaison officer of Sk4A and the Sixth Army. He deems it impossible that Radetzky during this time was the deputy of Blobel or was used for any other assignment within the special kommando. of one Heinrich Rochel of the 14 November 1947, document #18, which I introduce as exhibit 16. He reports about the activities of Radetzky as liaison officer and gives an explicit description and the characteristics of the defendant Radetzky.

of one Konrad von Schubert, document #19. I submit it as exhibit #17. Schubert was liaison officer for the Foreign Office and he also speaks of the activity of Radetzky as a liaison officer. He furthermore confirms that Radetzky was dissatisfied with the criticism that he received in the East from superior offices. of one Theodor Cristensen of 1 October 1947. It is document #13 and is exhibit #18. He reports about the fact that Radetzky from March until September 1943 was assigned as liaison officer in Tschernigow and that during that time he did not have to deal with any activities in special assignments of the Special Kommando. ment Book II, page 79, the affidavit of one Friedrich Seekel. It is document #21. I submit it as exhibit 19. Seekel was employed with the Higher SS and Police Leader in Russia during 1943 and 1944 and he reports that Radetzky was liaison officer with the Second Army at that time. the personality of Radetzky. They are all in Document Book II. The first is on page 82, the affidavit of the Baron Seigfried von Maydell. It is document 22 and I submit it as exhibit 20. He describes the activity of Radetzky and he says that he is one of those people who come under the Nurnberg law. Then there is an affidavit of Oskar Jaksch on page 85 of the same document book. It is document 23. I introduce it as 21. Jaksch knows Radetzky and has known him since childhood and he describes his personality and his support of his compatriots which endangered him considerably.

It is document #24. I introduce it as exhibit 22. The witness, a female witness, says that he was of considerable service to her and that he endangered his own personality considerably for that.

Then on page 91 is an affidavit of Proetzel. It is document 25, exhibit 23. The witness gives an explicit description of the personality of Radetzky and mentions his automatic and his nominal transfer to the SS. Leonid Guhbin. It is document #26. I submit it as exhibit 24. He tells about Radetzky protecting the female American citizen Erika Alper and how he saved her from interrogations, persecution and internment. of one Hedwig Freudendorff, 17 October 1947. It is document 31. I submit it as exhibit 25. The witness talks about the relationship between Radetzky and the Polish people and his support of the Polish citizens who were persecuted for racial reasons. Ivar Skurewitsch of the 18 November 1947. It is document 27, is on page 98, and is exhibit 26. Here he speaks about the order by Himmler according to which a gathering of several Baltic Germans in one military unit was prohibited as these people were considered unreliable. affidavit of one Theodor von Boetticher. It is document 28. I submit it as exhibit 27. The witness here had been a friend of Radetzky's in his own country and he describes Radetzky's personality.

testimonial of a German camp leader of the internment camp Regensburg. It is document 29 and I submit it as exhibit 28. DR. HOCHWALD: If your honors please, this document is not made out in the form of an affidavit. Nevertheless we waive our objection against the admissibility of the document .

DR. RATZ: On page 104 is the testimonial of an American camp commander of the civilian internment camp Regensburg of 15 September 1946. I submit it as exhibit 29. There are another three or four affidavits which I have not yet submitted but I do hope they will be available to me, and therefore to the Tribunal, at the right time.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I would like to draw the attention of the Tribunal again to exhibit #8 which is the emergency service decree of 15 October 1938.

THE PRESIDENT: Page?

DR. HOCHWALD: I am sorry - that is Document Book Radetzky #I on page 29. I have in the meantime seen the exhibit itself. The exhibit itself contains only excerpts from this decree. In order to make it clear I would like to rule the Tribunal that I can ask the Tribunal to take judicial notice --

THE PRESIDENT: You have given us the incorrect reference.

DR. HOCHWALD: Oh, no. It is exhibit 8 on page oh, I am sorry - it says 29 but the page is 20 to 23.

THE PRESIDENT: But as we indicated before naturally the Tribunal will be concerned about the entire decree even if only excerpts from the decree are submitted in this particular document book.

DR. HOCHWALD: But the Tribunal already ruled on that but I only want to point out that also the exhibit is incomplete, not only the excerpts before the Tribunal in the document book, but also the exhibit itself does not contain the complete decree. And, what I want the Tribunal to rule is that I should be permitted without submitting a new exhibit to quote from the same document parts which are ommitted in the exhibit.

THE PRESIDENT: Where is the complete decree?

DR. HOCHWALD: The complete decree, as far as I know, is in the Ge man Law Gazette, your Honor, it might be in Law Gazette of 1938. At the moment I am unable to tell the Tribunal the page. However, I shall be able to quote, or indicate the pages in the official Law Gazette. What I want to omit, to escape, is the fact that I would have to put in a new exhibit as such.

THE PRESIDENT: The fact that counsel for the defense has referred to this decree naturally brings the decree before the Tribunal for consideration and if he quotes from one section certainly the Prosecution has the right to quote from another section.

DR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome.

That completes your presentation?

DR. RATZ: I would like to reserve the right to submit either three or four more affidavits.

THE PRESIDENT: That right will be reserved to you and we will repeat that whatever documents are available after you have presented your document books in court may still be presented up to and including the time for presentation of final summations provided that copies are furnished the Prosecution so that they may in due time make any objections they deem in order.

Dr. Mayer we will now hear you.

DR. MAYER, defense counsel for the defendant Steimle: for the defendant Steimle. I am submitting three document books alto gether.

Document Book 1 countains a number of affidavits which were made out by persons who have known the defendant Steimle for a considerable time. Document Book II contains reports of events concerning the activities of Sonderkommando 7-A and concerning other conditions in the territory of assignment SK7A, expecially during the time Steimle was Sonderkommando chief. Without the slightest doubt it will be established through the documents that SK7A in the time from the middle of September 1941 until December 1941, was mainly occupied with partisan warfare and that shootings of Jews were never reported at any period. Document Book III contains one document and is just a supplement of Document Book I.

As document Steinle #1 I submit the affidavit of one Dr. Stirner of 19 October 1947. I would like to give this document exhibit #1. Dr. Stirner has known the defendant Steimle since the year 1928. In his affidavit he gives an explicit characteristic of the defendant as far as his character is concerned and also concerning the time Steimle was with the SD in Stuttgart.

As document Steimle #2 I submit the affidavit of Rudolf Griesinger, the Senior educational officer for teachers in training, Stuttgart, of 21 September 1947 which I shall give exhibit "2. It contains an explanation of the political views of the defendant Steimle and his attitude concerning thos who had different political ideas, especially antiFascist, and he tells how Steimle later supported Griesinger when he was endangered to lose his job as director of the Seminar for Teachers in Training for referendars in Stuttgart because of antiFascist remarks he had made.

As Steimle document 3 I submit the affidavit of Dr. Dill of 30 October 1947. I would like to submit this affidavit as exhibit #3. Dr. Dill was an official in the Ministry of the Interior in Stuttgart and during the activities of Steimle in the SD sector Stuttgart he had a certain professional contact. He confirms especially the factual way of reporting of Steimle as an SD man who did not hesitate to make strong and severe criticism of measures of the Hitler regime.

As Steimle document 4 I submit the affidavit of Dr. Gustav Scheel of 7 October 1947 which I shall give exhibit #4. Dr. Scheel was the leader of the Reich Students Association. He confirms that Steimle on his initiative joined an SD sector SW in 1936 and he also describes the kind of activities of Steimle. October 1947. Kommer from 1938 to 1940 was in the SD sector Stuttgart as typist of the defendant. She confirms especially that the defendant had protected officials and professors of the university in Tuebingen on repeated occasions when endangered by anti-fascist attitudes. She further confirms Steimle was an enemy of radical anti-semtism and did not take part in the anti-Jewish action of 1938. This I submit as exhibit 5. Dr. Scheel of 7 October 1947 and in it is confirmed that the defendant Steimle during the time from 9 to 10 November 1938 was on a trip through Belgium with Dr. Scheel. Wilhlem Deuschle, of 8 November 1947. Deuschle confirms therein that the defendant succeed in having the son of Dueschle freed from the concentration camp Welzheim. Dr. E. Reichel of 16 October 1947. Reichel confirms that with the support of the defendant Steimle the Jewish woman Frau Geheimrat Wach, nee Mendelssohn, was released from the concentration camp at Theresienstadt and was able to immigrate to Sweden. Heinz Nosek of 14 October 1947. Nosek was the subordinate of the defendant Steimle in Office 6 of the Reich Security Main Office and here confirms that with the support of the defendant Steimle the wife of the former chief of the public relations office of the French Ministry, Mrs.

Comert was released from the concentration camp Ravensbrueck and was able to return to her home. Walter Schellenberg of 4 October 1947. Schellenberg was chief of office 6 from July 1941 until the end of the War and from July 44 until the end of the war was Chief of Amt Mil in the RSHA and in both cases superior of the defendant Steimle. First he goes into details about work of the defendant Steimle in these two positions and points out especially the always factual criticism and energetic attitude of the defendant Steimle against the catastrophic policy of the Third Reich. Mrs. Helga Stahl of 3 October 1947. In this affidavit it is confirmed that the defendant Steimle was in Stuttgart on 20 December 1941 and that during the following months until the end of July 1942 he was employed in his former office in SD sector Stuttgart. From this it becomes evident that the defendant Steimler in agreement with his testimony which he gave was no longer with SK7A during the months of January and February 1942 as actually during this time he was in Stuttgart. Therefore, in advance I would like to point out that I have submitted a correction of this document which I hope has been taken note of by the Tribunal.

DR. MAYER (continued):

As document Steimle #12, - exhibit 12 - I submit the affidavit of Walter Roller of 11 November 1947. Roller was the driver of the defendant Steimle from 1936 until December 1941. Therefore, until that point at which Steimle left Sk7A Roller describes his activities under Steimle in Sk7A. Especially, he confirms that the name of the place Sadrudubs was not known to him as a place were Sk7A was and that such a name during all his stay in Russia until the end of January 1944 he never found out about such a place. Also he confirms that during the time in which he was in Sk4 together with Steimle he had never heard anything about shootings of Jewish women and children being carried out by Sk7A. He furthermore confirms that he has never driven Steimle to any of these executions during this time. Radl of 4 November 1947. Radl was liaison officer with the Army High Command 9 and a member of Sk4 under Steimle. Radl confirms that especially in the territory of Sk7A partisan activity was especially severe and energetic combat of partisans was an important task of Sk7A. Radl as liaison officer, in agreement of the Army High Command 9. worked out marching routes of SK based on assignment orders of the Army High Command. Therefore, he had good knowledge of the territory of activity of Sk7A. He also confirms that in this territory of assignment there was no place called Sadrudubs and no place called Balochina either.

The following document #14 I will not submit. of the Indo-Germanic and Slavonic seminar of the Tuebingen University of 13 November 1947. This expert opinion confirms that the name Sadrudubs in its first part does not exist as a Russian word and that the name does not mean anything and makes no sense. Furthermore it is confirmed that the end sylable - dubs - is only used in names of larger localities which are mentioned in general geographical maps.

COURT II CASE IX Johannes Papritz dated 12 October 1947. Dr. Papritz was recommended to me as expert and lecturer for Russian at Tuebingen University and knew Russian well. Dr. Papritz in his affidavit says: "That in all the documents which were available to him and which he mentions in these documents he could not find the place Sadrudubs. of Dr. Johannes Papritz of 11 November 1947. From this it becomes evident that approximately 5 kilometers to the south of the town Sadrudubs which was in the territory of Sk7B the locality Belowchina can be found. The Tribunal will remember that in the report of events #124 of 25 Oct. 1941 which the Prosecution submitted as document #3160 in Document Book II-B as exhibit 65, the following is mentioned. "When the village Belowchina was set up as ghetto for the Jews, some Jews resisted. Thereupon 272 Jews and Jewish women were shot." In connection with the document which I have just submitted it is obvious and evident that it can only be Jews of the town of Sarodub which I mentioned here which were to be brought into the ghettox in the village Belowchina. Sarodub and Belowchina are in the territory of activities of Sk7-A such places are not existant. reports of events which concern Steimle as chief of Sk7A and I would like to give a short explanation about these. These reports start with a report of 11 September 1941, which is #80. They are being submitted according to number and date until the report of 15 December 1941, #146. Through this the Tribunal will get a general perspective concerning all reports in this period concerning the activity of the defendant Steimle as chief of Sk7A. At the same time every doubt is to be eliminated that these reports of events were not complete when they were found and, therefore, this and other reports could not have been submitted by the Prosecution in which an incrimination of the defendant Steimle may be contained. In looking through these reports of events of events it was established that in a number of them it is only seen COURT II CASE IX that reports of Einsatzgruppe B have not been submitted.

In these cases, therefore, in order not to put in anything that is surperfluous I only put that one sentence in my document"reports of Einsatzgruppe B have not been submitted." of reports of events of this kind into one document. Further reports of events were also sumitted by the Prosecution. As far as in these reports special reports of events are contained which have not been taken into documents of the Prosecution as excerpts. I have only taken over into my excerpts this part only as far as seems essential in order to prevent that the same excerpts would be submitted by me as well as the Prosecution. In order to gain better persepective, however, I have marked the exhibit # of the Prosecution in these cases in order to show that reports of events with other excerpts have been submitted by the Prosecution although the content is somewhat different. The report of events 124 and 125 are not contained in my document book 2". These reports of events have been submitted by the Prosecution under exhibits #65 and #63 in Document Book II-B. As these two Prosecution documents contain everything that seems to me important for this trial I will not submit them myself. As far as I submit excerpts of reports of events I only do so in agreement with the testimony of the defendant Steimle when on the witness stand in order to confirm these statements. Those things that are not in connection with this testimony I have omitted here in order to not bother the Tribunal with unnecessary material.

As document Steimle #18, exhibit 17 I submit the certified excerpt from reports of events 80-84 Nov. 11 to 15 September 1941. It is confirmed here that reports of Einsatzgruppe B have not been received. of the 16 September 1941 as excerpt. From this very short excerpt it becomes evident that on 15 September 1941 the town Shurash which is to the southwest of Welish was attacked by 200 heavily armed partisans and during this attack a number of economic enterprises were also attacked on this occasion.

operation of Special Kommando 7a.

As Document Steimle 20, Exhibit No. 19 I submit excerpts from the reports of events, No. 86 to No. 89 of the 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th of September, 1941, from which again it becomes evident that no reports have been received from the Einsatzgruppe B.

As Document Steimle No. 21, Exhibit No. 20, I submit the confirmed excerpt from the report of events No. 90 of the 21st of September, 1941. From this it becomes evident that the Soviet Russians, before they evacuated these places, they evacuated the population and that on this occasion the Jews were specially aided and helped, and specially it is mentioned here that the Red Army, before they left plundered and destroyed everything of any economical value and it is emphasized that in Veliki Luki, which again is in the sphere of command of SK 7a, even the railroad tracks were taken away.

As Document Steimle No. 22 Exhibit No. 21, I submit here report of events No. 91 of 23rd September 1941. This report of events contains a report of Einsatzgruppe B. However, this report only deals with reports of an economical nature which enlighten the reader concerning the agricultural position, the food supply of the civilian population, and the labor situation among the population. A report concerning the executive activity of Einsatzgruppe B and therefore also Sk 7a is not contained therein. This report I would like to have regarded as an example of how normal SD reporting was carried out.

As the next document I offer Document Steimle No. 23, Exhibit No. 22. It is a report of events No. 92 of the 23rd September, 1941, which the prosecution has offered together with a number of other excerpts as Exhibit No. 64. From the excerpt of this report of events it becomes clearly evident how the public security was increasingly threatened, public security, was endangered by partisans in the occupied territory of the Einsatzgruppe B. In this it is confirmed that the parrisans have taken to calling meetings of the population, threatening individual civilians, and destroying food supply stores and therefore keep the population in a constant state of unrest.

It is also emphasized that partisan activity, especially in the extensive swamp and forest territories, is very active because in these territories they can hide very well and it is very difficult to combat them. Special Kommando 7a, that is in the territory of the town Demidov, there are large forests. Furthermore, this report confirms that the partisans were divided into units which were equipped in a military way but operated in civilian clothes and had been provided with artillery. The interrogation of a partisan who had been captured resulted in the information that partisan schools had been installed in which partisans were trained for their future activities. The problem of partisans is being dealt with in this report and it is called a very serious problem. Furtheremore, the Special Kommando 7a reports explicitly that in a number of localities extensive actions have been carried out against partisans. However, they did not succeed in arresting partisans as these had meanwhile fled. Furthermore, it is mentioned that Sk 7a carried out a cleansing action in the village Wjasjmeny during which twelve people had been arrested. Of these twelve people eight could be proved to be acting as partisans. Wehrmacht is mentioned but did not result in anything at all as the partisans succeeded in vanishing in the extensive woods.

As my next document I offer Document Steimle 24, Exhibit No. 23. It contains reports of events Nos. 93 to 96, of 24th September, 1941, up to the 27th of September, 1941. In these reports of events again no reports of the Einsatzgruppe B are contained.

As Document Steimle No. 25, Exhibit No. 24, I offer report of events No. 97 of 28 September 1941. This document contains a very enlightening report about the manner of working of the partisans.

It explains tactics with which they operated in the territory behind the German Army. It is specially emphasized that they always continuously threatened the rear lines of the German units. The document also shows through in this explicit report that the partisan activity constituted a considerable danger, and combating and fighting it was the main task of the Special Kommandos which had to be carried out immediately.

As Document Steimle No. 26, Exhibit No. 25, I submit excerpts from reports of events Nos. 98 up to 105 of the 29th of September up to 5th of October, 1941. Again no reports of Einsatzgruppe B are contained therein.

As Document Steimle No.27, Exhibit No. 26, I submit an excerpt from the report of events No.106 of the 7th of October, 1941. The excerpt contains a short statement concerning the marching route of Special Komnando 7a and it proves the fact that according to the assignment they had to advance together with the 9th Army and they were in immediate contact with the combat troops. Again the necessity is pointed out to carry out an operation together with units of the Wehrmacht against an extensive and very dangerous partisans.

As Document Steimle No. 28, Exhibit No. 27, I submit a report of events No. 107 of 8th of October, 1941. This report of events contains a report ox the Einsatzgruppe B which deals merely with general matters, for instance, matters of public administration and economy. Any executive measures are not mentioned therein. This document again proves how normal SD reporting was carried out.

As Document Steimle No. 29, Exhibit 28, I submit an excerpt from a report of events No. 108, of 9 October 1941. This report of events has been submitted by the prosecution in excerpts and it was given the Exhibit No. 60 in Document Book II-B. As the excerpts which the prosecution mentioned might give an inaccurate picture of the various points, I completed it. The document just submitted by me is situation report and shows the danger of the manner of fighting on the part of the partisans who used false passes, and they protended to be harmless agricultural workers, and fought with hidden arms, of the German Wehrmacht.

It is specially emphasized here that former members of the Red Army are found again and again among the partisans. It is also reported that partisans and Communists, as well as Jews, constantly attempted, through the distribution of Bolshevist leaflets, to try to freighten the civilian population and to spread propaganda through this medium. Special Kommando 7a reports that in the dense forests southeast of Demidov a large number of partisans had been discovered, for the fighting of which AOK, the Army High Command 9, had put two divisions at their disposal. In the progress of this action a number of people, namely 693, were arrested and interrogated. Of this about two-thirds were immediately released again as beyond suspicion. 72 civilians could be determined to be former members of the Red Army and were immediately taken over into a prisoners of war camp. Reports about Special Kommando 7a describe the special task, which a special group of the Army High Command carried out in a number of localities in the sector Welish, a number of operations against partisan groups, during the course of which altogether 27 partisans were arrested and after a proper investigation had to be shot.

THE PRESIDENT: Did you omit purposely Exhibit No. 27, the number?

DR. MAYER: This is Exhibit No. 26, Document No. 27. Document No. 28 is Exhibit No. 27: Document No. 29 is Exhibit No. 28; Document No. 30 is Exhibit No. 29.

THE PRESIDENT: Document No. 28 seems to not be in its regular place.

DR. MAYER: I shall try and find out from the English document book, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Why not try to straighten that our during the recess?

DR. MAYER: Yes, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:45.

(A recess was taken until 1345 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: Take your seats, please.

DR. MAYER: Mayer for Steimle. morning. The Document Number 27, Exhibit Number 26, is the Operation Report No. 106, dated 7th of October 1941. The next Operation Report, which is No. 107, has the Document Number 28 in my German text but in the English Document Book this report too got the Number 27 by mistake. Therefore, the Operation Report No, 107 dated 8th of October 41 must have the Document No. 28, and the Exhibit No. 27 in the English. I think that clarifies it.

May I then proceed please, your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: Please.

DR. MAYER: As the next document I offer Document Steimle No. 30 Exhibit No. 29. These are excerpts from the Operation Reports Numbers 109 and 121, dated the 10th of October and the 22nd of October 1941. They contain no reports from Einsatzgruppe B.

As Document Steimle No. 31, Exhibit No. 30, I submit excerpts from the Report No. 122, dated the 23rd of October 1941. This excerpt does contain a report from Einsatzgruppe B, which only concerns itself with church questions and economic questions which are of no interest here.

As Steimle Document No. 32, Exhibit No. 31, I submit an excerpt from the Operation Report 123 of the 24th of October 1914. Here it is established that the Partisan activities are a gain extraordinarily strong and that in the Velikie Luki along 19 reports about partisan activities have been received. The constant and serious threat of the rear lines, supply lines, of the fighting troops is always emphasized again. A study of the excerpt submitted shows very clearly the partisan danger in the area of Einsatzgruppe B and especially in the group of the Special Kommand 7A, as it is emphasized again that in the swamps and forest area south-east of Demidov, strong partisan groups are present.

Of interest is also the determination repeated here that the Jews are being evacuated to the east according to plan in an ever increasing degree by the Red Army. Therefore it is always reported again and again the places through which the evacuation took place were free of Jews because they were evacuated by the Bolshevists before the German troops marched in. Special Kommando 7A, among other things, reports the execution of 12 operations against partisans. The operations were carried out with the army participating and 41 partisans were liquidated in this. An attack by partisans on a transport of seriously wounded men in the area of the Velish-Ussviaty, in the area of Special Kommando 7A, induced a sub-kommando of Special Kommando 7A to safeguard the other transports of seriously wounded people and to comb the area for partisans. submitted by the Prosecution in its Document Book II-B, where they carry the Exhibit Nos. 65 and 63. I did not include these Operation Reports in my Document Book because I do not want to add anything to the excerpts from these reports which have already been submitted by the Prosecution.

As Document Steimle No. 33, Exhibit No. 32, I offer excerpts from the Operation Reports 126 and 132. These excerpts show merely that no reports from Einsatzgruppe B are available between the period between the 29th of October 1941 to the 12th of November 1941.

As Steimle Document No. 34, Exhibit No. 33, I submit an excerpt from the Operation Report No. 133 of the 14th of November 1941. Here again it is established that the Jewish population, together with the Communist Party members and skilled workers had fled, after they had been asked to flee by the continued Soviet propaganda. Special Kommando 7A reports that it is advancing and that the bad weather and the muddy roads render the advance and the use of the vehicles more difficult. The partisan activity, according to this report, became more and more a matter of sabotage acts. The discovery of a partisan organization of 39 members and 16 women, is especially interesting apart from the fact that usually youthful people were used for the performance of espionage services.

As Steimle Document No. 35, Exhibit No. 34, I submit certified excerpts from the Operation Reports 134 to 142, dated the 17th of November 1941 and 5th of December 1941. In this entire period, as is evident from the excerpts, no reports were made by Einsatzgruppe B.

As Steimle Document No. 36, Exhibit No. 35, I offer an excerpt from the Operation Report No. 143, dated 8th of December 1941, which shows only an unimportant report from Einsatzgruppe B.

As Steimle Document No. 37, Exhibit No. 36, I submit an excerpt from the Operation Report No, 144, dated 10th of December 1941, which likewise indicates an unimportant report from Einsatzgruppe B.

As Steimle Document No. 38, Exhibit 37, I submit an excerpt from the Operation Report No, 145, dated 12th of December 1941. Here, too, the content of the report of Einsatzgruppe B is evident only in an excerpt, inasfar as the Prosecution, in submitting its excerpts from the same document, which is in Document Book II-B, under Exhibit No. 86, did not bring this.

As Steimle Document No. 39, Exhibit No. 38, I submit an excerpt from the Operation Report No. 146, dated the 15th of December 1941. It contains parts of a report in which it is established that the flight of Jews towards the east continues before the advancing German troops. It also is specially reported here about the destruction battalions which the Soviets set up for the rear lines of communications of the German troops and which were made up of civilians. Their mission was the carrying out of large sabotage actions. a single document which is a supplement to Document Book I.

As Steimle Document No. 40, Exhibit No. 39, I offer a further affidavit by Karl Radl, dated 25 of November 1947. Radl says here that the 9th Army had made a proclamation in Russian and German in the area of Special Kommando 7A before the time when Steimle was leader of this kommando, according to which all former members of the Soviet Army had to report to the nearest German unit for registration.

A non-compliance with this order resulted in the fact that these former Red Army men were treated as franctikeurs and could be punished by the death. This order by the 9th Army was not directed against uniformed Russian units which operated behind the German lines. Your Honor --

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Mayer, as a matter of curiosity --- Just as a matter of curiosity, if an un-uniformed Soviet soldier registered, reported and said, "Yes, I am a Russian Soldier, but I am wearing civilian clothes," wouldn't he be subject to the death penalty just because of that fact?

DR. MAYER: I can't say offhand, Your Honor. It would depend on the circumstances and that it depends on what the alleged soldier would be charged with.

THE PRESIDENT: But that's a rule in war, that a member of the armed forces in operation, if caught in civilian clothing is treated as a spy and therefore subject to the death penalty forthwith. Just what do you intend to establish by this affidavit, Dr. Mayer?

DR. MAYER: This affidavit is offered to establish that Russian soldiers, who were captured as such were not shot. In one of the documents an expression is used which might give some doubt about this. That is why I submitted this document.

THE PRESIDENT: There is one sentence here which supports what you have said and which I had not seen before; "This ordinance is not directed against uniformed Russian units operating behind the German lines," but my original observation holds ture, that a Red Army soldier in civilian clothes would certainly be very foolish to present himself for registration, because it would mean inevitably his death.

DR. MAYER: Yes, Your Honor. I would also like to point out that some time ago, I sent a letter to the Secretary-General with the request of having a number of incorrect translations corrected which were found when the German transcript was compared with the English transcript. I do not know whether this request has already been given to the prosecution and what has been done about it. As a matter of precaution and as the result of the number of incorrect English translation, I would like to point out one thing that proved to be very important. This very point has given cause to the Tribunal to ask a few questions of the Defendant Steimle which probably would not have come up if the testimony of the Defendant Steimle as given in the German transcript would have been correctly interpreted into English.

MR. GLANCY: May it please the Tribunal, I personally am not aware of any application of this type. Perhaps the Doctor could inform me as to the date of this application.

THE PRESIDENT: Well the simpler way would be to find out if the Secretary General has received that request. Are you familiar with it, Mr. Knapp?

MR. KNAPP: No, I am not, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: The Secretary General is directed to look for this request filed on the part of Dr. Mayer.

DR. GLANCY: I find here, Sir, that the application to the Secretary General is dated as of the 8th of January. I am sure the Doctor is aware of the attitude of the prosecution, as far as helpfulness and cooperation is concerned. If there is anything at all we can do to aid him in this respect, we will gladly do so.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Mayer, will you please confer with Mr. Glancy after you have finished with your presentationa and see if you can agree on the modus operandi in correcting these errors and in deciding the corrections which can be made.

DR. MAYER: Yes, Your Honor. May I point out this one matter? Steimle about the concept of so-called suspected partisans, and the point of departure is that Steimle said on the witness stand that a part of these people suspected of being partisans had been people who in some form had provided a voluntary assistance. Actually, however, Steimle -- again quoting from the German transcript pected of being partisans had to be convicted of special assistance if they were to be called to account as people suspected of being partisans. Just this misunderstanding is based on the incorrect translation.

In the German wording of the transcript on page 2,001, dated 5th of November, 1947, it says in reference to this question, and I quote, "Furthermore in some few cases so-called partisan suspects were shot. By this one meant people about whom it could at least be proved that they voluntarily assisted the partisans." The wording in the prosecution's book is incorrectly translated, namely with the words, "Among them were people," instead of "Those who are understood to be people."

MR. GLANCY: There is one question I would like to ask, Sir, the source of Dr. Mayer's information, whether or not it is from the German transcript, the English transcript, or from the automatic tape. The automatic tape is, of course, the final authority and a comparison would have to be made between the transcript and that before we could make the correction.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Mayer, as I indicated before, if you will confer with Mr. Glancy on these various corrections, you can either arrive at an agreement or reference can be had to the sound take and then once it is determined that corrections are required, then we can instruct that errata sheets be prepared to be added to the transcript.

DR. MAYER: Yes, Your Honor, but may I point out that my source is the comparison between the German and English transcript.

THE PRESIDENT: But you see, Dr. Mayer, there is no way for the Tribunal at this moment to make any decision because we have no independent document to turn to. We can only look at the English Transcript. We don't know what is in the German. I don't read German; so that eventually we would have to go to the sound take, so if you will confer with Mr. Glancy and first see if you can reach an agreement upon corrections, then, if you cannot, then you can go to the sound take and then report to the Tribunal and any corrections which have to be made will be made.

DR. MAYER: Yes, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Did you give a number to the last document in the Steimle documents?

DR. MAYER: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: 29 or 30?

DR. MAYER: 39, Document No. 40, Exhibit No. 39.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, now, are you going to take up Klingelhoefer?

DR. MAYER: Yes, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. MAYER: (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT KLINGELHOEFER) Klingelhoefer. As Klingelhoefer Document No. 1, Exhibit No. 1, I offer the affidavit of Annelise Mertens, nee Buchholtz, dated 4th of November 1947. This confirms that the father of Frau Mertens, Mr. Adolf Buchholtz, was sentenced in 1937 and confined to 31/2 years imprisonment and after that to the concentration camp for religious reasons. The defendant Klingelhoefer on the request of the affiant used his influence for the liberation of Mr. Buchholtz and it is expressly confirmed that he succeeded in having Mr. Buchholtz released from the prison and thus saved him from the concentration camp.

As Klingelhoefer Document No. 2, Exhibit No. 2, I offer the affidavit of Horst Mahnke, dated 1 November 1947. Mahnke knows the defendant since July 1941, when he was on an official trip to Russia on the order of the German Institute for International Studies, in order to do research work for this institute. In this capacity, he marched together with the Advance Kommando Moscow, since his missions were in the same field as those of the Advance Kommando Moscow. Therefore, Mahnke knows the conditions in the Advance Kommando from his own knowledge. He confirms that Nebe, the Chief of Einsatzbruppe B, tried to bring the Advance Kommando Moscow under his leadership.

He confirms that the Defendant Klingelhoefer, because of his knowledge of the Russian language and his knowledge of Moscow was transferred to the Advance Kommando Moscow when this kommando was set up. He further confirms that the activity of Klingelhoefer in the Advance Kommando Moscow was that of an interpreter and that it was his job to make SD reports in the various domestic fields. Furthermore, Mahnke says in the affidavit that Klingelhoefer was appointed the liaison officer of Nebe to the Advance Kommando Moscow, but expressly only in case Nebe was away. Mahnke considered this appointment of Klingelhoefer as a mere formality. He confirms that in this brief period of time Nebe was never absent and therefore the appointment of Klingelhoefer remained, practically speaking, without any significance. Furthermore the affidavit shows that about the middle of September 1941 Klingelhoefer was transferred to the Group Staff of Einsatzgruppe B as an SD expert and that he took over a newly set up kommando at the end of October, namely, the Advance Kommando Group Staff, which went to Gshatsk.

As Klingelhoefer Document No. 3, Exhibit No. 3, I submit the affidavit of the Defendant Klingelhoefer, dated 17 September 1947. The Tribunal will recall that the Defendant Klingelhoefer already during his direct examination on the witness stand has frequently referred to this affidavit and that he emphasized that he made this affidavit and that he emphasized that he made this affidavit out before the interrogator, Wartenberg at his own request, and that this affidavit also bears the signature of Mr. Wartenberg. In the affidavit, the defendant corrects all those mistakes which were in his first affidavit, dated 1st and 2d of July, 1947, likewise given to Herr Wartenberg. He revokes in this document, which I am submitting, his affidavit of the 1st and 2d of July, 1947, Prosecution Exhibit No. 124 in Document Book III-B of the prosecution and he describes the facts the way that corresponds to his memory after he was able to calm himself. As the contents of this affidavit have already been discussed in their essential points, during the examination of the defendant on the witness stand, I need not go into it further here.

Klingelhoefer Document No. 4 shows the sketches made by the Defendant Klingelhoefer, together with 4a, 4b, and 4c, which I handed to the Tribunal at the time the Defendant Klingelhoefer was examined on the witness stand in order to illustrate his testimony. I do not want to submit those sketches as evidence.

As Klingelhoefer Document No. 5, Exhibit Mo. 4, I submit the affidavit of Ernst Schwandt dated the 1st of December, 1947. Ernst Schwandt was active in the SD Sector Kassel and he was around the Defendant Klingelhoefer during the activities of the latter. Therefore, he describes the position of Klingelhoefer in the SD sector, namely the Cultural Department and he confirms that the Defendant Klingelhoefer was ordered to the Russian assignment at the end of May, 1941, on the basis of an order issued by the RSHA. He adds a brief message to this, for the Defendant Klingelhoefer in reference to his human qualities. Klingelhoefer and I may just add that in the case of Klingelhoefer too, Court II CASE IX I shall ask for a correction of the transcript, via the Secretary General.

day tomorrow so that his defense may be prepared.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Steimle will be excused from attendance all day tomorrow so that his defense may be prepared.

MR. MAYER: That is the end of the presentation, of my documents.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, the discussion which is taking place here is just to determine in what order the defense counsel will present their document books so that we can know who is coming next.

THE PRESIDENT: Well Mr. Ferencz, we made this announcement: Whoever is ready will proceed and at the first moment that no one is ready you proceed with the rebuttal, and continue to the end of the Rebuttal. Then whatever document books have not yet been presented up to that time may be submitted to the Tribunal, copies, of course, going to the prosecution and it will not be necessary to present them in open court. Those documents will be accepted prima faciedly, unless the prosecution wants to object to any particular one, and then we will decide that question.

MR. FERENCZ: I understand that, Your Honor. It is just who is proceeding now, defense counsel for Schubert and then Ott, and that will be followed by DR. KOESSL: I was told that Dr. Gawlik wants to be next for Neumann, one volume only, and after that I think that Dr. Stuebinger want to speak for the defendant Dr. Braune. I think that this fills up the afternoon.

MR. FERENCZ: The reason we are asking, Your Honor, is that we do have objections to some of these things and we would like to be ready to interpose our objections at the time the document is offered in this present series.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. FERENCZ: Now, we have several of them. We have Schubert, Ott, Naumann, and Braune, to finish today's hearings and do the defense counsel know who is going to begin tomorrow and who will continue and in what order?

THE PRESIDENT: Well I am afraid we don't have that, Mr. Ferencz. It would be desirable if we did have it, but it isn't here and the only thing I can say is that you would have someone of your office here who would immediately inform the particular prosecution counsel who would be covering that defend to come immediately to the courtroom; or, if you could have someone from your office inquire of defense counsel who would be ready the first thing in the morning.

MR. FERENCZ: Yes, sir, I will.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, you may proceed.

DR. KOESSL (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT OTT): By coincidence, Your Honor, I have a photograph of a so-called Yule Candlestick. This was so often talked about that I think the Tribunal might want to see it.

THE PRESIDENT: I am very much interested to see just what one of those thing looks like. I have heard so much about them This is the candle stick here?

Does one carry that around his neck all the time? No?

And what does one have to do in order to get that ornament?

DR. KOESSL: He had to be in the SS for a certain period of time. Then it was given to him.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

DR. KOESSL: I shall start with Document Book I of the Defendant Ott. This consists of only one document and this document contains several operational reports, dated 22nd of December, 1941, until April, 1942. In the Operation Report No 149, dated 22d of December, 1941, there are figures of executions of Jews. This operation report is also contained in Book III-B of the Prosecution Exhibit 114. I may point out that from the 22d of December 1941 until the 16th of February, 1942, no reports of Einsatzgruppe B are existing. In the following operation reports frequently reports from Einsatzgruppe B are entirely missing.

In some instances events are discussed which doubtlessly lead to executions, but no reports contain figures about these executions until Report No 194, dated 21st of April 1942 which is Prosecution Exhibit 66 and has been submitted in Book II-B. By submitting this Document No. 1, I want to prove that there is a great measure of probability that in the Report No 194 the figures of the preceding months are also included, even thought the report names only the period 6th to 30th of March, 1942. I may point out that on page 45 of the present document book, the report No 184, dated 23d of March, 1942 is contained. To this report there is evidently a wrong page attached. The document itself shows that there are no reports from Einsatzgruppe B. On the last page, 11, executions of Jews and Jewesses in Orel are mentioned. Orel was in the area of Einsatzgruppe B. As after page 6, only incidents in the area of Einsatzgruppe D are mentioned, page 11 must have been attached to this erroneously from another document.

In Prosecution Exhibit No. 54 in Document Book II-A the same report No. 184 is also contained. There the wrong side of No. 11 is not attached. This, too, speaks for the fact that evidently to the documents which I have here, a wrong page has been attached. I offer this Document No. 1 as Exhibit No. 1 for the defendant Ott. 2. This is an affidavit of a certain Pierre Adam, who was an acting Mayor of this place, that is, in the same place where Ott spent some time during the war in France. This French Mayor volunteered to testify for Ott. As the affidavit here on his opinion covers a period of about three to four years. I consider the recommendation of this man as especially valuable in judging the personality of the defendant Ott. I offer this document as Exhibit No. 2.

Document No. 3 is an affidavit by Dr. Ehlich in which the frank manner of making reports by the defendant Ott is testified to, and also the fact that Ott was not at all in agreement with the policy of Gauleiter Burckel in Lorraine, and, that, therefore, Ott had serious disputes with this Gauleiter. I offer this document as Exhibit No. 3.

Document No. 4 is a Situation and Activity Report covering a period from 1 March to 31 March 1942. This Document No. 2 supports the contention of the defense, that in the Prosecution Exhibit No. 66the mentioned figures do not merely refer to the period of 6 March to 30 March 1942; the report also shows the extent of the Partisan danger. I offer this document as Exhibit No. 4.

Document No. 5 includes several reports from the occupied Eastern territories. On 24 July 1942 there is a correction, which is added, according to which the Special-Commando VII-B is commanded by a Dr. Auinger. From this period on Ott is no longer mentioned as the commanding officer of Special-Kommando VII-B at all. Furthermore, the successor of Ott, a Lt. Col. Rabe, is named already on 8 Jan. 1943 as commanding officer of the Commando VII-B , even though Ott did command the commando until the end of January.

This document is another proof as to the reliability, especially about the statement of details. I offer this document as Exhibit No. 5.

Document No. 6 is an affidavit by mybassistant, Meyer. I used this form of evidence in order not to have 1340 pages translated. The affidavit gives the contents of the report from the occupied Eastern territories during that time in which Ott commanded the Commando 9-B, and all other details can be seen in the affidavit. I offer this affidavit as Exhibit No. 6.

As Exhibit No. 7, I offer the graphic chart about the collaboration of the Army Agencies with Special-Commando VII-B. This chart was already discussed in the direct examination of the defendant Ott.

As Exhibit No. 8 I offer Document No. 8. This is a graphic chart of the channels of command which was also discussed during the direct examination of the defendant Ott.

As Exhibit No. 9, I offer the graphic chart about the army area, and a bout the area of Special-Commando VII-B, This chart, too was subject of a discussion during Ott's direct examination. This concludes the presentation of my documents for the defendant Ott. I'll have to submit one other document, a small one, which is still being translated. As Exhibit No. 1, I offer Document No. 1, an affidavit of a man named Heinz, telling about the activity of Schubert in Department IA-4 of the RSHA. According to this affidavit Schubert was only in the auxiliary employed as an assistant, and from the summer of 1940 he was an export in the employment office of the SD. What was an e expert , can be seen from the affidavit of one Wanninger, which is in Document No. 6 in Document Book II of Schubert's. At least he had no authority of decision, and no power of signing. Heinz testified that Schubert reported to the Army after the death of his wife, even though this was prohibited. This application was refused and he was assigned to Einsatzgruppe D without having reported for this.

I offer this as Document No. 1.

Document No. 2 is an affidavit of Kononoff. This man states that Schubert did his best in Augsburg to make it easier for the foreign workers. His willingness to help these Eastern workers, and his sense of justice are especially emphasized. I offer this document as Exhibit No. 2.

Document No. 3 has various things to say about Schubert's activity in the RSHA. This confirms what is stated, that as adjutant of Chief of Office III, Schubert was a member of Office I. I offer this document as Exhibit No. 3.

Document No. 4 is an affidavit being that of a Frauelein Lacker. This lady describes the activity of Schubert in Augsburg. Here she confirms his willingness to help and his sense of justice, which he practiced towards the Eastern workers and the sick people, and which he showed even when it was objected to by the members of the Party. I offer this document as Exhibit No. 4.

Then I come to Schubert's Document Book II. Document No. 5 is describing Schubert's activity within Office III of the RSHA. The affidavit shows clearly that Schubert was still in the stages of acquainting himself with the work of the SD. I offer this document as Exhibit No. 5.

Document No, 6 is an affidavit by Wanninger. It shows that an expert in the RSHA was a very small man, namely it was the lowest position after the clerks and the assistants. That is to say, it was a position for beginners. As an expert Schubert was under the supervision of an assistant research analyst, that is, two stages under the top research analyst. It seems to me important to emphasize this, because the word "expert " is translated with "referent" in Schubert's Document No. 1, whereas, the word "Assistant Research Analyst" is translated with "assistant referent", but the "assistant referent" was a superior to a research analyst. I think it would be best to go into the position of the expert within this graphic chart.

The experts are those people who are listed here in the third place from the bottom with three little houses. Above these experts were these auxiliary research analysts. Then came the research analysts, then the groups, then the offices, and then the main office; under the experts we only see the clerks and the assistants. As far as the translation is concerned, the meaning of this word "expert" becomes best evident.by looking at the chart here, and shows how such a position is to be interpreted. I offer this document No. 6 as Exhibit No. 6.

Document No. 7 is an excerpt from Schubert's military pass. This shows that in the Army during Schubert's two years of military training he was employed as a clerk for one whole year; his qualification as a clerk is expressly mentioned in his discharge paper when he was released. This document also shows that between 1936 and 1938 Schubert served in the 1st company of Armored Signal Battalion No, 39, and not in the SS School, as the Prosecutor assumed during the cross examination. I offer this document as Schubert's Exhibit No. 7. This concludes the submission of those documents translated and I ask that they be admitted.

THE PRESIDENT: Will you have anything else, to submit, Dr. Koessl?

DR. KOESSL: One document for the defendant Ott that is still being translated, a very short one, otherwise, I have no more.

THE PRESIDENT: I want to thank you particularly for at last satisfying my curiosity as to the Yule Candle Stick. Do you have something, Mr. Walton?

MR. WALTON: I'll promise the Tribunal faithfully I will put in my objections within a minute and a half time.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, very well.

MR. WALTON: The Prosecution objects to the translation of the letter of one Rosa Morale, attached to Document No. 2, of being not material, and only serves to substantiate an affiant Kononoff's statement about the incident of a beating administered to a Russian female worker in the Martin Schmittner's plant, in the occurrence of which Schubert was not involved.

of the affidavit the affiant has no knowledge of the defendant's assignment in Russia, and gives a partial account of his assignment in Germany, irrelevant and immaterial to the issued in the case.

THE PRESIDENT: You win. The Tribunal will be in recess fifteen minutes.

The MARSHAL: The Tribunal will be in recess fifteen minutes.

(Recess)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. KOESSL: Dr. Koessl for the defendants Ott and Schubert. mention that Schubert naturally has been charged with being a member of an organization declared to be criminal. This is evidenced by the affidavit Shark and Kononoff. With this one could object to the the objection of the prosecution. The supplement of the affidavit Konoff is covered by the affidavit itself, but it is not so essential or so important that I insist on this supplement being admitted. I would waive, in fact, the submission of the supplement.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. KOESSL: I don't know whether your Honor and the judges will accept the documents which are offered.

THE PRESIDENT: We are making it a rule now not to decide this question, but we will decide it at the end. But we had indicated a number of times that the policy of the Tribunal is to be rather liberal in the acceptance of documents, and while, of course, we will weigh the objections made by the prosecution, should there be any doubt certainly we will resolve it always in favor of receiving the documents.

DR. KOESSL: Yes. Then concerning documents which I would now like to submit to the prosecution, herewith I am doing so. Correction, to the Secretary General.

MR. WALTON: Can the prosecution take the last statement from the Tribunal that they will accept all -

THE PRESIDENT: No we have said that there is a doubt, where it could be resolved either way, we will always resolve the doubt in favor of the defendant, and that is true in accordance with AngleAmerican procedure. Where, of course, you establish beyond the pre_ adventure of a doubt that your objection is in order naturally the document will then not he received.

MR. WALTON: I understood it that the Tribunal said that where there is any doubt about the admission of a document -

THE PRESIDENT: No, we meant in weighing the arguments on either side as to whether a document should be received where the prosecution very obviously prevails the document will not be received, but if both sides are evenly balanced as to whether a document should or should not be received, then the prosecution has failed to meet the burden and in that event the document would be received?

MR. WALTON: I see. Yes.

DR. GAWLIK: Gawlik for the defendants Naumann and Seibert. documents for Naumann and Seibert. However, I have just found out that there is only one document book, which is Document Book I, for Naumann, which has been translated, and I would, therefore, like to draw the attention of the Tribunal to the fact that this document book, the documents for Naumann, I submitted to the translation section for translation at the same time as the Seibert book. I could not say exactly now, but I believe it must have been around about the 18th of December. That is almost four weeks now. I shall reserve the right to name the exact date. I do not know whether I am informed correctly that after the beginning of the rebuttal the documents may not be submitted any longer.

THE PRESIDENT: You are incorrectly informed. Documents may be submitted, may be submitted up to and including the time of the summations, but what we do say is that if they are not ready until after the rebuttal begins, then it will be not necessary to present them in open court so long as copies are submitted to the prosecution. Then if the prosecution does not object the documents will be accepted. If the prosecution does object then we will hear the objection and hear defense counsel on that particular issue and then the decision will be made so that you will in no way be prejudiced because of any delay in the translation section.

DR. GAWLIK: Well, but your Honor, I think it is necessary, however, that the documents should be submitted in open court, but that is being made impossible by the fact that the translation department isn't ready. We have no influence whatever on the translation section. If we submit them, as we did, weeks ago, and they are not translated by now, that cannot have the result that we cannot submit them in open court. After all, there are explanations to be made to each single document which we can't then make known to the Tribunal. Therefore, I would ask the Tribunal reveiw this ruling. please. For instance, the case of the defendant Seibert whom I represent is typical. I have submitted the document book in fact a month ago. The rebuttal will begin tomorrow or the day after tomorrow, and I have no possibility to submit the documents in open court. It is not my fault. It is nobody's fault in fact. I recognize the fact that the translation section has to cope with all this work and they are doing everything in their power, but those are technical difficulties.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Gawlik, don't be concerned about it. I am sure that the question will be resolved in a way which will be satisfactory to all concerned. For the moment present what you have ready.

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, the prosecution hasn't seen any document book on Seibert and we do respectfully submit that we would like to sec them. Now he is ready with document books on Seibert, so when you spoke to him to present what he has ready -

THE PRESIDENT: I assumed that when he said he was ready that he was ready to the effect that everybody had been served.

MR.WALTON: No sir, the prosecution hasn't been served on Seibert yet.

THE PRESIDENT: What do you have ready to which the prosecution will have no objection to your submitting immediately? Do you have anything ready that you can start on now?

DR. GAWLIK: I was informed that one document book of Naumann book, has been translated.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, do you have it, do you have it?

MR. WALTON: Yes, we have the translation of it.

THE PRESIDENT: Then why do you say you were informed. Do you have it in your possession?

DR. GAWLIK: No, I was told that it has been submitted to the Tribunal one document book Naumann.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, proceed with Naumann.

DR. GAWLIK: As Document Naumann No. 1. I have already submitted Document Naumann No. 1. which is a report of events, No. 186, dated the 27 March 1942. It is Document NO_3236. So far I have only given an identification number to this document in Naumann's direct examination on the witness stand. Now I am going to give an exhibit number to this document. It is Naumann No. 1. It is contained in Document Book Naumann No. I on Pages 1 to 2. of the Einsatzgruppe B was partisan warfare and that all the forces in the Einsatzgruppe B were occupied mainly with partisan combat. In this document it says, on the 8th of March 1942 the Supreme Commander of the R*ar Army Territory held discussions during which the carrying out of an extensive operation of the Wehrmacht was discussed in order to fight partisans around Bryansk or in the vicinity of Bryansk. From the next paragraph it becomes evident that for this operation Einsatzgruppe B was assigned and was in fact assigned on directives of the Supreme Commander of the Rear Army Territory.

I now read from Paragraph 2 just one sentence. "Einsatzgruppe B on the directives of the commander of the Bear Army Territory have to create the prerequisits for the carrying out of the operations." The next sentence refers to the activity of the Einsatzkommandos 9 and 7a. From the next paragraph it becomes evident that Einsatzgruppe B acutally carried out this operation. I quote the first sentence. "The Supreme Commander of the Rear Army Territory center, General von Schenkendorff, spoke at the beginning of the discussion and thanked the Einsatzgruppe for the tasks carried out and for their success which was responsible largely for the success of the Wehrmacht."

He pointed out that as far as -

THE PRESIDENT: Now, Dr. Gawlik, it isn't necessary to keep reading form it. Now you have given us a fairly good idea of what this report covers. If you are going to read each paragraph and then comment on it it becomes in the nature of an argumentation. You are merely presenting documents now. A document is like a witness. It is before the court. We have to read this.

DR. GAWLIK: I only wanted to read the sentences to which I want to draw the particular attention of the Tribunal.

As next document I submit Document Naumann No. 8 as Exhibit Naumann No. 2. I beg your pardon, your Honor, it is Document Naumann No. 2 as Exhibit No. 2.

THE PRESIDENT: Why not let's have the three exhibits so that we won't waste time going through the same process with each different exhibit? You have 2, 3 and 4 which are in the nature of exhibits, don't you?

DR. GAWLIK: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Present them all now.

DR. GAWLIK: Simultaneously, the Document Naumann No. 3 as Exhibit No. 3. The next document, Naumann No. 4, which is listed in the Doc. Book, I shall not submit, your Honor, As to Document Naumann No. 2 , Exhibit No. 2, I want to comment the following. I have submitted this document in order to point to the difficulties between the various garrisons. This map shows all the individual garrisons of the group staffs of the kommandos and the subkomma ndos. The chart has been made according to a map of the scale 1 to 1,000,000. The garrison of the group staff is marked with a little square. The garrisons of the kommandos have been marked with a fat dot, and the garrisons of the subkommandos with a little circle. The channel of command between the group staff and the kommandos is marked with a straight line, and between the kommandos and the subkommandos with a dotted line.

The next document, Naumann No. 3, Exhibit Naumann No. 3 I have submitted in order to prove the correctness of the line of command of the group staff of the Einsatzkommandos and of the Special Kommandos. You will see, your Honors, in the upper part a double line. At the top of this line are the agencies in Berlin. Underneath this double lines there are the agencies in the territory of Russia. In the Russian territory marked in the upper part, are the agencies issuing the order, in the lower part the agencies are marked carrying out the orders. Another line has been put in which goes straight down. This line separates the agencies in the Rear Army Territory from those in the Army frontal area. Now, here we have the left side which shows the agencies in the Rear Army Territory and on the right side those in the Army frontal area. With this drawing I want to prove that first of all the Commander in chief center had all the executive power in the territory Russia and that he was also the only one who kept up the immediate connection with Hitler. From the chart, the line of command of the Einsatzgruppe B becomes farther evident. Einsatzgruppe B was first of all subordinate to the chief of the Security Police and the SD. Secondly, it was subordinate to the Army Group Center.

Third, it was subordinate to the Commander in Chief of the Rear Army territory, and then finally -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Gawlik, you are in effect testifying here now. That was up to the defendant Naumann to explain.

DR. GAWLIK: I am only explaining the chart, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, did the defendant explain this on the stand?

DR. GAWLIK: Yes, he testified to this.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, well then, it is in the record and it isn't necessary to go into all that again. This is to illustrate what the defendant has already testified to, and it is here before us. Now, there is no need for you to point out what each line points to. We have this.

DR. GAWLIK: If the Tribunal is of the opinion that this is not required, I shall discontinue. I only wanted to draw the attention of the Tribunal to the line of command, as they become evident from this chart in order to clarify this chart, to the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, if the defendant has already indicated what the line of command was here and then we will have this before us as we review the transcript that will be enough. Your telling us won't add too much because we have it from the defendant already.

DR. GAWLIK: I was only thinking that the chart with these many lines are not very evident at eh moment when you look at it and are a bit confusing so that if you have no explanation of what the individual lines might mean, especially the channel of command and the relationship of the various special kommandos to each other, aren't very obvious.

THE PRESIDENT: While these lines are helpful, I will confess that I understand more thoroughly an oral description of the line of command more easily than the sketch, and the defendant has already explained that from the witness stand. This is only a supplementary explanation.

DR. GAWLIK: As my next document, I submit Document Naumann No. 5 as Exhibit Naumann No. 4. It is an affidavit by Erich von dem Bach-Zelewski concerning Naumann's military assignment in partisan warfare and his decoration with EK 1, with the iron cross first class.

It is on pages 3 and 4 of the document book. This also is meant to prove that the activity of Naumann in Einsatzgruppe B was mainly that of warfare with partisans. Also the difficulties become evident from this document, the difficult situation, in fact, which was caused by the partisans in the territory of the Einsatzgruppe B. Also from Paragraph 2 the line of command becomes evident in which Naumann was. Then the document shows that Naumann actually personally took part in the warfare against partisans.

I draw the attention of the Tribunal especially to the sentence: "For this merit and for braveness General von Schenkendorff awarded him the iron cross first class." From this it becomes evident that Naumann received the iron cross first class for the reason that he earned it as a soldier in active service while participating in warfare against partisans. absolutely necessary in order to get a true judgment of Naumann's actions in Russia, to submit evidence concerning his attitude and behavior as the commander of the Security Police and SD in Holland. The next three documents refer to this. It is only a part of the evidence material which I shall submit. The further evidence material is in Document Book II which has not yet been submitted to the Tribunal in its translation. Now I submit the Document, Naumann No. 6, as Exhibit no. 5. It is in Document Book Naumann No. 1, pages 5 to 6.

This is an affidavit by Mrs. Lily Van der Schalk. I point out to the Tribunal the fact that this is a Dutch citizen. From the document can be seen that Naumann, during the time of his assignment as Commander in Chief in Holland, actively supported and helped Jews and he actually achieved a success by having Jews released from concentration camps, for instance, Auschwitz. I draw the attention of the Tribunal to another paragraph, the next one, where the affiant makes statements concerning the attitude of Naumann, he had about the Jews. I consider this affidavit and the following affidavits of these Dutchmen as very important for the evidence and for judging the acts which he is charged with by the Prosecution during his assignment in Russia. Number 6. It is an affidavit by the same Frau Lily van der Schalk of 27th October. From this document it becomes evident that Naumann personally aided 250 Dutch hostages and brought about the release of the largest part of these hostages. vit by Mrs. Ilse Leembruggen von Lieben, of 28th of November 1947. Document Naumann Number 8, which I shall give the Exhibit Number Naumann Number 7. It is in Document Book Naumann Number I, page 8. I draw the special attention of the Tribunal concerning this affidavit, to the fact that this is an affidavit made out by a Jewess, as becomes evident from the affidavit itself; this Jewess, who had been in a concentration camp, was released as a result of the intervention on the part of Naumann. which is the only one that has been translated.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, Dr. Gawlik. Dr. Mayer, are you ready?

I want to say, Dr. Mayer, that I am very sorry that you had to wait around all day. On two occasions we were about to call you and at that moment you just happened to step out.

DR. STUEBBINGER: Stuebbinger for Braune. I would like to draw the attention of the Tribunal to the fact -

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Stuebbinger, of course. We had a debate here as to whether your name was Mayer or not and two of us said you were Mayer and three said no. Three won.

DR. STUEBBINGER: On behalf of my colleague, Dr. Mayer, I would like to draw the attention of the Tribunal to the fact that I shall submit a trial brief for my client Dr. Braune. Just now I found out during the recess that Document Book II has now also been submitted in English, but only to the interpreters. Mr. Walton hasn't received it yet. I myself am prepared to submit Document Book II as well, after I have concluded Document Book I. I don't know whether there is any objection on the part of the Prosecution to this.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there anyone from the Prosecution ready to reply to that?

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, we are ready to offer our objections to certain documents as contained in Document Book I, but not having received a copy of Document Book II -- If I got it tonight I would be ready in the morning, but I have never laid my eyes on it.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, what do you have ready now to present , Dr. Stuebbinger?

DR. STUEBBINGER: Document Book II -- Document Book I has been submitted in its translation some time ago. Document Book II has been handed to the interpreters.

THE PRESIDENT: Why don't you proceed with Number I now?

DR. STUEBBINGER: I only asked when I conclude Document Book I, whether I can start with Document Book II. That will probably not be possible them. Document Book Numb er I contains affidavits, Documents 1 to 6 concerning the activity of the defendant as the Reich Student Leader and as leader of the academical exchange service in the years 1943 to 1944. Documents 7 to 28 concern the activity of Dr. Braune as Commander of the Security Police and SD in Oslo in the year 1945.

Documents 29 and 30 contain character testimonies. and the German document books. The document numbers and the exhibit numbers correspond. client with intolerance and arrogance and thus with contempt of human lives and corruptness of human reasoning. As their reasons they give the activities of the defendants in the Eastern campaign. Under which conditions Braune acted on this occasion I proved when he was a witness on the witness stand.

THE PRESIDENT: May I interrupt a second, please.

Mr. Walton, the Tribunal also has Document Book II, so we would suggest that you send to your office to see if that book is there.

MR. WALTON: Very well, Your Honor.

MR. STUEBBINGER: Under what conditions Dr. Braune acted in the Eastern campaign, I proved when he was here on the witness stand . With the submission of the affidavits, I shall prove how Dr.

Braune actually acted in word and deed when he was not immediately bound to the orders of his Chief of State, but when he h ad the possibility to ask higher authorities for support. They prove that criminal and nonsensical orders, he did not carry out unconditionally. But with the whole strength of his personality he resisted such orders. In this way he succeeded, in two cases, to bring about decisions on the part of the Chief of State which can be led back to his own initiative. He thus saved the lives of numerous people and valuable property from being destroyed.

I shall now deal in Document Book I, with the factor of "students' leadership". Document 1, Exhibit 1, is an affidavit by Irmgard Grotjahn, former secretary of Braune, dated 9th of October 1947. It is on page 1 Through a law of the French Government, numerous French students during the years 1943 and 1944 had been drafted to Germany for work.

Braune's secretary, confirmed here that he, as the man in charge of the Reich Student Leadership and as the leader of the German Exchange Academic System, he facilitated matters for these French students whenever he was able to do so. He gave them aid and support, took care that the places of work were improved; he gave them lectures and he had books and magazines given to them, and m ade it possible for them to participate in cultural performances and finally he brought about their release and made it possible for them to take up their studies again. states that Braune, during the activity as Student Leader in 1943, directed a protest letter to the National Student Leader in which he protested against the arrest of about 700 Norwegian students and therefore brought about a Fuehrer decree and the reprimand at the time of the Reich Commissioner Terboven. In this connection, I would like to point to Document Number 12, which I shall introduce at the proper time, from which it also becomes evident that Dr. Braune supported the release of a thousand Norwegian students who on the occasion of the arson of the Oslo University -- had been arrested. Grotjahn, dated 15 Octob er 1947. The Reich Propaganda Ministry had put a fund of a quarter of a million marks at the disposal of the Reich Student Leadership. He, therefore, tried to influence its office politically by asking for reports concerning the use of this money. Dr. Braune prevented this and rather went without the money put at the disposal by the Propaganda Ministry. the 17th September 1947, on page 6. From this it becomes evident that Braune in numerous discussions and speeches professed himself to the European association with mutual fate and that he objected very strongly to the German policy and used his influence concerning the recognition of sovereignty of all nations.

Document No. 5, Exhibit 5 is an affidavit by Friedrich Sipmann, Department Chief in the Reich Students' Leadership Department, dated 10th of September, 1947. It is on page 8. Sipmann herewith confirms that at meetings of students Braune spoke harshly against the German foreign policy, criticized it , demanded a constructive plan for the reorganization of Europe and that he was an opponent to all power politics and to the suppression of national characteristics; he wanted respect between nation and nationals and the voluntary cooperation of all European nations.

Document No. 6, Exhibit 6, the affidavit of Dr. Reinhold Baessler dated the 1st of October, 1947, is on page 10. Baessler was a department chief in the Students' Leadership. From this document it becomes evident that Braune, during his activity in the German Students' organization at meetings and conferences criticized most severely the National Socialist practice. I may here quote a few short passages on page 10, paragraph 2:

"Though an old Party member, he was one of the harshest critics of practical National Socialism among whom I met him in the Party."

At the end of paragraph 3 it says, I quote:

"He quite openly said that the Party must go, if it no longer bore the will and strength for reform."

Paragraph 4:

"He was convinced that the time was ripe for a reconciliation of Europe's old national conflicts, and that only a united Europe could at length withstand the Red danger from the East."

I now come to Section Norway. This shows Braune's conduct and attitude as the Commander of the Security Police and SD in the decisive last months of the war. documents.

Document No. 7, Exhibit No. 7, is an excerpt from a Norwegian newspaper with Braune's picture and a proclamation to the public to report any cases of illtreatment, Braune might have been guilty of, in his capacity as Commanding Officer of the Security Police and SD in Oslo.

the next to the last paragraph. It should not say, "As they were carried out according to the directives", but it should say, "Insofar as they were asked for in the directives". occasions, no informations were received concerning this. and 9, which are also Exhibits 8 and 9. As these documents show, the proceedings had to be discontinued.

Then the next affidavit is an affidavit by Dr. Jungbluth, the German assistant attorney for Germans who were charged in Norway. From this it becomes evident that after the proceedings had been discontinued, Dr. Braune on the 19th of July, 1946, was taken to the German Internment Camp Kiel.

Document No. 9, Exhibit No. 9, is an affidavit by Dr. Keller, Dr. Hans Keller, Departmental Chief in the Office of the Supreme Commander of the Security Police and the SD in Norway, which also confirm the discontinuance of the proceedings.

Documents No. 10 to 12, which are submitted as Exhibits 10 to 12, show Braune as a harsh adversary and opponent of the policy on the part of Reich Commissar Terboven. From the affidavit of Georg Wolff, it becomes evident that Braune rejected the policy as unbearable as exercised by Reich Commissar Terboven and was determined to prevent it in his district by all means, even if such procedure should lead to his being transferred. Hans Keller. In which it is confirmed that Braune was against the activity of Terboven concerning police executives, and that he prevented mass arrests and also prevented the carrying out of extensive activities and that currently he himself ordered releases to be carried out and through this he came into dispute with his superior officer.

Document No. 12, Exhibit 12, is an affidavit by Herbert Not of the 12th of September 1947, it confirms, as I have said before, that Braune objected to the power politics of Terboven and that he advocated the release of the 1,000 students arrested in connection with the arson of the University of Oslo.

Documents No. 13 to 16 prove that Dr. Braune was an opponent of the taking of hostages and that in this also the advocated that the present orders be rescinded. department chief of Braune. He confirms that Dr. Braune instructed the offices subordinated to him in the Oslo district not to arrest any hostages because of escapes to Sweden.

Document No. 14, Exhibit 14, is an affidavit by Irmgard Grotjahn, which confirms that Dr. Braune issued written orders to his subordinates not to arrest any hostages in spite of existing orders to the contrary.

Document No. 15, Exhibit 15, an affidavit by Herbert Not, also shows the fact that Braune was an opponent to the taking of hostages and confirms that Braune himself advocated that the present directives be rescinded.

Document No. 16, Exhibit 16, the affidavit by Hans Keller of the 15th of September 1947, confirms the fact that Braune objected to the hostage order of the commander in chief, Fehlis, and regarded it as incompatible and brought about the rescinding of this order.

From Document No. 17, Exhibit 17, an affidavit by Georg Wolff, dated 10th of September, 1947, it becomes evident that Braune had numerous release applications forwarded to him by his departmental chiefs in Oslo and approved them. He also brought about the release of the Norwegian Prime Minister Gerhardsen. He further had a release proposition drawn up for the release of 1300-1400 prisoners, affected the approval of this plan and thus achieves in this way hundreds of releases.

Document No. 18, Exhibit 18, an affidavit by Irmgard Grotjahn of the 29th of August, 1947. The secretary of Braune herewith confirms that Braune, during his activity as Commander of the Security Police in Oslo, had all applications for release submitted directly to him and received personally all applicants, who, even as adversaries, state their sympathy for, and confidence in, Braune. graph 2:

"I myself was repeatedly told by visitors that they had imagined a Security Police Commander to be quite different, and that they had been surprised to find a man about whom they felt that his intentions were absolutely honest, and although he was actually their opponent, he was a person to whom they had to extend their sympathy and trust."

Document No. 19 , Exhibit 19, is an affidavit of Hans Keller, dated 15th of September, 1947. From this it becomes evident that Braune even had applications which were meant for his superior office sent to his office and on his own authority decreed releases and frequently exceeded his own authority.

Document No. 20, Exhibit 20, an affidavit by Herbert Not, dated 12th of September 1947, confirms that Braune currently decreed numerous releases, proposed to his superior office more than 1,000 releases, which were approved and effected to a large extent. It also shows that Braune was opposed to large-scale operations and that he limited arrests to those persons whose guilt was proven.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you think we might suspend at this point, Dr. Stuebbinger?

DR. STUEBBINGER: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: I might inquire if we can get any enlightenment on the order of presentation tomorrow morning. Can anyone tell us who will be ready tomorrow morning after Dr. Stuebbinger finishes?

Page 5,119

DR. WIESSMATH: Assistant of Dr. Schwarz for the defendant Jost, Your Honor, we intend to submit four document books for the defendant Jost. Of these four two have been translated. These two document book can be submitted tomorrow.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Is there anyone else who can tell us about other books to be presented?

DR. KRAUSE (Attorney for the defendant Haensch): Your Honor, I intend to introduce two document books tomorrow. A third document book is still in the Translation Section and a fourth book is just about completed.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, you will be ready to go on after Dr. Wiessmath, who will present books for Jost.

DR. KRAUSE: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I think the answer will be "yes" anyway. The Tribunal will be in recess until tomorrow morning at 9:30.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 16 January 1948, at 0930 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the court room will please dinf their seats. Tribunal.

DR. LINCK: Linck for the defendant Ruehl. Your Honor, may I make the announcement now, if it is agreeable to the Tribunal, that I shall be prepared after the lunch recess to submit my documents and that my colleague, Dr. Lummert, would like to be the next one. I assume that the time before lunch has already been filled up, so that there will be no difficulty in my submitting my documents after lunch. The prosecution has been informed about it, and they agree.

PRESIDENT: If we keep going continuously until noontime, what you say can be done easily, but should there be any lull, as we indicated before, we will immediately proceed with the rebuttal, so you will just have to take that chance, Dr. Linck. If you are assured with conversation with your colleagues that there will be a continuous flow of documents until noon, then you can go about with a free and happy heart until 1:45, but if your colleagues cannot assure you of that, you had better keep one foot within the doorway.

DR. LINCK: All right, Your Honor.

PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. STUEBINGER: May I please proceed, Your Honor? We concluded yesterday Document Number 20.

Grotjahn, of the 4th of September 1947. It is on page 34. It proves that based on the operations for the release of prisoners which Braune initiated, a number of old men and woman, diseased people, hostages, those who distributed pamphlets and leaflets, and a lot of those people who listedned to the English radio stations were released. out of a large-scale actions because, he could not reconcile it with his feeling for justice. Hans Keller, of the 15th of September 1947. Keller herewith confirms immediately took steps against the mass actions against the Norwegian resistance movement, and that he was able to prevent those. When the Reich Commissar, Terboven ordered extensive retaliation measure against Oslo and asked that about 60 Norwegians should be shot and more than 1,000 huts should be burned, Braune resisted this action. He requested a decision by the Fuehrer and, therefore, he succeeded in having Hitler forbid the operation. Therefore, it was Braune's doing that numerous Norwegians were saved and valuable property was saved from destruction. Grotjahn of the 4th of September 1947. It is on page 37. By order of Terboven in the program of a retaliation measure in the Oslo sector, a number of innocent Norwegians were to be shot and a number of huts were to be burned. From this document it becomes evident that Dr. Braune forced the Fuehrer decision and that he resisted this action. the 10th of September, 1947.

It is on page 39. This document confirmed that Braune in his discussions which he had with his departmental chiefs, protested against the carrying out of mass operations and especially against the action in Nordmarka. He refused to have this operation carried out and he succeeded in obtaining a decision by the Fuehrer which prohibited the carrying out of this action. of the 12th of September 1947. It is on page 41. In this document it is emphasized especially that Braune, by forcing this Fuehrer decision, made it possible for Terboven to be restrained from making his own decision in carrying out police security measures.

Documents No. 26 up to 28 confirm the resistance of Braune against other further retaliation measures. of the 25th of September 1947. It is on page 43. From this the following becomes evident: On the 26th of April 1945 the Norwegian resistance movement had shot three German soldiers, one had been strangled with a steel wire, and one had been strangled with a steel wire, and one had been beaten to death. Two Norwegians who had participated in this action were to be shot by demand of the Wehrmacht, after having been put before a court martial, and their farms were to be burned. Dr. Braune managed to prevent that and saved the lives of these Norwegians and their houses.

Nuber 27, Exhibit 27, is an affidavit by Kloetzer. This confirms that Braune managed to prevent the large-scale action which had been ordered by Terboven in Kongsberg-Notodden. Kloetzer of the 30th of September 1947. It shows that Braune objected to an action which had been ordered by the Wehrmacht and the Higher SS and Police leader in the sector Drammen, so that this action liekwise was not carried out.

In each of these documents there are other incidents mentioned as well. Therefore, they are not cumulative. Sipmann of the 10th of September 1947 about the testimony of the defendant. The former student-leader, Sipmann, gives a picture of the character of Braune. He emphasizes his decency and his kindness, his matters, and in matters of general political matters, his refusal to deal with political fanatism, and I may quote here a short passage lerant person. I quote, "He was an opponent of all ready-made sentences. He was a sincere person, who, without any fanatism and without any prejudices, tolerated other people's opinions. Number 30. It is an affidavit of the Protestant parson, Dr. Guenther of Oslo, who has been living abroad for 40 years.

It was his task after the capitulation to care for those prisoners who were still in custody pending investigation, and Braune was one of these prisoners at the time. Dr. Guenther, who was married to a Jewess, would have had no reason to support a person who has been guilty of participation in persecution of Jews in Norway or in the East. In spite of this statement about himself, he regarded it as his duty to show the attitude of Braune to the American Military Tribunal. Then this decision can only be explained by the wisdom of old age in order to show in what manner Dr. Guenther is intersted in the fate of my client, and how he estimates him personally. I shall read a few passages from this affidavit. On page 50, paragraph 2, the last sentence, "Very soon I came to esteem him as a very valuable person who is far above the average people. In a number of long discussions which took place, we tried to find out the ultimate reasons for the collapse, and it is amazing how we understand each other on the deep subject of ideology."

In paragraph 3, Dr. Guenther speaks about the great frankness which Braune showed towards him. In paragraph 4, "Dr. Braune is mentally and spiritually very much alive, with an ardent soul, of an idealistic character. What seems especially striking to me is his absolute truthfulness." And the last quotation which I want to read, which is on page 51 at the bottom, "I have learned to like Dr. Braune as I would a son." I have nothing to add to this quotation.

I now start D ocument Book II. Document Book II contains decrees and regulations, clippings from newspapers, and operation reports.

Document Number 31, I can omit. It is a supplement to instructicn 33 of the Chief of the High Command of the Wehrmacht concerning the maintenance of peace and order in the East. This document has already been offered as an exhibit by defense counsel for Ohlendorf.

Document Number 32, I offer as Exhibit Number 31. This is a photostat. It contains the decree of the Army High Command Chief, Keitel, dated 16 December 1942, on the anti-Partisan warfare. It becomes evident from this decree that the Wehrmacht was instructed to use the most brutal measures in combatting the bands in the East and that the unit had the authority and the duty to use any means also against women and children -- any means that achieves its aim. It says, "Consideration of any kind is a crime against our own people."

Document Number 33, I offer as Exhibit Number 32. It is Ordnance Number 1 on crimes and other punishable acts, issued by the Supreme Commander of Military Government, Germany.

Number 35 I offer as Exhibit Number 33. It is a supplement to the "Hannoverschen Neusten Nachrichten", second year, Number 62, of 16 August 1947, and it contains an article by the former American Ambassador in Moscow, William C. Bull*tt, entitled "The Strength of our New Foreign Policy". This article shows how the American Ambassador regarded the actual character of Bolshevism.

Document Number 37 I offer as Exhibit Number 34. This is an excerpt from the "Neue Zeitung", third year, Number 81, of 10 October 1947, containing statements made by a writer who had fled from the Eastern Zone and had lived in Russia many years. His name is Theodor Plivier. He is the author of the novel, "Stalingrad", and his statements were made to the Dutch writer, Jef Last. They were published in the Dutch newspaper, "Het Vrije Volk". The submission of this document has been announced when Dr. Braune was in the witness stand. It shows that the Volga-German Republic had been liquidated during the war and that probably none of the population has survived.

Document No. 39 I offer as Exhibit No. 35. It is an excerpt from the Wiener Kurier of the 30th of August, 1947, No. 200, 3d year, which contains an article entited, "More than 30,000 Germans are recruited for forced labor in the Soviet zone." The Wiener Kurier is published by the American Forces for Vienna population. Therefore, it can be assumed that this report is correct. With the submission of this document, which I shall come back to in my final plea, I want to prove that the description given by the defendant about the international legal situation which he found when he came to Russia is accurate, and corresponds to the present attitude and behavior of the Russians in the Eastern Zone.

Document No.40, I offer as Exhibit No. 36. It is an affidavit by Anni Kuhfahl of the 28th of July, 1947. The witness is probably known to the President from the Pohl trial. It shows that the mere application by an SS members for an assignment in the Zone of the Interior was interpreted as cowardice and was punished with commitment to a concentration camp.

Document No. 41, I offer as Exhibit 37. It is the order transferring Dr. Braune to duty with Einsatzgruppe D of the Security Police and the SD. It is dated 29 September 1941. I must draw the attention of the Tribunal to this date.

Document No. 42, I offer as Exhibit No. 38. It is a retransfer order to Dr. Braune from Einsatzgruppe D to the State Police Office in Hallo, dated the 25th of July, 1942.

Documents No. 43 and 43a. I shall omit now, because they have already been offered as exhibits in the case for Ohlendorf. The same is true for Document No. 47; also Documents 48 and 49 I skip now. They are already contained in the document books of the prosecution.

The Documents Nos. 44 up to 52, except these which I have just mentioned are operation reports to which the defendant has referred in his examination on the witness stand.

I will give now the Exhibit No. 39 to Document No. 44. Document No. 45 will get Exhibit No. 40. Document No. 46 will get the Exhibit No. 41.

Document No. 50 will get Exhibit No. 42. Document No. 51 will receive Exhibit No. 43, and Document No. 52, will get Exhibit No. 44.

I now come to Document No. 54. This I offer as Exhibit No. 45. It is an excerpt from the Wiener Kurier, 3d year, No. 252, of 31 October 1947. In contains the verdict in the Sachsenhausen Trial. From this it becomes evident that the 16 defendants of the concentration camp Sachsenhausen were sentenced to forced labor as a result of the decree of the Supreme Soviet of USSR of 26 May 1947 regarding the abolition of capital punishment and that this decree was also enforced in the Eastern Zone. This document shows that the Soviet Union is a signatory power of Control Council Law No. 10 and that she changed the form of punishment and abolished the death penalty for her own sector.

Document No. 53 I offer asExhibit No. 46. It is a clipping from the Wiener Kurier of 6 November 1947. It contains the sentence passed by the War Crimes Tribunal Bobruisk, in White Russia of the 5th of November 1947, against 22 defendants who were charged with having murdered over 2,000,000 Soviet citizens. Therefore, this trial is similar to ours in regard to the charge. All defendants, including commanders of the highest military rank such as Generals Ochsner, Traut, Konradi, and Tarbuck, were sentenced to 25 years forced labor in a labor camp.

Document No. 55 I shell skip.

Document No. 56, which the defendant referred to in his direct examination, which I offer as Exhibit No. 46, consists of excerpts from operation reports regarding the various garrisons of the commando.

I now come to a supplement. It is the affidavit of the ethnic German Eduard Schilke of 19 December, 1947. I shall give this the Document No. 57 and Exhibit No. 47. Schilke here describes his experiences in the Soviet Union. The document shows -

THE PRESIDENT: It seems that the numbers are slightly confused. You gave Document 53 No. 46 and then you gave Document 56 also 46. It should be 47.

DR. STUEBINGER: Yes, I just notice that I made a mistake. Document No. 56 should receive Exhibit No. 47, thus making the affi davit of Schilke, which is Document 57, Exhibit 48.

This document shows that as early as 1937, ethnic Germans were deported to Siberia and had to suffer cruelties during the War. It therefore confirms the statements made by the defendant in the witness box.

The last document, Your Honor, I have here in German. It is, as far as I know, not translated yet. It is a very whort document, and, if the prosecution agrees, I shall read it into the record.

MR. WALTON: If your Honors please, before he introduces that, if he will let Dr. Hochwald read it, since it is short and we have not been served with a copy; I think we would be prepared, but I would like to see it before it is offered.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. That is being done now. What agreement have you reached, if any.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the document in itself is certainly material, but I see there is only one carbon copy and from the exhibit itself it is not clear to the prosecution how the original looks and wherefrom the defense has obtained the original. I do not know whether this is purported to be an original letter obviously from the contents, but the exhibit itself is just a carbon copy, not signed, nothing. If the defense counsel for Dr. Braune will explains the form, we certainly have no objections against the contents.

DR. STUEBINGER: Your Honor, it is a letter of the Einsatzgruppe Chief Ohlendorf to the then SS Sturmbannfuehrer Braune of 2 November 1941, from which it becomes evident that Braune, effective 19 November 1941, was to take over the leadership of Einsatzkommando 11B. It becomes evident therefore from this document that between the order of the 29th of September Document No. 41, Exhibit No. 37; more than six weeks elapsed until Braune was able to take up his position in Kommando 11B. say that I have seen the original. I did not, however, submit the original, because Dr. Braune wants to keep it, but he will at any time put it at the disposal of the Tribunal, if the Tribunal attaches any value to it.

It is signed by Ohlendorf. As far as I know, he received it from his wife. She found it at home among his papers.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald wishes to say something.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Your Honors, of course, we do agree with the defense counsel for the Defendant Braune, but I do think it is the right of the prosecution to see the original. In this form that is a question of principle, which I am bringing in now in this form, the exhibit is certainly not admissible, so if we allow the exhibit in in this form, we do it for the simple reason, if we see the original and can find out that it is an original.

THE PRESIDENT: There is no doubt that this is secondary evidence. As a matter of fact, all evidence should be submitted in the original to the Tribunal, but we have allowed this liberality for the purposes of convenience and facilitating the trial.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: We do agree to that, but, nevertheless, we would like to see the original. We then will have no objection that the exhibit is put in in this form.

THE PRESIDENT: Can't you show him the original?

DR. STUEBINGER: At the moment I do not have it with me, Your Honor, but I can get it. It is in our offices. I shall put it at the disposal of the prosecution.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, can't we accept this provisionally?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Certainly, Your Honor. If defense counsel for the Defendant Braune pledges himself to show us the original, we have no objections against the document.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, proceed.

DR. STUEBINGER: That is the end of my submission of documents, your Honor. I would like my client to be excused this afternoon, if it is possible.

THE PRESIDENT: The Defendant Braune will be excused from attendance in court this afternoon, in accordance with the request of his counsel.

Page 5,130

DR. STUEBINGER: Thank you.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

Page 5,131

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, Mr. Walton.

MR. WALTON: Prosecution objects to the first six documents of the Braune Document Book I on the grounds that since these documents deal with his activities with the National Student Leadership and Chief of the German Academic Exchange Service, they do not apply to the issues as laid down in the indictment and are therefore immaterial. through and including Document 28, the whole series of documents. These documents pur*ort to deal with Braune's activities in Norway. Not one charge in this indictment relates to his activities in Norway, all of which occurred after his return from Russia. grounds that the source of this document is not given. The signature of Keitel is not attested to and for other formal reasons as to the form of the decree. to Braune Document 33 on the grounds that the laws issued by the Military Government of Germany are certainly immaterial to the issues in the case which are laid concerning crimes against Russian nationals. or a copy of a newspaper report clearly expressing the opinion of the author. It is neither a document nor is it an affidavit and it has therefore no probative value.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, just a moment, please.

You may proceed, Mr. Walton.

MR. WALTON: Prosecution objects to Document 36, another newspaper account from a Swiss newspaper. I would like the record to be amended to show that Braune Document No. 36 was not offered.

from a newspaper. It is hearsay, incompetent evidence in its present form and is irrelevant and immaterialy. excerpt from an Austrian newspaper, and further objects to Document 39, being a transcript -

THE PRESIDENT: Not submitted, Mr. Walton.

MR. WALTON: Sorry.

THE PRESIDENT: When Mr. Walton starts to object, he objects to everything, whether it is introduced or not.

MR. WALTON: Like Will Rogers, your Honor, I only know what I read in my document books. is clearly hearsay evidence, since the affiant does not testify to anything within her personal knowledge. 46, 47, 48 -

THE PRESIDENT: The defense counsel is missing a great opportunity. Mr. Walton did not object to the submission of Documents 43 and 43a and you haven't even presented them, so here is your chance to put them in.

MR. WALTON: If he does, I may do so in rebuttal, Sir. In my humble opinion they help my side of the case.

48? There is no objection to 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, but the prosecution does object to 53 for the same reason that this is a clipping from a newspaper. It is incompetent evidence and certainly irrelevant and hearsay on the part of the unknown author of the article. 55, since it wasn't offered. offer of the Supplement to Document II, the same being the Schilke affidavit wherein this affiant testifies or deposes concerning crimes against ethnic Germans by Russians.

The Tribunal has also in its order of 9 October 1947 ruled on this type of evidence and on an undated order which was issued from the Tribunal about the same time it did the prosecution the honor of quoting a part of its brief or its objection that if the Russians committed a host of crimes over and over again, such evidence is immaterial as to the issues of the guilt or innocence of the defendants who are German nationals, having committed crimes. This is the same type of evidence and the prosecution therefore objects to it.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will take under advisement all those objections.

DR. STUEBINGER: I havennothing to say, your Honor.

DR. WIESMATH: Assistant of Dr. Schwarz for the Defendant Jost. May I now being with submitting the documents for the Defendant Jost? As an introduction, I would like to state that I intend just to indicate the content of the documents in a few words, since their probative value will be discussed and evaluated afterwards in the trial brief.

I may begin with Document Book No. I. I offer as Jost Exhibit No. 1the affidavit of Arthur Deeken. It is found on pages 1 to 3 of the Document Book Jost I. Contents: Evaluation of Jost's character and political attitude As Exhibit No. 2, Jost Document J-2 affidavit of Heinrich Eissfelder of 4 October 1947.

It includes pages 4 to 7 of Document Book I. It concerns Jost's character and personal action on behalf of political opponents and persecuted Jews.

Jost Exhibit No. 3 is Document J-3, affidavit of Edgar Thomashausen of 4 October 1947, pages 8 to and including 17. Contents Jost's character, style of loving, and support of the Thomashausen family in difficulties resulting from the fact that Frau Thomashausen is a Jewess.

fact that Jost attempted to appropch Rosenberg about this after he had already been relieved from his Eastern assignment.

passages from this affidavit. On page 18 - -

MR. GLANCY: If Your Honor please, the Prosecution has no objection whatsoever to this document; however, it feels it is more or less cumulative to take the Tribunal's time in reading this document now in its fullness, because the defense has just stated that they intend to cover all this material in their summary brief.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Weismath, unless you intend to read merely one sentence, or a very very short quotation, it would not be necessary to dwell on it at length, would it?

DR. WEISMATH: No, Your Honor, it was merely my intention to read from page 18 of the document book the very first sentence of the last paragraph and on page 19, the last two paragraphs.

THE PRESIDENT: You may read them if it is just a short excerpt.

DR. WEISMATH: I shall give a short synopsis of the contents. The discussion took place in Berlin at the end of November in 1942. Jost spoke very generally about the happenings during the Summer in the East, and pointed out that as for the tremendous events taking place in the East, not the individual SS-man was responsible but only the highest authorities, who had decreed these orders. Jost then pointed out that he himself objected to carrying out such orders. Finally, he attempted to cause Rosenberg either to prevent or to limit the execution measures.

THE PRESIDENT: What page does that appear on in English?

MR. GLANCY: He is giving us a synopsis, but I would like to correct the record, sofar as the English copy is concerned, it states that in November 1943 a conference took place, a year after Jost returned from the Einsatzgruppe.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. WEISMATH: As Exhibit No. 5 I offer document J-5. This is an affidavit of Eugen Faulhaber of 13 October 1947. It includes pages 21 to 22 of the Document Book I. As Jost Exhibit No. 6 is document J-7, affidavit of Karl Hennicke of 14 October 1947, from page 26 through page 29. Contents: Jost's opinion on the problem of the executive and his reaction on receiving the order appointing him Chief of Einsatzgruppe-A and Commander of the SIPO and SD Ostland. Jost's intention to revoke this appointment, I just see I made a mistake. Jost Document No. 7 should bear exhibit No. 7.

As further document I offer Document J-8, affidavit of D. Visvalds Sanders of 15 October 1947, pages 30 and 31. Contents: Jost's attitude towards National Socialism and towards the Latvian people.

As Exhibit No. 9 1 offer Document J-9, pages 32 to 35, affidavit of Gottlieb Berger of 15 October 1947. Contents: Jost's quarrel with the Chief of Office IV, Reich Main Security Office. As Document No. 30 I offer as Exhibit No. 30, an affidavit of Hans Richter, dated 6 October 1947, who also took part in the meeting in Krummhuebel. He also confirms that Six did not make an instigating lecture with anti-Jewish tendencies; and that Six expressed sharp criticism on the anti-Jewish measures of the National Socialist Government.

Document No. 31 I offer as Exhibit No. 31. This is an affidavit of Professor Dr. Walther Kranz, ordinary professor at the University at Istanbul. It contains statements that Six despite objections of the Party organizations made possible his appointment and departure for Istanbul University, although his wife was of Jewish descent. 22 through to 31, concern the subject "C" which I discussed at the beginning concerning the activity of the defendant in the Foreign Office. They are to help to refute Count III.

Document No. 32 ---

THE PRESIDENT: You intend now to take up another subject in the group of affidavits?

DR. ULMER: No, Your Honor, now I come to the subject "D".

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, I thought that we might recess now for lunch and you may take them up after lunch, is that agreeable?

D DR. ULMER. Yes, Your Honor, unfortunately I didn't know at the time.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:45.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will be in recess until 1345 hours.

(Recess until 1345 hours 16 January 1948).

(Whereupon the Court met pursuant to noon recess)

1345 hours 16 January 1948)

THE MARSHAL: There will be order in the courtroom. The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

DR. ULMER: I proceed with document No. 32, which is offered as Exhibit No. 32. It is the affidavit dated 10 October 1947 of Dr. Albert Prinzing, former professor at the Department of International Science of Berlin University. He confirms that the defendant Six mixed freely with Jewish professors and students during the time of his studies at the University, and on the faculty of foreign affairs which was set up according to the Anglo-Saxon pattern of which he was the director. He furthermore confirms the relationship between Six and Heydrich, and the volunteering of Dr. Six for the Waffen-SS in order to remain with this organization until the end of the war. The affidavit also confirms the re-transfer of Dr. Six to Berlin on 22 June 1941, in order to take an assignment in the Archive Unit of Moscow, and the final return to Berlin of the defendant Six on 21 August 1941, in view of the delay of the surrender of Moscow, and his refusal of taking part in the meantime in the fighting of the Partisans.

I offer my Document No. 33 as Exhibit No. 33. It is an affidavit of the 11th of October, 1947 of the former lecturer at the Department on Foreign Countries at Berlin University 1940 to 1945, by the name of Kurt Walz. He confirms that six already from the year 1930 on did not adhere to the Nazi dogma, that he was without prejudice against Jews and that he studied under Jewish professors as for instance Jellinck, Beystrasse and Eckhardt Director of the Section for Culture of the Foreign Office he always demanded freedom of science and carried it out within his own domain; that is in many cases, and he gives the cases of Pfeffer, protected political persecutees from party offices, Haushofer, Eschmann, Grewe, and that he trained his students to practice critical and independent thinking.

Document No. 34 I shall submit now under Exhibit No. 34. It is the affidavit of the 13th of October, 1947, of the former professor of Berlin University, Dr. Karl-Heinz Pfeffer. He testifies to the purely scientific purpose of the Department on Foreign Countries, the assurance of complete freedom of teaching and research in political science, the elimination of the influence of Party organizations; he further states the intervention in favor of Professor Haushefer, related to Jews by marriage, and of Professor Grewe, who had been expelled from the Party, and Six' cultural work as a scientist and Minister, destined to create mutual understanding between the nations.

Now I shall offer Document No. 35 under Exhibit No. 35. It is an affidavit of the 7th of August, 1947, of the Ordinary Professor of the University of Berlin, Dr. Dietrich Westermann. In this he confirms the complete independence of the Department on Foreign Countries from political influences, and the purely scientific aims of the Faculty.

No. 36 I shall now offer as Exhibit No. 36, it is the affidavit of 9 October 1947, of the Ordinary Professor and Dean of Political Science in Freiburg, Breisgatt, Dr. Wilhelm Grewe. In this he testifies to the effect that independent scientists were gathered in the Department on Foreign Countries, without regard to party membership.

The affidavit further bears out that he protected those persecuted for racial and political reasons. It describes the Department on Foreign Countries as the place where persons alien to National Socialism could freely perform scientific work until the end of the war. The affiant further certifies that the Defendant Six suported and aided him and that Six furthermore protected him when the latter, that is the affiant, Professor Grewe, married a half-Jewess in 1943.

I shall offer Document 37 as Exhibit No. 37. It is an affidavit of the 24th of September, 1947, of Dr. Friedrich Schoenemann, Professor of History of American Culture, Exchange Professor of Harvard University. He testifies to the effect that Six stood up for the principle of scientific freedom, and further testifies as to the tolerance displayed by him as Dean of the Department on Foreign Countries against National Socialist pressure. He also testifies to the rejection of party slogans on the part of Six and the independence when facing Nazi ideology, and the support of his professors when difficulties arose with the Gestapo.

Document No. 38 I shall offer as Exhibit No. 38. It is the affidavit of 31 July 1947 of Ilse Richter, Secretary of the Department on Foreign Countries at the Berlin University, from 1939 until 1945. It is here confirmed that the Department on Foreign Countries did not have any relations whatsoever with the Security Service, that Six within the Faculty was a tolerant dean, that, contrary to the demands of the National socialist Students' League and of the curator, he permitted those students who were related to Jews by marriage to conclude their studies. It further confirms that he successfully intervened for Professor Haushofer, related to Jews by marriage, and for professor Grewe, married to a Jewess, against the Gestapo, the Gauleitung--Berlin, the Party District Leadership of Berlin, and the Reich Ministry of Education.

Document No. 39 I offer as Exhibit No. 39. It is an affidavit of 30 August, 1947 in which Miss Countries at the Berlin University from 1940 until 1945, testifies to the scientific independence of the Department on Foreign Countries from Party offices, the trenchant COURT II CASE IX arguments with the National Socialist Dozentenbund -- Lecturers' Association -- and the Party Chancellery on the subject of those professors and lecturers who were not National Socialists, the students who were related to Jews by marriage and especially the Professors Haushofer and Grewe, related to Jews by marriage.

my Document Book No. I. As I have already said, there are another two document books, No. 2 and 3. I asked in the Defense Information Center and in the Translation Department about them and I was told that it will be ready in the translation and memographed at the very latest on Monday morning and that I shall receive it on that date. Therefore, on Tuesday I shall be in a position to submit the remaining two document books in the same shape as I submitted this one. I have made a closing brief.

THE PRESIDENT: If you have them Monday morning, why must you wait until Tuesday to present them?

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, because the prosecution will insist on the 24-hour rule and that must elapse between my receiving the document books and my actual submission in court. Otherwise I could do so earlier. If I shall have them on Monday morning and there will be no objections, I can of course introduce them on Monday morning.

MR. FERENCZ: If the Tribunal please, we will waive the right to have the document books twenty-four hours in advance, provided we can object to the document 24 hours after the document is offered.

THE PRESIDENT: I think that is fair.

DR. ULMER: Thank you very much. Then I can conclude my documents as soon as I get my document books. I have concluded my closing brief. It will be processed on Monday and stencils will be made. I shall also submit a translation of this which I shall have made on my own so that no time will be lost by the translation of the closing brief, so the closing brief can be submitted to the Tribunal for its full evaluation.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you have something, Mr. Ferencz?

DR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, the defense counsel in this case have offered a considerable number of documents and we have permitted them to come in without much objection. You will recall that the prosecution was requested to put our interrogator, Mr. Wartenberg on the stand to explain how the affidavits were taken. I would like to submit a few questions to Dr. Ulmer as to how his affidavits were obtained. Therefore, this will just be a matter of three or four questions and I request that Dr. Ulmer take the stand.

THE PRESIDENT: That all depends upon whether he is willing to do so or not. Perhaps he can answer from where he is standing.

MR. FERENCZ: Of course, if Dr. Ulmer has some very strong objections to testifying, as to how these affidavits were obtained, we may withdraw our request.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, perhaps you can make a statement, Dr. Ulmer, as to how these affidavits were obtained.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, of course, I shall be at the disposal of the Tribunal and will give any information as to the affidavits and especially to the inobjectionable way these affidavits were taken and made out. Therefore, I should like your Honor to ask me the questions which are necessary and I shall answer them, but I think the idea suggested by the prosecution that defense counsel should take the stand and justify himself as to whether he obtained his documents in the correct manner -- I think this is an idea which I certainly wish to object to most strongly.

THE PRESIDENT: You don't need to object. The Tribunal has already stated that you can make your statement from where you are standing and Mr. Ferencz can ask you and it is just a conferencial matter, rather than an interrogation.

MR. FERENCE: In that case, I will limit myself to two questions. Dr. Ulmer, in the affidavits that you took, did the affiants always have the opportunity to make corrections, if they so desired?

DR. ULMER: Every single affiant was told by me in the outline what the important matter for me was, as regards my defense of my client, the Defendant Six was all about, and that I was not interested in any details concerning his clothing or such matters, but only in questions concerning the counts in the indictment. All the statements, therefore that were made and were included, in the affidavits which were taken by me or by my assistant Dr. Voelkel, of course are only statements which these people wanted to make. In no place is there any sentence in these documents which I especially asked the affiants to give, or begged them to state anything; or so to say, included something which they did not want to say.

MR. FERENCZ: Dr. Ulmer, did you ever put dates into the affidavit which the affiant was personally unable to remember?

DR. ULMER: If there are any special dates contained in the affidavits then the affiants must have declared or stated to me that they were certain that these dates are correct. If a special date was on essential matter to me in one or two cases and the affiant told me that after six or seven years, he wasnot able to say that this was the 19th or 17th of July or August, then, if this happened, I asked these gentlemen whether they knew the approsimate date, whether it was the first half of August or the second, and if these people were still in a position to remember, then in this way the date was taken into the affidavit.

MR. FERENCZ: Thank you, Dr. Ulmer.

DR. ULMER: You are welcome.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, of all of the affidavits presented on behalf of Dr. Six, I would like to cross-examine one of the affiants. I refer particularly to Exhibit No. 11 on page 19 of the Defendant's document book.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, is the affiant available? How are you going to get him?

MR. FERENCZ: The affiant, Your Honor, is either outside the door now or will be within the next minute. This is the affidavit of Veronika Vetter and Dr. Ulmer told us in introducing it that it was being offered --I am quoting Dr. Ulmer -- "She confirms his return to Berlin on 20 August, 1941." That's on page 20 line 5, of the affidavit. Dr. Ulmer also stated that this affidavit was being introduced to show that Vorkommando Moscow had nothing to do with executions. That is about the middle of the page, page 20. I now request the Tribunal's permission to call this witness for the purposes of cross-examination, on the question of how this affidavit was obtained and the accuracy of those statements.

THE PRESIDENT: If the affiant is available, you certainly have that right to cross-examine her.

DR. ULMER: The affiant can be reached through the address mentioned in the affidavit, Stuttgart Korntal, Berstrasse 3.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ulmer, Mr. Ferencz states that he has already located the affiant and that she is here. That is what he has just stated.

DR. ULMER: I see. I beg your pardon.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, the witness is on her way down here and will be here in just a moment. I request that the Tribunal spend that minute in just familiarizing themselves with the affidavit so that we can save some time in questioning;the witness will be here in just a moment.

THE PRESIDENT: We will read it as he goes along. We are familiar with it. You might consume this time, Mr. Ferencz-

MR. FERENCZ: In other objections?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, if you have any other objections.

MR. FERENCZ: Yes, Your Honor. There is a group of documents, Exhibits 14 to 21, which according to Dr. Ulmer were offered to show what the defendant's activity was in the SD. The SD was found to be a criminal organization by the International Military Tribunal and its criminality is no longer open to question in this case. I therefore object to all the defense counsel's Exhibits 14 through 21 on the grounds that they are immaterial.

DR. ULMER: May I make a statement concerning this objection, that as far as the criminality with regard to membership in a criminal organization, and I wanted to avail myself of the possibility which the main prosecutor in the IMT, Justice Jackson has given that there is no objection for each single individual to justify himself. And of this, I do not want to object, with this affidavit, against the decision of the IMT, but I only want my client to be exonerated of this particular count in the indictment; that is, membership in a criminal organization.

THE PRESIDENT: We have adopted the policy, Dr. Ulmer, of deciding whether these objections are to be upheld after we will have heard all the presentations so that the court takes it under advisement.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, the witness is here and I am prepared to proceed with the questioning.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, the oath will be administered. follows:

JUDGE SPEIGHT: Witness, raise your right hand and repeat after me: I swear by God, the Almighty and Omniscient, that I will speak the pure truth and will withhold and add nothing.

(The witness repeated the oath.)

JUDGE SPEIGHT: Now, you may be seated. BY DR. FERENCZ:

Q. Witness, will you please tell the Tribunal your name and address?

A. Yes, Veronika Vetter, Korntal Stuttgart, Bergstrasse 3.

Q. Are you the same Veronika Vetter who gave an affidavit to be used in this case concerning Dr. Six?

A. I didn't understand it all.

Q. Are you the same Veronika Vetter who gave an affidavit to be used in this case concerning Dr. Six?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you tell the Tribunal, please, when did you see Professor Six for the first time?

A. On the 23rd I came to Smolensk, on the 23rd of August , that is, 1941.

Q. Was that the first time you saw Dr. Six?

A. What?

Q. Was that the first time you saw Professor Six?

A. Yes, I had never seen Professor Six before that.

Q. That was in Smolensk on the 23rd of August, 1941?

A. Yes, on the 23 August, 1941, I returned to Smolensk from the village.

Q. How do you know that it was on the 23rd of August that you saw Professor Six?

A. That becomes evident from the documents which you have and from my diary and all the other papers.

Q. When did you see Dr. Dix for the last time in Smolensk?

A. I could not say the exact date. It was very brief, the period of my working there. Dr. Six was only in Smolensk for a very short time. I told Dr. Ulmer so.

Q. Now I am going to hand you a document to refresh your memory. Will you tell me if you recognize this document?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you explain what that document is, please?

A. It was made out on the 31 of August, 1941, and was handed over to me by Dr. Mahnke.

Q. And that is some letter addressed to you?

A. Yes.

Q. You say that is made out on the 31st of August 1941. Was Dr. Six there at the time that letter was made out?

A. This certificate I received when he was still there.

Q. And you are sure of that?

A. Yes, I am quite certain.

W. You saw Dr. Six there at that time?

A. Yes, I got all the certificates at that time. That was done at the request of Dr. Six, that they were handed to my by Dr. Mahnke.

Q. Do you know an SS-man named Noack?

A. Yes.

Q. What was his title?

A. One called him the Commissar of Jewish Questions.

Q. During the last few months did anyone come to talk to you concerning Dr. Six?

A. Dr. Ulmer asked my by telegram.

Q. Did anyone else come to see you concerning Dr. Six?

A. Mrs. Six also came to visit me.

Q. And when Mrs. Six came to visit you what did she tell you about Dr. Six?

A. She told me that Professor Six was in Nurnberg and she told me to get in contact with the defense counsel because that was very important, because that was important for the fact for establishing what Professor Six did in Russia. Then I said that I couldn't tell what Professor Six was responsible for in Russia because the archives I never saw in Russia. I only saw them when I a

Q. Just answer the questions, please.

*. Did Mrs. Six show you a letter which she had received from Professor Six?

A. Yes, this letter said that I was to contact Dr. Ulmer and to tell him everything I knew about the activity of Dr. Six in Russia.

Q. And did this letter say that you were to be trained in your answers?

A. No, Dr. Ulmer never asked me to say anything in particular.

Q. My question was, did that letter say that you were to be trained or "Dressiert", the German word, in your answers?

A. Yes.

Q. And what is your answer; did you say yes? Would you please answer the question again?

A. Yes.

Q. And then Dr. Ulmer came to see you, is that correct?

A. No, no, I was requested by telegram from Dr. Ulmer and then I went to Stuttgart.

Q. And what happened when Dr. Ulmer came to see you or you went to see him?

A. I went to see Dr. Ulmer, and Dr. Ulmer asked me what Professor Six had done in Russia, what he had been responsible for, and I told him as to the official duties of Professor Six was very shortly in Russia, for a very short period, I could not say anything about his service and his position. Because I sat in the corridor and therefore I am not aware of what these individual gentlemen did in Russia. I was mainly in contact with Dr. Augsburg and Dr. Mahnke, and Dr. Six, I only saw when he passed me in the passage of when I saw him about matters that concerned me personally.

Q. Did you tell Dr. Ulmer that Six left Smolensk on August, 1941?

A. I could not possibly tell the date as I do not remember it. It was six years ago. I told Dr. Ulmer Six was only for a very short period in Russia, and I remember I saw him leave myself.

Page 5,167

I was in the hall when he left.

Q. Witness -

A. And the exact date I could not tell him. That I only established at a later date when I was requested, to do so according to certificates and papers which I still had but which I have since turned over.

Q. Then you did not tell Dr. Ulmer that Six left on the 20th of August?

A. I only said that he had been in Russia for a very short period of time. I don't know about this exact date. It is my fault; I really overlooked it.

Q. Are you sure that you told Dr. Ulmer that you did not know the exact date?

A. I am certain that I told Dr. Ulmer that Professor Six was only in Russia for a very short period of time. That I am absolutely certain of.

Q. I am asking you, are you just as certain that you did not tell Dr. Ulmer or that you did tell Dr. Ulmer that you were not aware of the exact date?

A. I had to tell that to Dr. Ulmer because I did not remember the exact date.

Q. Who dictated the affidavit that you signed, was it you or Dr. Ulmer?

A. No, Dr. Ulmer dictated it to his secretary.

Q. Did you want to make some corrections in that affidavit before you signed it?

A. Yes. Dr. Ulmer read it aloud to me. He told me that I could make any corrections I wanted to make. I only wanted to correct one particular point which was that Six and his men were very well liked in the civilian population. But I said, "Not everybody; not all of them," but Dr. Six and Dr. Augsburg were very well liked and held in high esteem with the Russian population because they aided them on various occasions. That is quite certain. And the others, Noack and Schroeder, for instance, were extremely moody and they were arrogant and they were not well liked at all.

Q. And when you sought to make this correction, what did Dr. Ulmer say?

A. Dr. Ulmer said that was not one of the essential things because the statement was only to give a picture of Dr. Six as a human being, but the Tribunal is not very interested in the picture of Six as a human being.

Q. So you actually did not make any corrections then?

A. No.

MR. FERENCZ: No further questions, Your Honor.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, may I first ask to be handed the document which was just handed to the witness so I may look at it and know what it is all about?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, please see that Dr. Ulmer has that document.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, this document was put to the witness to refresh her memory on a point of cross-examination. We intend to introduce it in our rebuttal document book.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Ulmer is certainly entitled to see it now because the witness has referred to it, unless you keep the witness here.

MR. FERENCZ: The witness is here and available for questioning.

THE PRESIDENT: No, I say unless you keep the witnessuntil such time as you offer the document.

MR. FERENCZ: No, Your Honor.

Dr. Ulmer was thereupon handed the document.)

BY DR. ULMER:

Q. My first question to the witness is the following; Has not the witness shown it to me during our discussion, that I even copied it myself and discussed it with her?

A. Yes.

Q. Witness, when we read through this document, did I not draw your attention to the fact that this has been made out on the 31st of August, 1941, and did I not remark on the fact that it was made out by Mahnke and handed out by Mahnke?

A. You did not tell me anything about this date, Dr. Ulmer. You only told me that you did not like this document. Why you did not like it, I had no idea, but we never talked about the date at all.

Q. I am now asking you whether I questioned you why this document was signed by Mahnke and not by Six?

A. No, Dr. Ulmer, you didn't ask me that.

Q. Did I not ask you that? You say that I did not let you make any correction in the draft or in the document that you were to sign?

A. Yes, you put it to me, you told me that I might make corrections before I signed. I did not intend to say that you didn't.

Q. Did I not tell you in detail that only what you know yourself you have to state?

A. Yes.

Q. Did I not believe actually that you would be able to certify more than I actually asked you to?

A. What do you mean?

Q. When I arrived I thought perhaps you might know more, tell me you did not know as much as that, because I was only in the anteroom six hours during the day?

Page 5,170

A. Yes.

Q. Did I not then immediately take down that you only stayed there for six hours and tell you obviously what should be evident in this document are only facts, facts which you know for certain?

A. Yes.

Q. Concerning the date of the return on the 20th of August, 1941, you say we had not talked about that. But now you say that you knew that the date of return of Six was at the end of August, but not exactly, but the arrival of Six you know to be on the 23rd of August?

A. No, not the arrival of Dr. Six, on the 23rd of August. He returned from the village to Smolensk. That is in my diary. It was the 23rd of August.

Q. But that you saw him for the first time.

A. Yes, ....

Q. You told me, "After the Germans had marched into Smolensk, I, with my twelve-months-old child went to the German office which was in the large police building."

A. Yes. The war broke out in June, and from Juno to August I remained in the village, in Korschena, which is about twenty kilometers from Smolensk. This diary I kept in Korschena, in this village. I have it to this very day. You can see it if you like. And on the 22nd of August I wrote in this diary, "Tomorrow I shall go to Smolensk in order to take my child to the physician." On the 23rd of August, in fact I went to Smolensk. I returned to town. Dr. Ulmer, that is what it says.

Q. What period elapsed between that date - from the date of my wanting to talk to you and the date when I actually talked to you in Stuttgart? What period of time elapsed between the date on which you heard for the first time that I, as a defense counsel of Dr. Six, wanted to discuss matters with you, between that time, and the actual time in which I did discuss matters with you?

A. That I do not understand; I do not know what you mean.

Page 5,172

Q. Now, in autumn 1947 you learned from Mrs. Six, I believe, that her husband is a defendant in the Nurnberg trial?

A. Yes, I even read about that in the "Neue Zeitung".

Q. And then you found out that the defense counsel of professor Six wants to call you as a witness?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, what period of time elapsed between this time when you found out about this and the period of time when I actually was with you in Stuttgart?

A. Now again you ask about an exact period of time. I could not give you an exact time. It was a period of time, but whether it was a month, or half a month I could not tell you.

Q. Was it a fortnight at least?

A. I do not want to say a date any more. Otherwise I -

Q. Now, during that time did you not have several days and nights to consider this matter?

A. I did not consider anything as I did not know what questions would be asked. Of course, it worried me, and I am extremely sorry that Professor Six -

Q. When you heard surely, that somebody will arrive to examine me as a witness, you, I am sure, thought, now what can I say, what do I know about Six?

A. About these official matters I never thought about. What I can say about Professors Six was about him as a person and as a character and what he had meant to me as a support, and I really did not know what he was made responsible for. If I knew, I would like to say something about it, but I really don't know.

Q. But this is not what the question is all about at the moment. My question at the moment is why, when you learned that some information is required from you about Six, why then did you not look into your diary before?

A. Mrs. Six never told me anything about this date. She did not put the question to me which I was to consider. I did not know in what channel to direct my thought. Dr. Ulmer, I am here for the first time in a courtroom, and I don't really know what it is all about.

Q. Therefore, before I arrived you have not been influenced in any way concerning what you were supposed to testify to?

A. No. We discussed the activity, that is Frau Six and myself, and Frau Six then told me, "Did you see the archives in Russia?" And I said, "No, in Russia I did not see the archives. I saw them in Berlin for the first time, in the library, all these books which were seized by Professor Six, and there during the latter time I worked in the museum." And the pictures which were taken down at the time, they also went to Berlin, but the books I saw for the first time in Berlin.

Q. All this you discussed with Mrs. Six before I arrived to see you?

A. Yes.

Q. And when I arrived were you not surprised that I wanted entirely different information from what you thought I wanted to know?

A. No, you certainly did not force me to do anything at all, Dr. Ulmer. Of course, it is my fault that I do not remember the exact date. I don't know how this comes about, this question about the date.

Q. You don't have to apologize to me. I certainly do not blame you for anything at all. I have no bad conscience in any way.

A. Of course, it is my fault, I have signed it, and I shall never sign anything again.

Q. I don't understand why the 20th of August 1941, could be established as thedate of the return.

A. This is a riddle to me too, Dr. Ulmer, because I am not interested in the 20th of August, I don't know how.

Q. But you certainly think that it was contained in there at the moment when you signed it, not that I put it in myself afterwards?

A. No. I have the original, or at least I have a copy. No, I certainly do not think so. I must beg your pardon.

Q. That is not necessary. Did I bring along a typewritten sheet with me, a document, when I came, or was the content of what we had discussed in peace taken down on a clean white sheet of paper?

A. Well, it was not very quiet because I cried.

Q. I mean as far as the time was concerned. I mean we had time, didn't we? I want to establish the fact, whether I just came to you in a hurry and asked you to sign this immediately or whether it took some time? What, for instance, do you think? How long did we discuss matters?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember the day of the week?

A. No.

Q. No, I don't mean the date. No, for God's sake don't let's have a date. I wonder whether it was Monday or Wednesday?

A. No, I don't remember.

Q. So you don't remember. Well, it was a Sunday.

A. Yes, it must have been a Sunday.

Q. Now, you know that, do you?

A. Well, you say it.

Q. But you do know it, do you?

A. Yes, that was a Sunday.

Q. Thank you.

A. That is all right.

Q. Now, you had a job in Stuttgart?

Page 5,175

A. Not any longer now.

Q. But at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. So you had to get leave, because you had to arrange your free time in order to be able to discuss things with me. Now, how long did you take -- a whole morning off?

A. Yes, a whole morning.

Q. And was this morning filled up with this visit in my office?

A. Well, I had to wait for a long time in your office, Dr. Ulmer.

Q. And you say that the 20th of August you know from your diary?

A. Yes, so it says in my diary, the 23rd of August, because I was requested to find the date. I couldn't do so from my memory so I had to look into everything that is left from that time. I really -- I took great care to find out when I returned from the village to the town.

Q. Well, how is it then -- how did you know -- where your husband was -- arrested?

A. Yes.

Q. Your husband before the Germans arrived was arrested by the Russian Police, wasn't he?

A. Yes.

Q. Where was it?

A. In Smolensk.

Q. Where were you at the time?

A. Of course, I also was in Smolensk.

Q. When your husband had been arrested?

A. I was together with my husband.

Q. But you were not arrested?

Page 5,176

A. But I was with my husband he was arrested.

Q. Yes. Well, then your husband was arrested. Now, what did you do?

A. I fainted first of all.

Q. I too.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, I must remind the Tribunal that this witness is a defense witness. She may not be impeached, and this is simply an effort on the part of Dr. Ulmer to embarrass and ridicule the witness with irrelevant questions.

DR. ULMER: The question, your Honor, is of considerable importance and I may give the reason for that. I want to show when the witness left to go to the country, to this village from which she says she returned, on the 23rd of August. I do not want to embarrass the witness in any way. I know that the witness is very sensitive. Therefore, I spent two hours in order to be able to deal with her.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ulmer, you are allowed to question the witness on any subject which has been brought into relief by this affidavit, and we don't think that you have been at all unfair in your questioning of the witness.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, the witness has been asked when her husband was arrested, Her husband was killed.

THE PRESIDENT: It isn't on the right channel.

MR. FERENCZ: The witness was asked when her husband was arrested. We know that her husband was killed. She testified that she fainted at the time, whereupon Dr. Ulmer replied, "He fainted too". I hardly think it proper.

THE PRESIDENT: I wasn't aware of that comment.

MR. FERENCZ: Yes, your Honor, that is what brought about this breakdown of the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I think this would be a good moment to recess.

Page 5,177

The Tribunal will be in recess fifteen minutes.

( A recess was taken)

Page 5,178

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, I am terribly sorry that because of the intensity of my questions, I have to upset the witness; and my remark that I also faint only refers to the fact that in my defense I can do nothing since this situation is changed. That I am powerless, in view of the situation, but I did not want to hurt her feelings. I did refer to the fainting of the witness. That is far from me. I never intended anything of the sort and at the time in Stuttgart I tried to do everything to help the witness to talk to me in a quiet manner. BY DR. ULMER: have the impression that I tried to press you in any way or that, considering all your considerations including religious ones, that you were to testify here on oath, I explained this to you because you would have to testify here under oath. I did not want to make any difficulties for you and over that you did not have to worry as far as your conscience is concerned, there should not be any worldly consequences either?

Q I do not know why you are saying "No" now.

A No, Dr. Ulmer, you did not force me to do anything else.

Q Was I careful, considerate?

Q That is what I am trying to show. Well, unfortunately I have to continue where we stopped. When your husband had been arrested by the Russians before they left, you said, first of all you fainted.

It can't be helped. And when did you leave Smolensk then?

A The following day. My husband was arrested on 26 June and on the 27th I left the city with the child, Dr. Ulmer.

Q. Could you leave the city in an orderly manner? Could you take enough clothes and everything you needed, you had a baby, for the baby as well? Could you take all that along? along. It was fifteen or twenty kilometers from the town and I couldn't take along a good deal of things. did you also take your diary along?

A No, I did not take my diary along. I wrote it in Koschomir, in the village in a little book. Unfortunately my diary was not packed. All this was left at home, what I had written from the beginning. continue to keep this diary? you continued to write in it in Smolensk?

Q One further question. Do you remember that in Smolensk after the Germans arrived there the large cathedral was again opened?

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor. I object to the question. It was not raised in my cross examination and the purpose of this redirect is to clarify questions raised on cross examination.

DR. ULMER: I ask you to admit this question because this question helps us to determine a date. When this cathedral was opened can be found out and that is why I would like to ask the witness about this. I am trying to help the witness and us, in order to get at this difference of these dates. That is why I asked this question.

THE PRESIDENT: If it is for the purpose of establishing the chronology of events, it will be permitted.
BY DR. ULMER:

Q Do you know when the day of the "White Mother of God", the patron of the city, is? already celebrate that occasion in the city?

A No, I didn't. At the time I didn't go to church at all. I was in such a state ......

Q I can understand that. But, do you know whether this day had already passed when you were in Smolensk?

A No, I do not know. No, Dr. Ulmer. I was not there.

Q You do not remember exactly when this day was?

A No, I know nothing about the cathedral. I know that it was opened but when this took place I cannot tell you.

Q When you came back, yes. Do you know anything about a birthday of Dr. Six? this birthday. a celebration? What I mean is, do you know that a birthday celebration took place for Professor Six?

A I can't recall that. There were many celebrations there.

chief -

A Yes. Herr Dr. Mahnke said once that it was Dr. Six's birthday.

Q Dr. Mahnke said that on a definite date, one day?

Q While you were in Smolensk with this VKM?

Q Will you please tell us how Dr. Mahnke told you about this? Dr. Mahnke told tou, "Today is Dr. Six's birthday"?

A No, he didn't say "today".

Q What did he say about the birthday of Dr. Six?

Q Do you know whether he said when?

Q I could imagine he was still tired and he said, "I am so tired, because last night we celebrated Six's birthday."

A No. Unfortunately I cannot tell you that. celebration had taken place some time age or that Mahnke simply told you "Just now it happened that we celebrated the birthday"?

A Unfortunately I cannot tell you exactly, Dr. Ulmer. Mahnke about more personal matters.

A Dr. Ulmer, from the very first day I talked with Dr. Mahnke about my personal affairs.

Q About your personal affairs? Yes, I understand that. But, right from the beginning did you understand each other so well that Herr Mahnke could discuss personal affairs which did not concern you? Do you understand, Fau Vetter? If you go to some office in Stuttgart now and ask for something, certainly you are received in a friendly and polite manner, but surely they won't tell you right away that a few days previously they have celebrated the birthday of the chief of the office.

You understand this, don't you? for some time a little closer so that he told you that "We celebrated our chief's birthday." Of, do you think that-when Herr Mahnke told you about it?

MR. FERENCZ: The witness has testified already three or four times that she does not know the date. This is not cross examination. This is a defense witness. We have permitted all kinds of leading questions to be put, without objecting. However, I would like to remind the Defense Counsel that this is a defense witness and that if she has answered three or four times that should be adequate.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. I do not think you need to press that any more, Doctor.

DR. ULMER: Very well, I shall cease to ask about this, Your Honor. BY DR. ULMER: remembered your diary when you were asked about these matters after my interrogation? When was this? When I was asked by Nuernberg, they asked me immediately when did Professor six leave Russia and I said I do not know the exact date.

Professor Six was in Russia only for a short time while I was there, but I cannot tell you the date because that was six years ago. asked you again about this? I just believed everything and I thought everything was all right and I trusted you fully. Dr. Ulmer, I did not think -

Q Don't you trust me any more, now?

A Yes, well, I am not talking about it. What I mean is-confidence?

Q How do you mean that? incorrect. You told me that afterwards and you did that purposely. I had already determined the definite date. They told me, "Well, do you have any papers from that time", and they took some of my papers and among them was my diary. I did not know whether anything was contained in it. I only had a little bit from that time left and they said it was so important that I determine the date when I saw Dr. Six. They said it was of importance. I didn't know why. And I tried to think as hard as I could, Dr. Ulmer.

Q Very well, I am not reproaching you. You say that they took some of your papers, that is what you said. How was this done?

Q How did they take them? Did they tell you, "What papers do you have left from that time?"

Q What kind of papers you had left? I did not know that the date was contained in this affidavit. I really did not know.

A Yes, afterwards they told me, "How did it happen that the 20th of August is mentioned here?"

Q You do have the copies still, don't you?

Q Very well, and then you handed in all papers?

Q To the interrogator? clearly, What did he say that I said to you?

A I have said it before. "How about this date which is contained here?" They showed me the copy by you. And how it happened that this day is in there. I said, "I don't know just how it happened." So they told me, "But Dr. Ulmer knew that the date is wrong," Because I thought I don't want to harm Professor Six at all, really I don't, and so I said perhaps my diary might help. Certainly I don't want to do that. I don't want to bother my conscience about that.

Q But you are not supposed to. But, that is what I told you in Stuttgart. They explained to you that I had not been quite honest with you?

you for the second time?

A Yes. I didn't quite remember this date so exactly, but I thought you were quite sure of it. I said to you at the time, "I only know that Professor Six was a very short time in Russia." I told you that right in the beginning. But you will understand this, Dr. Ulmer. Six years ago -one remembers when one was married and when a child was born, but apart from that I didn't even remember the date when I came to Germany. I had to look it up on papers as well.

not Know this immediately what the exact date was, that they would have to keep you, detain you?

Q That any unpleasantness would arise for you? this affidavit with me? Because you thought perhaps you might be reproached by the Russians because of this? Do you recall that? Tribunal or any one who has to do with it will ever - just because you act as a witness for a defendant now - will ever make any difficulties for you and tell the Russians about it?

A You told me that I wouldn't be asked here as a witness at all.

Q I said I assumed that you won't be called here as a witness by me remember. Do you remember that exactly, I told you that if you give me the affidavit then I won't need to call you as witness? Please say what you would like to. I don't want to influence you at all. I don't want to look at you. I am not trying to force you to any answer.

A No, you are not forcing me. You said it certainly would not happen because everything I know was from a human point of view only. And so I asked you whether the judges would also consider the human impression -

Q And what did I tell you then? no one in this entire American Tribunal would ever make any difficulties for you with the Russian authorities about this? Didn't I tell you that?

A Well, you know, Mr. Ulmer, if I had committed an offense by signing the affidavit I have to bear the responsibility for it and I am willing to bear the responsibility.

I assume all the responsibility.

Q Didn't you say that it night perhaps be unpleasant for you because of your child, which was everything that mattered to you, and that because of the child you did not want to have any difficulties because of being brought into this trial?

A I beg your pardon? under all circumstances to have difficulties because you had been brought into this trial. be quite irrelevant and there was never any question about it. You said, "We won't need you as a witness here on the stand and that it will be quite enough". that I did not write in that you knew nothing about it that Six killed anyone or had anyone killed -

MR. FERENCZ: The last statement was, "I wondered if something is missing from the affidavit," What the Defense Counsel wonders has nothing to do with what this witness is here to testify to.

THE PRESIDENT: You have submitteed the affidavit, Dr. Ulmer, and certainly you are assumed to knew what it contains. So any reflection on what it does not contain might not be important at this time.

DR. ULMER: Would you repeat that, please?

THE PRESIDENT: You made a remark that you were in perplexity about what was or was not in the affidavit. You are assumed to know what is in the affidavit. So your self-perplexity is of no concern.

DR. ULMER: I see. Well, Your Honor, I am of course also concerned about my personality. In order to show the Tribunal that I never tried to force the witness to give a date which perhaps she did not remember at the time, that is -

THE PRESIDENT: You have just made a statement, "I wonder why", and then you referred to something that was or was not in the affidavit. It was not in the nature of a question to the witness.

DR. ULMER: No.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you mean that it is a discrepancy between what appears in her copy of the affidavit and what appears in your copy?

DR. ULMER: There is no difference between the witness' copy and mine. That is exactly the same. The one I have is the carbon copy of the typewritten original of this affidavit.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, you began to make a remark, when Mr. Ferencz objected, and that remark seemed to put you into a state of doubt as to why a certain statement was or was not in the affidavit. Whatever is in the affidavit is before you, so you can question on that.

DR. ULMER: That is what I got from the witness and what I discussed with the witness. And I had the impression or else I would not have entered it in the affidavit that this was exactly what the witness is trying to say and wants to say, because she still remembers it. That is all. Perhaps I thought aloud just now. I said I am surprised, I can't Imagine how the 20th of August can get in there because the date, 20 August - this witness was the first witness whom I personally interrogated who mentioned this date, 20 August. On my own, I couldn't suddenly think about this date, 20 August. I remember at the beginning when Mr. Ferencz questioned the witness it was said that before I came the witness was given a list or something like that of what they thought that she would have to testify to as witness or what she could testify to. BY DR. ULMER:

Q Isn't that what it was, Frau Vetter? Frau Six brought something that was written down to you and said they would like or they thought that you could testify as to this?

Q And did you then tell Frau Six, "No, I cannot be witness for all that?

could not be witness for. anteroom of the office of the Advance Commander Moscow? didn't Frau Six cross out a number of things from the notes?

Q And didn't I come then and tell you Frau Six told me that you could not testify on all these points as I had imagined you could do?

Q Did I try in any way to persuade you to say a little more? remained from those notes which Frau Six brought to you originally?

THE PRESIDENT: I didn't quite catch that question and answer.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, I said originally, for the first time, the witness was approached by the wife of the defendant -

THE PRESIDENT: It isn't necessary to repeat all that. Your last question was, did you include in the affidavit anything which was not left on the notes which had been submitted by Frau Six; and she answered, yes.

DR. ULMER: I beg your pardon, Your Honor. My question was meant to say, did I want more from you than was contained in the written notes with which previously Frau Six had approached you, and since those things which you could not remember from those notes exactly were taken out, and what remained -

THE PRESIDENT: But her answer is in the affirmative. Are you aware of that? In effect she says, "Yes, you wanted more than what appeared on those notes." Now, I want you to be aware of the reply.

DR. ULMER: She said I wanted more than what remained? BY DR. ULMER:

Q Is that right, Frau Vetter? Were you trying to say that?

A No, I didn't have the written notes with me.

Q Yes, I know, but I had them with me. I had something in my hand, some documents on which I could interrogate you. And I want to ask you, did I try to ask you about more things than you had told Frau Six about previously, more than you actually remembered?

DR. ULMER: Is this clarified how, Your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, it is clarified. I was of the impression that her answer would be no, in view of what had preceded that question, but the answer came out yes. But it is clear now.

DR. ULMER: Perhaps it was owing to a rather complicated manner of putting questions by me. BY DR. ULMER: calendar is divided? Is there a difference between the Russian and German calendar?

A I do not know. There might be. I do not know. Christmas is different from the German one, I believe.

A That is quite possible, I really wouldn't know.

Q You don't know that either? you can recall, when you dared to go back to Smolensk?

A When I dared to go back?

Russians.

Q But surely you left it because fighting and shooting were going on?

Q That is what I mean. Yes, and then you dared to go back when everything was over? much later after Smolensk had been in German hands and the fighting was over -

Q No, you are not supposed to, Frau Vetter. I would only be interested in - did you hear that Smolensk had fallen and that you decided to return.

A Yes, of course. First I saw the German troops in the village and then I quickly returned to the city.

Q Very soon after that you returned to the city. Did you hear from your country men in Smolensk how long the Germans had been there already?

Q That didn't interest you either?

A I do not know, Dr. Ulmer, that is a long time ago.

Q You cannot tell me therefore. Do you remember that after the defendant Sic with his advance kommando Moscow was in Smolensk there was --

A When were they there? When did they come to Smolensk? not to influence you. Let us just assume they were there, and when you came they were already there and now I ask you just one thing: Do you remember that later on a larger unit of such people came, I mean, Nebe, with this staff?

Q You remember that? Six and Nebe both there already.

A I beg your pardon? for or Police Building the first time were Six and Nebe there already or was only Six there and then you came and when you had been there some other unit came under Nebe who, according to you, were accommodated on a floor above.

A Please don't talk to me in such a manner, Dr. Ulmer. I am not a child.

Q I don't know how I could hurt you by the way I am asking then questions. I really don't know.

A I mean, I can't tell you the date when Herr Nebe moved in, but I believe I remember that -- I am always afraid to say days. It might have been weeks, but I know that some different people came who had their offices on a higher floor of the building and I was only told that Nebe -- I never talked to him. I don't know him, but they said that he had a much higher rank, but I never saw him, with Professor Six. come after you were already there?

A No, I don't think so.

Q But when you came there, Nebe was already there? already or not? I know that later on a whole unit moved in but what kind of people they were, I only knew that they were on another floor.

Q Yes, and he lived there too, Herr Nebe?

A He also lived higher, but not where Dr. Augsburg and Professor Six were. Nebe who had a much higher rank? there whom you didn't know and who moved into the NKWD Building.

MR. FERENCZ: We must object to the defense counsel trying to put words in the witness' mouth. The witness has said she does not know and is unable to testify to it.

DR. ULMER: No, your Honor. I have tried to ask witness whether she knows that this unit came and moved in one floor higher. That is my question.

MR. FERENCZ: I must object also to any leading questions being put to the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: This is your own witness, Dr. Ulmer and you can't cross-examine her nor may you lead here, because she is, in effect, your own witness.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, I don't know whether your Honor is of the opinion that the question has already been answered. Otherwise, I will have to put it again. It is very simple: whether Frau Vetter knows or whether she recalls that after she had arrived, another unit moved into this Police Building.

THE WITNESS: Yes, I told you, yes. They were on a higher floor. They came later. But what....

Page 5,194

DR. ULMER: Thank you, your Honor, in that case I don't want to impress the witness any more. I have no further questions. I am sorry that I had to confuse the witness so much.

THE WITNESS: You did not confuse me.

DR. ULMER: I mean pschologically that I had to hurt you. BY MR. FERENCZ: the NKWD Building after you had been there?

THE PRESIDENT: Do you wish to object, Dr. Ulmer?

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, when I asked this question before, the prosecutor objected to it. Your Honor sustained the objection and the witness answered it. Now I am objecting that the prosecution is putting this question to the witness again, because I want to say that obviously they are trying to make this witness uncertain of what she had already said.

THE PRESIDENT: He is cross-examining, Dr. Ulmer, he is allowed to ask questions of that character. BY MR. FERENCZ:

the NKWD Building after you had been there?

A Well, I merely was able to say that another unit moved in. When I came they weren't there, but whether Nebe was there already, that I cannot know, I merely heard about Herr Nebe that he had a higher rank and he was chief of the people on the floor above us.

Q But it might have been any police unit which moved in?

A Well, I don't know what kind of a unit it was. I cannot tell you.

Q Thank you. Frau Vetter, did Dr. Ulmer tell you at the time you signed the affidavit that the date 20 August was very important?

A Dr. Ulmer did not tell me that the 20th of August was a very important date, in fact, we did not talk about exact dates at all. I only said that Professor Six was good in Russia.

Q Did you hear Dr. Ulmer say just a little while ago that you mentioned the 20th of August as the date? don't know. You must know yourself that if you were a sked dates six or five years ago, no one would be able to answer that, not even what happened a year ago. One can't remember exactly. That is asking too much.

MR. FERENCZ: No further questions, your Honor.

DR. ULMER: Neither have I. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q How many times did you see Professor Six in Smolensk? my personal affairs, not about official matters. Professor Six, I am sure, will be able to say that himself that concerning official matters, concerning the tasks of Professor Six, I personally never talked with Dr. Six. I always had to deal with Dr. Augsburg, and Dr. Augsburg certainly didn't do anybody any harm. I cannot imagine that.

A May I say something more? May I say something more?

A Herr, Dr. Augsburg always said that Professor Six was a very good man and that he was very sorry for him that he had come just into this organization.

Q How many times did you talk to Professor Six?

A Well, I didn't count. How can I say how often?

Q Well, if you don't know, you don't need to say that you do.

A That's right. They did not tell me what I would have to say as a witness. number of people? Generally, how large a city was it?

A No, that I cannot say. I am afraid I can't say exactly.

Q Well, not exactly, but do you have any idea? Can you compare it with some German city, with Stuttgart, for instance?

A It's about the same as -- I am trying to think with which city I could compare it. Perhaps like Ansbach -- Well, I don't know Ansbach so well. Perhaps something the size of Ansbach, or I don't know exactly. It is a provincial town, a small provincial town.

Q Did you associate with the people in the town very much?

Q Well, you didn't live right in Smolensk, did you?

Q No, I mean after the occupation? tion?

A No, during that time I was in the village. I went to the village. I only went to the village while the town was being bombed. Smolensk, did you live in Smolensk?

A When the Germans captured the city? No, at that time I was in the village. I was in the village when the Germans moved in.

Q Then did you come back to live to Smolensk? then I wanted to go back to my apartment. Smolensk? ment?

A No, not at all. The apartment had been looted. The Russians had looted it and there was nothing left.

and once more took up living in the town of Smolensk.

Q You got another apartment?

A Yes, I lived with a woman. I did not know. She took me up.

THE PRESIDENT: Does Counsel have any other questions? BY DR. ULMER (attorney for the defendant Six): the city was occupied -

Q Yes, bombed. Do you know how long you were in the village?

Q Two months? You are quite sure of that, or because you looked in your diary?

Q You know it? BY THE PRESIDENT: in Smolensk, is that correct?

A Yes, yes, that's right. after you had returned to Smolensk, how long you were living there when Professor Six left to go back Germany?

Page 5,198

A Well, in the middle of December I returned to Germany. I don't mean returned, but I just came to Germany.

Q No, you didn't understand my question, or perhaps it wasn't put very clearly. You returned to Smolensk to live again after the bombing?

Q Then subsequently Professor Six left Smolensk? Six's departure for Germany?

A I am afraid I can't say exactly. I cannot say whether that was one week or two weeks. I cannot say that.

Q. Well, was it as small a period as one week or two weeks, a week or a fortnight?

A That wasn't a very long period of time. I don't think it was a long period of time.

Q What kind of work did you do in that office?

A In this office? First of all I had to sit in the corridor and then various inhabitants of Smolensk came and I had to interpret their requests, and I had to go to the shoemaker's and to the tailor's with various officers and interpret for them, and then for some time they gave me a great number of musical records, classical music, and I had to sort out various kinds of music folk songs, and at the end, shortly before I left. I worked in the museum together with the Sturmbannfuehrer. That was for quite sometime there. That was the museum of the history of the Party.

Q And what work did Professor Six do during this period?

A Well, I have no idea there. I cannot say that. did you socialize and fraternize with the inhabitants, with the people of Smolensk; did you visit about?

A No, I made no visits. In Smolensk I only lived for one year. I did not have many acquaintances there because we lived a rather quiet life.

Q So that you didn't thoroughly know the population of Smolensk?

A No, I already said that I can't say that.

Q In your affidavit this statement appears, "I also know that Herr Six and his men were very much like by the people of Smolensk." of Smolensk liked Professor Six? discussions which I had with members of the civilian population who were also working in that building, and I saw myself that, for example, professor Six had a lot to do with food and clothes. I saw that myself, and they were always very friendly with the Russians who worked there. of Smolensk, if you visited with them. How could you know whether they liked him or not unless you talked with them, unless you saw them, unless you socialized with them? there. in the office?

Q Were there any Jews in Smolensk?

Q Do you know whether any of this food was fed to the Jews?

A Food? I don't know that, no. that is the reason people liked Professor Six. Did the Jews receive any of this food which was distributed? you mean?

done something, for example, tidied up the room, they treated them very well. Not all officers were so friendly and kind. office that Professor Six would give him an item of food, maybe a loaf of bread or a sandwich, or something like that? Now, is that what you mean? I saw it myself, for example. that a Russian woman was there who used to be a student. I knew her before, and she had lost everything. like all of us there, and Professor Six gave her a wool blanket and a coat and various other things.

Q Did you ever see him give anything like that to a Jew?

Q Did any Jews ever come to the office?

A To the office? I wasn't in the office. I was in the corridor, and the Jews were in the yard.

Q What was in the yard? I didn't catch that.

Q What were the Jews doing in the yard?

Q What were they working at?

Q And what happened to them eventually?

A Well, I did not see that. I only knew that they were in the ghetto. Jews who were clearing up the rubble in the yard?

A I only know one thing really, one girl. She was half-Jewish, and Professor Six knew that, and he did not report her. She was halfJew. That means - you probably know what it is. And she told me about this. Her name was Rose, and she was always very frightened. She always said "Professor Six knows this," and she still remained there.

Q What would have happened had he reported her? reported?

A Well, I don't know. I certainly heard nothing about such matters. wasn't there: it was something that was spoken of in a shisper, as it were?

A Yes, and then they were sent to the ghetto?

Q And what happened to them after they got into the ghetto?

A I wasn't in the ghetto; never in my life have I been in the ghetto. I don't know.

Q Did you hear about Jews being executed anywhere around Smolensk?

A In the vicinity of Smolensk? No, I don't know that. I merely know that this happened later, that Herr Noack had a lot to do with the Jews, but how I never saw. The civilian population knew about that.

Q They did know about some terrible things happening to the Jews?

A Yes. I myself did not see it. ing among the population that terrible things were happening to the Jews? there they had to work. I saw that myself. That the Jews worked I saw myself. But, for example, in the yard, I watched the yard sometimes. There were my girl students there. I never saw that they were beaten in the yard; I never saw that.

Q You never saw them being beaten?

Q Did these people who worked in the yard live in the ghetto; did they go back and from the ghettos?

Q You say you didn't see anyone being beaten. Did you hear of the Jews being beaten? beaten? You must have in your mind the thought that somebody was beaten because he was a Jew or you wouldn't tell us for no reason at all that you didn't see then being beaten. me about this, whether the Jews were beaten, and I said. "No, I don't know, "and I never saw myself that the Jews were beaten. I can only say that P.O.W.'s were shot, but that was not done by this police unit. I don't know who carried out that action. Thos were the first corpses I saw in Russia; those were the corpses of P.O.W.'s.

Q Were they Jewish P.O.W.'s?

Q What nationality were they?

A Those were Russian P.O.W.'s: yes, they were Russians.

Q And by whom were they executed? war were executed?

A Well, in every street there were corpses. Of course it was known.

Q This was while you were there?

A I beg your pardon? corpses were on the street?

Q Yes. Did you ever happen to discuss this with Professor Six, that you saw Russian corpses on the street?

A He had already left. I talked about this with Dr. Augsburg.

Professor Six was still there?

Q How long after he left did these corpses appear? for Germany. that you knew of or that you heard about? building. a Jew or of some other nationality?

AAmong those P.O.W.'s, there were some among them I should imagine, there were so many people in the Russian army. In the Russian army there were all nationalities.

Q So that some of these corpses could have been Jews?

A Why not? Of course.

Q Were they all in uniform, all the corpses?

A Well, uniforms, they were just tatters and rags. One could not call that uniform any more. The Russian soldiers were in rags. These had been uniforms I think.

Q Well, could there have been any civilians among those corpses?

A No, they were P.O.W.'s. work? there. I got that from the field kitchen.

Q You received food for your word?

Q And that was your compensation? that food?

territory got food.

Q How did you happen to meet up with Professor Six in Berlin?

A I first went to the local commander's office and inquired there about the fate of my husband.

MR. FERENCZ: I think there was an error in translation. The translator did not add "in Berlin" .

THE PRESIDENT: Oh yes, that is very important.

Q. (By the President) How did you happen to meet up with Professor Six in Berlin? the library?

Q Oh, I see, he got you the job?

Q And he was very kind to you in Berlin? he do which was kind to you in Berlin? really prohibited, but I liked to read them.

Q Anything else? prohibited, those books, and I could also read Thomas Mann and Heinrich Mann and Stefan Zweig. All the books which I liked I was allowed to read.

Q Did you receive any pay for the work you did in the library; did you receive compensation for this work that you did in the library in Berlin?

Q Yes, and you were allowed to listen to foreign broadcasts?

A Yes. Professor Six told me I should not tell anyone about it. He didn't want to know about it. the heart of the literature -and I listened to Russian music and various other statments -- I said very often that National Socialism and Communism are very similar, only in Russia it was even more terrible, the dictatorship. So he said I shouldn't talk about these political opinions or else I would be sent to a concentration camp and then no one could help me, and I should keep quiet about all my thoughts. foreign broadcasts and reading this very devastating, bad literature by Heine and Thomas and Heinrich Mann that you would be sent to a concentration camp and that he couldn't help you? self to a very serious danger, isn't that right?

Q Because you didn't need his permission to do womething which was going to get you into a concentration camp?

A Would you please repeat that?

Q You didn't need his permission to do something which would get you into a concentration camp? deeply and this meant a lot to me. I even brought a Heine book along from Russia, and Professor Six knew this, I took this along to Germany.

Q Were these books in the library where you worked? books were part of the library, all books which hadbeen prohibited, and I was allowed to take care of them. All these were prohibited books, but it was all beautiful literature.

Q Do you think it was very chivalrous of him to say, "Now, you can read these books but if you get in trouble, don't bother me about it"? Six, and I kept comparing National Socialism and Communism, and Professor Six always listened to it very patiently, and I had the impression that inwardly he thought the same thing, only he didn't dare to say it. Socialism and Communism were the same thing?

A Oh, yes, certainly. Their methods are the same, of course. Don't you know in Russia I also thought -- I didn't know about the methods. That is why I believed that the Germans came in order to exterminate Communism, and I knew quite well what Communism meant, and when I lived in Germany I could find out repeatedly that that was not the idea at all of the advance, to fight Communism. a rich country. But they only wanted the materials, goods, and this is always the pretence that this is all idealism. That happens in every war after all. improvement over Communism?

A Improvement? It was a poor imitation. expressed?

A Yes. I know this very well. I always felt that Professor Six was a different person to the others. The others whom I met later in the institute there, they were obsessed, they were fanatic about what they said, but Professor Six is not a fanatic, no. He always listens to everything very patiently, and that he agreed, I noticed, because he always laughed. Well, if one laughs then I think one believes in it.

Q Did you hear Professor Six lecture on Jewery?

Q Did you ever hear him expound on the Jewish race, talk about it?

AAbout the Jews?

A Yes, I said I often talked about Heine with Dr. Six, about his style, and so forht, and he said, "Well Frau Vetter, that is Jewish, I am not allowed to hear about this.

Q Did he ever talk about the Jewish problem?

Q Did you ever, Witness, talk about the Jewish state in the Palestine? library. I didn't read that.

Q I am not saying books written by him. I am talking about his conversations. You see, Professor Six delivered many lectures and there was one lecture which he delivered on Jews, so with that on his mind I thought he might have conversed with you about it some time.

A No, I was not the scientific assistant. That was someone else, but such questions he didn't talk about with me. I wasn't there when he worked on that lecture. Another assistant took care of that.

Q Just what did he say about that?

A Well, what do you mean? presence. You have already indicated that on one occasion he told you that he wasn't to listen to any talk about Jews. Did he ever comment on Jews, in general, just Jews?

A Well, you see, our discussions really didn't deal with such subjects, but on the whole we only talked about personal matters and when Dr. Six talked to me he was always tired of his work and I knew he just wanted to have a rest, so we talked about the family and art. About all he wanted to know about the dialecticmaterialism in Russia. No particular questions, no special questions. I myself did not like politics.

know that Professor Six displayed towards Jews was that he failed to report a half-Jewess. That is, as far as you can go about his attitude towards Jews, that was that one half-Jewess he knew and he didn't report her?

THE PRESIDENT: We want to thank you for a very enlightening discussion. Does counsel wish to question the witness any further?

DR. ULMER: I have no questions to the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Now supposed we take stock and see what we have for Monday. Who will be ready to present documents on Monday? Dr. Heim?

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, may this witness he excused?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, the witness may be excused.

(The witness was excused.)

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, I beg your pardon. Am I to consider my presentation of documents of today as concluded or are there any objections coming? May I consider the presentation of my documents as concluded?

MR. FERENCZ: Yes, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, very well. The Tribunal will now be in recess until Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 19 January 1948, at 1930 hours.)

A. Musmanno, presiding.

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

Military Tribunal II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Before we take up any other business and so that the statement which we are about to make will appearin the record immediately following the examination of Veronika Vetter and so that there can be no misunderstanding later on the Tribunal states that it is convinced that Dr. Hermann Ulmer in his examination of Veronika Vetter in Stuttgart did nothing which would in any way cast any reflection upon his professional conduct, We will say further that it is part of a lawyer's duties to investigate all evidence which he believes may be helpful in the presentation of his case. There was nothing in the examination of Veronika Vetter to suggest in the slightest way that Dr. Ulmer did not live up to the highest ethics of a lawyer. He questioned this witness, obtained information, wrote up a statement which she had the opportunity to read and to correct, and then she signed it. And, when Dr. Ulmer did that he met every requirement and not the slightest discredit may be case upon him for the work which he did in that connection.

Yes, Dr. Aschenauer.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, I would like the defendant Ohlendorf to be excused from attendance in court this afternoon for further preparation.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Ohlendorf will be excused from attendance in court this afternoon.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Thank you.

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome.

DR. HOFFMANN (for Nosske): Your Honor, on 21 November 1947 the Tribunal allowed me to admit as a witness for the defendant Nosske a certain man called Burckhost. I have heard that this man Burckhost arrived here yesterday. I know what I want to ask him. I don't have to discuss it before hand. I would only like to ask the Tribunal to give instructions that this witness be brought into the witness stand.

THE PRESIDENT: You mean he is ready and available at this moment?

DR. HOFFMANN: I don't know for certain whether he is available at this very moment, but I think he can he by this afternoon.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton?

MR. WALTON: If your Honors please, I remember from the copy of the notice of approval to this witness. However, I respectuflly point out that the Prosecution does not know on what points this man will testify and we ask that the 24 hour rule be invoked to give us a chance to prepare the cross examination of the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Well then at the earliest you would be ready is tomorrow morning.

MR. WALTON: At this time, yes, sir.

DR. HOFFMANN: Yes, your Honor. Of course, just in order to speed up the matter I wanted to suggest that the witness could come even today but I am prepared to examine him tomorrow morning.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, the witness will be available tomorrow.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the Tribunal will recall that the Prosecution objected against document 58 of the defendant Braune for the reason that this document was introduced by defense counsel only inthe form of a typewritten copy. Defense counsel for the defendant Braune has in the meantime kindly handed to the Prosecution the original of the document for perusal and we want to state that we do not object against this document 58. We want to state again, -- The Prosecution had informed the Tribunal, that we do not object against this document as defense counsel was good enough to promise to show us the original.

He has done so in the meantime.

THE PRESIDENT: In view of the statement made by Dr. Hochwald, Braune document 58 will be accepted.

DR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome.

Who is now ready with presentation of documents?

DR. KOHR (for Blobel): Your Honor, I would now like to introduce Document Book II of Blobel. It merely contains seven documents and the sequence of the exhibit numbers is the same as the number of the documents. As Exhibit 5 I offer document Blobel No. 5. This is an affidavit by August Haefner of 3 November 1947. The affiant was candidate for the leading service and attached to NK4A as officer and trained police official. The defendant Blobel put him in charge of Advance Kommando Kiev and apart from that for a brief period he was an official of AOK6. The affiant also was present when Blobel reported at the headquarters of the AOK6, to General Field Marshal von *eichenau. He gives a detailed description about this and about events in Sokal and Luck. He confirms in this affidavit the statement of Blobel about his stay in the hospital in Lublin. 6. This is another affidavit by August Haefner of 11 December 1947. As mentioned at the beginning Haefner was chief of Advance Kommando Kiev. In this capacity he gives detailed reports about the situation in Kiev as it was after the capture by the Germans as 19 September 1941. He confirms the statements by Blovel in the witness stand that he arrived in Kiev, contrary to the document which has been brought in by the prosecution , only on 24 September. Also this affidavit proves that in Kiev Blobel suffered a head injury.

Document Blobel 7 I offer as Exhibit No. 7. This is an affidavit by Karl Hennicke of 7 November 1947. Hennicke was expert, 3, departmental chief of Einsatzgruppe C. This affiant gives testimony of his character but also shows that Blobel repeatedly fell ill, while he was in the Eastern Campaign.

Blobel document 8 I introduce as exhibit 8. This is an affidavit by Welther Huppenkothen of 8 December 1947. Huppenkothen was departmental chief of SD Sector West in Duesseldorf in 1934 and was commander of the Security Police and SD in Lublin in 1939 and 1940. The affiant first of all gives testimony of the character but he also gives a survey of the activity of Blobel as Chief of the SD Sub-sector Duesseldorf and also proves that in July 1941 Blobel was in the isolation ward of the Lublin Military Hospital.

Dr. KOHR: (Continuing): Document Blobel 9 is introduced -

DR. HOCHWALD: May I see the original of Exhibit Blobel 9?

THE SECRETARY GENERAL: It hasn't been supplied to the SecretaryGeneral yet to my knowledge.

DR. HOCHWALD: I was just now informed by defense counsel for Blobel that the exhibit is already in the hands of the Secretary General.

THE SECRETARY GENERAL: Well, if it was presented to me last week it is already in the archives. I can get it in just a minute.

DR. HOCHWALD: May I ask then if this is a literal copy of the exhibit?

DR. KOHR: Yes. Blobel Document 9 I offer as exhibit 9. This is -

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the Prosecution objects against this document for several reasons. The excerpt of the transcript -- and I haven't got the original in my hands -- but defense counsel tells me this is a literal copy of the transcript -- the excerpt of the transcript, as it is offered by defense counsel, is incomplete. The excerpt does not show whether and by whom the witness was crossexamined and what his answers to questions of the Prosecution were. It is certainly not admissible that defense produces only those parts of testimony which are favorable for agreement and leaves out those parts which may be less favorable or even unfavorable for the defendant in this case. The testimony of a witness if offered in evidence before a Tribunal, different from the court before which the witness appeared , should certainly be offered in full so that the Tribunal can obtain a clear picture of the contents of such testimony. As to the facts which are alleged to be proved by these excerpts the Prosecution wants to point that these facts are completely immaterial for the case before the Tribunal. It is clear that the alleged order of General Eisenhower, and the Tribunal will certainly recall the testimony of the defendant Blobel in this case, could not have been issued earlier than in 1945 or 1946 which dates also appear in the transcript of the testimony of the witness Wollny which is now offered by the defense for the simple reason that such order could not have influenced the acts of the defendant in 1941 or 1942.

Moreover none of the defendants in this case has alleged that he had knowledge about this order or that he had even heard of it until after this trial began. The credibility of the defendant cannot be proved by the excerpt which is offered now by counsel for the defense. After carefully examining the transcript of the Blobel's testimony in this connection Blobel did not testify that he had knowledge of the testimony of the witness, Wollny.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, this document is not admissible because the defendant himself stated that he knew nothing of such an order after having made the blanket utterance that everybody knew. Then in Court after examination by the Tribunal he indicated that nobody so far as he knew knew of this order. You can only introduce this affidavit to impeach in this statement your own witness in your own defense and if you have the desire to impeach Blobel then we will hear you but if you intend to submit this in support of anything which he said because he repudiated the statement from the witness stand and even went so far as to apologize for his utterance. The document, therefore, will not be accepted.

DR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much, your Honor.

DR. KOHR: Your Honor, may I be permitted to give an explanation about this --why the excerpt from the transcript has become part of document No. 2 of Blobel. On the occasion of the examination of Dr. Braune in the witness stand when the quota of the ratio 1 to 200 was being discussed I tried at the time to explain how it come about that we had this excerpt from the transcript. At the time when Blobel was on the witness stand he said something to the effect that the result of the examination of the witness Wollny in case 7 had made this statement here in the courtroom. It is true that Blobel did not know this for himself. The knowledge now as excerpts from the transcript is being submitted merely for the purpose to make it clear what was the source of knowledge and where he got this knowledge from.

THE PRESIDENT: But don't you see we get into an entirely irrelevant and collateral matter. Suppose the defendant Blobel had said that he heard that in Spain a certain situation existed. Then later on he would say: I made a mistake, this situation does not exist in Spain. Then you want to bring in a document to show why he made that statement about Spain; it becomes immaterial because the witness in the meantime stated that he repudiated the statement. The statement is not challenged by anybody. Therefore, it is entirely surplusage to have it as a document.

DR. KOHR: I do understand this but I was under the impression that it depends on where one gains an impression. Now, one could think as if Blobel was asserting an opinion which he merely assumed while we were able to find out that the fact of the examination of the witness Wollny in case 7 was the reason why this ever came up in this trial. That is what I am trying to say.

THE PRESIDENT: You want to say something, Mr. Hochwald?

MR. HORLICK-HOCKWALD: I just wanted to make a short comment. If I understand counsel for the defense correctly he wants to introduce the document in order to show the credibility of the testimony of his client, but what Blobel stated was not that he had knowledge of the testimony of the witness Wollny either directly or indirectly. What he stated was that every German knew about the order given by General Eisenhower, that for every one American who was killed two hundred Germans were to be shot. Then he amended his statement by saying that his order was well known in Germany. He expressed his conviction that many of defense counsel present knew of this order, that the defendant Ohlendorf must have had knowledge of the order and that his own defense counsel had knowledge about it. I have the English and the German copy of the pertinent passages of Blobel's testimony before me and would like to hand it to the Tribunal for scrutiny for this purpose.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, that is not necessary. We think that the incident is closed and has no probative value of any kind. The defendant made the statement and he later on explained he made a mistake, in effect repudiated the statement and made an apology to General Eisenhower. The Tribunal accepted his statement and his apology, and it is no longer before the Tribunal. There should not be any reference made to this anywhere because with that statement of the defendant, which the Tribunal in good faith accepted, it, in effect, became canceled and obliterated, unfortunately not from the record was from memory, but certainly from the legal consciousness of the Tribunal. The incident no longer happened.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: That is what I just wanted to point out, and in order to keep the record straight, it is the contention of the prosecution that by the document just offered now by the defense counsel the credibility of the defendant at this point cannot be proved.

THE PRESIDENT: We anticipate that the prosecution will not make any reference to this in summation, in their brief, or otherwise.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I have finished my brief on the defendant Blobel.

I think that the defendant has received an English copy. There is no reference made in this brief to this incident.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. KOHR: Your Honor, I would like to thank the Tribunal for this explanation, and I would like to say for myself that it was merely my intention to prove that Blobel did not make this unwise statement maliciously.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, we understand this statement and understand why you made the offer of the document.

DR. KOHR: I now come to introduce Document Blobel No. 10 which I would like to introduce as Exhibit No. 9. This is an excerpt from the Legal Gazette of Germany of 1942, Part I, No. 44, the decision by the Greater German Reichstag of 26 April, 1942. I would like to say the following here. This document shows quite clearly the position of the German head of State. This document reveals in particular and shows the position of the Chief of State with his extensive rights, which were not limited to any extent, and I consider this document relevant; because I think according to Control Council Law No. 10 this does not exclude punishment, but according to these regulations an order from higher authorities would reduce punishment, if an action is carried out because of higher orders. I would like to offer this as an exhibit because I do think it has probative value.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do not want to press the point, as I know the magnanimous and liberal practice of the Tribunal to admit everything in evidence which defense counsel considers relevant for its case, but I do think that this excerpt is entirely immaterial. According to Control Council Law No. 10, crimes against humanity and war crimes can be punished whether they were committed in pursuance of an order or in pursuance of a German law, it does not make any difference.

THE PRESIDENT: But the law also states that the superior orders may be pleaded in mitigation so, therefore, this is entirely relevant.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I only want to point out to that, your Honors, that it was never contested by the prosecution that there was an order by Hitler which provided fob the indiscriminate killing of Jews, Gypsies -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, the worst that you could say about it, Mr. Hochwald, is that it is cumulative.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: That is what I wanted to say, it is not contested by the prosecution that such an order existed.

THE PRESIDENT: I think it is well to have it in the record.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I have just said I don't want to press the point.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, very well.

MR. KOHR: I now would like to offer Document No. 11 which I would like to give the Exhibit No. 10. This is an excerpt from the speech of the Reichfuehrer-SS in Poznan on 4 October, 1943. The prosecution referred in their opening speech to this speech by the Reichfuehrer in Poznan, and I would like to point out that before the I.M.T. it was introduced under the Document No. 1919 ES, US 170, as evidence.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If your Honor please, there is, of course, no objection against this document on the part of the prosecution. We only want to point out that it is understood that the whole speech is in evidence, not those excerpts which are offered.

THE PRESIDENT: The only possible objection that I personally could have to this is that I can repeat that speech to you forward, backward, any way you want it, so that it is really superfluous in order to acquanit the Tribunal with it, but it certainly is relevant.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I only wanted to point out that we understand that the whole document is in evidence.

THE PRESIDENT: By all means; by all means.

DR. KOHR: That concludes my presentation of Document Book II, Blobel. I would like to explain that I intend to introduce as Document No. 12 an affidavit by Walter Ostermann. Unfortunately, I have not yet received this affidavit back from the translation department and, therefore, neither the Tribunal nor the prosecution have a copy of it in English of the exhibit.

I would like to ask the Tribunal to give me opportunity to introduce this document as an exhibit here. me to make. I would like to draw the attention of the Tribunal to the fact that on 6 November 1947 Dr. Heim made an application that the sound track of the statement of the defendant Blobel on 6 June 1947 in the morning be heard in order to clear the question of credibility of the defendant Blobel. We ask that we will be able to hear this sound track here. Unfortunately, I am not able to tell the Tribunal what day Dr. Heim repeated this motion here, and I would like to make a request that this motion by Dr. Heim, which has not been decided yet, be decided by the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: At the first opportunity, and that will be today, we will determine into the feasibility of the mechanical reproduction of the sound track to which you refer, and I would appreciate it, if no later than tomorrow morning, you recall this matter to our attention, but by that time we will be able to tell you just what the mechanical situation is with regard to this request.

DR. KOHR: Thank you, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome. Any other defense counsel ready to proceed?

(No response).

THE PRESIDENT: Apparently not. Mr. Hochwald, is Mr. Ferencz ready to proceed with the rebuttal? Oh, pardon me.

DR. KOHR: Dr. Kohr for Dr. Link.

Your Honor, Dr. Link asked me this morning that if nothing could be discussed a suspension should arise in the Tribunal because if nobody else is able to present any documents he asked me if I inform him through his secretary to appear here immediately. Your Honor will probably remember that Dr. Link already mentioned the fact that he wanted to present his docu that he wanted to present his document on Friday.

Page 5,220

Dr. Link is taking part in the Krupp trial and is there at the moment and can be brought here immediately.

THE PRESIDENT: Are you sure he is in the courtoom?

DR. KOHR: He is in the courtroom of the Krupp trial.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, that is very interesting. So may someone inform him to come to this courtroom of his own free will?

DR. KOHR: His secretary will be able to do that, I think so, because he said before that he was willing to do this.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, we invite him to visit us.

Page 5,221

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the prosecution would appreciate it if the defense could proceed with the presentation of document books, I have just been informed by Mr. Ferencz that our rebuttal document books are not completely ready yet. I cannot tell the Tribunal just when they will be, but I am sure it will be sometime today. I just haven't got them yet.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, has someone now actually gone to notify Dr. Link? Have you notified Dr. Link? You sent the secretary already? Oh, I see.

Well, Mr. Hochwald, after Dr. Link will have submitted his documents, will you then be ready to proceed with something in rebuttal?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, as far as we know, Dr. von Stein is ready to present his document books on the defendant Sandberger at eleven o'clock today.

THE PRESIDENT: I see.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: So that there will be no intermission in this respect.

THE PRESIDENT: And then you will be ready this afternoon?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I hope so, your Honor. I have just received only a short information from Mr. Ferencz who told me that the document books at this time are not ready yet but according to the best of my knowledge they will be ready this afternoon.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, if you have any witness which you intend to present -

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I do not think so, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: I see. Mr. Hochwald, who did you say would be ready at eleven o'clock?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Dr. von Stein for the defendant Sandberger, That is what Mr. Glancy told me.

THE PRESIDENT: What about Dr. Lummert for the defendant Blume?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: As far as I have been told last Friday, Dr. Lummert is in a position to present his documents any time. He was supposed to follow the presentation of the defense counsel for the defendant Ruehl who is just coming in now.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Is Mr. Ferencz making whatever efforts he can to get his document books herd for this afternoon?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I just have telephoned to our office, your Honor, and I have been told that the German document books have been distributed and that we hope to have the English assembled this afternoon. That is the last information which I got just a minute ago.

THE PRESIDENT: That is, ready for submission t his afternoon?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: We haven't got them yet, but I hope so.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

DR. HEIM: Dr. Heim for the defendant Blobel. prosecution had not been given to us yet. I believe that for the rebuttal, in as far as the presentation of documents are concerned, the prosecution will also have to keep to the twenty-four-hour period because the defense also has to have the opportunity to get rebuttal evidence.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do not think that it is in the nature of rebuttal that further documents, in order to rebut rebuttal, are supposed to be handed in by the defense. As far as I understand, the nature of rebuttal evidence is to rebut statements made of the evidence -

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment please. What is the difficulty?

THE INTERPRETER: The switch was on neutral.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: As far as I understand the nature of rebuttal evidence: this evidence is introduced to rebut statements made or evidence offered by the defense, in order to disprove the case in chief as presented by the prosecution. However, we do not want to quibble about the question of the twenty-four-hour rule. I may possibly be allowed to make a suggestion, that we put in this evidence and that the defense may be allowed tomorrow morning, or just at the moment when the twentyfours have expired, to offer their objections against the rebuttal evidence as presented by the prosecution.

DR. HEIM: Your Honor, I would like to point out again the procedure in Case IV against Pohl. The prosecution presented four to five documents books during the rebuttal. The prosecution kept to the twentyfour hour rule very strictly. I consider this necessary since the time during rebuttal is very shor, so that every minute is precious for us in order to get the appropriate rebuttal evidence.

DR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I do not think that Dr. Heim understood my suggestion. I do not want to dispute with defense the right of the twentyfour-hour rule. The only thing is I want is to put in the documents in themselves, but we want to reserve to the defense the right within the twenty-four hours to object against the documents. I think it is perfectly clear. We only want to put in the documents. I think the procedure suggested by the prosecution is by no means a circumvention of the twentyfour-hour rule.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, does the rule state categorically that the opposite side must receive a document twenty-four hours before it is presented?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I wouldn't dare to quote the rule just our of my memory, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: I never had occasion to pass upon it, and there is no question that that rule exists. Whether it is invoked during the rebuttal period we have not had occasion to pass upon, but we would like to say here now that if there is such a rule and the defense insist upon its being invoked, then it will be invoked. It is entirely a matter as to whether the defense wants to waive that rule. If they do not want to waive the rule then -

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If your Honors please, I do think that I called what I said as suggestion. I suggested that, and I do think it is an acceptable suggestion.

THE PRESIDENT: That is right, you just made the suggestion, and it is a question as to whether the suggestion will be accepted or not.

We would like for the Secretary General to inform Dr. Gick that he should confer with the Tribunal with regard to the testimony of the defendant Strauch.

DR. HEIM: Your Honor, personally I am not going to waive the twenty-four-hour rule. As far my colleagues, I cannot make any statement because I haven't discussed the matter with them yet.

The secretary of Dr. Link just gave me a note saying that he is in the Krupp trial and that an order by the Tribunal exists there -

THE PRESIDENT: Is he in or out?

DR. HEIM: He is in the Tribunal, your Honor, in the courtroom.

THE PRESIDENT: I just want to know. I would like to know where counsel are, because they can be anywhere.

DR. HEIM: Your Honor, Dr. Link was not arrested on Friday. The Tribunal in the Krupp trial has issued an order that all defense counsel must be present in the courtroom this morning. Dr. Link would like to inform the Tribunal that during the recess here as soon as there is a chance to leave there he will come here in order to present the documents here.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. The Secretary General will please contact defense Information Center or wherever the lawyers may be available to ascertain who is ready to present further documents books and -

DR. HEIM: Your Honor, if the Tribunal should take a recess we would point this out to our colleagues, that as soon as the documents have been translated they should be submitted here.

THE PRESIDENT: Do I understand, Dr. Heim, that you say Dr. Link would be available at the recess time?

DR. HEIM: He informed me that during the recess he will come immediately.

THE PRESIDENT: We don't know what time they have recesses there. Approximately the same time. Yes. Well, the Tribunal will be in recess now until approximately eleven o'clock, just as soon as Dr. Link is free and the Tribunal is informed then we will reconvene, but for the purpose of the record now the Tribunal will be in recess until eleven o'clock.

Page 5,225

(A recess was taken.)

Page 5,226

(The hearing reconvened at 1125 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

PRESIDENT: Yes, Mr. Hochwald.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, during the recess I have obtained the 24 hours' rule which was invoked by Dr. Heim, and I would like to quote from this rule. It is rule Number 17, "Prosecution to file copies of exhibits - time for filing. The Prosecution not less than 24 hours before it desires to offer any record, document, or other writing in evidence as part of its case in chief, shall file with the Defense Information Center not less than one copy of each record, document, or writing for each of the counsel for defendants," and so on. I do think Your Honors, it is clear from this ruling that the 24 hour rule does not apply for rebuttal evidence. "As part of its case in chief" says the rule. I did not dare to state such a thing unless I did have the wording of the rule before me and, therefore, I was reluctant when the question was raised; however, I do not think that -

PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, you found yourselfin the unusual circumstance of being right, one hundred percent right, but we rule against you, and I know it won't hurt your feelings if we do the same thing again today.

MR. HOCHWALD: That will not, Your Honir, and I want to say that I do think it is an entirely theoretical question, as I know there is enough evidence to come from the part of the defense so that there will be no interruption, and as far as I have been informed, the German document books were filled this morning at 9 o'clock with the Defense Information Center, so that we, at the latest tomorrow morning when court, reconvenes, can start with out rebuttal evidence. Thank you very much.

PRESIDENT: Very well. Now, who is ready to proceed? Dr. Von Stein.

COURT II CASE IX DR. von STEIN for Sandberger: Your Honor, I assume that there are already two of my document books available, is that correct?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

DR. von STEIN: My presentation will be divided into three parts. First of all, I shall submit documents which refer to the Eastern Campaign of the defendant Sandberger and then those documents --

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. von Stein, we have here a thin collection which says "Corrections and Supplement to Document Book I". Then we have Document Book I, well--that is all right. Very well, proceed with Document Book I.

DR. von STEIN: Your Honor, I would just like to say that in my document presentation the Document Books I and II belong together because they are not submitted in the order in which they are contained in the books but particularly one or two exhibit will be in Document Book II.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we only have Document Book I so that if you need the two document books together we can't very well proceed with your Document Book I.

DR. von STEIN: Your Honor, then I can't make my presentation.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Lummert, are you ready to go ahead?

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Glancy.

MR. GLANCY: The Prosecution is not in possession of Document Book II. We just received Document Book I at 10 o'clock but I agreed with defense counsel that we would have no objection in his presenting it. However, as you say if he has to present it with Document Book II we will be unable to allow that.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Secretary General do you know whether Document Book II is available?

THE SECRETARY GENERAL: It is not as yet.

THE PRESIDENT: I am very sorry Dr. von Stein. Then you will have to give way to Dr. Lummert who is ready to proceed.

DR. von STEIN: Yes, But, your Honor, I think the interpreters have COURT II CASE IX Document Book II - it should be available.

THE PRESIDENT: In English?

DR. von STEIN: In English.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Lea do you have Document Book II.

MR. LEA: I am just looking for it, sir. I don't find it. We have it in German but not in English.

No, sir, we don't have an English copy of Document Book II.

THE PRESIDENT: They don't have it, Dr. von Stein.

DR. von STEIN: Then I beg your pardon, your Honor. This afternoon then I shall continue.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Dr. Lummert, will you please proceed?

DR. LUMMERT for Blume: Your Honor, may I make an introductory remark. Mr. Ferencz is not present. When last Thursday I gave him Document Book II and shortly summarized the contents for him he told me that he would have no objection against my documents. Nevertheless I would ask that you give instructions that Mr. Ferencz be called so that he may be present because he is handling this particular case.

MR. WALTON: Mr. Glancy left the courtroom for that very purpose just a moment ago, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed. Prosecution is represented in the person of Mr. Walton for the moment.

DR. LUMMERT: I also would like to ask the Tribunal whether my Document Book I for the defendant Blume has been submitted to the Tribunal because I will need the map on page 28 of Document Book I.

THE PRESIDENT: We have it.

DR. LUMMERT: May I ask whether this map is on page 28 because part of the books don't have them. If not I would have other copies of the chart.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, they are here.

DR. LUMMERT: Thank you, then I shall begin. Your Honor, the presentation of Document Book II for Blume will be very brief because the greater part of the documents, that is the documents 15 through 29, are COURT II CASE IX only or testimonies as to good character.

I shall summarize the contents of these documents briefly. On document 11 which is the first document in Book II needs a more detailed description. I may also remark that page numbers of the English and German Document Book II correspond exactly throughout. This was already the case in my Document Book I. Karl Radl. This affiant was liaison officer between SK7A and the Ninth Army Headquarters during the time when the defendant Blume commanded Sk 7A, that is to say from the end of June until the middle of August 1941. I only saw this affiant to take an affidavit on the enening of 4 November 1947 and was only able to speak to him on that evening because already on the next day the affiant left Nurnberg again. On that 4 November the interrogation or the examination of the defendant Blume in the witness stand had just been completed including the cross examination and I already had submitted Document Book I. I would like to say at this point that it was a great pleasure to me when the story Radl confirmed to me the important facts on the evening of 4 November the way the defendant had testified to on the witness stand. This affidavit therefore confirms the absolute credibility of the defendant Blume. In order to understand this affidavit better I ask the Tribunal to look at the chart which is on page 28 of Document Book 1 of Blume. I would like to have the Tribunal recall that this map shows the route of the advance of Sk7A for the period until Blume was ordered back from the East to Berlin. Furthermore, the Tribunal will recall that the defendant Blume stated as his own witness that he considered the executions of Jews as wrong and, therefore, he wanted to evade them by always staying with the combat troops as far as possible. Furthermore, that during his time when he held command two executions took place, one in Minsk on the morning of 7 July and the second in Vitebsk around the 19 or 20 July. The first execution concerned about 50 to 60 people and the second about 80 executed people. The first one was carried out by COURT II CASE IX Hamptsrumfuehrer Foltes a member of Sk7A upon direct orders of Brigadefuhrer Nebe who was leader of Einsatzgruppe B who arrived in Minsk at that time.

Page 5,230

The second operation in Vitebsk, however, was ordered by a telephone message of Brigadefuhrer Nebe, rather Nebe forced Blume by a telephone message. The defendant Blume also told Hamptstrumfuehrer Foltes at that time to carry out this particular execution.

DR. LUMMERT (continued) Now I come to document 11. On page 1 of the document the witness Radl reports about his tasks as liaison officer and he says on page 2 at the top and I quote just one brief sentence: "I was traveling nearly all the time in order to maintain the liaison between Sk7A and the G-2." difficulties which the defendant Blume had to overcome with the 9th Army Headquarters until he received the permission to move along with the combat troops. He succeeded in getting this permission. That's what Radl says after his great success in Minsk where in the house of the Soviet he found the Russian mobilization plans for the wars against Germany and Poland. important. It is probably not necessary for me to read this passage into the record but I ask the Tribunal to read these 20 lines. The passage begins on page 3, the 7th line from the bottom with the sentence: "When Dr. Blume was on his way from Minsk, etc" and the passage ends on page 4 in the middle. Radl says that he met Blume in Molodetchnow. If the Tribunal will once more look at the map on page 28 of Document Book I I may say that Molodetchnow is somewhat north west of Minsk where the road divides. Radl came from the Ninth Army Headquarters from the direction of Vilna and Blume came from Minsk and at Molodetchnow they met. If I had known the testimony of the witness Radl before then I would have put Molodetchnow on the map. I shall come back now to the affidavit of Radl and to page 4 in the middle. I ask the Tribunal to read the short Paragraph of 7 lines on page 4 in the middle. It concerns itself with executions in Vitebsk. Now I shall once more summarize. Radl reports that the Sk7A spent about 10 days on the Loswitha Lake and that he himself, namely Radl, spent about 5 to 6 days there, too. Furthermore that near Welish and near Baklanova there were serious partisan fights. Important is a conversation which Radl had with the defendant Blume in Baklanova. This passage begins on page 5, line 8, and I would like the Tribunal to read this message too, until the end of the paragraph.

The defendant Blume thus had complained at that time about the bad/conduct of the Brigadefuehrer Nebe. Finally Radl confirms in his affidavit that the defendant Blume was recalled to Berlin shortly afterwards and on page 6 he mentions that Blume was an excellent officer and an excellent commander of his unit, who was very populat with his men and that in his office he was strict and decent and had a calm and objective attitude. May I hand over document 11? witness Kruckemeier. It is very brief. I have tried to avoid cumulative evidence. Kruckemeier too was a member of Sk7A - - -

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Lummert, are you purposely not giving exhibit numbers to these documents?

DR. LUMMERT: Your Honor, when submitting the first document book I already had adopted the system that the exhibit numbers corresponded with the document numbers and you, your Honor, approved of this system at the time. I would ask that I continue this system.

THE PRESIDENT: I think it is an excellent system on your part. It is too bad that it can't always be true. Since you have found a way to let those two systems coincide I think it is an excellent idea.

DR. LUMMERT: I offer all the documents exactly in the order in which they appear in the document book.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. LUMMERT: I said that Kruckemeier was also a member of Sk7A. He confirms the good discipline particularly which the defendant Blume achieved especially as to the relationship toward the civilian population in the occupied territories. which the defendant Blume took measures against a member of the Sk7A, a man who had not acted according to discipline. I need not go into the details. On page 8 the witness reports about the good relationship Lake.

The inhabitants gave the defendant Blume, in a very solemn manner, the Harvest wreath after the harvest had been collected.

The himself.

It contains some snaps with accompanying texts. These testified to in the witness stand.

Since the photostatic copies are not especially clear I ask that I may submit the original pictures to the Tribunal.

his in 1941. He himself took no photographs. I may explain briefly what these pictures are.

Pictures #1 shows the large Soviet building in Minsk.

That is part of the facade. In this large building Sk7A all the mobilization plan.

Pictures 2 and 3 show the great fire in The defendant Blume has made statements about this.

Pictures #4 to Picture #5 shows the Russian prisoners of war when they were interrogat ed immediately after they were captured.

The defendant Blume testified about this on the witness stand.

Now I shall come to pictures 8 to 13.

These come from the Harvest Thanksgiving celebration, at the Los I need not give any more details about it.

The pictures show the good relationship with the civilian population. Perhaps I might mention that on Picture 10 a farmer's wife makes a speech; she has raised her hand, and on Picture 11, Defendant Blume replies. On picture 13 the Tribunal can see the affiant Radl. He is the man with the accordion. This is Document 11 which I handed over before.

THE PRESIDENT: Was an accordion part of the equipment of the Kommando?

DR. LUMMERT: On that occasion, Your Honor, indeed. I might point out Picture No. 15. It confirms the great partisan danger near Welish. Picture 16 shows the Szloboda Lake. Szloboda is on the map too which is on Page 28 of the first document book.

As the next document I offer Blume No. 14. This is an excerpt from the official diplomatic note of the Reich Government to the Government of the Soviet Union of the 22nd of June, 1941. When the defendant Blume was asked by the presiding judge about the various aggressive wars of Germany he answered that in the year 1939 and the following years he considered all these campaigns as not aggressive ones because the German government always gave the German people appropriate reasons for these campaigns which it considered as reasons for a completely defensive wars. I have chosen the statement of the German government here which was published at the beginning of the Russian campaign. It is a very long statement which appeared in all German newspapers at the time. I have only chosen the most important passages from the statement. They show clearly that every German had to believe at the time that the Soviet Union was about to attack Germany immediately and that Germany merely got ahead of them, namely as an act of necessary self-defense. I ask the Tribunal to take judicial notice of this document. They are put in such an order that they describe the defendant Blume from his childhood until the end of the last war. It will certainly not be necessary for me to read any parts of these affidavits word for word.

If I may summarize the most important facts in these affidavits, I may say that the Tribunal will find that all these affiants always emphasized the following characteristics as the salient characteristics of the defendant Blume; namely, his open and sincere manner, his honesty and love of the truth, his pleasant and kind manner which made him popular wherever he went, then his fairness in sports and his tolerance of other people's opinions. As far as the affidavits refer to the professional activity of the defendant Blume, they confirm his absolutely correct and decent attitude and his civil courage, if I may use this concept. "Civil courage" means that a person would prove his absolutely decent and honest manner under all circumstances, especially if his superiors would object. In an official civil courage means particularly that nothing would prevent him from sticking to his honest character. I have no remarks about No. 15. It is the affidavit of the witness Meier. I don't have to say anything about 16 either, the affidavit of Koeller. About 17 I have nothing to say either. That is the affidavit of the witness Leithe. As for No. 18, the affidavit of the witness Hartleif , I would ask the Tribunal to read the last paragraph on page 31 because it concerns the political idealism of the defendant Blume, and it confirms that he was free of any hatred against anyone. Document No. 19, which is the affidavit of the witness Frommeyer, contains a special example of the political tolerance of the defendant Blume. It is a case which had happened by the end of 1944, and I would ask the Tribunal to read the passages on page 32 at the bottom until the top of page 33. Document 20, affidavit of witness Bauer, contains two examples for the fact that Blume was the opposite of a political fanatic. The first case concerns itself with the case where a doctor did not use the Hitler salute. The defendant Blume protected this physician. The second case involves a matter in which the Gestapo, upon the suggestion of the defendant Blume, did not take any steps against somebody.

Document No. 21, the affidavit of the witness Diekmeyer confirms positively the very good character of the defendant Blume. The next, Document 22, is the affidavit of the witness Ruether, former teacher of the defendant Blume, who knew him from many years ago. He too cites a special example for the correct attitude of the defendant Blume in his position. It is a Gestapo case of the year 1934.

The next document, No. 23, is the affidavit of the witness Sommer, a former government president in Halle, the highest ranking government official of the district there. This affidavit gives an excellent recommendation of the defendant Blume. The witness Sommer was an opponent of the National Socialist regime. He had had great difficulties with the predecessor of the defendant Blume and he confirms that the defendant Blume was the opposite of his predecessor, namely a correct official who only served law and justice. Behre and Heinrichsmeier, belong together, as far as the contents are concerned. They concern the period when the defendant Blume had a position in Hannover. That is from the fall of 1937 until December 1939. There too, the defendant Blume showed his correct attitude and that which we call civil courage. As an example, the case of the 9th of November, 1938, is cited. On that day when demonstrations against the Jews took place in all of Germany, the defendant Blume was not in Hannover. when he returned he disapproved of the excesses which had taken place in Hannover very severely and had several SS men arrested who had not stayed away from looting Jewish stores. These SS men were personal friends of the SS-Obergruppenfuehrer Jeckeln, leader of the SS sector there. Jeckeln demanded of the defendant Blume that these SS men be released or be handed over to SS jurisdiction.

The defendant Blume refused to do this. Despite frequent objections by General Jeckeln he had insisted on a proper proceeding against these SS men. Thus he earned for himself the enmity of SS Obergruppenfuhrer Jeckeln. This man Jeckeln is already well known to the Tribunal, especially from the testimony of the defendant Jost. Jeckeln was the type of a ruthless fanatic who could act even in a brutal manner. These were the documents 24 and 25.

Documents 26 and 27 belong together in a similar manner. These are the affidavits of the witness Burg and the affidavit of the witness Ehlich. They confirm the official activity of the defendant Blume in Veldes which is in Upper Carolia and Lower Jtyria. The defendant Blume has already testified in his recross-examination to the facts of this case. Briefly summarized, one can say that the defendant Blume at that time saved the lives and liberty of thousands of people, in sharp contrast to the Higher SS and Police Leader Roesener. It won't be necessary to go into any details.

Finally documents No. 28 and 29 belong together. These are two affidavits of the witness Haefner. They concern the official activity of the defendant Blume in Greece. There too, Blume showed himself to be a correct official who was only guided by a positive attitude towards justice. Especially noteworthy is the conduct of the defendant Blume towards the Anglophile-Greek circles. On his instructions these were spared completely unless they made themselves guilty of active sabotage acts against the German occupying forces. If the Tribunal will look at page 58 of the document book, it is perhaps interesting that at that time there was a unity front in Greece between the Anglophile Greeks, the Greek Government, England itself, the Greek Government in exile, and the German police, against Communism on the other side. The details can be seen from the preceding pages.

Finally I come to the last document, Document No. 30. This is not of evidencial value, but this document is only to facilitate the Tribunal.

Namely, it gives various excerpts and quotations about a certain legal question. The legal question is that of so-called unexpectability. If the Tribunal would be kind enough to read the note on page 61 at the bottom of -- in my opening statement I already have announced that I would discuss this question of unexpectability in my final plea. This is one of the general subjects which defense counsel will discuss in the final pleas. In order to avoid unnecessary repetitions the defense counsel have agreed that several of them will treat certain general themes in more detail. Such general themes, for example, are the Eastern problems, to express it briefly, furthermore the state of necessity caused by the order of the superior, and finally, the so-called unexpectability, and this unexpectability is my favorite theme, and I would like to ask the Tribunal in the recess, between the last day of taking evidence and the starting of the final pleas, to be kind enough to read this Document No. 30, because this would make my final plea easier and briefer. I may remember too that this so-called unexpectability is the basic legal thought which is at the basis of all various regulations about selfdefense, state of emergency, etc.

With this I can close my documentary presentation. It is possible that I shall receive one or two more documents and that I shall submit them later.

THE PRESIDENT: Do I understand, Dr. Lummert -- do I understand that there is more or less an agreement among counsel that you will distribute the legal agruments and that each one will have one phase ofit rather than to have a repetition of the various arguments?

DR. LUMMERT: Yes, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: I think i t is an excellent idea, so that all of you playing together as a big orchestra will produce the symphony of the law, and that you will play on your accordion the theme of unexpectability.

DR. LUMMERT: Your Honor, of course it remains up to every defense counsel to make his particular statements himself. The distribution of the general themes was merely to avoid unnecessary repetition.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, of course you will be entirely free to present your arguments in any way that you wish, but we do think that it is an excellent idea, that where a certain feature of the law is to be developed that one or two counsel devote themselves to that feature. The others may concentrate upon other phases of the law.

DR. LUMMERT: That is just the way we intend it.

THE PRESIDENT: All right. The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:45.

(A recess was taken until the hour of 1345) (The hearing reconvened at 1345 hours)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. GICK: Dr. Gick for the defendant Strauch. defendant Strauch?

THE PRESIDENT: I wish you would, Dr. Gick. BY DR. GICK: when and where you were assigned to Russia. Where were you assigned in Russia for the first time?

Q When was this? 1941, in Riga.

Q On the 10th or 12th? Which month?

A Just a moment, please. Let me think about it. I believe on the 9th -

Q I would like you to give me the answer, defendant, please. Was it in November, 1941?

Q Yes. 1941. And do you remember the day when you came to Riga? personnel office, and this main personnel office probably on the 4th sent me a teletype message to Koenigsberg which I probably got on the 5th, and I was still lying in bed any my arm was broken, and immediately I was not in the hospital anymore, but I had already left the hospital and was at home, but my arm was still in the plaster cast -- and so I called up Berlin and asked them would they leave me for sometime in Koenigsberg to recover because I was not yet fit, and I talked to Herr Blume, and he explained to me, well, he urgently needed somebody in Riga, but he said, "For a few days you can still remain in Koenigsberg", and then as far as I know on the 11th or the 12th I went to Riga.

page 29, Prosecution Exhibit No. 106, Document No. 2966 --- there is an entry that since the 4th of November, 1941, you had been in Lativa.

MR. GLANCY: Pardon me, sir. That is page 20 of Document Book 3-A. and I already inquired why this might have been possible that this entry, was made so incorrectly, and they aid the figures did not quite concide, and therefore I objected, and I said I wastold that this happened repeatedly that in personal files mistakes occurred. BY DR. GICK: or rather transferred, and that only on the 11th or 12th you arrived in Riga?

A He told me verbally, and I stated this: I said that my wife can be heard as a witness about this because my wife took part in that discussion.

Q Herr Strauch, in what capacity were you transferred to Riga? and the SD.

Q Were you Commander of Einsatskommando II? files where it says that from 4 November 1941 you were Chief of Einsatzkommando Latvia with the command of the Security Policy in the Eastern territory, in the Eastland.

A That is just the evidence for it. If it said that I was Chief of Kommando II, then it would not have fitted in because Kommando II was in Loknia or somewhere at the Front, and if it says there "Kommando Chief with the command of the Eastland", this shows clearly that I was not Kommando Chief in Latvia but that I was Commander in the Eastland, as another expression would have been used.

Q What expression would they have used?

Q With the command of the Security Police Eastland?

A No, that doesn't even exist. A commander for Estonia or Lithuania did not exist any longer at that time.

Q At that time who was Einsatzkommando Chief II?

A I cannot say that. I believe -- what was his name again? I can't say for certain what my comrade's name was. He was assigned immediately even before my arrival.

Q And where was Einsatzkommando II?

A That was in Loknia or somewhere there. Unfortunately I do not have a map to show that.

Q Whereabouts is this? under civilian administration? of the Security Police and SD in Latvia?

A I didn't quite get that. what tasks you had as Commander of the Security Police in Latvia. and the SD to organize a new police force because no police existed there, and Stahlecker told me, "First of all, organize a police force for me." Please consider that this is not a security police. A criminal police did not exist there, I said, and it had to be organized with Latvian forces first. Any other police did not exit either. We call it State Police -- that did not exist, and all this had to be organized, and the administration and the administration police had to be organized, and the administration and the administrational police had to be organized, and then, of course, the same as in all other areas the order had been given that the Jews living there were to be liquidated.

Q When did you hear about this order for the first time?

Q Were you in Pretsch?

A No, I was not in Pretsch. I couldn't have been according to the first description of how I got there. I first heard about it from the Commander of the Security Police and SD in Lithuania whom I knew very well, and suddenly I saw him again and he had changed tremendously. I told him, "Tell me, for God's Sake, what do you look like?" and he said in reply that he was confused because of all the things he had to do out there. So I asked him, "What is the matter? What is it?" So he said, "Well, you know about the Fuehrer Order which exists, and we had to carry this out until now." Of course, it impresses one deeply and impressed me deeply, and I stayed with him during the night. Early in the morning I left for Riga and I hoped that my comrade, Rasch --not Rasch -- Batz, the one whose successor I was going to become. Batz is the name.

Q Was it Batz? or I wanted to go to Lange, who had been in Riga for some time. I knew them both very well, and, first of all, I wanted to get some information about what was going on. Now about noon Stahlecker arrived, so I reported there, and he said to me, " Well, what is the matter? What is to be done?" No, that is not true. That is wrong. It was like this: I met neither Batz nor Lange. Batz was somewhere far away in order to say "Goodbye" to his men, and I did not meet either of them, so I went to the main sector, and after a short time I met Stahlecker there. So I asked him what my tasks would be. He told me in reply what I have just described here, that I would have to organize a political and criminal police force, and that I had to deal with inner administration, that I had to take part in work concerning inner administration, and then he said to me, "Yes, we have to deal with the elimination of Jews as well."

So I said quite spontaneously, "That is crazy. Only yesterday I saw "---what is his name? "He looks terrible!" So he said, "Yes, we know that one would have to do something about it. It can't be done that way. He had to be taken away." to be carried out, and first of all I was to go to my old comrades. They would tell me about their experiences, and then about evening -- in the meantime they had heard by phone that I was there, and he said in reply -they both said they had come immediately, and they both came about the same time, and I asked them both, "Tell me, what is going on here. I saw Krueger" -- no -- "Jaeger. He looks terrible. Then I went to Badecker Salzecker and had been given the same mission by him that I would have to carry out Jewish operations, and I could not imagine what terrible tasks I had to do." So I said, "This is awful." So he said to me, "Keep calm. During the last time we have not had to carry out any anti-Jewish operations recently because Heydecker during the last time had said that the anti-Jewish action should not be carried out in Riga during that time."

Q You mean Heydrich? happened, and I talked with Batz and -- what is his name -- Lange. I talked to Lange and also Brigadefuehrer -- the Brigadefuehrer here who had received an order to cease to carry this out. Nobody knew why. Weall believed that Heydrich had had some reasons because of other countries, that the other nations might not like this, and that is why he revoked the order. actually do?

police, most of all with Latvian forces who existed there who then volunteered and said, "Here we are and we are at your disposal"; and schools already existed and I extended them.

A Oh, yes. Up there it says so in red. It says -- I think this applies to all others as well.

Q You mean the organization? office 1 and 2 were combined. They dealt with the traffic administration, food, etc. Such matters were handled by 1 and 2. And then there was Office 3. That was the intelligence office which organized to a strong degree because it is obvious that in a conquered foreign territory one has to take great interest in such matters. The political organization of the country has to be considered because if one comes into a country as victor, then --what shall I says? One has to know all about everything or else onecan't govern the other country, so I worked very hard on office 3, and then there was no criminal police in existence, so we had to organize a criminal police, and we had to deal with it because the criminal police had not been well organized and was not extensive, and so every man came to us and wanted us to give him all sorts of answers to his inquiries.

He inquired about various matters and Department IV was very busy and Department Iv was changed to office--just a minute, please, I got such a fright -- office V also worked hard on the organization of the political police and they were very busy. And the political police did not exist and, therefore, still had to be organized. Those were the main points. And owing to thelack of an order by Heydrich, we avoided having to carry our anti-Jewish actions. Last time I told the President about the Jeckeln action. Weshall talk about that later. the work of the Einsatzkommando?

Q You meant Einsatzkommando?

A No, nothing at all. They passed through occasionally at the most and they just passed and were billeted, that is all.

Q Herr Strauch, please try and concentrate again. Be calm. When you need a rest, just say so, and I shall ask the Tribunal to make a short recess and your can have it at any time.

A Yes. I don't need that at this time. work in your office and the office of the SD and the Security Police, and those of the Einsatzkommando 2, for example.

A Well, I cannot say that. I am completely unable to do so. commando? territory and the Einsatzkommando in the operational territory? tasks?

A Yes. They had to do with administrative tasks to a great extent. Braune told me that one oneoccasion they had to deal with administrative tasks a great deal. He also told me, I just can't think of it, that he was busy working on administrative tasks and that he was popular just because of his work in the administrative sphere.

Q Who are you talking about now?

Q Your Honor, may I ask for a short recess. I think my client is a little tired.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess for 10 minutes.

(A recess was taken)

* (The hearing reconvened at 1430 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. GICK: May I continue, Your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: Please.

EDUARD STRAUCH (Resumed) DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued)

BY DR. GICK:

Q Herr Strauch, how long were you actually commander in Riga?

Q Two weeks?

Q And why did you not continue in that job? it had frozen quite hard, and I got out of my car and broke my arm again up here right into the old breakage, so I went to the military hospital and they made me stay in the hospital. And now it was strange, while I was still in the hospital, I was visited by the Brigadefuehrer Stahlecker who said, "Oh, how bad this is", "Let us try to get you cured the best we can; but apart from that, I must tell you, you have been transferred to Minsk; Your successor will be Lange". He replied to me, "But in view of your accident here, we will inquire again from Berlin whether they couldn't wait quite a while, and whether you could not remain in Riga", and we received a telegram from Berlin that this was impossible, I would have to get cured finally, I could not remain in Riga, I would have to go back to the Reich in order to get cured properly, and then I would have to take over some other office. He talked to the field general after that and asked whether he could not delay the matter, but he said, "No, I can only treat him temporarily stationary, and everything will be all right". So Stahlecker said, "Yes, it is all right, we will do that". Until the 30th of March 1933 I remained in Riga, and then I received the final information that Strauch would have to go to Minsk at last.

Q Do you mean 13 March 1942, don't you, you said '33?

A No, no, '42; '32 I was already chief of the guerrilla unit. arm for the second time?

A Brigadefuehrer Stahlecker had the following intentions. He, himself was to become Higher SS Leader, either in France or one Nordic country - so northern country. He was prepared for this already, and he only lived for that idea to go there. And his deputy, Tschersky, himself, of course, attached importance to this. He was supported by Brigadefuehrer Stehlecker, and he wanted to have him transferred as Brigadefuehrer and as commander. the second time after that, a deputy was appointed as commander for you, Dr. Lange?

Q So obviously you weren't in charge of the commando any more?

A No. I was not in charge of the commando any more. I am just trying to tell you why not. And the - what is his name - said my arm was broken, yes, my arm was broken, and he insisted that I would not have to carry out this operation, but that I would assign men for this, but I only had 20 men in Riga under me, and I had been prohibited to do this by Heydrich. I had been prohibited to do this and if Heydrich says that this is prohibited this is so important that I cannot act to the contrary.

Q Herr Strauch, You are now talking about another situation. We will talk about that shortly. I am now asking you, what did you actually do? Stahlecker said, "Well, do me one favor, take over the - do not take over the commando post in Riga, but let Lange take it over, because you can't take it over anyhow, you will have to go to Minsk one day anyhow, since this has been rejected so strictly - so severely". So he insisted that for a few weeks I should carry out the work of his Department III.

Q You mean his Department III in his office as commander?

A Yes, as commander. I only had to do with the position as commander, nothing else concerned me.

Q were you put in charge of this then?

A Yes, yes. I took over this department - well, "department" is saying too much, there were only three men and two girls. I held this position - well, when I handed over the office, I was at the hospital. I was treated stationary - got stationary treatment, and I just hung around quite a while, and then I took over my position in office III. Only a few weeks could have passed.

Q Did you hold that position until you went to Minsk? do with execution of Jews?

A I was supposed to deal with them. I reported about this repeatedly last time as well. I received - how was this again - well, shortly before I left -before I, or rather when I went to Minsk, when I arrived in Minsk, Kube told me - the Gauleiter, Kube, told me he was forced. Ruthenia. I am asking you whether you had anything to do with execution of Jews in Latvia? order to carry out such executions of Jews just when I had arrived, namely, I think it was in May, he already had carried out operations and had them carried out, and when I arrived he talked to me and said that this could not be carried out in his territory, in his sphere because he needed the Jewish forces and Jewish people under all circumstances.

Q I must interrupt you. Kube was not in Latvia.

there for a very brief period of time.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness Strauch, please, what Dr. Gick asked you was whether you carried out the execution of any Jews in Latvia. You are telling us now what happened when you got to Minsk, which, of course, is important, but Dr. Gick will come to that later. He asks you now whether you carried out any executions in Latvia.

Page 5,252

A. I keep on saying I know about operations in Latvia on orders by General Jeckeln. Yes, on orders by Jeckeln.

Q. Please describe this.

A. I shall describe this now. On 27, I believe -- I still had my plaster cast on and I said - rather two SS officers came to me and said that all available forces of the Security Police and SD in the Eastern territory - he wanted to carry out and that I had detailed some men and put them at his disposal. I explained in reply that I still was sick, and that I was unable to work because of this and that I was not even present because my arm was still in plaster cast and he swore terribly - the two young men, or rather the two young officers - left and secondly called up and somebody swore terribly on the telephone and then in time he explained that he was Jeckeln and that he was Himmler's deputy and he demanded that I carry out his orders. So I said I was unable to do this because it was my duty first of all to hand all my orders to my superior through teletype messages and that I would, therefore, write to Heydrich, Mueller - Gruppenfuehrer Mueller and to my superior Stahlecker and I would get a definite order from him. so I waited, I think until the 27 or 28, and I thouther, "Well, if you don't like it, I still had received no information - if you still aren't ready to do this I won't do it either." So, I got in my car and drove home to my wife, and as my wife will say, will testify, in some book or other --

THE PRESIDENT: Where was your wife, witness?

Where was your wife? You say you drove home to her, where was she?

A. I think - I know there was a definite reason. By Dr. GICK:

Q. The President is asking you where your wife was.

Page 5,253

A. I was just saying my wife had some particular reason which she will give, but I don't know what it is. I have to look at some book or other.

Q. Please answer the question where you found your wife at the time.

A. She was in - as far as I know - Berlin. No, in Essen. In Essen with my mother.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, witness, you were telling us in a very intelligent manner just what happened when Jeckeln instructed you to carry out this execution. You said that you objected and that you would communicate with Heydrich. Did you write to Heydrich?

A. I didn't get the translation- didn't understand it, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You told us that you refused to carry out Jeckeln's orders and that you would write to Heydrich, Mueller, and Stahlecker in order to be informed more precisely on your duties, Did you write to any of these men? Heydrich, Mueller, or Stahlecker.

A. Your Honor, this must have been some political affair. I just said that I did not know why this order was given but I was quite certain I fully understood that Heydrich issued such an order. He had his political reason for this. You can ask any of my comrades whether they would have acted in the same manner in a position like mine, namely that they would have obeyed Heydrich rather than that of Jackeln.

THE PRESIDENT: Well did you communicate with Heydrich to find our whether you were required to obey Jeckln's order?

A. Just a moment, I am not keeping up.

THE PRESIDENT: Did you communicate with Heydrich to find out-

A. I am not getting the German. Your Honor, I keep getting the English,

Page 5,254

THE PRESIDENT: Well I hope we don't have that trouble in addition to all our other troubles.

Will you check? Is he getting the German? icated with Heydrich to find out whether you were required to comply with Jeckeln's order?

A. I don't quite get that.

THE PRESIDENT: You told us - yes - you said that Jeckeln gave you an order and you believe that you were not required to comply with that order and so you communicated with Heydrich. Did Heydrich reply to your complaint?

A. Not at all, Your Honor. Neither Heydrich replied not did Brigadefuehrer Stahlecker answer, not did Gruppenfuehrer Mueller. I thought I understood it that way. In any case I left because of this. I was asked - I was allowed to do this. And then I said I will just go home then as well. If someone had to be responsible Obergruppenfuehrer Heydrich or at least Gruppenfuehrer Stahlecker will be responsible but if they just keep quiet and I have no reason to pass the responsibility.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, did you comply with Jeckel's order?

A. No, I left and I said if neither Heydrich nor Mueller nor Stahlecker want to carry out the order, obviously at least they would have replied to me. If they don't want to carry out the order and it is obviously an order to avoid the whole matter from a political point of view and I would try to get away with it. One could know, Your Honor, I would like to say that now, one did not know how Heydrich would react to this matter so they just kept quiet. one was hunting, and the other was somewhere else. I don't know where and I did not think that I alone would have to carry out this and I did not carry it out because I knew that if the matter was wrong with Heydrich that it will be bad for me.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, all right. How you tell us that you did not obey this order or Jeckel. What did you do after that?

A. Well, until the 10th I believe -

THE PRESIDENT: 10th of what?

A. The 10th -- what was it again? The 10th of February 10th of February. That is, after my arrival I remained in Konigsberg with my wife.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, after the Jeckel action did you leave? Dr. Gick you carry on, please. Why don't you, Dr. Gick, take up each document in which he is referred to and endeavour to have him give an explanation of the particular charge in that document?

DR. GICK: Your Honor, I intent to discuss the individual documents with my client. I am just about to talk about the Jeckel document. First of all, Herr Strauch, your wife was not in Essen as you said but in Konigsberg.

A. Yes, I beg your pardon, Your Honor. I really don't know any more whether she was in Essenor Konigsberg. She wrote one day --- I beg your pardon.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed.

A. She wrote to me the other day that at the time she was in Berlin - I don't know whether it was during that period but I really can not say when my wife, when she was where.

Q. But you traveled to Konigsberg?

A. Yes.

BY DR. GICK:

Q was Dr. Lange, your representative and was he not present at Riga at the time?

AAt what time?

Q At the time the Jeckeln matter came up? because else they would not have turned to me. With my bad arm I was chief of office 3 - in fact I was sich with my arm my arm was in a plaster cast and then 2 SS officers -

Q Yes, we have heard that, Herr Strauch. Were you alone when the Higher SS leaders were present at the time? and I said, I an not allowed to do this, please explain the following secution, German page 61, Exhibit 42, document 3405. I new submit the following to you. I have just heard, it is on page 57 in the English. It is explained here that on the 30 November 1941, that is the day of the Jeckeln operation -- about 600 Jews were shot at Riga; that this operation was carried out under the direction of Higher SS and Police leader, that is Jeckeln, and that Einsatzkommando II took part in this with a ratio of 1 to 20 men.

A It says there "I took part in it with 20 men?" I don't know how this was ever put in. It must have been reported but because it does contain 6 to 8 figure which are contained in the Indictment, it doesn't improve matters. Something must be wrong somewhere. the Kommando, let us say? because we could not ever detail 20 men, not even for guard duties. I am of the opinion that in Latvia there was a figure for Einsatzkommando II School -- by Einsatzkommando II school where people were trained, not for me, not for the Kommando but for the Einsatzkommando and they were trained and they were in barracks.

Well, they were trained eventually and I can only imagine that People from this Einsatzkommando school were utilized for this job, but in my absence, the chief of the Eisantzkommando who had returned in the meantime on one of the visits of the SD might have given this order. My people or the chief of the Security Police and SD could hardly have participated in this and I did not either, because as I have said -- "If you don't want to do this I don't want to either." say that if 1 to 20 is mentioned from Einsatzkommando II, this could only concern the school which was the remainder of the Einsatzkommando found in the front in Riga. best people came from Riga, replacements all the time. On one or three occasions they carried out anti-partisan actions.

Q Did you have anything to do with this school?

Q Was it under your charge?

A No. Later on, it was under the charge of Einsatzkommando II Which wasin the front territory, and later on it was under the charge of Einsatzgruppe B. I believe Einsatzgruppe B or something like that and they carried on the training.

Q Let us now talk about your work in white Ruthenia. How long were you chief of Office 3 in Riga?

Q Until when?

THE PRESIDENT: The 30th of what?

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, do you hear me or rather the translation?

A I can't hear very well. Although what you know I told you only yesterday..... BY DR. GICK:

Q When did you come to Minsk?

A In 1900, no, just a moment please. 1941, 1943 on the 30th of the 30th, I came to Minsk. 30th, but the 30th of which month, please.

Q Was it January?

Q February?

Q What year please?

A 1943. Just a moment. I will think about it. Please ask the President and tell him that it is very difficult for me to think of these dates. It is always very difficult for me. May I have the question again please.

Q I am asking you when you started in your office in Minsk?

A Oh, we found that out no. That was the 30th of the 30th of 1900.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, will you please look in my direction?

Do you understand what you are charge with in this trial?

THE PRESIDENT: Do you realize that this is the one day that you will have in your life to make an explanation as to those charges?

A I believe so. I believe you. I told the Prosecutor yesterday that I would try my best and he told me I could do it and I have the impression that I could do it. Only I have difficulties in thinking of dates.

BY DR. GICK:

Q Was it in March, Herr Strauch? We just wanted to know the year. Now please think carefully whether you can't remember the year.

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment, witness. Now we will help you. You went to Minsk in February 1942, to White Ruthenia, is that correct?

THE PRESIDENT: We are telling you in 1942 - is that correct?

A No, it is not correct, I am.....in 1900........

THE PRESIDENT: Well tell us then what is correct?

A Please your Honor, I haven't thought about it whether -- yes, I must have come there in 1942, because in 1943 I already went to the chief of partisan warfare.

THE PRESIDENT:Yes, well, then you were in Riga up until February 1942 and then you went to White Ruthenia. Now, is that right -if so, just say yes.

THE PRESIDENT: No, please don't. All we want to know now is whether you left Riga and went to White Ruthenia in February 1942.

THE PRESIDENT: Now we are talking about February 1942. Now listen, witness. You don't need to ramble the way you are. You understand the questions. Now why are you giving us this performance? You went to Riga first and then you went to White Ruthenia, that's correct, isn't it?

THE PRESIDENT: All right. Now what we are going to do is to give you a little rest. We will recess court now. During this recess I want you to think over these events a little and then when you are brought back into the court we would like you very much to give us your story. You are charged with very serious crimes and this your one chance.

We can go on without your saying a word. It is up to you. We would prefer that you tell us your story but if you don't want to tell us and if you want to tell us about China and other places, then there is nothing we can do and we will just dispose of the case as if you said nothing. You understand that?

A No, I don't know the legal expression.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, you see every defendant has the right to come into court and deny the terrible things said about him, and this is the day that you have to tell your story. Is that clear?

THE PRESIDENT: All right, now we will give you a little rest, a little recess, and then we will take it up again. The Tribunal will be in recess 15 minutes.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed, Dr. Gick.

DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued) BY DR. GICK: once more. Please tell us when you arrived in Minisk. visited my brother who was in the hospital in Latvia as a physician. I visited him and he said, "Well, how about trying to call up father and congratulate him?" In normal times this was absolutely possible, but we didn't succeed, and on the 22nd I left and on the 23rd I arrived in Riga. a birthday on the 21st of March? him but we couldn't do it.

THE PRESIDENT: Now, just a moment. Now Dr. Gick, when he gets on the subject of his father's birthday, don't encourage him, because we are not interested in his father's birthday. He is on his way to Minsk. Now, find out what he did in Minsk and stick to it if you can.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, I only mentioned this as a means of refreshing his memory when he got to Minsk, otherwise the birthday, of course, does not interest us.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Then we know now his father's birthday was on March 21st.

that. Who was active in Minsk before you, as your deputy?

Q Wasn't it Hoffmann? Wasn't Hoffmann your deputy in Minsk?

A You mean in my official position?

A Well, now I don't know who it is. I was head of an agency, Commander of the Security Police and SD in Latvia, and then I broke my arm and then.

THE PRESIDENT: Now listen, you have broken that arm in so many please, I am wondering how you have any arm left. Now you went to Minsk. Strauch, did you go to Minsk?

THE WITNESS: Yes, of course.

THE PRESIDENT: Now, please tell us what you did when you arrived in Minsk.

THE WITNESS: Oh, you mean when I arrived in Minsk. Well, first of all and to a greater extent it was my job to carry out missions as they were carried out in Riga. In Russia there were no official and no finance agency and, therefore, everything had to be built up anew. The administration had a lot to do and especially in the Security Police, measures, the Security Police and the Criminal Police. The people brought us reports every morning because they didn't know to whom to turn, simply because there was no Criminal Police and we had to do everything. I had a criminal inspector and two commissars, two to three secretaries, and they arrived at our office and reported to the regular police, and they channeled them on to us. Then I had my Chief of Department V, therefore I.......

THE PRESIDENT: Now just a moment.

Dr. Gick, call his attention to the document which covers his activities in Minsk and get his comment on those documents.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, may I first ask him a few questions to prepare for that, and then I shall come to talk about the documents.

Page 5,263

These are the general conditions which must be discussed in my mind. BY DR. GICK:

Q Mr. Strauch, what situation did you find in White Ruthenia?

A Well, what do you mean? What do you mean what situation? There was no government. There was no Russian government. There was only the German administration. White Ruthenia? was valid in White Ruthenia, too.

Q Was it carried out during the time you were in White Ruthenia? like that, there was a large-scale Jewish action which had been carried out by my predecessor, Sturmbeumfuehrer Hoffmann. Hehad carried out a large-scale operation as I saw from the documents, I think up to 5,000 -he had carried out such an operation -- and he carried out another operation involving 2,000 people, I believe, 5,000 and 2,000.

Q Didn't you have any conferences with Heydrich about this Jewish question? me. "Well, listen, I need the Jewish forces which I have here in this country. We can't do without these people because we have a lot of Jews here who must be made use of, for instance, in the harvest, in an armament factory, etc.", and these Jews were immediately employed by the Army in such a way that one could not keep track of them, and I told him that I had the basic orders which he, too, had, and I wanted to think the matter over, and so I travelled through the countryside and looked at the various camps, looked at the factories, agriculture, etc. I inspected and I came to the conviction that for the time being Kube was right, so he said I should support them, and I said I would try it, but I couldn't give him any promises, and then by a coincidence Heydrich came to Minsk, and I told him the same thing, and he said --he laughed a little and said, "Well, that is very strange with you people.

Nobody wants to take any responsibility. Nobody wants to do this job. Nobody wants anything to do with it." But he was in a good humor when he was talking to me, and he said to me. "Well, it is not so important;" perhaps to might reconsider his order because the Army had acted as it did, and he wanted to see how he was going to solve this problem. "Perhaps he will revoke the order." During the visit he was very pleasant and told me laughingly, "Well, just try" --well, how do you say it? "Well, you will see the consequences of the partisans, and you will cry for help, and you will tell me that I must have help; I must get away. You can't keep me here. You always think that you are smarter than we are, and you will see what is coming", and that is what he said. And then I gained a postponement for a certain time. He postponed the matter, first of all, until the completion of the harvest until November.

Q You mean a postponement in point of time? in, nothing was to be done?

Q What did you actually do in Minsk?

A In Minsk I did nothing. Nothing.

THE PRESIDENT: Take it up, Dr. Gick, after the harvest. The execution of the Order was postponed until the harvest was in. Now find out what happened immediately after the harvest was completed. BY DR. GICK:

Q Mr. Strauch, what were the conditions after the harvest? a dirty business, the whole thing. He called for any cause to find a reason to proceed with his Order. I had this Heydrich Order and I didn't have to carry it out, and in the meantime Heydrich was killed. He was not there any longer, so for the time being I was not bound by the Order.

Q You mean even after the harvest? You mean you weren't bound even after the harvest was brought in, or how do you mean this? Himmler first concerned himself with the Ministry of the Interior, with the situation in the interior instead of with the other matters. White Ruthenia?

THE PRESIDENT: Now, Dr. Gick, he told you now that after Heydrich's death Himmler took on and that he was even more adamant in the execution of the Order Now let us find out whether they did finally execute the Order. BY DR. GICK:

A Well, first I didn't carry out the Order for the time being because Heydrich was dead and Himmler was now our chief, and he concerned himself with the Ministry of the Interior. He considered that very important and he let us take care of the Security Police ourselves. He didn't pay any attention to us. The other co-defendants can tell me about that, too. They couldn't even really get at the Chief. For the time being he worried about his activity in the interior. Furthermore, he was chief of an Army in the East. EXAMINATION BY THE PRESIDENT: until much later. We are speaking now of 1942. You postponed the execution of the Fuehrer Order until the harvest was in. Heydrich was killed in June of 1942. Now what did you do in July? Did you then take up the execution of this long-deferred Order?

A Well, first of all, as I said, there was quiet. I didn't carry out anymore orders for the reasons just mentioned. Now suddenly one one day Obergruppenfuehrer von Gottberg arrived.

Gottberg had become persona non grata. Gottberg had become persona non grata and was transferred by Himmler to Minsk.

Q Now you worked together with him in White Ruthenia, didn't you? Kube? former activity of my predecessor, Dr. Hoffmann, and when I started working there, when Zinner, Kube and I -- or rather when I introduced myself to Kube, which I had to do because he was my superior in the administration he gave us a long speech that at the time we should not do anything, and I complied with his wish.

Q Well, but don't you know that Kube was very happy that the Fuehrer Order had been complied with and that many thousands of Jews were killed? Don't you know that? killed and when I arrived Kube asked me not to continue this system, and he told me why, and I stopped because when you arrive the first day, you can't immediately shoot Jews. One didn't have to do that.

Q Well, you say you shouldn't shoot Jews on the very first day. How about on the second day? Did you shoot any on the second day?

Q Well, did you shoot any on the third day? before, that I personally, until the arrival of Gottberg, carried out no Jewish executions.

Q Were you in Minsk in July of 1942?

June I was in Minsk.

Q Yes. Well, were you there in July? Jews were liquidated in Minsk on the 28th and 29th of July. trick on his part -- that is what the letter said -- that he couldn't understand that Kube was so soft. Himmler wrote to Kube that Kube is too soft, and he threatened to punish him. He told him he had put him into this position, but he could remove him from there just as quickly. If I may discuss this briefly, Kube before the War had been dismissed from the Party because of some kind of wrong measures and women affiars and he had been dismissed as Gauleiter, and he did the smartest thing that he could have done. He went to the Waffen-SS, and in the Waffen-SS he proved himself to be fairly capable, and then he went to Belgium, I think, with the Waffen-SS.

Q Well, now we are talking about 1942. He was in White Ruthenia in 1942. fact that he went with the Waffen-SS -- Kube -- and that he joined the campaign in Belgium, and Himmler was very proud of this that a Gauleiter had served in the Waffen-SS and he was very much impressed. May I continue?

Q Well, let us get back to Russia. You got us over into Belgium now.

A Well, we are in White Ruthenia. Himmler had Hitler appoint him to this position after a long fight, and thus actually he was there against Rosenberg's will and of .....

Q Well, witness, just a moment, please. Kube has made a report on what you did in White Ruthenia, and which he signed himself.

you worked with him and that you carried out the Fuehrer Order.

A Well, you can know how our political leaders work today. I would have never doubted it that he would have attacked me. I would have never doubted it.

Q Well, no, this isn't an attack. He praises you; he likes you. He wrote a letter on August 10th in which he speaks in very laudatory words of your achievements. he denounces me to Rosenberg, or rather attacks me, and said that "he can do nothing; I don't want him", and "Take him away". he got this letter from Heydrich and he got this letter via Lohse and in order to make himself popular publicly.

Q I have the testimony. I will read you the excerpt from the letter. This is a letter he wrote on August 10th, and he says:

"During detailed consultations with the SS Brigadefuehrer Zenner and the extremely capable Chief of the SD, SS_Obersturmbannfuehrer Dr. Strauch, we found that we had liquidated approximately fifty-five thousand Jews in White Ruthenia during the last ten weeks." Now he speaks of you there as the "extremely capable Chief of the SD". he says "This excellent capable Dr. Strauch, who" -- oh, yes, "This excellent man, excellent Dr. Strauch", and he also said that we had thought it over quite a bit, this Zenner and myself, and then in a brief period of time we had killed seventy-five Jews.

Q Not seventy-five, fifty-five thousand. There is a little difference in figures.

A Fifty-five thousand?

A Well, I can't say -- well, at least it was an enormous number. and had him say that first of all we weren't even together outside of the until the arrival of Gottberg we carried out no such thing. This can be traced back to the fact that Himmler had put on pressure, that he had written the figure of 1700 in this letter and that Gottberg wanted to make himself popular with the Reichsfuehrer, and he could have said, "Here, that is what we have done."

COURT II CASE IX BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Well, In other words, you say that he exaggerated the figures?

A. Yes, definitely, he exaggerated them. Yes. He expressed that, that probably as far as the 17,000 figures are concerned, he wanted to quiet Himmler in order not to be kicked out again.

Q. All right, now if 55,000 was an exaggeration, what figures do you think more correctly represents the facts, about how many Jews were killed during that period--you say 55,000 is too mcuh, it is exaggerated-about how many were executed during that period?

A. Well, from Minsk I only know a figure which has been named already which coveres the period of my predecessor and his predecessor and which was mentioned, and there it was supposed to have been 10,000 or something like it, but I can't swear to it, but this figure, 5,000, was always mentioned, and then the number, 10,000, was mentioned, which my predecessor, Dr. Hoffmann, was supposed to have be killed, so that the figure, 15,000--

Q. 55,000.

A. I just heard "55", well, it must have been these figures which were mentioned previously by my commander, my predecessor.

Q. Well, how many were executed after you reached Minsk?

A. Well, as I said, I had convinced myself that this wouldn't be possible for the time being and that Kube who was an opponent, or he was a very great friend of the Jews, I would say--well, I can merely say that he distributed candy among the Jewish children in the city, et cetera. In other words, he could never have written such a letter at all.

Q. Did you see him distribute this candy?

A. No. I no longer saw it, but my successor told me this officially, and that was the reason why Kube was attacked by Himmler.

Q. How long did you serve with Kube?

A. Shortly after my departure, Oh, I think until I left, we worked together.

Q. Well, that was many months, wasn't it?

Page 5,271

A. Yes, three-well, just a minute-well, I got to Minsk on the 23rd of July--on the 22nd or 23 I came to the chief of the anti-partisan warfare. That is how long I worked with him.

Q. Well, it was several months at least?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. Well, during this time how many Jews were executed under Kube?

A. Well, that is difficult to say. Well, first of all, we had the executive-

Q. I asked about how many Jews were killed under Kube.

A. Well, I must discuss with this with you, Your Honor. There were the large-scale anti-Jewish actions which were very large sometimes, with 30,000 to 40,000 partisans and among them in a camp there were about 300 Jewish partisans, were treated just the same. They were equipped, armed and attacked us and with SS and police units we started fighting them. In partisan fights probably 500 to 600 were killed, and under Kube himself, well let me see, these 15,000 Jews who were killed there when I wasn't there yet. That was my predecessor.

Q. No, I am not talking about your predecessor, I am speaking about the time that you served.

A. You mean my time? Oh Yes, well, if I count those Jews who were later killed by Gottberg, when I was G-2, when I count them along with the others, then I would say 17,000.

Q. Seventeen thousand Jews were killed while you served with Kube?

A. No. Then I didn't work with Kube any more, but I was G-2. I may presuppose that the Tribunal knows what the G-2 is. We were always fighting partisans and during these actions I was always used as G-2, and here, too, there was a list, and that said some operation had a code name like "Winter Zauber" or something like that and I had the the mission to carry out reconnaisance, that is, to determine where the partisans were.

Q. Just a minute, just a minute. Another section of this letter reads as follows, "In the city of Minsk about 10,000 Jews were liquidated COURT II CASE IX on 28 and 29 July, 6500 of whom were Russian Jews mainly old people, women and children.

The remainder consisted of Jews unfit for work, most of whom had been sent to Minsk from Vienna, Brunn, Bremen, and Berlin. In November of the previous year at the Fuehrer's orders." Now, You will notice in that letter, Witness Strauch, that a reference is made to the killing of Jews who were not fit for work. You had told us that the Fuehrerorder was suspended until the harvest was in because you needed the Jewish labor?

A. Yes, approximately, approximately until after the harvest and in the most important plants which were important for the army.

Q. All right, now, there is no sense in executing Jews who could work, but wasn't it the idea of the Fuehrerorder that those who were not fit to work should be executed and they were executed?

A. No. I was told by Brigadier General Stahlecker at the time that this was a general order, not about the fitness or unfitness to work, well, for ideological reasons.

Q. So, therefore, a Jew had to be killed just because he was a Jew?

A. Yes, to my knowledge.

Q. Yes. Then how many were killed by Kube when you were with him on that interpretation of the fuehrerorder that a Jew had to be killed because he was a Jew?

A. Well, Kube was glad that he didn't have to carry out any operation, that he was permitted by the Heydrich order not to do it. That was his greatest happiness, because I said, Kube....

Q. Would you please look in Document Book III A--will you help him, Dr. Gick, to find it--and look at Document 3428 PS. It is on page 32 in the English.

DR. GICK: I have got it here, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, let him look at it.

THE WITNESS: Well, Your Honor, I know this because I can remember it very well, because I have seen it here. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Yes. Well, don't you see that from that letter Kube is quite proud of the fact that he was able to execute the fuehrerorder--don't you see that?

A. Yes. I tell you, Your Honor, that Kube wanted to protect himself. As a rest of this Himmler letter exists somewhere--he wanted to protect himself. Everyone who knows Kube knows how he does that. Under all circumstances, he wanted to get away from any mistreatment by Himmler, and that is why he made up such a letter, which is wrong, namely in the fact that he didn't even like me. He did me harm wherever he could.

Q. Well, I can understand how according to your interpretation he would exaggerate the figures, but I don't understand how he could completely invent the story that he had killed Jews if he hadn't killed any. Now, he did kill some, didn't he?

A. Well, Yes. I said in the beginning of June or January--or the January and May Jews he had to give his permission for it, as difficult as it was for him, but he had to carry it out.

Q. All right, now that-

A. Well, something he had to do, Yes.

Q. And you know that of your own knowledge because you were there, that he had executed some Jews in order to make some kind of a showing before Himmler?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was when you were there?

A. Well, almost the entire figures which altogether--figures which are shown anywhere were added by him and without my knowledge; one of my comrades in the court house told me, "Did you know this Kube letter"? I said, "No". "Well, that is very important for you". "Well, I have no reason to consider this important," I said, "but where should it come from?" "Well, that is a letter from Kube where it is described that you in a letter of Heydrich or Rosenberg you are praised very much in that." Well, I said, "That is all the same to me, it is not right, and either COURT II CASE IX it is all made up or it is forged or fabricated in order to expose the whole SS."

Page 5,274

That, was my opinion, and I have always expressed it. Again they couldn't understand at all that I shrugged this letter off in this manner.

order to make some kind of a showing. He may have exaggerated the figures but he did kill some Jews. You know that as a fact, don't you? course, told me about it, and then during my first visit to Kube I told him, "Well, listen here, Kube, you are a Gauleiter. You tell me that you are so friendly to Jews and actually you yourself have had such executions carried out." But then he said, "Oh, for God's Sake, if you can help me at all to get out of this, then you will be doing me a great service." Well, I will look at the matter myself, and I traveled around the country and I looked at matters myself, and I came back in the conviction that here, for the time being, it was not being done, and there it was my good fortune that I met Heydrich.

A It was reported to me by my predecessor, Dr. Hoffmann.

A No, your Honor, that must be a mistake. I don't think so. I don't think I can say that. executed in White Ruthenia while you were there?

Q Now, you were there from February 1942 until July 1943?

Q That is a long time. That is a year and five months.

Q Well, that is the Kube letter. (A document was handed to the witness.)

Q Now, you know that it isn't reasonable to believe that in all that time that you did not participate in one of these actions, otherwise why did they keep you there a year and five months?

A Your Honor, I didn't claim that I didn't see any executions of Jews. That is out of the question. I wouldn't refute that. I would be a liar if I did. The situation is this way. Von Gottberg wanted, rather Kube wanted to steal some praise from Gottberg. He wanted to be popular in Berlin, and he was pretty ambitious, and he wanted some sort of partisan action, and these partisan operations usually were connected with Jewish operations, and mostly I was active as a G-2 and I was out in the field, and I was looking for those partisans, and then I sent back a message telling where the partisans were, and then Gottberg came with his main forces, mostly 500 men up to a division, and he determined where the partisans were and I was sent ahead to carry out reconnaissance.

Q Just a moment, please. Now, you told us that you did see the execution of some Jews and that if you said to the contrary that you would be a liar because you did see some executions of Jews. How many executions did you see? myself.

Q Now, how many of these executions did you supervise yourself? fuehrer von Gottberg, and he ordered every single individual to the executions, every one. There were comrades who were very much affected, but the others were less affected, and now you must consider that in White Ruthenia I only had 120 men, and if I carried out operations with them, reconnaissance operations, then I needed every man for these. there was an execution in Sluzk in the middle of February 1943. Would you please tell us about that execution? Remember first the town is Sluzk, S-l-u-z-k. Do you remember that place?

A You mean the town of Sluzk?

Q Yes. I, of course, mispronounced it. You see it there on the map? It is in White Ruthenia and South of Minsk. Do you see it on the map? Will someone please point it out to him? Perhaps it isn't shown there. Here, please show it to him here. Show to him in White Ruthenia, Sluzk. that is wrong.

Q Yes. Well, direct your attention to Sluzk. Now, you were there in February 1943?

A Yes, yes. The situation was as follows: Gottberg had started his operation and had ordered me to report to Sluzk and there was a big conference because there was at least one regiment, an Army regiment, and a regiment of police units was present there, and we worked out the operation and I was to accompany him into the field, and he announced to all participants there that here a Jewish action was to be carried out, and the reason he gave was - or rather I had mentioned the reason, that we knew that in Sluzk there were heavy arms, machine guns, etc., had been piled up, stocked in Sluzk, and this report that there were large numbers of arms, weapons there, and thereupon he ordered this action, and as G-2, I determined this beforehand, this whole story, and then immediately he started the attack. We knew approximately where the arms were stored, and hardly had we entered the ghetto when the whole thing started, the whole firing, and we were shot upon heavily and we had a pretty bad fight there.

Q Yes. Now as a result of this action in the ghetto there was an execution, that is right, isn't it?

Q Now, about how many were killed in the execution in Sluzk?

A Well, I don't know exactly because I went back into the forest, but-killed, is that about right?

A Two thousand? I don't think so, but I would assume twelve hundred.

At least that is what I was told afterwards. I went on with a few men, and my men were distributed to the various battalions and regiments.

Q All right, how many were actually killed while you were there; how many were actually shot while you were there?

A When I was there you mean? of two hundred, weren't there? didn't you,or at least held in waiting? in abeyance and waiting their turn to be shot; about how many did you see there?

AAbout two hundred. I can't give you an exact number; I couldn't swear to it, but I would say two hundred. then you went on to some other place?

Q Where did you go to?

A. There was a small place south of Sluzk - there was a small locality - which I was to occupy and hold until the larger forces could come after me.

Q. All right. What did you do there?

A. Well, I stayed there. I searched the place and found out what was there, from a war technical view point whether I could expect any attack, etc.

Q. Do you recall the town of - I can't pronounce it - T-s-c-h-e-r-we-n-? Is it on the map?

A. Tscherwen? I saw it somewhere - in some document Q. well, it's in White Ruthenia.

A. No, it's - well, it's in front of White Ruthenia. I would have to explain it. Tscherwen should actually belong to White Ruthenia but at that tine when I was there it belonged to the rear Army area and thus it was not under the civilian administration.

Q. Do you know anything about the executions which occurred in that town?

A. In Kursk - no. Completely unknown to me because it cannot be known to me because it does not belong to my area.

Q. I see. Did R-a-k-o-w belong to your area?

A. Rakow - Kursk.

Q. It is near Minsk.

A. That does not belong to my area either. I don't know where it belongs. I think to another Army group. But near Minsk there is another small place, K-u-r-s-k.

Q. Did any executions occur there?

A. Well, the Prosecution lists that in Kursk, the ghetto in Kursk consisted of 150 people and that they had been executed. In reality Kursk actually had only 120 inhabitants. And then in some -- what do you call it? Some document says that the entire ghetto in Kursk had been executed and my predecessor is supposed to have written this - that they had all been executed.

because the ghetto had offered resistance. All that.was from my predecessor.

Q. Can you give us an idea just what your area covered on the map? Can you show us just about which part of the map your area covered?

A. Then Korosten still belongs to us. Shitomir did not. Amanjew belonged to some swamp place. This belonged to somebody else. And then up here one part passed by Korosten. Then Minsk up there - well, it isn't listed in there - and through Baranowitsche and then the border was in the forest which the Russians had taken away. And, I think we had Luck but I can't say definite. Baranowitsche and Vilna, in any way, belonged to us. Here is the Bug river.

Q. How far east did you go? How far east did your line extend?

A. Well, that's so difficult to point out here, your Honor. In our area which also was called White Ruthonia - and that was the rear Army area - we were always in the Advance Area and the territory had a funny shape. Korosten, Bobruisk, Shitomir was outside. Oh, well, but it goes further east and then Baranowitsche.

Q. Did you go as far east as K-u-r-s-k-? Some one point that out it's down here.

A. No. No, 10 or 20 kilometers, I think from Minsk, east of Minsk, and it stops.

Q. I see. All right. You may sit down. Were you in Minsk in March of 1942?

A. No, under no circumstances. I said why I know this exactly. I have no means of refreshing my memory. I had my War Diary which the British took away from me in the camp and that's why I have nothing.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will now recess until tomorrow morning at the usual time 9:30.

Otto Ohlendorf, et al. defendants, sitting at Nurnberg,

A. Musmanno, presiding.

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

Military Tribunal II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

DR. ASCHEN AUER: Your Honor, I ask that the defendant Ohlendorf be excused from this afternoon's session and that you give instructions that he be brought to Room 57.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Ohlendorf will be excused from attendance in Court this afternoon, and it is instructed that all those who are charged with the job of seeing to it, that he is taken to Room 57 for the afternoon.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Thank you.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed, Dr. Gick.

DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued) BY DR. GICK: the Kube document which is known to you. In this document it says that you took part in lengthy discussions with the SA Brigadier-General Zinner and with Kube, and that you had discussed the liquidation of Jews in these discussions. Did you have these discussions?

A Well, first of all, let me say, - this sentence I don't forget this easily - it should say, "After detailed" or "With detailed discussions". The German sentence is completely impossible. "With detailed discussions with Brigadier-General Zinner," that was the SS and Police Leader, "and the excellent, capable Dr. Edward Strauch." And I want to object to this because at this time I wasn't even a doctor of law, and that Kube knew about it. Well, that I was supposed to have had discussions with them and that after these discussions we are supposed to have had the conviction to do something about the Jewish order gently, but to carry it out eventually, gradually, and then he discussed the Jewish problem with me and told me it is absolutely necessary in White Ruthenia not to carry out the anti-Jewish actions for the moment, and he would be grateful to me if I could be of help to him to stop these operations.

Then as long as or until Gottberg arrived, we didn't carry out any single action unless the partisan operations were carried out, and that in these partisan fights Jews were also caught and executed during the fights in the woods. Well, more than that I can't tell you.

Q And when did Gottberg arrive? something like that, no November.

Q 1942?

Q Then it isn't right that you discussed the Jewish liquidation with Kube? it. That is why I say that this letter that was written around that time is a lie. would be from about the middle of May until the end of July, you had liquidated 55,000 Jews. figures. He took the earlier results, or rather he invented the earlier results. He made them up somehow. Then he sent them to Berlin and to Himmler in order to show-- Well, Heydrich put pressure upon him and somehow he had to get around it, and thus he put these figures into the report by emphasizing my own person, even though he didn't even like me at all, and at the same time he wrote to Rosenberg an uncomplimentary letter about myself, and he was glad that nothing was done by us, and he was even more happy when Heydrich came.

the figures were not invented by Kube but that these executions took place at a period which was before your time?

A Well, somehow they took place somewhere. I don't even know whether they did take place, but they always spoke of these figures, and Kube arbitrarily moved them into the latter period, yes. were liquidated around this period?

A No, I know nothing about that. When was that supposed to have been?

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, the letter states that the executions occurred on July 28th and 29th.

Q (By Dr. Gick) Yes, Herr Strauch, the specific date which is given in this letter is the 28th and 29th of July. On the 28th and 29th of July 10,000 Jews are supposed to have been liquidated in Minsk.

A No, I know nothing about that. Where? You mean in the Kube letter? like that.

AAnd where does it say, and in what passage does it say that? I read this letter thoroughly. Where does it say that?

Q I will show you the document. Right here, this passage (indicating).

A Well, that was not in Minsk. I can't say. I never knew about the Kube letter. I only saw this here in orison, and this fact certainly isn't known to me at all. executions in Libau or Slonin?

A Well, I would have to have the newspapers. Executions took place shortly before I arrived, just shortly before I arrived.

told us. These liquidations were supposed to have taken place afterwards in May, middle of May until end of July. taken place?.

A Yes, that would have to be. My deputy, of course, informed me about all the various things which happened. thing about such liquidations? such liquidations, whereas the other comrades made reports and I made none at all would have taken place? all the others did.

in White Ruthenia, do you know anything about that? they were already there when I arrived. Five or six, I said and four of those, four of there transports were destined for liquidation, and the others I - for the other I set up a large estate, farm, and the Jewish inhabitants were in there and they were housed in barns - well, they were housed in some sort of a structure, and since they were amply equipped with their own things, they were very well taken care of. They cooked their own meals, they raised their own cows, they had their food, and there was a hospital on this estate, and they were perfectly well taken care of Everyone whom I took there was surprised. say? Well, on Page 47 of this documents Kube, however, reports that you yourself were indignant that such a transport had arrived, and that during the night you had indignantly reported this to Kube, is that correct?

A Well, I don't know anything about his letter. I heard about it, and if this had roused me so much I would have reported it to the Air District Commander, but I wasn't so indignant about it if a thousand Jews came. letter says? such friendly to the Jews, that he had to try to make himself popular with Himmer and to pretend as if he was the best man, and, of couse, would do everything the way it should be done, in order to show himself up to be a good man. Brigadier-General Zinner had the same impression.

Q Herr Strauch, let's now discuss those documents which the prosecution has charged you with. First of all that would be Document 3279 in document Book I, Exhibit 21, German Page 100. It says here, on the German Page 116, "In White Ruthenia the cleaning process is proceeding.

The number of Jews in the area handed over to the civil administration amounts at the time to about 139,000. Einsatzgruppe A, after it took over the agency, White Rutenia, shot 33,210 Jews so far." Did you have anything to do with those facts here?

A How could I have had anything to do with them? During the first part I was still in Riga and was in charge Department 3, and in the middle, beginning in the middle these things were carried out, and then I left for White Ruthenia, and I spoke enough about that, namely, so that for the time beingI had nothing to do with these matters.

Q The report is dated 14 January '42. You say you weren't in White Ruthenia at that time yet, is that correct?

DR. GICK: Your Honor, I may point out that on Page 110 of this document it is expressly noted that SS Major Hoffman was deputizing for Strauch at that time.

Q (By Dr. Gick) Another document in Document Book III-A. German Page 65," Exhibit 107 of the prosecution, Document No. 4533. It says here on the German Page 69," in Minsk between the 1st and 4th of February '42 altogether 123 persons were arrested among them 80 people for refusing to work.

A When was this dated?

Q From the 1st of April '42 - oh, no. correction, from the 1st to the 4th of February '42.

A Well, I really have nothing to say about that. I wasn't even there yet.

Q Even at that time you were not in White Ruthenia yet? shouldn't people have been arrested in White Ruthenia, people who were unemployed, when now they are arrested everywhere in Germany. It was quite useful and realistic.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, may I point out the receip date of this document? On German Page 64, Herr Strauch is listed as having Hoffmann as his deputy.

Q (By Dr. Gick) In the same document, Herr Strauch, it is mentioned that on 4th February 1942 in Rakow about 100 persons were liquidated in the ghetto. What is your comment on this? office at that time. That is right, isn't it? I don't want to say anything that is wrong here. That is right. I wasn't there yet, but to be sure Dr. Hoffmann reported it to me, and he said that he had liquidated Rakow, and that was this Rakow which is on the road from - well, let me see, west, from Koenigsberg just before, before Minsk. And if he had liquidated these 120 Jews no man could be living there any more. I don't remember I saw anyone there.

Q Rakow, was that a small place? said he had liquidated the entire ghetto then, of course, he liquidated the whole place. prosecution's Exhibit 108, Document No. 3234, German Page 181 of this document. I don't know the English Page number, your Honor, but I suppose you have it. I just hear it, 66. English Page 66 - 60, Page 60, I beg your pardon. During the period from the 5th to the 28th of February, it says here, the main agency at Wilajka killed 29 Jews, 4 Communists, 5 partisans, 5 asocial people, and 4 people because of sabotage. Did you have anything to do these executions?

A Oh, well, I couldn't have been there then. That is out of the question. On the 22nd or 23rd I arrived in Minsk, and so I couldn't have been in Minsk in February. Document 3236, it says there on Page 95, on the English Page 70, other large scale Jewish executions have been carried out, for example in Tscherwen and Rakow.

In Tscherwen 15,000 Jews were shot, and this gives the white Ruthenia population a feeling of insecurity and a certain fear. In the more educated circles it was said that they were not used to such a procedure during the Soviet regime and that it was impossible to estimate the consequences of such measures. The document is dated the 27th of March, 1942. Did you participate in this operation? did not belong to my area, and that to my knowledge - well, that I don't know anything of such a thing. Rakow, as for that place it was reported that this ghetto, which consisted of 120 people in Rakow, was completely destroyed because it had offered resistance. That is why it is no longer there. Then at another place it says, I think it has been quoted here, that 30,000 were liquidated there. Well, now, I don't know what actually is meant. Rakow does not belong to me, but they ascribe it to me.

Q Oh, you mean Tscherwen? this ghetto in Rakow was completely destroyed because it offered resistance, and at another place it says about Rakow that 12,000 or 15,000 were liquidated. Furthermore, in Russia, and I could show you this on the map, there are many town with the same figures or if you would like any confirmation of this, or there are many of Lenins, and well, I can't go into all this. I could have given you plenty of names before, and I could give you proof that there were figures of all types. That is the time when you were already in Minsk and here the following question arises, because this incident which is reported here between the 22nd - can it have taken place between the 22nd and 27th of March?

A Well, Dr. Gick, that is possible in all things, whether active in marching or whatever happened, we cannot prove. With the best will I tried to describe these things to you.

I tried to describe it to a lot of people, but on the 31st or 35th I arrived there, so it probably happened just shortly before.

Page 5,290

Q You mean before your arrival?

A Yes. Well, it can also be that this man there, that he carried it out.

Q But I must correct you. Were these reports sent to Berlin and edited there and compiled there, and then they bear the name of the person who worked on it? Well, how long did this take?

A Well, that varied. One cannot give any time for its. Sometimes you can prove that the dates are much earlier than these which are listed in the reports. days?

A Oh yes, quite certainly longer than five days. I think all my comrades can confirm that this was so. German, page 130, Exhibit 53, Document Number 3261. I quote from page 135, Book IIA. English page 120, "On the 2nd and 3rd of March a partisan column of 7 Banjo sleighs was destroyed. The partisans were not only armed and had a lot of ammunition with them, but they were also amply equipped with food." That was an action of the 2nd and 3rd of March. How about this, did you participate in this?

A I could not have participated because I don't suddenly catch partisans on the way with a driver. Were you already in White Ruthenia on the 2nd and 3rd? with my brother and on the 23rd of March I arrived.

Q So on the 2nd and 3rd you were not there yet?

Q But on the next page it says that. "On the 2nd end and 3rd an anti-Jewish action was carried on in Minsk involving 3,412 Jews in Minsk and 302 in Vileika and -- 2207 in Baranowitschi" -- well altogether 5721.

A Well, yes, that is right. My predecessor did that, and I already described this yesterday, that shortly before I arrived there, 7,000 people altogether. in the German, Exhibit 110, No. 3372. English page 10. Your Honor. Here your co-defendant. Sandberger, says that you had participated in Jewish persecutions in Minsk.

A Me having participated in Jewish persecutions? Well, that is always the thing with Jeckeln in Minsk. There was only one operation, and that is the one which is well-known, and which I always called the "Jeckeln action".

Q But you say the Jeckeln action took place in Riga?

Q But we are speaking of Minsk. In Minsk you are supposed to have participated in Jewish persecutions, is that right? repudiated it. I don't know that that is right.

Q Well, what is your comment on it?

A Well, that is completely correct. I didn't take part in any Jewish action in Minsk, and I only participated in it after the arrival of Gottberg. activity in Minsk or White Ruthenia.

A No. He was never with me, and only seldom was anybody ever with me, only Heydrich was with me, otherwise, I don't even know anyone. prosecution and which I have discussed with you. Now Herr Strauch, I ask you to give the Tribunal a brief description about what activity you carried out while Gottberg was there.

A Well, I described that yesterday in detail. I was the G-2 of Gottberg and I was very seldom in Minsk, but if I was there, I took care of the office there which I have described yesterday.

And then the new order came, "go to Slusk", or some other place, God knows where, and so I had to go away again with a few people, and I had to carry out reconnaisance right there wherever the pressure of the partisans was applied.

You can't even imagine what that was like. In a month we lost more than 30 people. That is more than what happened altogether on the front as far as losses are concerned. Well, I am just giving you these figures because I know them or maybe there are a few more. There were locomotives lost in while Ruthenia -- more than were built in the German factories, without one being able to defend oneself, etc., etc. That was the partisan situation, so we had to do everything to fight this situation and, of course, we just couldn't give them candy as German troops--these partisans, we had to fight them. There was no other way out. We had to fire all right. There was no other choice. More than that I couldn't tell you.

Q I thought you were G-" during those fights against the partisans

A Yes, I was Gottberg's G-2. Gottberg commanded the Einsatzgroup against partisans, and I was his G-2, and even though I was always reproached from Berlin, that is, that I was ambitious as a soldier, that I wanted to win decorations, ribbons, etc., but you couldn't do anything else. We had to guard the railroad tracks. We had to try to carry out reconnaisance and there was no other choice.

Q What special activity did you carry out as G-2? areas where the partisans probably were ensconced, and with my few men we went into this area and tried just like other armies do it, just as the police do it, or anybody else, we tried to determine where the enemy was sitting, and that is how I did it with my few little men, and as soon as "This is my report; that is where they are; the partisans were found there and when we arrived there I have to give him a report about what was going on, and I made that report to his officers and I reported to him and his officers, and he told me, "Go ahead, go ahead, advance; as soon as you establish contact, we will come after you and we will have a conference to discuss the situation", and then I left again. actions?

A Yes. I have already said that once a camp of about 300 Jews was found on the way during this operation and that they were killed.

Q Did you immediately participate in Jewish executions?

A No. I was only present once in Slusk. I looked at it, and I told the Brigadier General, "Listen, General, I have got to get away again, I have to proceed", and so I said "Goodbye" to him and went on, and that was the end of that, as far as I am concerned.

Q Who was in charge of the executions? Up to a division--an army division and the police didn't have so many troops. They took part to a smaller extent. described? from White Ruthenia as far as I know. That was the last large scale operation which I experienced. This was out East, it was an action by the Wehrmacht, in Lepel where we were suddenly surrounded and suddenly there were battle lines, and from there I left.

Q What time was that? these dates, perhaps the other fellows here knew when this Lepel action took place.

Q What do you know approximately when?

Q You mean'43?

Q And what activity did you carry out then? Fouerbach.

Q Herr Strauch, when did you become a member of the SS?

A Well, I have to repeat it once more so that you don't get it wrong again. On the first of August 1931 I became a member of the SA.

Then on the 1st of August '31 I became a member of the SS. Well, in '31 I became -- No, No--after the Roehm-coup I became a member of the SD, and then on the 1st of August 1931 I became a member of the Party. on the date. Before, you told us that they were all different dates.

A No, No. First of August '31, SA.

Q And when to the SS?

A On the 1st of August '31 I got into the Party.

Q On the same day?

A well, no, not the same day, '31, '32, '33. I entered '31 into the SA, '31 in the SA, and '33--'32 into the SA, '33 into the SS. Is it clear now.

Q No, no it isn't.

A 31 into the SA, 32 into the Party, and 33 into the SS. Well, that's the way it must be.

Q I think in 1932 you got into the SS, is that right?

A Well it could have been 31. I don't know. in the SD on a full time basis.

A Yes, that's right. I have repudiated that fact that I was there on a full time basis, because I was a Senior Government Counsellor. No, no - well, what do you call that thing.? Senior assessor, the Government Counsellor, Government Assessor, Senior Government Counsellor, that's all. basis and as an honorary member of the SD?

Q Then the entry in your personnel file is wrong?

A Yes, certainly, yes. I have already said that. That is wrong because it only showed Counsellor, Government Counsellor, Senior Government Counsellor, etc. But, in reality the Party was right because actually I was an SD man. But I never was it in a full time capacity. direct examination.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will now take a recess.

(A recess was taken.)

Page 5,297

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: Do any of the Defense Counsel desire to put any questions to the witness Strauch? Apparently not. Does the Prosecution intend to cross examine?

MR. GLANCY: If it please the Tribunal, the Prosecution has no questions. However, Sir, in lieu of cross examination we will submit documents in rebuttal.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Dr. Gick, if you have no further questions, we can now release the defendant.

DR. GICK: I have no further questions for the moment. I agree to having the defendant released.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. The defendant Eduard Strauch may now be taken back to his present lodging place. I don't know where it is-whether it is in the hospital or in the prison itself.

Who is now ready with further document books?

DR. LEMMERT (for Seibert): Your Honor, I have only the first document book of Seibert and its translation, while Document Book II and the supplement have not been translated yet. But I am of course prepared to submit the documents in the first document book at the present time.

MR. WALTON: The Prosecution also announces itself ready on Document Book I.

THE PRESIDENT: You will please proceed.

Page 5,298

DR. LEMMERT: First of all, I want to submit a number of documents confirming the activity of Seibert in the Russian Campaign, in order to prove the fact that Seibert was merely the Departmental Chief of office 3 in the staff of Einsatzgruppe D, that he was not Ohlendorf's deputy, and that especially he carried out no executive tasks. For this purpose, I now submit Document Seibert 19, on page 27 of the document book, and I submit it as Exhibit No. 2. I would like to say here that Document No. I has already been submitted and introduced as Exhibit No. 1. This Document Seibert No. 19 is an affidavit of Dr. Ehlich. In paragraph 1 of this affidavit, the personality of Ehlich shown, especially that he had the necessary knowledge concerning Siebert's assignment in Russia. Furthermore, it becomes evident from paragraph I that Siebert did not volunteer for assignment in Einsatzgruppe D but that he was transferred to the Group Staff as a result of an order from office 3. From this paragraph I, it also becomes evident that Seibert was not assigned in this job as Ohlendorf's deputy. The statements under paragraph 1 prove that Seibert was not Ohlendorf's deputy in the group staff of Einsatzgruppe D. Chief 3, never had a deputy and that this manner of working was kept up even in Ohlendorf's absence as Chief of the Einsatzgruppe D in Russia. Furthermore, it becomes evident, from paragraph 2, that the signature "I.V." meaning "for", does not mean that Seibert was the deputy of Ohlendorf.

From the last paragraph Seibert's activity in the group staff becomes evident especially the kind of reports that Seibert issued as Department Chief 3.

The next document which I submit is Document Seibert No. 20. It is on page 29 of the document book. I offer it as Exhibit No. 3, Seibert No. 3, It is an affidavit by one Karl Hennicke. From paragraph I it becomes evident that Seibert was merely Department Chief 3 within the staff of the Einsatzgruppe.

Paragraph 1, furthermore, contains statements concerning the tasks and activities of Departmental Chief 3. kommandos, especially it says that the activity of Seibert with kommandos had nothing to do with any executive measures. volunteer for assignment in the east but that as Departmental Chief 3 he had been detailed to the Einsatzgruppe. Document Seibert No. 21. I offer it as Exhibit No. 4. This is an affidavit by one Kellner. This affidavit refers to Document NO-3035, Exhibit 28 of the Prosecution, which is contained in Volume I, 141 German and 108 English, the affidavit of Schubert, of the 24th of February 1947. This affidavit by Kellner is submitted in order to support the statements that Schubert and Seibert made, namely for the fact that it was not Seibert who gave the order for executions in Sinferopol in December 1941. And furthermore it becomes evident from this affidavit that Seibert was at the time on leave in Berlin. We can furthermore see from this affidavit Seibert's general behavior and attitude towards the Jews. Document Seibert 22, as Exhibit No. 5. This is an affidavit by one Kaston. In this affidavit, Schubert's and Seibert's and Kellner's statements are supported by this affidavit. It also shows that Seibert, in the end of 1941, was in Berlin. activities Seibert indulged in the S.D., in Department 3-D until May 1945. During Seibert's examination in the witness stand, I have already submitted Document No. 1 as Exhibit No. 1. I now offer Document Seibert No. 2, which is on page 1 of the document book, I submit it as Exhibit No. 6. It is an affidavit by one Borst. The affiant was a director and plant leader of the Sueddeutsche Zellwolle A.G. in the Kellheim.

Page 5,300

He knows Seibert's activities from discussions with representatives of the economic agencies in Berlin, Borst gave expert advice and information to Seibert concerning questions of the textile industry. From the affidavit, the tasks and activities of Seibert become evident, when he was in Office No. 3, and it also shows that Office 3 was not a prime medium of the State or the Party in order to carry out any measures that might not be in agreement with the law, Seibert's task was to report about the actual economic situation and the effects of decrees and laws, objectively. For this purpose, I quote from this document the following passage, I could convince myself that Herr Seibert was not trying to propagate any Party political aims or doctrines, that he tried to describe objectively the factual position in the industry and economy, and effects of orders and regulations. In this I often had the opportunity to appreciate the critical openness of Seibert and his criticism of bad conditions and mis-developments concerning industry or the population." Document Seibert No. 3. I offer it as Exhibit No. 7. It is an affidavit of Dr. Beyer, also describing the manner of working of the economic group between 1941 and 1945 and concerning especially the tasks of Seibert within this group. Seibert No. 4, as Exhibit No. 8. It is an affidavit by one Riecke. Riecke was Under Secretary of State in the Reich Ministry of Food and Agriculture. He knows Seibert's activities in Office 3 from reports of Group 3-D which were submitted to the Reich Ministry of Food and Agriculture.

and especially the fact that these reports did not deal with any individual activities of individual people but with general questions of economy and that the purpose of these reports was, as there was no open pulic criticism, to ascertain the opinion of the population about decrees and incidents in the agricultural sphere and about supply objectively. The reporting service of Office III-D to the Reich Ministry of Food and Agriculture had been determined by a written agreement. Document Seibert No. 5 as Exhibit No. 9, affidavit by one Bommerich giving a cross-section, a cross-view of the activities of Office III-D economics. Bommerich was a departmental expert for questions of economy in various sectors of the SD.

From Paragraph 1 the tasks and activities of Office III-D become evident especially the fact that reports that were made out by Seibert had the purpose to determine the effects of various laws and decrees on the population. The manner of reporting is shown from the examples which are cited in this affidavit. These examples show that Seibert's acitivity in Office III was not by any means criminal and was certainly not crimes against humanity. Document Seibert No. 6 as Exhibit No. 10. It is an affidavit by one Kroeger, which informs us about the work of the financial Economy Department and shows the influence that Seibert had on this particular work. Kroeger was, from 1936 to 1940, the chief of the department Financial Economy in Group III-D. Later he was the chief of the SD sector in Bremen. The address given in the affidavit: Eselheide Internment Camps, is no longer correct.

released. The document is submitted in order to establish evidence concerning the work of Group III-D of which Seibert was in charge. It specified generally about the tasks the SD dealt with. I quote from this document the following passages: "The group III-D (Economy) received from the SD-sections and SD-main branch offices a steady flow of reports on the mood and attitude of the population, as well as on the situation in the different fields of economy Food supply, Commerce, Trade, Traffic, Banks, Stock Exchanges, Insurance Companies, Finance, Industry and Power Supply, Labor and Social Welfare." I go on quoting, "This task of finding out about the mood and the attitude of the population, as well as the position in the domestic sphere, the made reports, by questioning all parts of the population and all classes, with the intention that the chief agencies of state and party be informed impartially about the informations which had been received. All these matters had no relation to what has been called criminal actions in the Nurnberg Statutes." That is the end of my quotation. called Peterson and Schoenherr. First of all on Page 11, I offer Document Seibert No. 7, as Exhibit No. 11. This is an affidavit by one, Heinrich Peterson, giving an example of the activities of group economy end also his opinion of Seibert's personality. I wish to draw special attention to Paragraph 2 of this affidavit from which the activity of Seibert in Group III-D becomes evident. I quote: "In our work it wasn't a matter of individual cases of a personal nature, but problems of general interest in all spheres of economy." Seibert No. 3, I offer it as Exhibit No. 12, This is an affidavit by a former collaborator of Herr Seibert, Hans Schoenherr.

He was on assistant departmental chief under Seibert. This affidavit shows the task of Group III. Furthermore, generally the question of the SD Inland. I quote from this document the following passage: "The SD Inland had taken on the task to find out objectively about the effects of regulations or decrees of the leading agencies and to represent to interests of the foreign workers creatively and critically."

My next document is on Page 15 of the document book. It is Document Seibert No. 9. I offer it as Exhibit No. 13. This is an affidavit by Mrs. Monika Stackelbeck, giving information as to Seibert's manner of working in the group economy. Stackelbeck was a secretary of Herr Seibert. Therefore, she is in the position to make statements concerning the task of Group III-D, and also Seibert's own activity.

Now I submit on Page 17 Document Seibert No. 10 as Exhibit No. 14, then document Seibert No. 11 as Exhibit No. 15. I offer Document No. 12 as Exhibit No. 16, Document Seibert No. 13 as Exhibit 17, and Document Seibert No. 14 as Exhibit No. 18, in order to prove the activities and the tasks of the SD. These documents concern agreements as to the collaboration of the Reich Traffic Ministries with the S.D., the Reich Forest Master with the S.D. and agreement about the cooperation of the Reich Ministry for Armaments and War Production with the S.D., agreements about the cooperation of the Reich Ministry for Food and Agriculture with the S.D.. From these documents I only want to read one short quotation. It is from Document Seibert No. 10. I quote. "The Security Service of the Reichsfuehrer SS (SD), as Information Service of the Party end State, has the special task of informing the leading authorities of the Reich on the public reaction to officieal meausres."

From Document Seibert No. 11 I quote: "The Security Service of the Reichsfuehrer SS (SD), as intelligence organization for Party and State, has important tasks to fulfill. The Security Service thereby is also active on behalf of the State." the membership of Seibert to the SD in wartime was not voluntary but was the result of a legal decree. For this purpose I first submit the document Seibert No. 17 on Page 24 of the document book, as Exhibit No. 19. It is an affidavit of Klingemann.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Lehnert, do you know whether the order referred to in that affidavit -- Do you know whether the order reputedly issued by Heydrich and mentioned in this affidavit exists?

DR. LEHNERT: It probably exists.

THE PRESIDENT: Say in the next to the last paragraph.

DR. LEHNERT: I presume it is in the Legal Gazette of the Chief of the Security Police and the SD.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed.

DR. LEHNERT: Klingemann, as from spring 1939 up to December 1939 had been the chief of Department I of the Reich Security Main Office. He confirms that Seibert in December 1939, owing to a legal decree, was released from the Wwhrmacht and took up his service in the SD again. From the affidavit it becomes furthermore evident that the repeated attempts on the part of Seibert to get a release in order to join the Wehrmacht were in vain.

Document Seibert No. 18 as Exhibit No. 20. This is an affidavit by one Bau, who has meanwhile been released from the camp. From 1937 to 1940 Bau was Seibert's collaborator. From the affidavit it becomes evident that Seibert, at the beginning of the war, was released from the Wehrmacht and ordered to rejoin the SD. now submit two more documents which are; the first on Page 22 of the document book, Document No. 15. It is a circular decree of the RSHA, dated the 23rd of May, 1940, concerning the special jurisdiction in criminal cases against members of the SS and police units on special duties. The other document is on Page 23 of the document book, Document No. 16. I offer it as Exhibit No. 26 - I am sorry, it is No. 22. This document also is a circular decree of the Chief of the Security Police and SD, dated 16 October 1941, concerning subordination of the members of the Security Police and the SD to the jurisdiction of the SS and the Police.

The following documents testifying about Seibert's character and his personal attitude and contain especially information concerning the attitude of Seibert towards those people who had different political opinions and Jews. I first offer a document which is on Page 33 of the document book and which is Document Seibert No. 23, and I offer it as Exhibit No. 23. Mrs. Bolte, isa Jewess, she makes statements concerning Seibert's unambiguous and decent attitude even during the time when he was a member of the SD, and then in this connection I offer on Page 34 Document No. 24 as Exhibit No. 24, an affidavit by one Klingemann. This second affidavit, the affidavit of Klingemann, in fact shows that Seibert helped a Jew called Czatoto escape to Switzerland. I attempted to get a direct statement of this man Czato, but when I was told his address in Switzerland he had emigrated to Brazil, and his address in Brazil I only heard about one or two days ago. As Herr Czato is now in a foreign country I now had to be content without an affidavit because on any statement of him would not have arrived in time.

The next document is on Page 35. It is Document Seibert No. 25, I offer it as Exhibit No. 25. It is an affidavit of a certain Paul Seidel who had been in contact with seibert in Berlin as from the year 1935. Seidel states that Seibert was never fanatic in political matters and he tells about Seibert's attitude toward the anti-Jewish pogroms in the year 1938. Seibert No. 26, and I offer it as Exhibit No. 26, the affidavit by one Berners, which gives a description of Seibert's character and attitude, Mr. Berners, who was never a member of the NSDAP or one of its affiliations, has known Seibert for a number of years, and therefore knows his attitude toward church, family, etc. I am very sorry that I have not received the translation of all the other document books.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Who next is ready, please?

MR. WALTON: I would like for the record to record some objections, please.

THE PRESIDENT Very well, Mr. Walton. Try to group your objections as much as possible, Mr. Walton.

MR. WALTON: My first one is to the first fourteen documents, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: That is the idea.

MR. WALTON: For purposes of the record, since prosecution did not have the exhibit numbers, we will refer in our objections to the document numbers only. The prosecution objects to the first fourteen documents which deal with the legal activities of the SD and the activities and SD engaged in regarding German citizens and German agencies of the government. The issues in this case do not concern the legal activities of the SD or any particular department of Amt III of the RSHA. This Tribunal concerns itslef solely with the missions and duties of the SD and the Security Police in Russia.

The I.M.T. decision of the criminality of the SD as an orgainzation rested on the evidence before it of this organization's illegal activities in Russian territory temporarily under the domination of German armed forces. It rests primarily on the activities of the SD as performed mainly by the four Einsatzgruppen. Doubtless thousands of worthwhile acts before and after this period of occupation were committed but none of these worthwile acts can atone or wipe out one brutal murder of a man because he was a Jew or because he might at some future time became a threat to security if he should live long enough. Therefore, these documents are totally irrlevant and immaterial. of the Chief of the Security Police and SD, they are incompetent as they refer to other decrees which are not included either in whole or in excerpt form. They are incompetent also in that they are indefinite. They do not show in what manner they are connected to the Einsatzgruppen or to the defendant, and, therefore, the prosecution objects. the prosecution has no objection, except to Document No. 19 in which it specifically objects to the fifthe paragraph in that thisis clearly hearsay and concerns allegations of fact not within the affiant's own knowledge. Furthermore, no sources of this hearsay evidence is shown. Hennicke shows on its face that he never was with Einsatzgruppe D or any other Ensatzgruppe. He was never in Russia and possesses no personal knowledge of what duties Seibert performed there.

THE PRESIDENT: Very Well.

DR. LEHNERT: Your Honor, I want to comment on the first statements made. Seibert is charged with membership in the SD generally and not only for his activity in the Einsatzgruppe. That is all I have to say. That is all I have to say to contradict.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. HOFFMANN: Dr. Hoffmann for the defendant, Nosske. If the Tribunal agrees, I would like it to rule that the witness, Paul Buckert, who is now in prison here and has been admitted by the Tribunal as a witness, that he could be called in the witness stand after the midday recess.

PRESIDENT: Can you estimate the period of time you will require for the direct examination of this witness?

DR. HOFFMANN: Half an hour, your Honor.

PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton.

MR. WALTON: I think that Dr. Hoffmann is right because the witness has been approved to testify only on one point and the prosecution will announce ready at the conclusion of the direct.

PRESIDENT: I think that is a good idea, Dr. Hoffmann. You have him here at 1:45.

DR. LEHNERT: Your Honor, I would like to comment briefly to the objections the prosecution raised, especially concerning Document Number 20 the affidavit of Hennicke. Hennicke was Chief of Department 3 in the Staff of Einsatzgruppe C. He, therefore, has knowledge of the activities of the chief of a Department 3.

PRESIDENT: Very well. Dr. Ulmer. Dr. Ulmer I don't know whether your colleagues acquainted you with the fact that yesterday we absolved you from all sin.

DR. ULMER: Yes, I was told about that.

PRESIDENT: I wish to confirm that wholeheartedly to you personally.

DR. ULMER: I have been informed about this and I would like to thank your Honor. Gentlemen of the Tribunal, unfortunately I am not in the position to deal with Document 11 now because unfortunately in the reproduction department one page has been ruined in the actual machine and, therefore, I have received Document III before Document Book II. II has been promised to me during the course of this afternoon.

and I do hope that I shall be able to obtain it this afternoon end then offer it here. Unfortunately this, of course, is again a technical incident which is not really my fault. I have to ask the Tribunal, as the exhibit numbers in these copies have already been inserted in the mimeographed copies of the Document Books, that a short note should be made concerning the exhibit numbers that they should be corrected to the numbers which are being given by me now, because Document Book III is being submitted before Document II and, therefore, the later documents would receive lower exhibit numbers than the earlier documents. Therefore, I should now like to submit my Document Number 52 as Exhibit Number 40, an affidavit of Dr. Horst Mahnke, representative and professor of the Berlin University. This belongs to the Series A, that is the set of documents on Advance Commando Moscow. This affidavit concerns the confirmation that Six, in the Waffen SS shortly after the outbreak of war with Russia, was ordered in Berlin, according to the example of former archives commandos of office 7, that he should set up similar organization for Moscow, that this archives commission, since the outbreak of war in 1939, was a special task of the Department Number VII, and this task was carried out in a number of capitals and in the special case of the Russian campaign, this archive commando should advance towards Moscow with the Division Reich, however, and should establish contact with the Chief of Einsatzgruppe B. This contact that was to be established between Six and the Einsatzgruppe Chief Nebe caused difficulties forcing Six to return to Berlin once more. Mahnke himself, who is the affiant in this case, joined the VKM, the Vorkommando Moscow about the middle of July. He certified that this was independent from the Einsatzgruppe, although according to an order of the departmental chief, Streckenbach it was to resort to personnel of Einsatzgruppe B. Mahnke certifies the following dates, that the VKM marched out to join the Fourth Army Headquarters at Tolotschino in the middle of July 1941. There final conferences took took place between Six and the G-2 officer, Helmdach.

Page 5,310

From Smolensk the connection with the Division Reich was established in order to settle the details of the advance. He verifies the fact that the advance of the staff of the Einsatzgruppe B on the 5th of August 1941 to Smolensk did not alter the tasks of the VKM, as Six aimed at a strict separation of group staff from VKM. He furthermore verifies that the suggestion of an interim task of the VKM after the direction of advance of the devision Reich had been changed would be brought about, but that was rejected by Six, and for that reason Six asked for his recall to Berlin. Smolensk on the 20th of August 1941. Mahnke confirms that Six never issued executive orders nor were such orders carried out by the commando VKM. same affiant, Mahnke, however, here it refers to the set of questions that I deal with here, (b), (c) and (d). Here it is confirmed that he was a student of Six's at the Koenigsberg University. Later on he was active as assistant and lecturer at Berlin University, and he was an honorary member of Office VII. As such, he confirms that strained relations existed between Six and Heydrich in consequence of which Six volunteered for the Waff en SS. He confirms that these bad relations grew worse after the Russian campaign. Mahnke testifies that Six concentrated from the beginning of the war on work in the Faculty of International Relations end that he used Heydrich's death to repeat his request for discharge from the SD. The opportunity was given by Six' function in the Foreign Office where Six became director of the cultural political department. Mahnke further testifies that Six' activity in the Foreign Office was opposed to the ideas of the party Chancellery and other party offices, so that in 1944 the party demanded the dissolution of his department and Six' induction into the Wehrmacht.

Page 5,311

Document Number 54, which is an affidavit of a former interpreter of the VKM drafted under Emergency Service Decree, Adam von Engelhardt, of the 5th of December 1947. He confirms the archive task of the Vorkommando Moscow, that the strength of the VKM was between 20 and 25 men, the garrison of the VKM was in Tolotshino, and that they advanced to Smolensk while fighting was still going on. It is further confirmed that the VKM had neither orders to carry out shootings nor did it carry out any. The discharge from VKM in July 1941 on account of illness of the affiant is being confirmed in this affidavit and simultaneously a report to Nebe, on his return from the VKM about his stay in Tolotshino. an affidavit of Gunter D'Alquen, commander of the SS war reporting unit. It is of 13 December 1947: The meeting of Six, the VKM in Smolensk in August 1941 is confirmed here. It confirms furthermore the assignment of VKM to enter Moscow with the advance units in order to safeguard archives. It is shown that no activity of the VKM in Smolensk was carried out in Six' pesence as done by the Einsatzgruppen.

It shows the strained relationship between Nebe and Six and the impossibility for the VKM to advance towards Moscow with the Reich Division, as this division had been switched south in the direction of Tchernigov. Mueller, drafted for service with the security police in Warsaw in 1940. It is an affidavit of the 29th of December 1947. This shows the difference of opinion between Six and the chief of the Einsatzgruppen, Nebe, concerning the question of setting up an archive Komando Moscow, the visit of Dr. Six to Heydrich in order to be released from this function, Dr. Six' return to Berlin from Smolensk between the 18th and the 22nd of August 1941. Furthermore, the document confirms that the affiant on the basis of his experience as personal aide of Department Chief I of the RSHA of Streekenbach, knows that the term "special assignment" is tantamount to the term "front line duty" and was the qualifications for any promotion. The affiant confirms that the date "28 august 1941" on the promotion slip for Six contains a clerical error and should read "20 August 1941" as the end of his activity in the east and should read, as I say, "20 August 1941". The affiant finally confirms that Six was promoted to the rank of Brigadefuehrer in conformity with his rank as official as plenipotentiary and that, therefore, consequently he became honorary officer in the SS and net a police general or general of the Waffen SS.

Under Exhibit Number 45 I now offer Document Number 57. It is an affidavit of the former SS obersturmfuehrer Dr. Friedrich Hilpert of 29 December 1947. It contains the confirmation that the affiant on the 1st of September 1941 met Six in Berlin and that on this occasion he was enlightened about the fact that Six had 8 to 10 days' previously arrived in Berlin. the former SS Obergruppenfuehrer and General of the Waffen SS, Werner Lorenz, dated 9th of January 1948. It is confirmed here that the German Reich authorities had been using the term "special assignment" since 1939 to denote any matters connected with the war.

It is also confirmed that after the outbreak of war promotions in the SS were only considered if proof was furnished of distinguished service in a special assignment since 1939 concerning all matters of war. I am sorry, I made a reading mistake here. It should read, "that after the outbreak of the war promotions in the SS were only considered if proof was furnished of distinguished service in a special assignment, that is, in front line service, and that this was mentioned in the certificate of promotion." And it is finally certified that the term, "special assignment" did not refer specifically to a particular function within the Einsatzgruppe. already commented on at the beginning. Furthermore, I want to offer, owing to the cross examination of the witness, Vetter, another witness, who will testify as to the date of the return of my client on the 20th of August 1941 from Smolensk, concerning the date of his arrival between the 22nd and 25th of august in Berlin. This female witness has made out an affidavit confirming these dates. I notified here by telegram, and I asked her to come here after the last Friday, but she lives in the locality, Vig, which is on the island Foehr, therefore it is possible that considering the present weather conditions , the witness will not be able to travel because the ferries might not be going or some other flood dangers exist. I have not received any information whether she will come or net, but if she is unable to come I have in any case to submit the affidavit which she made out. I would only like to announce, Gentlemen of the Tribunal, the fact that this witness, if it is technically at all possible, will be asked to come here, and I would like you to approve my request to have her in who witness stand and to confirm, and in that case I would not submit the affidavit, which is in my Document Book II. O f course, there is the possibility, Your Honor, I aim net quite sure whether , considering the conditions and the difficulty of traveling for the witness, whether you think it advisable.

to submit the affidavit in any case and have the witness come here in any case. Generally speaking, it is a practice that witnesses appear personally or they supply affidavits. I wanted to leave this ruling to the Tribunal. I am in the position to submit the affidavit, but I do not want to spoil my chances through submitting this affidavit - my chances in fact of having the witness here in the witness stand.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ulmer, in view of the importance that you place upon this date, we certainly would not deprive you of the opportunity of having this witness here personally in court, if it can be done consistent with comfort and convenience to the witness, so that we will leave it entirely open to you to have her come here; if, because of what you have outlined it is impossible or even extremely difficult for her to come, then naturally we will take the affidavit and it will be accepted provided there isn't some serious objection on the part of the prosecution to itit will be accepted at its fact value just as if she had been personally presented to the Tribunal.

DR. ULMER: Do I understand you correctly to say if through my personal appearance it would be admitted to the Tribunal or as if the witness really had been in court on the witness stand?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. In the event it becomes impossible for the witness to come here, then you submit the affidavit and that affidavit, in the absence of a serious objection on the part of the prosecution, which , of course, it will be able to support, the affidavit will be accepted as if the witness herself had been present in court.

DR. ULMER: Thank, Your Honor, may I then ask you to permit me to have this witness here after the rebuttal because if we have rebuttal tomorrow and the day after tomorrow the witness will arrive following the telegram which was sent last Friday, then, of course, I hope I may be permitted to have the witness here on the day after tomorrow.

THE PRESIDENT: That would mean that you might get her here on Thursday?

DR. ULMER: I would like to say that if the witness is not here by the end of Thursday that would mean that she is unable to come here.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. We should like to have everything presented by the closing of the session on Thursday.

DR. ULMER: Yes, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, representing my colleague, Linck, for the defendant, Ruehl, I would like to say that my colleague has one document book to submit and that we would like to ask Your Honor to give us the possibility before the rebuttal to call the defense counsel, Linck, because at the moment it is vitally important that he should be present in the Krupp case, and, therefore, he is unable at the moment to wait for the opportunity to submit his document.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you mean that it is of personal importance to him to be in the Krupp case?

DR. ULMER: His presence is wanted in the Krupp case, Your Honor. No, No. Now I understand, it isn't that, Your Honor, it is only because of the difficulties that have arisen there. It is important that he should be at the disposal of the Gentlemen of the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Immediately upon reconvening this afternoon we will take up the witness that Dr. Hoffmann will present and then if Dr. Linck may disengage himself from the other court room we will have him present his document book, and then anybody else who is ready, of course, will proceed also.

DR. ULMER: I shall let him know, Your Honor. I am sorry , Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Glancy.

MR. GLANCY: Sir, in the event that there will be no other defense counsel ready to present document books, should the prosecution be ready at that time to go ahead with his rebuttal?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, because then whatever witness is called by the defense is ready, we can sandwich that witness in some way or other because we are now sort of cleaning up the odds and ends which still remain, and we won't be too formalistic about the presentation of any piece of evidence which comes in.

MR. GLANCY: Very good, Sir.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will now be in recess until 1:45.

(A recess was taken until 1345 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: Take your seats, please. follows:

JUDGE SPEIGHT: Witness, raise your right hand and repeat the oath after me: the pure truth and withhold and add nothing.

(The witness repeated the oath.)

JUDGE SPEIGHT: Now you may be seated.

DR. HOFFMANN: Hoffmann for Nosske. BY DR. HOFFMANN:

Q When and where were you born?

Q What is your present address?

Q Why are you in Neuengamme? Duesseldorf?

Q In what capacity? for the SD Sector in Duesseldorf - to the State Police Office in Duesseldorf, and I continued my activity there, the same activity as I had performed in the SD.

Q Did you in 1944 meet the defendant Nosske?

A Yes. Nosske was director of the State Police Agency in Duesseldorf. in September '44 an order was received which said that Jews and their Aryan relatives were to be shot?

AAround the middle of September 1944 Mr. Nosske informed me of a top secret matter in which it was ordered that all Jews and their German blooded relatives were to be gathered and put in one building in order to have them shot when the code word was given without any commotion. This was to be done as soon as the Allied troops would push through from Aachen to Dueren.

Q Witness, did you see anything about this in writing?

A Yes. This order was put down in writing and I entered it into the record for top secret matters.

Q Can you remember what signature it had? and SD in Duesseldorf. order?

A I belonged to the Department II E. Department II B had diminished to three officials in 144 and one auxiliary employee. Before that the Jewish Department belonged to this department also. The Jewish Department no longer existed because in the area of the State Police Duesseldorf all Jews there lived in a approved mixed marriage and thus no longer came under the jurisdiction of the State Police measures. letter?

A Nosske was deeply moved and upset. To describe this condition today in words is impossible for me. order?

A Yes. Nosske immediately went with me to the inspector of the Security Police in Duesseldorf.

Q What happened there? Then the inspector called me in and asked me whether these persons in the area near the front represented a danger. I denied this. He further asked me what was to be done. I answered it would be useful if one would leave them in their homes.

Q Did you get a decision from the inspector? with Nosske alone.

Q Did the order continue to be valid, to your knowledge?

A The events came too quickly. This order was directed to the State Police Offices Cologne, Aachen, Duesseldorf and Dortmund. From Cologne we heard that the State Police there had taken all Jews, Jewesses and their German spouses and the mixed offspring of the first degree, had collected them all in an old fortress, Furthermore, alarming news came to the effect that the first tanks from the Aachen area had broken through in the direction to Dueren. Thereupon Nosske decided to send a flash telegram to the RSHA, to Berlin. In this flash teletype message, rather, Nosske confirmed the receipt of this top secret matter and he expressed his misgivings about the execution. Duesseldorf, Aachen, and Cologne together, could you approximately tell the Tribunal the number of persons who would have been affected by this? or any other way. It is impossible to give exact figures there but, approximately it might have been between five to six thousand people.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Hoffmann, I would like to ask the witness something about this teletype message.

BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Did you see the teletype message yourself?

A Yes. I was present when Nosske wrote this teletype message.

Q Yes. Now please tell us as well as you can remember, just what the teletype message contained, rather than to give us an emotional as you can, of course, just what the teletype message contained.

A. As an introduction Nosske said in this teletype that a top secret matter had been addressed to him in which it was ordered that all Jews living in the area of the State Police in Duesseldorf and all their German relatives were to be collected and put --into one building in order to have them shot without anyone noticing it when a certain code word is to be given. The code word was to be given as soon as the Allied troops would break out of the Area Aachen in the direction of Dueren. Then he mentioned misgivings about the execution.

Q. Now, it is just for that reason that I have asked you to tell us about the message. Now you say misgivings, Now, misgivings is an emotional conclusion. What did he say? Did he use the word "misgivings"?

A. I can not remember these details which Nosske stated there.

Q. Well, you remember in such precise detail what he said in reply to the order? You remember the message almost verbatim up to this point. Now, what did Nosske say about this order?

A. Nosske objected to this order for human reasons.

Q. Do you remember what, approximately -- of course, we don't expect you to remember verbatim, but approximately what language he employed?

A. Before this teletype message was written out we discussed the matter and it was emphasized especially that these were innocent people, that many brothers and fathers of the German elements had fulfilled their duties within the Party or in the Army, that the entire order, for purely humane feeling, was not possible of execution.

Q. Well, then, the objection went to the execution of these innocent relatives. Is that right?

A. No, no, it was our effort to revoke the entire order because not only the relatives were meant among the innocent people, but also the Jews themselves.

Q. What date was this?

A. On the 15th or 16th of September.

Q. '44?

A. Yes, 44. I remember this date because on the Sunday which was the 17th of September the great parachute jump of the Allied troops in Arnheim and on the lower Rhine took place. That was in our area.

Q. Who issued the order in the first place?

A. As far as I was informed later, this order came from the Higher SS and Police Leader and came down via the inspector to the State Police Offices.

Q. All right, now, you were telling us about the message. You told us about the original teletype message and then Nosske's reply, and in his reply he repeated the message and then, as you told us, he objected to the execution of the order for humane reasons and pointed out that it would mean the execution of innocent people. All right, now proceed with what else was in the message.

A. Upon this teletyped message which Nosske addressed to the RSHA, the Office Chief IV sent a teletype reply. In this message --

Q. Well, now, you have given us the text of Nosske's message as far as you recall it; is that right?

A. Yes. But what I mentioned now, that is still Mueller's teletype message.

Q. This is the reply to Nosske now?

A. Yes, this is what I was just going to give you.

Q. Very well.

A. This teletype message from the RSHA read as follows: "It is incomprehensible to me that such measures could even be considered.

there. Should the Jews in that area represent a danger, they are to be employed as labor in Central Germany."

Q. By this time there had been instituted an order suspending the execution of Jews, hadn't there? By September 1944, Himmler himself had ordered a suspension of execution of Jews, hadn't he?

A. I do not know that.

Q. Well, do you know when it was finally decided not to execute any more Jews?

A. I have not been informed about this. THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed, Dr. Hoffmann. QUESTIONS BY DR. HOFFMAN (continued):

Q. May I immediately after this ask who was the highest bearer of command or authority at that time in this area Duesseldorf?

A. The State Police was organically under the command of the RSHA. The inspector, as such, had supervising rights, but, in my opinion, he had no objective right of issuing directives. Outside of this inspector, there was the Higher SS and Police Leader who, normally speaking, had no influence on the work of the State Police.

Q But was it different now? various commands were changed there, I do not know. by the competent Higher SS and Police Leader?

Q Then I will ask you witness, couldn't Noske refuse to carry out this order on his own part? In the area of the State Police Dusseldorf the Jews were not collected in one place. Thus Noske by this had already resufsed to carry out the order by not complying with the first directive which said that all these people were to be gathered together in one building, whereas the State Police Office in Cologne had already assembled all these people in an old fortress. is that right? right? and what do you know about it? Please tell that to the Tribunal. Noske had been relieved of his office, that his successor was already on the way, and that he himself had been recalled to Berlin and he had not even been permitted to hand over the old job to his successor as that is usually customary. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Witness, do you remember the message sent by Mueller? Do you recall the text of that message?

A RSHA sent the following measures, "It is incomprehensible to me that such measures could he considered there. Should the Jews in that area represent a danger they are merely (and this merely was underlined) to be sent to Central Germany for work."

Q The RSHA then supported Noske's position? an order as incomprehensible.

Q They supported Noske's position? which they approved of?

A Perhaps I may continue with the report about Noske's dismissal.

Q No, but answer that question. If the RSHA supported Noske why did they permit him to be penalized?

A I do not know the reason. I merely know that when Noske returned from Berlin he came to see me and asked me for copies of these top secret matters and he told me that because of too lax, too soft, an attitude in the treatment of the Jewish question he had been dismissed from his job and that a proceeding was to be started against him before a Higher SS and Police Court.

Q Was he tried? DR. HOFFMAN:

Q Your Honor, may I just say something?

THE PRESIDENT: Certainly.

DR. HOFFMAN: In my case in chief the Higher SS and Police Leader will appear in an affidavit and he, namely thelatter, was angry at Noske and now tried to start proceedings against Noske because of military disobedience, which we have in the do cuments, But, the witness cannot give you this information and I merely want to say this so that it would be logical.

BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Very well. Did you hear about these proceedings against Noske, instituted by higher SS and Police Leader?

Q Well wouldn't you have been interested in what happened to Noske after this rather serious incident?

A Noske was immediately transferred into the field. He was no longer in Duesseldorf and, therefore, I did not hear anything about how the matter progressedafterwards.

Q Did you know Noske very well?

A Noske was my superiorfor about one year. Noske came from western Germany and knew the mentality of the western German population. I personally had to write reports about the religious life and this whole church program was rather a delicate problem in western German. Therefore, I had to negotiate with Noske very often.

Q Would you say that he was soft in his treatment of the Jews? with Noske.

Q Proceed, Dr. Hoffman. BY DR. HOFFMANN:

Q Why didn't you talk with Noske about Jewish problems? the time when Noske was there there was hardly any Jewish question to be handled. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Well, as a matter of fact now, witness, there weren't many Jews in that area, were there, in Duesseldorf there weren't many Jews? that in 1944 there were still one thousand Jews in approved mixed marriages.

Q Well, they were mostly part Jews?

spouses in an approved mixed marriage and the children of these families those were mixed off-springs of the 1st degree. with an Aryan didn't exist in any appreciable number there?

Q So that thisquestion wasn't only a Jewish question, it was also a German question to a great extent? upon which spouse was Jewish, and at least half German children, didn't it?

Q Proceed, Dr. Hoffmann.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed, Dr. Hoffman. BY DR. HOFFMANN: Police job in Duesseldorf, was he completely dismissed?

A Yes, that's definite. Berlin and his dismissal? to Berlin because it said that his successor was already on the way.

Q Then it was very shortly afterwards? to Berlin and he never returned to his job. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Who signed the telegram of dismissal?

Q Well, you were interested in the episode, wouldn't you want to know who it was that fired him?

A Noske didn't tell me.

Q How was it you saw all these telegrams and didn't see the most important of all? Here is someone you were working with, suddenly he is dismissed, is about to go away, and you don't see the telegram although you see all the other telegrams? Berlin arrived, When I came to the office Noske was already on his way to Berlin.

Q And had taken the telegram with him?

Q Wasn't a copy of the teletype there? have already said that. when Noske came from Berlin he asked me for copies of these top secret matters and on that occasion he told me that he had been dismissed because of too lax conduct as far as the Jewish question was concerned.

Q Well, did he tell you who it was that dismissed him?

A No, he didn't tell me that. that here you are interested in this episode of a grave nature. You see the telegram which arrived giving the order, you see the complaint, you see the reply to the complaint, you even tell us about words which are underlined in the telegram, then comes the explosion at the end with the dismissal of your own superior. You don't know who dismissed him, you don't know whom he saw, you never saw the message. It sounds a little incomprehensible. doesn't it? the office and Noske was no longer my superior and I had no cause to ask for any details.

Q Did he come to the office?

Q And you gave him all these telegrams? that had dismissed him?

Q And you weren't curious enough to say to a man who had been your boss for a year, "I am very sorry, Dr. Noske, that this happened to you. That they dismissed you, Who was it who did this dirty deed?" You didn't think of mentioning that to him? matter of course that the Chief of Office (Office I) had charge of him as far as disciplinary measures was concerned so my questions would have been superfluous. him, is that right? revoked this order upon the teletype of Noske. Yes, he had approved of Noske's conduct and for this rest, as he told me, Noske was dismissed from the Job because of too lax treatment of the Jewish question, He told me personally.

Q And he didn't mention any name who it was that told him that he had been too lax?

Q And you didn't ask him "Who was it who told you you were too lax"?

A That was a matter of course. We took it for granted that Office I handled these matters.

Q Well, Office I is an abstract designation. The whole office didn't tell him this. One individual spoke. Who was the individual who spoke.

A Noske did not tell me and I didn't ask him for it, either.

BY DR. HOFFMANN:

ould like to ask you: the fact that Noske was no longer in his position was known to you, too? English authorities? about the Noske incident. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q What did the successor to Noske do which Noske hadn't done? later from the RSHA to the effect that those Jews who were fit to work were to be sent to Central Germany to work in the OT; that those who were not fit to work, and the Jewesses, were to be sent to Berlin where they would be housed in Jewish families and that is how the problem found its solution. and homes that were capable of housing other people?

A I told you what the teletype message contained. What the conditions were in Berlin I do not know. BY DR. HOFFMAN:

Q But, Noske was no longer there in the State Police Office was he? because that happened soon after the teletype came. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Well then he did remain in the office after he was dismissed? Very well.

BY DR. HOFFMANN:

Q Witness, let's get this quite clear. Now, Noske sent a teletype to the RSHA, is that right?

Q Then the RSHA sent back a teletype?

A Yes. And that was the one from Mueller.

Q And when did the dismissal come off?

Q Were there three months, three days or what?

A I cannot give you any period of time. I don't remember any more. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Well now just a moment. You can't dismiss a very reasonable question like that. When Dr. Hoffmann asked three months or three days you can tell us approximately the period of time. If you can't tell us that then one might question whether you remember anything about it. Certainly you would know how quicly came the order of dismissal of the man for whom you worked for a year. You certainly didn't have much love for him if you could forget him that quickly. Now, how seen did this message from the RSHA indicating what should be done with these half Jews that the order come through dismissing Noske? the dismissal of Noske perhaps happened at the end of October, but I must say that with reservations because I do not remember the exact time Noskewas dismissed. went by? been dismissed for something else, couldn't it?

Q So that you don't know why he was dismissed?

A I merely know what Noske told me personally. I did not see the teletype message. I wasn't present when Noske talked with the officials in Berlin. Therefore I don't know what the reasons were.

Q Proceed, Dr. Hoffmann. BY DR. HOFFMAN:

THE PRESIDENT: All right, Dr. Hoffman.

Q And that was generally known in Duesseldorf? Office, that if this pusch came it would be very rapid, didn't you?

A I can't pass any judgment on this. within a very few days, if not hours, Allied troops would be in Duesseldorf, didn't you?

Q But it was a possibility, wasn't it?

A But we didn't believe it. Duesseldorf very rapidly there would be little if any tine to act on this code word if it came through, didn't you?

A We didn't even think about that. We only had one thought in mind and Nosske too -- to prevent the carrying out of this order. his objection, according to your own testimony, a break-through of the Allied troops occurred, didn't it?

I do not remember. tion, the reason that you fixed the time when Nosske filed his objection to this order was that on the Sunday following--which was the 19th of September 1944--the break-through of the Allied troops occurred. Didn't you say that on direct examination? that the Allied parachute jump, took place near Arnheim, and on the Lower Rhine. back to Berlin? sent to Berlin, the reply came from Mueller, which I have already given twice.

Q Now, isn't it a fact, Witness, that at this time it actually was more dangerous to carry out an order of this nature than to disobey it? Isn't that true?

A I didn't understand the meaning of this question. I ask you whether or not, at this particular time about which you are testifying now--the 15th, the 16th, or the 17th of September--was it not more dangerous to carry out an order of this nature than it was to disobey it. at such a time?

A I wouldn't know any reason why the carrying out of this order should have been dangerous. Dusseldorf was only occupied on the 27th of April 1945. kilometers, were the Allied troops?

A The inspector asked me this question. He asked me whether the Jews represented a danger in the area near the front and I answered this question with "no" to the inspector. And the inspector then asked me, "What should we do with these people?" and I told him we should leave them in their homes.

Q Then you don't believe that it is right to kill Jews if no military necessity exists, do you?

Q You stated that Nosske one day was no longer there. What was the name of his successor?

A Haenschke. AAs I have already said, I belonged to the Department 2-B. This department 2-B included, among other things, the Jewish Department. The Jewish Department, as such, however no longer existed after the middle of 1944, and the expert for this department had been given other jobs. I personally was still there with three officers and one auxiliary employee.

And, looking at it objectively thus, 2-B was competent for this question.

Q Who was the chief of Office 1 of RSHA when Nosske was recalled? Do you know his name?

A I think that was Erlinger, but I cannot be sure. I don't know whether it is true, but that is my opinion. of office in Duesseldorf? either one of you two?

Q Did Nosske ever tell you any of his experiences in the east? Duesseldorf? from one rank to another?

AAs far as I know -- well, I don't remember. I hardly think so.

Q. And during the time in Duesseldorf, during your official and personal connections with Nosske, you grew to like him very much, didn't you?

A. Yes, I liked Nosske as my superior very much.

Q. And you are still friendly toward him, are you not?

A. He never gave me cause to feel anything else. And furthermore, I am personally grateful to him that at the time he did what he could in order to prevent the carrying out of this order; because I must admit today that if Nosske hadn't developed such initiative at the time and had taken upon himself to handle this matter, then no one in the State Police Agency in Duesseldorf area would be alive any more today.

Q. You state, then, that you like Nosske very much from your personal and official contacts with him and you further state that you still are friendly toward him, do you not?

A. Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: I didn't quite understand the witness' answer to your immediately preceding question -- that if Nosske hadn't done a certain thing, that of a certain group no one would be alive today.

MR. WALTON: He stated, Your Honor, as I got it, that he was very grateful to him and one of the reasons that he was very grateful to him was that in his opinion in the way that he acted in the matter of these Jews being the correct way; otherwise there would be no one alive in that Staop Stelle today. That is the way I understood the translation.

THE PRESIDENT: Who would not be alive?

MR. WALTON: No one in that office would be alive today.

THE PRESIDENT: Of his office?

MR. WALTON: Yes, of Nosske's and his office.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I don't understand the sequence there. They weren't half-Jews in his office?

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, I agree with Mr. Walton the witness is of the opinion that he is grateful to him that he showed the correct way, because otherwise--as the witness says--no one of the State Police COURT II CASE IX Agency would be alive any more because probably today they would have been convicted in Dachau.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, then, is your gratitude only because it saved you and not the lives of these innocent people?

THE WITNESS: If he had not saved the lives of these innocent people, then our lives would have been forfeited.

THE PRESIDENT: You weren't concerned so much with saving the lives of these innocent people as with protecting yourself from some possible later conviction.

THE WITNESS: No. I now speak of today's situation, from the prospective today. At the time when this order was imminent, the prospective was quite different from the one today.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed, Mr. Walton. BY MR. WALTON:

Q. Well, since you have a chance to reflect on it, do you not think that was the entire motive behind Nosske's attitude there in Duesseldorf in connection with these Jews--in order that he might later save his own life?

A. No, neither Nosske nor I had these thoughts. That was completely out of the question. At that time we still did not enterain such thoughts and the considerations which Nosske had were merely directed toward the innocence of these people, and they were purely human feelings which caused him to do this.

Q. How do you know what Nosske thought?

A. Nosske discussed it with me. He said it was impossible to carry out such an order.

Q. But you said on direct examination that you never discussed Jewish questions with the exception of this one.

A. Yes.

Q. Now you are testifying as to Nosske's attitude in general toward Jews.

A. You just came to talk about this special case and what caused COURT II CASE IX Nosske to conduct himself in this way at that time, and his conduct after the order is what I was talking about.

Page 5,341

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, we will take our recess, Recess for fifteen minutes.

(A recess was taken.)

Page 5,342

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

MR. WALTON: May it please the Tribunal, I have only one or two further questions for this witness, and I would like to call to the Tribunal's attention that the attorney for the defendant Felix Ruehl, Dr. Link, to my certain knowledge was ready to present his document books as of Monday. He properly served me with copies of all documents which had not been mimeographed, that is, translations, and he and I have both been ready since that time. Now information has come to me that Dr. Link was in the Krupp trial and is finding some difficulty in attending both courts at the same time. Both the Prosecution and the Defense would like to get this matter settled, and I think that I can speak for Dr. Link and ask for the offices of the Tribunal in giving him an opportunity to present his documents.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. The Marshal will please go to the Krupp trial Courtroom and if Dr. Link is not actually engaged in the presentation of the case of his client, is not on the witness stand and is not in jail, he will invite him to come immediately to our court so that he may present the document books which he has now been trying to present for several days. BY MR. WALTON: recess that you considered Nosske your friend. Now as a friend you would like to help him out as best as you could, would you not? I have to leave my feeling for Nosske out of this. I have said the pure truth, and I will say the pure truth.

Q I didn't say that you said otherwise. I merely asked you the question: you are a friend of Nosske and you would like to help him all you could in your testimony, isn't that correct?

I do not know. Nosske was my boss. A relationship of friendship in the way that you might mean did not exist between us. Of course, we were both SS officers and in a sense, of course, we were comrades, but Nosske was my superior and, of course, in this relationship there was a certain separation between us. BY THE PRESIDENT: and still not forfeit one's life for that objection? to this question. I was an SS officer and so was Nosske.

Q Well, I didn't mean soldier in the technical sense of being a member of the Wehrmacht because this would apply as well to a sailor. Let us put the question in another way. Was the SS part of the armed forces of Germany during the war? Wehrmacht.

Q Well, weren't all the SS of every character under the direction of the Commander-in-Chief?

A No. As far as it is known to me, this is not the case. We, as members of the SD and the State Police, were subordinate to the Chief of the Reich Security Main Office in all factual questions, and as SS officers -

Q Well, who was the Chief of the Reich Security Main Office?

Q And he was the Commander-in-Chief?

Q Or in any other armed force of Germany no matter where located?

Q Did you take an oath of allegiance to Hitler?

Q Did Nosske take an oath of allegiance to Hitler?

A I should assume that this is so. But I do not know.

Q At any rate, he was in the same category as yourself?

Q Yes. Now, in that part of the armed forces of Germany which eventually led to the top who was Hitler himself, was it possible for one to object to an order and not be summarily shot for it?

A No. Whoever refused to carry out an order was disobedient and, of course, had to bear the consequences. We, as members of the SD or the Security Police, in this particular respect were subordinated to the SS jurisdiction.

Q Well, the SS was subordinate to Hitler, wasn't it? to the carrying out of an order of Hitler and still not be shot for it? exceeds my knowledge.

Q Well, Nosske objected to the order, didn't he?

A Nosske did not carry out the order which was given to him. He turned to his superior agency in order to have this order rescinded.

Q Well, he objected to the order, didn't he?

Q And he was not shot, was he?

Page 5,345

THE PRESIDENT: Do you have any further questions, Dr. Hoffmann?

DR. HOFFMANN: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: The witness will be excused.

Do we have any word from the front as to whether Dr. Link is free or not?

DR. ULMER: Dr. Ulmer for the defendant Six. weathered the storm and that she will be able to come to the witness stand on Thursday, as I said this morning. I only wanted to say so now because this morning it was not clear. She has finally arrived in Hamburg, and I think she will arrive here during the day tomorrow, and I want herewith to announce her.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

DR. ULMER: And I want the gentlemen of the Prosecution to take note of this.

THE PRESIDENT: Certainly. Immediately upon arrival you will hold her in readiness for summoning to the witness stand.

DR. ULMER: Yes, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. STEIN: Dr. Stein for Sandberger. Book 2 which was to have been presented with Book No. 1, is translated but it has not been mimeographed yet. For this reason I have switched over my presentation and I shall now submit Book No. 1.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Proceed. You may begin, Dr. Stein.

DR. STEIN: I submit and I offer as Exhibit Sandberger No. 1, Document Sandberger No. 15 which is contained in Document Book Sandberger 1. It is on page 40. It is an affidavit of the architect, Lambert von Malsen-Ponickau. This gentleman was Sandberger's deputy in 1941 in the direction of the Immigration Central Office, and in this affidavit he states that Sandberger, against his wish, received the order to take up an assignment in the East with the Security Police and the SD.

THE PRESIDENT: I see that Dr. Link, battle-scarred and quite a veteran, has returned.

DR. STEIN: He confirms the following facts which Sandberger testified to in his direct examination, first, that Sandberger in 1940 and in 1941 had the urgent wish to be released from his activity in the Reich Security Main Office and to be allowed to go to join a Wehrmacht unit as a soldier; secondly, that since 1939 Sandberger suffered from a rheumatic disease and that in February or March, 1941, he had to take health baths in order to cure this disease; thirdly, that Sandberger reported to the Chief of Office I, Streckenbach, and asked him to be released in order to join the Wehrmacht, and when this was refused, he repeated his application; fourth, that Sandberger expressed to the affiant his disappointment that this application was not approved; fifth, that Sandberger before he was assigned to the East had no knowledge concerning the tasks of an Einsatzgruppe, especially considering that he had never had anything to do with Office IV of the RSHA nor had he ever been active in any police service whatsoever. activity of Sandberger in Estonia. In these affidavits it is said that Sandberger during the second half of the month of September and in the beginning of October, 1941, was not in Estonia but in the sector in the vicinity of Leningrad, I may point out in this connection, and I may remind the Tribunal first, that the Chief of the Estonian selfgovernment, Dr. Hjalmar Mae, has given testimony concerning this question when he was on the witness stand to the effect that Sandberger was not present in Estonia at this time and that he could not be reached from Reval; secondly, that the defendant Sandberger himself stated when he was on the witness stand that the execution of Jewish men in Estonia, which is mentioned in Document 1180 and in the Prosecution Document NO-3155, Report of Events of No. 111, happened during the last days of September while he was absent from Estonia without his knowledge, by order of the Einsatzgruppe Chief Stahlecker to a deputy of Sandberger's by the name of Carstens, and owing to the passing on of Sandberger's orders to this effect by a report from Carstens to the Estonian Home Guard.

Number 13, and it is in Document Book I, page 35. It is affidavit by Alma Klenke, who states that at the and of October 1941 she received a letter from Sandberger from which it became evident that Sandberger was at the Leningrad front on the 23rd of September 1941 as well as on the 3rd of October 1941. Sandberger Document Number 12, Document Book I, page 33, affidavit of Miss Magda Kirschstein who likewise confirms that Sandberger at the end of September 1941 was at the Leningrad front, that in March 1942 Sandberger was in Berlin and after that in a field hospital in Pernau. Number 7, which is also in Document Book Number I on page 17, affidavit of farmer Otto von Haldenwang. Haldenwang was chief of the Department I of the German general commissariat for Estonia. He was, therefore, responsible to the chief of the German civilian administration in Estonia. He was together with Sandberger from the beginning of September 1941 until the autumn 1942 in Reval. He also confirms that Sandberger, during the time in question here, that is, autumn 1941, was not present in Reval and could not be reached by this affiant during the time. Furthermore, he confirms the absence of Sandberger from Reval during spring 1942 owing to illness, as well as the fact that the synagogue in Reval was not destroyed. Then he confirms that Sandberger's interest was taken up by political matters and that Sandberger, therefore, did not deal very much with police matters. Herr Haldenwang furthermore speaks about the different fields of activities with which Sandberger primarily concerned himself during his period in Estonia. Sandberger, he says, had from the very beginning advised the Estonian civil administration with word and deed, that he was sympathetic towards the Estonian people and had always supported and been kind to the Estonians at any time.

Furthermore, Sandberger had advocated a greater independence of the Estonian people and had supported this request with the German civil administration. He also saw to it that the Estonians would be walltreated and that in cultural and economic questions they should be supported as far as possible, A number of individual examples are given by the affiant confirming this. He characterizes the defendant Sandberger as a quiet, very correct person, who was able to strike a happy medium between particularly strong contrasts. Book I, page 6, which I offer as Sandberger Exhibit Number 5, affidavit by Georg Buchner, the kriminalsekretaer. In 1941 Buchner was police expert in the special commando IA, the chief of which was Sandberger. Buchner likewise confirms from his own knowledge that Sandberger during the second half of September and at the beginning of October 1941 was stationed at the Leningrad front. During the time in question, the affiant was assigned to this special. The following paragraphs of the affidavit of Buchner confirm those statements which Sandberger testified to when he was in the witness stand, when he was asked by the prosecutor concerning the competence of the subcommando Krasnoje-Selo. From the beginning of October this subcommando KrasnojeSelo was only subordinated to Sandberger as far as supply and administration were concerned, therefore, the spheres of activity of departments I and II, but the subcommando Krasnoje-Selo in all operational matters, that is, the work of the departments III, IV, and V, from October 1941 on, was exclusively under the Kommando Kranogwardeisk of the Einsatzgruppe A. That is, therefore, to the staff of the Einsatzgruppe in Kranogwardeisk. Buchner describes in detail these channels of command. This confirms everything that Sandberger said concerning this question when he was on the witness stand on page 2,399 of the English transcript. Document Number 5, page 11, affidavit of the Kriminalkommissar Johannes Court No. II, Case No. IX.

Feder. Feder was a member of the Special Commando 1A from the beginning of the Russian campaign until the 25th of September 1941. From the middle of August on, he was the chief of the branch office in Narva of SK 1-A. Narva is situated on the road Reval-Leningrad about half way. Feder confirms that Sandberger, approximately during the period from the 10th of September 1941, went to the front with a subcommando via Narva in the direction of Leningrad, that he did not return to Estonia as long as Feder was in Narva, and that in the meantime no contact existed between Sandberger and Feder. Apart from this fact, Feder confirms a number of other circumstances which agree with the statements that Sandberger made when he was on the witness stand. First, he, Feder, had not been informed as a subcommando chief about the fact that it was part of his tasks to shoot Jews, Gypsies, and Communist functionaries. On the contrary, Sandberger had expressly said that no collective measures were to be carried out. Secondly, he, Feder, during the time of his service in Sonderkommando 1A, from July 1941 up to and inclusive of 25 September 1941, had never heard either from Sanderberger or from any other place about the existence of a Fuehrer order concerning elimination of all Jews, Gypsies, and Communist functionaries.

directions from Sandberger: All measures were to be taken as were necessary to protect the rear of the fighting units. Directives concerning confinements to camps or prisons and death sentences were only to be passed after an individual guilt had been established, and only if the person charged had had the opportunity to defend himself and orally. In this executions were to be carried only in exceptional cases. The heavy guilt according to these principles was only active guilt of measures taken against the German Wehrmacht. Those were the offenses which were to be punished with death or, of course, crimes against life and property of indigenous citizens during the time of the Russian occupation which had preceded. Also, it had to be proven that the person concerned would endanger seriously the security of the area in question. Lithuania and Latvia, Sandberger had informed his Sub-Kommando Leader that the Kommando IA had no authorities as far as Lithuania and Letvia were concerned, but only for Estonia, and that for that reason, while the Kommando I A marched through Lithuania and Latvia. security measures on the part of the Security Police should only be taken if it was considered absolutely necessary to secure the Army immediately. in Narva, he had never received from anybody or from Sandbergar an order concerning anti-Jewish actions and that he himself had never taken any measures against Jews. These statements confirm the testimony of the witness Sandberger when he was on the witness stand. It is on Page 2212 of the English record:

"The territory in the Northeast of Estonia between Kapsk and Narva - - -"

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. von Stein, at the rate at which you are proceeding, which is net a very rapid one, I am afraid that we won't reach Dr. Link before adjournment time, and I am very sorry about that because we - sort of had Dr. Link going back and forth, and I am just wondering now, do you think you can complete the presentation of this book before 4:30?

DR. VON STEIN: (Inaudible) Well, I suppose so. Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: We didn't catch that.

DR. VON STEIN: I think that there are only another 20 minutes, as far as that is concerned.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, there are 25, to begin with, and then you are moving very slowly and giving a lot of detail which is unnecessary. The only purpose of presenting a document in this way is to generally give the picture of what it presents, but to give it in detail is unnecessary because the affidavit must be read in its entirety, and I am afraid that you don't get as much out of it as if you just told in a few brief, telling words what the affidavit says.

DR. VON STEIN: Your Honor, only a few individual documents needed an explicit explanation, All the other documents are very much shorter and only - therefore, they only give the content as you, Your Honor, wish it to be.

THE PRESIDENT: I see, very well. Yes. Well, Dr. Link, it seems quite clear that we couldn't reach you before 4:30 anyway. Now, the only thing we want to decide is whether you would want to go on immediately at 9:30 tomorrow morning or whether we should go on with rebuttal. Now just a moment now.

Dr. Link, can you give us any estimate of the length of time you would require to present your documents?

DR. LINK: It is difficult to give an estimate, your Honor, but I am almost certain that in about 40 minutes I could finish.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Can you be here tomorrow morning at 9:30?

DR. LINK: If it is absolutely necessary, your Honor, I shall excuse myself and I shall withdraw in the correct manner from the other trial, but, of course, it would be most welcome to me if I should be permitted to arrive at only 10 o'clock, because at 9:30 the decision is expected which the Tribunal was discussing during these last two days.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Yes, well, I can see the importance of that, naturally; so perhaps what we will do then is, just as soon as Dr. von Stein finishes, to go on with rebuttal, because we ought to get that in, and then when you are free, completely free, then you report to the Tribunal and we will see when you will present your documents. But you need not feel under any constraint to report here at any particular time tomorrow morning, and I am very sorry that we had you called and then you couldn't go on anyway.

DR. LINK: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome. Proceed, Dr. von Stein, please.

DR. VON STEIN: I now continue with the affidavit - of Feder's. which is spoken about on this page of the transcript by Sandberger is the same sector which was part of the territory of Feder's Kommando. the witness stand, on page 2212 - 13, 2397, 2437, of the English transcript, to the effect that the Estonian homeguard and the Estonian police authorities were subordinated to the Kommando of the Army in Estonia at the time.

Seven, Furthermore, Feder confirms Sandberger's statements in the witness stand, page 2197 of the English transcript, to the effect that in July 1941, in Pleskau, - no agency of the Sonderkommando 1 was instituted, but that the Sub-Kommando was subordinated to the 58th Infantry Division of the Army and only marched through Pleskau - at that time.

Eight. He furthermore confirms that he received the order from Sandberger to deal with any GII auxiliary task that might come up for the Army. Number 1 on page 58, Affidavit Strauch, Exhibit Number 7. Strauch makes in this affidavit, from his own knowledge, statements which refer to end of 1941 till March 1942. In those days Strauch was in charge of all tasks of Department Chief III with the Commander of the Security Police and the SD in Riga.

Strauch confirms that a certain Dr. Lange, who was responsible for all Jewish questions in the territory of the Einsatzgruppe A at that time and the Commander of the Security Police and the SD in Riga, that in this time that was just mentioned at least two Staff members in the presence of Stahlecker it had stated that the order, the Fuehrer order concerning the elimination of Jews in the territory of Special Kommando la, therefore in the territory of which Sandberger was in charge, had not been carried out, and that this fact was the more inconceivable as the number of Jews there was a very low one and that, therefore, it had been concluded that Sandberger had not the wish to deal with these matters. Furthermore, Strauch says that Stahlecker thereupon said that he had told Sandberger on various occasions that this order must now be carried out and at his next meeting with Sandberger he would draw his attention to this again. Strauch furthermore talks about a discussion which he had in Winter 1941-1942 in the presence of Stahlecker with the SS Obergruppenfuehrer Jeckeln in Riga. During this discussion Jeckeln told Strauch, amongst other things, that he, Jeckeln, had discovered a number of Jews on an official trip in one of the localities and ordered their execution immediately personally. Strauch claims that he does not remember the name of this locality in question, especially as he had nothing to do with those matters at the time; but he remembers that it is a locality in the territory of the Sandberger assignment. "I think it is possible that it was Pleskau." In this connection, I may draw the attention of the Tribunal to the fact that in an affidavit of the, Ambassador Winnecker, which I shall submit at a later point, it becomes evident that Winnecker, not from his own knowledge admittedly, but from hearsay, had found out that Sandberger, contrary to orders which he had received, had taken Estonian Jews to Pleskau, where they were living in a camp up to that time when Obergruppenfuehrer Jeckeln got hold of them.

I offer Sandberger Prosecution Exhibit No. 8, on page 53 of Document Book 1, Sandberger Document 18, an affidavit by Dr. Gustav Adolf Scheel. Scheel has known Sandberger since 1933. He was Sandberger's chief of the SD during the years 1935 until 1939. He confirms Sandberger's er's statements on the witness stand, pages 2143, - 44,

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. von Stein, it isn't necessary to refer to the transcript. You are giving us argument when you tell us that it confirms this, it confirms that. All we need now is a general idea of what each document contains and if you only read what you have in the index under the heading "content," that would be just about what we would want. Where you have a very particularly important document and you want to be a little more specific, I think that it would be in order to dwell a little longer on it; but for you to be referring constantly to the transcript and giving us the page numbers, that is not part of the presentation of documents.

DR. VON STEIN: I only wanted to explain to the Tribunal the reason why I submitted the documents because sometimes, without any oral comment, it does not become evident what the document is meant to represent and what it signifies. For this reason I believe that a few documents have to have a comment in order that the Tribunal might see the reason why it is submitted.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, yes, but it isn't necessary to refer to the page number in the transcript.

DR. VON STEIN: I shall limit myself, Your Honor, as far as is possible. Dr. Scheel furthermore confirms, in his capacity as the former Reich Students Leader, that Sandberger from November 1936 up to the time he fell ill in 1939 interested himself in matters of the German Students Association and that in a more extensive way than in matters of the SD. Dr. Scheel says furthermore that through the beginning of the war Sanderger could not possible leave the SD service. As Dr. Scheel, from 1935 until 1941, held high position in the SD, he must be regarded as an expert in these questions and certainly somebody whose testimony carries some weight.

Dr. Scheel confirms, furthermore, that Sandberger in 1941 applied to him with the urgent request that he might ask for him in the RSHA in a capacity dealing with matters of the German Students Association.

Next I offer Sandberger Exhibit No. 9, from Sandberger Document Book I, Document No. 1,. affidavit of Dr. Reinhold Baessler. Dr. Baessler confirms the statements of Dr. Scheel and of the defendant Sandberger concerning Sandberger's activity for the Students Association, 1936 to 1939.

Next I offer as Exhibit No. 10, from Sandberger Book I, Document No. 4, affidavit of Eiseler, who from 1936 to 1939 was in the subdepartment of the SD of Stuttgart, in the security service administration district southwest. He confirms Sandberger's statements on various points, especially the impossibility of leaving the SD service after the war had broken out.

Next I offer Exhibit No. 11 from Document Book Sandberger 1, Document No. 11, page 30, affidavit of Dr. Klaus Huegel, who in 1938 was in the Foreign Department of the SD Stuttgart and in 1944 he was in Office 6 of the RSHA in Berlin. He expresses himself about the character and activities of Office 6 of the RSHA and about the nature, which has nothing to do with police matters, of Sandberger's Job.

Next, from Document Book Sandberger No. 1, I offer Document No. 14, Exhibit No. 12, affidavit by the architect Lambert von Malsen-Ponickau, concerning the nature of the immigration office. Furthermore, I submit from Document Book I, Document No. 10, on page 27, and I offer it as Sandberger Exhibit No, 13, affidavit of R*dolf Hotzel, who in 1940-1941 was in Office 1 of the RSHA and was an immediate colleague of the defendant Sandberger and in 1942 was Chief of the Training Group in Office 1 of the RSHA. He confirms that this secrecy between individual departments of the RSHA was particularly strict in those days and he confirms: "In the group in which Sandberger and I served, Group 1-B of the RSHA, we certainly never found out about any matters of other departments of the RSHA. Decrees and directives of Office 4, we were never enlightened about and we never even heard rumors about them."

der, whose affidavit is contained in Document Book I as Document No. 2 on page 3, and, which I offer as Sandberger Exhibit No. 14 concerning Sandberger's activity in Department No. 3 of the BDS, Verona.

I offer from Sandberger's Document Book I, Document No. 20, page 61, affidavit of Julius Wilbertz, which I offer as Sandberger Exhibit No. 15. Wilbertz informs us that extensive reports of Sandberger's were against matters which were of detrimental effects to the Italian population and that the SD reports pursued the aim to satisfy the needs of the Italian people under any circumstances. Wilbertz furthermore confirms that Sandberger's tasks in Verona, had nothing to do with the field of activity of the State Police. attitude of the defendant Sandberger. All five confirm that it is correct if Sandberger explains to the questions of the President and also in cross examination the other questions of the Prosecution that some measures, directives, of the Government or the Party, he did not agree with. not have the usual Party attitude toward the Jewish question, I submit and I offer as Sandberger's Exhibit No, 16 the affidavit of the lawyer, Dr. Wolfgang Heintzeler who is at the moment assistant defense counsel in Nurnberg, in Case 6. It is Document No. 9, affidavit by Dr, Wolfgang Heintzeler. The affidavit refers to the years 1931 to 1934. Dr. Heintzeler mentions two examples which confirm, as he says, the fact that Sandberger, in spite of his National Socialist attitude, had a very liberal view concerning the Jewish question and did not agree with the usual Party attitude toward the Jewish question. teacher Johanna Haist, Sandberger Document Book 1, Document No. 6, referring to the year 1933, which confirms the fact that Sandberger had no anti Jewish attitude.

I offer as Exhibit Sandberger No. 18, from Document Book 1, Document No. 8, affidavit by Karl Heinz Hederich, an engineer, referring to the year 1944 and describing successful attempts of the witness Hederich and the defendant Sandberger concerning the improvement of the situation of the Jewish personalities in Budapest and in Berlin. berger in 1938 supported agencies of the Protestant Party in Wurtenburg to improve the situation and the work of the church and to eliminate any obstacles which might be caused by other agencies. Sandberger acted in this, within the sphere of his Protestant activities, for the German Students Associations and in agreement with his chief, Dr. Gustav Adolf Scheel. The affidavit of Parson Dr. Eberhard Mueller refers to the same incident. It is Sandberger Book I, Document No. 16, which I offer as Sandberger Exhibit No. 19. The Parson, Dr. Eberhard Mueller, who was at that time General Secretary of the German Christian Students' Associations, representing the German Branch of the Christian student World Union. He is today the chief of all Protestant Christian academies in Germany.

DR. VON STEIN: (Continued) Person Dr. Mueller established among other things that the motive for Sandberger's conduct was that he agreed with the opinion of his chief, Dr. Scheel, that a prohibition of church work did not agree with the idealistic attitude of the National Socialists. Parson Dr. Mueller furthermore confirms that Sandberger through his conduct endangered himself and his position considerably because obviously in the circles of the German Christian Students Association it was again and again discussed that the Reich Students leadership had made it possible for this work to be carried on. These statements on the part of Parson Dr. Eberhard Mueller confirm the next affidavit which goes beyond these borders. I offer it as Exhibit 20. It is Sandberger Book I, Document 17, on page 47. This is the affidavit of Oberkirchenrat "Senior Church Councillor) Wilhelm Pressel in Stuttgart. He was the students' Parson of the Protestant church in Tuebingen and has known Sandberger since 1931. Since 1933 Oberkirchenrat Pressel, up to this very day, is a close collaborator of District Bishop Wurm in Stuttgart. Bishop Wurm during this time was the leader of the Protestant Church in Wuerttemberg. Since 1945 he is President of the Protestant Church in Germany. Concerning the friendly attitude that Sandberger took toward the church in 1938, as stated by Parson Dr. Mueller Oberkirchenrat Pressel says, literally, "that Dr. Sandberger conducted these discussions in so loyal and proper manner although my political - - -

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment, Dr. von Stein, the interpreter wants to confirm a certain word. DR. VON STEIN: I shall repeat what I have just been reading. Oberkirchenrat Pressel says literally, that Dr. Sandberger conducted these discussions with the said result in such a loyal and decent manner although Sandberger knew about the fact that I was politically persecuted in this case. Oberkirchenrat Pressel was known to him and I think it is very humble of him and I shall never forget this. Sandberger's behaviour and conduct in 1938 is described by Oberkirchenrat Pressel and he says that this group in public were representatives of the idealistic and decent group of the NSDAP who attempted to suppress any forced measures within the party or make them impossible.

Concerning Sandberger's attitude in the years 1931 and 1932 Oberkirchenrat Pressel says from his own knowledge: "I met him in those days as a man of idealistic and decent character. For idealistic reasons he joined the NSDAP and he was convinced that the leading men of the NSDAP wanted the very best for the German people, that their rules and their basic principles in the fight against dirt and misery and against public corruption and growing demoralization as well as the promises of political socialistic revolution based on law and orderliness and positive Christianity were meant seriously and honestly."

This concludes, your Honor, my presentation of documents today. I have a few further documents which have already been translated and have been here since the 15th of the month but I have not received copies. Furthermore there is a supplement to this document book I-A which I have submitted. I have not heard about this document book up to this date whether translated or not. I now ask your Honor whether he would be able to tell me whether I shall be in a position to submit, to offer these documents.

THE PRESIDENT: You will certainly be allowed to submit these documents. No one will be denied the fullest opportunity to present all relevant documents. We are only saying that the schedule for tomorrow is that we will proceed with the rebuttal testimony to be submitted by the Prosecution. Then we will take up the matter of what is still left to be heard.

DR. VON STEIN: My question, your Honor, was not to the effect whether I would be able to submit my documents but I was going to ask you whether I might personally submit them here in court after the rebuttal.

THE PRESIDENT: Well yes, that was the indention of our reply, that you will be permitted to present whatever documents you have, in court.

DR. VON STEIN: Thank you. Another request, your Honor. Your Honor, there has come to my knowledge that there are a number of translation mistakes, differences in the German and English text.

I have already had a list made of such mistakes and I would like to know whether these mistakes should be presented in court here or whether I should go through with them with Mr. Glancy and have these mistakes corrected in the transcript officially.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, if you and Mr. Glancy can agree upon the correction then it would be enough if you prepare an errata sheet and submit it to the person in charge of the transcript.

DR. VON STEIN: In case there should be any misunderstanding, your Honor, will I be permitted to present these matters in court here so that the Tribunal may make a ruling about these?

THE PRESIDENT: By all means, Dr. von Stein. The Tribunal will now be in recess until tomorrow morning at 9:30.

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

DR. RIEDIGER: Dr. Riediger, counsel for the defendant, Haensch. Your Honor, I have made a request some time ago to have the witness, Dr. Menle, summoned from Berlin. He was to testify that Haensch from January to February 1942 was at his place for medical treatment in Berlin. I am not in a position to call this witness here because he is now residing in Berlin and because he will not receive permission to travel unless an official invitation goes out from this Tribunal. I permit myself to make the request whether the Tribunal has already made a ruling with respect to the hearing of that witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we have approved the request--Have we approved the request?

DR. RIEDIGER: Until this time I have had no news whatsoever by the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: I have disposed of every request.

DR. RIEDIGER: I shall investigate this matter and perhaps I shall be able to report to the Tribunal about the matter this afternoon.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, let me say to you, Dr. Riediger, that in the event you don't find it that you will have the approval now so that you can inform them at the Defense Center that the Tribunal has approved your request for this witness.

DR. RIEDIGER: Yes.

DR. VOLKEL: Dr. Volkel, counsel for the defendant, Six. Your Honor, I am in a position now to submit Document Book II on behalf of the defendant, Six, after we yesterday dealt with Document Book III. Your Honor, would you please rule whether I may now start with my presentation of documents in order to deal with all other documents now COURT II CASE IX which are available to us in their English translation.

PRESIDENT: We have established that today we will hear the rebuttal and I think we had better adhere to that program because otherwise there will be irregularity in the presentation of the evidence. We will hear the rebuttal today, and then we will take up the remaining documents which are to be presented.

DR. VOLKEL: If I have understood you correctly, Your Honor, we still have the possibility after the rebuttal to submit the document book?

THE PRESIDENT: That is correct.

DR. VOLKEL: Thank you very much.

DR. HEIM: Dr. Heim, counsel for the defendant, Blobel. Your Honor, Monday Mr. Hochwald has made an utterance here that a trial brief had already been prepared and been submitted to the Tribunal with respect to the defendant, Blobel. In that connection, let me state that this trial brief has not been made available to me up to date, and as Mr. Hochwald told me some time ago, this brief is still being translated. I, therefore, make the request that this closing brief be only accepted at a time when it is available to me in its German text. Furthermore, I make the motion that a period be allocated to me of 14 days within which I am in a position to reply to said closing brief.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, with regard to that, Dr. Heim, we will make the statement for all counsel. Trial briefs must be filed no later than the last day of the summation arguments. By that we mean that they must be in the hands of the Tribunal because it will not help us any if you merely submit them in their manuscript form to the Translation Department on the last day of summations, so, therefore, you will need to work out your schedule in such a way so that the briefs may be translated and mimeographed and submitted to the Tribunal by the last day of summation arguments, otherwise, it will be impossible to study them. Are you hearing me? Otherwise, it will be impossible to use them in the writing of the judgment.

As it stands now, 14 days will elapse before that final day, but it doesn't mean though that you will have 14 days to work on the trial brief. And furthermore, we don't know why you need so much time because Blobel's case was finished a long time ago; so we will now recapitulate what the schedule will be for the remaining sessions of this Tribunal, covering the instant case. Today we hear rebuttal. Tomorrow we will finish up the presentation of document books. Next week the Tribunal will be in recess. Dr. Aschenauer, who will present arguments for the defendant Ohlendorf and who as we understand will lead off with the summation speeches, must have his summation speech ready a week from this Friday so that it can be presented to the Translation Section and it can be ready then for presentation to the Tribunal a week from next Monday. Today is Wednesday, January 21. We will hear rebuttals today. Tomorrow we will hear the remaining presentation of document books. For the week of January 26 to January 31, the Tribunal will be in recess. Dr. Aschenauer must have his summation speech ready for presentation to the Translation Section by the morning of January 30. He will present his summation speech to the Tribunal on February 2, and he will immediately be followed by the other counsel in the order of the defendants as they sit in the defendants' box. Counsel, of course, will all be working on their summation speeches during this week of January 26. Naturally, those who are among the first defendants in the first row of the defendants' box will need to have their speeches more quickly than those who are in the rear row of the defendants' box. Is that clear to the counsel?

DR. HEIM: Your Honor, I have one question in that regard. If the prosecution will only submit a closing brief to us in about 10 days in its German text, then we only have limited hours at our disposal to reply to it. Then we shall not be in a position to get the timely translation of the closing brief especially since the Translation Branch has a terrific backlog.

PRESIDENT. Mr. Hochwald, when will you have the translation of your brief ready?

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, we haven't finished all of our briefs yet, and we can work on the final speech of the prosecution and on these briefs undisturbed only after the Tribunal has taken its recess, as we have to be all day in the court room, expecially now when the defense counsel for the different defendants are presenting their documents books. We won't be able to put in the briefs earlier than on the dates just given by Your Honors. We, of course, have these briefs currently translated, and it is by opinion that a brief is a summation which substitutes certain parts of the closing address. It is impossible for the prosecution to analyze the whole evidence before the Tribunal in every single case in the closing address and, therefore, we are putting in, with the permission of the Tribunal, closing briefs. If we would just put in all this summation in our closing address, defense counsel wouldn't have more than at the utmost 24 hours to answer to the summation. It is the position of the prosecution that we are giving in our trial briefs our position what we have proved.

PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Hochwald, we understand the purpose of a trial brief and the only question was, when will you have the German translation of your trial brief in the Blobel case, that is the only question.

MR. HOCHWALD: I do hope to have it in at the latest, 3 days.

PRESIDENT: Very well, Dr. Heim has informed the Tribunal that you have already submitted the trial brief in its English version, but we have not seen it nor will we in any way regard it until the German copy is in the hands of Dr. Heim, so that was the question. Therefore, the answer is, Dr. Heim, that you will receive it within three days.

DR. HEIM: Thank you very much, Your Honor.

PRESIDENT: You are welcome.

DR. VOLKEL: Your Honor, as I have just heard, the presentation of documents will be concluded tomorrow. The Tribunal then intended to take a recess for the following week. Now we shall be confronted with the necessity, as a result of the rebuttal documents of the prosecution, to present a number of other documents on behalf of the defense before the Tribunal.

That will probably confine itself to 3, 4, 5 documents which, however, I am not able to hand in to the Translation Branch before the end of this week or beginning of next week. Since the Tribunal is going to take a recess, a fact which is heartily greeted by the counsels it will not be possible to submit these documents, therefore, I ask the Tribunal to fix a date up to which the documents on behalf of the defense can be submitted whichrefer to new evidence which will be presented by the prosecution as it arises from the rebuttal.

PRESIDENT: You, of course, know that you are not called upon to reaffirm what you have already stated in your direct case merely because the rebuttal seeks to refute what you have said in your direct case. It is only in the event the rebuttal brings up something startlingly new that you need to in any way reply to it, because your case already stands and regardless of how it is attacked on the other side it still remains as your presentation. Now, if you find that there is something which is of such a nature in the way of its newness and originality that you just must reply to it, certainly we will find a way. I won't tell you at this moment just what method will be found, but a way will be absolutely found so that you can submit this evidence which you think to be absolutely essential to your case. As we have indicated on several occasions and which we will now repeat, no defendant will be denied the fullest opportunity to submit what is really vital and relevant in his case, so that when the rebuttal will have finished perhaps tomorrow you can indicate to us if you feel that you must still get some other documents and then we will dispose of it.

DR. VOLKEL: I thank you very much, Your Honor. Tomorrow as soon as the presentation of evidence has been concluded I shall again mention the subject.

PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. GAWLIK: Dr. Gawlik, counsel for the defendants, Naumann and Seibert. Your Honor, my colleague, Seibert, has been told that he will get his closing brief--the translation of his closing brief--in about three days.

The same question concerns me, and other colleagues of mine, and I would be very grateful to the prosecution if they could make a statement when other defense counsel can expect the German translation of closing briefs in order that we can arrange our work accordingly.

DR. WALTON: If it please Your Honors, the closing brief against Seibert is completed and has already been in the hands of the Translation Section for a week. I think it is superfluous to remind the Tribunal that once we put it in the hands of the Translation Section, all we can do is go down and ask politely that they please get it out of there.

PRESIDENT: Yes. Let me state to defense counsel that while it is highly desirable that they have copies of the prosecution trial briefs in their hands while they are working on their own briefs, no rule of procedure requires that they have the opposite trial brief before they write up their own trial brief. Each side presents its trial brief and it isn't a debate. Defense Counsel now know what they must emphasize in their summations and in their trial briefs, and it isn't necessary to reply paragraph for paragraph to the prosecution trial brief. We will endeavor to get the trial briefs into your hands--the opposite trial briefs--but under no circumstances must you wait until you get those trial briefs before you work on your own, and the Tribunal now directs you to proceed on your own trial briefs independent of the prosecution trial briefs, assuring you that every effort will be made to get those prosecution trial briefs into defense counsel hands as quickly as possible.

MR.WALTON: Thank you, Your Honor.

DR. GAWLIK: Mr. President, may I perhaps ask you to request the Prosecution to give us the English copy of the trial brief until such time as we receive the German copy.

THE PRESIDENT: That is an excellent idea. Where there is some delay in the translation section in the preparation of the Germany copy if defense counsel could at least have the English copy that would help them considerably.

MR. WALTON: By the same token, your Honor, we must give to the stencil section to cut the stencil, we must turn the master copy over. I will bring what pressure I can to bear on it. admit the affidavit of one Hausmann I worked night and day and got along on six hours sleep in order to serve Dr. Gawlik and Dr. Hoffmann, both of whom speak English, four days prior to the formal filing with the Secretary General on my brief of Hausmann and I have no reply brief yet.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I think it is pretty evident to both sides that every effort will be made to expedite and accelerate the preparation of briefs, translations and so on. Let us proceed now with rebuttal.

You have something, Dr. von Stein?

DR. von STEIN: Your Honor, I have a question. Tomorrow is supposed to be the last day, for us to present any outstanding documents. I have some misgivings as to whether all documents submitted will be translated until tomorrow. What is to happen to those documents which have already been submitted but can't be presented because there is no mimeograph or translation. Shall we have the opportunity at a later date to submit and present the documents in the courtroom?

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. von Stein, if you want to sit down and work out all the things which can worry you for the rest of your life you will find plenty of things to worry about. Let us wait until tomorrow and we will see what the situation is. You are assured that no undue advantage will be taken of you and that every opportunity will be allowed to see to it that your case is presented in its completeness, fullness, and without any deprivation of your rights.

Dr. von Stein: I thank you, very much.

PRESIDENT: You are welcome.

DR. HOCHWALD: May it please the Tribunal, before I offer the documents which the Prosecution wishes to introduce in rebuttal I would like to outline the way in which we have these rebuttal documents arranged. The Prosecution intends to offer 7 document books under the numbers 4, 5, 5A, 5B, 5C, 5D and 6.

Document Book 4 is not before the Tribunal. This document book contains several documents pertaining only to the defendant Rasch. This document book was not assembled yet as the Prosecution has been waiting for defense counsel for Rasch to present his documents first. Up to the present date no defense document book was obtained by the Prosecution and we will hand over Document Book 4 sometime today or tomorrow to the Tribunal and to counsel for the defendant Rasch at the same time. Document Book 5 contains documents pertaining to the solution of the Jewish question in the East. way as the Prosecution has arranged its case in chief. In other words, Document Book 5A pertains to those defendants who were members of Einsatzgruppe A; 5B to those who were members of Einsatzgruppe B, and so on. decrees which are contained in the official German Law Gazette. These decrees are offered in connection with the defense of some of the defendants that they were drafted into the SS and SD on the basis of certain emergency decrees. The Tribunal will recall that defense counsel for the defendants Radetzky and Graf have put in certain decrees in this connection and we have translated other parts of these decrees and these are the documents contained in Document Book 6.

I now want to offer Document Books 5, 5C and 6. Document Book 5, your Honors, on page 1, document 710-PS which I offer as Prosecution Exhibit 194. This document is a letter from Goering to Heydrich, dated 31 July 1941.

Heydrich is charged with the preparation of the final solution of the Jewish question within the German sphere of influence in Europe. The next document 3663-PS, on page 2 of the Document Book, is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 195. This is a letter from the Reichsministry of the occupied territories to the Reich Commissioner of the East, dated 31 October 1941 and the reply to this letter, dated 15 November 1941. From this document it is apparent that the RSHA complained that certain executions of the Jews had been forbidden. The Reich Commissioner of the East requests information as to whether all Jews without regard to age, sex and economic interests were to be liquidated or whether the solution of the Jewish problem should, as the letter states, be harmonized with the necessities of war production. offered as Prosecution Exhibit 196. This is another letter from the Ministry of the occupied territories to the Reich Commissioner for the East, dated 18 December 1941. The letter advises the Reich Commissioner that no commercial consideration should interfere with the solution of the Jewish question.

DR. GAWLIK, counsel for the defendants Naumann and Seibert: Your Honor, the rebuttal evidence is to refute new facts which were being presented by the defense. Perhaps the Prosecution would be good enough to state what facts concerning the Defense are being refuted by these documents. This will enable us to check whether the documents offered are in the course of rebuttal evidence. In this I don't see what the Prosecution is trying to prove in rebuttal evidence. I don't know what assertions or defense are concerned or to be refuted. Here we are concerned with cumulative evidence, evidence cumulative to the evidence Prosecution already presented in its case in chief. But in this rebuttal evidence such evidence becomes inadmissible.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the Tribunal is certainly aware of the fact that several of the defendants have denied that the RSHA or the defendants themselves or the Security Police and SD were charged with the solution of the Jewish question in the East.

That is the reason why we are putting in general evidence on this question.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gawlik, we will follow the same procedure with the Prosecution document books that we followed with the Defense document books. At the termination of each book defense counsel may get up and make their objections and then the objections will be ruled upon at one time.

DR. GAWLIK: With respect to the last statement by the Prosecution I should like to point out the following, your Honor. In my opinion it does not suffice for Prosecution to merely prove that the RSHA was dealing with these matters. The RSHA was a large enterprise and that is something that was never contested. The Prosecution should try to bring forth evidence that one of the defendants inside the RSHA was concerned with such matters and this proof is not being brought out by these documents. That is why I consider these documents to be irrelevant, apart from being inadmissible in the course of rebuttal evidence.

DR. HOCHWALD: No further comment, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, we will pass upon the objection enmasse at the end.

Page 5,372

DR. HOCHWALD: I now offer on page 5 of the document book document 1104-PS as Prosecution Exhibit 197. In connection with this document I would like to refer to a typographical error in the descriptive index, your Honors. It should not read "request" from Carl. It should read "report" from Carl. This is in the third line in the descriptive index to the individual documents.

DR. GAWLIK: Your Honor, I also object to the presentation of that document.....

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gawlik, I think me mould save a great deal of time if we wait until the whole book is presented. Then you can get up and object to each document.

DR. GALIK: Very well, your Honor.

Dr. HOCHWALD: In this document Carl reports to the commissioner general in Minsk on 30 October 1941 about the execution of Jews in Schazk and other towns in this area. These executions were caried out by the German Police. Consideration for the economic necessities of the area was not taken. The Jews were indiscriminately shot in the streets in a sadistic manner and many of the victims were buried alive. The police battalion looted during the action and the Jews were deprived of their valuables in a most brutal fashion. by mistake as it was already offered in Document Book I, on page 46, as Prosecution Exhibit 27. I beg the pardon of the Tribunal for this mistake and would like to ask the Tribunal to cross this document. document NO-4882, offered as Prosecution Exhibit 198. This document is a letter from Heydrich to the Reich Ministry of the occupied territories, dated 10 January 1942. This document is offered as proof that the outlines of the solution of the Jewish question were established by the RSHA.

introduced as Prosecution Exhibit 199. It is an inter-office memorandum of the comnissioner general in Kaunas, dated 11 November 1942, stating that the carrying out of executions particularly of liquidation of Jews, was the task of the security police and t he SD. In this connection I want to refer especially to the date which proves that as late as in November 1942 the task of the security police and SD was not changed and that units of that organization were still active in carrying out executions and liquidating the Jews.

Dr. Gawlik.

DR. GAWLIK: Firstly, I should like to object against document No-1104 which was submitted as Prosecution Exhibit 197. I object to this document firstly because it does not represent a rebuttal document because it does not refute any new assertions made by the defense. Secondly, because the document is irrelevant for what is being described in that document has not been committed by any units of the Einsatzgruppen. I draw particular attent ion of the Tribunal to the letter of 1 November 1941. Mention is made there of Police Batallion 11. This Police Batallion 11 was not subordinated neither to an Einsatzgruppe nor to an Einsatzkommando as it becomes apparent from the documents. says "from the Batallion Commander of the Security Police up to the last lieutenant". The next paragraph says: "I have talked to the responsible Briga defuehrer (Major General) Zinner of the Protective Police Center and I have discussed with him the Jewish action." The Prosecution will concede that this Major General Zinner of the Protective Police Center never belonged to an Einsatzgruppe. We see here very clearly that this Police Batallion which has committed these actions had nothing at all to do with an Einsatzgruppe or Einsatzkommando. In the same letter mention is made of Police Batallion 11 from Kauen. In the next letter, dated 30 October 1941, we see that we are only concerned with acts by Police Batallion 11. I really cannot see what the criminations against Police Batallion 11.

Furthermore I am objecting THE PRESIDENT:

Dr. Gawlik, you remember the defendant the Police, don't you, in Latvia?

You remember his saying that he organized the Police -- or perhaps you weren't in the courtroom at the time.

Well, the defendant Strauch said when he went to Latvia that he organized the Police.

Of course, I know this has nothing to do DR. GAWLIK: Well yes, but it has not been proven that DR. HOCHWALD: If your Honors please, this is a question of argument but not a question of the admissibility of documents.

It "Einsatzgruppe" were active, in close cooperation, with the police, with the Wehrmacht, and with the Waffen-SS.

Therefore we consider such evi

DR. GAWLICK: Your Honor, it is my opinion that this is not only not argumentation but it investigates and checks as to the relevancy and the probative value of this document concerning one of the defendants.

MR. HOCHWALD: May it please the Tribunal. The Tribunal has used a magnanimous and very liberal practice in admitting every kind of evidence from the defense which the defense considered relevant for its case. I do think that it is only fair that the defense give us the same consideration.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gawlik, you can be sure that if none of the defendants had anything to do with Police Battalion No. 11, then this document can in no way be used as evidence against any particular defendant. But whatever value it may have as giving a history of just what took place during that time and in that area, we do not regard it as completely irrelevant.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, from the heading of the document book and from the arrangement which we gave the rebuttal evidence, it is clear that we are not charging any one of the particular defendants for crimes which are proved by this document. This book, No. 5, was offered only in order to show again the overall picture of how the extermination of Jews in the east was handled, in order to rebut the contention of many of the defendants that they were unaware of the fact that Jews were killed in the east.

THE PRESIDENT: You remember, Dr. Gawlik, that several defendants said that although they went through the entire Russian Campaign they never saw a Jew killed, because he was a Jew. Well, here is a document from apparently a responsible official, in which he tells of the indiscriminate killing of Jews in the streets. This does not refer particularly to any individual defendant, but is part of the large picture of what happened during this most unhappy period.

DR. GAWLIK: If the Prosecution will agree with me that this document is not directed against any particular defendant, I have COURT II Case IX nothing further to add.

Furthermore I am objecting to Document 4882. This document I consider to be irrelevant. In addition, I am also of the opinion, in connection with this document, that it refers to no rebuttal evidence; no new assertion by the defense is being refuted by this document. In this connection I am drawing the attention of the Tribunal to the last sentence of this document from which it can be seen that the expert in the RSHA was the SS Sturmbannfuehrer Eichmann. From further documents which the prosecution will yet submit, we will see that Eichmann was in Office 4 of the RSHA. Furthermore I am objecting to Document 5437, Exhibit 199, also from the reason that it is irrelevant and because it represnents no rebuttal evidence; it refutes no assertion made by the defense.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do not want to repeat the argument which I have just given to the other documents. The argument is the same. These documents are put in in order to show the overall picture, which certainly was denied by many of the defendants in the witness box.

THE PRESIDENT: We would like to point out this fact, Dr. Gawlik. When you get up and object to a document, you apparently object for the entire defense. I do not know that the entire defense will agree with you because it may be that a document submitted here may even be beneficial to some individual defendant. For instance, in this last document it says: "I hereby forbid the active participation of office personnel in any executions of any sort." Some defendants have asserted they had nothing to do with the execution of Jews because they were in the office. Now, if you argue that this document should not be presented, you in effect contradict the statement of some of these defendants.

MR. HOCHWALD: But, if Your Honor -

THE PRESIDENT: Anyhow, we will pass upon all these objections at the end and we will say that we will be no less liberal in the reception of this evidence than we have been in the reception of the COURT II Case IX other evidence.

MR. HOCHWALD: I thank your Honors very much, but -

THE PRESIDENT: Unless it can be very clearly shown that it certainly is entirely irrelevant and really getting down into the penguins of the Antarctic Zone.

MR. HOCHWALD: As the Tribunal has quoted one sentence out of this last document, I would like to quote the one why I have submitted it. The same document, NO-5437, which is Prosecution Exhibit 199, states, in the last sentence: "The carrying out of executions, particularly the liquidation of Jews, is the task of the Security Police and the SD."

If Your Honors please, I turn now to Document Book 5-C. This document book is a rebuttal document book against some of the defendants who were members of Einsatzgruppe C. I have endeavored to show, in the descriptive index, to whom of the individual defendants the documents offered especially refer. I may point out, however, that some of the documents are of probative value also against more than one of the defendants. It goes without saying that the prosecution reserves the right to use these documents also against defendants different from those who are named in the index. offered as Prosecution Exhibit 200. This is Operational Situation Report No. 3, covering a report period from 15 August to 31 August 1941. This document proves that in the area of Berditschev and Shitomir nearly all villages were combed according to plans. This report gives also details about executions in these areas. I want to point out in passing that this document does not only implicate the defendant Schulz but also the defendants Blobel and Rasch. On page 7 of the document book Your Honors find Document NO-2651, offered as Prosecution Exhibit 201. This report states that seven thousand Jews were arrested and shot, among these seventy-three officials and informers of the NKWD. In Lemberg--and the Tribunal will certainly recall that Schulz has testified about these happenings in Lemberg to a great extent. In COURT II Case IX Lemberg one thousand Jews were handed over to the prison of the Wehrmacht.

In Shitomir, one hundred seventy-eight Russians and Jews were shot, some of whom were civilian prisoners who had been handed over by the Wehrmacht. This document also proves not only the incorrectness of the testimony of the defendant Schulz as to the number of the people who were arrested in Lemberg but implicates also the defendants Blobel and Rasch. On page 14 of the document book-

DR. DURCHHOLZ (Counsel for the Defendant Schulz): Your Honor, I would like to object to Document NO-2653, Exhibit 200. I think that this document is irrelevant. In this document, Einsatzkommando 5 has not been mentioned with one word, of which the defendant Schulz was in charge. Therefore it cannot be seen how it can be directed against the defendant.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please: the Tribunal will certainly recall that the defendant Schulz has testified to the fact that his Einsatzkommando was located in Berdtschev. The location in itself gives the probative value of the document. If Einsatzkommando 5 was located in Berdtschev, and in Berdtschev anti-Jewish actions occurred, it is certainly of probative value to show what kind these actions were. As to the time, I want to state that the report covers a period from the 15th to the 31st of August 1941, a time in which Schulz certainly was commander of Einsatzkommando 5.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Durchholz, the fact that prosecution counsel says that a document is directed against a certain defendant does not of itself establish that it proves anything against the defendant. That is merely what he claims. Now, if, in the body of the document, you fail to see any connection with the defendant and it is clear it has no connection with the defendant, the Tribunal, of course, will also see that it has nothing to do with the defendant. So, don't be disturbed by his mere statement that it is directed against the defendant. Of course it is up to you to study the document and then if you see that it is an attack against your man, you reply to it.

COURT II CASE IX If it is not directed against him, in your argument you can show that the document in no way touches your particular client.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Your Honor, then I would like to reserve the right to hear the defendant Schulz with respect to this document and call him into the witness stand for that purpose.

THE PRESIDENT: Oh no, no. We can't do that. We cannot call the defendants back to answer everything, each particular document. Do you see Schulz's name mentioned in the document.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: No.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you see his particular kommando listed?

DR. DURCHHOLZ: No.

THE PRESIDENT: Then as far us you are concerned it has nothing to do with Schulz and you make that argument in your summation.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Yes, Your Honor.

MR. HOCHWALD: On page 14 of Document Book I, Your Honors find Document NO-4999, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 202. This document is an affidavit of Karl Hennicke, dated 4 September 1947. I beg Your Honors pardon, on the copy which is in Your Honors' document books, a very important line, the last line on page 14, is unreadable. I therefore will have better copies landed to the Tribunal presently. Unfortunately, just the line which is most important for the presentation of the prosecution is unreadable in the document book.

THE PRESIDENT: I don't see that this is much of an improvement.

MR. HOCHWALD: It is at least readable, Your Honor. The other one is completely illegible. I want we read one sentence into the record. The sentence starts on page 14 of the document book, but Your Honors look better to page 1 of the document I had distributed to you, and reads: "During the execution at Kiew, I noticed the following members of Einsatzgruppe C and of its subordinate kommandos respectively: Dr. Rasch, Dr. Hoffmann, Paul Blobel, and Callsen. Some more officers were present, but I cannot recall their names." In the same affidavit, Hennicke states that sonder Commando 4-B was first commanded by Sturmbannfuehrer Hermann and later by Obersturmbannfuehrer Fritz Braune, COURT II CASE IX This Fritz Braune is not identical with the defendant Braune in the dock.

Because Fritz Braune arrived at the Einsatzgruppe only after Hermann's release, sonder Commando 4-B remained without a commander for two or three weeks. During this period, the kommando was headed by its senior officer, the defendant Blobel. The defendant Fendler, I am sorry. On page 16 of the document book -

Page 5,381

DR. DURCHHOLZ: I am representing Dr. Fritz, who represents the defendant Fendler, Your Honor. I was asked on behalf of Dr. Fritz to object to this document. I cannot give any reason but I just want to object in order to get it into the record. Dr. Fritz will give you sufficient reason.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, the record will show that.

MR. HOCHWAID: On page 16 of the document book, Your Honors, it is Document NO-5174, offered as Prosecution Exhibit 203. This is Report 26, dated 23 October 1942. This document is offered as corrobotative proof that at that time the defendant Bieberstein was commander of Einsatzkommando 6 and that this kommando was located then in Rostov. Document NO-5155, Prosecution Exhibit 204. It is Report No. 12, dated 17 July 1942. The report shows that in the district around Schazk three hundred forty Jews and Communists and in Slatopol fourteen male and female Jews were shot.

DR. FICHT (Counsel for the Defendant Bieberstein): Your Honor, I should only like to express the request that the prosecution tell us where these areas are supposed to be located. I am directing my inquiry with respect to the present document and the two following documents, so that I can formulate my later objections accordingly.

MR. HOCHWALD: Your Honor, I am not in a position to state right now where these places are, but I do think it can be easily ascertained from a map, and testimony from my part on this point does not seem to be required.

DR. FICHT: Your Honor, then at least would you ask the prosecution to tell us what the connection of these documents is with the defendant Bieberstein.

MR. HOCHWALD: The Tribunal will certainly recall that the defendant Bieberstein has testified here that there were no Jews shot by his kommando, that he didn't find any Jews.

These documents are purported to show that at the time when Bieberstein was in command, or shortly before he was in command, the general extermination program of the Jews was still in force, in 1942 as it was in 1941.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed.

MR. HOCHWALD: I then offer again from page 24 of the document book Document NO-5654, as Prosecution Exhibit 205. This document contains correspondence between the Master of the Field Police Jakob and Lieut. Gen. Guerner. This correspondence is dated 5 May and 10 June 1942. It refers to the cleaning up and killing of Jews in the area of Komenetz-Podolsk. Exhibit 206, is another letter from the same Jakob to General Guerner. This letter states that three or four actions every week were carried outk sometimes against Gypsies, sometimes against Jews and partisans, and so on. These actions took place under the cooperation of the SD Post. In one instance fifty persons were killed.

DR. FICHT (Counsel for Bieberstein): Your Honor, after all these documents have been presented against Bieberstein, may I make my objections now?

THE PRESIDENT: I think the better practice would be to wait until a whole document book is presented. Then each counsel who feels his client has been adversely affected or who feels that he has reason to object may step to the podium and announce his objection.

MR. HOCHWALD: On page 27, Your Honors, is Document NO-3251, offered as Prosecution Exhibit 207 -

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, I beg your pardon if I am now already pointint out something to you with respect to that document. According to the index, Weinmann, as of the 13th of January 1942, is to have been assigned to the front as commander of Einsatzgruppe C. From the copy of the document which I received, this does not become apparent. Either there is a typographical error in translation or the document is entirely without value.

Therefore, I should like to ask you to request counsel for the prosecution to speak on this subject.

MR. HOCHWALD: I only have before me the English copy. In the English copy there is certainly a sentence to that effect. I would like to draw the Tribunal's attention to it. It says: "Dr. Weinmann has been on the Security Police assignment since 13 January 1942." This is a letter of 21 November 1942.

I am sorry. I will have to reoffer the document. I have been just informed that just this letter was not photostated. I am very sorry. I have seen the original. I apologize to Dr. Riediger. I do think that his objection is perfectly justified. I will have to reoffer the document then, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR. HOCHWALD: I would, However, respectfully request that Exhibit No-207 might be reserved for Document NO-3251. 5700, Prosecution Exhibit 208. This is a police registry card of the defense witness Gertrud Schreyer and her husband Emil Schreyer. The Tribunal will recall that the witness testified that she was not living together with her husband. This registry card proves that both are registered by the German Police under the same address. this is an affidavit of the same witness, Gertrud Schreyer, in which she admits that some of her books and particularly the appointment pads No. 3 and 4, were allegedly destroyed by the Russians. In this connection, I refer to the examination of the witness by the Tribunal, where the witness stated that all the books are at the disposal of the Tribunal and did not mention one instance that one of her books is missing. This is a copy of the general directives of the Reich Commissioner for the Strengthening of German Folkdom. These directives state that five hundred and fifty thousand Jews, Poles in high position, and members of the Polish intelligentia are to be deported from Danzig and Posen.

I want to refer to a typographical error in the descriptive index, Your Honors. On line 4, the last word of line 4 and the first word of line 5, "Jewish intelligentia", should be crossed out. It should read: "Five hundred and fifty thousand Jews, the leading Poles, and members of the Polish intelligentia." Exhibit 211. These are minutes of a conference held in Berlin on 30 January 1940. In this conference Heydrich stated that the evacuation of eighty-seven thousand Poles and Jews had already been carried out in order to provided space for the Baltic Germans who were to be resettled. Further, forty thousand Jews and Poles would have to be deported in order to make space for the Baltic Germans. Furthermore, four to five thousand Poles and Jews who had been driven from their homes had already been collected in camps in order to make space for these Baltic Germans.

offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 212. This is an affidavit of Dr. Heinrich, President of the Nurnberg Court of Appeals. I want to point out a typographical error in the affidavit. In the English copy it appears that Dr. Heinrich was appointed President of the Court of Appeals in 1935. The correct date is 1945, Your Honors. The affidavit states that the emergency decrees of 15 October 1938 and 8 July 1939 and twenty-five decrees for the execution of these emergency decrees are no legal basis for the draft into the SD and into the SS.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, shall we recess now?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Yes, sir.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess fifteen minutes.

(A recess was taken.)

Dr. FICHT: Ficht for Bieberstein.

Your Honor, first of all I am talking about the Exhibit No. 203, No-5174. That is the last document book. May I point out here that this is not a rebuttal document? This fact was mentioned by us in fact, and we never contested it. Therefore, this document has nothing to do with rebuttal. I, therefore, formally object to it. I have nothing to say on the matter itself. very short excerpt from the Report No. 12, and I would like to have the entire report submitted. This is mainly because localities are mentioned here which are of importance. Mentioned are Szatsk and Slatopol. These are two localities which are more than five hundred kilometers to the west of Rostov where Einsatzkommando 6 was active during the time of Bieberstein. Also the evidence has not shown at all that EK 6 was ever in these localities. May I show to the Tribunal briefly about where these localities are? They are about here on the map (indicating) and Rostov is here. I shall mention another locality later on. Also concerning this document-

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Ficht, if you would like to have the entire document submitted, why don't you then see that it is submitted, the entire report.

MR. HORLICH-HOCHWALD: It goes without saying, your Honor, that if you are putting in one part of a report the whole report is in evidence, and the original of the report respectively the absolutely complete photostatic copy, is at the disposal of the defense counsel for defendant Bieberstein any time he chooses to look at it in Room 216.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. FICHT: Your Honor, may I conclude my objections? The second objection is based on the date. The report is dated 17 July 1942 and it was made out in Berlin. This fact shows that the events mentioned in it must have occurred much earlier, that is during a time when Herr Bieberstein was not with Einsatzkommando 6. On these two points, localities five hundred kilometers to the west and the date which is much earlier, I, therefore, consider that this report has no probative value, and that is why I object to it.

The next number is 205. This is a private correspondence between somebody in the field police and a general, because the two seem to have known each other privately previously. The locality here is Kamonitz-Podolsk. Kamonitz-Podolsk is approximately at the border between Poland, Rumania and Russia. This is about 1,000 kilometers to the West. Since no evidence exists that Einsatzkommando 6 was ever in that locality, and since also the dates of these letters are 5 May '42 and 21 June '42, therefore from a point of time these affidavits have no probative valye. May I emphasize that the master of police who wrote these letters in his last letter of 21 June '42 calls his own letter some elementary talk, and this should emphasize the probative value of these documents.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, as far as I recall we have not stated in our presentation that it is the contention of the Prosecution that Einsatzkommando 6 was in the places mentioned in the different documents. However, it is of importance to show that the extermination program of the Jews in the West in the area of Einsatzgruppe C, even if it was 500 or 1,000 kilometers West of Rostov, was still going on at a time when Bieberstein was a member of this Einsatzgruppe, or shortly before he came to this Einsatzgruppe as commander of Einsatzkommando 6. That is the relevance of the document.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. The Tribunal will pass upon all these objections at the end.

DR. FRITZ (for the defendant Fendler): Your Honor, this morning the Prosecution submitted a document in Document Book V-C, Document No-4999. This is an affidavit by Karl Hennicke. My colleague, Dr. Durchholz, when deputizing for me already objected to this document, and I would like to ask for permission to give my reasons for this objection.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed.

DR. FRITZ: On page 3 of the original of this affidavit Hennicke states the following, and I quote under figure 4 from the second sentence: "Commando 4-B was first led by Sturmbannfuehrer Hermann and later by Obersturmbannfuehrer Fritz Braune. Since Fritz Braune arrived with the Einsatzgruppe only after Hermann had been relieved, the Commando 4-B for about two to three weeks did not have a chief. During this interim period the Commando was led by the senior officer, Lothar Fendler." The Prosecution is claiming this, and this is a completely new assertion that Fendler, as Hermann's successor, independently commanded the unit for several weeks. The Prosecution did not claim that until now; rather, they claimed thus far that Fendler was deputy of Hermann when the latter was absent for a brief period of time from the Commando. That is why this document is not suitable to impeach the credibility of the witness and of the affiant, of whom I have brought affidavits. The defendant Fendler has had no opportunity until now to defend himself against this new contention. I therefore ask that this be not admitted, or, at least, that this point be not admitted. In case the Tribunal should admit the document, however, I would like to ask that the defendant Fendler be given sufficient opportunity to defend himself against this new contention. The defendant Fendler assured me, and I believe him, that this assertion was completely untrue. Therefore, I would have to bring new witnesses to prove that this assertion is wrong, or I would have to examine the defendant Fendler in the witness stand again.

DR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, if I understand the objection by defense counsel for the defendant Fendler correctly, he objects against this document by saying that the Prosecution wants to prove a new point in the case which was not raised until now. The Tribunal will certainly recall, and there is a document in Document Book 3-C, the affidavit of the defendant Fendler himself, where he stated that he was never the official deputy of the commander of the Einsatzkommando, but that he replaced him in cases of his absence. The Tribunal will further recall that the defendant Fendler has offered proof, and has himself denied on the witness stand, the fact that he substituted Hermann for more than several hours.

Therefore, an affidavit stating something different, in my opinion, is perfectly admissible and constitutes, certainly, valid rebuttal evidence.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Fritz, Fendler has in effect already denied this. So that now you have the statement of Fendler, all his testimony, contradicting this. It becomes a question of the probative value, the respective probative value of these two types of evidence. This affidavit denies Fendler's statement. Fendler attacks the affidavit. It is a matter of argument in the final summation to the Tribunal, and the Tribunal determines which of the two is more worthy of credence. Or, it may be possible that Fendler's testimony can be accepted in such a way as even to agree with this and yet not necessarily establish that he was guilty of crime. At any rate, you have those two stories.

DR. FRITZ: Yes, Your Honor. May I say something else. I have likewise submitted an affidavit from this witness Karl Hennicke which was admitted by the Tribunal. The contents of this affidavit contradicts the affidavit submitted now. The witness Hennicke is in the court prison in Nuernberg. I would like to ask for the right, at least, Your Honor, to be able to obtain another affidavit from the witness or to call him into the witness stand for cross examination.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I tell you what you do, Dr. Fritz. Tomorrow afternoon, after we have moved along with the presentation of the remaining documents to be submitted by the defense, you bring this matter up again and then we will see what should be done.

DR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, in the descriptive index of Document Book V-C, there is a regrettable error as to the document against which Dr. Fritz just now has objected. That is Document 4999, Prosecution Exhibit 202. The affiant Hennicke was not an officer of Sonderkommando 4-A, as it is stated in the descriptive index.

He was, as the affidavit shows, an officer of Einsatzgruppe C. I respectfully request the Tribunal to make this change.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. RATZ (for defendant Radetzky): Your Honor, I object against the submission of the Document NO-4059, Exhibit 210, page 35 of the English document book. This document concerns the clearing of formerly Polish territory from which the Polish and Jewish population was evacuated, so that the Ethnic Germans coming from the Baltic countries could be settled there. In the indictment and in the opening speech by the Prosecution nothing is said about a count of that kind against Radetzky. Apart from that it is very doubtful whether this constitutes a criminal act by the defendant Radetzky, and whether this document can prove any criminal act by Radetzky because Radetzky was not at all connected with the Reich commissioner for the strengthening of Germanism.

THE PRESIDENT: This is a matter for argument at the final summation, Dr. Ratz.

DR. RATZ: For the same reasons I have just explained I object to the next document, NO-5322, Exhibit 211, page 69 of the German and page 37 of the English document book. I only wish to add here that the defendant Radetzky did not participate in the discussion of 30 January 1940 in the RSHA, the Reich Security Main Office. The participants in this discussion are mentioned in this document.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the Tribunal will certainly recall that the Defendant Radetsky had testified at great length about his activities with this repatriation committee of Baltic Germans. For this reason in order to rebutt his testimony, these two documents are certainly relevant.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will pass on these objections at the end of the presentation.

DR. RATZ: Your Honor, finally I object against the Document NO5814, Exhibit 212, page 75 of the German Document Book. This is an affidavit by Oberlandesgerichtspraesident Dr. Heinrich. Dr. Heinrich gives his legal opinion based on studying law, but he cannot comment on how this law was applied in practice. He has no practical experience in handling this law and in applying this law, and theory and practice in wartime very often varied from those in peacetime. Dr. Heinrich is not an expert for administrative practices. In particular, he has no knowledge about the practical application of the War Emergency statutes in the Warthegau. It is not a matter of admissibility or lack of admissibility or a war emergency draft, but all that is being discussed, is whether Radetzky was actually under the War Emergency Statutes. The affidavit says nothing about that and therefore, in my opinion....

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ratz, this is not the time to present the argument. Now, Mr. Hochwald has submitted this affidavit; and if you think that it doesn't prove anything against your client, you can show that in your summation. We are not hearing arguments now.

DR. FICHT (Counsel for the Defendant Bieberstein): Your Honor, concerning the last matter, I apply that Oberlandesgerichtspraesident Dr. Heinrich be called here for cross examination so that it can be determined whether he has practical knowledge about the application of these regulations.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do think that the request on the part of the defense counsel for Bieberstein in this case is not relevant.

As far as I do remember, it is not the defense of the Defendant Bieberstein in that he was drafted into the SD on the basis of this decree. Only this decree and the legal aspects of this decree are subject of this affidavit. The Prosecution fails to see what the Defendant Bieberstein has to do with this document. rebuttal evidence as good as I could, as to names. I have, if I am not mistaken, stated that the defendants Radetsky and Graf have brought forward the defense of having been drafted on the basis of emergency decrees, and both of those defendants have introduced translations of the decrees as evidence. I am not aware of the fact that this affidavit is offered in order to prove something in the case of the defendant Bieberstein.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ficht, if you wish to submit any other affidavit or statement to contradict this, you may do so; but we see no necessity of calling Dr. Heinrich as a witness.

DR. FICHT: Now, I withdraw the request since the Prosecution has said that this document will not be used against Bieberstein, but according to the previous explanation of the Prosecution, I could not assume that.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. FICHT: Your Honor, in reply to the statement made by the Prosecution concerning the documents offered as Exhibit Number 204, 205, and 206 which he has offered, I would like to add here that these documents occurred before the time when Bieberstein was in EK-6 and was about 500-1000 kilometers distant from the place where he was. May I say here that during that time civilian administration was already used there and Einsatzkommandos were no longer in charge.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, if the dates of the document show that, then, of course, there is nothing for you to worry about. It is a matter of argumen tation in any event.

MR. HOCHWALD: May I proceed with Document Book 6, Your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: Please.

MR. HOCHWALD: Document Book 6 contains only translations of certain of the emergency decrees in connection with the execution of the Four Year Plan, and I will just offer these documents without commenting on them. These documents are offered in evidence only in order to give the Tribunal a basis to judge the affidavit of Dr. Heinrich, about which I have just offered as Prosecution Exhibit 212. on page 2 of the Document Book as Prosecution Exhibit 214; NO-5858 on page 3 of the Document Book as Prosecution Exhibit 215; and Document NO-5859 on page 5 of the Document Book as Prosecution Exhibit 216; on page 7 of the Document book, Document NO-5860 as Prosecution Exhibit 217; and Document NO-5861 which is on page 9 of the Document Book as Prosecution Exhibit 218; finally, Document NG-3678 on page 10 of the Document Book as Prosecution Exhibit 219. I only respectfully request the Tribunal to permit me to re-offer the document which was unfortunately incomplete when I offered it, after the rebuttal of the Prosecution will be over. Mr. Glancy will now proceed and offer Document Book 5-A.

MR. GLANCY: May it please the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Glancy.

MR. GLANCY: May I proceed with the presentation of Document Book 5-A?

THE PRESIDENT: Please.

MR. GLANCY: My remarks, if any, Your Honor, shall be necessarily brief because I consider all my rebuttal evidence as self-explanatory. I offer NO-2262 as Prosecution Exhibit 220. This is a letter signed by the Defendant Strauch. His signature appears on page 15.

I offer Document NO-4317 as Prosecution Exhibit 221. This again is a letter signed by the Defendant Strauch. His signature appears on page 19.

I offer Document NO-5498 as Prosecution Exhibit 222. I respectfully request the Tribunal to ignore and strike page 2 of this affidavit as it was previously offered as against the Defendant Blobel, but as it is outside of the period covered by the indictment, it is inapplicable and inadmissible. However, page 1 refers to the Defendant Strauch and refers to happenings and occurrences in the middle of February 1943, well within the period of the indictment. 223. This is a situation report - rather, two situation reports. It serves to corroborate some of the other documents offered by the Prosecution in re Strauch.

I offer Document NO-5167 as Prosecution Exhibit 224. This also refers to the Defendant Strauch. It refers to activities in partisan warfare, reputedly, and I call the attention of the Tribunal to the number of persons killed for having been suspected of aiding or supporting the guerrillas.

I offer Document NO-5166 as Prosecution Exhibit 225. This also refers to the Defendant Strauch and reported actions against the partisans .

As the prosecution's last exhibit I offer Document No. 5188 as prosecution exhibit 226. On page 39, the last page of the document book, it is reported,."On 9 May 1942 in the town of Minsk 28 members of the White Ruthehian Partisan organization were publicly executed by hanging." There is a distinction made in the third line, however. It states, "On the same day 251 persons", and we will note this "predominantly Partisans and Jews were shot". 9 May 1942 is within the period in which the defendant Jost was commander-in-chief of the security police and SD for Eastland. This concludes my presentation of Document Book VA rather. Mr. Ferencz will be here momentarily to present V B.

PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR. GLANCY: Thank you.

MR. WALTON: If it please the Tribunal, in order that time will not be lost, I am ready with Document Book 7 D, if it can be presented in that order.

PRESIDENT: We would be grateful if you would proceed.

DR. WALTON: The prosecution at this time offers Document Book V D, page 1, Document NOKW 1573 as prosecution's exhibit 227. This document is offered in rebuttal as against the contentions of the defendants Ohlendorf, Seibert, Braune, and Schubert, and shows that prior to the execution held just before Christmas 1941 executions were being held continuously during the period 5 to 15 November 1941, and this slaughter was in the midst of an allegedly friendly population. ment 4147, already given the prosecution exhibit Number 188. This is the affidavit of Emil Haussmann, deceased, and relates some of his experiences in Einsatzkommando 12. Attention of the Tribunal is especially called to paragraph 5 of thus document wherein this deceased affiant relates facts concerning the report of 300 to 350 executions by the defendant Nosske's command. Since no reply brief was filed by the defense on prosecution's written motion of 19 December 1947, I assume that the defense has abandoned their objection.

PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, that is a rather powerful statement, you just uttered, and we wouldn't want to hold the defense to it, with Dr. Hoffmann being absent.

MR. WALTON: It is merely an assumption on my part. I didn't purport to speak for the Tribunal.

PRESIDENT: And I didn't mean that you were. I just wanted to protect, for the record, Dr. Hoffmann's position and it will be called to his attention. That is something that should appear upon the record at this moment, that anyone reading it wouldn't assume that the defense had abandoned their position without a statement from Dr. Hoffmann to that effect.

DR. WALTON: The prosecution next reoffers in Document Book V D, page 4, Document No. 5111, already offered as prosecution's Exhibit 193. This document is the affidavit of the defendant Heinz Schubert, which shows that the defendant Willy Seibert was the assistant commanding officer of Einsatzgruppe D and not deputy for purely staff matters, no more than the defendant Ohlendorf was commanding officer purely of the staff or Otto Schnopfhagen was the physician purely for the staff. ment No. 5273 already in evidence as Prosecution's Exhibit 184.

PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, why do you reoffer a document of it is already in?

Mr. WALTON: I called that to your attention at the time that the document was offered. There was a paragraph in there which referred to the defendant Willy Seibert as the deputy of Ohlendorf. The Tribunal recognized the fact that parts of affidavits could not be offered and, therefore, specifically requested that this paragraph 4, particularly the first sentence thereof, be reoffered in rebuttal.

PRESIDENT: Very well. Have you given it a new number?

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, that is identically the same number that was given --184--at the time it was offered. Technically, this is a reoffer of two sentences of paragraph 4.

PRESIDENT: Would you then let us have that number again, please.

MR. WALTON: Document 5273, Prosecution Exhibit 184. At the time, Your Honor, that that was offered I thought that the processing of the document, with enough copies, would have been completed before I finished with my cross examination. It was not. I had to have permission of the Tribunal to reoffer it in the rebuttal. The same document number and the same exhibit number is given as was assigned at that time, 193. Could I have some expression from the Tribunal as to Document Number 5273? Does the Tribunal want it reoffered again as to that sentence in paragraph 4?

PRESIDENT: Well, you have already reoffered it.

MR. WALTON: Oh, I mean, given another exhibit number I should have said, as to that paragraph 4.

PRESIDENT: The same number will be retained and--well, the same number will be retained and we will indicate it was reoffered.

MR. WALTON: Very good, Sir. This paragraph 4 shows in what manner this affiant regarded the defendant Willy Seibert. Erwin Lahousen, contained in Document Book V D, page 11, Document No, 2894. T his affidavit is offered as prosecution exhibit 228. It is clearly shown on pages 13 and 14 of the English document book that Russian prisoners of war and even Tartars from the Crimea were arbitrarily executed by the Einsatzgruppe there. The citation is on pages 5 and 6 of the original. code. Since this section, which is found on page 49 of the original is offered in Document Book V D, page 17, it is Document No. 5854, of Prosecution Exhibit 229, in the form of an excerpt from the cited volume. This law shows the responsibility for issuance of and obedience to an illegal order. As this Tribunal has said, murder has been considered a crime by every lawgiver since Moses, but the prosecution cites the even older precedent followed by Moses himself, namely, the defendant Gain adjudged guilty of the murder of his brother Abel and punished therefor. This is supported even by German law that illegal orders, that is, orders to murder did not have to be obeyed by these defendants.

Document No. 5856, Prosecution Exhibit 230. This document is a certified transcript of the interrogation of Dr. Roman Loos, head of the secret field police with a German army group, who gives his opinion based on long military service and his own knowledge of such matters concerning the obligation to obey illegal orders. Particular attention is, therefore, called to pages 20, 21, and 23. This substantiates the cited section of the German military penal code. If Your Honor please, on page 29 of your Document Book V D in the certificate of Mr. Walter H. Rapp, I should like very much for you to delete the word "translation" in the last line, fourth word from the end, and write in the word "transcript" as appears on the photostatic copy of that certificate. ment No. 5821, as Prosecution's Exhibit 231. This document is the affidavit of Rudolf Diels, the former head of the Prussian Gestapo, who testifies that it is possible to disobey illegal orders without serious personal consequences He relates instances wherein he personally disobeyed such orders in his capacity as a Gestapo official.

PRESIDENT: Just a minute, Mr. Walton. Does the affidavit indicate who Rudolf Diels is?

MR. WALTON: No, Your Honor. This witness has given several affidavits here. Probably this was a series of affidavits and in one of which he indicated his official position.

PRESIDENT: Will you please repeat who he was?

MR. WALTON: Yes. Rudolf Diels was during a part of his career the first head of the *russian Gestapo which later became the Gestapo for all of Germany.

PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, in my opinion one has to object to the presentation of this document. The probative value of this affidavit in my opinion, does not exist because this witness could not possibly have known anything about conditions concerning the defendants, and could not testify about it.

Page 5,400

That is why I went to object to the admission of this document.

Page 5,401

PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Riediger, the affidavit is by no means controlive and decisive. It doesn't mean that because he thinks so that makes it so, but it does offer a piece of evidence on how it was regarded--how this military order was regarded in other instances.

DR. RIEDIGER: The probative value will be discussed again later on, I presume?

PRESIDENT: By all means.

MR. WALTON: It is only offered in substantiation of the fact that people have disobeyed superior orders and gotten away with it. It is rebuttal argument.

PRESIDENT: Yes, Yes.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, I would like to reserve an objection against this document for Dr. Gawlik, who is not present, and I think he has some objections to it which I do not know yet.

PRESIDENT: Yes. Reservations will be made in behalf of Dr. Gawlik, so that he may present whatever objections he desires to this document when he returns to the court room.

MR. WALTON: The last document in Document Book V D is found on page 32 thereof. It is Document No. 4993, and is Prosecution's Exhibit 232. This document is an affidavit of one Robert Barth, who states that he was a member of Einsatzkommando 10B, and that on occasions and at certain times the defendant Felix Ruehl was deputy to the commanding officer, one, Persterer. the prosecution desires to offer. It is a long manuscript of the speech or lecture prepared by the defendant Otto Ohlendorf, concerning the superiority of the National Socialist form of government over existing forms of governments. I am informed that the processing of this document is an extensive task and it will be completed by the end of the week. I, therefore, ask leave of the Tribunal to offer this document as soon as it is processed, or at such session as the court meets for the purpose of hearing the remaining objections to the defense documents or of handing down its ruling on matters yet pending which is scheduled for decision prior to the verdict and judgment.

PRESIDENT: An opportunity will be afforded you to present that document, allowing the defense also opportunity to object to it, if they so desire.

DR. KOESSL: Koessl for Schubert. I would like you to instruct the prosecution to state why they introduced the Exhibit Number 27, NOKW 1573against the defendant Schubert. Schubert never deeded having known that Jews were killed. In my opinion there is no reason to submit this document against Schubert. I don't know which statements by Schubert the prosecution is trying to refute by submitting these documents.

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, that is a matter of argument. If the Tribunal desires me to reply to that, I am prepared to do so.

PRESIDENT: Well, if Schubert has not denied knowing that executions took place, and this merely indicates that he does know that executions took place, the most you can say about it is that it is cumulative.

MR. Walton : Your Honor, Schubert was a member of the staff of Einsatzgruppe D. Every document which does not specifically name a commando or a personality is certainly of some proof, regardless of however slight, as against Einsatzgruppe D as a whole, it is certainly proof against the staff who are directing the destinies of Einsatzgruppe D. Therefore, to offer a document against Einsatzgruppe D as a whole where no commando or no personality is mentioned certainly tends toward proof as against the headquarters staff and those who were the commanding officers of the headquarters staff, and those who had knowledge of these reports.

PRESIDENT: Dr. Koessl, you see that this is a theory advanced by the prosecution. It is an argument to which you have the right to reply, and the document is before us for whatever probative value it has and whatever light it might shed on this contested point.

DR. KOESSL: Yes. I merely wanted to point out that apparently the prosecution has no reason to refute any statement by Schubert it does not even try to refute any statement by him. That is why I do not see why the prosecution, when submitting this document in the rebuttal, mentioned the defendant Schubert in particular.

MR. WALTON: I suggest that Dr. Koessl wait with what patience he has at his command. I finished the Schubert brief last night. Today it is being typed, and tomorrow I am sure that it will be in the hands of the Translation Section, and that contains my entire argument as to the guilt of the defendant Schubert.

PRESIDENT: To which you will have the right to reply, Dr. Koessl.

DR. KOESSL: Thank you.

DR. LEHNERT: Dr. Lehnert for Seibert. Your Honor, first of all, regarding the first document, NOKW 1573, Exhibit 227, I would like to raise the same objections which my colleague Koessl has raised against the first three documents contained in this document book, I would like to object, too, and I ask that these be not admitted for the following reasons: These three documents are not rebuttal documents. The meaning of a rebuttal document consists of the fact that the rebuttal statements of the defendants are to be refuted. The purpose for which these documents were submitted here is, however, nothing except to prove the statements by the defendants, but that is not the nature and the purpose of rebuttal. In detail, I would like to mention the following concerning these documents. The Document NOKW 1573, inasfar as it was submitted against Seibert, is irrelevant. It has no relationship to the defendant Seibert. Concerning Document NOKW 5111, Exhibit 193, the prosecutor argumented that Seibert was deputy commanding officer of the Einsatzgruppe. In vain have I looked for such a passage. It merely says that Seibert was the permanent deputy of the group staff. Concerning Document No. 5273, Exhibit 184, which was submitted only concerning Count 4, I object to the following: The affiant merely gave his opinion. No facts are mentioned as to how the affiant obtained that opinion. The affidavit, therefore, contains no facts. Therefore, I consider this statement as irrelevant and ask that this objection be sustained by the Tribunal.

MR. WALTON: Nothing further to add from the prosecution.

PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I only want to reoffer Document No. 3251 which is in Document Book V C as Prosecution Exhibit 207. I have furnished Dr. Riediger with the German copy of the letter in question and I have also received now the complete photostat, so if Dr. Riediger wants to offer his objections now, it would be possible.

DR. RIEDIGER: Concerning the submission of this document as such, I have no objection. Your Honor, since this document again concerns the question of time, of dates,-I beg your pardon if I have to do this during rebuttal - I would like to refer to the witness mentioned this morning. The Defense Center told me that it is impossible to get a witness from Berlin sooner than within 10 days since the passage through the Russian zone has to be approved by the Russians, and that takes 10 days. I have already requested an affidavit from the witness Mendler. It has not been received yet. I merely received a letter in reply to my request in which he confirms that in January and February 1942 he treated Haensch, but since the Tribunal has emphasized that they wanted to find the real truth, I would like to move that this witness, on the suggestion of the Tribunal, be interrogated in Berlin by an American officer from the Tribunal. That way it would be possible to get this testimony in the shortest time. A journey to Berlin by me is technically no longer possible because permission for this, owing to the fact that the Russians have to give the permission, will take two weeks; but time is very important to the defendant Haensch about whom the witness is to be questioned. I beg your pardon for mentioning this here, but it is so urgent, considering the time, that we should try to make it possible that this witness be heard.

PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, you have heard Dr. Riediger's request.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I would very much like to agree with Dr. Riediger on the fact that the witness may be heard by a commission, however, the Tribunal will understand it is an extremely important question and the prosecution in this special case cannot waive the right to cross-examine the witness. I certainly do not want to make any difficulties, and I would like as much as I could to aid Dr. Riediger in getting this thing straightened out, however, it is my opinion that with the proof offered by Dr. Riediger, the time can be given. Dr. Riediger had the witness Schreyer here. The witness Schreyer submitted certain evidence. He submitted certain evidence which was in the hands of the witness Schreyer as to the fact that the defendant Haensch was in February 1942 in Berlin. We have submitted, with the permission of the Tribunal and in accordance with defense counsel, all those exhibits to a German research.

PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Hochwald, we needn't go into the history now. Would there be any possibility of having this witness here, say, in a week's time. We might be willing to sit specially, say, for a period, for a day or an hour or whatever time is required next week, if this witness could be had here in a week. Ten days would be too long, but if we could be assured, say, a week from today--Dr. Riediger, will you take up with the Defense Center the possibility of this witness being brought here, say, in a matter of 6 or 7 days?

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, the Defense Center informed me that I have tried everything in order to speed this up. They said it was so difficult because the Russians have to give permission and in order to obtain that permission it takes a certain period of time.

PRESIDENT: Well, I will tell you what you do. You prepare immediately a request in writing to the Tribunal and bring it to me before we reconvene this afternoon and then I will contact the Defense Center and see if there is any possibility of expediting the departure of that witness and accelerating the arrival here in Nuernberg, just that I will have a request from you in writing.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, the application by me for this witness has been handed in some time ago and I think it has been handed to the prosecution as well, and I think -

PRESIDENT: Well, I don't want this to be the usual formal application, but a letter written to the Tribunal indicating the great need and the fact that the trial is about to terminate, and that the request should be expedited.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, I shall hand in the application then before the Tribunal resumes its session. Thank you very much.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, in order to insure that the defendant has every possibility, the prosecution is ready to offer a suggestion. If the defense counsel will telephone Berlin and speak to the witness, we will accept the stipulation on his part as to what the witness would testify to were he brought to Nuernberg.

PRESIDENT: Well, if you are willing to stipulate to that, then a statement from the witness would be sufficient.

MR. FERENCZ: Or a statement from the witness-we do not, of course, admit the truth of the statements, but we do admit the stipulation that that is what the witness would testify to if he were brought to Nuernberg.

PRESIDENT: Well, if you are willing to stipulate that, then is a more matter of going to the witness' home and getting the statement which certainly could be arranged by your representative in Berlin.

MR. FERENCZ: I don't know where the witness is, Your Honor, if the witness is in the Russian Zone, there may be difficulties for as, too, but if he can be reached, I don't want the prosecution to have the burden of going out to find a defense witness and information for them. We are ready to help them, but not to do their work for them.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, the witness is in the American Zone in Berlin. To carry out the examination there should not present any difficulties.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, our staff in Berlin is very limited and overworked.

I am sure that between now and the closing of this trial the defense counsel could go to Berlin and obtain the affidavit and return, and I am willing personally to offer him any assistance in expediting his travel orders.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, I can't go to Berlin either within the 10 days, it takes that long to get travel orders, and I have no means of doing it.

PRESIDENT: If you sent off a letter today, how soon could you, get a reply in the normal course of events?

DR. RIEDIGER: Main to Berlin takes from 5 to 14 days. Sometimes I have received letters one way in 5 days, that is, to and fro it will take between 10 and 30 days to get a letter there and back. It is completely unreliable. Already two weeks ago I have requested the affidavit, but I haven't got it yet.

PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald had stated that he didn't want to waive cross examination, and that is the reason we had indicated the procedure which we had, but-

MR. HOCHWALD: Mr. Ferencz has waived it.

PRESIDENT: Well, since I made my original proposition now, Mr. Ferencz has made his, and I think we can resolve it this way. Dr. Riediger, if you will make a request to the Tribunal in writing indicating just what it is you desire this witness to testify to, then we will see to it that this is transmitted to Berlin and that the witness will have any opportunity to reply to that question. Certainly in some way or other we can get that answer to your question. That doesn't seem like too much or a problem to us, so you do that. You make a request to the Tribunal in writing, specifying specifically what question you want to have answered, just as if you had the witness here. Put that question, and we will got an answer to that question for you.

DR. RIEDIGER: Thank you.

PRESIDENT: Yes.

DR. SCHWARZ: Your Honor, I would like to ask for Dr. Mayor that the defendant Braune be excused from attendance in court this afternoon, and I would like you to arrange that he be brought to Room 57.

PRESIDENT: The defendant Braune will be excused from attendance in court this afternoon and will be taken to Room 57 in accordance with the usual procedure.

DR. SCHWARZ: Dr. Schwarz for Jost. Your Honor, I ask that the defendant Jost be also excused this afternoon in order to continue preparing his defense.

PRESIDENT: The defendant Jost?

DR. SCHWARZ: Yes.

PRESIDENT: The defendant Jost will also be excused from attendance in court this afternoon and will also be taken to Room 57. Mr. Ferencz, may I ask a question, please. Will the presentation of documents in rebuttal be completed at such an hour that some appreciable time will yet be left in the afternoon session?

Mr. FERENCZ: Yes. The presentation of rebuttal should be concluded within a half hour.

PRESIDENT: Then defense counsel that have not yet presented all their document books will be reedy to proceed. Let us find out right now, if we may, who is ready to proceed this afternoon, after Mr. Ferencz concludes. Well, of course, we always have Dr. Linck ready and I want to congratulate you that apparently everything is OK with you.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, I am able to present my Document Book II this afternoon.

PRESIDENT: Very well. Then you will be ready to follow Mr. Ferencz. Dr. Linck, will you be ready, please?

DR. LINCK: Your Honor, the battle about which you spoke yesterday, Your Honor, has been delayed until 1315 and at such time--at 1315 I have to be present once more, but about 20 or 30 minutes later I will be able to come here in order to present my documents.

PRESIDENT: Very well, and we hope that you do not come in on your shield.

DR. LINCK: I think I am convinced of that, too.

PRESIDENT: Very well, will anybody else be ready? Will you please let other defense counsel know, those of you who see them, that we will be available this afternoon for the receipt of other documents not yet presented. Dr. Gick should be informed that Document Book I for Strauch is ready, so that he could come in and present that.

The Tribunal will now be in recess until 2 o' clock.

(A recess was taken until 1400 hours.)

(The hearing began at 1415 hours, 21 January 1948.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. HOFFMANN for Noske: Your Honor, I would like to make a brief statement, for the better understanding of the affidavit of Hausmann which the Prosecution has offered as Exhibit 188 and against which I reserved all objection because the affiant is dead. Your Honor, I have been an attorney for ten years and I don't very frequently have formed so complete an understanding for the interest of my client as I have before this Court. Perhaps that has been my fault formerly or perhaps it was the fault of the period of time, but since I am convinced that this Tribunal has full understanding for it I consider it personally as not correct, for a formal reason, to demand anything which would not be serve the finding of the truth. Therefore, I withdraw my formal objection not to admit this affidavit because the affiant can no longer be taken into cross examination. Of course, I reserve the right as far as anything is to be said factually concerning this affidavit to interpret this affidavit in my final plea and to give it that interpretation which I can make of this affidavit, in contrast to that of the Prosecution.

THE PRESIDENT: Well that right, of course, is always reserved to you, Dr. Hoffmann. We don't want you to feel that you are in any way compelled to allow this affidavit to be considered. Mr. Walton has submitted his legal argument as to why he believes that, in accordance with all the authorities, it is good evidence. We were prepared to receive any argument which you cared to submit to the contrary and we don't want you to feel that you are in any way being persuaded to abandon any legal position which you may have at one time charished.

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, in order to avoid this impression from the beginning I made the statement about what I personally think of this matter even though otherwise I would have kept it to myself.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. STUBENVOLL (For Ohlendorf): Your Honor, this morning an objection was reserved for Dr. Gawlik against a document of the prosecution. Dr. Gawlik was to raise this objection as representative for Dr. Aschenauer. As Dr. Aschenauer's assistant I myself want to raise this objection. I object to the document in Document Book 5D, document #5821 which was submitted by the Prosecution. This is an affidavit of Rudolf Diels. The defense considers this affidavit irrelevant for the present case. During the war, that is since 1941, Diels was an employee in a private industry. He has no experience concerning the conditions of command in the Einsatzgruppen and even less so about the conditions of the defendants Ohlendorf, Braune, etc. Originally Diels was chief of the Gestaop in Prussia after Hitler took over and was releived from this position by Himmler. Then he became a Government President. On the basis of his good connects to Goering he got a job in private industry after he left this Government job. His example for the application of paragraph 47 - military Penal Code he mentions of the officer who refused to obey an order happened within the Army end was given by a military superior.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, now, Doctor, you are proceeding to argue the law on the matter and that is not what we have before us. Rudolf Diels declares that he knows of an episode where a military person was ordered to execute 500 Jews in Poland and that the officer ordered to do this failed to execute the order and the most that happened to him was that he was considered a coward. Now, that's all this affiant means to us. We are not bound by what he says with regard to rule 47. He is not interpreting the law for us. He is testifying to a special objective fact of which he has knowledge according to his statement.

DR. STUBENVOLL; Yes, but the affiant makes statements which may admit judging conditions in the Einsatzgruppen.

THE PRESIDENT: Well that's what he says but whether we are going to pay any attention to that is for the Tribunal.

DR. STUBENVOLL: Yes, sir.

THE PRESIDENT: None of these documents will be accepted just because they are presented. They all have to be weighed on balances of reasonability, law and effect, and justice.

DR. STUBENVOLL: Yes, but in case the document should be accepted I would like to ask the Tribunal to accept an affidavit or the testimony by a witness and this is the one from Karl Wolf, SS-Lieutenant General, who is still here. This is to bring proof-

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment, Doctor. We will save a great deal of time by you merely making the request and we will rule on it and the ruling will be in the affirmative. You can obtain this affidavit and you can submit it.

DR. STUBENVOLL: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. KOESSL for Ott and Schubert: Your Honor, I likewise raise an objection against the submission of this document but for another reason. The Count Faber-Gastell who is mentioned here was at the time of the alleged disobedience a cavalry officer. It is completely clear that a cavalry officer could refuse to carry out police measures just as well as an infantry officer could refuse to carry out an artillery mission. For this reason I don't consider this document as relevant.

THE PRESIDENT: This incident did or did not happen. If it did not happen the whole statement is a lie. If it did happen then we must determine whether it would have any effect on the interpretation of rule 47. That's all there is to it.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honors, the documents we are about to offer in Document Book V-B concern some of the defendants who were members of Einsatzgruppe B. The first document we offer is Document No. USSR-56, found on page 1 of the document book and offered as Prosecution Exhibit 234. This document is an official report of the Extraordinary State Commission showing certain atrocities committed by the Germans in Smolensk and it is followed by a list of the immediate perpetrators whom the Commissioner regarded as responsible for the many mass tortures and murders shown in the reports. The first name listed by them as responsible for these crimes is major General Naumann.

The next document we offer is USSR Exhibit 48. This is Prosecution Exhibit 235. This is smother official German report, showing that in the vicinity of Smolensk one hundred thirty-five thousand people were killed during the German occupation. The defendant Naumann testified that he was unable to estimate the number killed during his time of command in Smolensk. This document was referred to at that time as giving the Tribunal some indication of the activities that were taking place.

The next document offered is NO-5771, as Prosecution Exhibit 236. In the opening statement for the defendant Naumann, remarks were made that while he was a police official in Holland he had treated the Dutch citizens very well and was very kind be them. What we offer here by way of rebuttal is the official report of the Chief Police Officer of the Hague concerning the defendant Erich Naumann and this report shows that he played an important part in the murder of Dutch citizens during the German occupation. This is the SS personnel record of the defendant von Six and includes in it the letter from Himmler showing the defendant's promotion to Colonel four outstanding service in the Einsatz. In includes another letter showing his assignment as commander of the Security Police and the SD in the East and his dates of service in the Security police Einsatz in the East as 22 June 1941 to 28 August 1941.

The Tribunal will recall that the defendant testified that he had nothing to do with the Einsatz and that he left on the 20th of August. This document was put to him to refresh his memory during cross examination and is now offered as rebuttal for the statements he made on his direct examination. This is a document which was offered and received in evidence by the International Military Tribunal. It is a captured German document and it is part of the files of the German Foreign Office. It gives a summary of a speech made by Ambassador Six. The important parts are found on page 47 of the document book. The Tribunal will notice that this summary states that the defendant Six discussed the physical elimination of eastern Jewry and urged that the Jewish question should be solved not only for Germany but also internationally. On page 47 of our document book, toward the bottom of the page, there is a further parenthetical note in this report which says that the details of the state of the execution measures in the various countries would be kept secret and would not be entered in these minutes. The Tribunal may recall that he, the defendant, stated that he opposed the anti-Jewish measures. This document is offered as a direct contradiction of the testimony he gave on the stand.

Our next document is L-185, offered as Prosecution Exhibit 239. This document was also received in evidence by the International Military Tribunal and is a table of organization of the RsHA as of 1 January 1941. The defendant testified that while he was Chief of Amt 7 of the RsHA he did not have any special section dealing with Free Masonry or Jewry. The table of organization will show that he did have such sections and the people who were in charge of those sections.

Our next document is L-219, offered as Prosecution Exhibit 240. This again is a table of organization of the RsHA as of 1 October 1943 and the Tribunal will notice that Amt 7, which was headed by the Defendant Six, still has a section concerned with Judaism, political churches, and other opposing groups.

This is a letter which was given to us by the witness Veronika Vetter, who came here for the purpose of cross examination concerning an affidavit she had made for the defendant Six. She testified that she was certain that she saw Professor Six in Smolensk at the time she received this letter. The contents of the letter are not important. The significant parts of it however are the dates and the heading. This is found on page 137 of our document book and the Tribunal will notice that it is dated 31 August 1941 and the heading is "Vorkommando Moscow of the Einsatzgruppe B, of the Security Police and the SD." The defendant testified that he was not in Smolensk at that time, that the Vorkommando Moscow was not a part of Einsatzgruppe B, and that the Vorkommando Moscow had nothing to do with the Security Police and the SD. This letter, given to us by a defense witness, is offered as direct contradiction of those statements by the defendant. hibit 242. This is an interrogation of the defendant Klingelhoefer, in which he stated among other things that he had urged Noack to shoot only the old and sick people. That is found on the top of page 144. On cross examination, the defendant specifically denied that and requested that the interrogation be introduced. Your Honor, with the exception of a few which were mentioned previously.

DR. MAYER (for Klingelhoefer): Your Honor,in view of the submission of this document, NO-5846, I have only this objection: namely, that it is not complete. And I ask that instructions be given to the prosecution to bring in the complete interrogation of the defendant. I understood it that way too when the prosecution promised the introduction during the cross examination.

THE PRESIDENT: What about that, Mr. Ferencz?

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, as far as I know, that is the complete interrogation. We certainly have no intention of introducing a partial translation. This is the only interrogation I have in my possession and when I offered it I offered it with the firm belief that it is complete. If Defense Counsel has any knowledge that it is not complete, I will be very glad to join with him in making such corrections as he may suggest.

DR. MAYER: The defendant Klingelhoefer has testified on the witness stand, that he was interrogated not only on the 1st but also on the 2nd of July, on which the affidavit was made out which is the basis for this, Thus, this is only one part of the interrogation by Mr. Wartenberg.

MR. FERENCZ: As I understand the defense Counsel's reply, Your Honor, it is that there was another interrogation, at another time. But this interrogation then is complete. I do not think we are required to put in every interrogation we have. Personally, I do not know about the other interrogation. Offhand, I can't see any objection to giving it to the defendant if he wants it, but I certainly object to the suggestion that we have only offered part of an interrogation or the insistence that we offer another interrogation that we do not wish to submit.

THE PRESIDENT: It would appear that you have introduced what you said you would introduce -- the interrogation of the defendant. So that completes that transaction. Now, if Dr. Mayer desires that some other document be presented, the existence of which he is aware of, and will locate that document, then he can present it himself.

DR. MAYER: Your Honor, it isn't possible for me to introduce it myself because the interrogation is in the hands of the prosecution. This interrogation was submitted here in connection with the affidavit of the defendant, which Mr. Wartenberg took down, and the basis for this affidavit was the entire interrogation.

THE PRESIDENT: When you say the entire interrogation, you mean that there was more than one interrogation. Is that what you mean?

DR. MAYER: No, it is not more than one. It is one interrogation which took two days to be completed. In other words, it went on into the 2nd of July but it is one interrogation. There was one night in between, and it bears the date of the 2nd July. The interrogation which was submitted here was siggned, neither by Mr. Wartenberg, nor by the defendant Klingelhoefer. Therefore I conclude that the signatures are to be found at the conclusion of the complete interrogation.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, these are the stenographer's notes taken during the interrogation. Naturally they are not signed, inasmuch as they are prepared by the stenographer for the information of the prosecution.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Ferencz, it is the observation of the Tribunal that you have not only been fair but you have been very generous in connection with the requests made by defense counsel. Would you please look to see that if by chance there still is another part of this one interrogation, which apparently went over two days, - it may be this represents one day alone, - and if there is another part which has not been introduced, will you kindly see that Dr. layer has the opportunity to look at it and to present it if he so desires?

MR. FERENCZ: Yes, your Honor.

DR. MAYER: Thank you, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome.

DR. LEHNERT: Dr. Lehnert, attorney for Naumann. 48 and USSR-56, which have been submitted by the prosecution as Exhibits 235 and 234. The representative of the prosecution has claimed that these documents repudiate the testimony of the defendant Naumann about the figure of those executed in Smolensk. First of all nothing can be seen what connection exists between the incidents in these documents and between Naumann. First of all I want to point out that from the abovementioned documents it cannot even be seen whether these dead people who were found in the mass graves were actually executed, and it is also not proved whether they were executed by units of Einsatzgruppe B. Furthermore, I would like to point out chat in these reports the time of death is stated to be between the middle of 1941 to the fall of 1943. Naumann was chief of Einsatzgruppe B only curing part of this time. In the document USSR-48 no persons are mentioned at all. In the document USSR-56 a while number of people are mentioned without establishing any definite connection between the various people and the incidents.

With the exception of Neumann the other persons mentioned there are completely unknown. Presumably they did not even belong to units of the Einsatzgruppe. Exhibit 236, I would also like to object to it because the conduct of Naumann in Holland is not a substance of the indictment and because the various testimonies included in the police report do not show that they were sworn to.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, with regard to this last objection made by defense counsel, perhaps we should like to hear something on it. We have permitted the introduction of much testimony, affidavits on the attitude and actions of the defendants in areas other than that in which they operated, insofar as the charges in the indictment are concerned. Those are documents which tend to demonstrate the character of the defendant, and we are inclined to say at this juncture that we regard them as relevant, but whether the prosecution would be permitted to introduce a document as to an act done by a defendant elsewhere in the nature of a crime to help establish that he was of a criminal tendency we are not prepared to admit.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, this document is not offered to convict the defendant Naumann of the murders he committed in Holland. However, in the opening statement for the defendant his own defense counsel pointed out that in Holland the defendant Naumann had been a very fine gentleman and had treated all the Dutch citizens with great generosity. He introduced that first. We had no intention to introduce anything concerning Holland. It is offered solely for the purpose of refuting that character information or testimony offered by the defendant himself.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, at the very most this report on activities in Holland would be regarded only as a contradiction of any testimony introduced on behalf of the defendant Naumann, that his attitude in Holland was entirely correct, in the nature of impeaching what after all is more or less collateral, but it will have no bearing on what actually happened in Russia.

We make that statement now because when we dispose of the objections en masse we might not particularly refer to this document. Very well.

DR. VOELKEL: Voelkel for the defendant Six.

As Document No. NO-4767 the prosecution has submitted a number of documents which are contained in the SS-files of the defendant Six. The representative of the prosecution has mentioned a number of documents which already have been a subject of the cross-examination. Furthermore, there is a document among them of the SS-Operational Office of the 7th of April, 1942, Page 3 of the German document book, in which it is stated that Six as Commander of the Security Police and SD in the East has been assigned in the East as such. I repeat SS-Main Operational Office, 7th of April, 1942. There it is stated that Six was employed in the East as Commander of the Security Police and SD. Now, during the presentation of the documents the prosecution did not expressly mention this document, but I see in the presentation of this document that the prosecution brings up a new fact according to which Six is alleged to have been the commander of the Security Police and SD in the East. The course of the case up to this point has shown that such an activity was not carried out by Six in the east. Therefore, I object only to this part of the document, and I would welcome it if the prosecution would make some clarifying statement whether it will draw any conclusions from this document.

MR. FERENCZ: The conclusions to be drawn from this document, your Honor, are solely the prerogative of the Tribunal. was assigned to the Security Police and the SD in the last. It is something which he specifically denied in his direct examination, and it is offered as a direct rebuttal of what he testified to.

THE PRESIDENT: Did you not get that?

DR. VOELKEL: Evidently the interpreter didn't catch it because it was too quick. Therefore, parts of his statement were not interpreted.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, please repeat it, Dr. Ferencz, because it is rather important.

MR. FERENCZ: I stated that the conclusions to be drawn from this document are a matter for the Tribunal, and that we offer the document to show that the defendant was in fact with the Security Police and the SD in the East and not merely, as he stated, a professor collecting archives.

DR. VOELKEL: My objection against this document is made from another point of view. That Six was a representative of the RSHA in the East was not contested. My objection is directed against the expression " Commander of the Security Police and the SD in the East". This designation is a special agency designation, which Six never had in the East, and, therefore, it brings up a new fact in the rebuttal, and I object against this new introduction.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it is not a new fact when it attacks what you submitted.

DR. VOELKL: The new fact consists in the fact that the concept of commander of the Security Police and the SD is a fixed one. It designates a definite activity as, for example, the Commander of the Security Police and SD actually carried out in Oslo or in Riga or some place else. One can interpret the document to mean that this special office was held by Six, and to this extent it would be the introduction of a new fact by the prosecution against which I object. But if one should merely conclude from this that Six was assigned in the East as a result of an order from the RSHA, then I would not object to this fact, considering the case-in-chief presented so far, and I would then merely object to the expression "Commander".

THE PRESIDENT: Well, the weight to be given all these documents is something which will be determined later, of course, in the final appraisement of all the testimony in the case. The prosecution maintains that Six was doing a certain thing in Russia; Six maintains he was doing something else. That is the issue.

DR. VOELKL: My further objection is directed against Document PS3319. It is the document in which, among other things, the Krummhuebel conference is mentioned, but which includes a large number of other documents which might perhaps show a responsibility of the defendant concerning the Jewish question in Bucharest. The prosecution mentioned those documents only insofar as they concern the Krummhuebel conference. Therefore, my objections will first of all be limited to those parts of the document. The report about Krummhuebel is on pages 15 to 25 in the German text and bears no signature. Only the letter addressed to the various subordinate agencies is signed by Schleier. In the cross-examination the defendant Six has already stated that the excerpt regarding the conference which is not signed would be considered as unauthenticated and, therefore, I repeat this objection against the minutes of the conference. clusions are to be drawn from the fact that the measures of the Foreign Office were to be kept secret as far as they concerned the Jewish question.

As for this point I must say that Six merely was the director of the cultural political office in the Foreign Office.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Counsellor, you are arguing the case, and this is not the time to argue it. You must show that this document is spurious; that it is irrelevant; that it is incompetent, but you may not argue the facts in the document. Now, Professor Six had an opportunity on the witness stand to answer this very document. Now, when you come to argue the case to the Tribunal you go into it further, but this is not the time to argue it.

DR. VOELKL: Your Honor, I will be brief then, and I will just say that those parts of the documen t bring up a new point which make Six responsible for the Jewish questions in the Foreign Office, and to this extent another department, i.e. the Department II of the Foreign Office was competent, and I object against this new point, or rather, I would like to reserve the right to bring a refutation of this new point in the form of another affidavit.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, that is for you to determine.

DR. VOELKL: Another objection is concerned with the Document L-185. There the table of organization of the Foreign Office is contained and the responsibility of Six is fixed insofar as on the 1st of March 1941 he was supposed to have been responsible for Department 7. Six was at the time with the troops, and in that respect the document is immaterial in reference to the defendant. I have the same objection to the Document L-219. This document contains a table of organizations of the RSHA of the 1st of October 1943, that is to say at the time when Six was already in the Foreign Office and was no longer responsible in the table of organizations as Chief of the Office 7. In this respect the document is irrelevant as far as the defendant Six is concerned. only insofar as here not the original of the statement of the 31st of August 1942 was submitted but merely a certified copy with the signature of a person by the name of Schroeder.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will pass on all these objections simultaneously. You will be ready to present your other document book?

DR. KOESSL: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: And who will follow, anybody else ready?

(One of the defense counsel raised his hand)

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, very well.

MR. WALTON: And if Your Honor please, just for purpose of the record, the Exhibit No. 233 was skipped. There will be no Exhibit 233.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. The Tribunal will be in recess for fifteen minutes.

(A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. KOESSL: Dr. Koessl for the defendant Ott. Your Honor, for the defendant Ott I have Document No. 10, which I offer as Exhibit No. 10. This supplement brings evidence of the fact that Ott in the area of Bryansk has brought about that in his area the deportation of forced labor into the Reich was discontinued. I submit this document as evidence as to his attitude towards the civilian population. That concludes my presentation of documents.

DR. VOELKL: Dr. Voelkl for the defendant Six. Your Honor, as I have already explained this morning, I shall now present Document Book No. II. My colleague, Dr. Ulmer, has already submitted yesterday Document Book III for Six. Document Book II contains under Document No. 40 the Exhibit No. 47, which I am herewith offering. It is an affidavit from the former research assistant, Emil Augsburg. He states on 5 October 1947 that on 23 June 1941 he received the order to join Six as an interpreter for Moxcow for the prospective Archive work, and has been in the company of Six from Warsaw until Six' departure on 20 August 1941. He confirms that the assignment of the Commando was the seizure of archives in Moscow and that it was independent of the work of Einsatzgruppe B. He also confirms the journey of Six to Berlin in order to get new instructions with regard to his relations with Nebe; the formation of the Archives Detachment at Minsk on 8 July 1941 under the name of Vorkommando Moscow, after an interview with the Chief of the High Army Command of the 4th Army. The composition of the commando is also covered. According to explicit instructions in the RSHA of Office Chief I, Streckenbach, the Commando was to be formed from men with local knowledge of Moxcow and of interpreters in Einsatzgruppe B. He also talked about the start of the Advance Commando Moscow between 14 July and 16 July to the Garrison of AOK-IV in Tolotschino, and, he also mentioned the conference with the Major Helmdach on the tasks of Advance Kommando Moscow. Then in a series of statements he describes in the affidavit that contact was made with the Division Reich and that agreements were made for this division concerning the further advance with this division until the time that this division continued its advance . Archives and cultural material was seized and secured in Smolensk.

After the arrival of the staff of Einsatzgruppe B in Smolensk, on 6 August 1947 - he perhaps means 1941 - the situation and task of Advance Kommando Moscow didn't change. Then it is mentioned that the executiin of the tasks given by Six became impossible, owing to the complete change in the military situation in the central sector of the Eastern Front and that for a longer period of time, so that Nebe made an offer to Six to carry out another task in the Advance Kommando in the meantime, which consisted in anti-partisan warfare, that Six refused the offer on principle and asked for his recall from the RSHA, the Security Main Office, and that Six left on 20 August 1941. After his departure Nebe took over the Advance Kommando himself for the time being. The witness further testified in his affidavit that while Six was in charge he kept to his functions as Archive Detachment assignment and carried out neither police actions nor did he participate in any. Your Honor, this affidavit belongs to that group of documents which belong to the group "A" mentioned when the previous documents were presented, and, they therefore refer to the activity of Advance Kommando Moscow.

The next document, Six No. 41, which I would like to introduce as Exhibit No. 49, belongs also to the same series of subjects.

ment director, on 18 December 1947. Huppenkothen was together with the defendant in Lublin, and after that went to Berlin. There he reported to the Office I Strechenbach of the Reich Security Main Office, and the latter inquired from him where Six was. He gave the proper reply to this, and as a result therefrom Heydrich recalled Six from the East. He also confirmed the return of the defendant from the east to Berlin, between the 19th and 26th of August, 1941. I also offer the document Six No. 42, as Exhibit No. 50. This is an affidavit by Ilsetraut Plautz, a former secretary of the defendant, given on 10 December 1947. Plautz states that she was the secretary of the defendant in the Reich Security Main Office, and that on 23 August 1941 she returned from her leave, and after that had written lengthy report -- which the defendant made about his activity in the advance kommando. In this report, nothing was contained about execution measures. I would like you to cross out the next mentioned of the affidavits, by Ursula Alander. I intend to bring Miss Alander here tomorrow as a witness.

I now come to the document Six No. 44, which I would like to offer as Exhibit 51. Here an affidavit is given by Dr. Dittel dated 5 December 1947 where it is confirmed that after Professor Six loft the SD and Office VII in March, 1943, Dittel he took over as acting head of Office VII. It is also asserted that Office VII carried out library, archives and press cutting work, according to the manner of academic libraries and archives. It also says that this office carried out scientific research in the manner carried out by acedemic institutes. Dittel also confirms that Office VII did not have a regional organization in Germany, nor did they have one outside of Germany, and that it consisted of 40 to 50 collaborators. This document belongs to the Series B, as far as it concerns the work of the defendant within the SD.

The same applies for the next document, document Six No. 45, which I offer as Exhibit 52. This is an affidavit of the university professor Guenther Franz, of 17 November 1947. Franz states that Office VII, according to its task and owing to its small size and since they did not have a regional organization, was a special body within the RSHA.

Office VII was not an office like the other departments in the Reich Security Main Office, but rather a research institute which comprised, including the clerical help, about 50 people. The object of its research was not the present structure, but they had to deal with the historical roots and their idealogical conceptions, in order to gain an objective conception of history. In order to achieve this aim, commissions for research were given to scientists who did not have to belong to the SS or the Party. The results of the research were discussed in annual conferences. The results were not kept secret, but were published in books. Then Professor Franz analyzes some books as to their scientific contents, and states that the German scholars welcomed the work of Office VII, that in the scientific press and professional periodicals, their publications were approved. the year 1943, in which the activities of Office VII are described in a similar manner. Your Honor, this supplement which I have just mentioned, I offer as the next document, Six, No. 46, which I would like to offer as Exhibit No. 53. I would like to point out that there is a close relation between the two documents. In the excerpt of the research report by Franz, this historical periodical, "The World in History," is referred to and there the work of the Reich Security Main Office is also mentioned. These four books are reveiwed, and it is explained that they had the task to introduce the scientific research work on the Masonic question. The publications of Office VII constituted free scientific research, connected with degree and doctors' theses. Omitting speculations and presumptions, those works limit themselves exclusively to the historical archives. The following works are mentioned here; a book by Hans Schick. It deals with the older Rosicrucians. It describes the origin of the older Rosicrucians and for the first time by bringing in the entire literature about Rosicrucians emphasizes the three genuine Rosicrucian books, which are the basis for the entire Rosicrucian theory.

Then a work by Adolf Rossberg, concerning "Free Masonry and Politics in the Age of the French Revolution," and the history of the Order of Illuminati, and this deals with the most peculiar picture of the Masonic organization in the 18th century. The third work is written by Heinz Guertler. It deals with German Freemasonry in the service of Napoleon's politics, and in particular with the work and the history of Free Masonry in the kingdom of Westphalia. The last work is by Hans Riegelmann, it lists the European dynasties in thier relations with the European dynasties and Freemasonry and gives all members of the former ruling houses who were Freemasons, and who influenced the policy of their countries.

I also offer Document No. 47 as Exhibit 54. This is an affidavit of the university lecturer Hans Schick of 5 December 1947. This document also belongs to the series of questions D, that is, concerning the work of the defendant in the SD. Schick confirms in his affidavit that Office VII of the Reich Security Main Office had only research tasks. This consisted of looking after archives of historical value, and also confirms the establishment of a research institute similar to the university, and the carrying out of scientific research. Schick proves these aims with actual publications, which prove the scholarly character, and which are connected with Document Six No. 46, which I have just submitted.

I now offer as Document Six No. 48 Exhibit No. 55. This is an affidavit from the university professor Eschmann of 3 November 1947. It confirms that Six as a student was not anti-Jewish. At the university in Berlin, he stood up for colleagues who had Jewish relations. It also gives the establishment of the Berlin faculty of international relations according to the traditions of the Heidelberg sociology, and Six's positive attitude concerning the question of bringing about an understanding with France. This positive attitude is proved by the fact among other things that the defendant intervened in favor of the French resistance leader Boutelleon. The document 48 which was just submitted and the following one, No. 49, belong to the series of questions D. They concern the scientific work of the defendant.

Document No. 49, which I offer as Exhibit 56, constitutes an affidavit by Professor Jaeschke from the University in Munster. It was made out on 5 December 1947. In it he said that Professor Six, in his office as dean, felt responsible to the world of learning, that even in the questions of safeguarding and protecting endangered cultural treasures he never broke the rules of international law. He proves this with an example which refers to a library at the university, I have to say to some scientific library in Italy.

Court No. II, Case No. IX.

DR. VOELKL: (Continued): I also offer document #50 as Exhibit #57. This was made by Hans Otto Meissner a former Counsel of the Foreign Office. It was made out 17 December 1947. In this affidavit Meissner states that he as a representative of the German Embassy in Milano took part in the conferences of the Foreign Office at Krummhuebel in April 1944. He also states that in the lecture of Dr. Six, statements about the extermination of Jewry or of about a solution of the Jewry question according to the Krummhuebel records were never made.

The last document which I offer is Document #51. This is Exhibit #53. This was given by Erika Boese a former photographic reporter of the Foreign Office. It was made out 10 December 1947. Erika Boese confirms, as a participant of the meeting at Krummhuebel in April 1944, that Dr. Six in his lecture at no point asked for the elimination of Eastern Jewry nor did he make any hints in that direction. This document #51 and the previous one #50 belongs to the series of questions C and therefore concern the work of the defendant in the Foreign Office. Document Book II is concerned. Your Honor, according to the announcement made yesterday it will now be possible that Fraulein Ursula Alander be heard as a witness here tomorrow morning and I ask for the permission of the Tribunal that at the beginning of tomorror morning's session I may be permitted to introduce the witness to the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: That will be done.

MR. WALTON: If your Honors please, it looks like the opportunity for Dr. Linck and I think our session will not present itself this afternoon. In the event that something unforeseen would happen I will be in my office if you will have the Marshal call me.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, Mr. Walton, that will be done.

DR. KRAUSE for Haensch: Your Honor, I would now like to introduce Document Book III. From this book I submit and offer on Court No. II, Case No. IX.

page 1 as exhibit #25 the document #22. This is the affidavit by Lotte Geissler of 14 December 1947. Frau Geissler confirms here the statements by the defendant in the witness stand that the defendant in Dresden lived in the house of a Jewish woman Frau Markus and was on friendly terms with her. Frau Geissler unfortunately did not state the period of time, however. It was from January 1934 until February 1935. I asked for an additional statement and would like to reserve the right to submit that yet.

I also offer on page 2 as exhibit #26 the document #23. This is a certificate by the dentist Dr. H. D. Maennel in Berlin-Zehlendorf of 30 December 1947, stating that the defendant was being treated by him in January and February 1942. I would like to ask to admit this certificate until Dr. Maennel will be able to come here as a witness according to my application.

I then offer on page 3 as exhibit 27 document #24. This is an affidavit by Hans Steinwede of 22 December 1947. THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment, please. Which document book are you presenting?

DR. KRAUSE: Document Book III for Haensch.

THE PRESIDENT: It doesn't seem as if we have that.

DR. KRAUSE: Your Honor, I could submit one single copy in English here which is at my disposal.

THE PRESIDENT: A mimeographed copy?

DR. KRAUSE: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed.

DR. KRAUSE: I also submit and offer on page 3 as exhibit #27 the document #24. This is an affidavit of Hans Steinwede of 22 December 1947. Steinwede was house electrician in the Reich Security Main Office. As a member of the SD in the year 1943 he made disapproving remarks about Hitler and Goering. For that reason disciplinary action was started against him. The defendant at the time, being in charge of disciplinary matters, intervened so that Court No. II, Case No. IX.

Steinwede was only given a small term of arrest. Steinwede himself explains and I quote briefly: "At the time, thanks to the advice of some comrades, I turned to the then Lord Justice of the RSHA, the then Sturmbannfuehrer Dr. Walter Haensch. I was told in so many words by my comrades that if anyone can help you and will help you then it is Haensch." Only one thing is incorrect in the statement, namely that Steinwede describes the defendant as Lord Justice. The defendant was only a referent which this man, being a simple man, could not realize. The clarification of this point makes me introduce the following document. I offer it on page 4 as exhibit 28. It has the document #25. It is an affidavit by the co-defendant Erwin Schulz of 12 January 1948. It shows that the disciplinary superior entitled to make decisions and the Lord Justice of the RSHA for members of the RSHA was at all times only the chief of the RSHA.

I also submit on page 5 and 6 as Exhibit #29 the document #26. This is an affidavit by Dr. Werner Best former plenipotentiary of the Reich in Denmark of 26 December 1947. It completes his affidavit which has already been introduced dated 31 October 1947. It deals mainly with the constant attempts by the defendant that the politically delicate border territory of Northern Schleswig be protected against suppression on the part of police and Wehrmacht. Dr. Best gives a case here where the dynamiting of a farm is concerned. The defendant insisted at the time that the dynamiting was not to be effected, Owing to this he got into most serious differences with the local police authorities.

COURT II CASE IX offer as Exhibit 30-A, this is the Document No. 27 and on page 16, which I offer as Exhibit 30-B, this is Document No. 28. These two documents belong together. They are two letters by a woman from Denmark, who worked in the office of the Plenipotentiary. The first letter contains an extensive description of the work of the defendant in Denmark. The document is so important that I would like to draw the special attention of the Tribunal to it. I ask that it may be admitted it although the statements are not sworn to. The defense has tried to get a new statement in the form of an affidavit. However, we were unable to do so. The reasons can be seen in the second letter. In this second letter, the woman concerned regrets, for reasons of her personal security, to be unable to repeat her statement because recently exonerating statements in favor of a German National would result in prosecution by the Danish Government. about a document by the prosecution which was mentioned in the afternoon session of the 3rd of December, and which was introduced as Exhibit No. 187. This is a statement by Mr. Wartenburg about the interrogation of the defendant on the 8th of July 1947. I object to the utilization of this document for three reasons: first, because it was introduced at such a late date that Mr. Wartenburg could not be cross-examined about this any more; secondly, because it is not signed by the defendant himself; and thirdly, because the defendant, as Mr. Wartenburg in his own statement, on page 410 of the transcript, said that the signature on the affidavit which was made on the basis of this transcript was refused by the defendant. With regard to the Mr. Wartenburg's statement I may point out that according to his explanation the defendant seriously reproached him about this that he, Mr. Wartenburg, had ever confused matters. introduced by the prosecution this morning, No. 3251-A, which has the COURT II CASE IX Exhibit No. 207.

These are personnel files concerning Dr. Erwin Weinmann--or, to be quite correct, they are supposed to be such files. Obviously there is a confusion and refers to his brother Dr. Erich Weinmann.

MR. GLANCY: If it please the Tribunal, I personally am not acquainted with this because I was not in court at the time. However, I assume that the good Doctor had ample opportunity to object at the proper time--that as at the end of the prosecution's introduction of the listed documents. I would request that further argument on this be deferred until I can personally inform myself as to the matter.

DR. KRAUSE: I beg your pardon. I thought that this document was already introduced this morning, and the refore now is the right time for my objection.

MR. GLANCY: I believe the practice has been laid down by the Court, Your Honor, that at the end of the presentation of the document books the defense will avail themselves of the opportunity of objecting, at that time. I am under a slight handicap now of not being well enough versed to answer.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, suppose defense counsel finishes. We will allow defense counsel to finish his statement as to why he objects to this document and then tomorrow morning, Mr. Glancy, you can reply to it.

MR. GLANCY: Thank you, Sir.

DR. KRAUSE: This document, which I just mentioned, refers in my opinion, not to Dr. Erwin Weinmann but to his brother Dr. Erich Weinmann, who also was a member of the SS and the SD. Dr. Erwin Weinmann was never Lord Mayor of Tuebingen. He never was civil servant within the state administration. He was never under the Reich Ministry of the Interior and, at least during that time, he did not belong to the circle of persons which was under the SS Personnel Main Office.

THE PRESIDENT: Then, Mr. Glancy, you will reply to this in the morning?

MR. GLANCY: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: And we will continue, tomorrow morning then, with the further presentation of defense document books and the hearing of the one witness scheduled. The Tribunal will not be in recess until tomorrow morning at 0930.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 22 January 1946, at 0930 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, before Dr, Ulmer starts with his witness I would like to make a reply to the objection which was raised by Dr. Krause against document Prosecution Exhibit 187 and, I presume it is 207. Document Prosecution Exhibit 187 was admitted in evidence on 3 December of the last year. An objection raised by Dr, Krause now was certainly not raised in time. Moreover as far as I understand he objected against this document by argumenting that Mr. Wartenberg said something else on the witness stand than transpires from the document. This is an argument to be used in a closing brief or in a summation but it does not make the interrogation transcript of the defendant Haensch in itself inadmissible. The same, to a higher extent, is even true about Prosecution Exhibit 207. It is argumented by Dr. Krause that this document does not give the information the Prosecution states it does. This is entirely argumentative argument. The document is a captured document and in its form entirely admissible. It is purported to be a part of the personal file of the man Erwin Weinmann and, therefore, it is certainly admissible in evidence here. Moreover I want to point out, and that I think settles this matter, that Dr. Riediger had, when I submitted the document, declared before the Tribunal that he had no objection against the offering of the document. It is our very strong conviction that it is impossible that he make such a statement to the Tribunal in the morning and that in the afternoon his deputy goes up and objects against the very same document. That is all I have to say to this objection, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: We will dispose -- You want to say something?

DR. KRAUSE: Your Honor, concerning the question whether I agree with Dr. Riediger concerning this objection I would first have to discuss the matter with Dr. Riediger. I cannot imagine that we should have spoken here. To the opposite effect. I would therefore like to make the concerning statement at a later point.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I personally think that this is superfluous. The record will show whether Dr. Riediger made this statement or not. The record is official. If the record contains this announcement of Dr. Riediger in the record I think it is perfectly clear. If this announcement of Dr. Riediger is not in the record I am willing to apologize to Dr. Krause but I was standing here next to Dr. Riediger when Dr. Riediger made this statement and I hope the Tribunal can take my word for it.

DR. KRAUSE: Your Honor, I only would like to say: the fact that Dr. Erwin Weinmann, who is mentioned in document 3251 A was not Mayor of Tuebingen. He was not under the Reich Ministry of Interior, etc. This fact is not eliminated because of the statements made by the Prosecution. I would like to have this examined: even if the defense would not want to retain its objections, there is still a possibility that a confusion took place here between the two men. I would, therefore, like to ask that it be suggested to the Prosecution to consider this.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, we have pointed out in answer to the objection of defense counsel that he, of course, is at liberty to attack the document in every way he see fit to bring proof that this document is an error, to bring proof that this document does not pertain to the person we say it pertains to, but that makes the document in itself not inadmissible - and that is the question before the Tribunal; the document itself would not be inadmissible if not in the form which makes it admissible or if it is clear from the document itself that it has nothing to do with the case., None of these two things are stated by defense counsel. If he wants to argue that this document does not prove what we think that it proves this is question of argument and the Tribunal will decide this question in its judgment.

But the document itself is entirely admissible and that is the only thing here at issue.

THE PRESIDENT: Why doesn't Dr. Riediger indicate whether he objects to the document or not.

DR. KRAUSE: Your Honor, I do not want to make a statement after Dr. Riediger is supposed to have said that he did not want to raise an objection.

DR. HOCHWALD: "I have no objection".He did not save the right of objecting."I have no objection against the admission of the document."

THE PRESIDENT: Let's put it this way. There is no reason why we should have any conflict of recollection between counsel. When Dr. Riediger appears he can be asked if he does or does not object and we will dispose of it at that time.

DR. HOCHWALD: I only want to say as to the document itself - it is a captured document and in its form, and in its content, it is perfectly admissible. I do not want to add anything, any more, to that.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I think that all counsel know that the general policy followed by the Tribunal is to admit documents which have probative value or appear to have probative value. The weight of each document will depend upon its nature and all the circumstances surrounding it. But, at any rate we will wait to hear from Dr. Riediger so we can be absolutely certain s to the position ofdefense on the document.

DR. KRAUSE: Yes.

as follows: BY JUDGE DIXON: after me. will speak the pure truth and will withhold and add nothing.

(The witness repeated the oath)

JUDGE DIXON: you may be seated. BY DR. ULMER for Six.

Your Honor, may I start to examine this witness?

THE PRESIDENT: Please, do. BY DR. ULMER:

Q. Witness, please tell the Tribunal your personal data?

A. My name is Ursula Alander, born 2 August 1918 in Munster, Westphalia, residing in Wyk-Foehr, Nord Friesland Sandwall 74.

Q. Did you have official relations with the defendant Six? a student of the foreign scientific faculty. Ever since then I have known Professor Six. Since the summer of 1940 I was a scientific assistant with the foreign scientific faculty.

Q. Witness, please talk a little slower into the microphone so that the translation can keep up. When did you start on that position?

A. On 1 June 1940.

Q. Did Dr. Six himself employ you?

A. Yes.

Q. When was this?

Page 5,441

A. On the previous day, 31 of May 1940, on the 1st of June Professor Six was transferred into the Army.

Q. Who was the professor of the faculty for whom you had to work immediately?

A. Professor Six himself. During hisabsence his chief assistant deputized for him.

Q. How long was Dr. Six absent from the university?

A. From 1 June 1940 until the end of August 1941.

Q. Do you know where he was?

A. Professor Six was at first near Berlin with the Army. Later on, in Holland for training, finally he was in Russia.

Q. Did he never pay any brief visits to the institute?

A. Yes he did. He had short leaves occassionally.

Q. And when did he finally return to the institute?

A. I saw him for the first time again on 21 or 22 August 1941.

Q. How do you know this so exactly?

A. Because afterwards I took my leave on Saturday 23 August 1941. I had been granted leave for the last week of August.

Q. Do you have anything to support your memory for these exact dates?

A. I have a calendar of 1941 which I borrowed. It confirms these dates. Also in the house where my mother and I spent my leave together there was a gentleman whom I asked to confirm the date by wire. My mother also recalls this particular date.

Q. How did it occur to you to remember dates that way?

A. Because I was called to the Tribunal by wire and I was asked to give the date of the return of Professor Six and prove it if possible.

Q. When did you return from your leave in august 1941?

Page 5,442

A. On Monday first of September 1941.

Q. Did Dr. Six remain there constantly in his offical capacity?

A. Yes.

Q. How did it come about that you came to me and told me about your dates in November 1947 when we saw each other for the first time.

A. It was an accidental visit with Professor Pfeffer. I heard about the date which was being debated about which I could give testimony. I therefore offered myself as a witness to Mr. Ulmer and on 26 November 1947 I gave him an affidavit about this.

Q. Did you hear what tasks Dr. Six had in Russia?

A. I heard that Professor Six had to look through file material and archives in Russia. This was talked about in the science department at the University.

Q. Your Honor, these are the questions which I had to ask this witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Any of defense counsel desire to examine the witness?

Mr. Hochwald do you have some questions? BY DR. HOCHWALD:

Q. If I may, your Honor. mony here, is that correct?

A. I was prepared for those questions.

Q. Who prepared you for those questions?

A. Herr Ulmer informed me what he was interested in in connection with this trial.

Q. I do not think that you answered my question. I asked you who prepared you for the answers of those questions?

A. It was not necessary that I should be instructed because I was well informed about the incident and I am able to give these replies without difficulty.

Q. My question, witness, was very specific. You told me first that you were prepared for the questions and now I asked you twice who prepared you. I take from your last answer that you revoke your first testimony and say you were not prepared. Will you then tell the Tribunal whether you were prepared -- who prepared you or whether you were not prepared?

A. By preparation I understood the discussion with Mr. Ulmer about the contents of the questions.

Q. And have you some notes before you or did you have some notes before you during the interrogation when you now testified to these questions?

A. I had a copy of my affidavit which confirms my replies.

Q. Just now, when you were testifying?

with me when I discussed the questions with Mr. Ulmer.

Q So I will come back to my first question. You have been testifying here without notes, is that correct? That was the first question I asked you.

A No, I discussed the questions with Mr. Ulmer which would probably be asked today and I had my affidavit from November with no. you. I asked you a very simple question whether you now, when testifying before the Tribunal, had some notes before you to refresh your memory, or whether you were testifying freely. Did you have some notes before you just now when you answered the questions of Dr. Ulmer this morning?

Q Would you be good enough to see these notes?

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, I object to this manner of questioning. I would like to say that the notes contain exactly what I discussed with the witness. I do not know whether the witness has any reasons to have to give them to, the prosecution. If the Tribunal rules that she should hand them ever she will do so, of course.

THE PRESIDENT: The witness is not required to surrender her notes unless she desires to do so.

MR. HOCHWALD: If your Honor please, I am not aware that I did ask for anything. I asked her whether she would like to hand me the notes.

Witness: I do not know what the prosecution wants these notes for. If I am asked to hand over the notes I shall do so, but since I do not knew the reasons, the motives, I shall not do it on my own initiative.

MR. HOCHWAID: I do not -

THE PRESIDENT: You may inquire if the notes were made by herself. If they were made by herself-

WITNESS: Please I did not understand.

Mr. HOCHWALD: May I ask the question the Tribunal kindly suggested. Did you write the notes yourself? they were copied again in Dr. Ulmer's office in an orderly manner. BY MR. HOCHWALD:

Q In what way did you make changes in these notes? Tribunal. Did you change certain parts of your testimony? in my notes. This purely factual matter of form Mr. Ulmer corrected for me and gave me the same questions more or less, only they were more precise.

Q How long did you know Professor Six? dean for the foreign science faculty at the University.

Q You were a very close collaborator of his? departure to the army. have some documents which prove this date. Did I understand your testimony correctly in this respect?

A I have no documents which prove my first meeting with Dr. Six.

Q I am sorry -- it's my mistake. I beg the Tribunal's pardon. I did not make it clear. I was just speaking about the date of Dr. Six's return to Berlin on 20 August 1942. I am sorry. I am speaking now about his return. You have told the Tribunal that you have some documents which prove this date, is that correct?

return or, that is, the ate when I started my leave which is 21 or 23 August 1941

MR. HOCHWALD: May I respectfully request the Tribunal to ask the witness if the witness will not give it to me -- to surrender these documents.

THE PRESIDENT: The notes she is using?

MR. HOCHWALD No, not the notes she is using. The documents which prove the date of Dr. Six's return to -

THE PRESIDENT: Do you have that document with you, witness? house I spent my leave confirms this leave to me. I also have a calenda of 1941 where I find my recollection confirmed that the last week of August when I took my leave had the dates of the 23rd which was a Saturday and a Monday is the 25th of August, until the 1st of September.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the witness has referred to to those documents and I do think it's perfect right of the prosecution to see these documents.

THE PRESIDENT: I think that you might let him look at those documents.

MR. HOCHWALD: May I have them. I look first at the telegram. Is it true that the telegram says only the last week in August, so that that could have been also a week which started on the 30th of August? can be seen on the calendar. Of course I started my leave already on the previous Saturday -- the previous week-end. That was 23 August. BY MR. HOCHWALD:

Q I have before me your calender. I do not see anything on the calender which would refresh my memory if I would be the owner of the calender. Not a word witness, is that correct?

A Yes, I do not own this calender. In 1945 I fled from Berlin and have no papers of my own. O borrowed this calender before I started to leave for Nuernberg. received this telegram, had no document showing that Six returned on 20 August 1942 to Berlin?

A No, I have no documents to prove this. I merely said that this date, of the return of Professor Six, coincided with the date I started my leave and that I only have been able to get some documents to prove when I started my leave. It was impossible; after an escape for weeks and after being interned in Czechoslovakia for three Months, to take any documents or papers along with me.

Q You were a member of the Party, were you not? the BDM, the German Girl's Youth Organization. When I was twenty, an age when one does not remain in this Youth Organization any longer, I was transferred into the Party proper.

Q But you were a member of the Party, were you not?

Q Until 1945?

Q You were, when Germany collapsed, in Czechoslovakia? There was no choice, then, to escape then to the Sudeten area. There the American troops advanced and the Czechoslovakian partisan troops took over the civilian administration.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, how long did you know Professor Six? BY THE PRESIDENT: occured?

A What incidents?

Q When did he leave for Russia?

A I do not know the exact date. I only knew that on 1 June 1940 he was drafted. For a few weeks he remained near Berlin. For some time he was sent to Holland for training and was in Russia for rather a brief period.

Q Well, you met him in January 1940. Then in June 1940 he was drafted.

Q When did you next see him after June 1940? because he came to the Institute repeatedly. I can not recall any particular date. During his time of training in the Netherlands he spent short leaves in the Institute as well.

Q Then when did he leave for a protracted period?

A He never did. We never knew when we should see him again. But he kept coming back as a surprise every now and then and never very long periods elapsed in between.

Q Then when did he leave for Russia?

A I can not give an exact date; but since the Russian campaign only started at the end of June, it is obvious that at the earliest it could have been at the end of June and up to August there were only two months. began? know it, but eventually I did hear that he was sent to Russia in order to look through archives. I don't think that he advanced immediately with the armed forces.

Q When did you first learn that he was in Russia?

Q Did he communicate with you from Russia by letter?

A No, I was a student and assistant. Professor Six had no reason to write to me. that he was in Russia and when he returned from Russia. in Russia was only very brief. Institute? tely from his journey. I know he was only passing through and tried to talk to him to that occasion. Officially he could only be seen later on, but since I intended to start my leave the following week I insisted on seeing him before, in order not to have to interrupt my leave.

Q Was he still in uniform?

A Yes, while passing he was in uniform. After my leave, which was only one week later, when he took over office again, he was in civilian clothes again, but since he had just come back from his journey he was still wearing a uniform. his return from Russia? passing. He did not stay in Berlin but he was greatly interested in his department at the University and since it was close to the station, he always looked in when he passed through Berlin.

Q That isn't what I asked you, witness. I said that you saw him and then one week later you left on your vacation. Did I understand you correctly?

A I started my leave on 25 August -- that was a Monday. That is, I left, of course, already the previous Saturday, 23 August. Two days before, approximately, I talked to Professor Six when he was in transit. A week later I had finished my leave. I returned to the Institute and then, of course, I talked to him again. your leave?

A On 22 or 23 August. It was a Thursday or a Friday. On Saturday I left. him August 21 or August 22. week before I started on my leave. left the Institute?

"before I saw him. That must have been the Friday or Thursday therefore.

Q Now, did he come in just for a very short period? next he would take over his department again. He said that the following week he would go back to the Institute and would discuss our work with us. I told him then that I would like to talk to him immediately because I was going to take my leave the following week. In the afternoon he therefore returned to the Institute between two or four o'clock, I talked to him for some time then. But it was in the afternoon of the same day. during this period, you did not, of your own independent recollection, fix the date, did you? down again. But this note originates from my affidavit which I gave according to my memory.

Q We don't understand each other, witness. When you were first asked to recall, -- whether it was by Dr. Ulmer or anybody else -when you were first asked to recall the date on which you saw Professor Six in 1941, after his return from Russia, you did not, of your own free will, recollect precisely the dry, did you?

A Of course I remembered the exact date. I just made made error just now by saying I talked to him on the 22 or 23. That is a mistake, of course, because I left the house on the 23rd. Therefore it must have been the 21st and 22nd -- that Thursday and Friday. it was 21 or 22 August that you saw Six, when you ware asked to recollect that date just recently. that I left the house on the 23rd, I could immediately conclude that it must have been the 21st or 22nd.

Q You still don't grasp what I am asking you, witness. That all happened in 1941, didn't it? I don't know when you ware asked by someone to recall when it was that you saw Six in 1941 -- you were asked to recollect something which happened six years previously. That is right isn't it? for the first time or else I might have had to think about it a little longer. But when in November, when I happened to visit Professor Pfeffer and he told me, among other things, that Professor Six was not being believed concerning this date which was being debated, I remembered my leave on that occasion and I remembered immediately that it was the last week of August and that the following week started with the first of September. Therefore it was not difficult to draw the conclusion according to dates.

Q Then what did you do to confirm your recollection? on leave as what date I must have seen him, if I saw him two or three days previously; that was a very simple deduction. you had no document to support your memory, that you left on August 25 on your vacation? How could you recall, after six years lapse, that it was on that Monday? How could you confirm that it was that Monday? It could have been another Monday -- it could have been the following Monday or the preceding Monday. We'd like to know how you anchored your recollection to the precise date.

A The fact that I took leave in August is obvious. It is the month when one takes holidays. Also during that year there was still the order of the terms. The term had taken very long since it was the second one of the year. Therefore our leave started very late in August because we could not leave with the other students at the beginning of the holidays between the terns.

This was at the beginning of August. I had to remain another two weeks at least. I remember that. The summer holiday means a great deal to a student and it wasn't so easy for us that we had to wait some time yet. from the person at whose home you spent this vacation?

A Yes. Frau Alander and daughter Ursula, during the last week of August 1941, spent their holidays in my house in Berlin. Erich Schwanz.

Q Did you take your vacation right in Berlin?

A Yes, in the center of the city I had a small student's room. My mother came to Berlin and had stayed with these acquaintances for some weeks already. When I also got my leave I also moved in there.

Q Well then, you weten't very far from the Institute during the time of your vacation.

A No, of course not. But if one has such a short leave one does not want to have it interrupted and wants to dispose of one's own time.

Q Well, it wouldn't have been a very difficult thing for you to go over to the Institute even while you were on leave to speak to Professor Six, would it?

A Of course it would not have been difficult, but one can't just go over like that because the Institute was at the University and one had to go to the city and this took at least half a day, and if one only has a few days of leave one does not like to sacrifice half a day. the last week in August.

Q It doesn't specify any date, does it -- any date of the month? prosecution -from the 25th of August until the 1st of September.

house any time between the 25th and the 30th. difference to me whether I am there at the beginning of the week or already for the week-end. My mother had been there for some weeks and was waiting for me to take a few days leave as well.

Q And when did you return to the Institute?

Q How long was your vacation?

Q You were only allowed one week vacation?

AAt that time, yes. Already at Easter I had had two weeks leave and in the winter I intended to study in Copenhagen. For this reason I had to leave for some time and, of course, could not ask that in August I should also be given a long leave.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, any other question, Mr. Hochwald. Mr. Hochwald, do you want to proceed. I think Mr. Hochwald should proceed, and Dr. Ulmer may finish up.

MR. HOCHWALD: Yes, Your Honor. BY MR. HOCHWALD:

Q You moved from Berlin to Copenhagen, did you?

A No. In November I left for Copenhagen for two semesters. I was able to study there due to the academized exchange system; all European and non-European countries could take part in this.

Q Which day was that?

Q How do you know that? know the dates precisely. Tell the Tribunal how do you so precisely recollect this date? and pleasure for Copenhagen.

Q Can you tell the Tribunal what day of the week it was?

A I can not say that; it was a week day, as to which one I don't know any more. correct?

A Yes, it was a matter of course. There was no choice for me.

Q On what day was that?

Q The date, please?

A It was in my opinion the 2nd of April. I don't think that I make a very great mistake here; there might be a slight error.

Q And do you remember the dates so very well? special meaning for me.

Q Can you tell me how long you stayed in Copenhagen?

A I returned at the beginning of August 1942 to Germany. I do not know on what date I crossed the border, but I do know the exact date since you want check up on my memory, that on 12th of August I started to work again in the Institute.

MR. HOCHWALD: I have no further questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Any other questions?

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, we have in the meantime obtained yesterday's transcript, and I only want to point out that I think that I was correct. The transcript shows that Dr. Riediger expressly, as already said concerning the submission -

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, are you through with this witness now?

MR. HOCHWALD: I am sorry.

THE PRESIDENT: You are finishing up?

MR. HOCHWALD: I had the feeling that the Tribunal had excused the witness, I beg your pardon.

THE PRESIDENT: You are now excused and you may leave, witness.

(witness excused)

MR. HOCHWALD: May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: When you get tangled up with justice, it is always hard to get away.

MR. HOCHWALD: May I proceed, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. HOCHWALD: Dr. Fiediger is now here and will certainly confirm that he yesterday told the Tribunal that he had no objection against the Prosecution's Exhibit No. 207.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, it has been clarified according to the content of this document that the said Erwin Weinmann, which is the name here, is called the Mayor of the City of Tuebbingen; the Prosecution just referred to the Mayor Weinmann. Now, as it was Erwin Weinmann was not mayor but his brother was, so that, therefore, it is particularly doubtful, that this information which was given here refers to the mayor, that is, the brother - -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, counsel, do you or do you not object to this document.

DR. RIEDIGER: Until it has been found out which Weinmann is concerned here, I have to object to the probative value of this document, and say that this document can not be considered evidence until it has been clarified which one of the Weinmanns is concerned.

THE PRESIDENT: Let's hear from Mr. Hochwald.

MR. HOCHWALD: If I understand the objection of Dr. Riediger correctly, he didn't give any reason for the admissibility of the document as such. If Dr. Riediger argues that the Weinmann mentioned in this document is not the then Obersturmbannfuehrer, or whatever his rank was, who went with the defendant Haensch to the East, it is for him to prove that, but the document being a captured document, being part of the SS personnel record, of the said Erwin Weinmann, it is certainly admissible in evidence. Moreover, if I repeat, I do hope that Dr. Riediger will be in accord with me, as he said before this Tribunal that he has no objection concerning the submission of this document. I think that it is certainly clear that it is impossible the fact that the document has been accepted in evidence over the declaration of counsel, that he does not object against the document, and that he afterwards - -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, does the record show he said that?

MR. HOCHWALD: Yes, I have it before me, and I do hope that Dr. Riediger will .....

THE PRESIDENT: We will say this, Mr. Hochwald: even if Dr. Riediger said five hundred times yesterday that he had no objection to the document, but today can advance a valid argument as to why it should not be admitted, then it will not be admitted, so that we are not concerned with what he said yesterday but as to what the legal position is today. Now, Dr. Riediger, you have heard Mr. Hochwald point out that this is a captured document which comes into Court before the Tribunal with all the safeguarding and care which goes with documents.

Now the burden is upon you to show that it is not an authentic document, and until you can in some way attach the authenticity of the document, naturally, it would be accepted as a genuine document. If you want to prove that it was not the mayor, then you will have to adduce some facts to that effect.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, I would like to reserve the right here to bring other evidence in. I hope that by sending a wire to the Mayor of Tuebbingen, or other inquiry, the matter might be clarified, but in view of the fact that the date is now again emphasized, I would like to ask that the witness Maennle, who was mentioned here yesterday, who is supposed to have treated Haensch in January and February 1942, should be called here and to be examined here. It is the witness who lives in Berlin-Zehlendorf. I have not yet withdrawn h ere the application which was in the Defense Center. Everything has been done to ask him to come here, but as I have said yesterday, this should take about ten days. I believe that the oral examination in Court of the witness here, in particular when he can be cross examined here, should be far more important than the investigation by any commission in Berlin. It is not the fault of the defense if this question was only raised yesterday; an application had been made for the witness for sometime, but the defense only heard about the witness during the last few weeks, so that the defense was not able to apply for the witness to come here.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, that matter will be disposed of this morning, and if you will come to my chambers at noontime, we will let you know what steps have been taken with regard to this witness, whether he can actually be brought here, or whether it will be necessary for someone to question him in Berlin, and then we will submit the results here in open court.

DR. RIEDIGER: Thank you, Your Honor .

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

DR. LINCK: Your Honor, I think it will be understood by the Court if I am anxious to go ahead and introduce my documents.

THE PRESIDENT: I would like to know, first, Dr. Linck, if you are permanently free, or only temporarily on parol?

DR. LINCK: No, permanently free, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: I want to congratulate you in having escaped.

DR. LINCK: If it pleases the Tribunal, before I present my documents now, I would like to thank Mr. Walton for bringing me in the other day. I should also like Mr. Walton to be informed now so I will be able to be present.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, indeed, we will take up your documents, just as soon as Mr. Walton arrives. In the meantime let's analyze our present situation so that we will know just what more there is to be presented. Dr. Aschenauer, you were not here yesterday when we discussed the schedule. We stated that you should have your summation ready for presentation to the translation section one week from today so that you would be ready to present orally your summation on Monday, February 2nd.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Of course, it will be possible.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, the manuscript, of course, would need to be ready one week from today, which would be January 29th or at the very latest the morning of January 30th.

DR. ASCHENAUER: That also will be possible.

THE PRESIDENT: I didn't catch the answer?

THE INTERPRETER: He said he would be ready to submit it on 30 January.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Fine. Now who are ready today to present documents? Dr. Linck, of course. Who else?

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, I can submit two documents, but one is the result of the rebuttal. I can do that immediately. Of the questionnaire of Dr. Diels' cross examination, I shall still get in translation by today, and I shall hand this in today. May I proceed?

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I would like to state that I can start immediately.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, you may after I make this announcement. Now we have to talk about Dr. Aschenauer's presentation. Of course, it follows that other counsel must have their summations ready also, and we will take up the summations in the order in which these defendants sit in the box, so that following Ohlendorf's presentation, there will be Jost, Naumann, Schulz and so on, and each attorney should have his summation ready at least three of four days prior to the day on which he is going to deliver it, so that there will be time for the translation. You may now present your own document you have ready.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, as Mr. Walton is handling the case of Ohlendorf, and Mr. Walton is coming down within a minute or two, possibly the Tribunal might have its recess now.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we will take up odds and ends until that time.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, I was supposed to remind the Tribunal of the following: I shall present our Document Book IV for the defendant Six, which was sent to the mimeographing department today, or would have been sent there, it will take a few days before it is concluded; Your Honor was going to instruct as to the written presentation of this document book which was to be made; I ask, because of the exhibit numbers, Your Honor. Your Honor permitted us that the document may be submitted in writing, before the final summations are started; I would be very grateful if Your Honor would here give me purely technical explanation how we should handle it, concerning the exhibit numb er, whether we should submit to you the document in writing, say, we present the document No. 70, and another exhibit number such and such, and then continuously submit it in writing, as it is submitted here orally.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ulmer, we can dispose of the remaining business in this way; today we will hear all the presentations which are ready; one day next week, which has not as yet been established we will sit, and this will have nothing to do with the recess, that is to say, the weeks period of recess will still run. We will sit one day to take up everything which may be remaining in the way of documents to be presented, or motions to be made, or perhaps even a straggling witness to be heard. We will decide this afternoon what day that will be. It will probably be the latter part of the week. Everything will need to be presented that day, in the way of documents and witnesses. At the termination of that days' subiness, all testimony in this case will be with the Tribunal, and nothing can be received after that in the way of testimony. With regard to trial briefs, they will be accepted up to and including the last day of the oral presentation of summations, closing statements, not after that day. Is that clear? Very well, then, this afternoon, we will make the announcement as to the date we will sit. Yes, Dr. Ulmer.

DR. ULMER: Just one most question, Your Honor, will we then get a support of the Tribunal that on that supposed term fixed for next week, the translation and mimeographing department would be told to get everything ready for this case.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, the translation section and mimeographing section will be so informed.

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, according to the experiences we have had here as a defense counsel, from previous trials, may I point out the following, which comes up as to our initiative in presenting our case. Sofar as I know the Prosecution is only just preparing its final concluding brief. If we want to reply to it now, I don't think that we shall be able to get ready our anti-closing briefs by the time the final summation is completed, and I don't think that we will get the translation ready in time. In the Doctors' trial before Tribunal No. I, the Tribunal No. I decided that our anti-closing briefs be after the final summation. May I ask the Tribunal that because of these technical difficulties, which I know from my experience as defense counsel here, that you will also consider that matter.

THE PRESIDENT: We are naturally always ready to hear anything which has to do with the disposition of the issues in this case, but necessarily we must specify a deadline, because if we say we will receive evidence or briefs even after that date, then, knowing lawyers as I do, you will bank upon that and then not attempt to get your briefs ready by that deadline. That is the reason we have indicated that all briefs should be with the Tribunal no later than the last date of the summations, because, naturally, the Tribunal will need time to study all these briefs in the preparation of the eventual judgment, but, of course, no one will be excluded, no one will be denied the privilege and opportunity and right to present anything any time up until the very last moment the decision is rendered, which is vital and important to the case, but , we must specify a certain date and hope that the mechanical difficulties will not prevent your submit ting your evidence or arguments by that date.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I intend to join the defense on this motion. The deadline now passed by the Tribunal for the submission of briefs, is, of course, a correct one. Nevertheless, the Prosecution is extremely pressed in its time, we have to prepare altogether twenty-three briefs, it will be extremely hard for us to present these briefs before the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: We can not expect to know that no attorney has done any work up until today, and then we are suddenly confronted with this mountain of work. You cannot tell us now you are immediately to start on the twenty-three briefs. I presume you have been working on these briefs before now.

MR. HOCHWALD: We certainly did, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Because if you have not been working, you certainly ought to notify those who pay you that you have not been working.

MR. HOCHWALD: We have already finished some of these briefs but the Tribunal knows that a lot of evidence was presented just during the last days; we have to amend our briefs to that effect, we have to make some stand as to the defense of the defendant, also as to their documents. It is just that we ask the Tribunals pardon and ask respectfully a little bit to enlarge the time given us for submitting the briefs.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, we have a calendar here, and I trust everyone will take note of these dates. When the Tribunal recess this afternoon, it will recess until February 2nd, allowing for one day, which will be established this afternoon, to receive whatever remaining documents still must be presented; summations will be heard during the week of February 2nd, that is, from February 2nd up until and including Saturday, February 7th. Two weeks will be taken by the Tribunal in preparing the Judgment, which will be delivered on February 24th , the week of February 24th, because February 23rd is a holiday.

Now, that is the schedule, so you see that the longer the briefs are delayed, the less time the Tribunal will have to weigh them thoroughly, as they should be weighed, so it is to the interest of every attorney to get his briefs in as quickly as he can.

MR. HOCHWALD: We certainly shall endeavor to put our briefs in as quickly as we can.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Mr. Walton, you will be ready to proceed immediately after the recess. You are not to proceed, but you will be here when Dr. Linck presents the documents.

MR. WALTON: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Now we can assure Dr. Linck that we will positively hear him immediately after recess. It is one week now we have had him going back and forth. The Tribunal will be in recess fifteen minutes.

(Recess) (The hearing reconvened at 1130 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. DIETMANN: Dietmann for Jost. Your Honor, may I ask that the defendant Jost be excused from the sessions this afternoon in order to prepare the final plea and to give instructions that he be sent to Room 57 at 2 o'clock.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Jost will be excused from attendance in Court this afternoon. At 2 o'clock he will be taken to Room 57 where he may confer with his counsel.

DR. DIETMANN: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I submit Document Number 64 as Exhibit Number 65. It is submitted as proof that Ohlendorf was not sent to Russia as a full-time member of the SD, and that through the order to report there, no change happened in his honorary membership in the SD. I quote very briefly , "During his assignment in the East Ohlendorf was subject to the regulations as everybody else in the army was subject to them or anyone else employed in the war service or in the Reich Group Trade, that is to say, he received his salary minus the certain amounts which were deducted for his family. Furthermore, he also received that from the Reich Group Trade." In their Document Book VD the prosecution submitted Document Number 5821. I have asked a few questions to the prosecution witness, Dr. Rudolph Diels, in the form of cross examination and have put them into the form of an affidavit. I shall submit the translation later on. I have agreed with Mr. Walton that any objection he might have would be raised by him after the translation has been submitted.

MR. WALTON: If Your Honors please, Dr. Aschenauer is essentially correct, but I would like the record to show that that agreement was made subject to approval by the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Approval is granted.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I shall hand in the translation to the Tribunal, too, I may briefly quote from this affidavit. May affidavit in Volume VD is handed to me by defense counsel for Ohlendorf, Document Number 5821 which I have made out in the year 1946. I have the following to say about that, My affidavit does not refer to the problem of the resistance against the Fuehrer Order. If during my time in office as a senior government counsellor in the Prussian Gestapo Office, it had been possible to me to save Communists from execution, this was possible because at that time I always was able to have personal access to Hitler or Goering. Because of my anti-revolutionary practices I could no longer be kept by Heydrich and Himmler. I became a victim to the power-grab of Heydrich and Himmler, with the reason that I had sabotaged the German revolution. In the case of Gauleiter Lauterbacher, it isn't a matter of military orders, but these are directives by the civilian superior. As a result of the difficulties with Gauleiter Lauterbacher, I had to leave my job as a senior Government Counsellor. This corresponded to my desire because I could now be active in industry without bothering with politics. In the case of the Count Faber-Castell, whom I know from hearsay, it was not a military disobedience to the Fuehrer Order, but a refusal to carry out the directives of the immediate superior. If I am told that in Ohlendorf's transfer as an Einsatzgroup chief in the East it was practically a transfer as punishment, then I must say that a strict refusal to obey an order on the part of Ohlendorf would have had severe or even the severest consequences for Ohlendorf."

MR. WALTON: Referring to the affidavit which has just been read, if Dr. Aschenauer will state to the Court that the affidavit is in the proper form and that he has read into the record as pertinent parts or the gist of that affidavit, I can answer the affidavit now and it will not be necessary to dispose of this matter at a later time, since the Court kindly reserved time for objection to me at some future date. If he will assure us that this affidavit is in the proper form and that he has read the pertinent parts and the full gist into the record, I can answer.

DR. ASCHENAUER: The affidavit was taken by me personally and is properly made out, and what I read out are quotes from the affidavit.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. That is adequate.

MR. WALTON: Unless then,sir, there is something new or startling in which he has not read, then I offer no objection to this document. Now, of course, if when I get it there is something which was not read, then I would ask to be heard on it.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR. WALTON: The Prosecution does, however, object to the Ohlendorf Document Number 65, which is Prosecution's Exhibit 64 on the grounds

JUDGE SPEICHT: That is the other way a round.

MR. WALTON: Ohlendorf Document 65, which is Defense Document 64 on the grounds that this document is immaterial in that what position he occupied in the SD when he was de facto an SD member with full power in the East does not - is not material to the issues in the case, and for that reason the Prosecution objects.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. We don't need to reply to that, we are going to make our rule after all the documents are submitted. Dr. Linck, would you please now present your documents?

DR. LINCK: Linck for Ruehl. Your Honor, I have two document books to submit. Both of them have been translated and are available here. I ask the Tribunal to take up Book II first.

THE PRESIDENT: For the moment we only appear to have Book I before us. Do you have II, Judge Speight? Yes, well, you may proceed.

DR. LINCK: The defendant, Ruehl, belonged to Einsatzkommando 10-B in Einsatzgroup D, as is well-known. First of all, I would like to describe the time of his membership to this commando by two affidavits which are in Document Book II. The affiants of these affidavits studied with the defendant at the University of Berlin, were torn away from their studies with him, and were ordered to report to Pretsch and together with Ruehl they resumed their studies on the first of October '41, which had been interrupted by the military assignment.

For this I offer and submit Ruehl Document Number 23, affidavit of August Haeffner, of the 17th of December 1947, as Exhibit Number 1. of Johannes Feder, as Exhibit Number 2. the defendant as a member of the Commando 10-B. The first is the affidavit of Erwin Hansen of the 1st of November 1947, Ruehl Document Number 1. This is in Book I. It is the first document in Book I. I offer it as Exhibit Number 3. The affiant had a central position on the Commando 10-B. He was the staff sergeant, as one says, in military language, "the top-kick." He belonged to the commando from its activation until Ruehlls time and beyond that.

the agrrison, Czernowitz. He, Hansen, was with the last column which was commanded by Ruehl, and which arrived in Czernowitz several days after the advance command and the main echelon. Towards the end of the document the witness outlines the tasks of the defendant, Ruehl in the commando as those of an administrative officer, thus, for example, obtaining shelter and housing and supply for the unit, making up the guard roster, caring for commando members, etc. He continues, and I quote a few lines here, it is on page 3, "As far as his assignment went, he had no power of command. To my knowledge, down to the Crimea, Persterer, who was the commando leader, did not have a deputy. Ruehl did not command a subcommando either." I am skipping a sentence now, and I am quoting again, "Ruehl did not have anything to do with the writing of reports. Reports were written or made verbally by the man who was in charge of the platoon or the subcommando, reporting to the chief personally. Apart from this, the leaders of subcommandos were also under the direct command of the commanding officer. Persterer forwarded the reports directly to the higher agency or he compiled summarized report on his own and dictated it to a clerk in his room, During this, neither Ruehl nor anyone else was present. Furthermore, I know that no carbon copies were made nor were any files kept. Persterer had a strong aversion to office organization of any kind. The unit did not have any office whatsoever. The few important papers, as far as they existed at all, were kept by Persterer personally." offered as Exhibit Number 4. This is an affidavit by Karl Kaufmann, of the 1st of November 1947, who likewise belonged to Commando 10B, and who confirms the essential statements of the above-mentioned document, He states especially clearly that in Czernowitz a small advance commando arrived, first of all, and the main echelon of the commando were the commanding officer, and the platoon of the witness followed, and then more small columns followed after each other within a period of 2 to 4 days. The defendant, Ruehl, arrived with the last column, and for this the affiant has a special support for his memory.

At the end of the affidavit the affiant talks about the job of Ruehl in the commando. May I call the attention of the Tribunal to the third last paragraph, and may I quote briefly, "The then ober jturmfuehrer and Criminal Inspector Ruehl, I well remember him. Ruehl was under the command of Persterer for the command of the administrative matters. He had no type of power of command, but he was merely used for administrative matters of all kinds, such as motor repair, billets, supply, and assignment of tasks. As long as Ruehl was with Commando 10 B, Persterer had no deputy. Ruehl did not command a subcommando. Number 5. The commando member, Max Werner, testifies in his affidavit that it was his special task to supply gasoline, spare parts, etc. He confirms that even this task which was actually a matter of administratives to t ake care of was not handled by Ruehl, but that the mission was always assigned by the commando chief personally. He remembers Ruehl who never appeared as the deputy of the commando chief and who did not lead any subcommando.

Ruehl Document Number 4 is offered as Exhibit Number 6. It is the affidavit of Wilhelm Nispel, who is a member of Commando 10 B, advanced or rather arrived in Czernowitz with the last group of this unit, that is, together with Ruehl, at least 4 to 5 days after the main echelon of the commando. About the jobs of the defendant in the commando, this affiant says that Ruehl made out the guard rosters, that he also had to see that the equipment was supplied and, for example, in Czernowitz, he had to set up a shoo repair shop. At the end of the document the witness emphasizes, "I never saw Ruehl as the deputy of the commando chief, and from my comrades I never heard at any time that Ruehl had had such a function. There were also at least one Haupsturmfuehrer and several Sturmfuehrers belonged to the commando. the service of the defendant as a police official before his activity in Commando 10 B. The Tribunal will recall from the defendants' examination on the witness stand that this activity was carried out in the counter intelligence department.

I offer Ruehl Document Number 7 as Exhibit Number 7. The document is on page 19. It is the affidavit of Josef Losse, Losse was export for personnel matters in the main office, security police. Ruehl was known to him first through his papers and later personally. He confirms that Ruehl was a specialist in counter-intelligence matters. ments which concern themselves with the missions of the counter-intelligence corps as part of the police service. Thess two documents are in my Document Book II, and they are listed as Documents 25 and 26. Those are two affidavits which were offered to the IMT and which were admitted by it. One comes from the witness, Schmitz under whom Ruehl served for several years in the counter-intelligence department. I shall come back to this personal contact on the day which will be determined next week, and I shall submit a special affidavit on that subject. I offer these two document Numbers 25 and 26 as Exhibits Number S and 9. As for as the other documents are concerned, these are character testimonials. I want to show the humane conduct of the defendant as well as the manner in which the defendant curried out his service as a police official. I want to show especially with these documents that the conduct of Ruehl towards politically and racially persecuted people was in strong contrast to that attitude which the prosecution has charged the members of an Einsatzkommando. I submit Ruehl Document Number 5 as Exhibit Number 10, on page 14. Your Honors, this is the affidavit of Hermann Bobbe of Luckenwalde. the affiant belongs to the social democratic party since 1912 and since 1929 he has been a leader of the Marxist organization of the Reichsbanner in Luckenwalde, which is the home town of the defendant. Bobbe has known the defendant since he was 20 years old. He emphasizes that despite contrary political attitude he always discussed matters with him objectively, that Ruehl was not one-sided and was not an agitator, and that publicly he had always conducted himself beyond reproach. He confirms furthermore that Ruehl, when the affiant was politically persecuted in 1933, had supported him considerably and especially saved him from being confined to the Oranienburg concentration camp.

The summary of the judgment in the last sentence of the affidavit shows that Ruehl, to be sure, was his political opponent, but that as such he had to respect him as well as he had to respect him as a man.

DR. LINCK (continued) I further offer Ruehl Document #6 as Exhibit #11. This is the affidavit of Justice Secretary Kurt Hoeche also from Luckenwalde. Under this affiant the defendant had allegedly been active as an employee in the District Court in Luckenwalde without exercising any function or pressure as member of the Nazi Party or the SA or without spying on his colleagues or denouncing them. The witness emphasizes that his wife is Jewish and that the entire family, therefore, had to suffer from chicanery of military authorities. That he did, therefore, not support any National socialists who are war criminals or guilty of any type of offense. As far as the last two documents are concerned I may point out that I consider them very strong evidence because it was possible for me to obtain them from the Russian Zone and because it is less customary for them that Anti-Fascist should exonerate a former Nazi. The other documents concern themselves merely with the time in which the defendant was temporarily director of the State police in Augsburg after he had completed his training and after he had obtained his first somewhat independent position and therefore was able to act with some independence. These affidavits were made out particularly by collaborators of the defendant, partly from affiants with whom he worked together and especially by the racially and political persecuted people whom the defendant helped.

I offer Ruehl Document #8 on page 21 of the book. This is Exhibit 12. It is the affidavit of Josef Brandl of 10 September 1947. Brandl was Police Inspector and had the closest contact with the defendant as director of the executive service. According to this, the defendant never bothered about personal opinions of others and never tried to influence him in Party political sense. Brandl testifies to the tolerant attitude of the defendant, especially in connection with an action which called for the allocation of labor of half Jews and those related to Jews which had been ordered by the entire Reich from Berlin. Contrary to directives and orders from Berlin, Ruehl on his own responsibility excused a number of people from this and thus saved them COURT II CASE IX from labor assignment and its consequence.

The example of a Dr. Fetzer is mentioned especially who had to be assigned immediately, but Ruehl always managed to postpone or suspend his assignment so that Ruehl had considerable unpleasantness since a brother of Dr. Fetzer was assigned for labor by another Gestapo agency. This agency demanded an explanation why Ruehl had not taken the same measures. Hanns Grahammer. He characterizes the defendant in a similar manner as Brandl did. The affiant was an expert for the just mentioned action. The operation, namely this labor assignment of Jews, half Jews and those related to Jews. It was Ruehl's intention to mitigate harshness of this operation and by urgent requests to Berlin he succeeded from the beginning in having all doctors subject to this decree excused from this or, at least, for the time being excused from it. In many other individual cases which Grahammer lists, Ruehl on his own responsibility always exempted those people so that those effected were always saved. These were people from all circles of the population. The regulations that only people who were unfit to work were to be exempted were not observed. The women related to Jews would have had to be used for labor at the place where they lived but this measure was not carried out. Grahammer emphasized the extraordinary risks which Ruehl took with this attitude and he only ascribes it to his clever delaying tactics that he did not suffer any serious consequences. Document 11 as Exhibit 14. It is the affidavit of the former Police President of Augsburg, Wilhelm Stark. Stark got to know Ruehl as an official on whose support one could count when it was a matter of helping endangered people. Stark mentions the example of half Jewish lawyer Kitzinger whom Ruehl had repeatedly exempted from the draft and left him on his job so that Kitzinger was spared until the end of the War. Stark also mentions the case of an officer under his supervision who because of seditious remarks was prosecuted. These utterances had COURT II CASE IX to do with the War which he considered as lost.

Ruehl managed to suspend the proceedings so that no harm came to the person concerned even though he had to count on the fact that the matter might become known.

The next document Ruehl document 12 is offered as Exhibit 15. It was made out by the former Mayor of Augsburg who worked together with Ruehl, as the witness said, in the most loyal manner. Ruehl told that affiant that he would rather have contact with him than with the party because in all cases he wanted to form an objective judgment. This affiant, too, lists a number of individual examples showing how Ruehl conducted himself to Jews who were effected by the action named above to the Reich Security Main Office. He mentioned the Augsburg doctors who were secretly notified so that they could dispose accordingly and be left unharmed. Another example is the case of a Jewish composer professor Plechler who, if I may add this here, had just given the premiere of a new opera according to press reports recently. Piechler had fled and was hiding. On the basis of Ruehl's promises to notify the affiant immediately in case Piechler would be threatened by a new danger, the composer was able to return. This affiant, too, says that Ruehl was able to get around orders of the RSHA on his own risk.

I furthermore offer Ruehl Document 13 as Ruehl Exhibit 16. The former Gauleiter Karl Wahl summarizes the attitude of the defendant Roehl as far as the efforts are concerned which have been mentioned before, and I quote one sentence: "He went to the extreme and although I protected him in individual cases, he always exposed himself to danger of being rebuked by Himmler since Himmler was very strict in those matters as was well known." a collaborator of the above mentioned Gauleiter Karl Wahl, a man by the name of Fritz Thierbach, It concerns itself with the question of a certain Otto Zauner who had received a forcible consignment order to report at a camp. Ruehl had this order revoked and thus was consistent in his tolerant and helpful attitude as the affiant observes.

DR. LINCK(continued) : Ruehl Document 15 is the affidavit of Kurt Muehlen and is submitted as Exhibit 18. The affiant is a confidence man of the CIC in Augsburg. In his former capacity as a plant guard he had considerable official contact with Ruehl. He summarizes his judgment saying that Ruehl did not have the inclination to participate in an extermination program. He bases his opinion, above other things, on the question, of a half Jew named Spieler, who had been drafted into a work camp of the OT. In order to escape this, he was called to Berlin by Ruehl under the pretext that missing family papers had to be obtained. As had been discussed with Ruehl previously, he did not return from there and thus he escaped further persecution.

The next document No. 16 is offered as Exhibit 19 and is the affidavit of Heinrich Riehm. It is reported how Ruehl disclosed to this affiant that the order of the RSHA also effected the leading directors of MAN (machine factory in Augsburg) - Nuernberg. Ruehl willingly listened to what the affiant had to say, reported to Berlin accordingly in order to gain time for those people effected and when Berlin was stubborn as expected, about it he postponed the draft on his own responsibility so that finally these racial victims were saved beyond the time of the collapse. from among the effected, the victims themselves and I submit Ruehl Document 17 as Ruehl Exhibit 20. Dr. Hans Fetzer as also-called non-Aryan, mixed off-spring, was on the list of those who were to be consigned to a camp. To his surprise, he did not receive the expected order and he heard that he had to thank the defendant Ruehl for that. In personal contact with the defendant Ruehl the affiant gained the impression that here the defendant acted in human sympathy and that despite the general order of the RSHA, Ruehl knew how to postpone his transport in such a way that the affiant remained free until the occupation troops arrived. ment 19 as Exhibit 21. The affiant had a Jewish employee, Bertold Auerbach, who was to be transported, too.

After all efforts of the affiant had proved in vain, he turned directly to the defendant Ruehl, found complete human understanding and succeeded in having Ruehl revoke this order.

The next document 20 is offered as Exhibit 22. In this the affiant, Harms Ritter, confirms, and he is active here as Landgerichtsdirektor, that Ruehl supported him and his Jewish wife even though the latter were expressly declared to be fit for work by the District Medical Officer and even though general orders of the Reich Security Main Office were present, Ruehl furnished a dentist's certificate and on this weak basis he managed to postpone the transport of this couple on his own responsibility. Ritter especially emphasizes that he and his wife were complete strangers to the defendant and that the help which he offered was not given from a personal view point. Kitzinger mentioned above, a half Jew of the first degree, mentioned how Ruehl tried to protect him from being sent to a work camp which was very similar to a concentration camp even though the application to Berlin was refused as could be expected. The matter was postponed in such a way that Kitzinger was spared. a Police persecutee by the name of Karl Wernthaler who already was in prison in 1933 and after that was in concentration camp Dachau and after his release from Dachau he was under police supervision until the end of the War. Today he is president of the Social Democratic Municipal Council fraction in Augsburg. He confirms that during the time Ruehl was competent for him, he suffered no persecution. and I offer document 18 as Exhibit 25. It was made out by the wife of a painter named Strupp who had been persecuted for political reasons by the Third Reich after he had spent a lengthy time in a concentration camp in 1933 already.

Strupp was again arrested in April 1944 because of suspicion of espionage and undermining remarks and had been handed over to the courts. Frau Strupp was refused any hearing from all the competent court authorities and finally turned to Ruehl with the request to do something to got her husband released. Ruehl asked for the court records and finally made it possible for the witness to apply to the Justice authorities in Munich and he also personally helped her and her husband. The proper political agencies were indignant about the fact that he disregarded his competence, and the district attorney was just as indignant. The affiant was told that the good offices of the State Police Agencies for her husband were not looked upon with any favor. Ruehl himself was reprimanded. Nevertheless he continued to help the family Strupp. Document Book and I offer it as Exhibit 26. It comes from an employee of the Augsburg office of the defendant. Her name is Marie Luise Henning and it is concerned with the human and professional conduct of the defendant Ruehl as superior. The affiant mentions particularly complaints of various private firms to the effect that Ruehl did not take sufficient action against some people who broke contracts without these complaints having any effect on the defendant at all. The affiant finally reports the judgment which the CIC officer gave here who was in charge with investigating members of the State Police in Augsburg. This said that he was amazed about the leadership of the Augsburg State Police and it was a pity that Ruehl did not have any other profession. reserve the right to submit 1, 2, or 3 further documents next week when the Tribunal reconvenes.

THE PRESIDENT: That right will be reserved.

Mr. Walton.

MR. WALTON: May it please the Tribunal, to those portions of the documents in Document Book I which are character affidavits of the defendant Ruehl, of course, the Prosecution does not object. However, as to his official duties and to his activities in Augsburg after he returned to Russia the Prosecution does enter an objection on the grounds of immateriality. In Document Book II, document 25, being the affidavit of Reinhold Aust, we believe this document to be immaterial In that it gives the activities of Department Ia in Augsburg of the Political Police, the Police Abwehr, and the Gestapo Abwehr. The document then concludes with the lament that old civil servants should not be removed just because the former government has changed which is completely irrelevant and immaterial to the issue. of Dr. Hans Schmitz, being Ruehl Document 26. It is corroborative of the Aust affidavit just mentioned and it contains justification of the Abwehr Police activities and shows cooperation between the Dutch officials and the State Police and it is certainly, we believe, immaterial and irrelevant.

THE PRESIDENT: which counsel will be ready this afternoon to present document books? Any who are here now? Apparently not.

DR. LINCK for Ruehl; As to the objections of the Prosecution, I would like to say only the following. I have submitted the affidavits of Schmitz and Aust to show not what jobs the Gestapo Counter-Expionage had, but the Counter-Expionage in the Police before 1933 and afterwards, namely, the sane tasks, and in order to show that I am not of the opinion of the Prosecution that every member of an Einsatzkommando was born to be such, as the Prosecution claims in the Indictment or makes it seem.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you refute tie thought that Kommando leaders like poets are born and not made?

DR. LINCK: They concern themselves with jobs of Police officials of CIC, the job which my client had and from which he was turned away at the time he served with the Einsatzkommando during his studios at the university.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, be have a list here which would indicate that document books are ready in the cases of Fendler, Jost, Naumann, Radetzky, Sandberger, Schulz, Seibert and Strauch. Now the attornies in those cases ought to be here this afternoon with those books.

MR, WALTON: Your Honor, I don't know about the others but I have only gotten one document book on the defendant Seibert. I haven't been served with Document Book II yet.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, do you have any document books presented by the defense which are ready now for submission in court?

MR. WALTON: I can only answer for those in Einsatzgruppe D, that is what I am attempting to do. I have one on Seibert and I was under the impression it had already been presented by Dr. Gawlik. As to Document Book II, I have not received, Whatever your list says - I don't know.

THE PRESIDENT: This list says they are in translation but since I received the list several days ago I assumed by this time they were ready. Mr. Ferencz, do you have any outstanding defense document books that have not yet been presented in open court that you know of?

MR. FERENCZ: I believe there are sons, your Honor, which I received in German and not the English copies yet.

THE PRESIDENT: Will the Secretary General please immediately after we recess this morning inquire at the Defense Information Center as to what document books are now ready and sec to it that counsel who may present books, will report to the Tribunal when we reconvene.

Dr. Aschenauer, may I ask a question, please of you.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Pardon me - wrong earphone.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, in order that we may develop a schedule beforehand as to the presentation of summation arguments we would like to get an idea of the length of time you believe you will require in order to present your summation. Do you think that the morning of Monday February 2 would be sufficient for you to present your entire summation?

DR. ASCHENAUER: No, I would say that my final plea will take more than 120 pages and that the whole day will be taken up with it.

THE PRESIDENT: Pretty long speech.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Yes, and considerable large problems are treated in it.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Are you going to be here this afternoon, Dr. Aschenauer?

DR. ASCHENAUER: I shall come back here at 1:30.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, during the recess time we will discuss this among ourselves so that we can work out a schedule, so if you will be here at 2o'clock, we can discuss this anew.

The Tribunal will new be in recess until 2 o'clock.

22 Jan 1948_A_MSD_16_1_Mills (Juelich) (The hearing reconvened at 1415 hours)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: There may be a slight modification in the schedule as announced this morning so that we will now again go over the same ground and indicate specifically what we hope to have from the defense counsel. Dr. Aschenauer will deliver his summation on Saturday, January 31. He will have the entire day for the presentation of his final speech. In view of the fact that he intends to cover, on behalf of many of the defendants, certain legal problems, it is only fair that he should be allowed ample opportunity to develop those legal propositions and thus he will have that entire day. He has promised to have his manuscript in the hands of the translator in ample time so that the Tribunal will have the English version before it on the morning of January 31. The other defense counsel will take up their summations beginning with the morning of Monday, February 2. Since we are naturally always confronted with the translation problem, it is obvious that those manuscripts must be presented for translation in ample time before February 2 so that they may be translated in time. Defense counsel, therefore, are advised that they should have their summation speeches, in German, in the hands of Major Hodges in room 106, no later than the morning of Friday, January 30. Those who can complete their speeches before that time will naturally help everybody concerned if they will deliver their manuscripts to Major Hodges bofore the 30th. But no one should submit it later than the morning of January 30 in room 106, Take it directly to Major Hodges and not to any other office, because he will see that the translation is done immediately. If there is no comment from defense counsel on that point we assume that that will be satisfactory. Dr. Aschenauer submitted a subject for discussion which we have no hesitancy in touch upon. He expressed the apprehension, which I think is shared by attornies throughout the world, that if a speech is delivered and then it is followed by a 23 Jan 1948_A_MSD_16_2_Mills (Juelich) speech from the other side, that the first speech's effect is dissipated in the oratory and eloquence of the succeeding speech.

That is a matter of psychology and a matter of opinion. If the speech delivered on one side is good, effective, and convincing, the deliverer of that speech does not need to be concerned that when his opponent gets up to talk that the effect of his arguments will be forgotten or lost. We only mention this because, as the schedule works out, the prosecution will follow the speeches of the defendants. In other cases it has happened that the prosecution made the first closing statement. He rule was laid down in this case as to who should be first and who should be last. It just developed in these closing days that in order to meet all deadlines, that it might be well if Dr. A chenauer and the other defense counsel followed, and then Mr. Ferencz and prosecution counsel will conclude the arguments. But no one need to fear that merely because the prosecution will deliver the last speech, that that in any way is going to cause the Tribunal not to give the fullest weight, thought, and solemn consideration to what proceeded the final summation speech by the prosecution. Then again, it isn't the prosecution which has the last word in this controversy between two sides, if we want to term it as such, because under the Charter and the law which controls the procedure of this Tribunal, the defendants themselves make the final statements. Is there any comment from either side on that point?

DR. GAWLIK (Counsel for Naumann and Seibert): Your Honor, I am fully convinced that the Tribunal will weigh the speeches independently of the fact who speaks first and who speaks last. But in spite of that, as a defense counsel, I have considerable misgivings if the prosecution should speak after the defense. As far as I know in most legal procedures it is such that the prosecution speaks first and then the defense. The word defense means this because I can only defend myself against something if I am attacked first, and the attack is launched by the prosecution here, and it does not depend on the psychological 22 Jan 1948_A_MSD_16_3_Mills (Juelich) effect, but I have to have an opportunity, if the prosecution should state any incorrectnesses in their final summation which I shall have to correct, and I have to discuss them and I shall not have that opportunity if I have to speak first.

and the prosecution speaks after me. While, if it is the other way around the prosecution has the advantage because the prosecution can answer to my final summation and discuss the various points and give their opinions on it. and I shall be unable to do so, to refute statements made by the prosecution. Therefore I would consider it more correct if the prosecution spoke first so that we should have an opportunity to hear what weight the prosecution factually and physically will give it.

THE PRESIDENT: I don't know what the procedure is according to German law, but in all Anglo-American courts, the prosecution speaks last and the reason for that is that the prosecution has the burden of proof. According to Anglo-American law, the defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty. The prosecution has the burden of showing beyond a reasonable doubt, that the defendant is guilty. So that the procedure in the English speaking countries is that way that the prosecution speaks last. However that was not the reason that the prosecution was scheduled to speak last in this trial. A I indicated before it was more a matter of accident than anything else, because in the Pohl case where Judge Speight and I say, the prosecution spoke first and it has happened, it's only a matter of arrangements and convenience, as to who speaks first and who speaks last and if you allow one side to answer the other side, each time one side finished there can never be an end to a controversy. because there will always be another word to be said. Certainly every attorney, by this time, has formulated, in his mind, just what he is going to say -- what his defense is, and he doesn't need to have the prosecution tell him at this late date what he is being charged with. I don't see this great psychological advantage, Dr. Gawlik, and certainly no legal advantage, in speaking after the prosecution.

DR. GAWLIK: May I say the following to this, your Honor, According to German legal procedure the prosecution speaks first and then the defense. Buat apart from this I would like you to consider this point of view. In all trials which took place here before all Tribunals, the prosecution has spoken first and in all cases the prosecution has applied that they might be allowed to speak last. Until now this has always been refused, and we found that in the final summation the matter is described differently by the prosecution than has been shown in their cse in chief and also was given different weight, from a legal point of view. That is why we think it necessary that we be given an opportunity to comment in someway or other to the final summation by the prosecution, and I don't know, your Honor, why the prosecution whould want to speak here last -- whether there are technical reasons or -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, the only reason is, their burden, as you will admit, is a greater one than the derense's, not only legally, but factually and physically. You have twenty-two lawyers, each lawyer concerned only with one client, whereas the prosecution, made up of four lawyers, must consider twenty-two defendants. From a physical point of view they have more work to do and that is the only reason which has been advanced to the Tribunal and which the Tribunal considered in allowing the prosecution to follow. And it is impossible, in any event, for either side to construct its argument at the last moment, because we have these technical things to consider. Where you speak extemporaneously I can understand some slight psychological advantage, perhaps, in following another speaker because you may pick up some argument which he has made and immediately conjure up a reply. But here your speech has to be written out, must be typewritten, it must be translated, it must be mimeographed, all this before it's delivered. So that even if you immediately followed the prosecution you still wouldn't have an opportunity to go through all those features in the preparation of your defense.

DR. GAWLIK: Certainly, Your Honor, we always had that opportunity until now, even if we handed in our final summation before, we always had that opportunity to add into our summation one, two or three sentences after an agreement of interpreter, in order to discuss some problem which had only been raised owing to some submission by the Prosecution.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Ferencz, will you please come to the podium, please. What is your situation from a factual point of view about getting a summation ready.

HR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, there are several considerations in the mind of the prosecution. First, I would like to reply to some statements made by Dr. Gawlik, which I regard as not quite accurate. In the case of the International Military Tribunal, the Prosecution did speak last, and the uniform rules, of procedure as first laid down by all of the Tribunals provided that the Prosecution would speak last. The present rule of procedure as amended, makes the matter come completely within the discretion of the Tribunal. Actually our position is well described by the Tribunal, we are all quite busy trying to get the closing briefs in, in time, so that the defense counsel may have those. He would welcome very strongly to have an additional week in which to prepare our closing statements. It is simply a matter of time so that we may do a thorough job. Of course, we are not going to introduce in our closing statements anything which is not now before all of the defense counsel. They know our position completely two days after we began the case, and closed the case, that was four months ago, and I, therefore, don't feel much impressed by their argument that they are now going to be taken by surprise by something we are going to say.

THE PRESIDENT: DR. Gawlik, you said that in previous trials the Prosecution spoke first. You were in the IMT trial, who spoke last?

DR: GAWLIK: The IMT was different because that was an International Military Trial where a different procedure was applied. The procedure which was determined for these trials, like in Tribunal No. I, the Doctors' trial, there the Prosecution spoke first.

In the Pohl trial, the Prose cution spoke first.

In the Judges' trial I think the Prosecution also spoke first, and also in the Flick trial, sofar as I heard.

THE PRESIDENT: well, your main point seems to be, Dr. Gawlik, that even though you must prepare your speech, as of course, you must, several days before delivery, that it could happen if you followed the Prosecution, that you could extemporaneously introduce two or three sentences or statements in reply to the Prosecution, something which you could not have anticipated when you wrote out your speech beforehand.

DR. GAWLIK: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: In accordance with the policy which we have attempted so strenuously to follow throughout this trial, of giving the defense every opportunity, suppose we make this suggestion, which will certainly be novel and unique, and sofar as I know never yet done in these trials, but does not concern us if something is new, if it is effective and if it is just. If after the Prosecution finishes -- and I know the Prosecution is not going to be very happy about this suggestion, and maybe they might be because they also have been very fair -- if after the Prosecution completes their argument, any defense counsel feels that some undue advantage has been taken of him by some novel twisting of the facts, or of the law, has been presented by the Prosecution, to which defense counsel whould reply, defense counsel may get up a make a very brief statement; he will have to extemproize of course, because We won't have the time, naturally, to wait for any written presentation. So in that way, it Can not be said, you will be taken advantage of, because your lips will be scaled, after you will have made your closing statement. Pardon me.

MR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, the rules provide that the defendants' will address the Tribunal and make a statement, that is, the last word, so the Prosecution actually does not have the final statement, and I am afraid that if we allow defense counsel to get up and make a second closing statement, we will have twenty-three closing statements half as long as the first, and be here for another week.

If the defendants feel that we have suddenly pulled something very surprising on them and put it into our closing statement, they themselves are able to answer it, and we will have the last word with the Tribunal, and we don't see any necessity for giving the defense counsel the opportunity to be heard twice on the same subject, and then the defendants on the some subject.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gawlik, I am sure this will meet with your approval: After the Prosecution will have completed its summation, all of defense counsel will certainly know whether anything strikingly new has been presented to which a reply must be made, because it has not been covered by any of the twenty-two defense counsel. One of defense counsel will be permitted -- this is a suggestion we are making, or the thought we are presenting -- one of defense counsel will be allowed, let's say a matter of ten, fifteen or twenty minutes to reply on behalf of all of defense counsel to any particular thing which may be advanced in the Prosecution's speech, which has not already been covered in the twentytwo defense speeches.

DR. GAWLIK: I believe, Your Honor, if I may state my opinion, that the last suggestion is not practical in the interest of the defense, if we as defense counsel want to realize our rights, as it is our duty, only the defense counsel of each defendant concerned knows the subject and the discussion that is proper, and it is impossible for one of my colleagues to fully realize all the problems concerning all twenty-three defendants in such a manner as it should be our duty as defense counsel. On the other hand I do not see why the Prosecution objects to the first suggestion made by the Tribunal; we realize that there is a lack of time, but please consider, Your Honor, this lack of time is only a matter of one week. It is only one week, and that this not be used to the disadvantage of the defendants, so that no opportunity exists that anything be brought to the knowledge of the Tribunal which we as defense counsel consider our duty.

I would like to add the following. Your Honor, although if we should speak for a second time to ready to a summation of the Prosecution, it will not be the same affect which would exist if we could do this as part of our final summation. If we base our final summation on conclusions by which we went to refute statements of the Prosecution, then our speech will be much more convincing, but in spite of this, because I realize the lack of time. I think I can say for myself, I don't want to say anything for my colleagues, if each one of us will be given sufficient opportunity to reply to a speech by the Prosecution, I think I can say, for my part, I agree. How my colleagues think about it, I don't know, but I think the last suggestion, that one should speak for all defendants within fifteen to twenty minutes, I think that is not practical, if I may express my opinion in this case.

DR. LUMMERT: Dr. Lummert for the defendant Blume. I would like to follow the request of my Gawlik, that the first suggestion made by Your Honor should be chosen as the final decision. I am not convinced that but a very few defense counsel will avail themselves of the opporttunity of speaking for a second time, but I think it would be better if we be given this opportunity.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gawlik, the procedure an English-speaking countries is that the prosecution has the first speech and the last speech too just because it does have the burden of proof. Now are effect we are being asked to reverse then procedure completely, that you have the first and the last speech, the defense, but we are not disinclined to grant that request. just because, as we have indicated throughout this entire trial. that the defense shall have every opportunity imaginable, to present its case because a serious issue is involved here, as you and your fellow counsel well know, Now, within the limits of reason, after the prosecution has finished, any counsel who feels that he has not had an opportunity to consider a certain proposition advanced by the prosecution in his, the defense counsel's, closing speech, will be given an opportunity to say a few words with regard to that new matter, Naturally, he may not get up and repeat what he said in his first speech just because it has been denied in the prosecution's speech, because it is quite obvious that that is merely a repetition of the same matter. But if something new, novel, unique has been presented, or if you think some unfair advantage has been taken in the matter of presentation of argument, we will allow defense counsel to reply to that. We assume that all defense counsel, if they should all avail themselves of that privilege, would not consume more than a matter of a couple hours' time.

DR. GAWLIK: Thank you, Your Honor, may I make another request? Perhaps a deadline could be fixed by what time the prosecution will have to give their closing briefs to us so that we at least will have opportunity to respond to these closing briefs.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Now on the matter of closing briefs, Dr. Gawlik, again we come to the matter of understanding the purpose of any particular act in legal procedure. What is the object of a trial brief? The object of a brief is to allow the attorney to analyze his Own testimony, testimony of his own client and all the evidence presented by him or against him, and indicate to the Tribunal his point of view.

It doesn't depend upon what the other side says in their brief, because they themselves must do the same thing. The object of a trial brief is not to reply to the trial brief of the other side but to present your case in as favorable a manner as possible. that the opposing side will have an opportunity of glancing at the brief before preparing its own brief, but there can't be any guarantee that those briefs will be ready in time so that they can always be replying. Otherwise this goes on indefinitely. You realize the mechanical obstacles that are presented each time a document has to be presented, so that all we can say is that every attorney involved in this case, on the prosecution side and on the defense side, should work on his brief and get it in as quickly as possible. Since the summation will have ended by February 7 and then the Tribunal immediately goes into deliberation on the case, it is obvious that if the briefs come in very late that they cannot be given that solemn and deliberate consideration which they are entitled to receive and which they would receive if they were submitted in time. So defense counsel makes a big mistake in waiting for the prosecution trial brief in order to prepare his own trial brief. to defense counsel, but others are not.

DR. GAWLIK: But, your Honor, it isn't like this, that we are waiting in writing our final summations until we get the trial brief of the prosecution: but everyone of us has the duty only to hand in the final summation after having read the trial brief of the prosecution, and apart from that it would be unfair treatment if some defendants get the trial briefs in time and the defense counsel can consider it in their statements and other defendants do not get them. And I shall state this, according to experience I had with the previous trials, some of us got the trial briefs after we had made our final summation.

In the Pohl trial, for example, the prosecution submitted a trial brief. The Tribunal did not accept it any more since it was handed in after the final evidence and the final summation had been presented. During that recess we received trial briefs That is why I would think it more expedient if I may make the suggestion your Honor, that the prosecution give us their trial brief by at least one or two days before we have to hand in our final summations so that all defendants are being treated in the same manner, in this respect too.

HR. FERENCZ: Your Honor, in order for us not to be confused by all this double talk, I think at is important to take a look at the total picture of what the defense have been given and what they are being given now before we can judge whether the request being made is fair or not. You will recall the prosecution completed its case in two days. For four months the defendants have been allowed to bring in here anybody they wanted as witnesses, to offer such documents and such testimony as they regarded in any way connected with this case. All of it has been admitted. They have just been given the right to speak first and last in their closing statements, not only last once, but last twice. After the defense counsel has spoken the defendant will get up and speka. Now they ask that we give them our closing briefs before they prepare their closing statements. Your Honors know that the complete defense case is not yet in and that the prosecution went ahead with their rebuttal case before the defense had completed. This is a highly unusual procedure. We would have the right in any court to say we will not submit our closing briefs until the defense has closed their case. This the defense has not yet done nor have they indicated any intention of doing it within the next week or so, In view of every action which has been taken on the part of the court, and of the prosecution, it seems an affront for the defense to come in and say, "We cannot prepare our closing statement until we see now the prosecution views the case from their side."

Our closing statement has nothing to do with how they view the case. We are presenting our summary of the evidence which has been in few weeks and months. They are at perfect liberty to do it now. They have been at liberty to prepare it since we closed our case, and one has no connection with the other. to putting our statements in within the next five says, It would be almost impossible. But I believe that all the other reasons given make it necessary for us to view this thing as one unit and one whole in determining whether it is fair or not to require the defendants to make their statements regardless of whether we have our closing briefs in or not.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Gawlik, I don't think you need fear that any undue advantage will be taken of your client or of any other defendant in this case because of any mechanical situation which arises and which cannot be met regardless of all the will in the world. You see that these trial briefs can't be handed to you in bulk on one day. They necessarily must be prepared and piecemeal put through the mill. They will be prepared translated, mimeographed, just as quickly as it is humanly possible to do so, and I am positive in my mind, and I am sure that I speak for my colleagues, that every defense counsel can well prepare his closing speech without waiting for that trial brief, which after all is not an anticipatory summation speech but something which is only an analysis of the testimony and an application of the law involved.

All trial briefs should be in by February 7th. If any defense counsel feels that he has not had the fullest opportunity to present whatever he intends to present and whatever is vital in the case, the doors of this Tribunal are always open. They will be open up to the very last moment, until the decision is read, and when it comes to a matter of justice, the courts are open at all times, even after the decision is delivered.

Who is ready now to present document books?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the Prosecution is ready to present Document Book No. IV. As I have told the Tribunal already two days ago, this is a document book which contains evidence in connection with the case of the defendant Rasch. I only want to put the documents in without commenting on them that they may have prosecution exhibit numbers.

The first document I offer is NO-5120 as Prosecution's Exhibit 243 on page 1 of the document book. On page 3 of the document book is Document NO-1076 which is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 244. On page 11, Document NO-1074 offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 245. On page 16 Document No-1073 offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 246. On page 20 Exhibit NO-1075offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 247.

On page 22, Document NO-1069 offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 248, and the last document on page 24, Document NO-1071 offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 249. That will be the complete document book. Document Book III of the Defendant Rasch - of the defendant Haensch - I beg the Tribunal's pardon - but I don't know whether his counsel is ready to present the document book, but I just heard now that the defense counsel for defendant Jost is ready to present his.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Well, then suppose we do that immediately after the recess?

Do you have something, Mr. Glancy?

MR. GLANCY: It is merely to inform the Tribunal the twenty-four hour rule was not met in the case of Book No. III. However, for expediency's sake, the Prosecution will waive and allow its presentation.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, I am glad that you do.

DR. FICHT: Ficht for Biberstein. will rule about the objections which were raised by the prosecution and by the defense against the documents?

THE PRESIDENT: we will rule on those objections when we reconvene after the present recess, or perhaps at the end of the day when we will have heard the other objections which will probably be advanced to the documents which are to be presented during the remainder of the day.

(A recess was taken.)

(The hearing reconvened at 1530 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session;

DR. WIESMATH: Wiesmath, assistant for Dr. Schwarz, for the defendant, Jost. With the permission of the Tribunal, I shall submit Document Book III for the defendant, Jost. marie Jost, dated 21 October 1947, and certified on the 4th of December 1947. It comprises pages 1 to 6 of the third document book. Its contents are as follows, "Jost's critical attitude towards the party, his character, his attitude to the Jewish problem, his attitude with regard to Heydrich's execution orders, his rejection of Lohse's suggestion of making the Eastern territories free of Jews." I would like to draw the Tribunal's attention to the fact that Mrs. Annemarie Jost from May 1942 to September 1942 was herself in Riga. Her testimony about events during this time was based so to speak on her own personal knowledge and, therefore, is of special probative value. dated the 10th of December 1947, comprising pages 7 to 9 of Document Book III, "Contents: Responsibility of Jeckeln for executions. Lohse's policy in the Jewish problem. the 10th of December 1947, pages 10 to 13 of this volume, "Contents: Reports by the Einsatzgruppen, Einsatzkommandos, of the commander of the Security Police and SD." About the translation, I would like to say here "Commander of the Security Police and SD" should be translated, "Commander in Chief of the Security Police and SD". I continue in the index, "Reports of the Commanders of the Security Police and SC channel of command with regard to the Commander of the Security Police and SD", and here again I ask that it be translated "Commander in Chief of the Commanders of the Security Police and SD". The position of the Reich Commissioner for the Eastern territories and of the Generalkommissare, power to issue orders to the Commander of the Security Police and SD, or rather Commander in Chief of the Security Police and SD, and to the Commander of the Security Police and SD.

Activity of the Commander in Chief of the Security Police and SD in the Eastern territories."

As Exhibit Number 29, I offer Document J 29. This is a diagram which is offered as a supplement to the statements of the defendant, Jost, on the witness stand and which shows the position of the Commander in Chief of the Security Police and SD in the East. In the English translation of this first diagram, I have discovered that two completely different agencies have been translated with the same term, I mean here, the Commander of the Security Police and SD Eastland, and the Commander in Chief of the Security Police and Commander of the Security Police and SD. I have already suggested that the first be translated, "by Commander in Chief of the Security Police and SD". Furthermore, this diagram has suffered in clarity by being compressed, I, therefore, intend to make up a new diagram in English, and I ask the Tribunal for their kind permission to offer a photostat of the diagram to be made up new and to offer this later.

As Exhibit Number 30 I offer Document J 30 as Diagram Number 2. This diagram pictures the position of Einsatzgruppe A. The defendant, Jost, has made lengthy statements about this during his direct examination. 29th of December 1947, pages 16 to 21 of the third volume. "Contents: Jost's activity in the capacity as Head of Worms Police Headquarters. Rejection of interferences by the party, Jost's intervention on behalf of Dr. Rahn. The objective manner in which Jost conducted his office, and his popularity with the subordinates. Release of Parson Degen from detention."

Document J 32 is an, excerpt from the newspaper "Der Tagesspiegel" which concerns the abolishment of the death penalty by Russia, one of the signatory powers of the Control Council law, I shall skip this, since a document concerning the same or including the same content has already been submitted on behalf of Dr. Braune by my colleague, Dr. Stubinger.

As Exhibit Number 32, I submit Document J 33. This is a supplementary excerpt to the Document NO 3277 which was submitted by the prosecution in excerpt. This is in Document Book IIA, English page 133, Exhibit Number 56. This excerpt from the document, or rather this supplementary excerpt from this document is to prove that the events described in this document are supposed to have taken place in March 1942, that is, before the time that Jost started his job and before Jost's responsibility started.

This concludes the presentation of the third volume. The fourth volume is unfortunately not yet available in the English translation.

MR. GLANCY: The prosecution has no formal objections to register, Your Honor, except for the fact that it requests that the J 32 be stricken from the books as being entirely irrelevant. It is my understanding that it was not offered by Jost's representative.

PRESIDENT: The motion is granted, and that will be stricken from the record because it has absolutely no relevancy to the issued involved.

MR. GLANCY: Thank you, Your Honor.

DR. KOHR: Kohr representing Dr. Heim for the defendant, Blobel. I would like to submit the supplement to document book II for Blobel, This is only one document, but there might be one difficulty, the Tribunal may not have the English copy yet, but I am in a position to furnish the Tribunal with the copies which I have already received yesterday.

PRESIDENT: Do you have them there?

DR. KOHR: I have them here, Yes.

PRESIDENT: Let's have them.

DR. KOHR: I now offer Blobel's Document Number 12 as Exhibit Number 11. This is an affidavit of Walter Ostermann, dated 23rd of December 1947. Ostermann was a driver in the SD sector, Duesseldorf. That was at a time when Blobel was commander of the SD sector in Duesseldorf. Outside of that, he was in the Special Commando 4A from June 1941 until approx imately November 1942.

He was in charge of the motor pool of Special Commando 4A. This affidavit concerns itself primarily with a character testimony. Apart from that, it confirms that during his assignment in the East Blobel was frequently ill, and it confirms the statements about the time periods which Blobel made in the witness stand.

Your Honor, this would be the end of my presentation. I don't intend to submit any further documents on Blobel.

PRESIDENT: Very well. Any other documents ready for prsentation? Neumann?

DR.DURCHHOLZ: Durchholz for Schulz. Your Honor, I have my Document Book IV in German, the English translation has also been completed and is just being mimeographed, It is only a matter of 8 documents, and if I may nevertheless submit them, I would be grateful to the Tribunal. Dr. Hochwald has no objections.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I have seen the German text. I have no objections to Dr. Durchholz' offering the document book, but in order to be completely clear, I have objections against some of the documents.

PRESIDENT: Yes. We would be entirely willing to receive the documents now, even though we don't have the English version before us. That can be submitted later.

MR. HOCHWALD: It is perfectly all right.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: My Document Book IV, Your Honor, consists of 8 documents. I shall submit them in the order in which they appear in the document book. On page 260 we have Document Number 89, which I submit as Exhibit Number 88. This is an affidavit of the defendant, Schulz of the 10th of January 1948. In this he comments on a newspaper article in the "Moravian Journal" of the 23rd of March 1939 in Ulmitz. The complete copy of the paper is in the original document. This newspaper article, despite some contradictions on the part of German agencies, Schulz was successful in having it published. Dr. Benndar, the former Czech police president of Olmuetz, when Schulz had to take over the police office there, was not arrested by Schulz even though his arrest had been ordered.

Schulz did not do this. It was his consideration that in the case of Dr. Benndar, there was no reason for an arrest because the latter merely carried out the orders of his superior Czech officials as was his duty, and then this newspaper article is supposed to serve to confirm the statements of the defendant in the witness stand.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, there is no objection on the part of the prosecution against these documents. I would only like to reserve the right to put in one of the other documents, at the utmost, one or two, of the evidence of the defendant, Schulz in Czechoslovakia.

PRESIDENT: You mean-

MR. HOCHWALD: As a rebuttal document.

22 Jan 1948_A_MSD_22_1_Mills (Lea)

DR. DURCHHOLZ: The next document is on page 263 -- this is document number 90 which I submit as Exhibit dumber 89. This is a mutual affidavit of Gerhilde Fleck and Dorothea Leitzinger, both from the city of Graz, of 3 December 1947. These two affiants were employees of the then office of the defendant in Graz in the year 1938, and they confirm, without being asked to do so, that Shulz was an excellent superior who only acted objectively and justly and who, in all official conferences, demanded a likewise conduct on the part of all employees. The next document is on page 265, Document Number 91, which I submit as Exhibit Number 90. This is an affidavit of Dr. Horst Hellauer, from Graz, of 30 November 1947. Dr. Hellauer Was, in the year 1938, a research collaborator of the Nobel prize winner, the Jewish counselor, Prof. Dr. Otto Loewy, who had been arrested before Schulz arrived there. He confirms that Dr. Loewy was correctly treated during his detention; that Schulz permitted this Dr. Hellauer to speak to this Dr. Loewy in prison without supervision, and that Schulz released Dr. Loewy after a few days. He continues that Dr. Loewy had told him that during his last interrogation before the Chief of the Gestapo in Graz, he had gained the impression that special importance was placed on his person and that they did not want to lose his work.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, this last document presented by Dr. Durchholz I object to for only one reason. Dr. Durchholz presents as his next document an affidavit of Dr. Loewy who is the subject about whom all the time is spoken in this document, number 91. It is not understandable, and I do not think admissible, that a third affiant speaks about that what happened to the second affiant, if the name and the address of the second affiant is known to defense counsel, and if he obtained an affidavit from this man. I do think the correct way would have been that Dr. Loewy himself would have certified or would have executed an affidavit to the facts which are told to us by a third person.

THE PRESIDENT: You think that this is hearsay twice removed?

22 Jan 1948_A_MSD_22_2_Mills (Lea)

MR. HOCHWALD: That is right.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Your Honor, in the affidavit of Dr. Hellauer those circumstances are contained which Dr. Loewy does not state in the affidavit which I shall submit next. Therefore, these two affidavits supplement each other.

MR. HOCHWALD: If your honor please that exactly was the reason why I objected against Document 91, as in the affidavit of Dr. Loewy things which Dr. Hellauer tells that they happened to Dr. Loewy doesn't testify to himself. That is the reason why. If the two affidavits would he identical the affidavit of Dr. Hellauer would be only corroborative evidence and not directly objectionable. I am objecting that somebody is testifying out of hearsay to things to which the man who is the subject of the affidavit could have testified himself in this affidavit.

THE PRESIDENT: Why didn't, Dr. Durchholz, the first man testify to all the incidents? Why did the second man need to say what the first man could have said?

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Your Honors, I myself tried to got the affidavit of Dr. Loewy. Dr. Loewy is living in New York though and I waited all this time for this affidavit and as a precautionary measure I had one of his collaborators give me an affidavit just in case Dr. Loewy's own affidavit would not have arrived. As the next affidavit I shall submit the explanation of Dr. Loewy and then I shall ask the Tribunal to decide whether the objection of the prosecutor about the affidavit of Dr. Hellauer should be sustained or not.

THE PRESIDENT: Very Well.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: On page 267 I offer Document Number 92, as Exhibit Number 91. This is the affidavit of Dr. Otto Loewy, now professor at New York University, college of Medicine, of the 6 December 1947. I only received this statement a short time ago directly from New York, In this, the affiant, Dr. Loewy, states that on 6 May 1938 Schulz had 22 Jan 1948_A_MSD_22_3_Mills (Lea) released him from protective custody and that this release came about in the most friendly manner and in the presence of his wife whom Herr Schulz had asked to be present.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, may I now move that all other items as it is given in Schulz Document 92, Exhibit 91 -- that all items different from that which Loewy said himself may be stricken from the record.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Durcholz, I think you will agree to that.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Yes. Of course, your Honor, I could not speak to the affiant, Dr. Loewy, and I did not prescribe to him what kind of an affidavit he should give me. I left it completely up to him. If I had had the opportunity to speak with him I would have taken all these facts into his affidavit.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Loewy's statement, as much as we were able to get from you, because we don't have the text, seems to be clear enough.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Yes, I am completely in agreement. As the next document on page 268, I offer Document Number 93 as Exhibit Number 92. This is an affidavit of the defendant Schulz of the tenth of January 1948. Schulz states here how he helped the Jews in Bemeen, those who remained in Bremen, as well as those who wanted to emigrate at their own wish. He states especially how he discussed all these problems with the representative of the Jewish community in Bremen, Dr. Rosenack, who emigrated to American in 1937, and how he discussed all these matters in the fairest manner. It is noteworthy that Dr. Rosenack and Schulz left each other with complete respect existing on both sides. I may also state in this respect that with the help of the Defense Center I was able to determine the present address of Dr. Rosenack in New York. Thereupon I wrote to Dr. Rosenack and asked him for an affidavit, but to this day I have received no answer. For this reason the defendant Schulz has described his relationship to Dr. Rosenack and the Jews in Bremen in this affidavit.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do not want to take up the Tribunal's time with unnecessary objections, I do think that this document and the next document which is also an affidavit of the defendant are inadmissable for the simple reason that these two items to which he testifies are not new. He has taken the witness stand. He had ample opportunity to tell everything that he wanted to say. Of course the thing is the affidavits in themselves are unimportant, but I just wanted to say on principle these two affidavits in itself are not admissible as they are not refering to items which came up after the defendant Schulz was at the witness stand.

THE PRESIDENT: We'll rule on those objections at the end.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: I further submit on page 273, Document Number 94, as Exhibit Number 93. This again is an affidavit of the defendant Schulz dated 13 January 1948. Here he makes a statement giving the reasons why he left the Protestant Church and why this leaving the church does not mean that any SS member became an atheist. I offer this statement because after the examination of the defendant Schulz on the witness stand this question of leaving the church was hold up to the subsequent defendants repeatedly. As the next document I offer on page 275, Document 95, as Exhibit Number 94. This is the affidavit of Karl Heinz Bent of 19 January 1948. Bent states here that he met Schulz at the police school in 1941 in Berlin. Also that in 1943 it was said in Kiev that Schulz, because of his soft attitude, namely that he could not have carried out executions in Russia which had been ordered in 1941, or did not want to carry them out, was releived from this assignment in Russia very quickly. He confirms here with the statements of the witness Hurting, who made these statements on the witness stand, and who was also with the Einsatzgrup C in Kiev. As the last document I offer on page 277 Document Number 96, as Exhibit Number 95. This is an affidavit of Ernst Helmuth Wuppermann from Nuernberg from 12 January 1948. This affiant states that in the summer of 1941 he was on the station in Orel in Russia and that there he saw a box car full with, envelopes of which I will submit three examples as photostates.

I point to envelope number 1 in which there is a picture of a smiper in civilian clothes and which is signed in Russian "Glory to the Partisans". The witness says that a Russian employee in Orel had told him that these envelopes were distributed immediately after the outbreak of the war by the Russian government so that one mast assume that these were already made up before the beginning of the war. The original envelopes are here but I can not submit them unfortunately, because I must return them. However I have photostats and the translation is also certified to.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please. I object against this document just out of the simple reason that it is entirely immaterial. I also am unable to sec from the photostat whether the persons depicted on these envelopes are civilians or military personnel. That is not the nature of the objection. The nature of the objection is immateriality.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: This concludes my presentation of Doc. Book IV and on the day which will be determined by the Tribunal next week I shall submit one single document. This is an affidavit of the defendant Schulz as a reply to a rebuttal document.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, do you have any further objections to the book?

MR. HOCHWALD: I have voiced my objections against the single documents. I do not think it necessary that I repeat it. Thank you very much.

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome. Are any other document books ready for presentation this afternoon? Apparently not.

MR. HOCHWALD: I have received Document book Number 3 for the defendant Haensch. Is Dr. Riediger willing to put it in?

DR. RIEDIGER: The document book has been submitted yesterday.

MR. HOCHWALD: I beg the Tribunal pardon. I was not here yesterday afternoon and I did not know it was already submitted.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do not know whether there was an objection on the part of the prosecution against Documents 27 and 28 of the document book. I only want to inform the Tribunal that these are two letters written in October and in December 1947 addressed to Dr. Riediger. Therefore in their form they are entirely inadmissible.

DR. RIEDIGER: As far as these letters are concerned there is one message of Dr. Maennle, this witness who comes up again and again.

MR. HOCHWALD: I have seen the information of Dr. Maennle and have not objected against it as the Tribunal wants to hear the witness anyway. So I do think that his testimony will be decisive, but not the letter he wrote. But these are two letters from a certain Vibeke Jansen, and I do think that I am well entitled to object against the form. They are not sworn to and they are in no way in the form of an affidavit.

DR. RIEDIGER: In the case of this document just objected to, that is a statement of a witness who lives in Denmark and who has considerable difficulties if she choses any other form. Therefore I asked her for this. She wanted to go to an attorney in Denmark but I have received no more news. She merely informed me that she would have to count on difficulties on the part of Danish authorities. The probative value of this statement, of course, has to be left up to the Tribunal.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do think that an affidavit is nothing else but a substitute for direct testimony. Testimony not given under oath can not be viewed by the Tribunal in any form. Its probative value is nil Therefore I move that these two documents may not be admitted in evidence.

THE PRESIDENT: That might be true if there is no explanation forthcoming as to wiry the oath could not be administered. As defense counsel has stated, the probative value is always left to the Tribunal.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do not want to press the subject but the witness does not even say that in lieu of an oath she is stating that or that. she just writes a letter. she did not say this is the truth.

THE PRESIDENT: Did the letter come through the mail and does the counsel recognize the handwriting?

DR. RIEDIGER: Well, first of all I would have to look at the document again. It came by mail but whether I can recognize the handwriting would depend on whether I have any other pieces of writing by her, because I personally don't know the witness. But it is possible that other examples of her handwriting are available and I would reserve the right to make another statement about it. Pardon me, your Honor, at the moment I don't have the document here, but the possibility exists that the signature is certified to. We would have to look at the document.

MR. HOCHWALD: As far as I can see one of the signatures is certified to.

THE PRESIDENT: By whom?

MR. HOCHWALD: That, your Honor, I am unable to say. Folkeregister should be some magistrate, but I unfortunately do not know. It's Danish and I can't say either the one or the other. My objection is, your Honor, mainly to the fact that the witness never says at any place that this what she is writing is the truth -- neither under oath or in lieu of oath. I am absolutely sure that Dr. Riediger obtained the letter. I have no reason to doubt that the person who is signing this letter is this Vibeke Jansen, but I do not know who she is or what she is.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Riediger --

MR. HOCHWALD: It's an entirely inadmissable document.

THE PRESIDENT: You of course have observed the liberality with which we have accepted evidence, but you will also understand then there must be some safeguards in order to prevent being deceived, and there is always the possibility that someone can just write a letter and state anything. So unless we have some assurance that the statements are guarded and represent the truth, then we could all be deceived.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, after I received this statement I asked for this statement once more in the form of an affidavit. Thereupon the affiant notified me that she first wanted to go to see a lawyer, that she had misgivings that she might run into difficulties from Danish authorities and since that time I haven't heard from the witness. Of course I must admit that the Tribunal has been very liberal in accepting documents, but I believed, at least, that this letter, whose signature is certified to -

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, may we see the document. I don't happen to have my book here.

MR. HOCHWALD: If your Honors please I have only the mimeographed translation.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you have the letter in which said that she was unable to go to the Danish authorities?

DR. RIEDIGER: I got one more letter -- I don't know if that has been handed in.

THE PRESIDENT: But Mr. Hochwald, what about the relevancy of the subject matter?

MR. HOCHWALD: I consider the subject matter completely irrelevant, Your Honor. However, I have to make this objection and I do think I pointed it out, out of principle. We cannot leave a letter written in November or December 1947 go in lieu of testimony of a defense witness. I beg the Tribunal to consider this point.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Riediger, even if this document were submitted with all the safeguards under oath, what do you content it would serve on behalf of Haensch. Here is the only statement which can be of any value to you. Let's see how far it goes: "It is also not clear to me why Dr. "H" should be convicted there since he was an official here during the war."

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, this statement alone proves the inadmissibility of the letters as it is admitted by the defendant that he was not only In Denmark but also in the East.

THE PRESIDENT: I don't understand that.

MR. HOCHWALD: He was not only in Denmark but also in the East.

THE PRESIDENT: I don't quite follow you?

MR. HOCHWALD: I understand in this letter he is trying to say he was all the time during the war in Denmark, as he was an official here. The Tribunal certainly will recall the defendant himself admitted having been in Russia.

DR. RIEDIGER: The contents of the document, of course, do not refer to the assignment of Haensch in Russia, but they only refer to activity in Denmark, therefore, has nothing to do with the charges against Haensch as they refer to Russia, but it serves to judge the defendant, and therefore, it can have some importance.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I think you are arguing for the admission of something which even if admitted can not be of much enlightenment in the disposition of this case, for an unknown person in Denmark to say that he or she does not know why a defendant should be convicted because he was an official there during the war, which means absolutely nothing, all these defendants were officials in Russia, or that is to say, they were on official duty, so that does not prove anything at all, and I think that to insist on admission into evidence of a document which does not have the usual safeguard as to veracity, when the document, even if it did have that safeguard could be of very little use to you, is much ado about nothing.

DR. RIEDIGER: Well, of course, I must leave the decision up to the Tribunal, especially since the probative value itself could not be such as that of a usual affidavit.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, the point is, Dr. Riediger, that we are willing to make an exception against a very obvious rule when it really will mean something for us to make an exception against a rule, which is only made to protect everybody from something in the last analysis, is of no use as we are asking for a pointless thing.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I only want to point out I have objected for the same reason against two documents, the document which the Tribunal has before it, and there is a document preceding this document from the same writer, and I have objected to both documents for the same reason.

DR. RIEDIGER: At the moment, I unfortunately don't have the document before me.

THE PRESIDENT: You mean this very long statement (Looking at document before the court).

MR. HOCHWALD: It is from the same writer in the form of an ordinary letter.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, may I perhaps reserve my explanation for a day when the Tribunal will reconvene, and I shall see whether I withdraw the document.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. In the meantime if you will find that you can fortify this statement in any way with a jurat, with a statement as to who this is this Abenrade, and so on, then it might be helpful in the final disposition of the document, but for the moment both documents will be excluded.

You are very welcome to be sure.

DR. GICK: Dr. Gick for the defendant Straugh. Your Honor, before the Tribunal adjourns, I would like to repeat my motion for severance, which has been made in writing on 23 October 1947. I refer to document of 11 October 1947, also handed to the Tribunal, the opinion, of Dr. von Baier to my brief 3 January 1948, and to the second opinion of Dr. von Baier of 7 January 1943, and to my brief of 20 January 1948 which unfortunately has not yet been submitted to the Tribunal, as it is still in the translation section, and which at best can be handed to the Tribunal tomorrow. In order not to take up the time of the Tribunal, I don't want to make any more statements here. I merely want to say in one sentence to the fact that after the conclusion of the direct examination, the impression the defendant Strauch made, was such that it can not be said that he was in a position to use his personality and the use of his intellect which is normally at his disposal, and to use them to refute charges of the Prosecution. I am of the opinion that the defense of the defendant Strauch was impeded in a considerable manner, therefore, I want to repeat this motion here in court.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the Prosecution does not desire at this time to make a formal announcement to this effect, but the Tribunal is advised that the Prosecution is opposed to the motion on the part of the defense for s everance of the case of the defendant Strauch.

THE PRESIDENT: In order that the defense counsel may know just what is still required of him in this trial, a decision would be made immediately, as to whether the motion for severance should be granted. On December 11, 1947, a Board composed of three physicians examined the defendant, Eduard Strauch, and submitting findings, paragraph five of which reads. "It is the opinion of the Board that the defendant is at most times physically and mentally able to understand questions put to him and to reply thereto with the full use of his mental faculties."

Subsequent to Strauch's first appearance in Court, another examination was conducted by two Doctors, Captain Joseph S. Jacobs, and, Lt. William L. Bedwell. They submitted a document on January 17th with an opinion which reads: "That the defendant Edward Strauch, except for brief periods preceding, during and succeeding epileptic seizure, is capable of understanding the proceedings against him, and of taking an adequate part in the direction and presentation of his own defense." in court, and gave every indication of thoroughly understanding the questions and of responding to them, with the exception of some hesitation occasionally due to perhaps physical exhaustion or otherwise of the defendant himself and during the entire time he was on the stand he was under observation by Lt. William L. Bedwell, who on January 20th, made this finding: "It is my opinion that the defendant Herr Eduard Strauch during the periods when I had observed him, including the court sessions in the afternoon of 19 January 1948, and the morning of 20 January 1948, has been mentally competent and so free from mental defect, derangement or disease, as to be able to participate adequately in his own defense." severance, but you should be informed at once and you are now informed that the motion is refused and that you should proceed with the defense, that is to say, in the submission of any document books that you have to submit, trial briefs, and eventually the closing arguments. will sit to hear whatever further documents there are to present, and, the reason we have not decided is that we do not know when the documents will physically be ready for presentation in Court, and we believe it is better to leave the date open rather than to give a date now which later on would have to be changed.

med at least twenty-four hours ahead of the day on which the Tribunal will sit, and on that day the remaining documents can be presented, and if there are any stray witnesses to be heard they will be heard. of the document books, the Tribunal rules, the motions made by defense counsel to the documents presented by the Prosecution during the rebuttal are overruled. The documents will be accepted for whatever probative value the Tribunal gives to them. This ruling in no way effects whatever ruling was made as to individual documents presented during the entire presentation. submitted by all defense counsel, the Tribunal rules that those objections are overruled; the probative value of each document being left to the Tribunal when it studies individually each document. This ruling in no way effects what was stated by the Tribunal as to any individual documents present at the time. The Tribunal will now.....yes, you have something.....

DR. LUMMERT: Dr. Lummert for the defendant Blume. Your Honor, before you adjourn, will you permit me to ask one brief question. The Tribunal will recall that the Prosecution at the beginning of this trial had issued a so-called basic information which the defense counsel also received in translation. This basic information has the heading: "Basic facts about the SS, about the SD, about the Gestapo, the RSHA and the Einsatzgruppen." My question is this, does this basic information have any probative value?

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, we have compiled this basic information to the best of our knowledge and belief, and we are absolutely clear in our minds that something which is not in evidence before the Tribunal has no probative value.

DR. LUMMERT: Your Honor, may I then assume that this basic information will not be considered at all.

Page 5,514

THE PRESIDENT: You may assume that.

DR. LUMMERT: Thank you.

THE PRESIDENT: It is understood that the Tribunal will reconvene on the morning of January 31st, to hear Dr. Aschenauer's final statement in the case. It will also reconvene for one day prior to January 31st upon call. We are unable to state the exact date today, but defense counsel will be notified through the Defense Information Center, and the Prosecution will be notified in an appropriate manner. Therefore, with that understanding the Tribunal will meet upon call. It is now in provisional recess until January 31st.

(The Tribunal adjourned subject to intervening date until 31 January 1948)

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

Military Tribunal II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

DR. HANS DIETRICH MAENNEL, a witness, took the stand and testified as follows:

JUDGE SPEIGHT: Witness, raise your right hand and repeat after me: pure truth and will withhold and add nothing.

(The witness repeated the oath.)

JUDGE SPEIGHT: You may be seated now.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Riediger.

DR. RIEDIGER (Attorney for the defendant Haensch): May I examine the witness, Your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: Please proceed. BY DR. RIEDIGER (Attorney for the defendant Haensch):

Q Witness, please give your personal data. When and where were you born?

INTERPRETER: I cannot hear the witness speaking.

THE PRESIDENT: You don't have the witness' name on the record, Dr. Riediger. Will you put that on the record? BY DR. RIEDIGER: What is your name?

A Dr. Maennel, Hans Dietrich.

Q Do you know the defendant, Dr. Haensch?

Q When did you have anything to do with him?

Q Can you give us a more exact date?

AAccording to the personnel files, Dr. Haensch was treated by me on the 16th of November, 1941.

Q And how long did this treatment take?

Q Was he during this time with you at regular intervals? Can you get this from any kind of documents?

A The intervals were regular. There was only a longer interval in the treatment between the 10th of December and 14th of January.

Q Did you register the treatment exactly? disposal?

Q Can you hand this over?

Q Did you, yourself, make the entries in this index? can keep up. Who made these entries?

Q How long did this lady work for you?

Q Is she still with you? did you ask this lady about her entries recently? found it. possible that a mistake was made in the entry about the name of the person, or is that completely impossible?

on e patient by the name of Dr. Haensch.

Q And how long were these index cards kept by you?

A I cannot tell you exactly. I still have index cards from the beginning of my practice.

Q And when did you begin your practice? that Dr. Haensch started treatment with you in November, 1941, and remained under treatment with you until February, 1942, in regular intervals?

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, I have no further questions of the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

DR. RIEDIGER: May I offer this index card at this point as an exhibit to the Court. I have just been given it. I think the Prosecution -

DR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: There are of course no objections on the part of the Prosecution.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, the number of the exhibit will be submitted afterwards. I can not determine that at the moment. I don't know which number it will be.

MR. HOCHWALD: Number five, but I am not sure.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, the number may be supplied later. Mr. Hochwald. BY MR. HOCHWALD: recollection of your own about these treatments of Haensch by you, did you? that the patient was being treated by me.

Q Will you tell the Tribunal now how this record was found? old boxes this particular card was picked out by my secretary.

Q When?

Q Can you tell us who requested your secretary to find this record? I could not make out a medical certificate to the effect that her husband was being treated by me in the year of 1941.

Q When was that, witness, when Frau Haensch came to your place?

Q And what did you do then, afterwards? made out a medical certificate, giving the various data and statement about the treatment. find this record? my secretary.

Q Will you tell me something. You have here an entry on the 14th January, and an entry on the 7th February. Will you be good enough to 2 Feb 1948_M_MSD_3 _2_Gallagher(Lea) explain to the Tribunal what these two entries mean?

was filled. On the 7th February this filling was polished off.

Q What was polished off?

Q On 7 February?

Q Will you please look at the card, Doctor. Do you see a difference in the writing between the entry on 14 January and the entry on 7 February?

A Yes, of course. The entries were made with different ink, and with a different type of handwritings.

Q Who made these entries?

Q Why, if it was done by one person is the writing different? me whether you do not see a difference between the entry on 7th February, and all the other entries during other dates?

A yes, there are differences here. For example, between that of 23 October and the 14th of February, and between that of the 27 October and that of 23 September 1943.

Q That was not my question, witness. Please answer this one very simple question. Do you see between the entry of 7 February 1942 and the other entries in this same record a difference in the handwriting?

DR. HOCHWALD: I have no further questions, our Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: No one has as yet asked you, or told the Tribunal just what is your profession?

MR. HOCHWALD: I am sorry, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: I am a dentist.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. I don't know why it was kept such a secret. I would like to see the exhibit, please. (The court is given the exhibit).

Did you want to ask another question, Dr. Riediger.

DR. RIEDIGER: Yes. BY DR. RIEDIGER: the witness once more whether she made that entry, or did you refrain from asking that question, because you recognized this handwriting as that of my assistant?

A No, I didn't. I recognized it as the handwriting of my assistant, and I never paid any more attention to it. to the effect that she actually did write it? these entries, and that she listed the dates of treatments, of those dates.

Q Do you have this affidavit of the witness?

Q Will you please hand it over?

(Mr. Hochwald looks at the paper.)

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, would you please permit me to read this affidavit here. I quote:

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, if Dr. Riediger submits this affidavit, the Prosecution must insist on cross examination of the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: That observation of the Prosecution is approved by the Tribunal.

DR. RIEDIGER: I have no further question to put to the witness, and I ask that the right be reserved to me to offer this affidavit of the witness. I merely have to have it translated.

THE PRESIDENT: In view of the statement made by the Prosecution, Dr. Riediger, that affidavit may not be accepted unless you have the affiant ready here for cross examination.

DR. RIEDIGER: Actually, the defense would saive the calling of this witness -- of this affiant, because in my opinion the testimony of this witness here is so clear that this witness does not seem to be required for the defense.

THE PRESIDENT: You mean then, that you will not present the affidavit.

DR. RIEDIGER: The affidavit is such I don't have to offer it.

THE PRESIDENT: We have told you, Dr. Riediger, that you may not offer this affidavit, that the Tribunal will not accept it unless you have the affiant here who may he cross examined.

DR. RIEDIGER: Well, then,I would have to insist upon the witness being called, and, of course, it is clear to me that this witness can hardly be called because of the time element. The affiant is also in Belin, but since the Prosecution objects to the submission of this affidavit, I have to insist on the appearance of the witness.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, certainly you will remember that Dr. Riediger asked the assistance of the Tribunal in order to procure a witness who will prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant Haensch was in Berlin and not in the East. If Dr. Riediger after having had three witness on the same subject brings into court with the assistance of the Tribunal on the last day, the fourth witness who is not able to testify on his own, to these facts, and then requests an affidavit of the fifth witness now --

THE PRESIDENT: Well, the affidavit is out, Mr. Hochwald, you need not argue that.

MR. HOCHWALD: --- so I think it is unnecessary to call at this late stage of the trial a fifth witness to the stand.

THE PRESIDENT: Witness, do you know the defendant Haensch?

THE WITNESS: No.

Q Do you recognize him there in the defendants' dock?

Q Do you remember his having come to see you?

Q Do you remember having treated him at all?

man --.

THE INTERPRETER: Your Honor, will you please repeat?

THE PRESIDENT: Is the defendant who is here in the courtroom the same man whose name appears on this exhibit?

THE WITNESS: First of all, I would have to see the defendant to tell that.

Q Well, do you know who Haensch is?

A Who he is?

Q Do you know him? Do you recognize him? that mean to you? Suppose I said that he was Haensch (pointing to Dr. von Stein, German Counsel) would that mean anything to you?

Q Well, then, look in the defendants' dock and see if you can recognize him?

Q Then you have no independent recollection of Haensch at all? of indicating whether Haensch came to you for treatment, or not? Walter Haensch living at Hartmannsweiler weg 19 was treated by me in 1941 and '42.

Q Let's suppose that you didn't have this memorandum, this card. Can you of your own recollection recall that a Walter Haensch had come to you for treatment? about ninety to one-hundred patients a day, and I can not remember such a small case as this one, and I could not recognize the patient, either.

THE PRESIDENT: I must congratulate you on your big business, ninety to one-hundred patients a day is quite a thriving dental business.

Page 5,524

THE PRESIDENT: Where were these cards kept?

THE WITNESS: In large file boxes.

Q How far back did they go? How far back in dates do these records go? that these old file indexes were still available, because when I came home from the war, I didn't assume that all these old papers were still there, and, only now because of this particular card that I was convinced they were still there.

Q Did you go to get this card yourself?

A No. This card was on my desk, and my assistant told me that this Mrs. Haensch had been to see me, and that at her request she had looked for the card.

Q You didn't see where the cards were kept?

Q And you didn't see attic with these cards yourself before you came down to testify? boxes?

Q You don't remember seeing a box with the indication of 19411942, you don't know what boxes you do have up there, sofar as these records are concerned?

A The boxes are not numbered according to the years. They are only the files and they were just there ih order to start a fire with them.

Q How is it you never started a fire with this one. What was so precious about this one that you didn't start a fire.

Q You yourself have no recollection of this particular card?

instead of this card? After the war I started colored file cards, but this file card is of a white color, and therefore, it is a file which was used before the war or during the war.

Q Of course, I know that you immediately see that my "chickenscratching" would be different from what appears upon this card, but let's suppose that some one got a card similar to this, and wrote various itmes on the card, and wrinkled it up, and soiled it a little bit, and put it on your desk, you would have no way of knowing yourself whether it was the original card, or not? entries are concerned, for example, the accounts, these are entries made by the medical office which made up the bills, who listed the numbers, it is impossible that any human being can falsify the making up of these numbers, or fabricate to just to envent them.

Q Was this hill paid for? ting office, or clearing office, and as the files show, the bills were then paid to this clearing office.

Q Was the treatment for the 7th of February paid for?

A I assume so. We had ended the treatment, but I can not say at the moment when the final bill was paid.

Q Why was it that the treatment for February 7th was not paid?

A That is no treatment. That is merely a polishing off of the filling, which is just additional.

Q You do that for nothing?

items as work done. Let me put it in another way. You have here various items of work done?

Q Then you draw a line and you total the amount to be paid? one day.

Q When was this bill paid for, please? I am referring now to the first group of items on the exhibits. in cash. ing line?

A This entry of a bill is made up in one day. In other words, the various individual amounts are filled in and the totaling line is made on the same day on which the bill goes out to the patient.

Q Why did the bill go out before the job was completed? file the last day of treatment was the 7th of February. below the totalling line? February comes before April. Why then wouldn't February 7th appear before April on that card? the 23rd of April, and below the bill she made the totalling line. ruary 7th wasn't written after that card was made up, if it doesn't obviously show an addition to the card. Now, just tell us frankly if that isn't the impression you gained from it?

Q You see that February 7 is in different ink?

Q You see it is a different handwriting? There is no doubt about it as far as that is concerned.

Q Now you say it is the same handwriting. It doesn't appear to be. Why are you so certain it is the same handwriting? fied them or forged them in any manner.

Q Well, that is a conclusion which I am asking you now. Leaving aside the business of fabrication, leaving aside any notions about fabrication, doesn't it appear different to you there?

A No. There is a difference to be sure, but I see this difference between the other entries too.

Q Did you see her handwriting in different forms?

A You mean the handwriting of the assistant? Oh, I think I do know it. always uniform, the same? writing. Once she writes straight, once across, once the other way. It is somewhat unbalanced. Sometimes the entries were quickly made, and those which show the bills were neatly put down, and there the handwriting is more distinct again.

Q Now, Doctor, just please consider this question. On February 7th, according to that card, you had the patient in your office and did something to his teeth, is that right?

Q 23rd. Why wouldn't the item of February 7th be above the item of the sending out of the bill since it preceded it in date?

Q Very well, let's have the exhibit. (The exhibit was handed back to the President). Over what period of time in all did you have Haensch as a dental patient?

Q Does that sound reasonable to you?

A Yes, absolutely. I can even find an explanation for what was wrong with the tooth. did you polish the patient's teeth? or polished off.

Q You mean in two years he only had one filling?

A May I see the card once more? (The exhibit was handed back to the witness). The treatment time was from the 16th of November until the 7th of May, '43, and the same tooth was always concerned. In the time in between, on the 23rd and 27th of October, a tooth was pulled from the patient.

Q when was that? treated by you in any way, not the extracted one, the one that was filled? and treated once more.

Q Let me have the copy. (The exhibit was handed back to the President.) Was the treatment in 1943 similar to the one that took place in the early part of 1942?

Q Just tell me what you did in January '42 to this tooth, 14th of January '42?

pains, because the tooth was opened up, and then at regular intervals it received temporary fillings. Then finally the root was treated and finally I made one filling which was to last.

Q All right, that was the 14th of January, 1942. Now, what did you do in March of 1943?

A On the 11th of March '43 the patient must have come to me with the same opened up tooth.

Q And did you treat it the same way?

Q And subsequently, that is in May, 1943; he received two fillings? 14 January, 1942?

Q Now, did you polish teeth after filling?

A I advised this to the patient. It isn't obligatory, but the patients have it done so that the filling will last longer.

Q Why didn't you polish the fillings, the two fillings which you gave the patient in May of 1943? ment did not come. fillings; do you regard that as important?

A Well, it isn't absolutely necessary, but in order to keep the filling in place it is advisable.

Q But you didn't polish these teeth in May, did you?

Q And you didn't regard it as of too much importance, desirable, but not too important? when you had only one filling? when the patient appeared. It may be that the patient appeared on his own and at the same time the examination and the polishing off were done.

Q Is the polishing considered part of the treatment? treatment if it was part of the regular treatment?

Q Why didn't she do it that way in May?

Q Well, if you consider it part of the treatment, why didn't you see that the polishing was had? him. in February?

one.

Q What did you treat the patient for in November, 1941?

A Pardon me, I can't tell from memory. (The Exhibit was handed back to the witness). In November, is that right?

Q You opened the tooth?

Q What do you mean by opening a tooth? some gas and after half an hour the patient becomes free of pain.

Q All right, and what did you do in the next item? That is, you say he is free of pain. Did he say that he was free of pain?

A That is a matter of course. That goes without saying. On the 19th of November he got his first filling.

Q All right, now which tooth was that, the first filling?

Q Then the next item, what does it say?

Q Same tooth?

Q I thought you had filled it before?

A Oh, no, that was too early. The patient got three antiseptic temporary fillings. That was between the time of the 19th of November and the 3rd of December. Then according to the file the tooth was all right, it was clean, and on the 14th of December he got the filling in the root of the tooth, and on the 14th of January the treatment was concluded.

Q Always the same tooth?

THE PRESIDENT: Any further questions?

Page 5,533

REDIRECT EXAMINATION(Continued) BY DR. RIEDIGER: could you then tell whether you made this treatment at that time on his teeth?

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, I ask that it be permitted that the witness may look at the teeth of the defendant.

THE PRESIDENT: He can certainly look at the tooth of the defendant providing he can tell us by looking at the teeth when he treated the teeth. If he has the date on the tooth we will allow him to read that date and inform the Tribunal.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honor, but first of all it has to be clarified since the witness testified before that he cannot remember the defendant, but that the defendant was actually treated by the witness. Of course the question of time cannot be determined on examining the teeth, but considering the testimony before, that he personally does not know the defendant, it seems necessary to me.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Riediger, he does not know the defendant, does not remember him, does not recollect him, couldn't recognize him. Now you are submitting to the Tribunal that by looking at a tooth he can tell whether it is his work or not, is that what we understand?

DR. RIEDIGER: I could imagine that every dentist has his own special technique and that he can always recognize whether he did a particular piece of work. At least then we could clarify whether the witness has treated the defendant and furthermore the witness can determine whether the treatment, the dental treatment as is shown by the file was actually carried out.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Riediger, we will allow the examination, and we will let it take place at fifteen minutes after eleven, quarter after eleven, and it will be in this antechamber so that the witness can be in there, and we will make arrangements with the marshal about having the defendant there.

Both counsel can be present, of course.

DR. RIEDIGER: Your Honors, with regard to the assistant of the witness-

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Before Riediger makes a motion I would like to ask the witness two questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Certainly, of course. BY MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD:

Q Witness, were you present when your assistant spoke to Mr. Haensch? box? tant nobody else had this record in his hand or his possession before you would see it on your desk?

A No. The card was in my folder on the desk and Frau Jauer handed it to me together with other important papers which I had to take care of. handed to you?

Q Wherefrom do you know that? anyone would tamper with it.

Q You presume that?

THE PRESIDENT: When we reconvene the witness will be escorted into the antechamber and then the defendant will be taken in. During the recess there will be no communication between attorney and defendant involved and the witness. The Tribunal will now be in recess for fifteen minutes.

(A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: For the purposes of the dental examination, which is to be made of the defendant involved, the Tribunal will retire to the antechamber; and there will be in attendance Counsel from both sides; the reporters, German and English speaking, will be in the antechamber to take the notes; the interpreters will also be in attendance. the back row into the antechamber. interpreters. examination, and then, of course, we will take up here in the same court room again.

COURT NO. II, CASE NO. IX.

THE PRESIDENT: The reporters are set? The witness will not be brought in. Please sit down there, Witness. Now, Witness, in view of the fact that you have stated that you can recognize your own dental work, we will submit several individuals to you and you tell us which one or ones carry dental work performed by you. Marshal, please take the first man silting there. The next defendant. What was his reply to that?

THE WITNESS: No, that is impossible. No again.

THE PRESIDENT: Just a minute. Sit down, Witness. Are you examining the defendant only to determine whether a particular tooth has been treated?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it is very obvious that if you are going to look only for that one tooth, which the card indicates you have treated, that this test is of no avail because all you will need to do is to find that tooth which corresponds to the tooth on the card and say that is your work.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: No, no, I don't think that he got the point. Which tooth are you looking for?

THE WITNESS: I am looking for the left upper 7, the lower left 5. The left upper 7 has a bridge, therefore it is not possible. On the second the lower left 5 was still there.

THE PRESIDENT: So that if the man who stands before you has no obvious repair work to the left upper 7 or the lower left 5, you immediately discard him as having been a patient of yours?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Now, the test, therefore, is of no avail because you are merely looking for the left upper 7 and the lower left 5, and not for your actual work?

Page 5,537

THE WITNESS: Very well.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, is that so?

THE WITNESS: Yes, that is correct.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, then the left upper 7 has a bridge, therefore, it is not possible that it is your work.

(Off the record discussion.)

THE PRESIDENT: For the record. In view of the fact that the prosecution does not deny that the teeth which the witness is looking for are actually teeth which have been treated, no probative value will be served in the continuation of this test. It was assumed by the Tribunal when the test was begun that the witness would examine generally the mouths of the six defendants who are here, and that he would be able to determine or not determine merely by looking at the general dental work in the mouth of the particular person he was examining whether this work was his or not. The witness now states that he does not look generally into the subject's mouth to locate his dental work, but he looks only to see whether the left upper 7 and the lower left 5 were in any way treated. Since the prosecution does not deny that these two teeth may have been treated, the test is of no probative value whatsoever, and on the contrary might convey an impression or conclusion which does not result from the actual physical facts of the test. The defendants will not be returned to the court room. The witness will be returned to the witness box. The reporters and interpreters will return.

THE PRESIDENT: Does Prosecution counsel, or counsel for the defendant Haensch desire to address any further questions to the witness?

MR. HOCHWALD: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: We should now determine, Dr. Hochwald, whether the other witness referred to is to be called or not. It must be apparent that in view of this witnesses statement that he doesnot remember the defendant, does not recognize the defendant, has no independent recollection of any work done to the defendant, and his testimony is based entirely on this care; that the authenticity of this card is a matter of moment. with what serenity this witness who made up the card may be brought to Nurnberg.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I only want to repeat shortly what I have already said. Two witnesses for who defense were heard as to the date of Haensch's presence in B erlin.

THE PRESIDENT: You are opposed to bringing in the witness?

DR. HOCHWALD: I am opposed to bringing in the witness and I do not recognize the authenticity of the charge.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Riediger, it is only fair that you be aware of what the Tribunal just stated that this witnesses testimony being based entirely and exclusively upon this card, can only have the probative value which must be obvious to anyone, so it is for you to determine whether you want this matter to rest as it is orwhether you believe it is necessary to support the alleged authenticity of this card.

DR. RIEDIGER: May it please the Tribunal, I have request for the defense that this witness be called to Nurnberg. The Prosecution objected to the introduction of the affidavit, but the witness is very important.

DR. HOCHWALD: Does the affidavit contain the name and address of this witness?

DR. RIEDIGER: It does. Berlin-Zehlendorf/Teltowerdamm. It is Mrs. Yauer, Hertha Yauer nee Schoch.

THE PRESIDENT: In view of the fact we have announced several times throughout the trial that every opportunity will be given the defense to obtain and submit testimony and evidence, even this ususual request will be allowed. It is to be regretted that all this wasn't done in ample time before we had reached this point in the trial, but the Tribunal is not going to complain or criticize anyone. We are interested in ascertaining the truth in every given instance. The affidavit will provisionally be held in abeyance until the efforts have been made to obtain the witness. The affidavit may or may not be introduced in evidence with the opportunity given to the Prosecution to cross-examine. The Tribunal instructs the Marshal, or rather the Secretary General, to immediately notify the Defense Center to contact this witness and have the witness brought forthwith to Nurnberg. The program of this week will continue as previously announced, and when this witness arrives opportunity will be found to hear her.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, in view of the fact that the Prosecution does not submit that the chart are correct. I would ask the Tribunal to have the chat given to the disposal of the Prosecution, so that tin Prosecution can have a handwriting expert look over the chart and we respectfully request that the handwriting expert be heard at the same time as the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: That request is a reasonable one, we only request from both counsel the necessity for speed in all of this so that there will be no unnecessary delay occasioned by this very late evidence. The card will now be placed in the custody of the Secretary General, and the Prosecution will have access to it for the purpose of having an expert witness examine the exhibit, in order to testify with regard to the handwriting appearing upon the exhibit.

DR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much.

THE PRESIDENT: The present witness is instructed that he must not correspond, communicate or converse with the witness who is to be called.

Page 5,540

The witness who is claimed to have entered the various items on the card in question. You understand that, witness, that you are not to talk?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, the witness will be excused.

Dr. Gick, you have filed a motion for an opportunity to crossexamine the witness who had submitted an affi*avit with regard to the defendant Strauch's mental condition. We had that witness in Court all morning, but were unable to locate you. We have now instructed that witness to be here at 3:30. Will you please be here at that time, so that this matter can be disposed of?

DR. GICK: Yes, Your Honor. This is an American physician, is it?

THE PRESIDENT: That is correct.

Who is now ready with the document books?

DR. GAWLIK: (for the defendant Naumann) Your Honor, I should like to present Document Book Naumann No. II and III and No. IV, and I would like to quote from these books.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed.

DR. GAWLIK: I submit first from Document Book III Naumann Documents 13 to 17, in order to prove the extension of Partisan activity in the area where Einsatzgruppe B was active when Naumann was Chief of the Einsatzgruppe B. I want to prove that the fighting in the Partisan activity was the main activity of Einsatz Group B, especially the Group Staff, and that this took up all of Naumann's time. This confirms Naumann's statements that he did not take part in any executions, and he at no time had a hand in executions, and at the same time that Naumann's time was completely taken up in combatting Partisans. I now submit Document 13, which receives Exhibit No. 8. It is on pages 15 to 16 of Document Book III. Here is the report of the occupied Eastern territories. I draw the attention of the Tribunal to the statements made in this document that the Partisans' activity in this territory increased considerably and that large areas were infested by armed bands, and that Partisan activity became so extensive that whole villages were forced to supply the Partisans with necessary food stuffs.

that Naumann was active in combatting the Terrorists.

I now submit Document 14, which receives Exhibit No. 9. It is on page 17 to 18 of the Document Book. From this document also the extent of Partisan activity and the difficulties in combatting them. The same applies to Document 15, Page 19, Doc. Book III , which will receive Exhibit No. 10.

I now submit Document 16 as Exhibit No. 11, page 20 to 21 of the Document Book; and Document Naumann 17, Exhibit 12, page 22. armed bands becomes evident, and also the difficulty of combatting these bands. It is evident from this document that the bands were heavily armed. 20. With these documents I intend to prove the other tasks and activities of Einsatzgroup B, especially of the Group Staff, and especially of Naumann himself. These also were assignments which Naumann had to deal with personally as Chief of Einsatzgroup-B, which took up most of his time and could not be left to other members.

Next I submit Document 18 as Exhibit No. 13, which is on pages 23 to 27 of the Document Book. Here is an extensive report on the reorganization of the educational system in the territory of Einsatzgroup-B. Also from this document the difficulties become evident in carrying out these measures.

DR. GAWLIK: Now, I submit Nauman Document No. 19, Exhibit Nauman No. 14, page 28 to 31 of the Document Book. This is an extensive report concerning the introduction of the new agricultural statute, terminating the system of communal management and the re-intorudction of private owenership.

In this connection, I also submit Nauman Document No. 20, which will receive Exhibit No. 15, on page 32 to 39 of the Document Book. Here is an extensive report which goes into detail about the so-called tax detail system, the regulation of taxes and finances within the Einsatzgruppe B, the foundation of new bank institutes. From this report, it also becomes evident that the activity constituted great difficulties. From the bulk of reports received, concerning all spheres, I selected these three reports and introduce them as evidence. There is a bulk of such documents and reports which we could have submitted in order to give an extensive and exhaustive impression of Nauman's activity. These three reports, which I have submitted are typical reports of the three particular spheres of assignments. From these reports Nauman's activities become evidents in the carrying out of these measures, Nauman's work was absolutely necessary. He had to deal personally with these tasks, he personally,just as much as in anti-partisan operations, but his collaboration in the carrying out of the Hitler Order, which was issued before Naumann's time of activity was not necessary. Therefore, Nauman's statements should be credible that he did not take part in carrying out these executions, and he did not even collaborate.

The further documents which I submit concern Nauman's attitude and behavior in Holland. These documents also are to support Nauman's statements and they are to support his credibility to the effect that he did not take part in executions. They have a second purpose: If the Tribunal should hold the opinion that Nauman collaborated and participated in executions. These further documents are supposed to prove that Nauman really acted on the basis of Hitler's Order which he 2 Feb 1948_M_MSD_11_2_Arminger (Hildesheimer) had to carry out as he was a soldier himself.

But if anyone believes that he did participate, this shows that he would not have carried out these measures, if this order had not existed which he rejected instinctively. This becomes evident from Naumann's behavior in Holland, where such an order was not given. And this material has a third purpose, namely to refute the Prosecution's rebuttal Document 236. I want to draw the special attention of the Tribunal to the fact that these statements were made by official Dutch agencies, namely, the Dutch Red Cross. These are passages from Naumann Document Book II and they are contained in Document No. 9, which is Exhibit Nauman No. 16. It is page 9 to 10, and Document Nauman No. 10, which will receive Exhibit No. Nauman No. 17, it is on page 11 to 12. These two agents and representatives of the Dutch Red Cross have furthermore also made out affidavits contained in Document Book IV. It is Nauman No. 21, offered as Exhibit Nauman No. 18, pages 40 to 41 of Document Book No. IV, and Naumann No. 22, which will receive now Exhibit No, 19, pages 42 to 43.

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment, I don't have IV, Dr. Gawlik.

(To the Secretary General) Do you have a copy of IV?

MR. NAB: No, I haven't, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Are you certain that it was translated and mimeographed?

DR. GAWLIK: I have not received the translation, Your Honor, but I assumed that the translation had been submitted by this morning to the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: How many documents are there in there, Dr. Gawlik?

DR. GAWLIK: Document Book IV has five affidavits. The document book itself contains seven pages.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWAL: If the Tribunal please, inasmuch as it is obvious that Mr. Ferencz has not received the document book, and I do not know any details about whether he wants me to make objections against some of these documents, it would possibly be better if Dr.

Gawlik could postpone his presentation of the document book until after the mid-day recess. I shall try to contact Mr. Ferencz. If Dr. Gawlik will or can furnish me with a German copy. I shall take these documents up with Mr. Ferenz and then I can tell the Tribunal whether we are objecting against these documents.

THE PRESIDENT: You mean, Document Book IV?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: This Document Book which does not exist, Document Book No. IV.

THE PRESIDENT: Would that be agreeable to you, Dr. Gawlik?

DR. GAWLIK: Yes, Your Honor. I agree to this arrangement.

THE PRESIDENT: Is some other defense counsel ready?

DR. GAWLIK: I still have to submit my document books for Seibert.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, yes.

DR. GAWLIK (Attorney for the Defendant Seibert): May I first ask whether Document Book Seibert No. II and III have been submitted to the Tribunal in English?

MR. NAB: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Would you please get mine?

You may proceed, Dr. Gawlik.

DR. GAWLIK: First I submit documents which are to prove the activity of Seibert in the staff of Einsatzgruppe D. There is first of all Document Seibert No. 30. In volume II, pages 41 to 42, and will receive Exhibit No. 27. This is an affidavit of Dr. Roessner. From this document the assignments and activities of Seibert in the Group Staff become evident, especially the fact that Seibert during his assignment in Einsatzgruppe D was only the Chief of Department III and had to make out reports about the domestic spheres. Furthermore, in order to prove that Seibert was not the deputy of Ohlendorf, this has been submitted. This becomes evident from paragraph 2 of the affidavit and it cannot be deduced from the facts that Seibert 2 Feb 1948_M_MSD_11_4_Arminger (Hildesheimer) signed reports with I.V. -- that is "for". This does not prove in fact that he was the deputy of Ohlendorf for the entire group.

Roessner is acquainted with the conditions in the agencies which concerned Ohlendorf and he knows that Ohlendorf made a special arrangement, as he never appointed a deputy for all the tasks and the departmental deputies had to sign "for" on matters concerning the department they were in charge of during Ohlendorf's absence.

I furthermore now submit Seibert Document No. 28, which is in Volume II. It will receive Exhibit No. 28. It is in Document Book II, page 39. It is the affidavit of Beckhof, a personnel official in Office III during the war. He also says that Seibert worked in the Staff as the Departmental Chief of Office III and only in this capacity and that he was not the Deputy Chief of Einsatzgruppe D.

Now I submit and offer Document Seibert No. 29, which will receive Exhibit No. 29 in Volume II, page 40. Here we have an affidavit of a general, a former general, von Halder concerning the signatures of staff functionaries. This document has been submitted in order to prove the significance of a signature on a report within the armed forces. From the affidavit of this man von Halder, it becomes evident that responsibility was assumed for the report when signing it only inasfar as the compilation of reports was concerned, that it had been done in an orderly manner from the original reports, but it does not necessarily mean that the events actually occurred and that the responsibility is actually assumed for the carrying out of the operations.

I now submit as Document Seibert No. 36, Volume IV, Exhibit 30, which is on page 51. It is an affidavit -

THE PRESIDENT: Just a moment, Dr. GAWLIK. Volume IV, Mr. Nab, is it available?

MR. NAB: IV?

THE PRESIDENT: IV, Seibert No. IV.

MR. NAB: II and III are all.

DR. GAWLIK: We will come to it at a later point. to the SD organization, and I submit in this connection Seibert Documents No. 27, Volume II, which will now receive Exhibit No. 30. It is on page 38 of Volume II. Document Seibert No. 33 from Volume III, pages 45 and 46, which I shall give Exhibit No. 31 and Document Seibert No. 34 from Volume III, which will receive Exhibit No. 32, Volume III, pages 47 to 48. From these documents. Exhibits 30 and 31, the activity of Seibert becomes evident in Office III and it becomes especially evident from Document 27, exibit 30 that this activity was in no way secret or camouflaged. Document Seibert No. 34, and affidavit by Dr. Ehlich with a sketch which has been included. The correctness of this sketch has been certified to in the affidavit under oath Dr. Ehlich. This sketch gives us a picture of the difference between the SD Dews Information Service and the SS Special Formation SD, two personnel organizations Which are easily confused.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the prosecution objects against this document. The question before the Tribunal is only whether Seibert was a member of the SD or not. What the SD is and which formations of the SD belong to the criminal organization SD was decided by the International Military Tribunal. The offering of evidence as to the question of which one of the formations of the SD might have been criminal and which were not is immaterial in this trial.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gawlik, you know that the only tests to be be made in connection with membership in the SD are: Was the defendant actually a member? Was he a voluntary member, and being a member, was he aware of the criminal activities of that organization? Now, if this document goes to anyone of these three criteria, then it would be relevant, but if it merely goes to argue that the SD or some part of it was not criminal, then you run counter to what is already res adjudicata.

DR. GAWLIK: Your Honor, this concerns the third count of the indictment whether he was aware of the criminal activities of the SD or whether he knew about such an activity.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, if it has to do with whether he knew, then it would be relevant.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I understood the explanation which Dr. Galik gave to the document completely different. He said there are two different types of SD which are different and he wants to show that he was in the type which didn't do a thing, so the explanation of Dr. Gawlik to the document certainly is a different one from the reason why he wants to submit it, so either the document may be ruled out or the explanation may be ruled out, but both cannot stand.

DR. GAWLIK: I wanted to reply the following to this, Your Honor, if the prosecutor would have let me finish, when he would have understood that there is no difference and that my statements are not by any means illogical. What I said here was only the introduction to my statements which was merely the basis for what I was about to say.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, suppose that at the end you make your objection to whatever documents you object to?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal would kindly rule just now on this document, that the document is admitted in evidence only as to the criminal knowledge of criminal activities, the prosecution will certainly be satisfied with this order.

DR. GAWLIK: Unfortunately I am not getting the opportunity to finish my statements, because the document is also relevant concerning the second point which I want to prove concerning the membership of the defendant Seibert in the SS. With this I want to prove that Seibert was not a member of that part of the SS which was described as criminal by the IMT, but he was merely a member of the so-called SS formation SD and in order to clarify this particular point, this special formation, this organization, the SD, was not an organization actually and it did not fulfill all the conditions which would make it an organization in the sense of the statutes and in order to prove to the Tribunal what this special SS formation called "SD" was, that is the second point I wanted to prove with this sketch.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the second reason, of course, is in the same way objectionable as the first reason of Dr. Gawlik. Also this second reason that Dr. Gawlik gives attacks the decision of the International Military Tribunal. Unless I am very much mistaken, I do not think that among those members of the SS which were not members of the criminal organization, the memb ers of the SS formation SD are named in the judgment; in the judgment those formations of the SS which are not to be considered criminal are emphasized. Among those formations the Special Formation SD certainly is not mentioned. I can only repeat my suggestion. If the Tribunal would kindly rule that this document can be admitted only insofar as it is offered to disprove knowledge of criminal activities and nothing else.

DR. GAWLIK: May I say something, Your Honor? It is inaccurate the way in which the prosecutor put it, that only those formations are named in the IMT which are not considered criminal but also those formations are named in the IMT judgment which are considered criminal, because it mentions the general SS, the Waffen SS, or the SS Death Head organizations, the police organizations, as far as the members were members of the SS as well. This special SS formation SD is not mentioned and I should like to point out here the following: This was not done because the IMT did not know about this special SS formation SD. This special SS formation SD was discussed at great length and described in numerous documents, before commissions and before the Tribunal. The Witness Hoepner was heard concerning this. The records proving it can be read, and, as far as I remember, the Witness Hoepn er was examined about the 1 st of august, 1946, by the IMT on the witness stand. If the Tribunal, that is, the IMT, had wanted to declare this SS formation SD organization as criminal, they would have made special mention of the SD when listing those SS formations considered criminal.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, this is entirely argument. If Dr. Gawlik is in a position to prove that in the decision of the International Military Tribunal, the Special Formation SD was not found criminal, he may do so. I do not think that this exhibit as such can prove anything which is found by the International Military Tribunal. The opinion of the judgment speaks for itself. No additional proof can be offered on the part of the Defense Counsel.

DR, GAWLIK: Of course, I will comment on this in detail in my final plea, but I haven't got this opportunity to make these statements in my final arguments concerning this and referring to this document, if this document was not admitted in evidence. I know, of course, these are arguments, but I have to argue now in order to get this document admitted. If the prosecutor -

THE PRESIDENT: In view of the feet that the IMT did indicate some exceptions to the SS formations, certainly counsel should be allowed to show that his client cones within some of those exceptions. At any rate, we will admit the document for the probative value which will be ascertained at a later date.

DR. GAWLIK: Concerning the case in chief, I want to point out the second point which I shall explain. The difference between the SS formation SD and SD Information Service as becomes evident from the chart here the letter was composed of personnel from the Criminal Police , the State Police and the SD, but the Tribunal can see from this chart that only a small part of the SD Information Service Office VI were members of the SS Special Formation SD. Concerning the political attitude we come to the next point, concerning the political attitude and character of Seibert, now I submit Document Seibert 31, page 43 in Document Book II, Exhibit 34, Document Seibert No. 32 in Document Book II, page 44, which will now receive Exhibit No. 35-- I am sorry, the preceding document was 33 and this one is 34, and Document Seibert No. 35, as Exhibit 35 from Volume III, pages 49 through 50.

I draw the special attention of the Tribunal to Documen t Seibert No. 35, Exhibit No. 35, from which Seibert's political attitude and especially his attitude towards the Jewish problem becomes evident. I would like to submit the remainder of the documents which I still have in the afternoon.

THE PRESIDENT: Will other counsel be ready to continue with the presentation of document books?

Mr. Hochwald?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I have three or four documents for my colleagues and myself to submit. It will only take five minutes.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:45.

(A recess was taken until 1345 hours.)

AFTERNOON SESSION:

THE HARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. DURCAMOLZ: (For Dr. Mayer and for Dr. Braune.) the session so that he can discuss something in the transcript with his attorney, and I ask that he be brought to Room 57 at once.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Braune will be excused immediately and will be taken to Room 57, so that he may consult with his attorney

A. Thank you,

THE PRESIDENT: You are welcome.

DR. GAWLIK: Your Honor, I have been informed that Document Book IV for Naumann and Document Book III for Siebert are now available for the Tribunal. May I now continue?

THE PRESIDENT: Please do. Will you start with Naumann?

DR. GAWLIK: No, I will start with Seibert, because I only have one more document for Seibert.

THE PRESIDENT: Which book is that?

DR. GAWLIK: Document Book IV, page 51, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: All right proceed, please.

DR. GAWLIK: From Document Book IV for Seibert I submit Document No. 36. This receives the Exhibit No. 36. It is in Document Book IV, Seibert, Page 51. Affidavit of Woehler, and I submit it to you as proof that Seibert was not the permanent deputy of the Einsatzgroup Chief; and secondly that the work of Seibert did not include any type of executive measures. This concludes my presentation of documents for Seibert.

I now continue the presentation of documents for Naumann. I stopped with the documents which concerned Naumann's conduct in Holland. The subject matter of these documents have already been listed by me this morning. These documents follow document No. 6. Exhibit No. 5, which is the affidavit of Lily Vander Schalk, who as it is said in her affidavit, was able to establish the conflict in the conscience of Naumann between the choice of his ideals and international decency, as she expressed it.

For this purpose and in order to direct your attention to this point I submit from Document Book Naumann II Document No. 9 as Exhibit No. 16, and Naumann Document No. 10 as Exhibit No. 17. These are pages 9 and 10, and pages 11 to 12 from Volume II. These are statements of official Dutch agencies, namely the Dutch Red Cross; and certain documents from Volume Naumann IV also belong to this, namely document 21, pages 40 to 41, in Volume IV, and Naumann Document 22, which is on pages 42 to 43. These four documents show that first of all Naumann improved the hospital installations in a camp, that he prevented misuses, and that he was able to got the release of the Dutch people who had been held as hostages. These documents also show which is to receive special consideration here, that in these camps in as far as the hostages were concerned, Naumann was not competent for this. Naumann, therefore, did everything that was in his power and more than what he did he could not do considering his position 13.

I submit this as Exhibit No. 20. This document shows that Naumann was able to get the release of a dutchman who had been arrested because he favored Jews. This particular document shows Naumann's attitude toward the Jewish question. 21. This is the affidavit of the dutchman, Dr. K. J. Frederiks, the former Secretary General in the Ministry of the Interior. This document shows that Naumann, first of all, saved four Dutchmen who had been sentenced to death. Secondly, that he prevented the conviction of six Dutch mayors, and thirdly, that he got several Dutch mayors released from custody. This document is the proof for Naumann's attitude towards the population in a German occupied territory.

From Document Book IV I submit Naumann documents 23 to 25. I submit Naumann Document 23, pages 44 to 45 as Exhibit No. 22. Document 25 on page 47, I submit as Exhibit No. 23. These are affidavits of Lagos and Woelk. Both confirm the statements of the Dutch Led Cross about Naumann's resistance against all measures of oppression. It is furthermore shown how Naumann, by going beyond his competence and his power, intervened against the abuses in the camps, and that furthermore as far as he saw any injustices during his inspection trips he immediately intervened against them. Exhibit 24. This is the affidavit of Rauter, which confirms the statement about Naumann's intervention against the abuse in the camps. Especially Naumann saw to it that the camp commandant was arrested, indicted and convicted. That concludes my presentation for Naumann.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, who is next?

DR. BELZER: (For the defendant Graf) Your Honor, one of the presiding judges of these trials has said once it was the right of defense counsel to forgot something once, and I made use of this right when I inspected the transcript of 15 January this year, and I established that during my presentation I forgot to submit Document Graf No. 20.

Therefore, the exhibit number 18 which was supposed to be given to this was left open. I would like to use this opportunity to make up for this, and herewith declare that I have now submitted Graf Document 20 as Exhibit No. 18.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. LUMMERT (For the defendant Blume): Your Honor, I ask that I may be permitted to offer the four remaining documents for the defendant Blume. Those are Blume documents 31 to 34. The Prosecution has received these documents last Thursday in English and in German. These documents are to be attached to Volume II for Blume, and are to be attached to this volume, and I assume they are available to the Tribunal. The Index on page 3, of Document Book II. The first document is Document 31, the affidavit of the Witness Kunz. It is on page 74 of Document Book II. This affidavit contains two examples of the excellent leadership of the defendant Blume as police officer in Greece. Kunz at the time belonged to the agency of the Police Headquarters of General Shimana. Shimana was superior to the defendant Blume. On page 74 an example is listed, according to which the defendant Blume immediately took measures against a camp leader, Radonski, when the leader misbehaved himself, and that Blume appointed a certain man by the name of Fischer as successor for Radonski, who was good natured and unpretentious and the opposite of his predecessor Radonski. On page 75 at the bottom and the top of page 76, is another example. Here Blume complains General Shimana about a certain Dr. Begus, when he carried out seizures and arrests to which he was not entitled according to Blume's idea. was present when Kaltenbrunner, the Chief of the RSH A, represented General Shimana that he and Blume had practiced Greece policy, but not German policy. This, I think, is typical of the correct condition of defendant Blume in Greece.

The nex document, No. 32, is an affidavit of the witness Pinder, and this affidavit supplements the preceeding one in which the affiant Pinder know some details about the cases of Radonski and Dr. Begus; even better than the affiant Kunz.

Therefore, I offer this document.

The next Document, No. 33 -

THE PRESIDENT: Are you giving the exhibit numbers?

DR. LUMMERT: Your Honor, the exhibit numbers are again the same as the document numbers.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. That is a good system.

The next document No. 33 is an affidavit of the witness Haefner. It is on Page 60 of Document Book II. When I examined the defendant Blume on the witnessstand, that was on redirect examination, the defendant Blume mentioned that he was once put in a position to be obliged to carry out the so-called Fuehrer Order, but that he had succeeded in preventing the carrying out because the circumstances at the time were particularly favorable, so that he was able to prevent the carrying out of the order. It was the question of three English sergeant who had been taken prisoner in Greece. They had conducted end been active in the partisan combat. I don't think I have to read the affidavit. The details are evident on Pages 80 and 81.

As the last document No. 34 I offer an affidavit of the defendant Blume himself. Here he makes some supplementary remarks about the kommando case about which the affiant Haefner has reported in Document 33. This concludes my presentation of Documents. for several pages in the transcript. I merely wanted to make sure that I will have time for this before the final pleas are concluded.

THE PRESIDENT: You will have that time.

DR. LUMMERT: Thank you.

DR. ULMER: Dr. Ulmer for Six. Supplements A and B. As the first document I would like to submit Document No. 68, IV A, an affidavit of Dr. Emil Augsburg, of the 25th of January, 1948. He is a former research Chief assistant.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed please.

DR. ULMER: I would like to ask that this document be admitted with the Exhibit No. 48. Because of the submission of Document Book III before Document Book II a mistake arose in the numbering of exhibits and the exhibit number 48 regained open. I don't know whether the Secretary General has get this correct now.

cerned with the, subject matter A which concerns the advance Kommando Moscow. This affidavit by Augsburg is a clarification to the various statements of the date made by the witness Vetter who was heard recently in cross-examination about the return of Dr. Six from Smolensk.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the prosecution objects against the submission of this affidavit and of all affidavits which are intended to impeach the witness Vetter. The Tribunal certainly will recall that the witness Vetter is a witness of the defense and not of the prosecution. The prosecution has only used its right to cross-examine this witness. Whatever has transpired from this cross-examination is testimony of a witness of the defense. It, therefore, seems inadmissible that defense itself now offers proof that the testimony of its own witness was not correct.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, I consciously did not say that I would impeach the statements of the witness Vetter, but I would like to clarify the difference here. Before the witness Vetter appeared I have at least submitted eight or nine affidavits about this date which gave 20 August as the return date. After the witness Vetter had been heard here I had the witness Alander appear here and whatever the witness Alander testified was the 20th of August must be correct, and that the witness Vetter believed something differently when she told you about what she did on the witness stand. I don't want to impeach the witness Vetter. I merely want to offer a few affidavits about this subject, the return of Six on the 20th of August.

MR HORLICK-Hochwald: May I draw the attention of the Tribunal to the different documents. The first one is Six Document No. 68, and if the Tribunal looks into the second paragraph the Tribunal will see that there is direct reference made to the witness Vetter. If the Tribunal looks now -

THE PRESIDENT: What page did you say?

Page 5,558

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: This is Supplement B, Document No. 68, your Honor. This is the newest document, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Oh, yes, I see it.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Second paragraph of the affidavit. If the Tribunal turns now to the document book which is Document Book No. IV, the first document is a document - it is an affidavit of Mrs. Six. In the first line of this document the name of Mrs. Vetter again is mentioned.

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, may I ask that the objections against my documents will be mentioned only after I nave submitted them. At the moment I am submitting Document 68, Augsburg, and I shall offer the other documents later. Perhaps I can bring then altogether. It is correct what Mr. Hochwald says that they do concern themselves with this subject. Perhaps Mr. Hochwald can then present his objections altogether after I have submitted then.

THE PRESIDENT: The Very well, proceed.

DR. ULMER: This affiant of this affidavit Document 68, Dr. Emil Augsburg, confirms that Veronika Vetter, immediately after the artillery fire and before the arrival of the staff of Einsatzgruppe B, had already started to work for the Advance Kommando Moscow, in Smolensk, furthermore, that the witness, namely this Dr. Augsburg, conducted investigations concerning the whereabouts of the university professor Vetter for weeks, and that the witness informed Dr. Augsburg of the results only after the departure of Dr. Six. I do not want to show any more with this affidavit than merely a more exact establishment of the dates which were given generally by the witness Vetter. The witness Vetter referred to a group which moved into one wing after she had already been there,of which she believed to be able to presume that it was the Nebe group with Nebe and in order to make these references more clear, make these more precise, I have had this affidavit made out by a notary public.

As Exhibit No. 59 I offer Document No. 59, an affidavit of the wife of the defendant Six, dated 21st of January 1948. This affidavit contains the preliminary discussions of Frau Six, upon my request at that time, in Stuttgart, together with the witness Vetter, and the statement of how it came about that the witness Vetter, when making out the affidavit for me mentioned this 20th of August as the date for the return trip of Dr. Six from Smolensk.

And the affidavit as such is a confirmation of the affiant from her own knowledge that Six was already in Berlin again on the 23rd of August 41, and sometime later was in Hannover with the affiant.

The Document No. 60 is offered as Exhibit No, 60. It was made up by the former secretary of the defendant, Miss Ilse Richter, from Berlin, The affidavit was given en the 10th of December '47. It confirms that Six went to Hannover end of August '41 in order to take his wife to the hospital.

As Document No. 61 with the Exhibit No. 61 I offer the official confirmation of the hospital of the German Red Cross, Sisterhood Clementinenhaus in Hannover, of the 25th of September '47. This contains the fact that Frau Six was admitted to the hospital on the 1st of September '41. T is admission into the hospital is the memory support of Frau Six for her own definite knowledge about the return of her husband to Germany in August 1941.

I offer Document 62 as Exhibit 62. It is in affidavit made out by the former assistant and collaborator of the defendant, Dr. Horst Mahnke, on the 19th of January '48. This affidavit confirms that the affiant has made out the original of No-58055 submitted by the prosecution in Document Book V-B, Ex. 241 for Mrs. Vetter personally. The affiant states that the heading "Vorkommando Moscow of Einsatzgruppe'B" is to be explained as follows: After Professor Six's departure from Smolensk on 20th of August 1941 the chief of the EinsatzgruppeB, Nebe, carried out his previous effort to get the Moscow Vorkommando under his command. During Six's presence the Vorkommando Moscow was independent from the Einsatzgruppe. Furthermore, in case of Six's presence at this time he would have himself signed this as the chief of Vorkommando Moscow.

Document No. 63, offered as Exhibit No. 63, is made up by the same affiant, Dr. Horst-Mahnke. It was made out on the 19th of January, 1943. Herein it is confirmed that the widow of the university professor, Veronika Vetter, already did service with the Advance Kommando Moscow in Smolensk on the 12th of August 1941, since she was able to get china and table cloths for professor Six's birthday party -- and that in thefinal days of August 1941, possibly on the 23rd of august which is mentioned in her diary, she was given a car b the VKM in order to bring her supplies from her evacuation village.

As Exhibit 64 I offer Document No, 64. This is an official confirmation of the Mayor Korntal dated 19th of January 1948. This document tells us that the child of Veronika Vetter, by the name of Ingebord Vetter, was born on the 22nd of April 1940 in Dresden, Saxony. I went to confirm the student of the witness in her affidavit by this affidavit namely that she had returned to Smolensk with her 12 months old child. In order to make this exact I am giving the birthdate of this child. These were the documents against which the prosecutor objected before. Therefore, I shall stop now in order to let Mr. Hochwald object.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, from the presentation of defense counsel it is absolutely clear that all those documents are introduced in order to impeach the testimony of his own witness. Furthermore, I want to draw the attention of the Tribunal to Document No. 59. That is the first document in the Document Book No. IV. This is an affidavit of Mr. Six. As we are in no position to cross-examine Mrs. Six as she is a close relative of Dr. Six and cannot be compelled by us for cross-examination, this document in itself is inadmissible.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, do you think that that very well known rule of law might be modified in view of the fact that she presents an affidavit?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: We have not been told by defense counsel that she is waiving this right, your honor. We didn't hear anything.

THE PRESIDENT: The wife of a defendant may not be compelled to disclose any evidence which would be inimical to the interests of her husband, but when she voluntarily presents herself to testify in his behalf, then, of course, who voluntarily submits herself to crossexamination and thereby waives that immunity which is given her by the law.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Am I to understand then that she can be called for cross-examination any time?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we submit that to you for your consideration and for Dr. Ulmer's consideration, It may be that he would not want to insist on the affidavit if it entails a cross-examination of the affiant.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: May I assume Your Honors, then that she would be compelled to answer to every question put to her by prosecution in the sane way as a witness not related to defendant?

THE PRESIDENT: As any other witness if she voluntarily subjects herself to the jurisdiction of the Tribunal knowing that she had the immunity against testifying, then she necessarily must submit to whatever court procedure requires, and court procedure, of course, includes cross-examination.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If I understand the Tribunal correctly then we are at liberty to call her for cross-examination.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it depends upon Dr. Ulmer's determination, whether he wants to present this affidavit in the light-

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Possibly Dr. Ulmer may make a statement,

THE PRESIDENT: --of what has transpired here.

DR. ULMER: I have no misgivings about calling the wife of the defendant into the witness stand as a witness in cross-examination because I am of the conviction that this will be welcome to Mrs. Six and would not impede her in any way and that she would take it upon herself without any question. Because being wife of the defendant she was taken into a camp and was interrogated there too, and she wasn't told anything about the fact that she had the immunity against testifying.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, there is a difference between being interrogated and being compelled to give testimony in court. Certainly everyone can be interrogated. The interrogation could not be introduced over her objection in court, but there is no reason why she should not be questioned if anyone desired to question her. question as to whether she should be brought in for cross-examination.

DR. ULMER: I don't want to hold up the trial and as for the date of the 20th of August I have submitted so much evidence. I shall therefore withdraw the statement of the wife of the defendant and I will not submit it in order not to delay the trial. I don't consider it necessary.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I repeat then my objection against Docu ment 68, 59, 60 - oh, 50 is out, 59 is not in evidence, sorry 60, 62, 63 and 64.

Those documents, as the descriptive index of Dr. Ulmer and his presentation just now, prove, introduced in order to impeach testimony given by his own witness in crossexamination

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, I would like to repeat only that Document No. 60 was made out on the 10th of December, 1947, Therefore concern: a D the date of the return of Dr. Six...

MR.HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I am sorry, I do admit that, I am sorry your Honor, there is no objection against Document No. 61. I am sorry it was my mistake.

DR. ULMER: And there is no objection against 60 - 61.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I think we can truneate this discussion with a very simple announcement. While, of course, no side is permitted unless because of extraordinary circumstances, to impeach the testimony of one's own. witness, yet there is no law which produces that side from submitting any evidence which throws additional light on the issue involved. Whether Professor Six did or did not leave any given point at a certain time has become one of the things to be considered here, and any evidence which can throw some light on that particular involvement of the main issue will be received for whatever probative value will eventually be assigned to it, so that we now understand that the Document No. 59, Ellen Six affidavit, is withdrawn, and all others will be accepted.

MR. HOCHWALD: May I respectfully request the Tribunal to rule that all allusions to the witness, Vetter, may be ruled out from those exhibits, that all parts of the affidavit which directly apply to the witness may be ruled out?

DR. ULMER: Your Honor, just through this witness, Vetter, and through the fact that the witness, Vetter, in Stuttgart or Nuernberg made a mistake, at least, she must have made a mistake once, just because of this it is necessary to submit those clarifying documents and point out that they have been presented in order to shed some light on this mistake of the witness Vetter. That is why I always say we are pointing to Vetter, who has made two different statements about the date, not to impeach the credibility of the witness, Vetter, not at all, but where the witness, Vetter, does not say anything or raises doubts in all those who had to listen to her I would like to submit supplementary statements on the basis of which the unclear statement of the witness can be corrected.

THE PRESIDENT: But Mr. Hochwald, such parts of these documents which would run counter to may rule on evidence and which would have no probative value would have no effect on the Tribunal, but we would not like to throw out bodily any document which night give us a little more glean of data on something which is before the court for decision. Now, this Prau Vetter has testified, and Dr. Ulmer claims that she was in error, that it wasn't a purposeful distortion, but that she made a mistake and we know that making mistakes is part of life, and if she did honestly make mistake, he has the right to show that an error was actually made. He is not really impeaching her, that is, in the strict sense of the word; generally he is, because if he claims that she made a mistake, then he is impeaching her, but Dr. Ulmer did not plead surprise when she was on the witness stand, did he, and cross examine her?

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the prosecution has crossexamined her, not Dr. Ulmer.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, but you know that if one side puts a witness on the stand and that witness testifies differently from what the witness told the attorney the attorney, may plead surprise and then cross examine his own witness.

MR.HOCHWALD: He possibly did not do so in form, but he did certainly do so in fact.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, that supports his position all the more, if he cross examined his witness, if he in effect abandoned her because she told a story different from what he had first hoard from her lips, then he has the right to support what he originally claimed that the witness said to him. The evidence will be accepted, and I know Mr. Hochwald will not find it very surprising to find he is overruled by the Tribunal.

MR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much, your Honor.

DR. ULMER: I am offering Document Number 65 as Exhibit 65, but I don't know whether by withdrawing Number 59 I have to change my exhibit numbers or whether the number "59" will remain skipped. Well, under Exhibit 65 I offer Document number 65, affidavit by Heinz Wenninger, a referent of personnel Office in Office I of the RSHA, was made out on the 11th of January 1948. It says that the Reichsfuehrer SS made a promotion dependent on an assignment with the troops or an assignment in an occupied territory. It confirms that the concept "Einsatz" does not only refer to an activity in the so-called Einsatzgroups.

Document Number 65 I offer as Exhibit 66. It was made out by the journalist, Rudolf Mueller, an affidavit dated 29th of December 1947. During the cross examination of the defendant he was reproached with having made an incriminating statement about a former police official in Warsaw, Mueller. Of course, this testimony by this police official, Mueller, was not submitted as a prosecution document as had been announced, but one had the defendant read this testimony on the witness stand, and thus the incriminating statement of this man, Mueller, did finally appear in the transcript. And to rebut this, we have offered this affidavit.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do not want to cross the point but the affidavit is immaterial.

The prosecution has offered no proof for the utterances of this Johannes Mueller. This utterance was contradicted by the defendant when he testified on his own behalf. I do not see what purpose the affidavit should serve. A naked statement by the prosecution is no proof and nothing else is in the record according to the statement of Dr. Ulmer.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it does seen an unnecessary issue which you are raising here, Dr. Ulmer, because the prosecution has not charged anything which needs to be refuted in this connection.

DR. ULMER: The prosecution during the cross examination of the defendant, Your Honor, has put to him this incriminating statement about this Major Mueller. That is what it says in the transcript.

THE PRESIDENT: What did Muller charge with?

DR. ULMER: He said that Six was a wild man of whom one could expect that he would work with the Eisatzgrups in the Russian territory and of whom one could expect that he did whatever he was charged with here. He could be expected to do that which he was charged with here.

MR. HOCHWALD: I still do maintain it is unnecessary, for one reason, the prosecution has offered no proof that these utterances were made by the police major, therefore, there is no reason to press the point. I can cross examine or ask the witness whatever I want, "Did you kill 1500 people then and then" without the slightest proof, and I do think that the proof that he did not kill the 1500 persons, or that he did allegedly kill 1500 people is not necessary.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Ulmer, the question was put and the answer was in the negative, is that right?

DR. ULMER: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant denied that there was such a story or that the story was correct.

DR. ULMER: Yes. That was the content of his statement.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, then that ends it, because the prosecution did not follow it up by showing that this condition did exist, so the defendant has already denied it, Raid there is no evidence on the point, so this affidavit is entirely immaterial.

Page 5,567

DR. ULMER: I shall withdraw it then. Then I have only one more to submit. Document Number 67 is offered with the Exhibit Number 67. It is Supplement A to Book 4, and it contains the affidavit of the former legation councillor. Eberhard von Thadden, dated 23 of January 1948, It confirms that it was exclusively the task of Group II Interior to maintain liaison between the Foreign Office and the RSHA. Therefore, the events presented in the rebuttal document under Document Number 3319, page 31 to 47, German text B, had neither an official connection with the Cultural Division nor a personal connection with former Ambassador Six. That concludes my a presentation. Your Honor, and I would like to point out that I made a motion about translation corrections the transcript. I think that this motion was received but I would like to have confirmed.

THE PRESIDENT: Is Mr. Hochwald familiar with this motion?

MR. HOCHWALD: I only want to inquire, your Honors, in general how those motions will be handled. Will those corrections be checked by the court reporters or I just am at a loss to know what will happen to this motion.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, with regard to procedure, Mr. Hochwald, perhaps this might be one convenient way of attending to the problem. Let opposing counsel in each instance endeavor to reconcile their differing views, if they do view the things differently, and if they can't compose that difference and cannot reach a common understanding as to what was said and what should he recorded, then each should reduce to writing his view on what the word or phrase should be and then that itself will become part of the record.

MR. HOCHWALD: May I ask then respectfully the Tribunal to rule that those motions may be filed from the part of defense and of course on the part of the prosecution, may be filed in such a form where it may be easy to find out which changes counsel desire in the record. If only the page is given and it is said, word, so and so, should be replaced by word, so and so.

THE PRESIDENT: That is entirely unsatisfactory. If defense counsel challenges the accuracy of interpretation or of transcription that defense counsel will see the opposing counsel of the prosecution and point out to him physically on the page where this misinterpretation or mistranscription occurs and from that point they will work together until they will have to work against each other.

MR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Dr. Aschenauer.

DR. ASCHENAUER: Your Honor, this matter also concerns my motion of the 6th of December 1947. This was a motion for correction about the examination of Ohlendorf. This motion contains about eight pages. I have the pages here, and I listed all the expressions which are to be corrected. For example, one problem was the investigation of the problem -- the sphere of competency.

Page 5,569

It was mistranslated later when the defendant Ohlendorf, was interrogated. For instance, it didn't say here that he had to decide "whethe* or not", but it said that he did not have to decide "whether or not."

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Dr. Aschenauer.

DR. ASCHENAUER: This motion was handed to the prosecution. I was handed this back from the prosecution with the note that the prosecution could not examine these corrections and this motion was supposed to be given to the interpreters of the court and then the prosecution says that they would agree to every decision which the interpreters would make in court.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, then what happened?

DR. ASCHENAUER: Well, nothing further. I just wanted to present the problem to the Tribunal and I would like to ask that the president would rule that these translations be scrutinize and that the interpreters make a decision about the corrections.

MR. HOCHEWALD: If the Tribunal please, it is entirely satisfactory for the prosecution if the court reporters can check those motions and according to their expert knowledge translate the parts of the transcript in question.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Hochwald, it seems to us that if both counsel for instance, as far as Dr. Aschenauer is concerned, if he and Mr. Walton will get together and they do not agree then they will see the court reporters and the interpreters involved and I feel confident that in most instances the interpreters will be to satisfy all persons involved If there comes an impasse where there cannot be a universal agreement as to just what was said, then that is something which must be submitted to the Tribunal.

MR. HOCHWALD: I only want to draw your attention to one problem. If Mr. Walton and Mr. Aschenauer comes together, there is a difficulty of language. Dr. Aschenauer's knowledge of English is not good enough in order to know by himself whether the translation of a certain sentence is correct or not.

Dr. Walton has no command of the German languages at all.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, but each side is representing a certain point of view and naturally you will have to confer with the interpreter and then you always have the sound tape.

MR. HOCHWALD: But, your Honors, I only want to suggest it would be the much easier way if Dr. Aschenauer and all other defense counsel would submit those translations, and there are always translation difficulties and nothing else, to the competent interpreters instead of to in this case to incompetent counsel for the prosecution.

THE PRESIDENT: That certainly does not apply to you, Mr. Hochwald.

MR. HOCHWALD: Your Honors I certainly would not dare, in having no experience in court interpreting, to translate certain parts of the transcript where certain difficult, technical expressions are used, which I just do not know.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I think we are making this unnecessarily complicated. If Dr. Aschenauer, I am only using Dr. Aschenauer as an example, this applies to every other defense counsel, if he will see Mr. Walton, inform him he is going to speak with the interpreters about getting the correct translation, that is, enough just so long as Mr. Walton is notified so that the other side knows what is being done and if the interpreters then make the correction, then the correction will be made in the transcript.

MR. HOCHWALD: This is perfectly satisfactorily.

THE PRESIDENT: Who will follow immediately after the recess? Everybody.

DR. HELM: Attorney for Ruehl. I would like to submit a few supplement to Book III.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Well, we will do that immediately after recess, please. The Tribunal will now recess for 15 minutes.

(A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHALL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the Prosecution would like at this time to introduce three or four rebuttal documents.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Hochwald, would you mind deferring that until Lieut. Bedwill will take the stand and will allow Dr. Dick to examine his on the matter of the defendant Strauch?

DR. HOCHWALD: That is certainly very well.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Lieut. Bedwill, will you lease take the stand?

LIEUT: WILLIAM L BEDWILL, a witness, took the stand and testified as follows:

JUDGE DIXON: Raise your right hand. Do you solemnly swear that the evidence you shall give to the Court in this action now on trial shall be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help you God? Do you so swear?

THE WITNESS: I do. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Lieut. Bedwill, on January 20th of this year you submitted the following certificate to the Tribunal: "It is my opinion that the defendant Karl Edward Strauch during the period when I have observed him, including the Court sessions on the afternoon of 19 January 1946 and the morning of 20 January 1946 has been mentally competent and so free from mental defect, derangement or disease as to be able to participate adequatel in his own defense." Are you still of that same opinion?

A. I am, sir, yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, counsel for the defendant Strauch, will address some questions to you. You may proceed, Dr. Gick. BY DR. GICK:

Q. Witness, may I first ask you whether you have any expert knowledge, of psychiatry?

A. I have.

A. May I then ask you what kind this knowledge is? Professional training in this line?

A. I have a Specialist's Rating in the Army as a Neuropsychiatrist. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q. Lieut, Bedwill, suppose that we get your qualifications in the record. Now, let us have your full name,

A. William L. Bedwill.

Q. And what rank do you hold in the United States Army?

A. First Lieutenant.

A. What is your professional training? Give us a list of the schools you attended and what was the nature of the instruction which you received?

A. Well, four years of pre-medical training, of course, at two schools; Occidental College in Los Angles and the University of South California at Los Angles. Two years at each and then four academic years of medical training at the University of Southern California also located in Los Angeles. Then, thirteen months of internship at the Los Angeles County General Hospital where my training laid an emphasis upon psychiatry and then in the army a special training course.

Q. In what?

A. Psychiatry; Neuro-psychiatry.

THE PRESIDENT: At the present time where are you stationed?

A. At the 385th Station Hospital, Nurnberg,

THE PRESIDENT: And That specialty, if any, do you have at this hospital?

A. The Neuro-psychiatric specialty.

THE PRESIDENT: A nd are you engaged daily in that particular type of work?

A. I am, yes.

Page 5,573

THE PRESIDENT: Do you see and examine patients regularly along psychiatric lines?

A. I do,

THE PRESIDENT: you may proceed, Dr. Gick. BY DR. GICK:

Q. witness, did you see and examine the defendant Strauch before the sessions which you attended?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. May I then ask you, at what date and for how long?

A. I examined Herr Strauch first on 13 January for about 20 minutes at the dispensary in this building, about eleven o'clock in the morning. I next examined Herr Strauch on the -- that was Friday, I believe, 17th of January, between the hours of eleven and two, for three hours at the Krankenhaus, and then I next examined him with another doctor, who made a joint statement with me to this Court, also at the Krankenhaus. For a period of about two hours between 11:30 and 13:30 on the next day, the 18th on Saturday morning. On that day we made the statement which was submitted jointly to the Court.

THE PRESIDENT: What was the name of the other officer, Lieutenant

A. Capt. Joseph S. Jacob who is stationed at the 3L 7th Station Hospital at Wiesbaden.

THE PRESIDENT: And what is his field?

A. He is also a specialist in Neuro-psychiatry.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. BY DR. GICK:

Q. What kind of observations were made at the time?

A. I examined Herr Strauch both physically and mentally, I made neurological tests upon him and I questioned him from a psychiatric point of view.

Q. And what did you establish?

A. That to the best of my knowledge Herr Strauch was mentally competent.

Q. Did Herr Strauch answer your questions absolutely reasonably?

A. He did, in most cases, yes.

Q. Did it not happen that he mixed up incidents?

A. His references at times were irrelevant and his speech at times was rambling.

Q. Could he remember dates and figures if you submitted them to him?

A. I don't believe I could remember dates that he refferred to. He told a rambling, but, as far as I could tell though the interpreter, a consistent story but he never gave dates to us because we did not ask for them. That was not our purpose.

Q. Witness, are you aware that Mr. Strauch suffered from epileptic fits?

A. I am.

Q. Did you make any observations to the effect that there was any connection with the epileptic fits? Were there any breaks in the continuity of his mental thinking? Was there anything that was due to these epiletic fits?

A. There were no breaks in his thinking, which were consistent with epilepsy, or epileptic equivalents.

Q. Is it basic possible that an epileptic his psychogenous, especially?

A. I do not understand,

Q. I meant to ask you wehther it is possible in the case of epileptics that their mental functions suffer because of these epileptic fits?

A. I do not hold to this view, except as it pertains to the period of the epileptic seizure.

Q. Are there no consequences and no symptoms which happen after the epileptic seizure, which mean consistency in the mental capacity of the patient?

A. My training holds that there is no mental deterioration due to epileptic fits, even in a patient who has had a great number of these seizures.

Q. Witness, the Chief of the local Psychiatric Clinic in Oberministerialrat, Dr. von Bayer, who treated Defendant Strauch and treats him now and has been treating him, for the last three months, in an expert opinion, which he made out, confirms that Strauch since the middle of December, 1947, has been, in a state of a trance. He called it the Ganser state. Are you of the same opinion?

A. That is, in the state of trance?

Q. I mean a semi-conscious state, meaning that his conceptions are not clear and that he is not capable of thinking, capable of answering clearly.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, if the witness is supposed to give his opinion on an expert opinion, made by someone else, it seems to me correct if he gets the opinion itself, not the transcription by the defense counsel.

DR. GICK: Your Honor, may I just make a short remark. It is an expert term which could be expressed in two letters and I do not have to circumscribe this particular state. This is "Ganser", the state of semi-consciousness, "Ganser" being the name. If I make this remark to the witness, then, of course, he knows what it is all about so that the knowledge of the exact expert opinion would not be absolutely necessary.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I only can repeat what I have said, Your Honor, without pressing the point. I do think it would only be fair, if the witness is asked about the contents of a certain opinion that he may see the opinion itself.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, if you have the opinion to which you are referring, you might either show it to the witness or read from it to him.

DR. GICK: I have the expert opinions here, Your Honor, but I only have a German copy of it. I don't know whether the Tribunal has received the opinion in English.

THE PRESIDENT: Will you please tell me which one it is?

DR. GICK: It is one of the 7th of January, 1948.

THE PRESIDENT: I have one here dated January 14. I have one dated January 15. You say this is dated January 7?

DR. GICK: Yes, it is a letter to me in the nature of an expert opinion and it is dated the 7th of January, 1948. I think I have submitted it to the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Suppose you read it very slowly and, if you come to a technical term, please hesitate so that the interpreter can be certain as to just what is intended.

DR. GICK: "In accordance with your wish" -- as I have I said, the made and my examination of the patient, I comment again concerning the possibility of being tried of your client, Edward Strauch.

Since about the middle of December, 1947, the mental state of Strauch has deteriorated through addition of certain states of mental inconsistencies, which are similar to a so-called Ganswer mental twilight. Strauch since that time is mentally unclear, gives senseless answers to questions, and does not absorb the questions which are put to him or, at least, only to a small extent. It is very rare that one would get a sensible answer out of him. He has not had epileptic fits for the last few weeks. The Ganser mental twilight means a certain reaction due to custody which is psychologically continues, but in the opinion of most psychiatrists is not intentionally simulated in the way of a simulation where he pretends. We do not assume a simulation in the case of Strauch it has had the reaction on the basis of epilepsy or an organically affected mental capacity." the 25th of December. 1) The state of health of the defendant has deteriorated so much during the last few days that he can only at times follow the indictment.

THE PRESIDENT: Well Dr. Gick, you are supposed to put a question to the witness. What are you doing now?

DR. GICK: Well, this is the contents of the expert opinion and in brief the physician says here that the defendant is in a state of mental twilight.

Q. (By Dr. Gick) I would like you, Mr. Witness, to comment on this attitude.

A. I do not agree with this attitude. I believe that the mental twilight, as the doctor has called it, is not consistent. The psychic symptoms of this patient have been very transient. During my examinations I was able to extract a large marjority of logical answers, the answers which did suggest mental confusion are taken together with neurological, that is physical symptons, and other data such as one, one rather, desire, alleged hallucination, a combination of these symptons, in other words, in my opinion, did not conform to any neurological psychiatric or medical condition known to me and could on the other hand be sufficiently explained by the anxiety of the patient's situation.

Q. Is it then not possible that the situation in which the defendant finds himself leads to certain changes in the mental picture of the defendant, I mean, changes in the way, that he is no longer in a position to express himself and to answer questions, as he was used to in former times?

A. I do not agree to this term, "mental". I would rather say, "emotional". There are emotional changes, I suppose.

Q. That you mean you give an affirmative answer to the changes, if I understood you correctly, that is?

A. There are emotional changes in any patient faced with such a charge this patient, but I do not believe that that precludes the mental competency to participate adequately in his own defense.

Q. Witness, did you, owing to your observations during those last two days in the session here, gain the impression that the defendant answered all the questions that were put to him sensibly and consistently, or were their sometimes clear moments and then again unclear moments in the testimony he gave which prove a certain deterioration of his mental system?

A. There were unclear moments and mostly clear moments, I remember, for example, one of the unclear moments: The patient asked of whom he was talking and he said,"I am talking about Denmark", but these unclear moments, in my opinion, were not evidence of mental deterioration.

THE PRESIDENT: Lieutenant, do you think at any time when his answers were obviously irrelevant answers could be consonant with a conscious desire on the part of the defendant to appear to be, or make himself appear mentally incompetent?

THE WITNESS: I believe that they could be consonant with that desire.

THE PRESIDENT: Very small, Dr, Gick.

Q. (By Dr. Gick) Witness, if I may read very briefly from the record during these days, then just at that morning the defendant for instance, answered questions which were put to him on the 1st of August, 1931, he had entered the SA and at the same day, the 1st of August, 1931, he had joined the party. When thereupon he was asked, "Was that the same day," he said, "No, it was not the same day, it was on the 31st 32nd, the 33rd, on those days I joined," Later on then he said he joined the Party in 1933. Therefore, as I see matters, there was not a clear picture of the question which I put to him.

The questions were, "When did you join the SA, the SS and the Party?"

A. These discrepancies are indeed discrepancies in logic and time, but they are not diagnostic of any known - that is known to no - mental defect, disease or derangement.

Q. May I ask you then what you deduce these inconsistencies from?

A. From my previous testimony, that I could find no syndrome which was diagnostic and that such discrepancies, as well as other symptoms, could be explained by the exigencies of the moment, I was led to the prescription that the situation in which the defendant found himself was sufficient explanation.

Q. You mean the situation in which the defendant found himself confronted, in fact with the charges of the prosecution, and this leads him to lose his memory concerning dates and figures, that he mixes them all up?

A. I say this is possible and it is a sufficient explanation.

Q. If this is thus, Witness, then in some moments he is not clear and he is not in the position to account for his actions.

A. Repeat that please?

Q. If the defendant, due to his position in which he is at the moment, gives unclear answers, then, of course, this means that he is not in the position to give clear answers all the time to what he is being asked and that he is not in a position to a full extent to make use of his right, that is, to defend himself.

A. By situation I meant to say the emotions and feelings in the patient which are concomitant with the situation, with the external physical situation of being in the courtroom. It is possible in that one situation to be both clear and unclear in expression and yet be consistent in motive.

Q. Do you not arrive at the conclusion that this defendant after all is not in the position to defend himself to that extent that he would be able to do if he were in a normal condition?

A. I do not see how that conclusion can be arrived at from the for going.

Q. I did understand you correctly, did I not, when you said that in the testimony of the defendant there were clear and there where unclear moments. Did I understand you correctly?

A. There were clear and unclear moments to the recorders. That is what you meant, I presume.

Q. Yes, for those people who were listening.

A. Yes, I agree.

Q. Now, if the defendant also gives unclear answers, then I am of the opinion that in such moments he is not, to that extent, in the position as every other defendant who normally gives clear answers. Am right, or what is your opinion of that?

A. Repeat that again, please.

Q. I do not know whether I have expressed myself unclearly. I would like to say the following. If the defendant gives unclear answer a fact which we have now established, is the defendant during this time in which, in fact, he gives these unclear answers, in the same in the position to lead his defense as other defendants who always can give the clear answers, or is he not?

A. I do not see that there is mental defect, disease or derangement unless it can be proven by medical - by the medical examinations which the patient has been given.

Q. But this is not the question at the moment, whether there is an organic state which leads to a change of his mental state, but the question, I believe, is whetherany phychological symptons could be seen, of course from the situation he finds himself in as a defendant, which, of course, limit his possibility to defend himself?

A. The way that the defendant answers questions alone is not a sufficient indication of his ability to conduct his own defense. The total medical picture must be examined. Where the inconsistencies of his speech can be explained on the basis of his motives and where they in themselves cannot diagnose a medical condition I am led to the conclusion that he does not have a mental incompetency.

Q. But you do admit the he gave unclear answers?

A. Unclear as I said before, with the qualification that I said before.

Q. Why then are you of the opinion that the judgement of Dr. von Bayer gave that he is in a state of mental twilight, so to speak in a state in fact which makes his thought only come up in a sort of trance, and that he can only express thoughts unclearly. Why then do you think that this ipinion is not quite accurate if you yourself say that he gives unclear answers at times?

A. In my understanding the statement of Dr. von Bayer was to the effect that the defendant since the middle of December has been in a twilight state. My objection to this statement was upon the ground that the symptoms of the patient have been transient was upon momentary and have not persisted for a long period of time in terms of hours or even minutes during the periods since the middle of December.

Q. How long do you think one of those states can last with the defendant Strauch?

A. One of what states?

Q. This state of which I say, this unclear state, this state of mental derangement, the twilight state. I do not want to use this torn so often because apparently you and I don't agree, but the state in which he gives unclear answers, how long do you think such a period lasts?

actually mentally unclear or not. I have said that his answers are not clear in the record, but I am not convinced that the patient is mentally unlcear. do so intentionally?

A This I am unable to say. This I am unable to prove. from some symtomps is unclear, in an unclear state and gives unclear answers? far as I know, it is unknown to medical science. state exists, which influences the clear thoughts and the clear answers of the defendant, but that medical terminology concerning this particular state does not exists?

PRESIDENT: Dr. Gick, the witness, as I understood him, at no time said that he acknowledged a mental unclearness, he merely said that there were unclear answers, which could or not be symptomatic of something or other, but that his opinion was that these unclear answers did not give an indication of a pathology, which was recognized by medical science. So there is a difference between an unclear state and an unclear answer.

DR. GICK: Your Honor

PRESIDENT: I think that as Judge Speight pointed out, that the witness has indicated this unclear method of testifying at times is not any result of epilepsy, which is one disease everybody agrees that the defendant is occasionally afflicted with.

DR. GICK: That is what I understood from the witness, Your Honor, that it is in no connection whatsoever with epilepsy. However, I did understand the witness to this effect, that he objectively also states that the defendant, Strauch, does give unclear answers.

PRESIDENT: Well, that was obvious to everybody.

DR. GICK: That is, during the first part of his testimony, when he first came into court and he talked about China, and he talked about 1975, and it was very clear that that was unclear.

DR. GICK: In the last two days doubtlessly he was not quite so unclear, Your Honor, but I showed the witness a few passages which to me meant an inconsistency and the witness has stated here that at times one has to confirm this. BY DR. GICK: you could exclude the possibility that Strauch was not fully in the position to arrange his defense in such way as he normally would be able to do?

PRESIDENT: You have no evidence for that possibility, is that what you mean, because the defense counsel put it in an alternative form Do we understand from your answer that you have no evidence of a possibility that he was--that the defendant was incapable of conducting his defense?

THE WITNESS: Yes. BY DR. GICK: fully in the position to defend himself as he would have done in a normal state. statement which I submitted to the Court.

Q And what about the unclearness in this expert opinion? How do you reconcile them? even in those moments when Herr Strauch gave answers which were irrelevant and spoke in a way which was rambling, that even at those times he was mentally competent and able to participate adequately in his own defense in my opinion.

DR. GICK: I have no further questions to the witness, Your Honor.

PRESIDENT: Mr. Glancy, do you have any questions, please?

MR. GLANCY: If it please the Tribunal, I have one question. BY MR. GLANCY:

Q Dr. Gick, started one of his questions by saying, "Is it possible that," I would like to have the same privilege. Is it possible that when he was giving those rambling answers that it was consciously simulated and that he did comprehend everything that was said to him?

MR. GLANCY: Thank you, Sir. No other questions.

PRESIDENT: Anything further?

DR. GICK: Not to the witness, Your Honor. BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q Now, Doctor, let us predicate a hypothetical question. Let us suppose an individual of complete maturity, who is subject occasionally to epileptic seizures, but during the interval between the epileptic seizures is entirely normal in his mental and physical attributes; let us suppose that in the middle of September he had a seizure in court and is withdrawn from the court room. From that period until the latter part of December of the same year, with the exception of a periodical seizure he is entirely normal and is capable of conferring with his counsel and preparing for his defense in court of charges brought against him in an indictment. In the latter part of December he begins to give evidence of not comprehending, of giving irrelevant answers to questions put to him, of rambling utterances, of confusion of dates, that then he is brought into court two or three weeks later, and in court continues to give irrelevant answers. Then let us suppose that he is given mental and physical examinations and he is instructed in court that this is the one opportunity he will have to defend himself against the serious charges which have been brought against him, that then subsequently he is brought into court and there is a marked difference between his manner of testifying, now he answers logically, he answers relevantly, and with the exception of an occasional unclear answer, gives evidence of being completely conscious of the situation, of understanding questions and answering them.

With that kind of a hypothetical case, Doctor, we ask you whether in your opinion his previous conduct could be consistent with a conscious desire to stimulate a mental condition? of incapacity, or rather we will put it in the laternative sense. In you opinion, is it possible or is it not possible for such an entire situation to evince a desire on the part of the individual involved to simulate a mental incompetence in order not to subject himself to the procedure of court? similation?

PRESIDENT: I there are no other- questions, the witness will be excused, with the thanks of the Tribunal You want another question? By all means, Dr. Gick. Proceed. VY DR. GICK:

Q I have just one question. Witness, you say that it is possible. May I conclude from that that the other alternative is not excluded from you that he does not simulate? what I would consider to be an extremely rare condition of which I have no knowledge. exists, that is what I mean?

the possibility of which I speak, that is -- because I cannot--I have not had sufficient time to observe the patient to be absolutely certain that he is simulating. I doubt whether this is possible to do in a practical period of time. BY THE PRESIDENT: medical science up to this time has not yet discovered or recorded, so far as your recognizance of medical, science is concerned?

DR. GICK: May I just put one more question, Your Honor. BY DR. GICK: Demi condition, that is what it is called?

Q May I ask you what it means this ganzer mental twilight--?

MR. GLANCY: I believe, your Honor, he is a trifle unclear, would he like to know whether it applies to Strauch or as a hypothetical thing, this twilight?

PRESIDENT: I think he is merely asking if he knows what mental twilight is a medical term. Are you fully aware of the intention of the question?

THE WITNESS: Well, I believe he means, what is mental twilight. BY DR. GICK: after whom this particular state of disease is named.

A I am not acquainted with the works of this man, or by "mental twilight", I took to mean the semi-consciousness such as we see in such medical conditions when the patient is perhaps delirious.

obviously suffering from some condition usually toxic in nature.

PRESIDENT: Very well, let us now take stock of what we have before us yet to be disposed of before Dr. Aschenauer can proceed with his summation. Now, who else has documents ready to be presented? Everybody. Well, let's Lieutenant Bedwill, you, of course, are excused. Thank you. Let us indicate please just how many documents are to be presented so we can work out this program. Come with down the line, now, how many, do you have, please?

DR. WIESMATH: Wiesmath for the defendant, Jost. Your Honor, I still have six documents which I want to submit.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Durchholz for Schulz. I have one document to submit.

DR. STEIN: Stein for Sandberger. I still have 36 documents to present.

DR. HELM: Helm for Ruehl - three documents.

DR. KRAUSE: Krause for Haensch - also three documents.

DR. VOGEL: Vogel for von Radetzky - still nine documents, Your Honor.

DR. FRITZ: Fritz for Fendler - four documents, your Honor.

DR. HOFFMANN: Hoffmann for the defendant, Nosske. Your Honor I could start now, I have got about 8 documents

PRESIDENT: Now, just a moment. Yes, Doctor.

DR. GICK: Well, I have about 25 documents.

PRESIDENT: You wont to keep us until twilight, do you?

MR. HOCHWALD: The Prosecution, if Your Honors please, the prosecution has approximately 4 to 5 documents.

PRESIDENT: Well, it would appear that with the exception of Dr. von Stein and I forget the one who had 25--Dr. Gick--you had 25, with the exception of those two, they are not numerous, the documents which have to be presented and I think that if we move right along we ought to be able to get them in tomorrow morning and Dr. Aschenauer ought to be ready to begin immediately after the luncheon recess.

So let us retire with that part in view, with that program in mind, that you will be ready immediately after the lunch hour to present the summation in behalf of your client, Doctor Aschenauer.

DR. GICK: May I just say something in conclusion of the matter, Strauch? May I ask the Tribunal, to invite Dr. von Bayer, the expert, to come here as a witness, He is, as is well known, the chief of the psychiatric clinic in Nuernberg, and he has observed the defendant for some tine now, in fact, from the beginning of October up to this day, and in my opinion he is able to five an exhaustive picture of the defendant, Strauch.

PRESIDENT: That will be entirely up to the prosecution, s to whether they desire to cross-examine him. Dr. von Bayer has submitted several reports and they are on file and they are available to you, Dr. Gick, in any argument which you desire to make to the Tribunal, so that it is entirely up to the prosecution if the prosecution wishes to cross examine. Of course, they are entitled to that privilege and he will be called. But if they don't, there is no need to call him.

MR. GLANCY: We do not desire, to cross examine, Sir.

PRESIDENT: Very well. The Tribunal will be in recess until tomorrow morning at 9:30.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 3 February, 1948, at 0930 hours.)

3 Feb 1948_M_MSD_1_1_Gallagher (Juelich) against Otto Ohlendorf, et al.

, defendants. sitting at

THE MARSHAL: The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal II.

Military Tribunal II is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, the Tribunal certainly recalls that the Prosecution has obtained Haensch's Exhibits Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 in order to get expert opinion on the handwriting, and on the pictures which were put in. We has received the expert opinion, and they are in the hands of the Tribunal, the originals, and copies were handed to Dr. Riediger, defense counsel for the defendant Haensch. I have here the exhibits, but when these tests were made additional pictures and additional charts of the handwriting were made by the Research Institute. The Prosecution does not intend to offer these items into evidence. I think it appropriate as I do expect that, Dr. Riediger wants to use them to make a short survey of these by saying what was added to each exhibit. Would that be agreeable to the Tribunal?

THE PRESIDENT: What did you specifically request?

MR. HOCHWALD: I only would make a short survey and state what was added by the Research Institute to the different exhibits so that it may be explainable for the archives why the exhibits are more and different from what was originally submitted.

THE PRESIDENT: By all means, not only I approve but it should be done.

THE PRESIDENT: By all means, not only I approve but it should be done.

MR. HOCHWALD: Haensch Exhibit Ho. 4 was one original photograph, and six more negatives were made by the Research Institute and all of them are labeled how they were obtained and from which negatives they 3 Feb 1948_M_MSD_1_2_Gallagher (Juelich) were obtained.

There are no additions in Haensch's Exhibit No. 3. Haensch Exhibit No. 2 were two negatives and an envelope, two positives from these two negatives were made by the Research Institute and added to the exhibit. Haensch Exhibit No. 1 was one appointment pad and one photostatic copy of pad No. 391 on which the name of Haensch appears. Another pad Nos. 210 to 261, was added for comparison of the handwriting, for no other reasons, and finally, Prosecution Exhibit No. 192-B which is a handwritten affidavit of the Witness Reich, Document NO-5718, a chart with different examples of the handwriting was added by the Research Institute to this exhibit. May I inquiring on his behalf -- to introduce the codes of this expert opinion as exhibits, or would that be usable for him in the form I have just given it? As I said, the original expert opinion itself is in the hands of the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: That is enough that you have presented it.

MR. HOCHWALD: I have not presented it. To be frank, Your Honor, I have not presented the expert opinion in evidence. I have only handed to the Court in partial what I have received from the Research Institue.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, if you have not presented it, and Dr. Riediger desires to present it, he may present it.

MR. HOCHWALD: All right. Allright, so Dr. Riediger can present it.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Who is ready to present documents? I presume you have finished, Mr. Hochwald?

MR. HOCHWALD: May I present a few documents, Your Honor, before the defense -

THE PRESIDENT: All right, you may proceed while you are there.

MR. HOCHWALD: I now offer Document NO-5877. This will be Prosecution's Exhibit No. possibly 250.

MR. KNAPP (Secretary-General): Prosecution's Exhibit No. 250.

MR. HOCHWALD: Prosecution's Exhibit No. 250. This is a letter showing the Defendant Six was the moving party in urging close cooperation between the SD and the Gestapo. Here we see the organized regular 3 Feb 1948_M_MSD_1_3_Gallagher (Juelich) conferences in order to achieve a close and confidential cooperation between the Gestapo.

The document is offered as a rebuttal document against the defendant's contention that he was never anything else but a scholar. I have here two documents concerning the defendant Schulz. These are Document NO-5862 and Document NO-5871. The documents were already previously distributed. I want to inform the Tribunal that originally I have received Document NO-5862. As, however, the identity of the defendant was not clear but of this first exhibit. I have returned the first affidavit and sent a picture of Schulz, Which actually is attached in photostat to the first affidavit, and have obtained a second one. Those documents which I gave the numbers 251-A-B are rebuttal documents in order to refute the statement of Schulz that he never participated in the crimes of the Gestapo when in charge of the Gestapo of Czechoslovakia.

DR. DURCHOLZ: Dr. Durcholz for the defendant Schulz. Mr. President, I object to the admission of these two documents, and I shall give my reasons for these objections when I have looked at the original -

MR. HOCHWALD: I am sorry to say the original is in Czech. I don't know whether Dr. Durcholz can find something out of it but it is with the Secretary-General, and sofar as I know Dr. Durcholz has received the German Copy through the Defense Information Center.

DR. DURCHOLZ: I only got a copy of No. 5871. I know nothing about the first document.

MR. HOCHWALD: The distribution was made last Friday, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, has the Tribunal received a copy?

MR. HOCHWALD: The Tribunal has received copies in the frame of distribution, and I have had further copies handed to the SecretaryGeneral yesterday. and sofar as I know, the Tribunal has the document before it.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Who is ready to proceed now?

DR. HOFFMANN: Excuse me, but my colleague wants to speak before I do.

Page 5,593

3 Feb 1948_M_MSD_1_4_Gallagher (Juelich)

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, if you are agreeable, I am agreed.

DR. KRAUSE: Dr. Krause for the defendant Haensch. Your Honor, may I ask that the opinion concerning the documents by Frau Schreyer he handed to me by the Secretary-General so that I can introduce them as documents for the defendant Haensch.

MR. HOCHWALD: It would be possibly easier if Dr. Krause would introduce copies. There will be no objection against the introduction of the copies from the Prosecution, as copies were made by the Prosecution.

DR. GAWLIK: Dr. Gawlik for Herr Ulmer, for the defendant Six. Your Honor, I object to the rebuttal document which was submitted as NO 5877, Exhibit No 250. I would like to draw the attention of the Tribunal to the date of the document of 16 June 1937. I do not know what the Prosecution is trying to prove with this document, which concerns a period of time which occurred long before 1 September 1939, and the International Military Tribunal already established that only the activity after 1 September 1939 is considered criminal in such an organization. In addition the following must be said concerning this document. It was in fact decided by the IMT that before 1938, a certain degree of cooperation between the SD and the Gestapo took place, but in the year of 1938 in particular a decree was issued separating the two, and since that time the Gestapo and the SD worked in completely different spheres, and had different tasks, and the Prosecution's Exhibit is from the year 1937, that is before the date of this socalled decree of separation; that is the question which has been discussed in detail by the IMT, and the IMT has already established the fact that only such activity as was carried on after 1 September 1939, can be considered criminal according to the statutes.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, rebuttal is every evidence which can refute the contentions on the part of the defendants.

THE PRESIDENT: This document could under no circumstances be 3 Feb 1948_M_MSD_1_5_Gallagher (Juelich) controlling of any issue which is before the Tribunal.

In itself it would not establish any mooted point, but it does shed some light on the history of the entire affair, and we think that it would be well to have it in evidence for whatever probative value would be assigned to it later on.

DR. DURCHOLZ: Dr. Durcholz for the defendant Schulz. Your Honor, I have objected to the introduction of Document No. 251-A-B. I would like to five reasons for this objection. Apart from the fact that the incidents stated in this document and directed against the defendant Schulz constitutes a completely new charge against the defendant Schulz, which were not subject of the trial until now, and since at this stage of the trial the defendant has no opportunity of defending himself against this, therefore, if this document were received, this would violate the elementary principles of law: that is why I ask that this document be rejected. Only yesterday Your Honor stated here that in his trial you wanted to find the truth; but owing to such a one-sided attitude by the Prosecution this has become completely impossible. The defendant would have to state that he had nothing at all to do with the incidents mentioned in this document. That document is also called Indictmente. Therefore, another trial would have to be started against the defendant Schulz, but neither the defendant nor I have ever heard of such a thing. The defendant Schulz does not know this witness Pauker at all who makes the statements in the document. Also the document does not show that this socalled Pauker actually made these statements under oath. Finally, this statement of Pauker is completely torn out of context, because this document refers to an interrogation before the State Police Office in Reichenberg, which is an interrogation about which I don't know anything. Also it does not show whether this Pauker actually identified the defendant Schulz, and whether on the basis of a photograph of the defendant, he was able to identify him at all. May I also point out that another person called "Schulz" is repeatedly mentioned in this document, and he is called "Schulz No. 3". Also in the decisive part of the document there are a number of contradictions and inconsistencies and untruths, which the defendant Schulz and the man who is used as a witness of the opposite side could refute immediately. Also the document does not conform with the prescribed form of documents presented here. That 3 Feb 1948_M_MSD_2_2_Gallagher (Juelich) is why I ask that this document be rejected for purely formal reasons, but if the Tribunal should accept it inspite of my explanation, seeing that they are so generous, even if they only attach to it such probative value as it may be worth, I move that the Prosecution call the witness Pauker here, so that I may cross-examine him.

Only in that manner could the defendant Schulz's disadvantage be made up for. The defendant Schulz asked me to state that he never in his life had beaten a human being, and that he was not competent for the prison where this alleged socalled Pauker is supposed to have been, and that he never visited that prison.

charge of the police president in Reichenberg with which the Gestapo, and therefore, Schulz had no connection at all. Also, the Gestapo in Reichenberg did not have any air raid shelters, which are mentioned in this document; also, the defendant never gave an order such as is mentioned here. The defendant is also prepared to make an affidavit himself to refute the statements of this document, and is also prepared to give testimony concerning this in the witness stand. I also ask for permission that as a witness of the opposite side concerning this incident. I may call the witness Hasse, and that I may examine him here as a witness in this trial. He was in Reichenberg at the same time as Schulz, and who will clear up and refute the inconsistencies and untruths which are contained in this document. The defendant also tells me that the statements of the so-called Pauker in this document are nothing but a clumsy denunciation. My client and myself, therefore, ask for the protection of the Tribunal against these untruths.

DR. HOCHWALD: If Dr. Durchholz wants to testify, he may do so in the witness box, but it is impossible and there is no possibility to do that in any kind of procedure in the world in the manner he is now attempting. He is testifying not only for his client, but also for a number of other people. If Dr. Durchholz knows something of his own knowledge about the documents, about the persons, about the prison, about the happenings in 1941, he is at liberty to testify, but this is no objection against the documents, but what he is speaking about.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Your Honor, I thought it was my duty to make these statements in order to show to the Tribunal why I had to make these motions and raise these objections against these documents. Therefore, I ask for your permission that the witness Pauker be called as a witness for cross examination.

DR. HOCKWALD: If the Tribunal please, if I understood the objection correctly, it was to the effect that the happenings which are described in the affidavit are a completely new feature of the case.

Count III of the Indictment is to criminal membership, and the defendant Schulz is charged with having been a member of the Gestapo. The defendant has testified at great length that he, having been a Gestapo officer was blameless in the discharging of his duties. He had testified at great length what he has been doing as chief of the Gestapo, among other places in Liberets, in Reichenberg from which this affidavit was obtained. Therefore, the affidavit in itself, the affidavits are prefectly permissible rebuttal evidence.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Your Honor, may I say here that yesterday exactly the opposite case occurred here, that a document was offered and the Prosecution asked that this document be only admitted if they have the right of cross examination of a witness, I ask you to grant me this same right. Also, the defendant Schulz wants to refute this great reproach by cross examination.

THE PRESIDENT: The defendant Schulz testified at great length on the witness stand that not only was he innocent of the crimes charged against him in the Indictment but that at no time was he guilty of any inhumanity towards those who came within his jurisdiction; and testified rather amply to what happened in Salzburg and other places. So that, in principle, this evidence would be entirely relevant to rebut the picture which you have drawn of a person who is entirely free not only of crime but even of bad conduct in his relationship with his fellow man. So that there is no question that in principle this evidence is absolutely relevant. However, we are confronted with another situation, another equally sacred principle in Anglo-American procedure, and that is that every accused person is entitled to confront his accuser; so that unless the Prosecution is willing and able to produce forthwith, or, in the next day or two, these witnesses who accuse Schulz of crime, we cannot possibly accept these statements as they stand.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Yes, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Because he certainly has the right to cross examine his accuser. That is fundamental. Now, this affidavit is a recent one which would suggest that the affiant is not too far away. If he can be obtained quickly, then we will entertain any motion for his reception here in Nurnberg, but it is a mater of time.

DR. HOCKWALD: If the Tribunal please, the affiant is in Czechoslovakia. The Prosecution will make every effort to get him here, but I doubt whether we can conform to the tine limit.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Well, the matter will stand this way that the affidavits will not be accepted at the present moment. In the event the Prosecution advises that the affiants may be brought here for cross examination, then we will again take up the situation.

DR. HOCKWALD: Thank you very much.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

DR. HOFFMANN: (Attorney for the Defendant Nosske) Your Honor, I have seven documents which I would like to offer.

Your Honor, during the direct examination of the defendant Nosske the latter said that generally a political prisoner could not be kept for more than ten days while being in protective custody. Concerning this, Your Honor asked me to bring documents to prove this. That is why I offer in Document Book Nosske the Document No. 3 as Exhibit No. 2. This is a circular decree of the Reich Minister of the Interior of the 25th of January, 1938, concerning protective custody. It is on page 2 of the English document book, and I ask you to look at page 3 , the first paragraph there which reveals that a person under protective custody had to be released after ten days' at the latest unless the secret police office has asked for him to be kept in protective custody. Also,

THE PRESIDENT: Where is that, Dr. Hoffmann?

DR. HOFFMANN: It is on page 3 of the English document book; the first sentence.

THE PRESIDENT: I don't find it.

DR.HOFFMANN: Nosske Document No. 3, page 3 of the English document book.

Page 5,600

JUDGE DIXON: It is page 4 of our document book.

THE PRESIDENT: I see; page 3 of the original, page 4. Yes, I find it.

DR. HOFFMANN: Excuse me, Your Honor. The next decree concerning protective custody, which also concerns the period of time of protective custody is submitted as Nosske Document No. 4; this will be Exhibit No. 3. It was issued after the second World War, that is the 4th October, 1939; and in the second paragraph under Figure 1 it says: That the previously established term of 10 days is extended to three weeks. Another question, Your Honor, which was also brought up in the direct examination of the defendant Nosske was whether on principle the secret state police office, later the Reich Security Main Office, alone was authorized to issue such decrees for protective custody. I ask that this statement be looked into on the basis of these two statements. In all these documents it says that the written order for protective custody was issued by the Secret state police office, and Later by the Reich Security Main Office, and that they were the only ones to issue such decrees. I submitted these documents first of all because Your Honor asked me to; and, secondly, in order to prove the credibility of the defendant Nosske in his testimony.

The next document which I offer is Document Nosske No. 5; this will be Exhibit No. 4. This is another decree about protective custody where a certain simplification of this procedure is ordered, but it says that the decree was issued by the Reich Security Main Office.

As Nosske Document No. 6, Exhibit No. 5, I offer an affidavit by Dr. Hans Ehlich, a physician. Ehlich talked about the so-called commando staff in the Reich Security Main Office, and on page 13 of the document book he sais that the commando staff merely had to compile reports from the occupied eastern territories. In contrast to the previous reports from the UDSSR, they did not contain any figures about executions which were carried out due to the Fuehrer Order in the East. In order to show the credibility of the defendant Nosske, this is also important because the Tribunal will remember he stated in the witness stand that he did not see any figures about shootings carried out because of the Fuehrer Order when he compiled reports from the occupied eastern territories.

As Nosske Document No. 7, Exhibit No. 6, I offer an affidavit of Kurt Geissler. It is on page 15 of the English document book, and reveals that after Nosske returned from Russia he was not established permanently with the Reich Security Main Office nor did he want to have a permanent position there, and that the Gruppenleiter because he let the leader of the Iron Guard of Romania escape at the time.

The next document is Nosske Document No. 8, which I offer as Exhibit No. 7. And, Your Honor, I attach special value to this document No. 8 because it is an affidavit of Gunther Husmann, who was the investigation chief in the case against Nosske, because of his attitude in Dusseldorf, Nosske describes that Guttenberger made a report against Nosske and as a result a case was started against him, and as can be seen on page 21 of the document book, finally the decision was made that Nosske had to leave his position immediately and was released from the Gestapo. Husmann states that Nosske's leaving the Reich Security Main Office, and therefore leaving the Gestapo to which he belonged, was confirmed to him, to Husmann. This is on page 21 in the center, Your Honor, of the document.

witness without the Tribunal's knowledge concerning the importance or lack of importance of this witness. The witness was granted to me on the basis of this affidavit. I fully agree to this; only may I point out that this witness Husmann is in the prison here and that the Prosecution can cross examine him at any time, so that fact that this is an affidavit which is submitted does not mean that I shy away from calling a witness who is so easily available.

Your Honor, as Nosske Document No. 9, as Exhibit No. 8, I bring an ecclesiastical certificate from Walter Kawerau a retired Vicar, from Halle on the Saale River, which reveals that the defendant Nosske was married in church;also the personnel file is submitted here to show that he never left the church, but always remained a member of the Protestant Church.

As the last document, Your Honor, I submit Nosske Document No. 10; this will be Exhibit No. 9. It is in a supplementary volume, and contains an affidavit of a certain Dr. Schmitz, who was a police official in Dusseldorf, and who adds to the statement by the witness Burchardt from his own knowledge concerning his office in Dusseldorf. In the paragraph before the last he says Nosske left the Security Police and the SD; he had to hand in his SS uniform and his official pass.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR. WALTON: If it please the Tribunal, my objections to these documents are purely nominal. If Dr. Hoffmann will state in his place that the three circular decrees which he has presented as Nosske Exhibits 2, 3 and 4 are all the law on the subject of protective custody, I will not object to them. The point that I make is this: One of these documents shows that protective custody could only last ten days before trial. The next document, in the first monthsof the war, shows that this protective custody was increased to three weeks. There fore, if that is true, there may be, or, at least it is reasonable to assume that this time as the war progressed was increased.

However, if the good Doctor will state in his place, or, as a legal expert and one familiar with German law, that there was no further decree on the subject of the time when a man might be in custody without trial and without hearing, why I will not enter an objection, but asit stands, the three decrees, there is nothing in them which states that is all the law on the subject.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we will grant, concede and state very emphatically that we have the highest respect for Dr. Hoffmann's legal acumen and knowledge but we cannot charge him with omniscience -

MR. WALTON: But, Your Honor -

THE PRESIDENT: He cannot say that he knows that there never was any other decree on that subject. You are asking him to state as to what does not exist.

MR. WALTON: I appreciate that fact, Your Honor, but he has gone into this subject. I assume that he has made a research to find three circular decrees. Now, if he will state that he found no other decrees pertaining to this during his search, it will be acceptable to the Prosecution, but the point that I am making is that this protective custody was increased, and I think I am reasonable in assuming that if it was increased once it might have been increased again. If there is any other circular decree that he knows of on this subject, I think he should put it in.

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, one of the exhibitsin the International Military Tribunal in 1945 was submitted in this connection. That is all what I know, and incomprehensible ......

THE PRESIDENT: That is exactly what I said, Dr. Hoffmann, only you put it in a little better English.

MR. WALTON: My point, therefore, is won, because the Tribunal from Dr. Hoffmann's statements can draw the same conclusion that the Prosecution draws:

That it was increased. The only other objection that I have is to the affidavit of Dr. Gunther Husmann in that he speaks of matters which inject into the case an entirely new personality on the grounds of a denunciation that Nosske claimed this person made of him. Since this was not testified to by Nosske on the stand that anyone denounced him, which caused him to leave the Gestapo, I do not think that at this time the good Doctor can overcome the doctrine of Laches' that he is barred from bringing in or injecting this now feature since it was known or allegedly known to the defendant, and he testified as to nothing about thisman Guttenberger denouncing him.

THE PRESIDENT: We will follow the same rule unless you have something to say, Dr. Hoffmann. Did you want to interject something?

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, the very fact that someone who is indicted does not know from the start what charges are filed against him, is sometimes the basis for the success of the Prosecution. This examiner Hussmann, therefore, did not inform the defendant Nosske, whose Prosecutor he was going to be, what the charges were against him, so that it is not strange at all that Nosske on his own initiative can only say what he knows, while Husmann as an investigator states matters as he sees them. I therefore see no reason. -

MR. WALTON: I think Dr, Hoffmann misunderstood me. According to this affidavit in 1933 the affiant was examining judge and Nosske came before him for interrogation in conn ection with this Horia Sima's escape. At that time in 1944 the now defendant Nosske told this examining judge that the man Guttenberger was denouncing him. Therefore, if your Honors please, this fact was known to Nosske when he took the witness stand in this trial, and he was at liberty at that time to testify concerning it. Now the prosecution contends that since he did not he is now barred from injecting into the case an entirely now feature concerning this testimony about his investigation. He made no mention of anyone denouncing him when he was on the stand here.

DR. HOFFMANN: Your Honor, may I say something about this?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I will let you, but I think that I can do it just as well. The theory of the document books is that they will contain evidence, not only rebuttal but they are still part of the case in chief -- I am speaking now of the defendants' document books - so that each affidavit could well be a speaking witness. Now Dr. Hoffmann is still presenting his case in chief and he presents this affidavit. He could have called that individual. Well, we know that in lieu of the flash and blood witnesses we are taking affidavits for the conservation of time and for many other reasons, so that he, in effect, is now presenting a witness who he might just as well have presented before. So I don't think you can charge him with laches. It is not rebuttal; it is his case in chief.

MR. WALTON: Very well, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, I don't know quite how we are proceeding and Dr. Hochwald gets up and then Dr. Hoffmann gets up. I have one docum*--* I would like the Tribunal, in order to keep the proceedings regular, to call me at the proper time, when it is the proper time to introduce it.

THE PRESIDENT: You may present it now since you are here at the podium. I don't think Dr. Durchholz will mind.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Your Honor, I merely have to offer one more docu ment for the defendant Schulz but I am Willing to wait until Mr. Hochwald has returned. My colleague Link asked me to deputize for him concerning the defendant Ruehl, and he asked me to submit the Document Book No. III which consists of three documents. His wish was that I may be able to do this for my colleague Link. I think Mr. Walton is competent for this case.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. All right, you may proceed.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: As Document Book III for the defendant Ruehl I am to submit a few supplementary documents. As Ruehl Document No. 27 I submit an affidavit by Dr. Hans Schmitz of 21 January 1948 on Page 69 of the book. This has the exhibit number 27. Dr. Schmitz talks about the professional activity of Ruehl in 1934 to 1938, when he was a speciali for counter-intelligence matters. He confirms that Ruehl was taken out of this career against his will and the Reich Security Main Office instructed him to be a candidate for the executive service. This document is a supplement for statements made in Ruel Document No. 7 which is Ruehl Exhib*---* No. 7. In Document Book No. I on Page 19, an affidavit has been introduce there by Herr Loesse, a government councillor. I also offer as Exhibit No. 28 an affidavit by Erwin Hanson of 16 January 1948. This is Ruehl Document No. 28 on Page 71. The affiant states here further details about the position of Ruehl as administrative officer in the Sonderkommando 10b and confirms that Ruehl was not one of the senior officers after the commander. Hanson also confirms that Ruehl had nothing to do with interrogations, arrests and executive tasks, and neither acted as deputy of the kommando chief nor was he chief of a subkommando nor was he active as such

MR. WALTON: Now, if your Honors, please, I don't think even th*---* Tribunal can say about this document that he just argued about that it is part of the case in chief. This document is put in specifically to refut* the one document or the affidavit of a witness Robert Barth, B-A-R-T-H. We would never get through with this case if rebuttal, sur-rebuttal, sursur-rebuttal is continually put in. Now is this witness knew these facts which was brought out certainly in cross-examination that at least the pr cution thought Ruehl was a deputy to Persterer, the kommando chief, at the time when his document books were presesented this should have been in them as part of his case in chief.

But, if your Honors please, this is an attempt to rebut the prosecution's rebuttal document, and I think the doctrine of laches certainly applies in this case.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, do you admit the principle that affidavits form part of the case in chief?

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, at the time, at the proper time they certainly do, but I ask your Honor to take this into consideration. The prosecution put in one document against Ruehl in rebuttal. Now then this comes as part of the case in chief that attacks the rebuttal or it is a sur-rebuttal of the defense, one or the other, and as a matter of point of time-

THE PRESIDENT: Does it make no reference to your case in chief Does it not reply to anything that you presented in your case in chief against Ruehl?

MR. WALTON: No, sir. My cross-examination attempted to bring from Ruehl the fact that he was a deputy to Persterer which he deinied. the prosecution in rebuttal introduced a document which the Tribunal has pointed out is equal in this case to a flesh and blood witness which refuted that. Now the prosecution comes today- I am sorry, correction the defense comes today and produces an affidavit from a witness that was known to the defense at the time he was cross-examined and attempts to rebut the prosecution's rebuttal document.

THE PRESIDENT: Until you cross-examined on this subject, how was the defendant informed that he was charged with being a deputy of Persterer? Since it was not in your case in chief how was he informed?

MR. WALTON: He was certainly questioned also, if my memory serves me right, by his own counsel as to what his position was in Sonderkommando 10b. We charged him in the indictment with being deputy commander.

THE PRESIDENT: Well that is what I asked you, if it formed part of the case in chief, and you said no.

MR. WALTON: I believe I should like to correct that. If my memory serves me, in the first pages of the indictment where each man's SS rank is given and his position in the Einsatzgruppen, it definitely states that he was charged as deputy chief of the Einsatzkommando 10b, or Sonderkommando 10b.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, if he was charged with being deputy commander in the indictment and it was part of your case in chief, then on the principle that all these documents submitted by the defense form part of the defendant's case in chief, why wouldn't he be permitted to present this affidavit to refute the charge in the indictment that he was a deputy commander?

MR. WALTON: He would, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. WALTON: At the proper time, but the point that I am asking is that this is a sur-rebuttal document.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, but Mr. Walton, you know of all the difficulties that there are in getting these documents presented and prepared. There are so many mechanical propositions to overcome so that the mere delay in time does not of itself suggest that defense was not diligent.

MR. WALTON: Look at the date of the instrument, your Honor, or the 28th of January 1948. It was obtained after the rebuttal document was in and it comes in as an attempt to sur-rebut the prosecution's rebuttal.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Your Honor, may I comment on this briefly?

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton, if you had brought in a witness instead of an affidavit then the defense would have had an opportunity to cross-examine that witness, but since you avail yourself of a privilege, which is accorded all counsel, to bring in affidavits in lieu of witness how is the defense going to reply or challenge in any way this affidavit less he does it in this way since you did not present the flesh and blood Witness?

MR. WALTON: Very well, your Honor, I put in the objections, the Tribunal rules on them.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, your objection is overruled.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: Your Honor, may I just make one comment on this? The necessity of introduction of this document was not based on the rebuttal but because of the cross-examination, and the fact that the document was only introduced now is due to the fact that we had no means of obtaining this affidavit before. Apart from that this supplements previous documents on various points.

As my last document I offer as Exhibit No. 29 the Ruehl Document No. 29 on Page 76. This is an affidavit by Karl Kaufmann of 16 January, 1948. The witness confirms that Ruehl was niehter introduced as deputy of the kommando chief nor was he over active as such or as subkommando chief.

MR. WALTON: Your Honor, the prosecution makes application in open court to have those two witnesses called for cross-examination.

THE PRESIDENT: If they can be obtained.

MR. WALTON: Otherwise we object to the introduction of these last two documents.

THE PRESIDENT: If those witnesses can be obtained forthwith, the application is approved.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: I shall try, if it becomes necessary, to bring those witnesses here for cross-examination.

MR. WALTON: Do I understand the Tribunal that I have the right to cross-examine these witnesses?

THE PRESIDENT: You certainly have.

MR. WALTON: If they are not brought then the Tribunal does not accept the documents, or do they accept it for whatever probative value they choose to give it?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gender.

MR. WALTON: That is right.

THE PRESIDENT: He has the right to cross-examine your witness.

MR. WALTON: Very true, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, can you get your witnessin here?

MR. WALTON: He lives in the French Zone of Austria. I can set the procedure in motion as soon as I leave.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, let's dispose of it this way, Mr. Walton, that if any or all of these witnesses can be obtained and presented to the Tribunal this week then we will hear them. Otherwise we will accept all the affidavits, the ones that you presented and the ones that he presented, and assign to them the probative value which the entire situation will accord to then.

DR. WISSMATH: Dr. Wissmath for the defendant Jost.

defendant Jost by presenting Document Book IV which conclude my presentation, if the prosecution does not object to this since Mr. Glancy is not present.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

DR. WISSMATH: I offer as Jost Exhibit No. 33the document J-34. This is an affidavit by Hans Daufeldt of 19 December 1947, on Pages 1 to 2. The witness was on an emergency status in the RSHA where he was assigned from 1939 until 1941 and he states that the activity in the independent Office VI dealt with making economic and political reports from foreign countries and that it did not collaborate with Office IV of the RSHA. Daufeldt describes Jost as a decent humane man who treated his subordinates in a correct and decent manner.

As Jost Exhibit No. 34 I offer the document J-35. This is the affidavit of August Finke of 12 January 1948 on Pages 3 to 6 of the document book Jost No. IV. It states that Jost was chief of Office VI in the Reich Main Security Office from September 1939 until the middle of 1941 approximately. Office VI was not a counter-intelligence organization of Office IV. It had no police tasks and had nothing to do with executive tasks. Office VI merely dealt with intelligence reports from abroad. Also Office IV of the RSHA obtained their own information apparatus which concerned enemy counter-intelligence work abroad. Attempts by Office Chief IV Mueller to influence Office VI rejected by Jost. Finke says about Jost's character. "Jost's reserved attitude was almost indifference. Things had to happen before he changed that attitude, but Jost stood up for his own opinion stubbornly, though on the whole he was very tolerant. Jost was not a political zealot nor was he doctrinaire."

As Jost Exhibit No. 35 I offer Document J-36, an excerpt from the Flick judgment. This excerpt is to be considered as part of the emergency decreestatus which concerned him.

As Exhibit No. 36 I offer the document J-37. This is an affidavit of Dr. Wolfgang Wohlgemuth of 15 January 1948, contained in Pages 14 to 19 of the fourth volume. Dr. Wohlgemuth has known Jost since the fall of 1940. At the end of 1941 or beginning of 1942, he gave him medical treatment. The diagnosis showed a disturbance of the activity of the thyroid glands caused by strong emotional excitement and a disturbance in the equilibrium of the vegetative nervous system with symptoms of deficient circulation of the blood. The illness is due to the inner tension existing in Jost which resulted because of the discrepancy between Jost's inner attitude and the work he had to do. The witness describes Jost as tolerant in his character and not at all ruthless.

THE PRESIDENT: May I call your attention to one sentence in this affidavit which to me is a little ambiguous, and I want to make certain that the translation is correct. On Page -- the top of Page 3, Page 16, the English document book, the English translation, but your Page 3, where it says, "He showed himself to be an outspoken idealist and at that time, autumn 1942 --" Have you located that?

DR, WISSMATH: No, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it is Page 3 of yours, of the original affidavit of Dr. Wolfgang -

DR. WISSMATH: I have the place, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Now, this is the way we have it in English. "At that time, autumn 1942, he made the somewhat melancholy remark, as I still remember very well, that idealism is probably the most erroneous conception of life." I see that you understand English.

DR. WISSMATH: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: Now, is that the correct translation?

DR. WISSMATH: Your Honor, I assume that the date given here is given in the wrong relation. I shall read the sentence again in German and the interpreter will then retranslate it.

THE PRESIDENT: Please read it slowly.

DR. WISSMATH: "He showed himself as an outspoken idealist and at the tine, namely in the fall of 1942, as I recall very well made, the rather sad remark that idealism is the most erroneous conception of life." This date, therefore, refers to the time when he made that remark and not to the time when he was an idealist, as I think the English translation night indicate.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I don't seehow this is a favorable view of the defendant, and certainly you wouldn't be submitting something unfavorable to him. He states that idealism is an erroneous conception of life, in other words that idealism should not be embraced and followed, is that what you mean?

DR. WISSMATH: Yes, that is how I understand the testimony of the affiant.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I can't understand the purpose in submitting something which is derogatory of the defendant in the defendant's document book. However, that is up to you. It may be that what the affiant intended to say was that idealism did not bring the defendant to any felicitous state in life and to that extent that idealism was impossible, but not that it is an erroneous conception, because if you don't have idealism in life you certainly don't have any order or system or morals. Very well.

DR. WISSMATH: Because of Jost's character the witness Wohlgemuth had confidence in him and expressed his anti-Nazi opinions to him, as can be seen from the affidavit. Wohlgemuth recalls that during a conversation Jost told him about his work in Riga, that he objected to executions of Jews.

As Exhibit No. 37 I offer the document J-38, This is an affidavit of Dr, Sohr of 17 January 1948, Pages 20 to 24. The witness says concerning Jost's character that Jost was a calm, reasonable man who was very honest.

He was sincere and conciliatory and always willing to help.

As supplement to Document Book IV, I offer as Exhibit No.38 the document J-39. This is an affidavit by Anton Dunkan of 30 January 1948. This reveals that Heydrich disapproved of Jost and described him as an officer who was of not much use. Heydrich wanted to express by this that Jost insisted on legality and proper treatment and justice. In his opinion Jost was not energetic enough for such an assignment and too inhibited. in Document Book III, Pages 14 and 15, Exhibits Nos. 29 and 30, I want to offer the new numbers, the new charts, which I ask the Tribunal to accept now. Tribunal to the fact that the Document Book 5-A submitted by the prosecution in rebuttal in the English version merely contains a small part, namely a third approximately of the German issue. Since the defense quotes this volume in the final pleas, there is a danger that the Tribunal will not be able to find the quotations in the English text. I therefore suggest that the prosecution should complete the volume in English so that it contains the same as the German volume.

THE PRESIDENT: Suppose we have our recess now.

DR. KRAUSE: Krause for Haensch. I beg your pardon, Your Honor -

THE PRESIDENT: If you would like to go ahead while we are absent, you may, but I think it would be more to your purpose if you waited until we have our recess.

DR. KRAUSE: Your Honor, I merely took the liberty to offer my documents because there are only three.

THE PRESIDENT: Suppose we do that now?

DR. KRAUSE: I would like to introduce Haensch Document Book Number IV. It contains three documents, but I only intend to submit the first two. On page 1 of Document Book IV, Exhibit Number 31, I offer the Document Number 29. This is a copy of a telegram addressed to the present Mayor of Oger-Tuebbingen of 22 January 1948. In this telegram I asked that the question, the first name, the date of birth, and the period of office of the former mayor, Dr. Weinmann, be given to me. The Tribunal well recall that the prosecution introduced a document which is supposed to reveal that Dr. Erwin Weinmann, who went to Russia at the same time as the defendant was already in the Einsatz since the 13th of January 1942. This document of the Prosecution describes Dr. Erwin Weinmann as Mayor of Tuebbingen. I also submit on page 2 of Document Book IV as Exhibit Number 32 the Document Number 30. That is the reply telegram sent by the Mayor of Tuebbingen in reply to my telegram dated 22 January 1948. It says that the Mayor of Tuebbingen during the time from 28 July 1939 until 18 April 1945 was a Doctor Ernst Einmann, who was born on 16 April 1907. This is merely a mistake in the surname. This obviously is the Dr. Ernst Weinmann. In any case, the document shows that Dr. Erwin Weinmann, who concerns us here, was not Mayor.

MR. HOCHWALD: I object against the two last documents as they are not submitted in the form prescribed by the Tribunal, they are neither captured documents nor affidavits nor transcripts of some criminal proceedings, they are just telegrams between two parties which have nothing to do personally with the defendant. In this form the exhibits are inadmissible; as to their contents, they are immaterial.

The question which was to be proved by the document put in by the prosecution was only whether Dr. Erwin Weinmann had been in the Einsatz from the 13th January 1942 on. Nothing to that effect is proved by these two telegrams.

DR. KRAUSE: Your Honor -

THE PRESIDENT: Well, then they don't hurt anybody.

MR. HOCHWALD: They certainly do not hurt me, Your Honor.

DR. KRAUSE: Your Honor, I still ask you to accept these documents. I shall try -

THE PRESIDENT: We haven't refused them.

DR. KRAUSE: Thank you. I now ask to be allowed to introduce another single document. It is Exhibit Number 33 , Document Number 32. This document consists of three parts. They are copies of the opinions which the prosecution put at my disposal, and I thank them for it. These expert opinions discuss export opinions about the handwriting of the witness Schreyer that is, the handwriting in the order sheet on the envelope of the negative plates.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it isn't necessary to enumerate all those exhibits, Mr. Hochwald went into that rather completely this morning, so that we know what they are. You are now merely p utting them in evidence and they will be accepted.

DR. KRAUSE: Yes. I merely wanted to point out, Your Honor, that both expert opinions -

THE PRESIDENT: But you cannot argue it, you merely present them. The argument will come in the summation.

DR. KRAUSE: Very well.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will now be in recess 15 minutes.

(A recess was taken.)

Page 5,617

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. KRAUSE(ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT HAENSCH): Your Honor, The Secretary-General drew my attention to the fact that the document numbers Haensch 1 through 4 occurred twice, that is, in connection with the submission of the documents which are with the documents of the Witness Schreyer, who was heard on the witness stand. I would like you to permit me to make a change. I would like that the documents in Document Book No. I which up to new bore the numbers 1, 2, 3, and 4, now be called 1a, 2a, 3a, and 4a. The document submitted yesterday in the form of an index card of the dentist, Dr. Maennel, will now receive Exhibit No. 34, Document No. 33.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. The record will show that.

MR. WALTON: If your Honors please, the prosecution has one document to introduce in the case of Ohlendorf. Dr. Aschenauer has been patiently waiting all day, but I don't want to impede the defense counsel which are waiting. My understanding is that the plans of the Tribunal are to have Dr. Aschenauer begin his closing statement right after the afternoon, or the noon recess. If it is agreeable with Dr. Aschenauer and for the Tribunal and because of a matter of some importance which has come up in my office, I would like to reserve the right, before Dr. Aschenauer gets started this afternoon - it will take not more than five minutes -to offer my document and then hear from Dr. Aschenauer, so that I can leave for my office at the present time.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you want to do it now? Do you want to take five minutes?

MR. WALTON: Sir, there will be some objections, which Dr. Aschenauer desires to put and I thought when he took the podium, he could keep it.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

Dr. von Stein?

DR. VON STEIN (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT SANDBERGER): I have submitted one document book for the defendant Sandberger, and I am new about to submit Document Book I-A.From Document Book I-A, I now offer as Exhibit No. 21, Sandberger Document No. 23.

It is an affidavit of one Harry Hanke, the former Radio Chief of the Staff of Einsatzgruppe A. He says from his own knowledge that Sandberger during the second half of September and the beginning of October 1941, was not in Esthonia, but in the territory south of Leningrad and secondly that the Chief of the Einsatzgruppe, Dr. Stahlecker, at the end of September, 1941, was in Riga.

I now submit as my next document, Sandberger Exhibit No. 22, Sandberger Document No. 24. It is in Document Book I-A, the affidavit of one Margarethe Oettinger. She also testifies that Sandberger during the mentioned time was in the frontal sector near Leningrad and that during this time the rear army territory in Esthonia was not subordinated to him, but that his deputy was in charge of that area. Furthermore, she testifies in accordance with Sandberger's direct examination that Reval was under Einsatzgruppe A at that time. Furthermore, she confirms the statements that Sandberger made in the witness box, answering the question put by the President concerning his absence from Reval in March and April 1942. Finally Miss Oettinger testifies from her own knowledge as to the facts which I have already mentioned when my affidavit was submitted, the affidavit of von Rechter. It was Exhibit No. 1.

Now I submit Sandberger Exhibit No. 23, Document No. 26, Document Book I-A, page 24, the affidavit of Criminal Commissar, Johannes Feder, who was a Sub-Kommando Chief in the Special Kommando 1-A. He confirms in this affidavit the correctness and accurateness of those statements which Sandberger made when he was on the-witness stand concerning the days of his absence from Riga from the 1st to the 4th of July, 1941.

I submit and offer from Document Book No. 1-A, page 60, Sandberger Document No. 37, which I offer as Sandberger Exhibit No. 24, the affidavit of Dr. Adolf Windecker. Windecker was a special plenipotentiary in the Foreign Office for the Baltic Countries and he has known the defendant Sandberger during the years 1941 to 1943. In this affidavit he quotes from a report which he sent voluntarily in November 1947 to the prosecution to Professor Kempner. In this affidavit he says that Sandberger supported and aided Estonian Jews, contrary to the orders received and that he had transported them to Pleskau where they were living in a camp up to the time when Obergruppenfuehrer Jackeln got hold of them. Herr Windecker also makes a positive general statement as to Sandberger's activities in Estonia.

My next document, which I offer as Sandberger Exhibit No. 25, is Sandberger Document No. 25, page 15, the affidavit of Gerhard Utikal. In May and June 1947 the affiant was in the same cell in the prison in Nurnberg with Sandberger. In order to explain this document, I may remind the Tribunal of the fact that Sandberger answered my question, with the permission of the President, when he was on the witness stand by giving a supplementary remark which was an explanation for the affidavit which he made out on the 23d of April, 1947. It was the question why in this affidavit nothing had been said about the examination and investigation of Communists. Sandberger testified in explanation of this that he wanted to say this, but that the Interrogator did not permit him to do so, and that the interrogator pointed out to him that he would be able to make such supplementary remarks in the near future,. Furthermore, Sandberger stated that he had assumed that this would be possible for him to do in the near future and he had prepared documents concerning this in his cell and he was still in the possession of these documents.

The affidavit by Utikal refers to the fact that Sandberger told him about these matters and that he himself had made the observation that Sandberger had made preparatory notes for an interrogation which was to come and that apart from this, in order to explain this particular procedure, he prepared a chart concerning this Communist matter. I submit a photostat of this chart and explanatory remarks concerning the chart. They are all documents made by Sandberger in Spring 1947 in his cell in Nurnberg in the presence of the affiant Gerhard Utikal.

I next offer Sandberger Exhibit No. 26, Sandberger Document No. 27, the affidavit of the merchant, Herbert von Dehn, who is now living in Kassel. He confirms from his own knowledge that as far as Communist activity in Russia was concerned, individual proceedings took place and that interrogations and investigations took place. Herr von Dehn speaks at some length about Sandberger's conciliatory attitude towards the Esthonian people.

I submit from Document Book No. 1-A, Sandberger Document 36 as Exhibit 27, the affidavit of one Carl Halter . Herr Walter had a leading position as an official between 1941 and 1944 in the German Administration in Reval. From his affidavit it becomes evident that Sandberger was even just,as far as Communist activities were concerned, and that he suggested amnesties to the Governor General on various occasions and that he took measures against denouncers. He furthermore speaks about his friendly attitude towards the Esthonians and he gives various examples. He says that Sandberger attempted to get the Foreign Office to make Esthonia. A Sovereign state according to international law.

As Sandberger Exhibit No. 28, I offer and submit Document No. 34, Affidavit of Fumy. Fumy was a Criminal Commissar in Office IV of the RSHA, the Reich Security Main Office, and as such he worked on the situation reports received.

This affidavit which I herewith submit supplements all the statements, the extensive statements, which Fumy made in the Ohlendorf Document No. 32, which has already been submitted by my colleague, Dr. Aschenauer. Fumy comments on the situation in the office for the reports which went from Reval to Berlin and refers especially to the operation events 88 and 111, which were submitted by the prosecution. He also confirms the statements which the Defendant Sandberger made when he was on the witness stand concerning operation Events 88 and 155. No. 29, the affidavit of one Dr, Hans Ehrlich, Group Chief in Office III of the Reich Security Main Office during the entire time of the war. Dr. Ehrlich confirms from his own knowledge that Sandberger's most important work was the Information and News Service in the domestic spheres. Dr. Ehrlich furthermore states that Sandberger had seen his main task in convincing the German agencies that Esthonia, within the program of a European new order, would have to receive its autonomy.

I submit and offer Sandberger Document No. 22, Exhibit No. 30, the affidavit of the Swedish Major Carl Mothander in Stockholm. Major Mothander knows Sardberger because during Sandberger's period of service in Esthonia he stayed in Esthonia on various occasions, for example, as a member of an investigating delegation of the Swedish Government, then as the Managing Director of an Esthonian Aid Committee in Stockholm, then as the representation of the Swedish Red Cross, then as the sole plenipotentiary of the Swedish Government for the transfer of Esthonian Swedes to Sweden. Owing to his familiarity with the people and the country in Esthonia and based on a number of discussions with Sandberger, Major Mothander says that Sandberger supported the Swedish Government constantly in this resettlement program of Swedes in Esthonia. In conclusion Mothander gives testimony as to the character of Sandberger. I quote:

"Political Police-Service is certainly pleasant in no country. Dr. Sandberger appeared to suffer on account of it often as a man. I got the impression that there must have been friction with higher superiors.

A natural tendency to human kindness and justice often betrayed itself in his nature. For that reason he was always open to what is called "Argumentum ad hominem." testimony but by his own attitude and by his own impression he had discussed it with a former clergyman, a man called Roehl in Reval, who at that time also had been able to dance behind the scenes in Esthonia and he agrees with Mothander's attitude about Sandberger.

I submit from Document Book Sandberger I-A, Document No. 33, which I offer and submit as Exhibit No. 31, the affidavit of one Dr. Bruno Peter von Kleist who lives in Reinbek, who confirms that Sandberger with all the means at his disposal took part in the attempt to compel the Reich Government to carry out a certain autonomy in Esthonia. From a number of remarks in Esthonian circles, Dr. von Kleist found out that the Esthonians often sought Sandberger's protection when German agencies became rambunctious.

I offer as my next document, Sandberger Exhibit No. 32, Document No. 28, the affidavit of one Heinrich Bernhard, who from 1935 to 1938 was the Chief of the Main Department for Foreign Countries in the SD sector in Stuttgart and from 1939 to 1945 was Departmental Chief in office VI in the RSHA, the Reich Security Main Office, who confirms the statements of Dr. Scheel, Eiseler, and Sandberger concerning the involuntariness of cooperation with the SD during the war.

office of the RSHA between 1944 and 1945. The Affidavit of Erich Olbrueck who lives in Schmilling near Arolsen. Document No. 29 I offer which is Sandberger's Exhibit No. 33. Olbrueck gives the personnel and political policies which Sandberger practiced. Furthermore, he reports that in May 1945 Sandberger reported voluntarily to the US Army. The next three affidavits concern the activity in Office VI the RSHA in 1944 and 1945. I offer from Document Book I-A Document No. 30, affidavit of one Dr. Gisel her Wirsing, which is offered as Exhibit No. 34, concerning the activity of Office VI of the Reich Security Main Office. Then there is document No. 35, affidavit of one Dr, Paeffgen , who between '43 and '45 was active as the Security Chief in Office VI for England and America. I offer it as Exhibit No. 35. This affidavit also refers to activity of Office VI of the RSHA. Next I offer Document No. 31 as the affidavit of former chief of Office VI in the RSHA, one Walter Schellenberg. I offer it as Document Exhibit No.36. Schellenberg among other things reports that in the course of his activity, especially in the activity in Estonia, Sandberger got in disgrace with a number of his superiors, and "I remember very well that Sandberger was criticized very unfavorably in Office LV, especially by its Office Chief Lueller", and they made a number of derogatory remarks about him. Schellenberg furthermore reports that suggestions were made to transfer Sandberger and to promote him and that they were refused by Heydrich and by Kaltenbrunner on two occasions. He comments on Prosecution Document 5045, which is Exhibit 182 of the Prosecution, which come up during the cross examination of Sandberger and he reports, and I quote: "He had confidential discussions with him, the affiant, which were conducted with great candor, and he made remarks saying that he was very worried about the policy of the German Government, which he considered wrong. He objects to all strict political measures, against measures which were opposed to the church end measures against the Jews. Next I submit Document No. 3 affidavit of Heinz 'Wanninger, 2 January 1948, which I offer as Exhibit No. 37.

Wanninger was in 1944 and 1945 Chief of the personnel department of the RSHA. The Prosecution Document 3045, Exhibit No. 182, bears his name. He comments on how it was possible that data concerning personnel matte rs were inaccurate in documents of the RSHA. Furthermore, he confirms statements which also are in the affidavit by Rudolf Hotzel. He says that the secrecy among the various offices was very strict, and as a member of Office I I didn't know about any activities of other offices in the RSHA, and especially no sofar as Office IV was concerned.

Now I come to Document Book No. II. In order to bring proof of the inaccuracies in Document 5045, particularly the dates, I now submit and offer as Sandberger's No. 38, a certified copy of the birth certificate of the wife of the defendant Sandberger, Mrs. Eva Sandberger nee Kirschstein, which is in Sandberger's Document Book II, Doc. No. 11, page 61. The comparison between this date and the date of Exhibit No. 182, shows that the date in Exh. 182 is wrong. As my next document I offer and I submit Exhibit No. 39, Document No. 5 on page 50. It is an excerpt from the Prosecution's Document No. 1180, Exhibit No. 34, of Prosecution Volume II-A, that pert of the document which has not been submitted by the Prosecution. This document mentioned the members of a leading central committee, especially, those leading Communist Functionaries who in the Summer of 1941 had remained in Estonia on Soviet Orders in order to direct political, underground organization, for the purpose of carrying out espionage acts, sabotage acts, and other illegal activities Sandberger referred to this list when he was on the witness stand, when he was asked by the Prosectuion who in particular were these people, these people, these leading Communist Functionaries who were named in the report 55 of Prosecution's Document NO 3272. Prosecution Document NO 3279, Prosecution Vol. 1; from the list which I submit in connection with the statement that Sandberger made, it becomes evident that these chief functionaries were not condemned to death because they were Communist Functionaries, but because they were carrying on sabotage and espionage acts and building up an organization.

As my next document I submit Sandberger's Document No. 40, it is document No. 9-C, an excerpt from an article of the Canadian Professor Watson Kirkconell, who wrote this in an English magazine, the "Baltic Review", published in Stockholm. The excerpt which I submit contains a list of groups of people who during the time of the occupation of the Baltic State in 1940 and 1941 were to be liquidated by the NKWD. This list is published by Lithuanian-American circles in New York, and that the author is in possession of a copy of this document.

MR. HOCHWALD: The prosecution objects to this document, the excerpt of a newspaper is no evidence , moreover, it is immaterial and has no value in the case.

DR. VON STEIN: The reason why I submit this document is to support the testimony of the witness Dr. Mac. This objection was also raised when that witness was on the witness stand, but the Tribunal was kind enough to admit the question, and in order to support this statement I submit this excerpt which states that the original of this list is in New York.

MR. HOCHWALD: This does not change anything in the nature of the document, Your Honor. The document is not a captured document, it is not an affidavit, end it is inadmissible in its form.

DR. V ON STEIN: I submit this document mainly in order to bring an illustration from another party. I had relied only on the testimony of the witness Dr. Mae as well as Sandberger, and in order to support this testimony I would like to submit an article which comes from abroad and which confirms the same fact.

MR. HOCHWALD: It would be perfectly correct, if Dr. von Stein would have received an affidavit from the writer of the article offered, that would be corroborative evidence for sure. It would be another question where the evidence on this would be material, but all arguments do not change one fact. An article in a newspaper which is not a captured document, which was not written before 1945, cannot serve as evidence before the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: I am afraid, Dr. Stein, that would be stretching the rule of liberality a little bit too far, after all, it is merely a comment by some one not involved in the trial.

DR. VON STEIN: Your Honor, I am not in a position to support this evidence by other documents. I only have the opportunity of pointing out documents which originated abroad , and the Tribunal can of course assign any probative value it wishes , but it is not that I only have to submit official documents but I can also submit anything of any probative value, and I think that the views of the foreign press, especially something which appeared in N.Y., might have a certain probative value.

MR. HOCHWALD: If argument of defense counsel would be correct, then it would be easy to decide the case by submitting some articles which are referring to the guilt or innocence of these defendants, if the article appeared in a New York newspaper or in a Washington newspaper, during the time of the trial; the Tribunal would certainly not accept such evidence which in essence is absolutely the same thing. We have never tried, and we would not try to put in evidence --

DR. VON STEIN: May I point out again, Your Honor, from this Baltic Review, the source from which the original was obtained is listed. Probably that will suffice, as it is not just an article which I offer, but I submit the source which is contained in the document itself.

MR. HOCHWALD: If Dr. von Stein would have put in the original in its form, possibly the exhibit would have been correct, I am not sure as to its contents , but only by giving the source of the article in the newspaper, the Prosecution has no possibilityto check these sources, and would place too much of a burden on the Prosecution to prove the incorrectness of the article.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. von Stein , don't you see that this type of evidence is like a double-edged sword. If you would be allowed to introduce a newspaper article which could be interpreted favorably to the defense, the Prosecution then could introduce many newspaper articles to the contrary.

Then you have evidence here which is not under the control of the Tribunal. The evidence which comes into the Tribunal must have all the safeguards which go with the ascertainment of truth, examination, cross examination, ascertainment of source of material which you could not hove in the mere submission of a newspaper article which could be written by some prejudiced, or some one not in possession of all the facts. It would be a different thing if the question was, did a newspaper article appear or not and that became the issue, but that is not the issue here. Some newspaper man may express a thought, a view and certainly we can not charge the defendants with that thought or view expressed by some one who is not in the courtroom.

DR. VON STEIN: Your Honor, the document contains the source of this statement and is at the disposal of the Prosecution at any time.

MR. HOCHWALD: It is not the burden of the Prosecution but I would like to make it very clear to get the evidence which the defense wants to put in. If Dr. von Stein wants to prove something, he has to put in the exhibit, not the Prosecution can be charged in finding the book in which this evidence alledgedly is to be found.

THE PRESIDENT: We think, Dr. von Stein, in order to preserve the absolute impartiality of the deliberations, that a newspaper article may not be accepted, so the objection of the Prosecution is sustained. I would like to have you make a note, Mr. Hochwald, that one time you were sustained.

MR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much.

DR. VON STEIN: May I proceed?

THE PRESIDENT: Please do.

DR. VON STEIN: Concerning the question of the Communists in Estonia, I submit No. 41, Sandberger's Document No. 1, in Document Book No. 11, an excerpt from operation events of the RSHA, namely such excerpts from prosecution documents whichwere not submitted by the Prosecution in their document books. Also I submit excerpts, copies from the so-called reports from the Eastern Occupied Countries, which were published by the RSHA, 1942 and '43, in connection with the operation reports which I had mentioned before.

These are in photostatic form in the office of the Prosecution. I would like to thank the Prosecution for permitting me to look through all these reports, and to copy excerpts from the indexes and contents of these books. As Sandberger's Exhibit 42, I submit Document No. 2 in Sandberger's Document Book No. 13. This contains certified excerpts from the Eastern reports submitted by the Prosecution. As Exhibit No. 43, Sandberger's No. 3, page 12-A, excerpt from operation report of 7 November 1941, No. 130. This excerpt describes the methods of the Bolshevist Agents in the area of the Army Group North. Especially the fact that women and juvenile children over fourteen were used by the Russians as agents. Referring to these report of events and reports from Eastern Occupied Territories I may point out the following: The excerpts from the reports of events No. 29 and No. 166, concern the measures of the Soviet in Estonia in the years of 1941 and 1942, and the measures to deport anti-Soviet elements from the Baltic to Siberia. It also concerns the fact that the Soviets in 1941 and '42, deported 60,911 people.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I do think it is clear from the presentation by Dr. von Stein, that this document has no value in the case. We object therefore, to the presentation of this document.

THE PRESIDENT: It may not be precisely relevant but we will admit it for whatever probative value it will have, shedding some light on the possible interpretation by the defendants on the historical situation, if it existed.

DR. VON STEIN: The excerpt from report of events, No. 51, concerns itself with the Soviet destruction battalions and excerpt 53 has to do with Communist Partisan activity in Estonia. The reports of events No. 163 and 171, 176, 178, 180 and 191, and the reports from the Occupied Eastern Territories, Nos. 3,30 and 50, report of this extensive activity of parachutists in Estonia. As for SK I-A, Special Commando 1-A, which Sandberger commanded in Leningrad, Sandberger said that this Commando dealt mainly with G-2 tasks. In this connection I picked out the above-mentioned excerpts from the reports of events, and also one excerpt from report of events 116. This states that the main task of the subcommando of Einsatzgruppe A before Leningrad was the military and political information service, and the intelligence service methods are explained. In accordance with this I may draw attention to pages 1 and 3 of a Situational Report, in which it is said that Pleskau in June 1941 had been the garrison of SK 1-B but not of SK 1-A. These are the excerpts submitted by me from reports of events No. 24 and No. 34. It becomes evident from this that the passage contained in the Document 3401 concerning Pleskau, that is in Document Book 2-A, on page 110 of the English Document Book, is objectively wrong. I may refer here to the statement of Sandberger when he was on the witness stand. I now submit documents concerning the general testimony which was made by Dr. Mae, former chief of the Estonian Administration in connection with the conditions which Sandberger found when he arrived in 1941 in Estonia, and also concerning the attitude of the Soviets which led to these conditions. I submit document No. 9-b, page 55, as Exhibit No. 44. That is an excerpt from a newspaper article of the American Citizen, Julius Epstein, entitled "Broken City."

MR. HOCHWALD: The objection is the same as the one on which I was sustained.

THE PRESIDENT: The ruling is the same as the one on which you were sustained.

DR. VON STEIN: I was just about to give the exact source for this document.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it is from a newspaper article?

DR. VON STEIN: It was published in 1946 in a report, Appendix, of Washington, January 1946.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. von Stein, it must be apparent to you that we can not accept evidence of that kind. It is no reflection on the newspaper, or the writer of the article, but it is the general principle which is involved, that if you open the door to newspapers, then you will be trying the case on hearsay evidence.

DR. VON STEIN: Your Honor, but the source is given in the newspaper article.

THE PRESIDENT: Don't you see, Dr. von Stein, the person who writes the article is not under oath, he may be mistaken in his source of information, there is no chance for cross examination. I don't think you need to argue that point. We just can not accept them.

DR. VON STEIN: I now offer Document Sandberger 9-E and 9-F in the Document Book on pages 58 and 59, as Exhibits 45 and 46. Then I submit Sandberger Document No. 9-A as Exhibit No. 47, an excerpt from an article by the Estonian Protestant Bishop -

THE PRESIDENT: What is the date of that article?

DR. VON STEIN: The date?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

DR. VON STEIN: 1946.

THE PRESIDENT: You see, Dr. von Stein, if this newspaper article had been published during the time that Sandberger was there, then it could be evidence of the fact that the newspaper was published, and it stated certain things, but here is a newspaper which came out after the events, which are the subject of this trial, ended.

DR. VON STEIN: Yes, but the newspaper article concerns itself with events of 1940 and '41 in Estonia.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, then you should have here the man who actually knows of these events.

DR. VON STEIN: As Exhibit Sandberger's No. 49 I submit and offer an excerpt from the Journal Official de la Republique 19 July 1946. This is an excerpt from a speech by -

THE PRESIDENT: It is the same thing.

DR. VON STEIN: I may point out, Your Honor, that this Exhibit No. 49 from the Journal Official de la Republique Francaise is a photo-copy of the original.

MR. HOCHWALD: It is not the original article.

THE PRESIDENT: A photostat of what?

DR. VON STEIN: Photostat of the Journal Official de la Republique Francaise, and has been certified by a notary public.

THE PRESIDENT: What is the date of the newspaper article?

MR. HOCHWALD: The date of the newspaper is 19 July 1946, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Suppose you are submitting the newspaper here, it would be subject to the same type of objection. The fact that it is photostated does not magnify the article.

DR. VON STEIN: It is not a general newspaper, but the official organ of the French Republic, one could not compare this with a newspaper.

MR. HOCHWALD: Possibly Dr. von Stein can tell us whether it is an official decree of the French Republic, which of course would change it. If that would be a decree or a regulation or a decision before a French War Crime Court, that would, of course, change the validity of the thing, but if there is only a speech or a subjective opinion of an individual given, that would not be admissible.

DR. VON STEIN: May I take the liberty of pointing out that this is a government report of a Parliamentary session which I am submitting, this is an official document, and not just a newspaper article, as the prosecution seems to think.

MR. HOCHWALD: Will Dr. von Stein enlighten us whether this was a vote or a decision of the French Assembly, or whether it was a speech.

DR. VON STEIN: I will give a short resume of the contents.

THE PRESIDENT: Just answer his question. Answer Mr. Hochwald's question, please?

DR. VON STEIN: I, also, of course -

MR. HOCHWALD: The Prosecution is interested to know whether the item which Dr. von Stein wants to submit is a decision of the French Assembly, or whether it is a speech by somebody.

DR. VON STEIN: I must say, of course, that it is a speech, not a decision.

MR. HOCHWALD: We are not in a position to cross-examine the person who made those utterances. The document is inadmissible.

THE PRESIDENT: The objection is sustained.

DR. VON STEIN: In that case I am omitting a number of newspaper articles which I wonted to introduce from German newspapers. I now offer Sandberger's Exhibit 52, which is Document 10, excerpt from the Manual for General Staff Officers, 1 August 1939.

It is an excerpt concerning the responsibility of an Army commander in operational areas about security tasks, and now I submit as Exhibit No. 3 an affidavit of the assistant official Mensel on this document, and he certified that he found 7/8 of all reports coming from Estonia, 10/11, that these reports are purely reports concerning the domestic sphere, therefore, they are reports which were issued by Department III. There are a few additional documents which are contained in Document Book II-A. No. 12 which I offer as Exh. 54 is an expert opinion of Dr. Maurer concerning the applicability of Estonia Law concerning a state of emergency according to Estonian Law and Estonian justice. No. 13, which I offer as Exh. 55, is an excerpt from reports of events 181, which showed that Litsche is not in Estonia, but in the territory of Einsatzgruppe A, Loknia. I point out that document No. 15 belongs to it.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. von Stein, you refer to Document Book 2-A. Document Book 2-A contains only documents 16 and 17.

DR. VON STEIN: There is another supplement to this book, Document Book 2-A contains document 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 14 and 15 and then there is a small supplement, which has 16. and 17.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, we will receive it in order to finish up and then get the documents, of course.

DR. VON STEIN: Document No. 15, which is offered as Exh. 56, is a photostat of Army chart from which it becomes evident where the place Oladice is situated. This is at the lower left end of the chart, and there is also the Oladice.

Page 5,634

No. 16 is Exhibit No. 57, an affidavit by Herbert Sandberger.

No. 17 is offered as Sandberger's Exhibit No. 58, an affidavit by one Buchner.

Buchner was a member of SK 1-A speaks especially about the events during the advance.

With to me thus far.

There is one question which I would like to ask, Mr. President.

It is highly probable that I shall be permitted to be able to submit these documents.

THE PRESIDENT: I would suggest that if you have being presented in open court.

If there is an objection then DR. VON STEIN: No, what I mean is, may I be permitted to submit this document after the final pleas?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, you may submit it but not in open court; once the final pleas are terminated, naturally, we

DR. VON STEIN: No, what I mean is whether I can submit it to the tribunal if I just hand it directly to the court?

THE PRESIDENT: If it is a matter of a day or two, yes.

MR. HOCHWALD: Do I understand the Tribunal correctly, the form of a written motion?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Fritz, how many documents do you have to present?

DR. FRITZ: Four.

DR. BELZER: I have nine.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you mean number nine or "nein" meaning no?

DR. DURCHHOLZ: I just have one document.

DR. SCHWARZ: Twenty-seven documents for Strauch.

MR. HOCHWALD: I have only one for the Prosecution.

DR. DURCHHOLZ: For the defendant Braune, the defense counsel will submit one document this afternoon.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Aschenauer, I am sorry you will be delayed a little bit in the presentation of your summation, but just as soon as we finish the acceptance of the documents, you may begin, is that satisfactory?

DR. ASCHENAUER: All right, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess until two o'clock.

(Whereupon noon recess until 1400 hours, 3 Febr. 1948) (The Tribunal reconvened at 1400 hours, 3 February 1943)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

MR. WALTON: May it please the Tribunal, at this time the Prosecution offers in rebuttal Document NO-4638, which consists of two parts, the first being a cover-letter or a letter ordering distribution by General Ohlendorf of a monograph or a prepared lecture concerning some features of Nazi ideology. In view of the testimony of the defendant and in view of the testimony concerning the legality of the SD and the SS, the Prosecution desires to introduce Document NO-4638 into evidence as Prosecution's Exhibit 252.

DR. ASCHENAUER: (Attorney for the Defendant Ohlendorf) Your Honor, I object to the submission of this document.

May I point out that the reason given on the 21 January, according to the record, page 5,499 by Mr. Walton was a different one. I quote: "Mr. Walton said: 'It is a long manuscript about the lecture, which Ohlendorf prepared, about the superiority of the National Socialist form of government over the existing form of government.'" I explained to Mr. Walton that this document does not contain any contributions or any speech by Herr Ohlendorf. There is not a line in this document about subjects concerning questions of domestic sphere or concerning the independence or jurisdiction of the judges, that originated from Herr Ohlendorf. That is why, because he is informed about this, Mr. Walton wrote a lengthy argumentation about the legality of the SS and the SD. May I point out that this document, first of all, does not contain a speech by the defendant Ohlendorf; secondly, it does not contain anything on the subject of a superior state legislation, as Mr. Walton said on the 21st January; but these are legal question; thirdly, that the coordination of a speech here does not give information about opinions of the defendant Ohlendorf nor of his office or any other office with whom he had dealings.

I refer to the following sentences on the first page of this document. It says: These contributions in no case contain a conclusive opinion by Office III or the Reich Security Main Office concerning the problems treated therein, but merely are to contribute towards the clarification of the matter among us.

In the second paragraph we find the following quotation: "The existing first contributions of 27th July 1942 is the basis of this; before the recent changes in the manner in which legal administration exists in Germany was concluded recently - "

THE PRESIDENT: Where are you reading from, Dr. Aschenauer? Where are you reading? I don't find this in the exhibit.

DR. ASCHENAUER: I am reading from the first page of the document. It starts Reich Security Main Office III, Berlin SW, 11 October 1942.

MR. WALTON: He is referring to the cover-letter.

THE PRESIDENT: Oh, I see; very well.

DR. ASCHENAUER: This cover-letter proves that this is not an authenic opinion of Office III, but Office III wrote down a lecture which somebody had held concerning the subject of law, during the time when certain SS circles wanted to get rid of the German system of justice, and they wanted this as a basis of a discussion.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Aschenauer, the document can have no more value than what is contained in it, and if it states, as you have pointed out to us it states, that this contribution does not contain a definite attitude of Office III, Mr. Walton nor anyone else can draw from it that it does represent the definite attitude of Office III, so I don't think that Mr. Walton would want to say that this document is something different from what it says within its own context; so, I don't understand the reason for the discussion along that line.

DR. ASCEENAUER: Your Honor, I agree, if the document is accepted for the probative value it has after I have had the possibility to explain the matter to the Tribunal. I now have a further question. Will it be sufficient if I say that this contribution does not originate from Ohlendorf at any point, or shall I in truit an affidavit which is already made out to the Tribunal by Ohlendorf on this point?

THE PRESIDENT: The document itself very clearly states that it is circulated solely to foster discussion and enlightenment. It doesn't on its face purport to represent, at least on this page, the definitive conclusion of the defendant Ohlendorf.

MR. WALTON: May I make a few remarks there, your Honor? It is in the nature of testimony but I might explain that the prosecution, particularly those of us who speak no German, have to rely on what is called a staff evidence analysis which is a digest of these documents. On the basis of this staff evidence analysis which was prepared in Berlin I made my remarks before the document was translated that Dr. Aschenauer referred to, I believe, on the 21st, the record of the 21st, but that is not controlling. The claims which I make for a document in my opinion are those remarks which are made at the time that the document is introduced. Now in this document from the cover letter this material was distributed throughout the SD organization. It is an act of the defendant Ohlendorf, not the speech itself but the distribution of it, and for that reason it is introduced here as pertinent rebuttal evidence.

THE PRESIDENT: That is entirely proper. The only observation that the Tribunal was making is that the document can rise no higher than its content.

MR. WALTON: We make no claim for that, your Honor. I merely wanted to explain the difference between my quoted remarks of the 21st and of today.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. WALTON: I admit my staff evidence analysis was much more encouraging for the prosecution than the document itself revealed when it was translated.

Therefore I had to change my remarks when I introduced it.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes. Well, I think that clarifies it, doesn't it, Dr. Aschenauer?

DR. ASCHENAUER: Yes, thank you, that clarifies it.

THE PRESIDENT: We may now proceed with the rest of the documents.

MR. WALTON: One matter, sir.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, all right.

DR. HELM: Dr. Helm for Ruehl.

Your Honor, this morning, as exhibits Nos. 28 and 29 two affidavit documents Nos. 28 and 29 were introduced for the defendant Ruehl. They are contained in the document book on Pages 71 and 76. They were accepted but after the prosecution raised an objection and with the reservation of the right of cross-examination of the witnesses Kaufmann and Hansen and the witness Barth by the prosecution. Dr. Durchholz could not know that those two documents were only received tentatively and according to the result of the case in chief of the defense they are not important. I therefore withdraw these two exhibit numbers. With this I relieve the Tribunal of the burden of waving to have cross-examination of witnesses at this stage of the trial. I also want to say that I waive the right to cross-examine the witness of the prosecution Bash. Mr. Walton was kind enough to say that he would make a counter statement here.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, in view of the fact if the affidavits are withdrawn then certainly there is no necessity for the presentation of witnesses.

MR. WALTON: Just to clear the record, your Honor, at this time the prosecution withdraws its request to have the two witnesses, who are affiants in the two named affidavits, Ruehl 28 and Ruehl 29, brought to Nurnberg for cross-examination. However, I think it is thoroughly understood between Dr. Helm and myself that the rebuttal document, which is the short affidavit of the affiant Robert Barth, is still in evidence.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. VOGEL: Dr. Vogel for von Radetzky.

Your Honor. I take the liberty of introducing two small document books. Nos. III and IV for the defendant von Radetzky. First of all I want to introduce Document Book No. III. It only contains four documents which are to have the same exhibit numbers as document numbers. As Exhibit No. 30 I offer the document von Radetzky No. 32.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: If your Honors please, we object to this document. This is an affidavit of a witness who has appeared before the Tribunal. The witness Hartl was cross-examined by Dr. Ratz at great length. He testifies in this affidavit, as I can see, to a document which was handed to Radetzky on the 17th of December '47. The affidavit itself is dated 6 January 1948. On the 12 January 1948 Dr. Ratz made a request to the Tribunal in open court as to a rehearing of the witness, and I am quoting from the transcript. Page 4885, the morning session of 12 December. The Tribunal granted this request. At that late stage of the trial we are practically not in the position to cross-examine the witness. I only want to point out that the witness Hartl has been all the time in the jail here in the Palace of Justice. When Dr. Ratz made his statement and requested rehearing of the witness on the 12th of January he was informed about the fact that Hartl had signed an affidavit for his client on the 6th of January. If he would have informed the Tribunal and prosecution at that time that he intends to introduce an affidavit the prosecution would have certainly immediately moved that Hartl may come back into the courtroom and may be heard so that prosecution can cross-examine him on this particular subject. This was practically frustrated by the presentation of the affidavit at such a late date. I, thefore, respectfully move that the affidavit might be not admitted in evidence. Moreover, I want to say that Dr. Ratz has cross-examined the witness Hartl at great length when he appeared before the Tribunal.

The question was not new. It is true that the document was then not submitted in evidence. However, we have in the opening statement already and in the direct presentation of our case made it completely clear that it is the position of the prosecution that Radetzky at certain times was independent leader of Subkommando 4a. Therefore, the submission of the affidavit should be denied. The witness was excused by the Tribunal.

THE PRESIDENT: Was Hartl questioned on this matter at all when he was on the stand by either side?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I am sure, your Honor, that I did not question him on this particular....

THE PRESIDENT: Did counsel for von Radetzky question the witness on this matter?

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: I am very sorry but off-hand I am unable to make a statement to that effect. I cannot say it. I do not think so.

DR. VOGEL: Your Honor, at the time I myself went down to the prosecution and talked to Mr. Hochwald and told him that the point which was debated again on 17 December, we would have to hear the witness Hartl again. The Tribunal here admitted this expressly, and I told Mr. Hochwald that we would make another affidavit by Hartl in order to clarify this point in this simple manner. with the other documents, then during the questioning on 24th November Hartl could have been asked about this already by-

THE PRESIDENT: Let's try to save a little bit of time now. The situation remains that we have before us an affidavit which is submitted to clarify a document which was introduced after Hartl was on the stand. Strictly speaking, perhaps the affidavit should not be received. However, if defense counsel insists upon its being received then the prosecution will have the right to insist upon cross-examination of that witness. We presume that it wouldn't take too much time to crossexamine on this one point alone. It will only be a matter of a few minutes so that now we say to defense counsel that if you insist upon introducing the affidavit we will accept it and allow the prosecution to call Hartl for cross-examination.

It is up to you to decide.

DR. VOGEL: Yes, I insist on it, and also there is always the opportunity to call up Hartl for cross-examination because he is in the prison here in Nurnberg. The defense has no objection.

THE PRESIDENT: If he is called it will he strictly limited to the point raised in the affidavit.

MR. HORLICK-HOCHWALD: Thank you very much.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, proceed.

Page 5,643

MR. HOCHWALD: The Prosecution reserves the right to recall Hartl.

JUDGE MUSMANNO: That reservation will be recorded.

DR. VOGEL: Now I wish to submit the next document in Document Book No. 3; it is Radetzky No. 33. I offer it as Exhibit No. 31. It is an affidavit of Heinz Unglaube of 15 January 1948. Unglaube was supply chief with the BDS from May, 1942, until August 1943. He can assure us with certainty that Radetzky during the period mentioned was never in charge of a sub-Kommando. He also confirms the situation set forth in Document 4771X, Exhibit 191 of the Prosecution. The next Exhibit. No. 32, will be the document Radetzky No. 34. This is an affidavit by Hans Weirup of 16 January, 1948. Right from the beginning until the fall of 1943, he was in the office of the SK 4 A. He gives a detailed report about the activity of Radetzky in the SK 4 A. Special Kommando 4-A. He confirms that Radetzky was neither Blobel's deputy, nor did he carry our the function of a sub-Kommando leader. Also, that Radetzky had no power of command in the Kommando.

MR. HOCHWALD: May I request a statement from defense counsel whether the two affiants can be brought here for cross examination of the last two documents?

DR. VOGEL: I would like to say here that Heinz Unglaube is in an internment camp and could be brought here, I presume. The other witness, Hans Weirup testifies about various facts which were already mentioned in other affidavits and proved, and, therefore, I consider his affidavit as only a supplement to the other statements by other witnesses.

MR. HOCHWALD: If I understand correctly, then the affidavit of Hans Weirup should be ruled out, as defense counsel did not proclaim that he intends to bring the affiant here for cross examination.

DR. VOGEL: Well, I have not made any statement about that as yet, that I do not want to bring him here. I would still insist that Hans Weirup be examined as a witness here because he can testify and does testify about another joint, namely the charge that Radetzky allegedly was sub-Kommando chief in the summer of 1942.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Hochwald, the rule does not say that because a man presents an affidavit that he must have standing outside the door the affiant for cross examination. It is up to the other side to obtain that person for cross examination. The only thing that the presenter of the affidavit is required to do is to furnish whatever information he has to the other side, so that that affiant may be called for cross examination if the cross examination is desired; if he is available.

MR. HOCHWALD: The only request I made, Your Honor, if Your Honors will certainly recall that was that defense counsel may state whether he is available for cross examination and what time.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. HOCHWALD: I am sorry. I meant to say that, Your Honor.

DR. VOGEL: Yes, Your Honor, Hans Weirup can be brought here, but it would take some time.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. We will reserve to the Prosecution the right to bring him in if it desires to bring him in.

MR. HOCHWALD: Thank you very much.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Proceed.

DR. VOGEL: The next one is Exhibit No. 33. which is Radetzky Document No. 35. Thisis an affidavit by the Chief of the Ethnic German Resettlement office in Poznan, Werner Lorenz, of 12 January 1948, which reveals that Radetzky's transfer into the SS was carried out by Himmler as Reich Commissar for the strengthening of Germanism and that Radetzky could do nothing about it. Lorenz also testifies that Radetzky's application for release to join the Wehrmacht was refused.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please. the Prosecution does not want to drag out thistrial and, therefore, we do not want to call Lorenz for cross examination. However, we respectfully request that the Tribunal take judicial notice of the cross examination of the affiant who is one of the defendants in Case No. 8. This cross examination appears on pages 2,800 to 2,814 of the record of Case No. 8. I have been quoting, of course, the English record numbers.

It is the position of the prosecution that in this cross examination it was proved that the affiant -

THE PRESIDENT: Now, Mr. Hochwald, you are arguing. The record will show your references to that transcript. That transcript will be available to both sides. They may quote from it and argue from it, and the transcript will be available to the Tribunal in its deliberations.

MR. HOCHWALD: Entirely satisfactory.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. VOGEL: Your Honor, I now cone to my last document book, No. 4. This document book contains five affidavits or excerpts. The sequence of the individual exhibit numbers is to follow the sequence of the document numbers. The first document, No. 36, I offer as Exhibit No. 34. This is an affidavit by Karl Heinz Bendt of 21 January 1948, who from March, 1943, until the end of November, 1943, was Chief 3 with Einsatz Group C. Bendt describes in detail why von Radetzky could not have held a responsible position in SK 4-A, and why he was not assigned to such a post.

MR. HOCHWALD: If the Tribunal please, I am terribly sorry, but I have again to object. From the testimony of Radetzky it is clear that he left his position with Sonder-Kommando 4-A in January, 1943. This document is a information by an affiant who came to this unit in March 1943. He can not testify to facts which happened in 1942 and 1941.

THE PRESIDENT: Is that true? I am addressing myself to defense counsel. Did the affiant come in March whereas the defendant left in January?

DR. VOGEL: Your Honor, that is correct that the affiant came there in March, 1943, but it is also correct that Radetzky was still with the Einsatz group where the affiant was, and that is why this man is able to testify about the activity of Radetzky in the year 1943.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Hochwald, if von Radetzky was still in the Einsatz Gruppe it is consistent with the possibility that the affiant would know.

MR. HOCHWALD: To the best of my knowledge, Your Honor -- my memory is not very good -- he went to Einsatz Gruppe B in January, 1943. I might be mistaken. I am sorry.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Hochwald -

MR. HOCHWALD: It is up to defense counsel to declare.

THE PRESIDENT: Suppose we accept it for whatever probative value will be assigned to it, when, in the solitude of our chambers, we are able to compare these various dates.

MR. HOCHWALD: Oh, Your Honors, I have by chance my brief on Radetzky here. According to hisown statement he left Einsatz Gruppe C in January, 1943, and went over to Einsatz Gruppe B, and we therefore respectfully move that this document may be ruled out.

THE PRESIDENT: Which document number is this?

MR. HOCHWALD: That I am sorry I am not -- but it is in Document Book 3-C, affidavit of the defendant Radetzky. It must be the third or fourth document in the document book and it is to the best of my recollection Prosecution Exhibit 132.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you wish to withdraw the affidavit in view of what Mr. Hochwald has now said?

DR. VOGEL: Your Honors, I will not withdraw it because even if Radetzky was with Einsatz Gruppe B, the Tribunal can draw important conclusions from the statement of this witness about his previous activities with Einsatz Gruppe C. That is why I would like to ask that the document be accepted.

THE PRESIDENT: The document will be accepted for whatever probative value will be assigned to it in its due time.

DR. VOGEL: The next document from Document Book 4 will be No. 37.

Page 5,647

This will be Exhibit No. 35. This is an excerpt from the opening speech by the Prosecution in Case 8 against Greifelt and accomplices. There the Prosecution maintained that a considerable number of Ethnic Germans had no choice other than either to go as resettlers to the incorporated areas which Germany had taken over, or to go to Germany as forced labor. As Exhibit No. 36 I offer the document No. 38. This is an excerpt from the regulation about the set-up and administration of the immigration and resettlement office of the Security Police contained in the Order Gazette of the Chief of the Security Police and the SD, No. 42/41.

Court No. II, Case No. IX.

This shows the competency of the resettlement agencies for evacuations. The Baltic German Immigration Advisory Office had nothing to do with the immigration agencies in Poznan. I mentioned this because the words "immigration center" has been mentioned here repeatedly.

MR. HOCHWAID: I do think your objection is clear. If the defense contends that Radetzky had nothing to do with this office, the exhibit itself is completely immaterial.

DR. VOGEL: Your Honor, this piece of evidence is only to help to clarify the matter because, as I have said, the concept emigration central office or resettlement central office was mentioned repeatedly in this case in connection with the Baltic German immigrants' advisory office in Poznan.

MR. HOCHWALD: If prosecution would claim that Radetzky had a connection with the central office, prosecution would be called upon to provide for this fact. I don't think that an exhibit can be put in evidency by saying he didn't have anything to do. The exhibit itself does not contain the name of Radetzky. It does not contain any declaration that Radetzky had nothing to do with it. I think it is completely immaterial in this case.

DR. VOGEL: Your Honor, I am glad about this statement of the prosecution, but it was just the prosecution who, I believe in the examination of Radetzky on 16 December 1947, asserted or tried to prove that von Radetzky had dealings with the deportations from the Warthegau into the Government General district.

MR. HOCHWALD: If your Honors please, I only can repeat what I have said. It is impossible by presentation of a document to prove that an individual had nothing to do by the presentation of some declaration or some decree to prove that an individual had nothing to do with it.

PRESIDENT: Well, Mr. Hochwald, if the affidavit is so devoid of merit, as you indicate, then it can't possibly harm your theory.

MR. HOCHWALD: If your Honors please, it certainly does not Court No. II, Case No. IX.

harm me. I have only pointed out the complete immateriality of the exhibit. If the Tribunal finds the slightest probative value in the document, I certainly will not object to its admission.

PRESIDENT: You may proceed and then at the end we will dispose of all the documents.

DR. VOGEL: The next exhibit Number 37 will be Document Number 39 of Radetzky. This is an excerpt from the circular decree of the Reichsfuehrer SS and the chief of the German police in the Reich Ministry of the Interior in the new edition as of 1 July '42 about replacement and reserve, order gazette by the chief of the security police and the SD, of 20 July '42, third year, Number 31. This reveals that already since the 29th of September '39 the emergency war drafting applied in order to get replacements and reserve forces in the security police and the SD. Finally, the last document, Number 40 I offer as Exhibit Number 38. It is an affidavit by the former chief of the administration department of the official in charge of personnel of matters with the police headquarters, Nuermberg-Fuerth, Dr. Alfons Holz of 25 January 1948. This expert testifies from his practical experience that the personnel for the Gestapo and for the SD was obtained according to the emergency drafting decree of 15 October 1938. And with regard to paragraph 1, Number 1, paragraph 3, of the war emergency draft, he further states that war emergency drafting could nullify the state of being draft deferred and that no one could get away if he was drafted on an emergency status. defendant, Waldemar von Radetzky.

MR. HOCHWALD: Your Honors, I do not want to press my objections for the simple reason that I do think the court will decide best which one of the exhibits is material for the case of Radetzky or not. I only want to point out that the prosecution up to date has not received the English copy of the Document Book. It, therefore, would appreciate if such copies would be handed to prosecution as soon as possible in Court No. II, Case No. IX.

order that we should be able to prepare our briefs on the individual cases of the defendants.

DR. VOGEL: Your Honor, perhaps I can clarify here, that these document books have been translated some time ago. I inquired only the day before yesterday about it, and was told that the translation had been handed on.

PRESIDENT: May we ask the Secretary General to look into this matter and see to it that the prosecution receives English copies as well as the Tribunal.

MR. HOCHWAID: If the Tribunal please, it is understood that in the cases of the defense affidavits, especially of the last one offered by the defense counsel for Radetzky, the right of cross examination is reserved to prosecution.

PRESIDENT: Yes, that is always reserved when an affidavit is accepted.

DR. STUEBINGER: Stuebinger for Dr. Braune. As my last document I offer Supplement III to Document Book II. This is the Braune Document Number 59, which I offer as Exhibit Number 50. It is an excerpt from the reports from the occupied Eastern territories Number 1 of 1 May 1942. This document reveals the situation of the ethnic groups in the Crimea and it shows that the Jews only constituted 6.3 percent of the entire population in the year 1939, while the part they took in the state administration of the Crimea, according to page 3 the original, constituted 25 to 80 percent. I still have one request, Your Honor. In the Krupp trial on 16 December 1947 the English General Morgan, a member of the Interallied Disarmament Commission and Professor of International Law is supposed to have said as an expert in the witness stand that the inner German state law precedes the international law in importance. Since more than four weeks I have been trying-

PRESIDENT: Mr. Walton.

MR. WALTON: Your Honors, if he wants the Tribunal to take judicial notice of this, I feel that the proper procedure for Dr. Stuebinger would be to give the citation and the subject matter of which it treats and let the Tribunal read it for themselves and draw whatever judicial conclusions from it they desire. This is a witness in the case which has not been settled. We have no way of knowing whether this testimony will be refuted before the end of the trial or whether it will be ruled out or what final disposition will be made of it. I think the proper thing for Dr. Stuebinger to do at this time is leave it to Your Honors and I object to comment or any quotation on it.

PRESIDENT: Yes, Dr. Stuebinger, you could not very well argue it, especially at this time. You may refer to it, give it a citation and then in your summation you may make such reference to it as you deem helpful to your theory of the defense.

DR. STUEBINGER: Yes, Your Honor. The explanations by the prosecutor and by Your Honor, I can only emphasize and it was my intention to submit that material, but it would have become obvious immediately that I was unable to do this until now but I have not been able to finish what I have been trying to say. I have been trying for more than four weeks to receive the transcript, but I cannot get it because no defense counsel in Krupp has received it as yet, although a great deal of transcript after that day has been completed. I don't know why this delay occurred. I would be very grateful to the Tribunal if they would intervene because the legal question treated by General Morgan concerns this case here as well and certainly one or the other defense counsel would want to refer to this statement in his final plea.

MR. WALTON: Well, I will do what I can to get this transcript for Dr. Stuebinger, but certainly this Tribunal has the power and the right to obtain for itself the transcript of any record in any court since these tribunals have equal power.

PRESIDENT: Dr. Stuebinger isn't concerned about our getting a copy, he wants to know hoe he can get a copy.

MR. WALTON: I can't speak for the German. I think I can get him a copy of the English.

PRESIDENT: I would be very grateful to you, Mr. Walton, if you would endeavor to assist him in getting this transcript which he believes he would like to have in connection with the summation.

MR. WALTON: I think that this is the time for the citation for all our benefits.

PRESIDENT: But he doesn't have the citation.

MR. WALTON: Does he have the date?

PRESIDENT: Do you have the date?

DR. STUEBINGER: 16 December 1947, morning session, I believe.

MR. WALTON: No objections to the document that is introduced as a supplement to Document Book III.

PRESIDENT: Do you think we ought to have our recess first--Yes. Wall, let us make an announcement now. Dr. Aschenauer, I again must express our regrets that you haven't up until this time been afforded the opportunity to begin your summation and it would seem that you can't begin this afternoon and it might be better in that event to start freshly tomorrow morning. We will announce to all counsel who still have to submit documents this afternoon that the tribunal will remain in session regardless of the length of time until every document now ready can be presented today, so that without fail tomorrow we begin the summations. The Tribunal will now be in recess 15 minutes.

(A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. DURCHHOLZ (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT SCHULZ): Your Honor, I have just one more document which I would like to submit for the Defendant Schulz. I have marked it as Supplemental to Document Book No. IV. It is Document No. 97, which I herewith submit as Exhibit No. 96, the affidavit of the Defendant Schulz of the 27th of January, 1948. been submitted to the Tribunal because the Translation Department cannot cope at the moment with the work load. It has been there for a number of days. one which was Exhibit No. 201, in which the prosecution connects the Defendant Schulz with locations which had not previously been connected with him. That is the reason why this document is offered and submitted.

Then I want to make a short statement. A short while ago, I offered Document 96 as Exhibit No. 95. In this document are contained the photostats of three Russian envelopes. The prosecution, some time ago, complained that on this photostat it was not evident that on the envelope, which was entitled, "Glory to the Partisans" -- a civilian was concerned. I have here the original envelopes, but I cannot submit them because I have to return them, but I would like to show the Tribunal and the prosecution these envelopes in order to clarify this point.

(Dr. Durchholz then showed to the Tribunal and the prosecution various papers.) I have made out a supplement to my trial brief which, I am told, is already on the way to the Tribunal and I would like the Tribunal to take notice of this, at the proper time. ant Schulz.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. FRITZ (ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENDANT FENDLER): I have altogether four documents to submit, Your Honor. The first two are combined in Document Book II for Fendler. First, Fendler Document No. 22 and I offer it as Exhibit No. 24. It is an excerpt from a Report of Events No. 60 of 22 of August 1941. The document contains detailed statements about agriculture, or, at least, agricultural conditions at the time when Russia was occupied. Furthermore it pertains to the building up of the Agricultural Administration of the Soviet Union and it also concerns the economic position in this area. I offer this document because it covers and supports the statement of the Defendant Fendler, who, in direct examination said that the reports of Department III were very extensive ones and took up his time so much that for other tasks he had no time whatsoever.

The next,document 23, I offer as Exhibit No. 25. It is an affidavit of Dr. Wallfried Vernunft of 18 November 1947. It pertains to the activity of the Defendant Fendler which he indulged in from 1943 to the collapse of Office VI of the Reich Security Main Office. It also concerns itself with the knowledge of the Defendant Fendler about other activities of this office. This is of probative value for Count III. Finally it is a testimony concerning Defendant Fendler's character. Defendant Erwin Schulz of the 21st of January, 1948. It is Document Fendler No. 24. I offer it as Exhibit No. 26. Schulz confirms in this document the fact that he returned to Berlin before Hermann who was Kommando Chief of the Kommando IB and also before Fendler, and therefore he has exact knowledge of the fact that Fendler returned to Berlin before Hermann, from his assignment in Russia.

Last I offer another supplement to the Fendler document book. It is Document No. 25. I offer it as Exhibit No. 27. It is an affidavit by Karl Hennicke, which he made out on the 22d of January, 1948. Hennicke is in Nurnberg in prison. May I say the following concerning the document: In my Document Book I for Fendler there is an affidavit by Karl Hennicke.

Here it is Fendler Document No. 12, Exhibit No. 10, wherein Hennicke testifies among other things to and I quote:

"I am not aware of the fact that Fendler was ever the Deputy of the Kommando Chief. As such he figures neither in reports nor in discussions of the group." Witness Karl Hennicke which is in Rebuttal Document Book V-C, Document NO-4999, Prosecution Exhibit 202. In contrast to the implications of the passage just quoted Hennicke testifies in the affidavit among other things, and I quote:

"In view of the fact that Fritz Braune arrived at the headquarters of the Einsatzgruppe only after Hermann had been relieved of his duties, the Sonderkommando 4b was left without a chief for a period of two to three weeks. During this interim period the unit was commanded by the senior officer Lothar Fendler."

davit which he made out for Fendler I asked to see Hennicke again, after notifying the prosecution of this request, and he gave me this statement, the affidavit of 27 January, 1948, which I now offer here. In this affidavit he rejects what he said in Document 4999 which I have just quoted.

DR. MINTZEL(ATTORNEY FOR DEFENDANT STRAUCH): Your Honor, may I begin with the submission of evidence for the Defendant Strauch?

THE PRESIDENT: Please do.

DR. MINTZEL: I submit in Document Book I as Exhibit No. 1, Document No. 1, an affidavit of the wife of Defendant Strauch from which the date becomes evident of which Strauch began his service in Riga and when he began his service in Minsk. She says that her husband had gone to Riga on the 10th of November, 1941, and he left Riga for Minsk on the 21st of March, 1942.

Exhibit No. 2, Document No. 2, is an affidavit of Ida Strauch, that is the mother of the Defendant Strauch, in which she states that her son left Riga for Minsk on the 21st of March, 1942 and in which she also explains why she remembers this date so exactly.

Next is Exhibit No. 3, Document No. 3, the affidavit of Oskar Strauch. That is the father of the Defendant Strauch. In this statement of the 21st of March is given as the commencement of the service of Strauch in Minsk.

The next document, Exhibit No. 4, is of the same content. It is the affidavit of one Paula Gunkel.

Next is Document No. 5, Exhibit No. 5, the affidavit of Heinz Wanninger, in which he comments on the character of the agencies of the Commanders of the Security Police and SD and their inclusion in the civil administration of the occupied Eastern territories.

Next is Exhibit No. 6, Document No. 6, the affidavit of Carl Zenner. Zenner was in Minsk as the SS and Police Leader. Therefore, he was the Chief of the Defendant Strauch in White Ruthenia.

He testifies that the Defendant Strauch until the day he started his service was deputized for by an SS Sturmbannfuehrer Hofmann who acted in an entirely independent manner. He also testifies that Strauch had received the approval by Heydrich not to have to carry out the elimination order in White Ruthenia, or, at least, to postpone the carrying out of this order for the time being. He also comments on the so-called Kube letter and he also says why the Kube letter was in complete contrast to the happenings and incidents in White Ruthenia.

Document No. 7, Exhibit No. 7, is the affidavit of Walter Schimana. Schimana was also an SS and Police Leader in Minsk and as such, Strauch's superior officer at the time when Strauch was commander of the Security Police and SD in Minsk. Schimana testifies that in the time mentioned in the Kube letter no operations were carried out against the Jewish population in White Ruthenia and that at his time transports of Jews from the Russians did not arrive. He comments on the personality of the SS and Police Leader Jeckeln as to Kube's character and comments on the contradictions which become evident from the contents of the Kube letter and conditions in White Ruthenia. He then says that Rakov and Chervensk were not within the sphere of activities of the Einsatz Chief in White Ruthenia.

Next I submit Exhibit No. 8, Document 8, the affidavit of Johannes Feder.

Feder was the Field Intelligence Staff Officer in the SD in Minsk, which was the agency in which Strauch worked when he was stationed at Minsk. Feder says that in White Ruthenia no Anti-Jewish activities were carried out in his time and that the period to which Kube refers, Jewish transports did not arrive and he also testifies explicitly as to the situation in White Ruthenia, especially with regard to the activity of the partisans. He says that Strauch mainly busied himself in partisan warfare and that in these operations against partisans he took the part of a G-2.

Exhibit No. 9, Document No. 9, is another affidavit of the same Feder concerning the so-called S-carriages. These S-carriages were only used as transports for SS men and supplies, but not for what they were allegedly supposed to represent.

Document No. 10, Exhibit No. 10, again is an affidavit by Johannes Feder in which Feder states how, according to his knowledge, the incidents happened in Sluzk, about which a certain Ruebe talks in an affidavit which was submitted by the prosecution. He says that this incident was a part of a partisan war in which members of the Office of the Commander in Minsk took part as espionage units as support of the police. Police Leader von Olberg was in charge of these operations.

I submit as Exhibit No. 11, Document No. 11, which is an affidavit of Hubert Strathmann. In this affidavit Strathmann describes the very extensive partisan activity in white Ruthenia and the part the agency of Strauch played in these measures. Strathmann also says that in the time which is mentioned in the Kube letter, no anti-Jewish actions were carried out in Minsk and no Jewish transports arrived. He comments on Kube, as far as he knows Kube's personality.

Exhibit No. 12, Document No. 12, is another affidavit of Strathmann concerning the so-called S-carriages as means of transport.

Exhibit No. 13, Document No. 13, is another affidavit of Strathmann in which Strathmann, as Feder had done formerly, comments on the incidents which happened in Sluzk which are mentioned in the Ruebe affidavit and plays a certain part in this affidavit which has been submitted by the prosecution against the defendant Strauch.

He also says that the incidents in Sluzk happened within a program of a larger anti-partisan action and members of the agency of the Kommando in Minsk took part as espionage officer in the various units.

AS Exhibit No. 14 is also on affidavit of Herr von Toll, in which he comments on the time that Strauch commenced his service in Minsk, and he also says that during the time to which the Kube letter pertains no anti-Jewish operations were carried out in Minsk.

The last exhibit from the Document Book No. 1, is Document No. 15, which I submit as Exhibit No. 15; affidavit by one Lohse, who was Reich Commissar for the E stern territories. Lohse was alleged by the receiver, the so-called Kube letter. The Kube letter was at any rate addressed to him. He describes Kube's personality, his attitude toward Jews, and the contradiction with the Kube letter. I further present Document Book No. 2 -

MR. GLANCY: If the Tribunal please, the Prosecution has but one of the affidavit of Frau Strauch, because of her relationship to the defendant. However, if the Tribunal deems it correct and proper to so admit the affidavit; we at this time would like to reserve our right to cross examine her.

THE PRESIDENT: Defense counsel, of course, is familiar with the rule that the wife of a defendant can not be compelled to give any testimony against her husband.

DR. MINTZEL: Yes, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: She, of course, is permitted to testify in his behalf, but once she does that then she waives her immunity from crossexamination, so that now you are confronted with this situation, either of allowing the affidavit to remain and giving the prosecution the right to cross examine her on all subjects or not to present the affidavit.
